Allison Speaks Out On Tech Problems

By PAULINE EDWARDS
Editorial Assistant

Al Allison, member of the Tech Board of Directors, told Senators last night that the name-change issue will probably soon be revived, most likely by the Board of Directors, and that in all probability the name will be changed to Texas State University.

Allison spoke candidly and frankly concerning problem areas of the school, answering all questions put to him by senators and several student visitors.

Allison spoke for more than two hours touching such areas as the name-change, fraternity and sorority housing, the A.A.U.P. censure, search for a dean for the law school and many other.

The Board member continually commended Tech's new president Dr. Grover E. Murray, expressing confidence in his appointment and hope that under his leadership many problem areas of the school will be resolved. Allison described Murray as "a brilliant person. His record and background reflect it. He is for action. He's not a man to stand still but one to get things done."

When asked what steps Tech should take to be removed from the A.A.U.P. blacklist, Allison commented that Tech has remained on the blacklist longer than most universities and that in the past there have been a few members who were not interested in getting Tech off the blacklist. However, he added that this would probably be one of the areas that would receive active attention from Dr. Murray and that under new leadership Tech's chances for getting off the A.A.U.P. censure are good.

Allison said the question of fraternity and sorority housing was on the Board agenda for this weekend but no action would probably be taken. He added that the majority of Board members are in favor of fraternity and sorority housing and the best thing for these groups to do is to form a committee which could meet with members of the Board to discuss fraternity and sorority housing.

In the search for a dean for the new law school, Allison said the Board asked the deans from law schools throughout the country to submit a list of prospective deans who they would recommend. Board members then talked to each of these candidates. The new dean will be hired soon, possibly this week.

Allison distinguished between policies concerning the administration and Board of Directors, stating that certain areas were purely administrative.

The regulation in the Code of Student Affairs, for instance, is strictly administrative and the Board has no such policy. Allison approved the use of student assemblies to discuss issues affecting students but expressed confidence that Tech students would not use these assemblies for un-

Murray Draws Favorable Reaction From Tech Heads

By VY TOWNSEND
Staff Writer

Texas Tech's top administrators and heads of schools gave their reactions Tuesday to the appointment of Dr. Grover E. Murray as the college's new president.

Vice President of Academic Affairs William Pearce said, "Texas Tech is fortunate in securing the services of Dr. Murray. His academic background and administrative experience in a large state university should prove most advantageous to the college." He was pleased with the experience the larger system of LSU had afforded Murray.

Bill Parsley, Vice President of Development, also gave a favorable reply. "I'm highly impressed with his academic background, his accomplishments as an educator. But I'm equally impressed with his administrative accomplishments, his decisiveness and his personality as a man more than anything."

Parsley met Murray when he was at Tech in January. He said his first impression was good, and as he looked at his background, he found an able man. He stressed Murray's personality by saying, "I think we are going to have a great president."

George C. Heather, Dean of the School of Business Administration added that he was most pleased with the selection, that it seemed to have been a fine choice.

Dean of the Graduate School Fred Rigby said the choice "sounds very good to me. I was favorably impressed when I met him. I think it's a good thing."

Dean Gerald Thomas of the School of Agriculture said, "I'm very pleased with the appointment. I had occasion to visit a great deal with him when he was here. He went over our program and met our faculty. All impressions were favorable. We were impressed with his questions and his grasp of our work, and we are glad of his appointment."

