Desperado Is Captured Near Sherman, Tex.

DALLAS, (AP)—Raymond Hamilton's notorious career as one of the southwest's two most widely sought desperados was checked Thursday. He occupied a cell at the Dallas county jail while the wheels of justice moved swiftly.

District Attorney Robert Hurt said there would be at least a ten-day interval before Hamilton's trial as he wanted to work up a "sure fire" case.

It was originally planned to start the trial Monday.

Hurt announced he would be ready.

He was brought here early Thursday from Sherman near which place he was captured after an exciting chase following the robbery of the First National Bank in Lewisville.

District Attorney Robert Hurt announced he was ready to demand and expected the jury to assess in short order, the death penalty against the fugitive bandit.

Hamilton denied Clyde Barrow participated in his delivery from the Eastham prison farm or his brother Floyd had a part in the Lancaster or Grand Prairie bank robberies.

When Deputy Sheriff Yancy and McDaniel, and Dr. John T. Nail, arms instructor of the Sherman police force, blocked his road Wednesday at Howe, seven miles south of Sherman and ordered his surrender, Hamilton and his associate, T. R. Brooks, submitted without resistance.

Taking his downfall philosophically, Hamilton explained he and "the kid" armed only with pistols, so they "chose" not to try to "shoot their way out" of the trap.

He intimated if he had had a machine gun he might have tried to get out by shooting the officers.

After Hamilton's capture the officers took into custody at Amarillo his alleged woman companion, Mary O'Dare, rushing her to Dallas.

No shots were fired in the capture but Howard Gunter, special deputy, was killed in an automobile collision while driving Hamilton's stolen car into Sherman.

IT ISN'T JUST FISHING THAT CALLS YOU NOW. Along about this time of year, an imperative desire begins to stir in the breast of the average citizen...

It would be a mistake to suppose that he really envies President Roosevelt his ability to get on a great yacht and sail off to nirvanical seas to hook tropical fish six feet long...

He will see this, or something like it, from his own past; and while he will remember all sorts of stirring incidents connected therewith, such as the catching of prodigious sunfish and rock bass...

And it is the memory of this that unsettles our sober citizen, as he meditates on the business of fishing. He may not know it, but what he really wants is to recapture an echo of that long-lost and halcyon time that he knew when he was in knee-breeches.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go. If you feel sour and stuff and the world looks murky, don't swallow a lot of calomel, castor oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your drowsy-and-odd feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. As just druggists in the morning, clear bile up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned. It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful herbain, gentle vegetable extracts, none when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't look for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. TEXAS TOPICS

By Raymond Brooks

"Another 'thou shalt,' will add to the burden of many property insurers throughout Texas this year. At the same time, basic rates themselves will raise the premium costs to property insurers of Austin and other cities.

The state board of insurance commissioners has approved the proposition of insurance companies to compel any person who wants to take tornado insurance also to pay for hail insurance, whether the property owner chooses to buy hail insurance or not. The charge is $1 per thousand, or about a $3 annual levy upon the ordinary home owner.

Many people of Texas have not chosen to buy hail insurance; but now they either will buy it or will abandon tornado insurance. Except for mortgaged property where the lender is compelled to furnish storm insurance, and thus are roped in on the charge for hail coverage, it is apparent that the cancellation of tornado insurance will offset the extra income from compulsory types. But then, at least 99 per cent of all the premiums on hail insurance in Texas is net profit.

In and for Austin, the state insurance supervisors have approved a change as to residences which will increase the cost of fire insurance about .15 per cent. The same form of increase was proposed for other cities of the same rank.

Property owners of Texas have suffered seriously in respect to insurance—and particularly automobile owners—in that the state is without an independent investigating and rate-making agency that could check up on the validity of ever-growing demands of the companies.

As it is, the people who pay the bill are unrepresented and all the state, with its present facilities, is to inquire, "any objection?" and then put into effect whatever labels or schedules the companies propose.

