Martial Law Is Declared After Pro-Japanese Leader Killed

SHANGHAI, Dec. 26 (AP)—The Japanese military today declared the assassination of Tang Ju-Yen, pro-Japanese vice-minister of Chinese railways "throws a dark shadow over the future of Sino-Japanese relations."

Guard Against Outbreaks
Chinese authorities immediately declared martial law throughout Shanghai and the central government capital at Nanking. Severe military restrictions were imposed at Hankow against anti-Japanese demonstrations.

A Japanese Nanking embassy spokesman described the killing by two unidentified gunmen in the French concession here as "glaring evidence of anti-Japanese sentiment, leaving no doubt of the trend of Chinese sentiment toward Japan."

Foreigners feared student outbreaks and other anti-Japanese activities would result. Armed patrols of Japanese soldiers marched through the streets in the Hongkew area as a precaution against possible incidents.

Shot Seven Times
Tang's chauffeur told the police of the killing. He said his master was killed by two men in Chinese dress who shot him seven times at close range.

Tang had just left his automobile to enter a house in the French concession.

The French police said the motive probably was political. Tang had arrived Tuesday from Nanking where he interviewed Major General Rensuke Isogai, the Japanese military attaché, reported to be studying the important pending Sino-Japanese problem.

Informally, Japanese officials voiced concern, pointing out that Tang was a friend of Japan and declaring his assassination probably was a result of his friendly attitude toward the Japanese.

Tang had served the Chinese government as the chief go-between in recent Sino-Japanese negotiations. From Nanking came reports that a small army of students from Shanghai were approaching the capital by automobile, bicycle and foot, while all through traffic on the railroad was again paralyzed after passage of a single train.

'Cop Killer' Being Sought

Ex-Convict Flees After Slaying Two, Wounding Two Others

BUTTE, Mont., Dec. 26 (AP)—Posses searched the western Montana hills today for a "cop killer" identified as Harry Knight, ex-convict who killed two persons and wounded two on Christmas Day.

Policeman Tom O'Neill was killed and a companion officer, James Mooney, was wounded when the two were called to a boarding house by residents who reported Knight had fatally shot Frank Walsh and wounded Mrs. Florence Benevue after being repulsed in his efforts to enter an apartment of Mrs. Benevue's sister, Jean Miller.

The killer fled in an automobile after shooting down the two officers. Miss Miller told authorities that Knight also had killed Deputy Sheriff Meehan in Seattle, in November.

Some Prisoners Freed On Holiday

Sheriff Jess Slaughter made Wednesday a merry Christmas for all his prisoners. He released as many as had almost all their time served by Christmas, telling them it was a sort of "present."

Then to the remaining 13 he served a turkey dinner with all the "trimmings." He added a generous supply of fruits and nuts to make it seem more like Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hefley had as their guests Christmas their sons, Roger and Frank, and their families.

France Making No Move Toward War

Would Act Only If Italy Gave Provocation

(By The Associated Press)
It was reported Thursday that Premier Laval of France has told his cabinet that the nation would not make any military or naval move toward Italy unless Italy gave provocation. The details of his policy regarding war were not completed at the cabinet meeting. A general roundup of spies featured developments on the war front.

Ethiopia expelled a Greek accused of being an accomplice of two spies previously deported. Three Eritrean spies, charged by Italian police with giving the Ethiopian government information concerning the location of troops in Italy's colonies, were sentenced to be shot in the back.

Nine others were given sentences ranging from one to 16 years in prison. The 11 was charged, went to Italian Somaliland where they got government jobs or joined the Italian army. Italian police asserted they had discovered the Eritreans had made an agreement to procure military information for the Addis Ababa government.

Italian native fighters routed a band of Ethiopian fascist quarters announced, after killing five and wounding six.

Nine Killed In Christmas Day Mishaps

Highway Accidents Account For Most Texas Fatalities

DALLAS, Dec. 26 (AP)—Accidents took nine lives in Texas on Christmas day, exactly matching the number of fatalities of the day before.

Traffic accidents caused seven Christmas day deaths, an explosion took one life and one person was killed by a train.

The holiday brought violent death to nearly 150 persons in this and other lands.

Highway accidents claimed the heaviest toll but tragedy invaded many a family gathering, too. A Christmas Eve train collision at Cross Hocking, Germany, killed 39 persons and injured 72 in the holiday's worst catastrophe. Fire and exposure killed others.

One woman was burned to death, an undetermined number were missing and five were injured in a theatre fire at Hot Springs, Ark. A woman and two children were burned fatally in residence fires in Oklahoma.

Seven Killed In Georgia
Missouri led the nation in traffic fatalities, with 10, as silent made Cripple death traps of some highway. Nine died on Illinois roads. Los Angeles police were swamped with calls involving drunken drivers after eight deaths in traffic smashups.

Seven persons died in Georgia traffic accidents, six in Michigan—two involving trains, three in Oklahoma, three in Washington and two in Kansas.

Six persons were frozen to death—one in Iowa, one in New Jersey, two in Wisconsin, one in Illinois and one in Arizona.

THREE PERISH IN BLAZE AT CCC QUARTERS

German May Learn Fate By Next Week

Court Of Pardons Will Meet Monday To Consider Case

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 26 (AP)—Governor Harold Hoffman's press representative, William Conklin, announced today that Hoffman had authorized him to say that "at present" he was not considering a reprieve for Hauptmann should the New Jersey court of pardons refuse the German's appeal for clemency.

The convicted killer of the Lindbergh baby spent his second Christmas in jail, with his future a dark one.

