New Law Authorizes Scholarships, Loans

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson signed a higher education bill into law Monday which will provide scholarships for needy college students and financial help for colleges struggling with the enrollment boom.

The $2.6 billion measure also authorizes a national teacher corps designed to bring special help to children in impoverished areas. But Congress failed to provide funds to launch the corps.

140,000 Scholarships

The scholarships, called educational opportunity grants, would go to an estimated 140,000 students the first year.

Scholarships could run from $200 to $800, with a $1,000 ceiling allowed for a student in the upper half of his class in the preceding year. They are expected to average $500.

The bill also contains funds for two other types of college student aid—a work-study program and insured private loans with Washington providing a subsidy to reduce the interest rate.

These would supplement the direct federal loans already available to needy students under the 1958 National Defense Education Act (NDEA).

No Repayment

The bill liberalizes this NDEA program to allow full forgiveness for a loan for a graduate who teaches for seven years in an area with numerous poverty-stricken families.

Under the old law, half of the loan is forgiven for a person who teaches five years any place.

The bill also will:

- Establish a new program of university community service to aid urban and suburban areas. This is modeled on the long-existing extension service program in areas.

- Provide grants to aid small and new developing colleges, including two-year institutions.

Negro schools are expected to benefit from this.

- Increase by $230 million for the current financial year the federal grant programs for construction of college classrooms passed in 1963. This doubles the old authorization.

- Provide fellowships to permit teachers to obtain graduate degrees.

- Set up a new program of grants to higher education institutions to buy television, audio-visual equipment and other teaching aids.

New Members Named To Board Of Directors

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. John Connally named three new directors of Texas Technological College Monday.

They are Dr. Fladger F. Tannery, Dallas; Retha R. Martin, Lubbock; and C. A. Cash, Amarillo, whose terms will expire in 1971.

The three succeeded Manuel DeBusk, Dallas; Charles D. Mathews, Dallas, and Wilmer Smith, Wilson. Their terms expired Feb. 19.

Tannery is executive vice president of Pepsi Co. Inc., and a member of the board of directors of the Frito-Lay Inc. He is a former assistant state auditor and was associate professor of accounting at the University of Texas.

Martin is chairman of the board of Dunlap Co. which operates department stores in the Southwest. He has various business interests in Lubbock and Odessa.

Cash is president of the Shamrock Oil and Gas Corp. He has various oil and gas interests in the Panhandle.

Vocal Concert Scheduled

Mezzo soprano Jeannie Tourel, who has appeared in concert halls throughout the world, will appear at Lubbock Municipal Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. Nov. 17 as a part of the Tech Artists Course.

Miss Tourel, who has won the critical acclaim of New York reviewers, was born in June, 1910 of Russian parentage in Montreal, Canada. Reared in France and Switzerland, she studied voice with Anna El-Tour at Paris.

Favorable Critics

The Washington Post and Times Herald said, "She has no equal today in our concert halls. The greatest musician-artist we know!"

"Jeannie Tourel is something special," said the Dallas News. "Few singers have her enthusiasm and gift for song."

She began singing at the age of two, studied flute at six and began playing piano at eight.

She made her debut at the Opera-Comique in Paris in 1933, singing the lead in "Carmen." She fled Paris before the Nazi invasion of 1940.

Recently Miss Tourel has performed in Tchaikovsky's "Pique Dame," and at New York's Lincoln Center and has appeared in concerts with the New York Philharmonic.

Recording Artist

In addition to concert performances, Miss Tourel is a recording artist. The Bernstein-Tourel recording of "Kaddish" was awarded the "Grammy" award as the year's outstanding record in 1965.

Miss Tourel's other accomplishments include leading roles in "La Cenentotal," "Mignon," "Romeo and Juliet," and "The Barber of Seville."

Miss Tourel is also a faculty member of the Julliard School of Music and the Aspen Music Foundation. Frequently she conducts master classes at many of America's leading universities.

