Parker Acts In Behalf Of Oil Operators

Tells Commission Recent 'Wall Watcher' Order Impractical Here

Frank Parker, railroad commissioner agent for the Howard and Glascock area, has communicated with the commission in behalf of local operators after the "wall watcher" order was to have gone into effect.

He told the commission under the system employed in this territory it would be almost impossible for operators to fully comply with the order.

The commission asked that operators cooperate to the best of their ability pending adjustments.

Parker, who succeeds Sim O'Neal here, comes from Kilgore where he has been engaged in fighting "hot oil" movements for two years.

He expressed confidence that the latest measures passed by the legislature would curb the illicit petroleum trade if they were not declared unconstitutional by federal courts.

Parker left the East Texas field just as the "reclaiming" racket was getting in full swing.

WAGNER By George Durno

Washington has its fingers to its ears waiting for the explosion Senator Wagner has probably set off with his bill to stiffen the labor clause in the Recovery Act.

Detroit has been called a "linder box" of labor discontent. Step into inside labor circles and you find them all in much that condition.

What Senator Wagner has started is beyond calculation at present, but it's as much beyond question that thanks to his championship labor will be more outspoken from now on about company unions.

For a long while heat has been piling up on both sides of the employment line over the right and power of labor to organize.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney General Cummings said Monday America's underworld has more armed men than the United States army and navy combined.

The statement was made to the senate judiciary committee as it began consideration of a group of bills submitted by the justice department to aid the government in their war on gangsters.

Cummings said action was necessary because of "the twilight zone of authority between state and federal jurisdictions, which affords roving bands of criminals an opportunity to operate with success."

Texas farmers have reported intentions to plant 12,681,000 acres in crops other than cotton and wheat as compared to 12,110,000 acres harvested last year.

Bill Now Goes To Senate For Consideration

The bill would last two years. President Roosevelt is empowered to suspend the legislation at any time, or extend it into a third year by proclamation.

The house voted 251 to 114.

Attorney's Second Trial Scheduled To Open This Week

GEORGETOWN (AP)—C. E. Heidingsfelder, 60, Houston attorney charged with embezzlement for alleged misuse of funds obtained for a client, Mrs. Adele Pipkin of Beaumont and New York, on a divorce settlement, likely will face a jury here this week for his second trial.

The case was brought here from Harris county on a change of venue and at the first trial, several weeks ago, the jury disagreed.

The defense was expected to ask for a continuance, due to the illness of J. F. Taulbee of Georgetown, member of defense counsel, but District Attorney D. B. Wood said he would insist on proceeding with the trial.

Heidingsfelder claimed he was drugged and robbed of $34,500 belonging to Mrs. Pipkin by a man who entered his office in a downtown building in Houston Christmas day.

SUGAR IMPORTS

One of the administration's jobs, right now, is to find a workable and equitable way of dealing with the Cuban sugar producers.

While we are under a moral obligation to see that the Cuban sugar industry is not wrecked, we also have an obligation with respect to the territory of Hawaii.

Hawaii, it is well to remember, is American soil, peopled by 380,000 energetic and industrious folk who are looking forward to the day when they can attain full statehood.

It ought to be possible to arrange things so that justice can be done to both Hawaii and Cuba.

HELP THROTTLE DEPRESSION

But now the construction index is rising. It isn't going forward at a boom rate, but sound, well-established acceleration is occurring.

TODAY and TOMORROW By WALTER LIPPMANN The American Way

There was a time in our exuberant youth when no foreigner could teach us anything. But now, if I understand my friend, Mr. Mac Sullivan, our blood is sluggish and we are old and it is sloughing and from Moscow we can learn anything new.

Every individual owes financial independence to himself and his family. PITY THE POOR PEDESTRIAN Pity the poor pedestrian in the great American traffic tangle.

Personal to the employe as it is to the employer because he has not yet seen his position in the picture as clearly as his employer. As a matter of fact, the employe has more at stake than the employer.

THE TRAIN IS COMING BACK Under the above title, Walter P. McGuire, editor of the Southside Virginia News, Petersburg, Virginia, says: "Having blazed the permanent way across the continent—laid itself down for seemingly endless miles across the level land, bridged every little creek and spreading swamp and roaring river, climbed over the mountains or blasted its way through them, the railroad made itself perhaps the largest single instrument of national development, servant of individuals and great industries."