Christmas of 1934 found him in the little country jail at Flemington, 25 miles away, hoping for acquittal in his trial starting eight days hence.

Christmas of 1935 found him in a death house cell at state prison, with virtually all appeals exhausted for a reversal of his conviction last Feb. 13 of the kidnaping-murder.

Today, 18 days before the week set by the courts for him to die, he has only one main hope left—a possible commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment by the court of pardons. His wife, Anna, said he was still confident.

Christmas day for Hauptmann was much like any other, save for a special dinner at noon. He and five other inmates of the death house were served with tomato soup, pork chops, mashed potatoes, green peas, mince pie and coffee.

Hears Carols
Christmas morning he slept until 9:15 and had a late breakfast. During the day, prison officials said, the radio in the death house corridor was turned on occasionally and the prisoners heard carols. The only other sign of Christmas was a wreath in the corridor.

Within a week Hauptmann may know whether the court of pardons, composed of Governor Harold G. Hoffman, Chancellor Luther A. Campbell and six lay judges, will grant him clemency.

The court will meet Monday on another matter and may then decide when to consider Hauptmann's plea and whether to call any witnesses.

Ber License Fees Cheaper For New Year

Applications, Changed By Statute, Due To Be Filed Soon

Ber dealers may become more numerous here this year as the result of a new fee schedule lowering license costs for retailers.

The change is an outgrowth of the new liquor statutes passed by the last legislature.

Under terms of the new law, county and city fees are as follows: Brewers, $500; general distributors, $100; local distributors, $25; retailers, where product is consumed on or off premises, $12.50; retailer where product is consumed off premises, $5. State fees are twice the amount in every instance.

Only the two latter fees are affected. Formerly the retailer selling beer for consumption on the premises had to pay a total tax of $200 per year—$100 state, $50 county and $50 city. Retailers selling beer for consumption elsewhere had to pay $100 total tax, $50 state and $25 each for city and county. Now the total fees are $50 and $29 respectively.

New applications must be made to comply with the statute. County Judge J. S. Garlington was expected to announce a mild rush Thursday since the licenses cannot be issued until five days after the applications are approved. Old licenses, of which there are approximately 30 in the city, expire Dec. 31.

The city is preparing an ordinance to conform with the new law.

Several dealers were applying for 14 per cent beer permits which cannot be issued here since Howard county is legally dry.

Mrs. F. M. Purser is visiting with her mother, Mrs. R. E. Webster, Eastland.

FARM PRODUCTS SET PACE FOR COMMODITY PRICE RISE

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 (AP)—Paced by farm products, commodity prices ran up this year to the highest level since mid-1930.

Important factors influencing the trend included expanding domestic business, hopes and fears revolving about the AAA, uncertain weather in the spring, and a pick-up in world trade climaxed by the Italo-Ethiopian war demands.

After swinging widely in the first half, prices moved ahead during the third quarter and remained relatively stable in the final period.

Hogs Lead
Spectacular percentage gains registered among the commodities, include hogs, up 55 per cent; cattle, up 47; milk, up 20; hides up 30; lead up 30, and silk up 50.

Cotton was dominated by government loan policies in its major moves, fluctuating sharply. In the closing weeks of the year, cotton prices were moderately under the level of a year ago.

NATION'S INCOME GAIN FOR YEAR ESTIMATED 5-10 PCT. ABOVE 49 BILLION IN 1934

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 (UP)—The nation's income has been running 5 to 10 per cent ahead of the 1934 figure of $49,440,000,000. Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper estimated today in his department's annual report.

Widespread economic improvement on many sectors, better price structures and increased individual salaries were reported by the commerce secretary in his detailed account of business conditions and efforts of his department to promote recovery.

"The fiscal year 1935," he said, "marked the second year of sustained recovery from the depression which reached its depth during the fiscal year 1932-33, after almost continuous decline since 1929."

"Perhaps the outstanding feature of the fiscal year just past was the better balanced relationship established in our whole national economy, following the irregular improvements which characterized the preceding year. As a result, the qualitative changes were of a significance comparable with the quantitative gains of the year."

Backed Up By Statistics
"This visible evidence of the enhanced individual welfare and security in the past year is supported by the statistical indicators of progress. Taking only the most inclusive of these data—the estimates of national income—it is significant to note that a considerable increase

FD Working On Message

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 (UP)—President Roosevelt today began serious work on recommendations he will make in his speech to be delivered to congress, which convenes on January 3.

There was no intimation as to the probable contents or size of the message. It was regarded as likely, however, that it will deal with the international situation, and recommendations for neutrality legislation. The present neutrality law expires on February 29th. It was passed by the last congress when the Italo-Ethiopian conflict had precipitated a near-crisis in world affairs.

Norther Felt As Far South As The Coast

Low Temperatures Forecast Tonight; Snow Blankets Nation

(By The Associated Press)
The coldest weather of the season chilled Texas today in the wake of a Christmas norther that extended to the Mexican border.

Sub-freezing temperatures prevailed in North Texas. The lowest mark, 16, was registered at Gainesville, while far to the south and west, it was freezing at Del Rio and El Paso.

Strikes South Texas
The norther appeared to be abating today in North Texas, but was striking South Texas with full force.

A low temperature of 17 was reported at Wichita Falls, and Dallas had a minimum of 21. It went to 23 at Corsicana, 18 at Sherman and 20 at Amarillo.

Rain was reported at Austin, San Antonio, Del Rio and Corpus Christi.

Galveston and other coast cities prepared for the coldest weather of the season with temperatures of near freezing forecast.