YRs Voice Support Of Viet Nam Policy

Tech's Young Republicans passed a voice resolution Monday night in support of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The resolution, written by Curtis Swinson, president, is as follows:

"Whereas, President Johnson has held firm in his announced intention to defend Southeast Asia against Communist imperialism; and,

"Whereas, Republican leaders have consistently supported United States policy when it seeks to preserve freedom in Viet Nam and throughout the world; and

"Whereas, certain misconceptions as to the determination of the American people to support said Southeast Asia policy may exist due to recent excessive anti-Viet Nam demonstrations and pronouncements; now therefore,

"Be it resolved that the Texas Tech Young Republicans reaffirm support for current U.S. policy in Southeast Asia against Communist aggression; and,

"Be it further resolved that we deplore the irresponsible tactics of extreme left-wing groups such as Students for a Democratic Society which advocate appeasement and through their reprehensible actions undermine the morals of American fighting men who are giving their lives to preserve freedom."

French Group Sets Musical Performance

"La Contrescarpe," a musical group which has represented France in music festivals since 1961, will perform at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Tech Union Ballroom.

The group consists of five performers taken from "La Contrescarpe," a nightclub in France. They have adapted French folk music and poetry to modern instruments.

The first part of the program will trace the development of French folklore from the twelfth century to modern times. It consists of songs, ballads, and poetry put to music.

The second part, known as the "cabaret litteraire," describes the difference between folk and popular music. Acts taken directly from "La Contrescarpe" will be included in the program.

DR. GERALD THOMAS

Dean Thomas New President Of Ag Group

Dr. Gerald Thomas, dean of Texas Tech's School of Agriculture, is the new president of the Texas Agricultural Workers Association.

He succeeds John E. Hutchinson, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. J. Wayland Bennett, associate dean of agriculture at Tech, was named a director of the organization.

Dr. Thomas has served as the group's vice president during the past year and was program chairman for the current conference. He became dean of Tech's School of Agriculture Sept. 1, 1958.

He has a bachelor of science degree from the University of Idaho and master of science and Ph.D. degrees from Texas A&M.

3 Will Attend SDX Meeting

Three Tech seniors, John Armistead of Fort Stockton, Mike Ferrell of Midland and Eugene Smith of Lubbock, will leave tonight for Los Angeles to attend the national Sigma Delta Chi convention.

The convention will include undergraduate as well as professional chapters of the men's professional journalistic society.

A highlight of the convention will be a press conference held by Rep. Gerald Ford, House minority leader. Students will compete for $150 in cash and prizes in a writing contest based on Ford's conference.

Other speakers will be Vermont Royster, editor of the Wall Street Journal; Theodore F. Koop, vice president of CBS; Roger Tatarian, vice president and editor of United Press International; and Julian Scheer, assistant administrator for public affairs, NASA.

Four Hundred Attend J-Day Here Saturday

More than 400 high school journalism students attended the 10th annual J-Day on the Texas Tech campus Saturday.

The event is jointly sponsored by the Tech journalism department and the Southwestern Council of Student Publications.

New student officers for the organization include Jeanette Jenkins, Amarillo, president; Debbie Douglas, Big Spring, vice president; and Janie Parks, Odessa Permian, secretary.

Jake Mahaffey, editor of the Texarkana Gazette and News and a veteran of 36 years in the journalism profession, was guest speaker at the awards luncheon.

Mahaffey said there are plenty of thrills left in journalism and that he knew of no more rewarding work.

Awards were presented to seven high school newspapers and 11 yearbooks.

ARTISTS COURSE PRESENTS SOPRANO—Mezzo soprano Jeannie Tourel will appear in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium Nov. 17 as a part of Tech's Artists Course. The Montreal, Canada native has performed in concert halls throughout the world.

Students Named To Conference

Two Tech students have been selected as delegates to the Student Conference on National Affairs at Texas A&M University Dec. 8-11.

Richard Hollingsworth, San Antonio senior, and Beverly Barlow, Richardson junior, will represent Tech at SCONA XI.

The Student Conference on National Affairs brings together outstanding students from colleges and universities in the United States, Canada and Mexico to study and discuss national and international issues.

SCONA XI will include 118 colleges and universities. A broad theme is chosen annually before each conference. This year's topic is "The Far East: Focus on South-east Asia."

Several outstanding public figures are invited to speak each year. Among this year's speakers are Dr. Frank N. Trager, professor of international affairs, New York University and Dr. Charles

T. Vetter, information coordinator, U.S. Information Agency, Washington, D.C.

Colonel A. M. Griffiths, O.B.E., British Army Staff, British Embassy, will also speak.

SEA Sets Meeting

The Student Educational Association (SEA) is giving a Teacher Appreciation Dinner Nov. 18. The speaker will be Dr. Warren Walker, English professor and sponsor of the English honorary, Sigma Tau Delta.

