

THE SADDLE TRAMPS PRESENT
THE SPICY, ROMANCEFUL ANTICS OF REDRAIDY
THE MASKED MENACE

THOUGHT FOR TODAY:
THE COW IS A FINK!

IT'S NO LONGER POSSIBLE TO THINK OF OUR VIRILE, STOUT-HEARTED FRIENDS FROM AGGIELAND AS THE DASHING CADET-HEROES THEY ONCE WERE. THEIR CAMPUS IS NOW CURSED (SO THEY THINK) WITH SHAPELY FEMININE FORMS WHICH DESTROY THEIR HAIRY IMAGE. BEWARE RAIDY! YOU'RE ABOUT TO BE WOODED BY THE TEXAS MAGGIES!

Perfect Game Weather Seen

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicted the first break for the rain soaked Red Raiders as they meet the surprising Texas A&M Aggies today at 7:30 p.m. in Jones Stadium.

Slight winds of 15 miles per hour and temperatures in the low 70s are expected to give ideal game conditions. The Jones Stadium turf is dry for the first time since the torrential downpour in the Tech-Kansas game two weeks ago.

Rain has hampered the Red Raiders in their first two games of the season, and will have their first chance on a dry field against the Aggies. The Raiders will also be out to rebound from the 33-7 drubbing handed them by the University of Texas Longhorns last week.

The Aggies will be entering the game as a touchdown underdog, but they hold a surprising 14-10 upset over Georgia Tech last week. The game will be the first SWC game for them.

Mrs. Mildred Wright, director of ticket sales at Tech, predicts a full house of 45,000 to be on hand if the weather is not a factor. Some 38,000 tickets have already been sold.

The Red Raider band will also get a chance to march on a dry field after two weeks of undesirable conditions. The Texas A&M band will not be on hand for the halftime performance.

The band will open with "This Could Be the Start of Something Big" and will progress with marching variations into "Elmer's Tune."

Twirlers Chris Adrean, Juanna

Jo Moore, Judy Stewart, Judy Banner, Dyanne Curry, Diane King, Sandi Parmer, and Donna Snyder will be featured as the band plays "The Alley Cat Song."

After another marching performance of the band to the tune of "Jubilasion T. Cornpone," feature twirlers Vicky Keene, Claud-ean Cunningham, and Terry Stephens will perform to the band's presentation of "Down Town."

The flutes and piccolos will be featured in the band's presentation of the "Swinging Shepherd Blues" before the band ends with its finale of "More."

A card section will be used for the first time this year, and will be under the direction of Ron Hertel. The colorful section will be in section 120, rows 18 through 42, and students in this section will be asked to help with the display.

The card section will present such things as a Red Raider riding through a double T, the number 40 with the engineers slide rule, and Hello A&M with an Aggie boot on the side.

The Saddle Tramps will throw 750 'Red Raider' balls in the crowd before the game. The fiery red miniature footballs have "Tech Beat A&M" written on them, and will be souvenirs to those that catch one.

Cheerleaders Ziggy Nicholson, Jan Fauske, Butch Moses, Connie Curry, Dick Ostott, and Patty Perkins will keep the game at a high pitch with their assorted yells and gymnastics.

Charcoal Cody again will lead the Red Raiders on the field with Tech's own Red Raider, Doug "Dink" Wilson.

Queen Deadline Set

Steven Andrews, queen's election chairman for the 1965 Homecoming Queen, has announced that the deadline for this year's queen is Oct. 15.

All entries, according to Andrews, must be submitted to the Ex-Student Office in the Tech Union.

Any recognized student organization is eligible to sponsor a candidate but all must comply with the following regulations:

- Each candidate must be sponsored by a recognized student organization. Candidates need not be a member of the sponsoring organization.
- Each candidate must be a full-time single female junior or senior student.

- Each candidate must meet the basic college requirements in scholarship for representation.

- Candidates must be able to attend all homecoming activities and official functions.

- A wallet-sized, front face photograph of each candidate must be enclosed with the entry blank. Photographs will not be returned.

- Candidates cannot be sponsored by more than one organization.

Primary elections for this year's Homecoming Queen will be Oct. 20 with the run-off scheduled for Oct. 22.

Tech Senior Students Given Court Positions

Roland Anderson, president of the Tech Student Association, has named seven Techsians to the student supreme court for 1965-66.