Temperatures of from 24 to 28 were predicted for the northern part of East Texas tonight, with warmer weather promised for Friday. Probable rain was forecast for West Texas tonight, with rising temperatures tomorrow.

The norther that hit the Big Spring area suddenly Wednesday morning sent the mercury to a low for that day here to 30 degrees. It never got higher than the 34-degree mark all day, and Thursday morning slipped to 28, one degree above the lowest reading of the year.

Occasional light rain was forecast for this area tonight, the weather was due to moderate.

Snow Sweeps South As Winter Tightens Grip

CHICAGO, Dec. 26 (UP)—Fifty-two known deaths were attributed today to exposure, fire in bitter cold and traffic accidents on highways as near-zero temperatures prevailed over the nation and snow swept southward after blanketing the northern half of the nation.

The snow was heaviest in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio and Kentucky but the frigid wave that accompanied it moved to encompass most of the Northern States and to penetrate some of their Southern neighbors.

The storm deposited three inches of snow in Michigan, four or more in Wisconsin and Illinois, five in Minnesota's twin cities and six in Central Indiana. Forecasters said it would travel eastward from Ohio.

While this area bore the brunt, Winter launched its most widespread and bitter assault. As thermometers went into a sharp decline, meteorologists warned they feared a fall still further overnight. Chicago and Kansas City prepared for five below zero weather. More frost was expected in Florida.

Record seasonal lows were established on Christmas at many points.

Garden City Man Succumbs

Daniel Benjamin Koger, farmer of the Garden City section, died in a hospital here at 5:50 a. m. on Christmas Day, after a brief illness.

The body was taken in an Eberly funeral coach Thursday afternoon to Garden City, where the funeral service was held at 2:30. Burial was made in the Garden City cemetery.

Mr. Koger, a native of Alabama, had resided at Garden City for the past two years.

His wife, Mrs. Ida Koger, and six children survive. The children, all of whom were at Garden City for the service, are D. W. Koger of Big Spring, B. H. and H. C. Koger of Garden City, J. W. Koger and Mrs. E. W. Gassett of San Antonio, and Miss Rowie Koger of Garden City.

SOUTHERN METHODIST MUSTANGS LEAVE FOR ROSE BOWL

PLAYERS REPORTED IN EXCELLENT CONDITION; WORK OUT AT TUCSON

DALLAS, Dec. 26. (AP)—Thirty-one Southern Methodist University players and eight coaches and sports writers steamed from Dallas at noon today for Pasadena and the Rose Bowl.

Every player was in excellent condition. The Mustangs will work-out at Tucson Friday morning and practice at Occidental college while waiting for the game.

The other Texas "Bowlers", the Texas Christian Horned Frogs, indicated they would depend on Sammy Baugh's passes for victory in the Sugar Bowl.

Coach Meyer said he believed Jimmy Lawrence, star back, would be able to play.

The Mustangs will be on Texas & Pacific No. 1 tonight due in here at 9 p. m. Officials said this morning that the train might be a little late. It will stop here only fifteen minutes.

Around And About

The Sports Circuit

By Tom Beasley

SOUTHERN METHODIST backers are prepared to let money talk their convictions—at 10 to 6 odds—that the Texas Mustangs will defeat Stanford University in the New Year's day Rose Bowl game, according to United Press reports from San Francisco. Tom Kyrle, San Francisco betting commissioner, reported receipt of $5,000 to be wagered on S. M. U. at those prices. Identity of the bettor or bettors was not disclosed.

AS A football mentor, Stanford's Claude E. (Tiny) Thornhill has a unique record: His team has been invited to the Rose Bowl at Pasadena every year he has been a head coach. The ex-backback of Pitt took over the Indiana football fortunes in succession to Pop Warner and steered them to the gates of the big bowl three times.

THE GRIDMEN of Texas Christian, who play Louisiana State in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl New Year's day, like their catsup. Poring over expenses for the Santa Clara trip Business Manager Raymond Wolf almost fainted when he discovered the Frogs used 10 bottles of catsup at each meal.

COACH FRANCIS Schmidt of Ohio State, recalling the football feats and heroes of long ago at a gab-fest, remarked that he considered Johnny Bender of Nebraska as the greatest backfielder he ever saw. "Bender played his last year at Nebraska more than 30 years ago," Schmidt said. "Since then I've looked at great football players almost without number, but take my word for it, there never was one like Bender."

Presenting The Texas Christian Football Squad

EDITOR'S NOTE: Texas Christian university plays L. S. U. in the Sugar Bowl New Year's day. This is the first of a series of thumb nail sketches of the Horned Frog players.

SAM BAUGH, quarterback from Sweetwater, Tex., is the sparkplug of the Frogs' offense. His record as a passer speaks for itself, with 19 touchdowns this season resulting directly from his heaves. His brilliant work at throwing the ball has caused fans to overlook his other activities, but he is also an ace ball-toter, a splendid blocker, a heady field general, and a standout on defense. Baugh made several all-American selections this year, and is only a junior.

REX CLARK alternates at the left halfback position with "Dutch" Kline. Rex earned a starting position against the S. M. U. Mustangs, but was injured on the first play from scrimmage. He is the fastest man on the Frog squad, doing the 100 in 10 seconds flat. He weighs 180 pounds. Rex is an excellent pass receiver and ball carrier. He is a senior whose home is in Eastland, Tex.

DREW ELLIS, 200-pounder from Perryton, Tex., lettered with the 1934 Frogs as a guard. This year Line Coach Wolf needed another left tackle, and Ellis was elected. He stepped into the regular berth after the first two or three games and has held the position down throughout the strenuous 1935 campaign.