Reservations must be made by noon Thursday by calling Dr. Panze Kimmel at Ext. 2278 or Ginger Riley at Ext. 2305.

The dinner will be at 7 p.m. in the South Plains Electric Co. Auditorium, 110 N. Amarillo Road just north of Mackenzie Park. The dinner is $1.65 per person.

Model Aircraft Fans Try Planes In Combat

By CHERYL RUSSELL
Staff Writer

Two enemy pilots—bent on each other's destruction—held their planes steady at speeds up to 100 miles per hour. Their game—combat; their goal—victory; their weapons—model aircraft.

Combat contests are just one of several events sanctioned by the Academy of Model Aeronautics. Team races, precision acrobatics, free flight and radio control also are scheduled events.

Tommy Southern, chemistry instructor and Ph.D. candidate, says combat flying is fast and exciting. The planes are light and inexpensive to construct and the pilot must be skilled and in complete control of his aircraft, he added.

Objective of the contest is to swoop upon the opponent's plane and cut the streamer which trails behind the aircraft. Often because of the high speed of the models, "crack-ups" result.

Southern has been flying competitively since 1957 and has won several local model airplane contests.

All licensing of pilots as well as contests are sanctioned by the Academy of Model Aeronautics in Washington, D.C. A license is issued after the candidate has had at least a year's flying experience. This entitles him to participate in competitive events.

During the summer, the Navy sponsors the National Model Airplane Championships at Dallas. Pilots play for greater stakes at the Academy's national competitions. The winner there is sent to Europe to compete at the International Air Championships.

Southern, who is interested in sponsoring a model air show at Tech, says that model aviation is an individual endeavor. The participants spend several months in building and perfecting their planes. Such materials as balsa wood and silk scarves are used.

Airplanes are designed for gracefulness and precision.

The fuel, a mixture of methanol, benzene and castor oil, is highly combustible. However, there's no danger of explosion because the planes are started by means of a glow plug, similar to a spark plug, he said.

Southern's companion in model aviation is Pat Willcox, a 1964 graduate of A&M and now a student pilot at Reese A.F.B. He has been interested in model planes for about eight years.

"It's a relaxing hobby and is fun to play-around with," he said.

reports that the little planes have been clocked at more than 100 miles per hour. The third person is unidentified. (Staff Photo)

New Campaigns Declared Against Auto Repair Gyps

(A Precise Feature)

In Tulsa, Oklahoma, two owners of a motor rebuilding exchange were sentenced to five years in prison for defrauding the public.

What were they doing? Under the guise of exchanging motors in cars, they repainted the old motor but did not change the motor or repair it.

In Miami, Florida, an automatic transmission repair shop hung up a sign on the front door: "Closed for Vacation." Actually it was closed because it was caught defrauding the public. In Los Angeles several shops were indicted for defrauding the motoring public on repairs to their cars.

War has been declared on the many gyms in the auto repair field who make their living defrauding the public by not repairing the car according to what needs to be done; charging for work not done; or making repairs not necessary for the automobile to operate properly.

Spearheading the battle to clean up the auto repair field is the Independent Garage Owners of America, Inc., a national trade association with 5,000 members in 36 states. They have been joined by several other trade associations in the automotive field to help protect the motoring public from dishonest auto repair shops.

How can these shops continue to operate? The Chicago based National Association states: "It's the public that helps keep these fraudulent repair shops in business because the public thinks it gets a bargain on car repairs when low prices are advertised for specific jobs."

"However, this type of shop can be eliminated if the motoring public would complain to their local Better Business Bureau, Police Department, or District Attorney when they feel they have been defrauded. The protest must originate with the filing of the complaint.

Too many people are reluctant to do this because they do not want to get involved or do not want to profess their lack of knowledge of the workings of their second largest investment—the automobile."

The first indication of a gyp shop is generally its advertising. Such gyp shops are consistent advertisers and will tell the motoring public it can exchange present inoperative automatic transmissions for a rebuilt unit for $39.75 or $49.50.

In reality it costs a minimum of $100 to remove a transmission from the car and replace with a rebuilt unit. This is in addition to the cost of the unit. Motor exchange is another area of gyp operation.