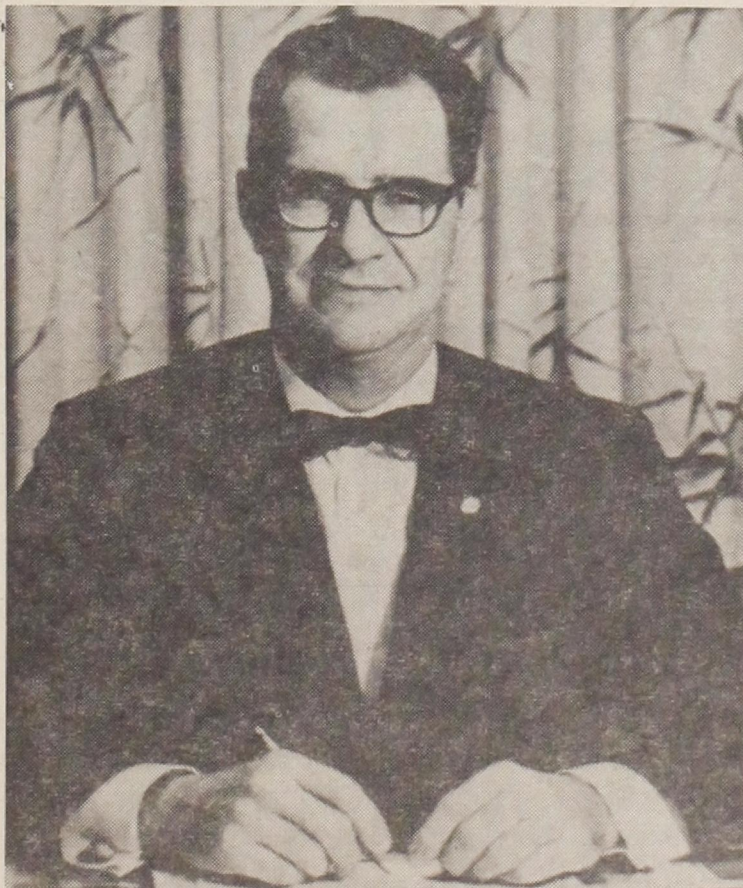

Dean of Women Florence Phillips said she was completely delighted. She added, "He is a most outstanding man. I think he is going to be tremendous."

Vice President Pennington and Deans Kennedy, Bradford, Tinsley, Boze, Jones and Allen could not be reached for their comments.

Reactions from persons other than those at Tech were also favorable. Dr. John A. Hunter, President of LSU said, "We regret very much his leaving LSU because not only is he a very fine and distinguished scholar, but an outstanding administrator. However, we realize what a fine opportunity this is for him. We congratulate your Board of Directors and the entire Texas Tech community for having picked him. We know he will do a terrific and tremendous job for you."

Geologists from LSU and those of the U.S. Geological Survey in Washington, D.C. all commented on his capacity to combine scientific research and administration. They considered him one of the most creative men in his profession and an able leader.

Noon Forum Next Week

The speech by Dr. David Vigness for the Noon Forum at Tech Union will be Wednesday, Feb. 16, rather than today as reported in Tuesday's T-ador.

Dr. Vigness will speak on "Revolution and Change in Latin America."

No Noon Forum is scheduled this week.

No Changes Reported In Student Deferments

College men who are presently enrolled for a full load and maintaining a 2.0 grade average are in no danger of being drafted at the present time.

According to Mrs. Ava Lee McGlaun, clerk of the Lubbock Selective Service Board, there have been no changes in the national draft standards since last September. Any changes that do take place, including the "Korean War standards," will probably not go into effect until next September, Mrs. McGlaun said.

Floyd Boze, dean of admissions and registrar, said his office will send every male student's school standing to his local draft board if the student filled out the information on the card handed out during spring registration. The cards will not be mailed until after the 12th day of classes, however. This is being done to revive the cards after "add and drop day."

Mrs. McGlaun and Dean Boze emphasized that keeping one's local draft board informed if a change in his status occurs is the student's responsibility, and failure to report changes can be punished by immediate induction.

Since all local boards set their own standards, Mrs. McGlaun said men should keep in touch with their local draft board when questions arise. "The Lubbock Board will try to answer all questions, but we cannot be sure about regulations of other Boards in Texas," Mrs. McGlaun said.

Dean Boze advised male students to start studying now instead of waiting to see if and when new national regulations go into effect. Dean Boze also said any male student who receives a draft notice should take the notice to the registrar's office.

Graduation Candidates Personnel Forms Due

Graduation candidates for 1966 who have not done so are requested to turn in Personnel Information Forms at the Placement Office today.

Mrs. Jean Jenkins, director, said these forms, along with two glossy print photographs size 2" x 3", are necessary for graduation.

Immediate filing of these forms enables the placement office to proceed at once with the processing of these files.