SILVER PRECEDED GOLD Silver was the standard unit of value in America before gold. The Continental Congress adopted as a monetary unit a dollar containing 375.64 grains of pure silver.

YOUR BREAD AND BUTTER If you talk to a business man today about problems that are worrying him, nine chances out of ten he will bring up the subject of taxation.

Without this testing period, the railroads are emerging into a new era brought about by imagination and courage on the part of their managements. The Union Pacific, for example, is pioneering what is undoubtedly the world's fastest, long distance land travel method, its aluminum train with every modern convenience has a speed of 110 miles an hour.

without the traditions of democracy. Is there any ground for thinking that we have to learn our economies from a country which began to emerge from feudalism fifteen years ago or our politics from countries which with only the briefest interruptions have been accustomed to autocracy thru all their history?

My own conviction is that we are finding our own way through the difficulties of the modern world, and that instead of imitating others, we shall perhaps once again set the example to others. Why not? For a hundred years we never doubted the promise of American life. We never wavered in the conviction that in the new world there was the prospect of a good life for free men.

The World of Stamps

Italy and its colonies are continuing to contribute to the art of stamp beauty with two more groups, one a postage due set for the mother country and the other for the colony of Tripolitania, regular postage and airmail.

Each year since its inauguration in 1927 Tripolitania has put out a set of stamps on behalf of the agricultural fair at Tripoli. This year is no exception, and for the eighth fair there have been issued 14 stamps, half of which are for airmail and half for regular postage.

Various scenes of Tripolitania are pictured, with the addition of an airplane in flight on the airmails, which range from 50 centesimi to 25 lire. Postage values run from ten centesimi to 1.25 lire. The airmails of 450 lire and above bear a surtax to be donated toward the expenses of the fair.

The Italian set brings the first basic change in the design of the country's postage due stamps since the issue of 1870-74. In that set, a meteorite weighing 25 pounds fell recently on the ranch of J. W. Slayton, Tulare, Cal., and buried itself three feet in the ground after smashing through a heavy board.

center in a color different from the frame. The new dues, ranging from five centesimi to 20 lire, are of varying designs and solid colors. In the center is the Italian coat of arms and the value, with "Italian Postage" above and "seal tax," below.

U. S. DOUBLE PAPER

A double-paper variety of the current 25-cent blue green U. S. postage has been discovered. They were found in a Pennsylvania post office in a regular sheet. The rather rare double-paper stamps come only in those printed on a rotary press and are the result of "paste-ers" that is, the overlapping of one roll of paper is glued to the next. Rotary press stamps are printed from rolls of paper much the same as is the modern newspaper.

To the list of rather scarce modern varieties comes an addition from the Dominican republic. A collector there has located two sheets of the 10-centavo light blue of 1931, one of which is entirely imperforate and the other of which is perforated only on the left margin.

HERE AND THERE

The new stamps of Sarawak to be issued in May bear a portrait of Rajah Sir Charles Brooke. Sarawak is on the northwest coast of Borneo, is under British protection and is ruled by an English rajah. It has a population variously estimated from 300,000 to 600,000 and three members of the Brooke family have served as rajahs, with every issue of stamps since 1869 bearing the portrait of the ruler.

GLAMOROUS DAYS BY FRANK H. BUSHICK (The Naylor Co.)

An unusual book, an intimate personal pulsating and dramatic retrospect of Old San Antonio, a veritable parade and close-up of the old western days and all their picturesque and striking characters portrayed in vivid war pictures. Rich, rare and racy. Here at last is a book we've all hungered for—a book about Old San Antonio and the Southwest lavishly, glamorously, in a fixed and facile style reminiscent of the great impressionist, Frank J. Bushick, has given us "Glamorous Days." And what a book!

And I knew what it meant; it meant he did not care; that we were done; All I had of him; To keep, as he galloped across earth's rim, Was a shadow against the sun.

FRONTIER TIMES March

One of the most interesting articles in this issue is taken from a new out-of-date book written by Captain Randolph H. Marcey, of the fifth infantry of the U. S. Army, the first white man who records seeing the big spring for which this town got its name. The article is taken from the book entitled "Exploration of the River of Louisiana in the year 1832."