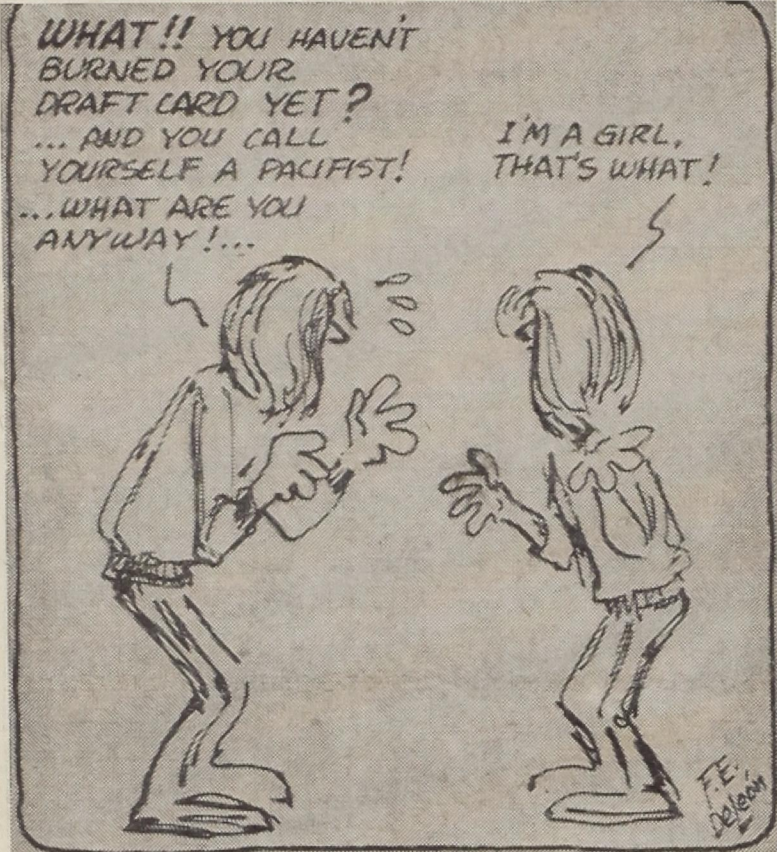

LEADERS BLAST 'PEACENIKS'

SAN ANGELO (AP)—State leaders blasted anti-Viet Nam war "peaceniks" at a rally Sunday.

Gov. Connally said the more than 6,500 West Texans at the Americanism Day rally were in themselves a sign "that we Americans stand firmly behind our troops in Viet Nam, that they are not forgotten, that we believe they will win this war."

The Sound Of Music . .

THAT GOIN' BAND from Raiderland presented what many persons consider their finest performance of the year (so far) last Saturday.

We add our plaudits to the band for their performances, also.

Perhaps of all musical organizations the band receives the least recognition largely because of the nature of the band itself. Because the band performs at football games and parades, it seldom receives the applause it deserves.

Football fans, preoccupied with the scores of the game, "sit on their hands" while the band performs a difficult routine with aplomb—a routine which required numerous hours of practice and rehearsing to perfect.

Only members of the band and people around the South end of the campus near the Music Building know how many hours are spent marching, playing and rehearsing each week before the game. But we also know there're a lot of hours involved.

But the results of those hours of practice should be rewarded as any professional performance—by the praise of their audience.

The gyp will advertise exchange of motors for $49.50. These shops are generally the people who repaint the old motor without removing it from the chassis or repairing it.

Brake shops will advertise brake relining at prices ranging from $6.95 to $19.95. A recent national survey shows the average brake job will cost between $40 and $50. Paint shops, tune-up shops, front-end alignment shops all use the same tactics, bait advertising, to lure the public into thinking they are getting a bargain.

Often times the gyp shops will use inferior parts or used parts taken from wrecked automobiles. While the car may function for a short period of time, the car owner soon has his vehicle back in a shop to do the job right.

IGOA has set forth several suggestions to help the motoring public pick a reliable automotive repair shop. Before having a shop repair your car ask for a diagnosis of the trouble. Reliable shops are equipped to test the car and find the trouble within a few minutes.

There are times, however, when it may take longer because of a series of trouble spots. In this case, the reliable shop may charge for the diagnosis with the charge being refunded or applied to the total cost of repairs.

Other questions to ask the repair shop: are the replaced parts retained for customer inspection and an explanation given why such parts had to be replaced? Does the shop itemize the invoice, separating material and labor and showing what work was done?

Does the shop road-test the car before returning it to the customers? Does the shop guarantee its work? What happens if the car doesn't work right and has to be returned for adjustments?