Claiming organizations in 175 out of the 254 counties, the Young Democrats of Texas organization has called its second annual state convention to be held in Dallas Friday and Saturday, May 4 and 5, according to notices sent out by J. Cullen Looney of Edinburg, state president.

Richard F. Roper of Washington, secretary of the democratic national committee and Cliff Woodward, Des Moines, president of the Young Democrats of America, have accepted invitations to attend this Texas meeting. It was announced, State Chmn. J. K. Brim, Sulphur Spring, Roy Miller, Corpus Christi, who was director of the national campaign in Texas in 1932, have been invited to address the meeting.

Announcement has just been made that J. T. Scott, Jr., Houston, has accepted South Texas chairmanship of Maury Hughes' campaign for governor.

This was forecast several days ago, when Mr. Hughes addressed a state meeting of the Thomas Jefferson society in Houston, sponsored by the young democrats.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep...Vigor...Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. They should pour out thru the bladder 3 pints of fluid a day which contains 4 tons of waste matter. If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of stinging neckache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness. If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS... a doctor's prescription... which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatment of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS... the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-McMillan Co.

THESE DOGS BARKED—AND DILLINGER JUMPED OUT THE WINDOW

These two pictures tell the whole story of John Dillinger's escape from a trap laid by federal officers at the Little Bohemia resort in northern Wisconsin. It was these dogs which unwittingly saved Dillinger from capture when they barked and warned him that strangers approached. Thereupon he sent his machine gunners into action and jumped out of a back window of the resort lodge. The dogs are shown with their owner, Mrs. Nan Wanatka, wife of the proprietor of the isolated resort near Mercer, Wis. (Associated Press Photos)

Delegates Report To Methodists

Mrs. Carter And Mrs. O. M. Waters Tell Of Conference

The First Methodist W. M. S. held its monthly social and missionary study Tuesday afternoon at the church, and heard the conference reports from Lubbock.

Mrs. Keaton gave the devotional, giving a word of appreciation for the hymn, "Come Thou Almighty King."

Mrs. Remele talked on "Why Have Missionary Schools in Brazil?" Mrs. Edwards gave a piano solo.

The high peak of the meeting were the reports given by the president, Mrs. Carter, and the delegate Mrs. Waters, of the conference at Lubbock, whose subject was "Interracial and World Peace."

They announced that in 1935 the W. M. S. would celebrate its silver jubilee anniversary at Childress, the place of its organization. Members who attended that meeting would be honor guests. Big Spring has one of the first officers, Mrs. Fox Stripling, still residing here. Mrs. Stripling expects to attend.

They told also of a missionary with a four-year-old Indian boy whom he had rescued from being buried alive in the grave of its mother when the child was three days old. The missionary and the child, they said, had penetrated parts of the country where no one else had gone and converted many tribes to Christianity.

It was announced that there would be a district meeting of the W. M. S. Conference at Sweetwater on May 2, beginning at 10:30 in the morning, with a covered dish luncheon at noon. A large crowd of women from here expect to attend. On May 6 the W.M.S. will have charge of the Sunday evening services of the church.

Mmes. Jack Nail, J. B. Pickle, L. M. Pysatt and W. A. Miller were hostesses for the afternoon and served a salad plate, with rosebuds as favors to the following:

Mmas. W. E. Spone, Lockridge, Fox Stripling, C. E. Tabbot, M. Wentz, O. R. Bollinger, G. A. Hartman, W. K. Edwards, C. A. Bickley, W. H. Remele, W. J. Riggs, Horace Penn, Joe Faucett, G. E. Fleeman, C. C. Carter, O. M. Waters and S. P. Jones.

Offer Of Painting For Museum To Be Withdrawn If $500 Is Not Raised By Middle Of Next Month

Mrs. H. W. Caylor announces that unless the $500 for the painting, "The Trail Herd" is raised by May 15, the offer will be withdrawn.