MANUEL "TINY" GODWIN, is a senior left tackle. Tiny weighs 220 pounds and was a regular until the injury jinx got him in the middle of the season. It is expected that he will be in good shape for the Sugar Bowl contest. Tiny is a good blocker and a hard man to shove on defense. He has lettered two years. His home is in Hot Springs, Ark.

WILSON GROSECLOSE, right tackle, is a 60-minute man in most games. His opponents complain that he turns into all knees and elbows on the defense and credit him with being the hardest man to block they have run up against. His accurate and hard blocking when the Frogs have the ball has accounted

Major Sport Honors To Detroit

Tigers In Baseball, Lions In Pro-Football, Azucar On Track And Louis In Ring Pile Up Glory For City

By STUART CAMERON
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (UP)—The name Detroit has been a magic one in American sports during the 1935 campaigns. Major national honors came to the Michigan city no fewer than four times. Detroit, thanks to fighting Mickey Cochran and a hustling club, won its first World Series baseball championship. Detroit's Lions, coached by Patsy Clark, captured their first national pro football crown. Azucar, owned by Fred Alger, Jr., of Detroit, won the Santa Anita Handicap, richest race of the year. And finally Detroit produced the greatest fighter since Dempsey in Joe Louis.

Seldom, if ever, has one city boasted such a wealth of principal sports.

Greatest civic pride, naturally, was manifest in the American League baseball championship and subsequent series triumph of the Tigers over the Chicago Cubs. A great baseball town ever since the first Tigers club was organized, Detroit often came within a pace or two of world championship. As recently as 1934 the Tigers were within a single game of a series win, only to have the jinx hold true. But finally, due chiefly to the superb pitching of Tommy Bridges and great play of Charlie Gehring, the championship flag came to the Tigers, and Detroit's celebration over the victory was a New Orleans Mardi Gras and a Kentucky Derby rolled into one.

Unmatched In Pro Football

Detroit scored a well-earned win in the professional football race. There was a close fight throughout the season, but the final playoff game, with Detroit representing the West, and the New York Giants the East, was a runaway 26-7 triumph.

Azucar made the racing season a success for Alger. The Santa Anita was one of the most coveted prizes of the year, and was worth $108,400 to the Detroit sportsman.

Joe Louis, towering Negro, color of coffee with lots of cream, pulled boxing from the rocks and established himself as the greatest fighter since Dempsey.

One of the other magic names of the year was that of Lawson Little. This San Franciscan collegian owned the name of the year in golf with his repeat victories in the British and United States amateur championships rounding out his total to four straight. Never before had one player won four major amateur titles in succession, and if Little's feat is less glorious than Bob Jones' grand slam, it's the nearest approach the game has known.

Parks' Triumph Resented

The other principal golf name of the year was Sam Parks of Pittsburgh, who won the U. S. Open. Parks, like Little, is a much misunderstood man. Neither Little nor Parks is of the show off type.

While golfers generally credited Little with his triumphs on their merits, rival pros were exceedingly ungracious toward the man who beat them to the world's most important golfing honor. To them and to more than one self-appointed critic, Parks was an "accidental" champion.

Anyway, Parks was a dark-horse winner, and the situation was the same in the British open which went to Alf Perry. The U. S. women's titles went to Mrs. Glenna Collette Vare, a former winner, and the British women's to Wanda Morgan.

Wilmer Allison's triumph in the U. S. national championship was a high spot of tennis. It was an unexpected victory as Fred Perry, the seemingly unbeatable Englishman, was entered. But Perry could not beat off an injury and so bowed to Allison in the semi-finals. Allison beat Sid Wood in the finals.

Helen Jacobs Titlist

Helen Hull Jacobs again won the national women's title. This victory was tempered by the fact that Mrs. Helen Willis Moody did not play in the tourney. Mrs. Moody met Miss Jacobs in an all-California final of the all-England at Wimbledon, and, in an amazing rally beat "the other Helen." Having done, Mrs. Moody elected to hang up her competitive racquet for the year. Perry, of course, won the men's title at Wimbledon.

America's Davis cup squad again took it on the chin. The U. S. forces captured only the one doubles matches but England swept the four singles jousts to retain the historic tennis cup.

Boxing has not been taken off the "serious" list of the sports hospital, but the crippled, battered pastime was given new hope of life by Joe Louis. It's a boxing adage that other divisions go as does the unlimited class, and this was partially if not wholly true during 1935.

The potent combination of Louis and Michael Strasser Jacobs brought boxing to its first million-dollar gate since the second Tunney-Dempsey affair—Louis and his artistic glove-pitching, and Jacobs and his shrewd match-making and promotion. The million-dollar gate was at the Louis-Max Baer affair which was both the best and worst bout of the year. Best because of crowd, glamor and to-do, and worst because of the miserable showing of the once feared and respected Baer.

Braddock Upsets Odds

Louis' ascendancy will go down as a vastly more important matter than the changing of possession of the heavyweight title. When Jimmy Braddock of New Jersey was matched with the "killer" Baer who held the title, almost ev-

PRO GRID GAME HIT BY ALLEN

By JOSEPH F. HEARST
United Press Staff Correspondent

LAWRENCE, Kan., Dec. 26. (UP)—Dr. Forrest C. "Phog" Allen, director of athletics at the University of Kansas, contemplates the rise of professional football with regret but resignation.

The game is here to stay, he believes, but he considers it a sad commentary upon education and athletics that a youth should spend four years at college fitting himself for a professional gridiron career. The athletic scholarship is one thing, he said, that is producing college football players who spend their time prepping for professional football.