If a personnel form has been filed previously, students may make revisions by going by the Placement Office.

Students that do not have a form may secure one from the deans of the schools or the Placement Service, room 252 of the Electrical Engineering Building.

Students wishing to order Printed Data Sheets may obtain them from the Placement Service for $7.

Austin Minister To Speak During Willson Lectures

Dr. Blake Smith, widely known Tech campus Austin minister, counselor and liver the 1966 spring series of educator, will be on the Texas Willson Lectures.

Dr. Smith has become thoroughly familiar with topics of special interest to college communities through participation in forums, seminars and conferences on more than 100 campuses in recent years, said Dean of Student Life James G. Allen.

Dr. Smith is pastor of the University Baptist Church in Austin where he recently served as a member of the faculty for a Marriage and Family Relations Counseling Seminar conducted by the University of Texas in cooperation with the Air Force.

The Tech lectures will be at 10 a.m. March 7 and 8 and at 9 a.m. March 9 and 10 in Union Ballroom. They will be open to Tech students, faculty and Lubbock residents free of charge, Dean Allen said.

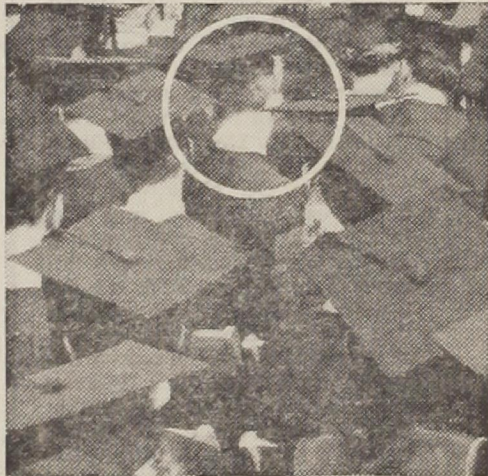

The March programs will be the 18th in a series of lectures made possible by an endowment fund established by South Plains pioneer residents Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Willson of Floydada in 1946.

Graduation was only the beginning of Jim Brown's education

Because he joined Western Electric

Jim Brown, Northwestern University, '62, came with Western Electric because he had heard about the Company's concern for the continued development of its engineers after college graduation.

Jim has his degree in industrial engineering and is continuing to learn and grow in professional stature through Western Electric's Graduate Engineering Training Program. The objectives and educational philosophy of this Program are in the best of academic traditions, designed for both experienced and new engineers.

Like other Western Electric engineers, Jim started out in this Program with a six-week course to help in the transition from the classroom to industry. Since then, Jim Brown has continued to take courses that will help him keep up with the newest engineering techniques in communications.

This training, together with formal college engineering studies, has given Jim the ability to develop his talents to the fullest extent. His present responsibilities include the solution of engineering problems in the manufacture of moly-permalloy core rings, a component used to improve the quality of voice transmission.

If you set the highest standards for yourself, enjoy a challenge, and have the qualifications we're looking for — we want to talk to you! Opportunities exist now for electrical, mechanical and industrial engineers, and for physical science, liberal arts and business majors. For more information, get your copy of the Western Electric Career Opportunities booklet from your Placement Officer. And be sure to arrange for an interview when the Bell System recruiting team visits your campus.

Allison... Officer Program Offered

ruly conduct and rioting as is experienced on some campuses.

Allison said one of the first things students must do to have their opinions heard on certain issues was to first locate the responsibility. Students should find out who the authority is in that area and then go to that person. In many cases, they will need to go to the administration first and then to the Board of Directors.

He emphasized that Board meetings and actions are not secret and that there should be a closer communication between students and Board members. He encouraged the Senate to invite other Board members to meet with them and said students should feel free to talk to Board members.

Lt. Cmdr. O. D. Brown, naval pilot from the Dallas Naval Air Reserve Station will be on campus Tuesday through Friday, in the library.

A program for pilot training leading to commissioned officer status is available to men who are within one year of receiving a degree and are between the ages of 19 and 26.

Students currently enrolled with 30 semester hours completed may apply for Aviation Reserve Officer Candidate (AVROC) training. The AVROC must complete two eight weeks training periods at Pensacola, Florida during the summers prior to graduation. The applicant will be commissioned and placed on active duty when he receives his degree.