Response to the fund for the painting, which goes to endow a home for the local museum so the picture may be assured of a permanent home, has been slower than anticipated. The amounts have been small, although willingly given. The chief trouble is that not enough people have subscribed.

W. P. Edwards was the largest contributor, writing a check for $50. If several more would follow his example the amount could soon be raised. It is more than half raised by now.

The same old alibi that has characterized Big Spring's attitude toward every new movement since its tent days has been used against contributing to the museum—that the museum has no future anyhow. Euthusiasm and vision have never been outstanding traits of the local citizens and lack of them has damaged many an enterprise from its beginning—just as it is doing now.

The hope of the museum was that every person in Howard county who could possibly afford to give an amount give it, no matter how small. It is physically impossible to call on everyone for a dollar or quarter, but most people require that of any movement. Mrs. Caylor has now put it up to the town to buy or not to buy.

So far Mrs. J. L. Thomas has carried the whole load practically herself. Arrangements were made for leaving donations at Albert M. Fisher's store, a convenient location, but few people left anything. Mrs. Caylor is justifiably discouraged. Midland and other western towns would gladly pay the $500 asked for the picture. Why should the care whether this town has it or not?

Mrs. O. L. Thomas Is Hostess To Ely See's

Mrs. Noland G. Williams of Dallas played with Ely See Bridge Club Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. L. Thomas.

Mrs. J. B. Young made high score and Mrs. Wasson second high.

Members present were: Mmes. J. B. Young, Tom Ashley, R. B. Biles, Victor Martin, Elmo Wasson, Lee Rogers, Ashley Williams.

Mrs. V. Van Gleason will be the next hostess.

Chapter 33 THE ANSWER

Judith Dale wrote an answer to her husband's letter at top speed, then raced down the hill to the Big Tom post-office and mailed it before she had time to change her mind.

In bed she tried to remember certain portions of her answer. She had written, "I'd as soon consider cutting the house into small bits and keeping those parts as I would taking part of the furnishings for myself. Hillendale is an entity. To have a part of it would only remind me of what I have lost."

Maybe seeing him with Mathilde would cure her of her obsession for surely a love which could call forth the acute emotional agony she was suffering was an obsession. She turned her face into the pillows and tried to muffle the sobs which shook her entire body, dimly conscious that her physical being from the tips of her toes to the dreadful pain in her head was like a sensitive nerve racked by a power beyond her control.

The springs of Delphy's bed creaked and caused her to catch her breath and lie quiet a moment. Footsteps shuffled to the kitchen, there was the click of metal on metal and a low-voiced monologue on a "danged contraption that'll cause ma soul to suffa fire for a cursin' it."

Delphy was heaving chocolate. The sobs of her mistress turned to hysterical laughter, and when the old woman shuffled in a few moments later she found Judith laughing and crying in the same breath.

"There, there, honey lamb; just you shut yo' mouth an' drink this chocolate."

"How can I shut my mouth 'n' drink?" inquired Judith, with a hysterical giggle.

"I'll rub yo' back down soon as you finish it. Wrought up you are, wrought up, what with dam buildin', ghosts an' flyin' up where man's never sposed to be yo're all a quiver."

When Judith had finished the "chocolate," Delphy, ignoring her protests, rubbed some home-made concoction of menthol on the back of her neck and began massaging her neck, her shoulders, her back.

When she awakened the next morning she felt that something dreadful which had been on the verge of happening had happened.

Delphy served her breakfast, relating some choice town gossip as she hovered about the table, and

Judith, remembering her unselfish devotion, pretended to enjoy the flaky biscuits and to laugh at the gossip.

The change in her personal affairs made Delphy a fresh problem. She should send her back to Norman or Mrs. Dale. She belonged to them, but somehow, having her made it seem she still retained some hold on her husband. She would let Delphy make the decision.