Wherever the river Louisiana is, I don't know; but the articles deals with Indians of the plains, the very Indians that once roamed these Howard county prairies. The captain tells many an interesting anecdote of his experience with them as guides.

The end of the tale of H. H. McConnell's five years as a cavalryman is concluded in this issue. The first article is an interesting story of a bakery at Fredericksburg in the early days when most people cooked over fireplaces.

6 BASEBALL TEAMS STEP IN LINE FOR LEAGUE

Final Parley Here Sunday

Big Spring, Odessa, Midland, Stanton, Colorado, and Coahoma Enter

Organization of the baseball league was altered slightly in a confab at Colorado Sunday afternoon. It was the second meeting held in the interest of organizing a circuit.

Six Teams Enter
Six teams, Odessa, Big Spring, Gulf of Midland, Stanton, Coahoma and Col-Tex of Colorado, will make up the league. Odessa and Midland, Permian Basin members, expressed a desire to quit the Permian outfit for the new organization. The other four teams are definitely in the line-up, and Odessa and Midland are expected to meet entrance requirements at the final meeting to be held here next Sunday afternoon.

At the final parley, scheduled for 2:30 p. m. in the Settles Hotel, the league will be named, officers elected, rules adopted and arrangements made to map a schedule. Interest in baseball here is gaining rapidly. Merchants made donations for uniforms and they have already been ordered. The suits will be gray trimmed in red.

Slaughter and Coast Help
Sheriff Jess Slaughter has taken the initiative in the drive for a ball park, and a rodeo will be staged to help raise money for its construction. J. W. Coast, superintendent of Coaden Refinery, is another man behind the baseball idea here, and plenty of support is seen for the Big Spring entry.

The local team, the Coaden Oilers, will be an all-Coaden squad. Workouts will be started this week, according to managers of the team. "Lefty" Babers and "Spike" Hensinger, veteran players, will guide the destinies of the Oilers.

The six teams lined-up at the present time, all located on a paved highway, will make an ideal circuit. Big Spring has the best location, about midway. Instead of playing two games a week, it was voted to play only one, and that on Sunday afternoons.

Mail Contract To Sterling City Recently Awarded

STERLING CITY—Contract for carrying a daily mail from Big Spring to Sterling City was recently awarded to Joe Mitchell for the sum of $1,819.56 per year, beginning July 1, next.

The mail will leave out of Big Spring each day, except Sunday and come directly to Sterling City. On the return trip, it will go by Midway and Forsan into Big Spring.

This route will give us far better mail service to both East and West than we have received for the past several years. Mail going out by way of Big Spring will reach Dallas and Fort Worth several hours earlier than when sent by San Angelo; and when going West it means the saving of more than twenty-four hours.

A man from Ballinger has been awarded the contract to carry the mail between Sterling City and San Angelo, with a schedule of two hours from San Angelo to Sterling. The amount to be paid on this contract is $1130.00 per year.

Welterweight Fight Soon

Battle Promises To Be Classic Lower Weight Scrap In History

By W. WINSTON COPELAND United Press Staff Correspondent
PORT WORTH (UP)—With the world's championship junior welterweight prizefight only a month away, followers have started sizing up the two fighters in what promises to be the classic lower weight fight in recent boxing history.

Both fighters are easily the top-notchers of the nation, with perhaps only Tony Canzoneri in the class with either Barney Ross, the defending champion, or Tony Herrera, the challenger.

Same Style
Both employ much the same style of fighting and from that standpoint, as well as the fact that Herrera has been seeking a try for the title for several years, the fight should be a "natural."

Ross has a reputation for being able to do everything in the ring and do it well. He can hit from any angle with either hand and is rated one of the cleverest fighters at his weight in ring history.

Although he does not pack a devastating knockout wallop, the 24-year old Chicago fighter possesses a stiff punch, capable of putting an antagonist to sleep.

Ross won the title from Tony Canzoneri, a masterful and colorful boxer who still is considered far from through. He twice beat Canzoneri on decisions.

Fans are minimizing a decision rendered in San Francisco recently in which Frankie Klieck was awarded a draw with Ross. Newspapers on the coast were consistent and vociferous in disputing the decision. Virtually all of them said Ross won by an easy margin.