Other indications of a reliable shop include location. Is the shop on a well traveled street or is it in a back yard, down an alley in a storage garage or under a shade tree? Is the work done during normal business hours or in the evening?

Many of the gyms work only in the evening because the operator works elsewhere during the day. Is the shop a member of the local Chamber of Commerce? Does the shop display memberships in his industry's trade associations? Is the shop clean? How is his credit rating?

It is also advisable to ask the repair firm for a list of his customers. Check with these customers. Ask about the quality of work. Was the shop fair and reasonable with its prices? How many years has the shop been in business?

This seems like a lot of trouble to go through just to have your car repaired right; however, your automobile is generally your second largest investment.

Taking a little time to check on the person about to repair your vehicle will save you money over the years because a reliable auto repair shop will guarantee its work and will be most anxious to give you information about the firm.

The gyp will dodge the questions you ask and will try to get you to sign a blank repair order. Don't.

A.M.E.N.

(assistant managing editor's notes)

NOW THAT THE AMENDMENT ELECTIONS are over and higher education has received its needed shot in the arm, we might ask the question, Why did most of them, including No. 1, have to be voted upon by the entire state in the first place?

The answer is a faulty state constitution, one that contains too many details that shouldn't be there. A constitution is the place for the basic laws of an institution, not for details concerning its management and legislation, such as whether or not one hospital is entitled to a tax exemption. But such matters unfortunately are included in Texas' constitution, and as a result an amendment is often necessary when the legislature should have been able to pass or reject the proposed change or new law.

Amending the State constitution is a common affair in Texas. Fourteen amendments were considered in 1962, four in 1963, 11 this year (including the Sept. 7 election concerning enlargement of the state senate), and 16 more will be on the ballot in 1966.

Voter turnout in the past election totaled 490,000 out of 1,970,000 eligible voters. That's quite a dismal showing—slightly less than 25 per cent. In the Sept. 7 election, the turnout was only 220,000, or 11.2 per cent. The interests of the people probably would be better reflected if their representatives in the legislature would vote on amendments rather than they themselves.

Another point worthy of consideration is the tremendous cost to the state of conducting an amendment election. It must pay for publication of the proposed changes, it must pay for ballots, it must pay election officials.

What if the entire United States had had to vote on the income tax reduction, or the excise tax cut, or on the law setting up loans for college students which LBJ signed Monday? Chances are they never would have been passed and if they had, passage would have taken a long, long time.

Changing basic law should be a matter of considerable concern and seriousness. Only two of the past 10 amendments—four-year terms for administrative officials and for state representatives—could be considered changes in basic law. This is not to say the other proposed changes were bad, but that they should have been considered by the legislature rather than the people of Texas.

The only way to remedy the situation is to write a completely new state constitution. When questioned about a new constitution a few weeks ago while visiting Tech, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith said that although he agreed the constitution should be revamped, the legislature had little time to properly consider the task.

We agree that it would be a tremendous task. We agree that the legislature is a busy group. But we also think that benefits from rewriting the state constitution would more than outweigh the time and effort involved.

Dodge Polara!

Go ahead. Be rebellious. Demand more "big" in your big car. And get it at a price that won't take a big bite out of your budget.

By Dodge, you've got it. Polara! More "big." More "hot." More of everything others have not.

Ever see the likes of it? Neither has your next door neighbor or the doorman at the club or the parking attendant who can easily pick Polara from a lot full of "me, too" cars.

Polara's different, all right. Looks, drives, performs like the elegant piece of machinery it is. Covered by a 5-year/50,000-mile warranty.* Complete with all these items that used to cost extra: Outside mirror. Padded dash. Variable-speed electric windshield wipers and washers. Backup lights. Turn signals. Seat belts, two front and two rear.

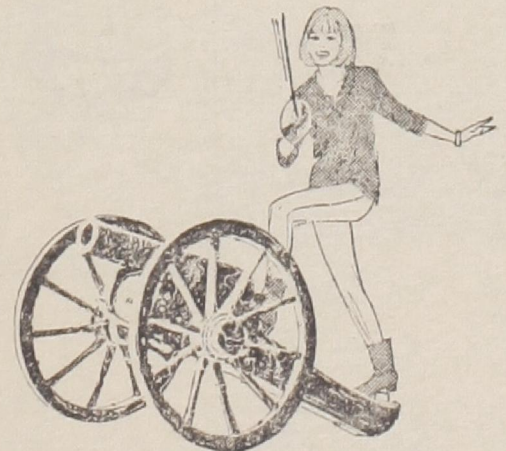

Insist on Polara at your Dodge Dealer's. A beautiful new way to break old buying habits.