"The boy with the bulging chest and nimble legs often receives financial rewards far beyond his earning power during his undergraduate days. He has money and he is told to say his thanks with touch-downs. He is provided for in every way, even with tutors to make the scholastic way smooth."

Dr. Allen said.

And then comes graduation.

Must Start At Bottom

"After the years of competitive eligibility are over he must crash the line of human endeavor in the business or professional world. He must of necessity start at a low salary as an apprentice, and without the spotlight and the headlines that have been his in school," Dr. Allen declared.

tempted one field goal and made one, the three points having been scored against Santa Clara in the last scheduled game of the season. Taldon Mantou, who booted the goal from the 25-yard line, is a senior and has a number of field goals to his credit, but this year his talent has not been used. Usually, this season, when the Frogs got close enough for a kick, they passed instead and netted six points instead of three. They have usually been so far ahead that a mere three points didn't mean much, or so far behind (as in the S.M.U. game) that three points wouldn't do any good.

Bierman Voted Leading Coach

Matty Bell Receives Second Place With Total Of 44 Votes

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. (UP)—Bernie Bierman, who took the remnants of Minnesota's 1934 national championship team and built another undefeated eleven this year, turned in the outstanding 1935 coaching job.

Of 185 sports editors who voted in the United Press annual poll, 66 today named Bierman as the best teacher of the year. Matty Bell of S. M. U., who was fired two years ago as Texas A. & M. coach, received second place with 44 votes.

Third place went to Charlie Grimm, manager of the Chicago Cubs, whose leadership helped the Cubs win the National league pennant. Grimm was given 36 votes, many of which were cast because of his development of young players.

Both Bierman and Bell—the former a veteran at Minnesota, the latter in his first year at S. M. U.—produced undefeated teams. Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler of Princeton, who produced the nation's other undefeated football eleven, didn't receive a single vote. His assistant, Line Coach Tad Wieman, got one.

Lost Players, Won Games

Bierman lost 17 letter men from his 1934 team and two of his star players during the season—Julius Alfonso, halfback, by scholastic ineligibility and Captain Glenn Seidel, quarterback, in the third game by injury.

Despite those losses, Minnesota won eight straight games to bring its consecutive winning streak to 17 and win the second Gopher national title.

Bell, whose team plays Stanford in the Rose Bowl game next year, made one of the

SELLING WEST TEXAS

Deserving of full cooperation from every city and county in the far-flung territory is the West Texas chamber of commerce's projected program for an imposing exhibit at the Texas Centennial central exposition in Dallas next year.

Even though West Texas got no major provision for a Centennial celebration, it behooves this great and rich section to prove its rank with a fitting display at the centennial exposition.

Thousands will be visiting Texas for the first time when they make a trip to the Dallas event next year; and there will be the ideal opportunity for West Texas to present in compelling fashion a picture for its resources and its attractions.

The WTCC is sponsoring a cooperative exhibit system whereby the cost will be reduced to each participating town and county. And through this system, a broad picture of West Texas and its advantages can be presented more advantageously than could a series of smaller exhibits.

But the WTCC program is mapped so as to present the Centennial visitors a continuing, related picture of what the section has to offer the prospective investor and homeseeker. And the exhibit can, with proper support, be made to depict West Texas as the rich and growing empire that it is.

This is an ambitious undertaking. It calls for real work; and it demands early attention. The Centennial year is at hand, and the opening of the celebration itself is only a matter of a few months.

WTCC leaders have laid the foundation for the kind of participation in the Centennial that should bring in real returns. It is up to every town and county, and every citizen, to help make it an exhibit truly representative of West Texas.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—"Considering the amount of Christmas copy syndicated," writes Margaret Kingsley of Georgia, "it seems strange that no New York columnist, at least to my knowledge, has touched on the story of the most famous of all authors of Christmas poems. You probably pass his grave a dozen times a day without realizing that the man who wrote 'Twas the Night Before Christmas is buried in Trinity churchyard."

That's right, Ma'am, but I have an alibi. The first column I ever wrote was a slushy thing about Trinity's "crumbling tombs," and it was so bad I've never had the heart to go back there.

Lingering over my tiffin in a Fifth avenue hotel, I was weighing the cruel whine of the wind that was curling around the street corners outside against the fragrance of mandarin and the whistle of doves over a Louisiana cornfield at dawn when the cool, pleasant voice that could only be Gloria Bristol, the beautician, insinuated itself into my kin.

Gloria tells me that, contrary to popular fancy, sports figures are the best-mannered customers in the world. Business men, she adds, are the most skeptical about results of treatments, and chorus boys are abominable because they think they know it all. Then there are the orchestra leaders who create the most confusion because the stoges and song-pluggers who surround them are always interfering with her work.

"And Broadway columnist, Miss Bristol?" one prompts. "I'll say this," she parried, "none of them has showed up around my place in search of beauty. Maybe it's because they're only in search of—beauties."

Which leaves just enough room to recite the story of two pieces of rope and an Irishman:

"Tis from county Cork I am," the young Blarney-faced one exclaimed, "and if I can't escape in two minutes after you tie me with these ropes, it's $5 I'll be giving you." This, incidentally was in a bar about 3 a. m. and the proprietor, shining glasses all alone, decided to accept.

Wherefore he, being an ex-sailor, bound the young fellow to the full extent of his knowledge of ropes, but in a twinkling the lad was free.

"Here," he grinned, "I'll show you how; you can have lots of fun with the boys."