Herrera is an El Paso product and his ring prowess is familiar to Texas fight fans. He is considered Ross' match in boxing ability, stamina and ring generalship. Both are master boxers and the fight should be a battle of wits, as well as gloves.

The Scotch-Mexican's chief weapon is his flicking left jab, which keeps his opponent at a distance and although not exceedingly damaging serves to upset an opponent's mental equilibrium as well as pave openings for Herrera.

Herrera also has a stinging right which he has not used frequently because of a hand injury. He used the right to a minimum in defeating Tracy Cox and Lew Wallace to earn the chance to meet Ross for the title.

The right fist, however, is healed, after careful guarding for two years and Herrera has indicated he will bring it into play in his effort to realize his ambition. A broken rib, which caused cancellation of recent matches, also is healed.

Both fighters are to arrive here about April 10 to polish off training for the fight which is to be held April 20, on the eve of the Texas Derby, feature event of the annual Arlington Downs spring horse racing meet.

Longhorns Follow Big Ten Schools

AUSTIN—The Athletic Council of the University of Texas announced today that the Longhorns would follow the custom of "Big Ten" schools by playing the Texas Freshman September 29, 1934. Saint Edwards had been scheduled for that date but the hilltop institution asked to be released from the contract.

It will be the first home game for the Steers and the admission price has been cut to fifty cents instead of the usual $1.10. This was done in an attempt to fill the stadium.

The council also announced that C. E. Orr of Dallas has been appointed as swimming manager for the 1933-34 season.

Midnight April 1 Latest Date For Registering Cars

After being out in the cold in a baseball way for a year or two, Big Spring is making a rapid come-back. Big Spring has a splendid group of prospects this year, the best outlook in many years for a winning club. Following an adequate practice season, the local team can step out with the best of 'em. With fifteen uniforms already ordered, and plans going forward for a park, everything looks rosy. Let's all get behind these players in a manner commensurate with their ability and efforts.

With J. Gordon Bristow out of town and not likely to show up again for several weeks, George Brown stated that football grid would start this week without Ohio. Limbering up exercises will occupy the first few days.

By some compromise Big Spring golfers managed to secure the 1934 tournament of the West Texas Golf Association yesterday. It took a little better than three hours to convince the directors that it was Big Spring's time, but the idea was finally put across. The value of securing the Westex tournament can hardly be estimated. It'll mean a lot to Big Spring in more ways than one.

The tourney will draw the cream of West Texas golfers—probably more than two hundred. Local golfers are starting in now to make the event the best ever held.

The Steer football schedule released Saturday is as good as one could ask. Four tough practice games to whip the boys into top trim, and then the title arguments. It may look like Big Spring can take the title without much of a tussle, but there are always numerous little catches that threaten to trip the too confident boys. It won't be wise to guzzle down much of the soft soap that will be passed around.

At the request of Henry Franks, Greenville high school mentor, a meeting of coaches of Texas will be held in Austin for the interpretation of the Interscholastic League rules. The numerous hearings in the rules, especially in football, makes the meeting necessary.

Big Spring Team Tabs Two Points

Big Spring high school tracksters failed to make much of a showing Saturday in the third annual Range Country track and field meet held at Barnhart.

Bob Nalle's Big Lake Owls copied first honors by amassing a total of 34 1-2 points. The Steers managed to tie for tenth place with only two points to their credit. George Neel was the only local boy to place in any event, taking third place in the 220-yard low hurdles.

Despite a driving sand storm, several new records were made. Coach "Cubby" Gardner accompanied the Big Spring team.

Bicycle riding has become such a fad with winter tourists at Miami, Fla. that local dealers can't keep enough bicycles on hand to supply the demand.

Rockne System Demonstrated

AUSTIN—More than 3000 interested Longhorn football fans have availed themselves of the opportunity to witness the installation of the Rockne system at the University of Texas as taught by the dynamic young coach, Jack Chevigny, since spring training started a week ago. Of that number almost 1000 saw the first workout.

On the average of 85 candidates have been working out daily at Memorial Stadium under the all-seeing eyes of Chevigny and Tim Moynihan. Tuesday 92 aspirants cavorted over the gridiron which next fall will see one of the most colorful eleven in the history of Longhorn athletics. While Chevigny refuses to comment on the prospects of a winning team in the fall he promises to give the public something to look at.