Bob Fillpot, a senior Engineering student from Childress, was named chief justice. Associate justices were selected from each of the six schools in the College. These are:

Engineering—Collier Perry, senior from Olco, Tenn;

Business Administration—Billy Tapp, Lubbock senior;

Arts and Sciences—Neal Young, Plainview senior;

Agriculture—Ronald Cantrell, senior from Twitty;

Home Economics—Jo Hansen, Fort Worth senior.

Named from the Graduate School was Tommy Craddick, Midland.

The new court will be presented to the Student Senate at their regular meeting Tuesday night.

Anderson said the court makeup was a product of "long and deliberate thought."

Scott Allen, Student Association vice-president, said the court has already been asked for advisory opinions on two questions.

The court has been asked to rule on whether or not cheerleaders can raise their grades to acceptable levels during the summer terms. The Student Association constitution covers only the long terms.

The other question involves graduate representation in student government.

Allen said the opinions would probably be known by Tuesday's meeting.

John Denver Finds Fame In LA

By GEORGE CHAFFEE
Staff Writer

John Denver of the Mitchell Trio settled down on the couch of a Lubbock apartment and began recalling the past and reflecting on the future.

"I can't begin to tell you how good it is to be back here in Lubbock," he said. "I've done as much visiting with old friends as I have had time, but I wish I could have at least a month to sit down and talk about old times."

John attended Tech for two and one-half years before he decided to give up studying for a career in entertainment.

After deciding to leave, John sang as much as he could, saving his money for the trip to Los Angeles.

"My car was loaded from the floorboard to the backs of the seats." I only had $125 in my pockets, but I knew a few people who had promised me a job and a place to stay until I could start off on my own."

After gaining local attention by singing in various night clubs,

John finally got his chance for national fame.

"Mike Kirkland, of the Brother's Four, recommended me to the trio after Chad Mitchell left. I never dreamed that I would get this kind of a break."

John did get his break and began work with the trio, learning their songs and teaching them some of his.

MITCHELL TRIO—Fine Arts Editor Margaret Eastman discusses Friday night's performance of the group with members John Denver, Mike Kobulk and Joe Frazier. Denver is a former Tech student.

'Informal' Trio Success

By MARGARET EASTMAN
Fine Arts Editor

The Mitchell Trio—three average looking guys you thought you saw at last Saturday night's party—use an immediate feeling of unprofessionalism to pleasantly disarm an "I paid-they sing-I listen-I applaud-I leave" attitude. Three personalities subtly unleashed laughter, tears and satisfaction that ended any unnatural formality and left only the ring of satisfied applause.

In an interview with the Daily Treador, trio member Joe Frazier explained why he appeared in Friday night's performance with a cast on his arm:

"... I was going west and a cab driver was going east and wanted to make a turn and he didn't see me. He turned into my lane and hit me. My friend in the back had a compound fracture. I was very lucky."

When asked to tell some unusual experiences he had had, Frazier said, "Every night is an unusual experience."

When asked about funny experiences, he said:

"I was slugged by a John Birch Society member. They don't care for us at all because of what we have to say socially. We are concerned about other people and they're concerned only about themselves."

When asked if he could be quoted on the latter, Frazier answered, "Please do. We're quite outspoken, as you can see by our songs."

SPEARS WILL RUN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—State Sen. Franklin Spears of San Antonio, a supporter of Gov. John Connally, said Friday he would run for state attorney general next year.

Fine Arts Reminders

"The Esquires" will play for the after-game dance at 9:30-12 p.m. today.

The event is the second in a series of after-game dances Tech Union Dance Committee is offering to students this semester.

There is no admission charge for the dance, which will be in the Union Ballroom.

Tickets for the Harkness Ballet are available in Tech Union Program Office. Students must show an ID to obtain tickets without charge.

John Denver Finds Fame In LA

By GEORGE CHAFFEE
Staff Writer

John Denver of the Mitchell Trio settled down on the couch of a Lubbock apartment and began recalling the past and reflecting on the future.

"I can't begin to tell you how good it is to be back here in Lubbock," he said. "I've done as much visiting with old friends as I have had time, but I wish I could have at least a month to sit down and talk about old times."

