Tech Grads Train At Istanbul Center

Two 1965 Tech graduates are currently training in Turkey as Peace Corps volunteers.

Edward William and Sylva Telford will receive two months of overseas training at Robert College, Istanbul, after which they will be assigned to a rural village.

Miss Telford was graduated from Tech with a Bachelor of Arts in psychology. She was on the Dean's List and a member of Psi Chi, national honorary psychology society. She recently completed a month of training at Portland State University and will soon be assigned to a Turkish village to expand the Peace Corps' rural community development efforts.

Willman received a Bachelor of Arts in architecture in May and completed his training at Princeton University. While in Turkey, Willman will teach the English language.

This group brings the total number of Peace Corps volunteers to 580 in Turkey and 10,000 in 46 nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

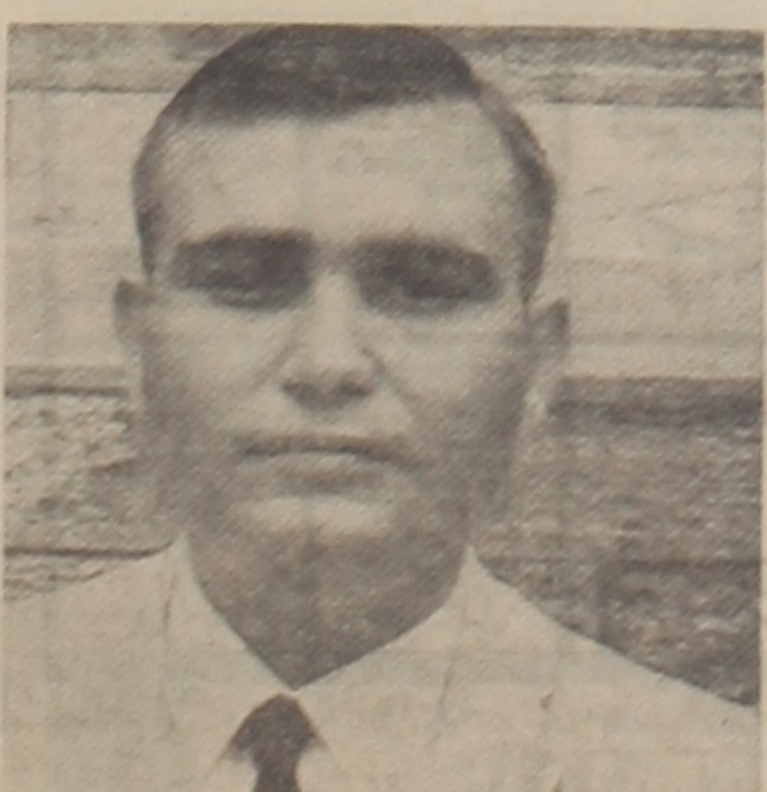

Persons interested in joining the Peace Corps should complete and submit a Peace Corps application and take the Peace Corps Placement Test, which is given throughout the country the second Saturday of each month. All pertinent information can be obtained at Post Offices or by writing the Peace Corps, Washington, D.C. 20525.

Activity Fee Increase Benefits Four Groups

Tech students will pay an additional $3 for their student activity fee when they register this fall.

Four programs — Tech Artists Course, Testing and Counseling Center, Tech Infirmary, and the Speakers Program — will benefit from the hike. The increase was recommended by several student groups, including the Student Service Fee Allocation Committee, last spring and approved by the Board of Directors.

Fifty cents of the $3 will go to the Tech Artist Course. Dorothy Pijan, program director of the Tech Union and a member of the selection committee, said four programs will be presented to Tech students this year free of charge, as a result of the activities fee increase.

Students must merely present I.D. cards for the programs on a first come first serve basis. Through the course, programs are being planned by the American Ballet, Pittsburg Symphony, The American Shakespeare Players and Jennie Tourel, a soprano soloist.

Mrs. Pijan said when the box office opens for each performance Tech students may get tickets free by showing I.D. cards. Three days before the performance tickets will go on sale to non-students for $4.

One dollar of the $3 increase will go to the Testing and Counseling Center. Because of the additional appropriations the center will drop its former $10 service fee charge; and beginning next fall, students may obtain help and counseling from the Center free of charge. Also, the money will be used to pay the salary for a psychiatrist, who will be on hand to serve students one fourth of each day, according to Dr. James Kuntz, head of the center.