Training is also offered in Aerial Navigation under the Naval Observer Program.

Interested students who pass a three hour Navy Flight Aptitude Examination may qualify for a trip to Dallas where physical examinations are given and formal application for one of the programs may be made. Students may take this examination without obligation.

Dean Tinsley Attends Confab

Dr. Willa Vaughn Tinsley, dean of Texas Tech's School of Home Economics, is participating in a conference on the training of school lunch personnel in Washington, D.C.

The conference, sponsored by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and of Health, Education and Welfare, will explore ways of providing job training for workers involved in preparing meals for children and youth, a nutrition area in which Dr. Tinsley is keenly interested.

The conference concludes today.

Civic Lubbock Brings 'Organization' Comedy

Hans Conreid, top star of stage, screen and television, returns to Lubbock in the Civic Lubbock Inc. production of "Absence of a Cello" at 8 p.m. today.

Conreid portrays a notable scientist engaged in an attempt to hide his real identity in the modern comedy by well-known humorist Ira Wallach. This masquerade as an ordinary run-of-the-mill man instead of one of taste and discernment is taken on by the professor in order to get a desperately needed job, well-paying job with a huge corporation which not only screens tentative employees for their professional abilities but for their private lives and tastes as well.

Cello Is Black Mark

The problem and subsequent masquerade comes about when the scientist learns that his fondness for playing the cello may turn up as a black mark against his record and his chances with the company. The reason given for this prejudice being that the cello is "such an introspective" instrument and may be indicative of a suspicious preference for being an "isolate" in corporate lingo.

Conreid then begins his frantic effort to hide his cello and all the other tell-tale marks of his being a cultivated man, producing a series of complications which produce the evening's entertainment.

Kleptomaniac Neighbor

These amusing complications affect not only the professor but his wife, sister and daughter as well. Featured in Conreid's supporting cast is Ruth McDevitt as a dry-witted, wack neighbor also involved in the situation by her concern for the professor and an hilarious impulse to kleptomania.

Miss McDevitt repeats the role she created on Broadway. She is also a veteran of stage and television appearances, including in her list of credits the role of Mom on "Mr. Peepers," and appearances in such shows as "The Nurses," "Dr. Kildare" and the U.S. Steel Show.

Tickets for the one-performance production are on sale at Lubbock Municipal Auditorium box office. Reserved seat prices range from the lowest priced balcony seats at $2.50 to the best lower floor seats at $4.50.

Run Begins Today For O'Neill Film

"Long Day's Journey Into Night," the film from Eugene O'Neill's autobiographical play opens today at the Continental Cinema for a four-day run.

This is the first Lubbock area showing for the film, which was released in 1962 and stars Katharine Hepburn, Jason Robards Jr., Sir Ralph Richardson and Dean Stockwell.

Robards appears as the playwright with Richardson portraying his actor father James O'Neill. In the role of the younger brother, plagued with his own set of growing problems, is former child actor Dean Stockwell, now regaining the popularity he had as a youngster in such films as "The Boy With the Green Hair."

Katharine Hepburn, making what has become of late a rare screen appearance, portrays Mrs. O'Neill, the playwright's mother.

This play will be remembered as the one which created such havoc among members of the Baylor University drama department a few years ago, and is considered by many critics to be O'Neill's best work.

Three Recitals Set For Today

Three music recitals are scheduled today for performance in the Music Bldg. and in the piano lounge of Tech Union.

The Music Department presents Sallie Ann Manicapelli, assisted by pianist John Sumerlin and the Baroque Players in Junior Recital at 4:05 p.m. in Room 1 of the Music Bldg. It is presented in partial requirement for the Bachelor of Music Education Degree.

Included in the Baroque Players are Miss Manicapelli, violin, Billy Watt, flute, Robert Ashby, cello and Beverlyq Barton, harpsichord.

A second presentation of the Music Department is a Senior Recital featuring Billy Watt playing the flute assisted by Thomas Mastroianni at the piano at 8:15 p.m. in the same room.