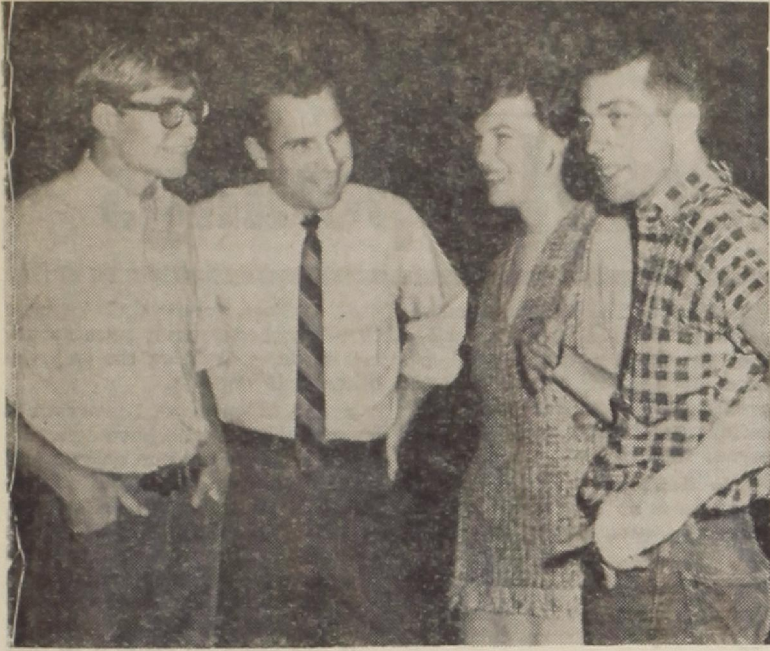

John attended Tech for two and one-half years before he decided to give up studying for a career in entertainment.

After deciding to leave, John sang as much as he could, saving his money for the trip to Los Angeles. John finally got his chance for national fame.

"My car was loaded from the floorboard to the backs of the seats." I only had $125 in my pockets, but I knew a few people who had promised me a job and a place to stay until I could start off on my own.

After gaining local attention by singing in various night clubs, Mike Kirkland, of the Brother's Four, recommended me to the trio after Chad Mitchell left. I never dreamed that I would get this kind of a break. John did get his break and began work with the trio, learning their songs and teaching them some of his.

'Informal' Trio Success

By MARGARET EASTMAN
Fine Arts Editor

The Mitchell Trio—three average looking guys you thought you saw at last Saturday night's party—use an immediate feeling of unprofessionalism to pleasantly disarm an "I paid-they sing-I listen-I applaud-I leave" attitude. Three personalities subtly unleashed laughter, tears and satisfaction on that ended any unnatural formality and left only the ring of satisfied applause.

In an interview with the Daily Toreador, trio member Joe Frazier explained why he appeared in Friday night's performance with a cast on his arm:

"... I was going west and a cab driver was going east and wanted to make a turn and he didn't see me. He turned into my lane and hit me. My friend in the back had a compound fracture. I was very lucky."

When asked to tell some unusual experiences he had had, Frazier said, "Every night is an unusual experience."

When asked about funny experiences, he said:

"I was slugged by a John Birch Society member. They don't care for us at all because of what we have to say socially. We are concerned about other people and they're concerned only about themselves."

When asked if he could be quoted on the latter, Frazier answered, "Please do. We're quite outspoken, as you can see by our songs."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the second part of a story tracing the history of Texas Tech up to 1923. The first part of the series Friday followed the formation of the school through its approval by the Texas Senate. The author of the series is Wayne James, executive secretary of the Ex-Students' Association.

By WAYNE JAMES
Part II—The Work Ahead

The proposed bill provided for $150,000 to become available on Sept. 1, 1923, for the purchase of land site and $500,000 for the construction of buildings, equipment, etc. An additional $350,000 was to be provided the following year. It also provided for a separate Board of Directors.

On Feb. 6, 1923, the bill creating Texas Technological College was considered and passed by the Texas Legislature.

West Texans were happy to hear that the legislature had again approved establishment of a new College for West Texas. However, they couldn't forget that only two years before the governor had vetoed a similar bill.

Leaders of the movement for the college immediately began a campaign to flood the governor with telegrams, telephone calls and personal visits urging him to approve the bill. It was estimated that during the few days following the passage of the bill, that more than 5,000 messages were received in the governor's office.

On February 10, a dream finally came true. Gov. Neff signed the bill creating the new College. After being an explosive issue in three State Democratic Conventions and three state legislatures, the people of West Texas at last had "their" college.

A few days later Gov. Neff sent to the Senate for its confirmation, the names of the following as members of the Board of Directors of the new Institution. For the six-year term: Former Gov. W. P. Hobby, Beaumont; John W. Carpenter, Dallas; and C. W. Meadows, Waco.

For the four-year term: Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth; R. A. Underwood, Plainview; and Mrs. Charles de Groff, El Paso.