Scheduled to get $1 from the hike, the Tech Infirmary, under the direction of Dr. Frederick Paul Kallina, will use the money to provide office and facilities for additional staff members. At the present time Dr. O. R. Hand and Dr. Kallina are the only two doctors at the infirmary. Dr. Kallina hopes to add either one or two more doctors to the staff for this fall.

The fourth group to benefit from the increase is the University Speakers Committee, which is scheduled to get 50 cents. The committee, a new organization set up about three months ago, is designed to bring top speakers to the Tech campus. So far the committee has sent letters to four prominent speakers inviting them to appear.

The money received from the student activities fee will be used to pay the expenses and fees for bringing such speakers to Tech.

The programs featuring these top speakers will be free to all Tech students and faculty members.

The committee is composed of three faculty members and four students. Dean James Allen is chairman.

Bill Daniels Gets National VP Position

Bill G. Daniels, chief security officer, has been elected vice president of the National Association of College and University Traffic Security Directors.

Tech is a charter member of this organization and Daniels has been serving as a representative since the founding of the group in 1959 at the University of Houston.

Daniels served on the Board of Directors for the last two years, and after his year as vice president, will become president.

He is also currently presiding as president of the Texas Association of Colleges and University Traffic and Security Departments which will meet at Tech this December 2 and 3.

— Joins Baylor Faculty —

Adrian Vaughan To Leave Tech

Adrian Vaughan has resigned as director of public information at Tech, effective Aug. 31, to join the journalism faculty at Baylor University.

Vaughan has headed the Tech public information department since 1957.

During that period, news coverage of Tech activities has expended so that, in 1964, the department distributed more than 3,000 news stories and 51 newfilms in more than 27,000 mailings.

Four new Tech periodicals have been initiated in addition to the continuance of two other special publications. Four motion pictures have been produced and the Tech Speakers Bureau reactivated.

Vaughan was named assistant director of public information at Tech in 1955, coming from the University of Texas, where he was an information officer. Before that he was on the staff of the Big Spring Daily Herald.

He holds a B.A. degree from Baylor and M.J. from the University of Texas.

He has been active in Lubbock civic activities, serving on several mayor's committees and in various capacities with the South Plains Guidance Center, Lubbock-Hale County TB Association, Camp Fire Girls, and Methodist Hospital.

He is a deacon and trustee of Second Baptist Church.