Also on this program are two selections by a woodwind quartet composed of Watt, flute, James Burleson, oboe, William Powell, clarinet, Karen Elkins, bassoon and James Harvey, horn.

Fine Arts Reminders

The Ideas and Issues Committee of Tech Union will present the first in a series of Sandwich Seminars today in the Union's Blue Room.

At these noon seminars Tech students in the Honors Program will present programs of their own creation.

At the first meeting, Ed Snow, Harlingen senior, will read from his novel now in progress.

Snow attended Westlake School of Music and North Texas State University and has studied music with drum maestro Stanley Spector.

Snow has traveled extensively throughout the United States and Mexico and has collected anecdotes throughout his travels.

Four more programs are scheduled in the Sandwich Series for Feb. 23, March 9, March 23, and April 27.

The atmosphere will be casual and sandwiches will be for sale.

"Two Women," second in the International Interest Committee's foreign film series, will show at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Coronado Room of Tech Union.

The film stars Sophia Loren in a role which brought her an Academy Award in 1962 for best actress, that of a woman trying to keep herself and her daughter alive in strife-torn Italy during World War II. Miss Loren also won a similar award from the Cannes Film Festival for this part.

There is no admission for the film which will show one time only.

Beverly Barlow, Ideas and Issues Committee chairman, said Tuesday those organizations which have received applications for entry in the committee's Quiz Bowl, scheduled for March 26, should return the completed applications as soon as possible.

Why Can't You Control Your Memory?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read. Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new book, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. Reveille
The Tuesday News...
By Cecil Green

Monday was one of those days newsmen dream fondly of and page editors have nightmares about.

Early in the day, we were planning to give Board member Al Allison top play in Tuesday's paper, and it was a justified move.

Having a member of the Board of Directors speak frankly and openly to student leaders is a giant step forward. In fact, this one act could be the steppingstone toward an even greater Texas Tech.

Board members and other top administrators should share their problems and information with students and readily study student ideas and student opinions.

Through personal contact with Allison, we get the idea that he readily recognizes this necessity. He knows that administrators usually get to see only the statistical side of a question, while students are actually closer to most situations and can look at them from the inside out.

More and more colleges and universities across the country are recognizing the value of student views. At the University of New Mexico, special representatives from the Student Council meet monthly with the president of the university.

This should be one of the goals at Texas Tech, and Allison's talk and question-and-answer session may be the embryonic beginnings of such a plan here.

But around 7 p.m. Monday, even more important news was made available to us—a new president had been named for Texas Tech.

After the first shock of surprise, we found time to ask his name—Dr. Grover Murray—and again began to redesign the page.

As important as this bit of news was, it was not totally unexpected. In many circles around campus, it was common knowledge that the Board of Directors was actively looking for a new president—after all, it's nigh to impossible to keep such a search under wraps for very long.

And the popular opinion on campus was that a change to new and younger blood was needed in the higher echelons of the college administration.

Many people felt that a younger president was needed to guide the college through the rapidly changing times; Dr. Murray seems to fill the bill.

He is 49 years old and is leaving one of the top jobs in a very progressive system.

However, it is with a note of sadness that we must say goodbye to Dr. R. C. Goodwin.

He has served Texas Tech for more than 35 years as a professor, dean and president. He has worked with Texas Tech since its younger years, helping to build and shape it to its present dimensions, both physical and mental.

He is a good friend and a good worker, and he is leaving a big legacy to his successor. We are proud to have known him these last few years.

However, the advance on Allison's speech had to be bumped from the banner headlines late in the afternoon when Jack McClure walked into the office.

McClure is student representative to the Traffic Commission, and he brought news that a lot of persons have been working long and hard for: the plan for an Entry Station System had been approved by the commission.

Even more pressing than Allison's speech because of its more immediate effect on the campus, the news of the entry stations forced a change in page one.

But it was a welcome change, because it was a plan for which the Toreador and many other students campaigned for many years.

The entry stations will mean a safer Texas Tech by doing away with vehicular congestion, eliminating unneeded and unwanted traffic, and ending a dangerous threat to campus pedestrians.