Snappy one hour drills have constituted the program so far, but each Saturday will see the squad engaged in two hours of practice. Callisthenics are the first items on the daily workout with a tackling period following. After that the squad is divided with Moynihan putting the linemen through a series of drills and Chevigny teaching the rhythmic shift to his backs and ends.

Every minute of every workout has convinced spectators that the team will be well-drilled and in condition. Scrimmages will begin this week in preparation for the intra-squad exhibition tilt scheduled to take place during the Round-up.

Three lettermen of last year's squad will be forced to wait until fall to learn the new system. They are Bob Hilliard, Buster Baebel, and Melvin Preiblich, all backs. At present they are out for baseball.

Lockjaw Claims 150 Persons In Texas Annually

AUSTIN—Every year there are about one hundred and fifty deaths in Texas from lockjaw, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. Most of these deaths have resulted from the most trivial or minor wounds or injury. Only recently a small child died from a small wound caused by a splinter being stuck in the toe.

Lockjaw or tetanus patients die an agonizing death following frequent convulsions, which are set forth by the slightest stimulation to the central nervous system. The slamming of a door or the slightest noise may cause a patient to have violent convulsions. Stiffening of the muscles in the jaw is one of the first symptoms, and it is from this fact that the disease gets its name of lockjaw.

Puncture wounds, such as those resulting from sticking a nail or thorn in the foot or hand, are the most dangerous. The reason for this is that the tetanus germs can thrive only in a wound that is closed or in the presence of others germs that use up the air present. Tetanus germs do not thrive in the open air.

The prevention of lockjaw depends upon the proper care of all minor injuries. Closed wounds should be made open wounds and kept thoroughly clean. Anti-tetanus serum should be given after a puncture wound; gun powder wounds are also frequently followed by lockjaw. The period of time for the disease to develop in man is usually from six to fourteen days, according to the amount of infection. In man, with a short period of incubation, six days or less, the disease is almost always fatal. With a longer period, the disease is usually milder and the chances for recovery greater.

San Angelo Lawyer Runs For Congress

SAN ANGELO—E. E. (Pat) Murphy, 38, San Angelo attorney who opposed Rep. R. E. Thomason in the 1930 congressional campaign, has announced his candidacy to congress from the new 21st congressional district.

Other candidates in the district are C. L. South, Coleman attorney, and Culbertson Deal, San Angelo board of city development manager until last week.

When Murphy opposed Thomason he polled 17,746 votes to Thomason's 14,271 outside of El Paso county.

BLOND GODDESS

A New Serial by Herbert Jensen

CHAPTER 40

Janice heard a scream and a crash behind her. In an instant of dull bewilderment she realized she was not hit.

She saw an expression of stupid dismay in the face of the rifleman. His gun-barrel dropped.

She shrieked against the cage in time to avoid the falling figure of the little hunter who had stopped the bullet. She saw brown arms striving to reach the flopping limpness that was the body of the paralyzed high-priest.

To steady herself she put up the hand that held the knife. It came in contact with the thongs tying the cage gate. A sudden desperate thought swept her mind. At any cost the area of the great square must be cleared for the landing of the plane!

Her knife slashed at the thongs, the keen steel sliced through the leather as through grease. She was aware of snarling jaws, of yellow eyes wild with hate and frenzy.

The gate slammed back upon her. Tawny black-spotted bodies soared above as she stumbled down the steps.

She heard a deep-voiced scream. The multitude knew his cats were loose!

She was sobbing. Scarcely conscious now, she tugged at the limp body of Langton, hoping to drag him to the cage that now offered protection from the jaguars only from within. The figures were running everywhere. Suddenly the motors ceased their roaring. She heard vicious, staccato bursts, like short volleys from grouped rifles.

voices, a voice that drew the strength from her and left her sobbing weakly.

"Janice . . . dearest . . . It's I; Frank, Dear—"

The arms lifted her to her feet. She buried her face in the stained and ragged shirt. Long, blissful moments later, it seemed, she withdrew. She smiled uncertainly and blinked away her tears.

"Frank . . . dear. Look to Billy. He was hurt—"

"I'm all right," came Langton's voice at their feet—weak but undoubtedly Langton's. "I . . . I was just resting."