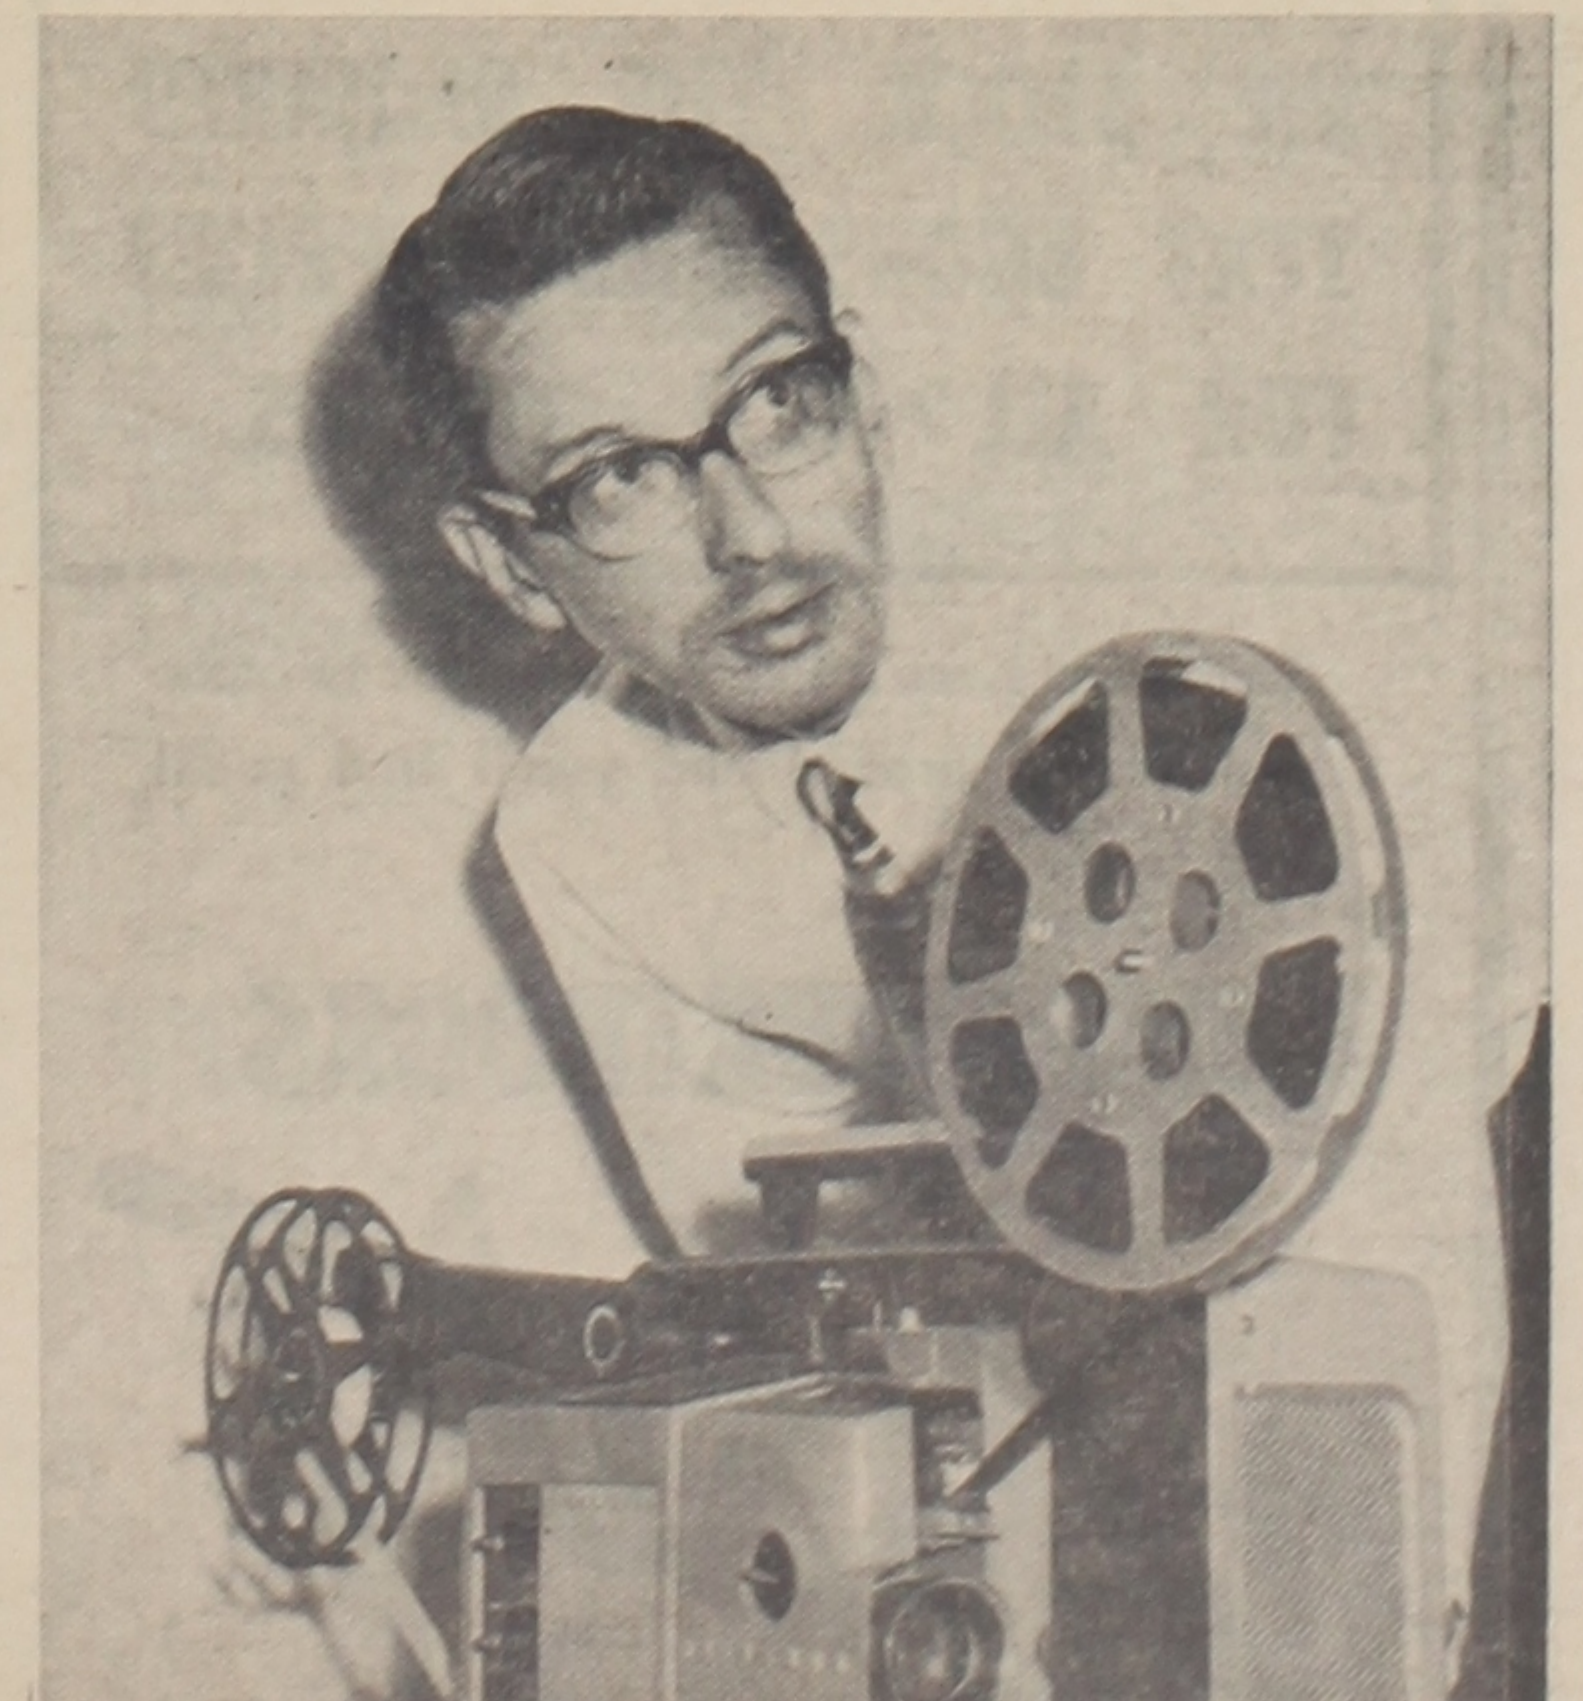

While at Tech, Vaughan has served on the National Board of Directors for the American College Public Relations Association and has headed the association's Southwest District.

Commenting on the resignation, President R. C. Goodwin said, "We appreciate Mr. Vaughan's services here and wish him success in his new endeavors."

"Although I look forward to teaching at Baylor, you can be sure I'll continue to work for Tech even though I'm not on the payroll," Vaughan said. "Tech is a wonderful institution with a spirit that's unique. My family and I have the same feelings for Lubbock and the South Plains."

TO BAYLOR—Adrian Vaughan has resigned from his post of director of Tech's Public Information for a position on the faculty of the department of journalism at Baylor University. Vaughn has been with the public information department since 1957.

COMPETES IN MISS TEXAS PAGEANT

Kay Burleson, senior from Friona, is representing Lubbock in the current Miss Texas Pageant in Fort Worth. Miss Burleson left Sunday for the week's activities and went through the first two rounds of judging Wednesday and Thursday. Finals are scheduled Saturday on state-wide television. Miss Burleson won the title of Miss Lubbock in February and is sponsored in the state pageant by the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Other Workshops Follow

The first photojournalism workshop of the summer starts Sunday with registration in the Journalism Bldg.

The workshop, limited to 25 students, will be under direction of Ralph Sellmeyer, associate professor of journalism, assisted by Cal Moore and Allyn Harrison of the student publications staff.

All classes in the workshop, which will end August 6, will be held in the Journalism Bldg.

Students will be taught camera and photograph techniques, as well as how to take different types of pictures. Picture editing and layout for both the newspaper and the yearbook and printing processes will also be taught.

Field Trips

Field trips and activities have been planned to give the students experience in several types of photographic problems. Activities during the session will include a coke party, a field trip and barbecue dinner at Buffalo Lakes, an ice cream party and a round of miniature golf.

Workshoppers will stay in Hulen and Clement halls.