DODGE DIVISION CHRYSLER MOTORS CORPORATION '66 Dodge Polara

HERE'S HOW DODGE'S 5-YEAR, 50,000-MILE ENGINE AND DRIVE TRAIN WARRANTY PROTECTS YOU: Chrysler Corporation confidently warrants all of the following vital parts of its 1966 cars for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excepting manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings.

REQUIRED MAINTENANCE: The following maintenance services are required under the warranty—change engine oil every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; replace oil filter every second oil change; clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

Anderson, Henkel Selected Top Back, Lineman Of Week

By MIKE LUTZ
Sports Editor

It's back to conformity for this week's Daily Toreador Back and Lineman of the Week as Donny Anderson and guard James Henkel have been selected following Tech's 48-9 "breather" over New Mexico State Saturday night.

Anderson, almost a shoo-in for repeat all-America honors was picked for the back award for his three touchdowns and 157 yards rushing. The effort pushed him to the top of the heap in scoring with a 78 point total and made him third in rushing.

Quarterback Tom Wilson was runnerup and might have edged Anderson for the honor had he not had three passes picked off by the Aggie secondary.

Wilson still graded 72 per cent to Anderson's 71. The interceptions were especially damaging to Wilson's efficiency rating since each miscue cost him approximately five points.

Henkel was the top lineman, grabbing off nine tackles and initiating two big plays.

Henkel nosed out co-captain tackle Chester Howard for the lineman award. Howard graded 82 per cent.

Others Mentioned

Also receiving consideration for the lineman title were defensive tackle John Porter, guard James Cecil, end Joe Hurley and guard Phil Tucker.

Despite the three interceptions, Wilson completed 13 aerials for 135 yards and two touchdowns to move into second place among SWC passers for the most passes completed in one season.

Wilson now has 127 completions and is second only to Baylor's Don Trull who hit on 174 aerials in a record-smashing 1963 campaign.

The scrappy performer from Corsicana now ranks fourth in total yardage with 1,542.

The Raiders begin playing for big stakes again Saturday in Jones Stadium when they host Baylor. A victory would set up a showdown battle with Arkansas the following weekend.

Norm's Back And Here Come Raiders

MIKE LUTZ

IF WE HAVE THE type of pride to be a champion, it will spur us on to the championship," Head Basketball Coach Gene Gibson said recently.

"IT" is the Norman Reuther incident of last spring that forced the Red (HOT) Raiders from the Southwest Conference basketball race when Reuther was found to be scholastically ineligible.

It's Trophy Time For TT

"When he was taken off the team last year, I had planned to leave him off for good," Gibson said. "But the team got together and discussed it and came to me and asked that he be reinstated. "Although what he did can't be ignored, I felt he deserved another chance to prove his character to the student body."

So once again fans in Municipal Coliseum will echo approval when the big blond swinger moves into action and, thanks to his reinstatement, the possibilities will be just that much greater that another SWC cage trophy will rest in the Raider showroom early next year.

As for the current situation Gibson says "We were kinda sloppy Wednesday. We're gonna have to improve that's for sure." The 65 version of the Raiders will chug into their schedule Dec. 1 in Boulder against Colorado.

AS OF YESTERDAY MORN-ING'S chat around the coffee pot, Gibson has made no further decisions concerning his starting five and won't until sometime after the season gets underway.

"We'll just have to wait and see who'll be able to take it under pressure," Gibson said, "and we'll know pretty quick."

When Gibson talks about starting lineups, he's referring to the two positions still open for debate. It's already pretty well assumed that Reuther will be joined by All-America hopeful Dub Malaise and junior Billy Tapp to form the nucleus of this year's squad. But the other two could come from any of five squadmen and newcomers.

Most frequently mentioned for the two open posts are Bob Glover and Vernon Paul.

But What About Cotton Bowl?

TURNING NOW TO A MORE VOGUE topic for this time of year, our Red (HOT) Raiders are being courted once again for post-season activity.

One Associated Press sports writer has gone so far as to predict the bowl in which the Raiders will participate.