"You damn clown," muttered Frank, a curious softness in his voice. "You're as bad as Greene. . . . Here he is now."

Mr. Horatio Greene, press-agent extraordinary, was approaching with his ambling gait. He carried a monstrous pistol in one hand—monstrous in relation to the size of the little warrior—and over the other a gold, turquoise studded collar. "Got it off one of the leopards."

"Jaguars, Greene, not leopards," he explained.

"Jaguars or leopards they won't need these any more." He lifted the collar. "It's the one souvenir I'm going to take home from this . . ."

Suddenly he broke off. His eyes widened; slowly the color drained from his face. He moistened his lips and gently expelled his breath. Frank put his arm about Janice's waist and firmly drew her against his. "Don't look, dear. It . . . it isn't—"

"Whem!" exclaimed Greene, drawing his forearm across his forehead. "Did you see what they did to the high-priest—"

Suddenly catching Frank's eye, he hesitated.

He mumbled: "Those leopards—jaguars, I mean—wouldn't make loving house pets. I'll . . . I'll just take the collar, thank you. Come along folks, Spin's waving to us from the ship. You, Langton—I guess you're Langton—can you make it?"

"Fine. I'll give you a hand. We've gone to a lot of trouble about you, and we can't slow down now. You're probably the best copy of the lot of us and when Horatio Greene says you're good copy . . ."

HOW UTAH QUAKE OPENED EARTH

In an uninhabited valley 130 miles from Salt Lake City, Dr. Frederick J. Pack, University of Utah professor of geology, located this center of the earthquake that rocked Utah and Idaho. This picture, taken by Dr. Pack, shows the major fault of four faults caused by the slipping of the earth's crust. The fissure shown here is about 15 inches wide. (Associated Press Photo)

"Well," answered Spin gravely, "the wad of chewing tobacco asked the perfecto, 'How far are we from New Orleans?' The perfecto replied, with an expression of distaste on its . . . um, gold band, 'Listen, punk: I'm two hundred miles from New Orleans. Where do you get that wa stuff!'"

Frank chuckled at the discomfited look on Greene's face. The crap game continued. Finally Janice leaned toward Frank.

"You won't . . . you won't go away again, ever?" she whispered. "The burnt child fears—" he began, but the tenderness in his eyes belied the implication of his word. Janice wrinkled her nose. "You can take it," she quoted colloquially. "It was those darn dishes."

"Dishes?"

"You mentioned our doing the dishes," she stated firmly. "I hate 'em."

"Not even if I help?"

"Well," she replied consideringly. "Probably there's some dishwashing that has compensation." She looked up at him winningly. Her voice was honey-sweet with propitiation. "But if we do camp out from time to time in one of your jungles, we'll have Juan along, won't we?" Her eyes coaxed. "And," she concluded brightly, "he can help too."

Frank laughed and nodded.

Greene, sotto voce to Winslow, said, "And that means, Spin, that the big palooka and Juan will wash and wipe the dishes between them." The little man sighed. "And that means that when we get back to Hollywood tomorrow I hunt me another job."

"Another job?" queried Spin skeptically. "Why don't you go to work for a change, you bun!"

THE END

The Timdi Soul

smiling occasionally.

" . . . then, when Spin got our message—" Greene apparently did not think it worthwhile to address anyone in particular—" he picked up three young hoodlums he knew, arranged for this bus, got a machine gun, swallowed his lousy disposition—a record of some kind, a veritable Ripley, in fact—and in three hops, total elapsed time less than twenty-four hours, landed on the beach back there on the coast. We met him there. We took off just before dawn. Not seeing Janice and Billy at the valley, we kept on to the city of the pyramid. We arrived just in time. We couldn't land until Janice let the leopards, I mean tigers, loose . . . She did a good job there . . . so we—"

Spin Winslow, strolling back, asked in a loud voice if Greene had ever heard the story of the half-smoked stump of the Corona-Corona perfect cigar and the wad of chewing tobacco that were floating side by side down the Mississippi. "No," replied Greene testily. "What's that got to do—"

The three young men at the crap game looked up grinning.

Big Spring

Monday when they learned that Big Spring had been awarded the tenth annual tournament of the West Texas Golf association, to be held May 24-27.