She did that evening. The growing heat of the desert spring had driven them to the little porch in front, and Delphy, silent for the moment, was watching the approach of the work train, crawling long like a black snake.

She explained things briefly, then waited for the old woman to answer.

"Miss Judy, d'you mean you don't want me no mo'?" she asked plaintively.

"No, Delphy; not at all. But, as Miss Bevin said in Lige's letter, you've always been with the Dales."

"Miss Judy, none a the rest of the Dales needs me 'ceptin' you; and, Miss Judy, I just got to be needed."

Tears smarted in Judith's eyes at the hunger in the old woman's voice. "You're right, Delphy, and I do need you... you know that, don't you?"

The train was in, the mail courier coming up the hill. Judith's heart beat like a tom-tom in spite of her stern efforts to control a hope she knew to be futile. Letters for her... she scanned the handwriting. Clia's scrawl. She tore open the envelope, pulled out the rough copy paper, and out of the mass of lettering one line seemed to stand illumined.

"Norman has quit the firm of Dale, Lampere and Morrison."

Judith read on breathlessly. "The other day in court, someone informed me that Norman Dale's name had disappeared from the door of the firm's offices. I telephoned them and the girl told me Norman was out of town."

"When I asked where I could reach him, she said he had asked that his address be kept secret. Nor did she know when he would return nor when that address would be available."

"Wait 'till I take a story over the phone... just a mort, okay, ready to go again!"

"I asked to talk to Lampere. He was as smooth as silk, or as usual, and said Norman had left town to rest. I asked why his resting made it necessary for his name to be removed and he said Norman had thought it advisable as he was liable to remain away for several years, might never return, that due to his 'late embarrassment' (meaning you and the Bevins money) he might remain away permanently, even taking bar examinations in some other state."

"I said, bologna, and he said, what, and I repeated, how interesting, may I use this in a news story. At that he nearly jumped through the telephone at me. However, Judy-girl, in case you don't all ready know it, your husband is no longer associated with Morton Lampere. Mathilde had ceased grieving in Galveston, since Norman won his case and returned here. She evidently found she could grieve here as effectively as there and appears now and then in public places, dressed in devastating mourning (how that girl can make clothes speak for her. I almost smiled at her the other day on Texas and Main, just because of the hat she wore). "And that reminds me. She framed Norman into a picture Lampere's sheet used in their rotogravure. Seems Mrs. Dale and some other woman word that fool bridge tournament. Frost of the Union went down to take their picture. Norman was with his mother and went out on the terrace with her, then sat down in a chair to study some papers he happened to be working on. "Mathilde, Mrs. Dale's shadow, was not far away. She gracefully effaced herself from Mrs. Dale's side so she wouldn't interfere with the picture, and sat down close to Norman. Frost, having received his orders, took them in this cozy twosome, then turned his attention to the other women. "Norman was so absorbed in his work he didn't know what had happened until he saw the paper. Was he mad! If Lampere hadn't held him down he'd have wrecked the Union, Frost and a few others. "I wonder if your innocent Scotchman isn't getting onto the fact that Lampere is using this stuff to psychologize the public and get future jurors into believing that Norman is the man behind the Bevins women's fight for your money."

ment...and that was why he hadn't been able to keep Hillendale.

Poor Norman. She could see the small-boy look of bewildered pain on his face. He was to fine to understand the motives behind the others. "So straight his head touches his heels at times," Clia had said.

With maternal fear, she wondered so that was how that dazed what this cataclysm would do to him, embitter him or send his stubborn chin jutting forward for fresh battle? If only she could grasp the motives behind the others...at least she could write with veiled encouragement. There were other pages of gossip and other letters, but the sight of Cunard coming up hill waving telegrams, erased them from her mind. "We've won this far," he greeted. "They're sending an injunction in from the State commission, with rangers to follow. I'll leave in the morning for Austin, and arrange to meet Scatborne informally, then if necessary, we'll have a hearing."