"You mean to say you can show me how to escape after I'm tied hand and foot?" the enthusiastic barman inquired. "That I can, you mark Timothy O'Connor's word for it." Meanwhile the bartender found himself trussed tighter than a glove to Joe Louis' fist.

"How do I get out of this?" he demanded, straining mightily.

"Like this," the Irishman replied, shoving a fist under the nose of his helpless stogie, "one word out of you and I'll bash that sill nose all over your face."

Then the young man from county Cork emptied the contents of the cash register into his pockets and strolled debonairly out.

New York's tiniest restaurant, rapidly becoming famous for its steaks, will seat only four guests at a time.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND. By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—No matter how short the president wants to make the coming session of congress, one thing he cannot avoid is a knock-down drag-out fight on the question of a ship subsidy.

The big operators have given a virtual ultimatum to the shipping board that unless they have definite assurances either of mail contracts or a subsidy, they will transfer their tonnage to foreign flags. Undoubtedly this is partly bluff. However, it has the commerce department worried. It is no secret that American companies operating under foreign flags could cut expenses considerably.

One of the great mysteries of the shipping world is what became of the special shipping bill concocted by Secretary of Commerce Roper during the closing days of the last session.

The bill was whipped into shape when the shipping industry began lobbying for an independent shipping agency out from under the wing of the commerce department and uncontaminated by politics.

This got Dan Roper definitely nervous. The shipping board is a grand pie-counter for political patronage. Few people on the board do any appreciable amount of work. And political patronage is dear to the heart of Dan Roper.

So three Roper henchmen hurriedly and secretly drew up a new shipping bill. They were Assistant Secretary J. M. Johnson who has had no experience with shipping; Chester McCall, assistant to Roper, who also has had no experience with shipping; and "Admiral" J. C. Peacock, whose friendship with Roper made him chairman of the shipping board and who also has had no experience with shipping.

What is in the bill nobody knows. Congress closed before the bill could see the light of day. But latest word is that Roper is ready to spring it on the shipping world in January, and if so, it will cause a three ring circus among the congressional ship subsidy bill, the Roper bill, and the independent bureau bill advocated by many shipping companies.

Maine Pig Woman: Henry Wallace is offering a reward to anyone who can find the "pig woman of Maine."

He has wired the AAA administrator of Maine. He has put special AAA scouts on the trail. He has written a letter to John W. Owens, of the Burlington Sun, who wrote a magazine article reporting the existence of the pig woman.

What Owens reported was that a poor widow in the backwoods of Maine had been fined $18 by AAA officials because she slaughtered two pigs for her own use.

Secretary Wallace says that his enemies, if they wanted a good story, should have picked some other state. Maine, he says, raises almost no hogs, and the signers of corn-hog contracts are less than a dozen.

No one of those signers is a woman and no one has been assessed a penalty. However, Henry says his offer of a reward still stands.

U. S. Violates SEC: The securities exchange commission is chuckling secretly over a little joke it has on the treasury.

Henry Morgenthau's boys have been advertising their baby bond issue with phraseology which would never get by the SEC. If a private company issues similar financial advertising the SEC would crack down on it in short order.

The SEC, however, has no jurisdiction over federal bonds, nor over state and municipal issues.

What the treasury is doing is getting out a prospectus. On the cover is a full-bodied, lithograph lady, holding in one hand an American flag, in the other a baby bond. She also offers this advice:

"Add One Third to Your Investment in Ten Years."

In another part of the prospectus appear these alluring words: "$25 United States Savings Bonds at $18.75," "$1,000 United States Savings Bonds at $750, etc."

Such phrases are in violation of all SEC rules. They give to the average small investor the idea he is getting a wonderful bargain. In strict truth he is not getting a bargain, merely a 29 per cent compounded interest.

One New York banking firm is understood to have complained to the SEC that not only was the government using questionable advertising but also was guilty of a mistake in arithmetic.

First literature promised the buyer 8 per cent. This was hastily recalled when it was discovered that the correct interest should have been 2 1/2 per cent.

New "Little Robby": There is a new "Little Robby" in the new deal.

Confidential secretary to General Hugh Johnson and guardian of his inner office when the ex-loyalist was boss of the Blue Eagle was Miss Frances Robinson, known far and wide as "Little Robby."

NEVER MIND THE LADY by David Garth

Chapter Seven: TERRY BEGINS. Willett went on. 'Dad's sitting up the river with a 45 in one hand and a vital of quinine in the other. That stuff goes aboard the "Parajabo" tonight.'

"So long," Willett said, holding out his hand. "Willett?" he began. "He's gone," she told him, sinking into a chair. "You know, darling, the lamp of reason kind of back-fired on you, didn't it? Why?"

"Why?" Fox didn't care to tell her the reason. Knowledge like that with Allaire West might be fatal. He recognized a merciless strain of quick-silver in this girl who had learned to ask favors from nobody.

The lamp of reason—he'd never lost it. He only knew that the one thing in the world she recognized was action, quick, spontaneous action.

And sincerity was a keynote to George Fox's character. He knew perfectly well he was falling in love with her.

"I could chase after him," he began. "Don't," she advised briefly. "I don't think he liked the idea of having you tag along."

Her eyes were kind, however. He was nice, he had style and something the rest of the crowd didn't have. A certain boyish earnestness, perhaps. But attacks don't risk prowling around docks.

"There's LaMarr dancing with Nell," he said suddenly. "I despise LaMarr; he's followed us from Buenos Aires like a scavenging shark in the wake of a ship. Do go forth to war, George, and unhorse your varlet."