It was with sigh of relief and gratitude that we rebuilt page one around this important story.

And so the paper went to bed Monday night, with three very important stories fighting for the top position. We wish we could have given them all their due play.

Advertising: A Gentle Giant

ADVERTISING HAS ALMOST come to signify forcing someone to buy something they don't want.

However, this is not true, and one of the chief purposes of Advertising Recognition Week, which began last Sunday and will continue until next Sunday, is to point out the falacies in this argument and to show that advertising has become an important and vital part of the American economy.

A full week of activities and meetings with nationally known speakers has been planned, all of which are free to the public with the exception of the luncheon and dinner meetings.

Furthermore, these programs are planned so that students who have classes can come and go whenever their classes start. These meetings, centered around the subject "Advertising: The Great Giant," can be beneficial not only to people involved in advertising and students majoring in the field, but to the general public as well.

The aim is to acquaint the public with the importance of advertising—the fact that it enables us to get most of the mass media, radio, newspapers, magazines, at a much cheaper rate and that it informs the public about new products and helps them decide what they want to buy.

Advertising IS a gentle giant—and a modern power—that everyone should be familiar with.

A.M.E.N. Topic Causes Question

Dear Editor,
It was difficult to miss the humor in Friday's A.M.E.N. column. We refer to the bit about the lack of cigarette machines in the girls' dormitories.

If the school is going to be strict in moral legislation, how about the sanctioning of cigarette vending machines in the men's residence halls? A very conservative estimate places about 90 percent minors in the men's dorms, about 2,500 men, of which a large percentage purchase cigarettes from the dorm vending machines; yet in Texas it is against the law for a minor to operate such a machine or for a person to sell cigarettes to a minor. Can it be that Texas Technological College places itself in the position of enforcing laws in a discriminatory manner?

Coed Tells Frosh Parking Problem

Dear Editor,
I have in months past parked in the vicinity of 21st Street and Boston and walked to my classes without much complaint, except on those bitterly cold days. I understand the parking problem at Tech and I'm in agreement with school authorities that if anyone should be barred from parking on campus it should be the freshmen.

What do we do now that we find "two hour parking only" signs erected for blocks around the campus? It isn't only the freshman student who is affected. There are many upper classmen that for many reasons, more often than not a financial reason, do not register their cars and are obliged to park off campus.

Who is responsible for these signs? Is there no way to show the city of Lubbock that they are making a severe hardship on us? Many of us have a tight school-to-work schedule and time is important. Why should I and many fellow freshmen be obliged to walk a dozen or more blocks simply because we are freshmen? The allotted stadium space could never hold all registered freshman vehicles.

Can anyone come up with a suitable answer to the freshman dilemma? I for one would welcome any workable practical solution.

"Many male students have been inquiring about the new program, particularly since the beginning of the spring semester," said Major Henry L. Gantz, Jr., professor of aerospace studies. "We have felt all along that this new program would grow in appeal to students who wish to compete for Air Force commissions, but lately, pressure from students' draft boards have made our deferment plan very attractive."

"The new program allows students who did not enter AFROTC as freshmen to attend a six-week summer camp which compresses material ordinarily received in the first two years of on-campus training. Students then are in-step with other third year participants."

"Another feature is that potential enrollees can participate as long as they have two to two and a half years of college work remaining prior to the award of a degree at either the undergraduate or graduate level," Major Gantz said.

Melda Sasser, senior advertising major from Houston, of Gamma Alpha Chi and Corky Harrison, Ft. Worth senior advertising art major, of Alpha Delta Sigma will be their organization's outstanding members for 1966.

Culver Hill, Hemphill Wells advertising director, made the presentation of the ADS award. Mrs. Ethel McLeod, Lubbock Ad Club president, presented the award for GAX.

Nan Todd, Vernon sophomore, was chosen "Miss Advertising" for 1966 by the Tech chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma Sunday in a joint meeting of Gamma Alpha Chi and Alpha Delta Sigma. The queen election was in conjunction with National Advertising Recognition Week Feb. 6-13.

A seminar on "The World of Advertising" beginning at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in the Union Ballroom will conclude activities.