C. W. Cunningham, president of the Big Spring Country Club, said Monday the tournament would get plenty of publicity, and that the local organization would lend every effort to make the event the biggest success in its history. "We intend to send out reams of publicity concerning the affair," said Mr. Cunningham, "and golfers in West Texas attending the tournament will be offered a full round of entertainment here. The local course is to be put in perfect shape for the tournament."

Directors of the local club will convene soon to make final arrangements to entertain the golfers who will come to Big Spring for the tournament.

Rehabilitation

Administrator Hopkins has definitely turned his back on the shotgun method of distributing Uncle Sam's largess to the needy. No longer will he load up his howitz with money and shoot it indiscriminately into the respective states. Instead he is about to embark on a long-range program of rehabilitation as against the old system of doling the dough to all comers.

Messenger

Of course the final draft of the Fletcher-Rayburn bill may leave the Stock Exchange president in position of mere messenger for the Federal Trade Commission. That possibility will delay the public announcement of the nominating committee's selections. A messenger status wouldn't appeal to Mr. Whitney nor to others whose names are mentioned as his rivals.

Regulation

New Yorkers in recent touch with Washington bring back encouraging reports of the attitude of congressional committees dealing with the Fletcher-Rayburn bill. They find the committees have no inclination to recommend unenforceable restrictions nor such as would drive honest workers out of business.

Farmless

Some 600,000 farm families are now on relief rolls, most of whom never needed help before the crash. Hopkins has made up his mind to decentralize the work of aiding these families in the future. County agents will be called upon to determine the peculiar needs of each family.

Treaty

The President's smile has lost none of its infectiousness since the Senate pronounced him on the St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty, but let the 22 Democrats who voted against ratification be warned.

Notes

Industry has already begun bombardment of congress in opposition to the Wagner bill creating a super-labor board and suppressing company unions. Members of congress are exchanging notes on a concerted plan to protect industries of their districts against reciprocity tariff slashes.

Relief

Meanwhile don't take the risk of walking into Harry Hopkins' office these days and casually referring to CWA.

Whirligig

you may look for it to be the big news for a week.

Relief

They'll tell you there ain't no such animal any more and then drift to the story of the Southern negro who showed up at his local federal relief headquarters after an absence of weeks and asked to get back on the food dole.

Election

The coming election of New York Stock Exchange officers and governors shows signs of developing into a genteel Kilkenny brawl. The nominating committee intends to stand by its guns and officially sponsor the reelection of Richard Whitney and his present associates.

showing more interest in the meetings of the nominating committee than they have in years. The regulars still hold an edge because the opposition hasn't yet united in support of specific candidates but there's time for this to happen.

Entrenched

Meanwhile the old guard is entrenching itself behind publicly built walls. Inspired releases have been sent out from official sources belittling the antagonism to current office-holders.

The big idea is to frighten the rebels back to regularity by inferring they will be out on a rickety limb if they try to interfere with the orderly processes of nature—meaning the nominating committee. The only hitch is that the insurgents—while still unwilling to express themselves for publication—decline to scare.

Exchange

Exchange circles privately believe they have regulations of their own already on the books which would curb harmful speculation and give the average trader a break if they could be enforced on non-members.

Local aviation experts

Local aviation experts don't take the advisory services of Colonel Lindbergh and Clarence Chamberlain in connection with the army air force as seriously as they might. It's pointed out that staff officers form the majority of the commission named to investigate army aviation—some of them known to be hostile to the air force on general principles.

Unified

There is strong sentiment here in favor of the President's apparent intention to create a unified air force embracing all government departments using planes. But a doughnut will get you a dollar hereabouts if you don't believe that General Billy Mitchell is permanently out of the high command.

Army

The army has a comeback to the charge that it doesn't know how to fly. A service aviator of long experience who must obviously remain anonymous says: "If they want us to learn to fly cross-country why don't they appropriate enough money so we can buy more than a quart of gasoline at a time? You couldn't learn to fly a glider on the fuel allowance we get."

Express

Several former local air mail users are now experimenting with air express. So far it seems to work very well. The post office has the technical right to forbid the expressage of normally mailable matter but this authority isn't likely to be invoked.