For the two-year term: Clifford B. Jones, Spur; J. E. Nunn, Amarillo; and Mrs. F. N. Drane, Corsicana.

It was apparent that in making the appointments, that Governor Neff thought the new college should be a state-wide institution and not a regional college for West Texas.

First Meeting

Most of the towns in West Texas had representatives marching in the parade. A number of people from Lubbock carried signs with six-inch-tall letters that read, "Lubbock Has Everything But The College, Where Else Could They Put It?" "Think Of Something We Don't Have or Won't Have Soon," and "Put Tech Where Texas Is."

The first business before the Board was the election of a chairman and a secretary. Amon G. Carter was elected chairman and C. W. Meadows, secretary.

Sweetwater went "all out" to arrange a jubilee for all West Texas to attend. And thousands from throughout that section of the state traveled to Sweetwater for the festivities. It has been estimated that more than 10,000 persons gathered for the event.

Following the Sweetwater celebration, the West Texas townsmen went home to organize their towns and to file an application with the locating board before April 20 deadline.

The Locating Board, as set up by the bill, was to consist of the chairman of the State Board of Control, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, the president of the University of Texas, the president of the College of Industrial Arts of Texas, and the president of Texas Agriculture and Mechanical College.

More than 30 towns filed applications for the location of the College—35 to be exact. The best records available indicated that the following towns offered sites: Boerne, Lampasas, Brady, Manard, Brownwood, Coleman, Stanton, Midland, Big Spring, Cisco, Clyde, Abilene, Ballinger, Paint Rock, Miles, Seymour, Munday, Haskell, Stamford, Sweetwater, Snyder, Post, Wilson, Colorado City, Lubbock, Crosbyton, Spur, Plainview, Floydada, Tulia, Amarillo, Claude, Quanah, Memphis and Vernon.

Filed Applications

Someone summarized the feelings of many when they said, "Locate the college wherever you will, but you cannot locate it outside my heart." This feeling of good sportsmanship was to play an important role in the development of the new college.

In the summer the Locating Board visited all of the towns. It was a long and tiring trip for the members of the board. None of them had asked to serve but had been forced to serve by an act of the legislature. They received nothing but their expenses from the State for their efforts. Even the amount for their expense was at a four per cent discount due to the fact that this is what the state warrants were being cashed for at the time.

Following their visits to the last town, the Locating Board took a train to Fort Worth. While the nation was still mourning the unexpected death of President Warren G. Harding, the Board met in Fort Worth to select the site for the new college.

Pledge Signed

While the Locating Board was meeting, representatives of 11 of the cities signed a pledge supporting the college, regardless of where it might be located.

On Wednesday, August 8, after three hours deliberation, it was announced that Lubbock had unanimously been chosen.

Immediately the news was dispatched to Lubbock. It was reported that residents of Lubbock were afraid to "carry on" too much in fear that they had heard the news incorrectly. But once the news was verified, the celebrating went on until late in the night. The day of August 8, 1923, would always be remembered in the pages of history of the sleepy little county seat of Lubbock County.

Of course, there were those that made all sorts of threats and acquisitions. Different newspaper editorials pointed out that the new college could not possibly serve the purposes for which it was created when placed so far remote from the population of Texas.

On Friday, August 10, newspapers throughout Texas carried headline saying that Lubbock invites All Texas August 23 to a huge celebration of the good fortune of the city.

Big Celebration

The articles pointed out that the celebration would consist of demonstrations, programs, band concerts, speaking, hand shaking and old fashioned barbecue.

Each community and town in Lubbock County was to have a part in furnishing the food for the great table, more than a mile in length.

The celebration, which was designated to be a one day affair, began with speeches at 10 a.m. Recent rains had served to cool the atmosphere and make the weather ideal for the celebration.

Gov. Neff was on hand and reminded the West Texans of the importance of the institution and recommended that the best man in all the country should be selected to be the first president of Texas Technological College.

The governor, who had once vetoed a bill creating the College said, according to the Dallas News, "I'm for this Institution because I want the red-faced boys of Texas cared for as well as the white-faced cattle. I am opposed to a people hearing the squeal of a pig above the cry of a child."

Aggies Challenge Red Raiders

By MIKE LUTZ
Sports Editor

With prospects bright for the first dry field of the season and Coach J. T. King speaking in more encouraging terms, the Red Raiders gather in Jones Stadium at 7:30 tonight hoping to turn back anything the Texas Aggies have to offer.