On Aug. 8 three more journalism workshops will begin and run concurrently for a week. High school and college students and teachers from some 80 schools in five states have signed up for the special courses in newspaper and yearbook publishing and the second photojournalism workshop.

Registration will remain open in newspaper and yearbook sections until Aug. 8, although quotas for photography workshops, limited by lab requirements, have already been filled.

Garets Is Coordinator

W. E. Garets, head of the department of journalism, will be workshop coordinator, and Phil Orman, director of Tech's student publications, is the director.

Yearbook instruction will be under direction of Charles Dolan and Jim Bolin of the Taylor Publishing Co., Dallas. This will include lectures and work sessions and the publication of a workshop yearbook, "Sine Nomine."

Bob Rooker, associate professor of journalism, is the supervisor of the newspaper division and Jean Finley is the workshop's assistant director.

Guest lecturers for the newspaper division will include Ed Cole of San Angelo High School, Mrs. Alma Petrich of Thomas Jefferson High in San Antonio, Carolyn Payne of Snyder High School, and Bill Moseley of Odessa High School, who also will work with the yearbook division. A staff selected from the workshopers will produce an edition of The Toreador.

Ends Aug. 13

The workshop, sponsored by the Southwestern Council of Student Publications and Tech's journalism department, will end Aug. 13.

Evening entertainment will include a "Talent Roundup" composed of skits produced by the various schools, the selection of Miss Workshopper of 1965 at a Beauty Revue in Tech Union Ballroom, and a combination swim party, barbecue and hootenanny at Caprock Club House.

Foreign Language Profs Leave On European Tour

Lubbockites in Europe this summer will include three members of Tech's department of foreign languages.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodor W. Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Forrest left Friday on the charter flight of the South Central Modern Language Association.

During the six-week tour Mrs. Alexander, assistant professor of French, will take time out to collect research material and do research on Sacha Guitry in the libraries of France.

Alexander, associate professor of German, and Mrs. Forrest, part-time instructor in German, will attend the Third International Germanistenkongress (International Meeting of German Scholars) in Amsterdam, Holland, from Aug. 22 through Aug. 28.

Their itinerary also includes tours through Germany and Austria.

Foundation Gives Tech $150 Grant

Tech has received a $150 unrestricted grant in aid from the Burlington Industries Foundation, according to Foundation executive director, W. S. Markham Jr. in an announcement at Greensboro, N.C.

The grant is made under the "matched tuition" phase of the Burlington Industries Aid to Education program. It is designed to match the tuition portion of education loans made by the Foundation to employes and their children attending Tech.

Markham added, "The proceeds from this grant may be applied to meet any of the financial needs which may be confronting Tech as judged by the College's administrators."

In a letter to Markham which acknowledged receipt of the grant, Dr. R. C. Goodwin, president, said, "We appreciate not only the donation but also the freedom of its use."

Wheeler Will Lead Literary Workshop

West Texas librarians and other interested persons can attend a workshop on children's literature at the Tech Library, Aug. 23-27.

Dr. Olive Boone Wheeler, associate professor of education, will conduct the workshop. She has taught children's literature for eight years.

Dr. Wheeler holds a B.A. degree from Howard Payne College, a Master's from Texas Christian University, an Ed.D. degree from Tech. She has done special work in library science.

There will be no registration fee. The children's literature collection of Tech library will be made available to participants.

The five-day conference is sponsored by Tech Library and the Texas State Library's Field Services Division. It is planned primarily for persons who may deal with library service to children.

GRE Test Dates Set For 65-66

The National Program for Graduate Record Examinations will hold its 1965-66 tests on November 13, January 15, February 26, April 23 and July 9 at examination centers throughout the United States.

A "Bulletin of Information" with forms and details concerning the tests may be obtained in late September from the Tech Counseling Center or the Educational Testing Service, Box 955, Princeton, New Jersey or 1947 Center Street, Berkeley, California. The properly completed registration must reach the appropriate ETS office at least 15 days before the test date.

The GRE offers tests of achievement in 20 major fields including speech and music.

Both the aptitude test and one advanced test may be taken on any one of the five national testing dates.

The Graduate Record Examinations are required or recommended for admission to many American graduate schools and for graduate fellowship awards.

To assure the proper completion of these applications, candidates are urged to determine from their preferred graduate schools or fellowship committees which of the examinations are required or recommended and when they should be taken.

senior high school students at a two-week piano workshop on the Tech campus.