He hesitated a moment. There was yet time for him to dash out into the darkness like a new edition of Svengal at a fifty-cent matinee. Then he took off his coat and slung it into the chair.

Allaire watched him as he went out on the floor to separate her mother from the polished, self-styled globe-trotter, LaMarr. (Copyright, 1935, by David Garth)

Cupid Popular As Saint Nick This Yule Season

Many Couples Wed During The Holidays

Prosperity Return Keeps Cupid As Busy As Santa Claus

The Christmas of 1935 has been almost as popular with Cupid as with Saint Nick. Apparently with leap year only a week off, the girls who have had to do the proposing themselves intend to make the world aware of the fact. The Rev. C. A. Bickley, pastor of the First Methodist church, and popularly known as the "marring preacher" missed 6 couples who called at his house to be married Monday and Tuesday while he was in Lubbock. Christmas morning he married two.

Eight weddings that took place Christmas eve or Christmas day have been reported. One of the weddings in which local people are interested that did not take place in Big Spring was that of Felton Smith to Miss Bonnie Jean Manley of Palestine. The ceremony occurred Christmas eve in the bride's home. Mrs. Smith is well known here, from having visited her aunt, Mrs. D. G. Cagle last summer while the Cages were located here in charge of the construction of the overpass west of town.

Since Mrs. Felton Smith, Sr., was unable to attend, details of the wedding will be reported later.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alf Manley of Palestine where she was born and reared. The groom was born in Macon, Ga., and has lived here for the past 12 years. He was graduated from the local high school in 1933. He is manager of the Big Spring branch of the Banner Ice Cream company.

Speck Yates Wed To Dorothy Reedy

Following their honeymoon trip the Smiths will return to Big Spring to live.

Radford ("Speck") Yates and Dorothy Lee Reedy were the first couple to be married in Big Spring on Christmas day. They were married 12:05 at the First Methodist parsonage by the Rev. C. A. Bickley, with the ring ceremony. Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Miller. Mrs. Miller is a sister of the groom.

Also present in the wedding party were two other sisters of the groom, Miss Fay Yates and Mrs. E. G. Reimsmidt of St. Louis, Mo. Idelle Moore, and Joe Hendricks.

The bride wore a dress of Copenhagen blue with navy and gold accessories.

After the ceremony the party went to the home of the bride's parents for a Christmas party. A decorated tree holding gifts awaited them.

Mrs. Yates is the daughter of Mrs. J. E. Payne. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Yates. Both young people were graduated from the Big Spring high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Yates are living at 302 W. Sixth street.

Miss Virginia Cushing Married Christmas Eve To F. D. Holmes

Wedding Reception Held In Home of Bride's Parents After Ceremony; Couple To Live In Slaton

Society's interest here Tuesday centered on the marriage at 2:30 in the afternoon of Miss Virginia Cushing and Franklin DeKalb Holmes of Slaton.

Dr. D. F. McConnell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church was officiating clergyman for the ring service held in his home in Washington place.

Attending the bride was her sister, Mrs. Constance McEntire. The groom's attendant was L. J. Mathews.

Mrs. Holmes was attired in a fur-trimmed traveling suit of taupe with which she wore dark brown accessories. Her corsage was of violets. For something old she carried a white lace handkerchief that once belonged to her paternal great grandmother.

Mrs. McEntire wore black and white.

After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Cushing, for a reception at which relatives and a few intimate friends of the bride and groom gathered to felicitate the young couple.

In the dining room on a table spread with lace over green, the lovely wedding cake was the centerpiece. It was baked and presented to the bride by a friend of her mother's, Mrs. H. G. Whitney. On it stood a miniature bride and groom. Around it was wreathed ivy. Tall green tapers lighted the room.

After the reception the couple left for Abilene to spend Christmas day with the groom's family. From there they went to California on their wedding trip. They plan to attend the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena.

They will be at home after Jan. 3 at Slaton.

Autos were stalled and some roads blocked in Northern Illinois, where drifts ranging up to four feet were reported. Crews labored to clear highways. Chicago bus and street car companies pressed sweepers into service.

Trading Brisk, Markets Firm

Markets held fairly steady on spirited trading in stocks Thursday and despite most issues easing off a bit, there was a strong undertone.

The cotton situation was uneasy since traders are fearful of what congress might do when it convenes again next Friday. However, with the bonus conceded to be a hot issue and the neutrality talk even more engrossing, and the possibility that the Townsend plan may break into play, congress may not find time to play with cotton.

Wheat was up 2 cents on the close. Douglas aircraft closed out $5.50 up and was high at 54 1/2. The government's anticipated letting of contracts for fighting planes excited the aircraft market.

Volumes for the day on the stock market, according to H. O. Bedford exchange, was 2,340,000 shares.

LIFE IN 1935

7. Names In Marriage, Divorce News

By HERBERT YAIRAES Associated Press Staff Writer

The year's drama brought many a heart throb, many an ache, as the story of marriage and divorce in high places unfolded.

John Smith saw some of his real-life heroes and heroines join hands till death do us part, watched others take separate paths.

Heiress Barbara Hutton provided double excitement. First she divorced her prince, Alexis Mdivani—killed a few months later in an automobile accident; then, almost immediately and still in Reno, she acquired another title by marrying Count von Haugwitz-Reventlow.

'Richest Girl' Marries

Heiress Doris Duke, "richest girl," became the bride of James R. Cromwell, business man, writer, former husband of Delphine Dodge, in a ceremony almost provokingly unostentatious.

Another quiet wedding united Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall and John Boettiger.