Cunard left Big Tom Town the following morning. "Not that we've won yet, Judy," he admonished. "These fellows are too slippery to be trusted. Keep your eyes and ears open and whenever Slim comes down have him take you for an air cruise over Scatborne's holdings. I'll have a list of his holdings sent up from Del Mar."

A few days later she received word that Scatborne had agreed to abandon his dam. "He agreed too readily," wrote Cunard. "I think he has something else up his sleeve. Watch for it."

Slowly the days passed. Judith watched the mails eagerly and after a lapse of time was surprised to find her last letter to Norman returned unopened. A post office stamp informed her that the "Addressee has moved, left no forwarding address."

The same mail brought word from Lige which stilled the fear in Judith's heart. "Ma's Norman had dress in his hawk clova an' gone huntin'."

"Mrs. Dale, she say she don't know where he gone, but she ain't worryin' none so I guess she know. She's lookin' after Hill and Del, which is been lease to Miz and Mister De Mar from Boston. They is French and Boston which is same as United States and they are nice. Rose she like them fine. They think this house sure is pretty and addin' make no change what-all."

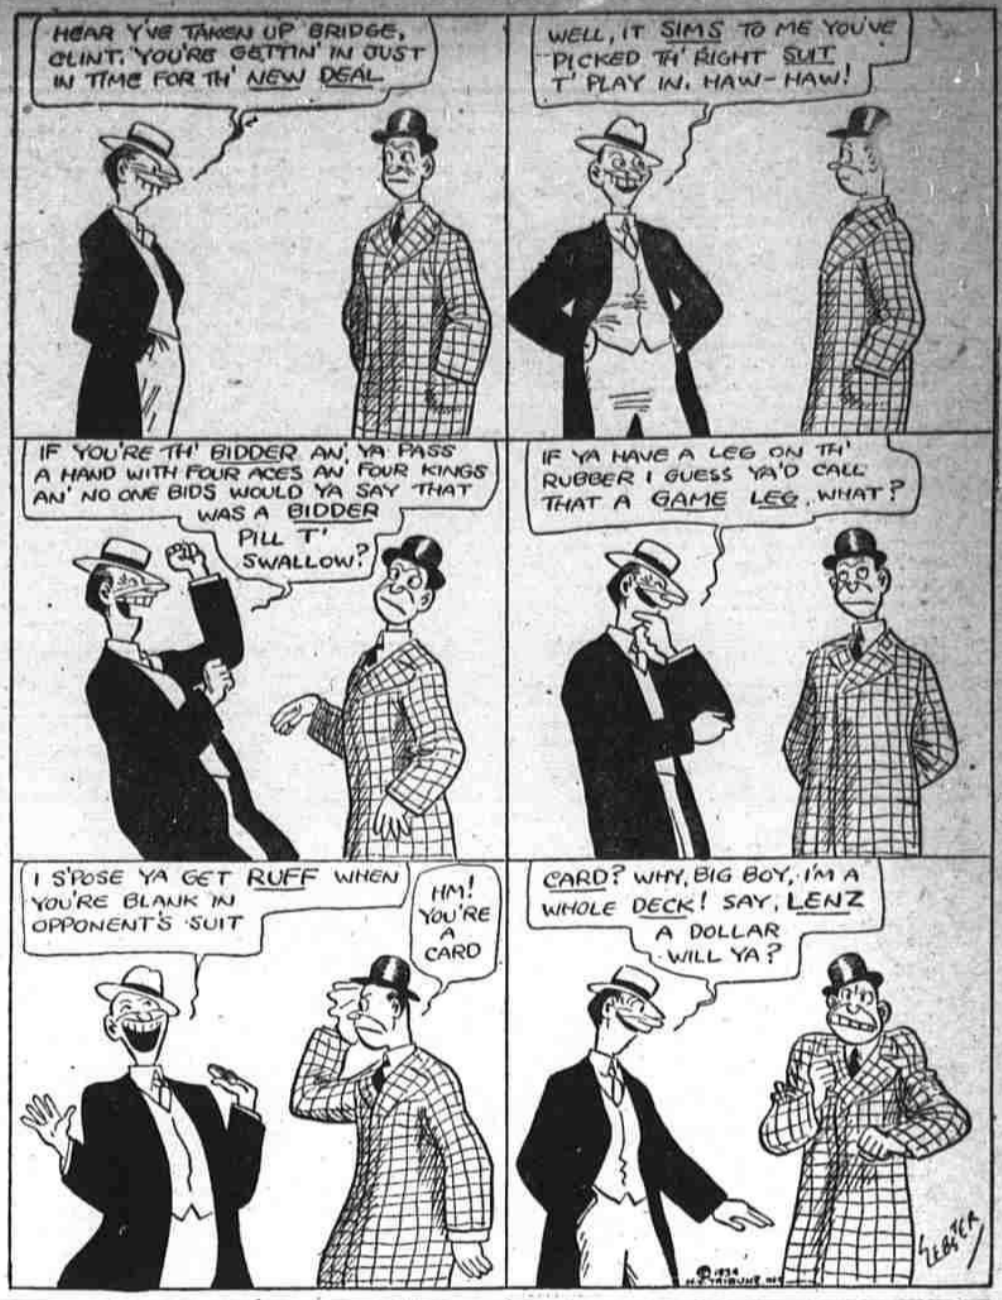

Judith gave a deep sigh of relief.

embarrassing because bills which otherwise would die in committee are forced out where they have to go on record one way or the other.

The bonus bill was drafted from committee in this fashion. So was the McLeod bill to pay off all depositors in closed banks—although leaders since have wrapped additional parliamentary snarls around this one.

Insurgents got up to 141 signatures to force action on the Franke-Lemke bill before Speaker Rainey and Presidential Secretary Louis Howe got busy and persuaded some of the regulars to erase their names. This is the measure to refinance farm mortgages through greenback inflation.

Rep. De Priest, the negro congressman, got 145 signatures and forced a promise that alleged discrimination against his race in the house restaurant would be investigated.