According to his story, Tech will meet Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl. This is quite an honor to be considered for one of the major bowls but apparently this particular scribe hasn't been in conversation with the Raider squad, which seems to be making plans to carry the SWC colors into the Cotton Bowl.

And Coach J T King and company are smiling about it all. Fact is, they've been smiling for six Tuesday mornings now and they'd like to keep that happy expression throughout the remainder of the season.

But the "spoils" of victory allow only a few relaxed moments before all turn grim-faced and start looking toward the next pedestal—in this instance, Baylor.

"I can't foresee a letdown in our mental attitude toward Baylor," King said Monday morning. "Just by looking at the scores of our loss and Baylor's loss to Texas should be enough to keep us from being overconfident." Tech's only loss this season is a 33-7 drubbing by the Longhorns and last Saturday, the Teasippers tripped the Bruins, 35-14.

"WE'VE DONE TOO WELL to get overconfident now," King said. "We are fighting for the conference title, seeking national recognition, plus playing in this bowl atmosphere, all of which should keep us moving."

"I am much more concerned with our injury problem than I am our mental attitude," King moaned, and not without reason.

If you want to start counting with spring drills, Tech has had eight starters sidelined to date. Ray Garrett, who would have played guard, was lost for the season following an automobile accident, and fullback Leo Lowery, an all-conference candidate, became scholastically ineligible.

Red Raider Hospital Group

Current members of the Raider hospital group are end Jeff White, whose availability against Baylor is doubtful; tackle Bill Adams, who's definitely out because of a knee injury suffered against New Mexico State; defensive halfback Jimmy Edwards, severe cut over eye; Gene Darr, ankle and leg injury; quarterback John Scovell, and defensive halfback Hal Hudson, shoulder injuries; defensive end Joe Hurley, foot injury and fullback Jerry Lovelace, hip pointer.

Edwards and Darr will avoid all contact drills this week and Lovelace is very questionable as a participant here Saturday but the others mentioned above will likely be ready for competition, King said.

But that's not the end of the Raiders' injury woes. Also gone for the season are Kenneth Gill, line-backer deluxe and field goal kicker; safetyman Guy Griffis; guard Doug Young; tackle Ronnie Pack and Adams.

"But what continues to impress me about this team is that they've been faced with adversity every week, but still they've managed to win," King said. "They've won despite all those injuries and despite some of the groups that criticized us for not winning by larger scores." (Ed's note: The Gaston Hall Association surely has been quiet lately.)

LOOKING AT THE DOUBLE BARRELLED Baylor threat, King said, "The key will be whether we can move the ball against their defense and whether we can stop their pass offense."

LEINERT TAKES A TUMBLE AND AN AGGIE GETS THE BALL—Jim Miller (25), New Mexico State defensive back, goes up for one of the three interceptions credited to the Aggie secondary in Saturday night's 48-9 loss to Tech. Mike Leinert (40), was the intended receiver.

DALLAS—A&M's Dude McLean snatched the pass-receiving leadership of the Southwest Conference from his old high school teammate, Tech's Donny Anderson last week, but the wildhorse of the plains clinched all-America recognition for a second straight season by taking undisputed possession of the scoring derby as he came through with his top ball-carrying performance of the season.

Anderson's 157 yards in 24 carries against New Mexico State moved him to within 32 yards of Arkansas' Harry Jones for the runner-up spot in SWC rushing. While Anderson was outscoring him three touchdowns to two to take the scoring lead, Bobby Burnett of the Razorbacks was strengthening his lead on the rushing crown with 116 yards against Rice. Anderson was the ball-carrying champion last season with 966 yards, third best season total in SWC annals.

Jon Brittenuum of Arkansas completed 11 of 14 passes against Rice for his season's best pitching effort, while Tech's Tom Wilson continued to improve on his own school records despite his lowest production since the opening game of the season. Wilson's 127 completions in eight games is second only to Don Trull's records of 174 in 1963, while his TD passes (14) and his yardage total (1542) are the fourth best marks in SWC history with two games yet to play.

Parseghian Compared To Rockne

CHICAGO (AP)—Athletic Director Ed Krause of Notre Dame Monday put Coach Ara Parseghian in the same category as Knute Rockne and Frank Leahy in ability to get a football team mentally prepared for a game.

"Ara worried and was concerned about the Pittsburgh game last week because he could remember the close 17-14 victory the Irish pulled out against Pitt last year," Krause told Chicago's American Quarterback Club.