Hollywood contributed plenty of throbs for those who take their romance vicariously. The first 42 month saw 41 marriages and 42 new break-ups—including divorces—among film notables, as compared with 65 marriages and 54 break-ups during the whole of 1934.

Harlow Divorced

Jean Harlow won a decree from Cameron Hal Rossen, her third husband, Virginia Cherrill divorced Cary Grant, Clara Grant Ray divorced Charles Ray, Elissa Landi divorced John Cecil Lawrence, Clark Gable and Ria Langham admitted parting.

Other filmland "casualties": Kay Francis and Kenneth McKenna, Colleen Moore and Al Scott, Adrienne Ames and Bruce Cabot, Claudette Colbert and Norman Foster, Joan Blondell and George Barnes, Barbara Stanwyck and Frank Fay.

Barrymore Episode

Perhaps cinema's biggest real-life thrill for John Smith came in connection with the Dolores Costello-John Barrymore parting. As the great lover sped for Hollywood, shortly before Miss Costello won her divorce, a youthful New York protegee, Elaine Barrie, his guest on a cruise, chased him across half the continent, gave the country a two-day chukka, failed to find her speeding Romeo.

Hollywood happy endings included Lois Moran and Col. Clarence M. Young, Songstress Marion Talley and Voice Teacher Adolph Eckstrom, Producer Max Reinhardt and Actress Helene Thimig, Esther Ralston and W. W. Morgan, Errol Flynn and Lili Damita, Lyda Rollier and Bud Ernst, Raul Roulien and Conchita Montenegro, Producer Winfield Sheehan and Marie Jertiza, Helen Vinton and Raquelmeer Fred Perry, Sylvia Sydney and Publisher Bennett Cerf, Norman Foster and Sally Blaine—and, climaxing an admittedly arduous wooing, Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone.

Joe Louis' Gesture

Max Baer and Joe Louis, who squared off in the year's biggest boxing match, made quite a splash with wedding rings, too. Playboy Baer sprang a surprise by marrying quiet, pious Mary Ellen Sullivan in Washington, Louis, crown prince of boxing, staged a superb gesture by marrying Marva Trotter, toast of Chicago Harlem, just before he entered the ring to strike down Baer.

Washington offered the year's outstanding November-June romance—the marriage of Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, 71, and Nurse Doris I. Cross, 28. Said the senator: "Every year I am getting younger, and there's nothing I can do about it."

Mrs. Eugene Vidal, wife of the chief of the bureau of air commerce, won a Reno divorce after 12 years of marriage, three months later married Hugh R. A. chinelo, wealthy Washington investment broker.

Miss Josephine Winslow Is Married By Beautiful Candlelight Ceremony

Miss Josephine Winslow was married to John K. Morgan of Pawhuska, Okla., in the prettiest wedding of the Christmas season, Christmas evening at St. Mary's Episcopal church.

Christmas decorations of evergreens outlined the Gothic windows behind the altar. Blue lights in the evergreens and on the Christmas tree that flanked the altar and the tall white altar candles furnished a soft and lovely light for the reading of the rites.

The church choir sang "Faithful and True," the words of Mendelssohn's wedding song, as the wedding party approached to meet the Rev. Walter Henckel who awaited them.

The bride came in on the arm of her father. Preceding her was her bridesmaid, Miss Mildred Burslow. The groom's attendant was a brother of the bride, Arthur Winslow.

Mrs. Morgan was dressed in a becoming frock of metallic gray crepe with a gray hat and shoes. Her bridal bouquet was of pink rosebuds.

Miss Burslow was dressed in aquamarine. Her accessories were in brown, and her bouquet, pink carnations.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Winslow, is well known here, having been born and reared in Big Spring. She was graduated from the Brackenridge high school in San Antonio. She attended Texas Tech for two years, majoring in music. She also studied violin under Mrs. Nigl of San Antonio during her two years' residence there.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Morgan of Dallas. He received his public school education in Dallas and attended a junior college in San Antonio where he met his future wife and the romance began.

He is connected with the Dickson-Goodman Furniture company in Pawhuska, in which town he and his bride will make their home following a honeymoon trip in San Antonio and Dallas.

After the ceremony the wedding party, members of the family and close friends of the bride, enjoyed an informal wedding supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Winslow.

England May Move Fleet

Withdrawal From Mediterranean Is Seen As A 'Friendly Gesture'

(Copyright, 1935 By United Press)

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Great Britain, confident of its strength, is contemplating the possibility of withdrawing part of its fleet from the Mediterranean, it was learned today.

Consideration of this move was made possible by an agreement between the French and British army and navy general staffs and promise of cooperation, in event of an attack by Italy, from Egypt, Greece, Yugoslavia, Roumania, Spain and Turkey.

Such withdrawal now would be a possession of strength and confidence, not a confession of weakness. At the same time it was calculated to be welcome in Italy as a friendly gesture, relieving tension caused by the appointment of Anthony Eden as foreign secretary. It would offset, too, some of the alarm felt in Italy at the British request for promises of aid from the Mediterranean powers.

War talk naturally continues. It is frank, but the prevailing opinion is that a war with Italy will be avoided. This despite the general admission that Italian-British tension is again acute.

Executives of big oil concerns told the United Press that the prospect of an oil embargo against Italy is now but nominal. They believe Eden intends to persevere in enforcement of the economic financial penalties already being executed against Italy.

Realizing that the public is against war and at the same time is eager to punish Italy for its aggression, the government intends to pursue a strong league penalty policy without intensifying it to the point at which Premier Mussolini might take "mad dog" military or naval action against British interests.