Representative Of World Famous Beauty Authority To Talk On Plain Problems Of Skin Treatment To Women By Interview

Helena Rubenstein, noted beauty specialist, has sent out her personal representative from New York City, Miss Aileen Faye to give women who want to capture beauty in a week the shock of their lives.

Miss Faye is making appointments at Collins Bros. drug store for interviews with women who can stand being told the truth. She says the interview will do the others no good.

Madame Rubenstein, as well-informed women know, is interested in beauty from the inside out—not the inside of the soul but of the skin. Her preparations are based on a study of skin conditions in connection with leading dermatologists the world over.

The secret of skin beauty is in circulation. Few women understand this. But every woman over 30 who wants to retain a fresh skin must start the fight against a sluggish circulation that nature itself commences. It is an easier battle to win if a girl starts it at 20.

Madame Rubenstein is not looking for results within a week but toward a lifetime with a beautiful old age. She seeks to interest the women who want to know that at 50 she can retain all possible of the freshness of her girlish skin.

Of particular interest to women is the new herbal ointment that Miss Faye is introducing, which is active in increasing circulation and in doing what hours of facial exercise would be needed otherwise to accomplish.

The chart she shows women tells the tale of normal wear and tear and the preventive measures she gives are those recommended by Madame Rubenstein.

Women who want interviews with her are asked to call Collins Bros. as soon as possible for Miss Faye will remain in Big Spring only throughout Saturday.

T. R. Brooks, 21, said he was from Wichita Falls and that he had no previous criminal record.

Hamilton escaped from Eastham prison farm Jan. 18 in a daring delivery reputedly engineered by the gang leader Clyde Barrow, notorious killer wanted for a dozen slayings. Hamilton was sent to prison for various bank robberies and holdups.