Sidelights

The big liquor companies are planning to buy large quantities of foreign whiskey for blending purposes after May first. Insiders expect Chesapeake & Ohio to increase its dividend. That should help the tangled Allegheny situation.

The First Methodist church revival meeting, which has been in progress since Sunday, March 4, with Rev. C. A. Bickley, pastor, doing the preaching and Rev. W. M. Culwell, Stamford pastor, leading the singing, came to a successful close at the conclusion of Sunday evening's services. There has been an addition of approximately 100 members to the church since the meeting started, Dr. Bickley said. Services throughout the meeting were largely attended, and a great good has come from the wonderful gospel messages given by Dr. Bickley and the messages of song by Rev. Culwell.

At the final service Sunday evening, Rev. Bickley chose "Neglected Duty," as his topic for the text: "How shall we escape if we neglect so great a salvation?" The scripture lesson was taken from the second chapter of Hebrews. Rev. Culwell sang: "Sin Is the Cause of It All." Dr. Bickley said in part: "Why does the apostle call this salvation great? First, it was born in the heart of God and brought to us in the love of Jesus. We have Mohammedism, Buddhism, etc., each good in their way, but there is only one salvation and that is through Jesus Christ: a plan laid down by God whereby wicked men might be saved. "Second, this salvation is great in its cost. 'For God so loved the world that he gave, not one son out of ten but 'His only begotten Son.' It was not purchased by silver and gold, but by the precious blood of Jesus. We must in imagination go to Calvary to realize how great the cost. He died that we might be saved, purchasing our salvation by his death and suffering."

world is simply strewn with the wrecks of neglected opportunities. Yet, if a man gain the whole world and lose his soul what will it profit him?" "If a man neglect so great a salvation, how is he to escape, I do not know what the future will be, but I do know that it is such that God gave His son's life that we might be saved from it. Fifty-four times in this Book God warns men about escaping from the eternal destiny of a soul away from Him. If you neglect the way of salvation, God says there is no way of escape. Why then, will we continue to neglect.

"Third, this salvation is great in what it can do; in its work. It will save the uttermost. It will save man from his past no matter how dark. 'Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be white as snow.' One time when Martin Luther was feeling blue, Satan appeared before him with a list of sins which the great Christian was forced to confess were his. But then he soon came to the realization that the blood of Jesus Christ 'cleanses from all unrighteousness.' Thank God, there is a remedy that is your hope and mine tonight; that is the hope of the world. Not only will it reach down in the depths and save men like Jerry McCaughey, but it can take these fine young boys here and keep them from a life of sin. It will help men in the stressful times of today. What we can not do in our own strength alone can be done with His help. We can change the environment, but thank God, the blood of Jesus Christ changes the heart; and the life. If we trust Him, He will help us to go out and live the life that we should live.

"What about the unknown tomorrow, I am glad that God has put a veil between us and tomorrow and I also thank Him that if we face it with faith we can be prepared for whatever it may bring of sorrows, burdens, even eternity. That is the reason I want that salvation. Not for a million dollars would I walk out into the darkness without Christ. I know whom I have believed and I am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against the day."

"Fourth, this salvation is great because it is the only salvation. There is none other name under heaven by which men can be saved. I am the way, the truth and the life. No man can enter in except he come by me.' This way is open to all, yet it is the only way. Why won't men trust Him?"

"Then, this salvation provides for the future. Yet men neglect it; intelligent, serious-minded, thinking men neglect it. Neglect anywhere is foolish. To neglect business and health is foolish when there are opportunities and remedies. This

by JEANNE BOWMAN

"The last will and testament of Tom Bevins"—Judith dimly heard the words by which her former employer made her the heiress to five million dollars, gave her control of his far-flung enterprises and threw on her slim shoulders a cruel burden. Her hand held Tom Bevins' last request, private instructions for administering his affairs. Judith knew it meant strife, heartbreak and perhaps an end to the romance with Norman Dale. For somehow, Judith sensed that her husband would not be at her side in the bitter finish-fight with the Bevins family, a widow and daughter grasping for a dead man's dollars and willing to let his ideals crumble to dust. Around this situation, JEANNE BOWMAN has written a dramatic story of the girl who was willing to sacrifice home, husband and friends, risk disgrace and failure—because she was loyal to a trust.