"Consequently, Ara got Notre Dame ready physically and mentally for the game and we all know how it turned out—Notre Dame 69-Pitt 13. We just did everything right against them.

"A lot of coaches can get a team ready physically but how many really can do it mentally? Rockne and Leahy could do it at Notre Dame and so can Ara."

BALLET, ANYONE?—Jeff White, Tech's double-jointed split end, puts on another gymnastics performance as he pulls down a Tom Wilson aerial for 14 yards in Saturday night's rout of New Mexico State. The California native was hurt early in the game. Laying siege on him for NMS are James Edgerly (73), Jerry Dunlap (56) and Bobby Crenshaw (88).

 (By the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!", "Dobie Gillis," etc.)

YOU, TOO, CAN BE INFERIOR

The second gravest problem confronting college students today is inferiority feelings. (The first gravest problem is, of course, the recent outbreak of moult among sorority house canaries.) Let us today look into the causes of inferiority feelings and their possible cures.

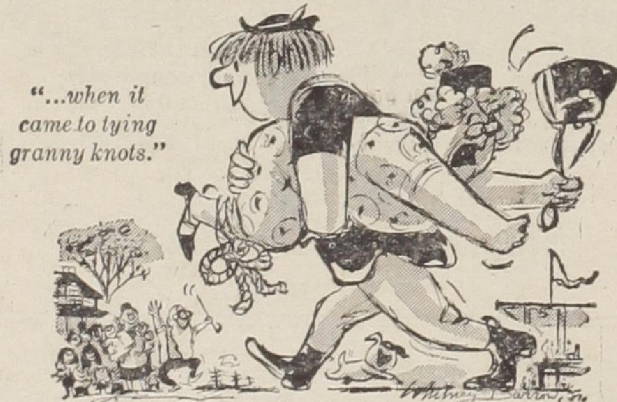

Psychologists divide inferiority feelings into three principal categories:

1. Physical inferiority.
2. Mental inferiority.
3. Financial inferiority.

(A few say there is also a fourth category: ichthyological inferiority—a feeling that other people have prettier fish—but I believe this is common only along the coasts and in the Great Lakes area.)

Let us start with the feeling of physical inferiority, perhaps the easiest to understand. Naturally we are inclined to feel inferior to the brawny football captain or the beautiful homecoming queen. But we should not. Look at all the people, neither brawny nor beautiful, who have made their marks in the world. Look at Napoleon. Look at Socrates. Look at Caesar. Look at Lassie.

What I mean is you can't always tell what's inside a package by looking at the outside. (Sometimes, of course, you can. Take Personna Stainless Steel Blades, for example. Just one glance at that jolly blue and white package—so bright and pert, so neat but not gaudy—and you know it has to contain blades of absolute perfection. And you are right! Personna gives you so many shaves per blade it takes a math major to count them. And they are luxury shaves—smoother, comfortabler, kinder to the kisser. Moreover, Personna comes both in Double Edge and Injector style. And as if this weren't enough, Personna is now offering you a chance to grab a fistful of $100 bills from a $100,000 bowl! The Personna Stainless Steel Sweepstakes is off and running, and you're all eligible to enter. Visit your friendly Personna dealer today to get details and an entry blank.)

"...when it came to tying granny knots."

But I digress. Let us turn now to the second category—mental inferiority. A lot of people think they are dumber than other people. This is not so. It must be remembered that there are different kinds of intelligence. Take, for instance, the classic case of the Sigafos brothers, Claude and Sturbridge, students at a prominent Western university (Dartmouth). It was always assumed that Claude was the more intelligent just because he knew more than Sturbridge about the arts, the sciences, the social sciences, the humanities, and like that. Sturbridge, on the other hand, was ten times smarter than Claude when it came to tying granny knots. But no matter; everybody looked down on "Stupid Sturbridge," as they called him, and looked up to "Clever Claude," as they called him. But who do you think turned out to be the smart one when their granny almost got loose and ran away? You guessed it—good old Stupid Sturbridge.

We arrive now at the final category, financial inferiority. One way to deal with this condition is to increase your income. You can, for example, become a fence. Or you can pose for a life class, if your college is well heated.

But a better way to handle financial inferiority is to accept it philosophically. Look on the bright side of poverty. True, others may have more money than you have, but look at all the things you have that they don't—debts, for instance, and hunger cramps.

Always remember, dear friends, that poverty is no disgrace. It is an error, but it is no disgrace.