The workshop began last Monday. Running concurrently during the first three days of the workshop (Monday through Wednesday) was a clinic for piano teachers.

Classes met from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

An interesting feature of Foster's presentations was the inclusion of specific works chosen from the lists of contest material for the Lubbock-Amarillo area next year. The clinician also coached students in the proper interpretation and projection of these works.

Class work included rhythm, sightreading and theory studies, supervised practice, a listening class and demonstrations of how to memorize, how to practice and how to interpret musical markings.

A highlight of the workshop program was the showing of a film at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, of a master class conducted by Rosina Lhevinne, distinguished piano instructor of the Juilliard School of Music and teacher of Van Cliburn. Sessions of the workshop was open to those enrolled in the teacher clinic.

Other members of the workshop staff included Thomas Mastroianni, pianist, and Dr. Judson Maynard, organist, both of the music faculty.

562 Students Finish Cheerleading School

Five hundred sixty-two cheerleaders from 118 junior and senior high schools in the Texas area are attending Tech's cheerleading school which ends today.

The past week the cheerleaders have been attending a clinic from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. at which they have worked on new motions, cheers and words. They have also practiced pom-pom routines and tumbling.

From 1 to 2:30 p.m. the cheerleaders received lecture sessions on handling crowds and creating scenery for pep assembly skits.

Although the late afternoons were free, the cheerleaders were busy swimming, playing tennis and, of course, practicing cheers.

Their evenings were spent in competitive demonstrations. Junior high schools competed against each other and high schools competed according to the size of the cheerleading squad. Five places were awarded each night.

The school closes this morning with a final cheering competition. Prizes will be awarded to the top cheerleading squads at that time.

CHEERLEADING SCHOOL—Tech's second annual Cheerleading School ends today for 562 yell leaders from 118 junior and senior high schools in Texas and New Mexico. The students pictured practice some of the motions learned in the school. Included in the instruction were new motions, cheers and words, crowd control skits and pep assembly scenery.

Final Exam Schedule

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer
Texas Football, a magazine that comes out only once annually but at a time to make a fan feel cool just to look at it, is off the press for another year.
It's July and the sun beams down and the fans (mechanical) buzz, but Texas Football gives the air a touch of fall. It is the best production yet, just showing that even good things improve with age.
Most striking points about this year's Texas Football is that the best teams, best players and best games for the 20 years of post-war football are selected by the men who have reported the action—the sports writers.

The best player was Doak Walker, Southern Methodist's three-time All-America. Matty Bell, who was his coach, backed up the writers with the comment "Nobody ever played football like Doak Walker."

The best team was Texas of 1963—the national champions who blasted Navy in the Cotton Bowl.

The greatest game was the 1949 Southern Methodist-Notre Dame melee that Walker missed because of an injury but who was forgotten for one day at least when Kyle Rote almost single-handedly whipped the national champions. According to a fine article by Steve Perkins, Matty Bell started preparing for the Irish about this time of the year. He had Mike Brumbelow scout Notre Dame five times.

Texas, which will come up with the least experience of any team Darrell Royal has produced except his first year—1957—was picked to win the Southwest Conference championship. Arkansas, almost apologetically, was given top mention and was picked on a number of ballots.

Texas Has Quarterback

The riders with the Longhorns seemed to think Texas with a veteran quarterback was a stronger bet than an experienced-packed Arkansas squad that is undecided on whom it will use at the signal calling job.

The way they talk about Arkansas though it would appear the Razorbacks shouldn't need a quarterback too much. It has two 9.8 men and one 9.7 boy in its backfield. Perhaps all they need at Arkansas is somebody to hand the ball to one of those blazing speedsters—Jim Lindsey, Harvey Jones or Bobby Burnett.

It would be interesting if the perennially heralded 10-second men could be timed running with a football. But that might stop a good story.

Tommy Nobis, the mighty lineman of Texas, is given a special story in which he is built into a John Bunyan and called the greatest Longhorn ever. But this appears to be well-founded on fact. As one writer put it: "Even his freckles have muscles."

Houston Hits Big-Time

University of Houston, which really hits the big-time this year by playing before a television audience in the Astrodome, is featured along with the fellow who's expected to pack in the fans for the dome—Warren McVea.

One of the reasons McVea went to Houston was because he could play in the Astrodome where weather would be no hazard. With nothing to handicap them McVea and the Astrodome should make swell music together.