Runners-Up Named

Runners-up in the contest were Linda Wells, Dallas sophomore; Cheryl Russell, Fort Worth junior; Genelyn Cannon, Amarillo junior and Geneva Billings, Lubbock senior.

Lubbock Auto is furnishing a 1966 Ford Mustang for a week as a door prize in conjunction with a lecture on the advertising program of the Mustang by Dan K. Loveland.

Events for the week include initiation of professional members and awarding of the outstanding member awards at a mixer for fraternity members at 7 tonight in the Union. A seminar on "The World of Advertising" beginning at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in the Union Ballroom will conclude activities.

Lecturers will include Loveland of J. Walter Thomas Advertising in Dallas, and Rex Brack, senior vice president of Braniff International, Dallas.

Panel Discussion Set

Panelists for a discussion on "What Did Advertising Do For You Today?" will include Art Pinson, Albuquerque; C. Don Curphey, Amarillo; Rex Webster, Mrs. Jack Dulaney, Dr. C. Melvin Ratheal, and Bill Parsley, all of Lubbock, and H. S. Walker, assistant professor of economics at Tech. Parsley is vice president for development at Tech.

Alec Chesser, vice president and director of advertising for Houston Natural Gas Co., will be principal speaker at the Silver Medal Award Dinner at 7 p.m. Thursday at Ko Ko Palace.

Tickets for the dinner are $2.25. Reservations may be made by calling Dr. Billy Ross at Ext. 3119.

MISS ADVERTISING—Texas Tech sophomore Nan Todd, Vernon, chats with Lubbock Mayor Max Tidmore as Tidmore prepares to sign a proclamation citing Feb. 6-13 as National Advertising Recognition Week. Miss Todd, a journalism major and member of Kappa Alpha Theta social sorority, was named "Miss Advertising" for the event sponsored by advertising fraternities Alpha Delta Sigma and Gamma Alpha and the Lubbock Ad Club.

Tech Shares Third Place

Texas Tech tied for third place honors with McNeese College last weekend in junior division of the Baylor Forensic Tournament at Waco.

The University of Southern California won sweepstakes awards and T.C.U. placed second. Tech's five debate teams won 19 out of 25 preliminary rounds, placing two undefeated teams in the finals. David Bradley and Robert Trapp won the quarter final competition but were defeated in semi-finals by Hardin-Simmons.

Hal Upchurch and Janine Coats were defeated in quarter-finals by the University of Southern California.

Fifty-two schools from six states were entered in the tourney. About 170 debate teams competed for honors, said Vernon McGuire, Tech debate coach.

McNAMARA SPEAKS

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today using American troops in Viet Nam only to guard American bases and sending no more troops to that country, would allow Viet Cong guerrillas to "roam at their will over the countryside."

McNamara, in Honolulu with President Johnson for talks with South Viet Nam leaders, made his remarks to CBS news in response to proposals by Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin Ret.

Basketball Players Aren't All Big Guys

No more little guys in college basketball? Don't believe it. There seem to be more good players under six feet this season than in many years.

For instance, there's 5-foot-11 Mike Warren who is starring for UCLA, the 1965-66 national collegiate champions. Jim Coleman and Doug Wardlaw, also 5-11, have played a major role in the rise of Chicago Loyola to national prominence. They combined for 55 points in Loyola's overtime victory over UCLA last week in Chicago.

Dean Foster of Cincinnati, also 5-11, has helped put the Bearcats in the Associated Press Top Ten. He dribbled the length of the court for a last second basket that gave Cincinnati a recent road victory over Louisville.

Willie Worsley of unbeaten Texas Western is the smallest of the little guys at 5-6. Some think he's 5-7, but the Miners say 5-6 is correct. No one disputes the fact he has been a factor in Texas Western's push into the Top Ten with its 14-game winning streak.

Dub Malaise, 5-11, stars for Texas Tech in the Southwest Conference. Then there's 5-10 Al Swartz of St. John's, New York, whose floor generalship helped the Redmen upset St. Joseph's of Philadelphia recently.