And the task isn't likely to be an easy one. The Aggies picked by most pre-season polls as the SWC doormat, are riding the crest of a come-from-behind victory over Georgia Tech last week, 14-10, after dropping their opener to LSU, 10-0.

The U.S. Weather Bureau Friday night said fair skies and no rain should prevail throughout the evening with temperatures in the 60s.

Raiders Ready

With one eye on the skies and the other on his team, King said the Raiders were looking better "spirit-wise."

"Things looked up pretty good today (Friday)," King said. "Our spirit appears real good. It looks like we might have a real good game."

The Raiders have been more injury-prone than tonight's invaders and as a result, three starters will be hobbled for the fracas.

Guard Doug Young will miss the game because of injuries suffered during last week's 33-7 loss to the University of Texas.

James Cecil, two-year letterman senior, will be on the sidelines with an ankle injury as will Mickey Merritt, who had been tabbed to fill the defensive guard position for Young.

Merritt Might Play

"If Merritt continues to improve as he has today (Friday), we may use him," said King. "Otherwise it'll be Gene Darr at defensive guard."

What the Raiders fear most in their current opponent is a sophomore quarterback, who personally directed the Aggies from a 10-point deficit to two fourth quarter touchdowns and the victory over Georgia Tech last Saturday.

"We've got to stop (Harry) Ledbetter on that option series," King said. "He's not real fast, but he proved very effective against Georgia Tech last week. He runs hard."

Former Teammate

Also causing concern among followers is a former high school teammate of Donny Anderson, who's been catching almost everything tossed his way this season.

His name is Dude McLean and his credentials are 12 pass completions in 18 aeriels attempted.

McLean, 191, will be joined at end by John Poss, 196, a junior squadman from Brownsville. Probable starting tackles will be Robert Barnett, 196, and Jack Pyburn, 225; guards, Don Koehn, 206, and Gary Kovar, 202 and center, Jim Singleton, 191.

Aggie Starters

Joining Ledbetter in the backfield will be Bill Sallee, wingback, Dan Westerfield, scatback and Dan Schneider, fullback.

The Raiders will go with the same backfield foursome that opened against the Longhorns. That's Donny Anderson and Johnny Agan at halves, Andy Reed at fullback and Tom Wilson at quarterback.

The Raider trenchmen will include: Jeff White, 188, and Jerry Shipley, 190, at ends; John Porter, 224, and Stanley Edwards, 216 at tackles; Phil Tucker, 218, and Chester Howard, 219, guards and Jerry Turner, 196, center.

"I expect a very close contest," King said. "The team that extends itself the most and makes it breaks will win the game."

Irish Gun For Win Over 'Cats

Rebound. That will be the order of the day from a half-dozen college football teams whose prestige and pride were tarnished by upsets last week.

Heading the list is Notre Dame, knocked out of the top national ranking by Purdue. Ohio State is included, along with Syracuse, Penn State, Minnesota and Florida.

The Irish, currently rated No. 8 nationally, face another Big Ten team this week when they entertain Northwestern.

Ohio State stunned by North Carolina in what should have been almost a breather, is at Washington. Syracuse tries again after being belted by Miami of Florida, this time at Maryland. Penn State, another Eastern big shot, is at home to UCLA. Michigan topped the Nittany Lions last Saturday.

76ers, Hawks Square Off In Coliseum Today

Two of pro basketball's top powerhouses, along with some of the prime talent in the National Basketball Association, will meet today when the Philadelphia 76ers and St. Louis Hawks collide in a pre-season NBA game at Municipal Coliseum at 3 p.m.

GRANT TO PITCH

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP)—Jim Grant, the American League's top winner with 21 victories, will pitch the first game of the World Series for the Minnesota Twins, but Manager Sam Mele is not positive whom he will pitch in the second game.

Mele confirmed Friday that Grant will open the series for the Twins in the first game here Wednesday.

The second game Thursday, it will be 18-game winner Jim Kaat or Camilo Pascual, who goes after his 10th triumph Saturday after missing six weeks with muscle surgery.

"Right now," Mele said. "It looks like Kaat for the second game but it could be Pascual. The third game next Saturday, it could be any one of the three, depending on how Grant feels."

Feature attraction will be the game's leading scorer for the past six seasons, Wilt Chamberlain. Called the "Big Dipper", Chamberlain has scored 18,837 points in 464 games over a six-year career.

Fans will see plenty of Chamberlain too, since the super star usually plays the full 48 minutes of every game. His scoring average is 40.6 per game, ranking him as the top scorer among active NBA players.