Neither Brooks nor Hamilton offered any resistance when a posse of officers stopped them on highway 75. They were traveling north toward Sherman at the time, having turned onto the highway at Frisco. They were in a sedan identified as having been stolen from Henrietta. The money taken from the Lewisville bank was in the car. Hamilton and Brooks were armed with automatic pistols.

The two fled northeast through Little Elm community to Frisco and thence along highway 75 to Howe.

Hamilton said he had "been on the bum more or less" ever since he participated in the robbery of the P. A. Henry bank at Lancaster some weeks ago. He said the Lancaster bank loot was "split three ways," being divided between himself, Clyde Barrow and a third party whom he declined to name.

Oil And Gas Conference To Be Held Afternoon Of May 14 At West Texas Chamber Of Commerce

SAN ANGELO—An Oil and Gas conference will be held at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, 18th annual convention here on the afternoon of May 14 under the chairmanship of W. B. Hamilton, Wichita Falls, for years prominent in oil and gas circles in West Texas.

Hamilton will be assisted in the organization of the conference by Wilburn Page, manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, who will serve as secretary of the group conference.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has long championed conservation measures for the regulation of oil and gas industries in Texas, and the conference will be devoted to furthering the regional chamber's policies in this connection. Prominent oil and gas authorities will be asked to discuss various phases of the industry's problems at the conference.

Interest On Farm Indebtedness Curtailed, Analysis Reveals

Federal Land Bank and Land Bank Commissioner's farm mortgage loans in Texas have refinanced farmers' indebtedness upon which annual interest charges formerly ran from 5 per cent to 9 per cent in most cases, it was shown in an analysis by the Farm Credit Administration of more than half the loans closed from June 1, 1933, through March 31, 1934.

The highest rate farmers now pay on the mortgages into which these debts have been refinanced is 5 per cent and on a large proportion it is only 4-1/2 per cent. The savings resulting from reduced interest charges applies, of course, not merely to one year but to the life of the loan.

The analysis dealt only with interest rates paid on first and second mortgages, and upon short-term commercial bank loans. It did not deal with other classes of debt or many other untraceable items bearing upon the cost to farmers of carrying their debts, such as loan and renewal fees. The total of loans closed from June of last year through March of this year in Texas was about $67,400,000. While the bulk of the loans re-

More Than 33,000 Freight Cars Required To Haul 1934 Pontiac Car Production, Report Reveals

PONTIAC, Mich.—The automobile industry plays a very important part in the railroad business of this country today.

More than 33,000 freight cars will be required to haul that part of Pontiac 1934 production that will be shipped by rail, according to E. B. Rogers, traffic manager of the Pontiac Motor company.

Although the motor car is a direct competitor of the railroads in the freight and passenger service over the highways, Mr. Rogers pointed out that the automotive industry doubtless has contributed more to the expansion and prosperity of all railroads throughout the country during the last 25 years than any other single factor.

Figures prepared by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce show that last year 2,621,000 carloads of automotive freight were hauled over the tracks of American railroads. Revenues to the roads from this source ran close to $350,000,000. Automotive freight accounts for 15 per cent of the total railway traffic of the country.

"It is difficult to estimate how many railroad men are given em-

966 Complaints Reported At NRA Houston Office

The Houston NRA office up to the close of business on San Jacinto Day, April 21, had received 966 complaints against employers alleged to have been violating the "NRA Codes." In the adjusting of complaints, back wages have been paid to approximately 100 persons totaling about $2,000. 391 active, unadjusted complaints yet in progress as of April 21 and only 31 complaints on which the Houston office was impossible to effect adjustment had been forwarded into Washington to the National Compliance Director.

During the week of April 21 the Houston Office received 98 complaints of which 21 were trade practice complaints and 77 were labor complaints. During the week 7 labor complaints and 1 trade practice complaint was adjusted, making a total of 18 of the active complaints on hand at the end of the week, 341 were in relation to violation of the wage or hours provisions of codes, 50 were in connection with violation of trade practice phases of codes.