Other little guys include Russ Critchfield, 5-10, of California; Mike Ammond, 5-10, of Ohio University; Jim Bahry, 5-11, of Kent State; Bob Miles, 5-9½, of Creighton; Richard Tate, 5-11, of Utah; Phil Snow, 5-8, of Miami, Ohio, and Lawrence T. Smith, 5-7, of Wyoming.

They are following in the footsteps of a number who were outstanding in the sport in past years.

Murray Weir, 5-9, of Iowa, and Ralph Beard, 5-10, of Kentucky, were on the 1948 Associated Press All-America.

Gene Melchierre, 5-8, of Bradley, made the 1951 team. Johnny O'Brien, 5-9, of Seattle, was picked in 1953; Chet Forte, 5-9, of Columbia in 1957, and Don Hennon, 5-8½, of Pitt, in 1958.

Vinnie Ernst, 5-9, of Providence, was named the most valuable player of the 1961 National Invitation Tournament in New York, and helped the Friars win the 1963 NIT.

Two stars of the 1960 season were Max Perry, 5-10, of Utah State and Dick Hickox, 5-8, of Miami, Fla.

But an almost unbelievable deficiency in scoring as the second half got underway, put the Raiders nine points behind, 53-44 after 8:51 of playing time. During that time period, the Ags outscored the visitors, 17-4.

But the battling Raiders erased that deficit with 5:45 left in the game and knotted the score at 60-all and it took three rapid-fire baskets by guard Dick Rector to sink the Raiders for good.

The count was tied at 63 apiece when the Aggies took two shots at their basket before Rector pumped in the the first of his three shots.

Tech started back down-court with the ball, but they were never able to set up an offense. Rector stole the ball and raced back in for a lay up.

Again the Raiders made for their end of the court and this time, got a shot away only to have it rebounded by Dick Stringfellow, who passed to Rector and another two points.

Rector's requiem for the Raiders' victory hopes covered a span of less than one minute and left the score at 69-63, the same six-point deficit that separated the two teams when the contest ended.

The game completed first half activity for both teams, leaving the Aggies well in the drivers' seat with a perfect 7-0 record. The Raiders have at best only a "mathematical chance" to rally for the crown they had been favored to win before the season started. Tech now is 4-3 in loop wars.

The Raiders' game plan had been to shut the Aggies out of the close shots and this they accomplished to perfection employing a zone defense.

Tech's Norman Reuther, playing possibly his best game this season, held A&M's scoring ace, John Beasley to a mere three points (all at the free throw line) in the first half.

But it was the gunning of the Aggies' outside shooters that pushed the Raiders under.

Sophomore Terry Trippet, a former schoolmate of Dub Malaise, at Odessa High, came off the bench and pumped in 17 points to assist the game's leading scorer, Eddie Dominguez, who shot in 22.

Tech also took a beating on the boards, taking in only 36 caroms to 52 for Texas A&M. Beasley wound up ahead in rebounds with 13. Giant Randy Matson caught 10. Bob Glover led the Raiders in rebounds with 11. Reuther had five.

As the showdown game began, the Raiders emerged from three tie scores to take a 9-8 margin and held the lead right up to intermission.

Midway through the half, the Aggies were experiencing a mild scoring drought and were also suffering on the boards, allowing Tech to gain a 20-15 lead with 9:30 left and the Aggies called time out.

After instructions from the sidelines, the home towners punched away at the deficit and narrowed it to a one-point, 24-23 tally with seven minutes showing.

But the visitors managed to maintain the advantage and went into the dressing room with the four-point lead.

Stars Sign Intent Letters

Seven area high school football players have been signed to letters of intent by the Tech coaching staff, the athletic department announced Tuesday.

Coach Bradley Mills obtained the signatures of two Odessa gridders, Don Carr, a speedy safetyman from Permian and end Brusse Bevers from Odessa High.

Also announcing their intentions to attend Tech are: half back Jimmy Bennett, Amarillo Tascosa; Quarterback Lane Wade, Abernathy and halfback Jerry Don Sanders, Springlake.

Previously signed were Randy Bowlin, second team all-state quarterback from Lubbock Monterey and teammate and all-district fullback Jack Buffington, son of Raider Assistant Coach Harry Buffington.