The game will also feature three of the top five scorers among the NBA's active players. The Hawks' player-coach Richie Guerin has tallied 12,236 points in nine years and Cliff Hagan has 12,433 markers for his nine seasons. They rank fifth and fourth in that order.

Last year, the Hawks and 76ers split in five meetings and over the years the Hawks have won 51 and lost 40 against the 76ers who were based in Syracuse until two years ago.

Oddly enough, the Hawks hold a 30-9 record in St. Louis; the 76ers are 11-24 in Syracuse and Philadelphia and the Hawks are 10-7 over them on neutral courts.

Both clubs are loaded with top names with the Hawks having seven players who average 10 points or better last year—Zelmo Beaty, Len Wilkens, Cliff Hagan, Bill Bridges, Richie Guerin, Charley Vaughn and John Tresvant.

Philadelphia's potent crew averaged 112.5 points per game last year with Chamberlain's 34.7 leading the attack. Hal Greer had a 20.2 mark; Lucious Jackson hit a 14.8 norm; Chet Walker was hitting at a 13.2 pace; Dave Gambee had a 12.6 mark and John Kerr was just a shade under the 10 per game mark.

From training camp reports, this is the best Hawks club in seven years, even without the retired Bob Pettit, who still is with the club as an advisory coach.

Just how good Guerin's young chargers are might be proven after today's battle.

Texas To Meet Indiana

The football spotlight falls on Texas this weekend as the nation's top-ranking and No. 2 teams do battle in the Lone Star State.

The top-ranked team, of course, is the Southwest Conference's own University of Texas. The Longhorns rose to the top of the list after a 33-7 hammering last week of Texas Tech.

Texas takes on Indiana in Austin and the oddsmakers give the Longhorns nod as a 21-point favorite.

Another Hoosier team, Purdue, No. 2-ranked, invades Texas to meet SMU. The Methodists are still stunned by their 42-0 stomping last week at the hands of Illinois, a fairly low-rated team in the Big Ten.

Purdue, expected to take the Big Ten crown, is a 14½ point favorite over SMU.

Conference championship play starts for three more teams Saturday.

Arkansas, fourth-ranked and potent as ever, meets Texas Christian in Little Rock. TCU hasn't beaten the Razorbacks in six years and hasn't won in Arkansas since 1955. The odds place TCU as a 13-point underdog.

The other conference game puts Texas Tech, in its second SWC outing, against Texas A&M, which is looking for its third conference win in three years. The odds say the Aggies will have to wait. Tech is a touchdown favorite.

Baylor journeys to Tallahassee, Fla. to take on Florida State, which was upset last week 7-3 by TCU and out for revenge. Baylor carries an unblemished season record and is rated underdog by only three points.

Draft Deferment Requirements Stiffen Memberships Available For Town Girls

AUSTIN (AP) — The man in a harder time getting student discharge of local draft boards said Friday because of doubled quotas Texas college students will have

Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said he will still recommend deferment of undergraduates taking 12 semester hours or more. Also, he said, students taking just 9 hours may be deferred if they are "making satisfactory progress toward acquiring a bachelor's degree in four calendar years, or five years if the course requires additional study."

Schwartz set out these tentative guidelines for deferment of graduate students—15 months for a candidate to get a master's degree and three years for a doctor of philosophy degree.

Students who drop out of school, who are on scholastic probation or fall below the required academic loads should not expect a deferment Schwartz said.

In a separate action, Schwartz announced 450 Texas physicians are being ordered to take physical examinations as part of anticipated calls for doctors, dentists and veterinarians for active duty, beginning in January. He said the Texas quota is expected to be about 5 per cent of the national call for 1,529 physicians, 350 dentists and 100 veterinarians.

Memberships Available For Town Girls

Girls may still join Town Girls Club, the organization serving as the link between Texas Tech and girls living off-campus. Any interested students may call Sharon Mangum, president, SW9-3327, or Marcia Sparkman, membership chairman, SW9-0234, for more information about the club.

Town Girls Club is planning activities which will bring them into closer contact with the campus. This year Town Girls is planning a mixer with Bledsoe Hall as well as entering a Homecoming Float. The Club will perform in the Carol of Lights. A Christmas reception will be held for members. Other activities include having luncheon meetings with guest speakers.

The next meeting of Town Girls Club will be Wednesday at noon in the Union Coronado Room. The luncheon costs $1 per plate. A member of Town Girls will be in the office of the Dean of Women, Administration Building 171, Tuesday, from 8:30 a.m. to noon to take reservations and to accept payment of dues which are $1 per year.