The active, unadjusted complaints on hand and in process of adjustment on April 21 in the Houston office were divided by industry classification as follows: 21 in the cleaning and dyeing trade, 14 construction industry, 22 cotton garb manufacturing industry, 15 electric storage and primary battery, 15 hotel industry, 11 motor vehicle retailing, 13 motor vehicle storage and parking, 80 restaurant industry, 50 retail food and groceries, 24 retail trade, 10 trucking industry, and 115 complaints covering 39 other industries and trades.

Persons who have knowledge of violations of approved codes owe it to the members of their industry and all other industries who are trying to comply with the law to file complaints against all non-compliers. Printed forms to be used in filing complaints are obtainable from all postmasters of the first, second and third class postoffices. NRA official offices are located in the Frost Building at San Antonio, Chamber of Commerce building at El Paso, Republic Bank building at Dallas, and Milam building at Houston. Locating these official NRA offices in these four places in Texas has been arranged by the NRA in order to make it possible for persons who have problems which they wish to take up with the NRA to be able to contact one of these official field offices without too much distance to be traveled or expense to be suffered. Mr. H. P. Drought, Frost Building, San Antonio, is the state NRA compliance director, and the four above mentioned offices are in charge of the following NRA executive assistants: Marvin K. Allen, San Antonio; T. U. Purcell, El Paso; Sherwood H. Avery, Dallas, and Ernest L. Tutt, Houston.

Farm Families Cut Off From Relief Rolls To Taken Care Of Through New Relief Set-Up

AUSTIN—Many farm families in Texas were cut off from various Federal Emergency Relief Rolls on April first, but a new program will be put into immediate effect for aid of a different and more businesslike kind, it was announced Wednesday by Director Marie Dresden of the Texas Relief commission.

New relief for most families will be directed mainly toward helping them to become self-sustaining. Families not suited to farm projects may be continued on work projects, or, where no other course is open, will be given direct relief.

During the government's program relating to reduction of certain crops in Texas, many tenant farmers became displaced only to find themselves on the relief rolls of the state.

Director Dresden is of the opinion that many landowners who let tenants go, due to inability to care for them, would now be willing to have those same tenants, or an equal number of them, live on their farms under the jurisdiction of the Texas Relief commission's rural rehabilitation division.

It has been pointed out that widespread misunderstanding of acreage reduction contracts has led to the release of many tenant-farmers. Officials of the administration believe that when brought to the attention of land-owners, these misunderstandings will be cleared up and thousands of tenant-farmers will be given a few acres around their dwellings, upon which to raise those things necessary to self-sustenance.

The rural rehabilitation program will be open to families that have made arrangements for crop production and also to those who are being allowed by their landlords to live on land removed from crop production, as well as to families not now living on farms, but whose life experience has been agricultural.

The procedure will be directed to provide the family with such essential necessities of operating a farm as may not now be available to them. Food and clothing will also be supplied until the family's own efforts meet these needs.

Large-scale shifting of families from town to town, or from one part of the farming territory to another, is not contemplated. The first job, said Director Dresden, is to care for destitute families where they are.

To help the rehabilitation family make repayment of indebtedness to the relief agency, "work relief" will be initiated. These projects must be undertaken in such places, and to such an extent, as will meet the needs of the families to be rehabilitated. That is, the number of families to be aided and the time and manner in which they should be employed, for their own best interests, will be the fundamental consideration in determining the location and character of the projects.

State and local rehabilitation committees will be named to assist in putting the program into effect and it is expected that volunteer committees in each community will be chief factors. The county agricultural agent and home agents will be asked to advise in setting up practical plans of farm procedure for each family and supervision will be provided to see that the plans are effectively carried out.

Women will be expected to take an important part in planning and directing this progressive program. While the prime objective is to assure that destitute families are enabled to provide themselves with
