Jones Grocery Destroyed By Fire Friday

Building Ignites As Pail Of Gasoline Overturns Near Gas Stove

Second fire causing appreciable damage within a week wrought total ruin to the stock and serious damage to the building of the E. B. Jones grocery, Runnels and East 10th streets, Friday morning.

The building ignited when a pail of gasoline overturned near a lighted gas stove. The fluid was being used to clean fixtures and flames quickly spread over most of the store.

A mix-up in the alarm sent the fire department rushing to 111 Runnels before the mistake could be corrected.

Amount of the loss could not be estimated Friday noon.

City Fire Marshal E. E. Bethel issued another strong warning against negligence. He quoted from the city fire code: "Do all gasoline cleaning in the open air. Everyone should refrain from using gasoline or like volatiles in the house. This material should not be kept in the house nor in glass bottles. Beware of rags or cloths used in oiling floors or cleaning or polishing furniture. They may ignite spontaneously. Be sure and burn them after using. Leaving them about for only a few hours may mean a fire."

Earlier in the week a trash fire licked against a garage at 1211 Runnels street and started a blaze that destroyed the building, a new car, and damaged an adjoining house.

Both fires, said the fire marshal, were due to lack of care. He warned that many such fires would deprive Big Spring of part of its 12 per cent credit on the key fire insurance rate.

600 Birds Are Released Here

Bob Whites, Purchased By Game Protective Ass'n., Are Distributed

Game birds took a new ease on life here Friday when 600 bob whites arrived for distribution over the county.

Purchased by the Game and Fish Protective association's Howard county chapter and other interested individuals, the birds were obtained at a cost of approximately $250.

They were distributed to sportsmen, farmers and ranchers as a part of the chapter's game propagation program.

By noon Friday, about half the birds had been given out for distribution but there were more than 300 of the fowls left at the Big Spring Hardware company.

The bob whites were shipped from Mustang Island off the coast near Corpus Christi. Each bird cost 77 cents, however the state matched purchases bird for bird.

They were being paired before being given out. They came in crates containing from 24 to 32 birds. Mating season for them is about to begin, according to sportsmen.

On the chapter's game propagation committee are Noel Lawson, Lee Hanson, and Walter Winn. Winn, for several years, spent much time and money in an effort to stock the county with pheasants. It was a lone battle and little success greeted his efforts. However, recently in a rabbit drive on the Gular ranch, several hunters reported seeing a few pheasants.

News Behind The News THE NATIONAL Whirligig

Written by a group of the best informed newspapermen of Washington and New York. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and should not be interpreted as reflecting the editorial policy of this newspaper.

WASHINGTON By George Burns

Grievances

The White House maintains steadfastly that when James A. Farley does retire from one of his jobs it will be the Democratic Chairmanship. And this won't be in the immediate future, it is safe to say.

Other inspired New Deal sources are spreading the story that it is true all right that Farley will quit the cabinet after Congress adjourns—but not until adjournment in 1937. The inference is that Big Jim will continue making himself the best cabinet record possible until time to step out and run for Governor of New York in 1938. All of which is predicated on the presupposition Mr. Roosevelt will be reelected next year.

Most sideline observers here have figured Farley's organizing talents would be needed in the field for the approaching campaign just as they were prior to 1932. When Walter Brown was Postmaster General under Herbert Hoover, he shied clear of the Republican National Chairmanship, saying he could function politically more efficiently from the cabinet post. Farley's friends are now saying Brown had the right idea.

Meanwhile Democratic Senators and Congressmen with patronage and other grievances are trying hard by indirection to ease Big Jim out of both jobs if possible—politics being that sort of a game.

Yearning

In Department of Commerce corridors the rumor has been gravitating among sub-officials for weeks at Farley was on the way out of the Post Office Department and that Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Hooper would switch over to direction of the mails.

Whether he ever develops or not there is a general suspicion that the wish may have paternal influences on the thought. "Uncle Dan" Hooper has been so busy fronting for the New Deal that his Commerce Department has become involved in some internal politics. There is friction in the Commerce setup that Uncle Dan himself probably doesn't know about. Those "aigh hms" are spreading the word he is soon to become Postmaster General. Who knows but what he'd like the job?

Postponed

Senate administration leaders were forced into the open the other day on the question of that 30-hour week bill. It now appears that the White House definitely wants to leave the question of working hours to NRA—which still awaits re-juvenation.

Senator Hugo L. Black (D) of Ala., who has been sponsoring the 30-hour week for nearly two years, unexpectedly jolted the leadership of Senator Joe Robinson the other day when he moved for immediate consideration of his measure. Senators were quick to announce that in opposing an instant vote they did NOT want necessarily to be recorded as opposing the general idea of the Black bill. The measure went over, and a bystander would get the impression it will go over into next year's session at least.

Supervision

The big push for Senator Burton K. Wheeler's bill contemplating government ownership of railroads will be deferred at least until next session.

One reason is that Wheeler at the moment is interested in getting an investigation of railroad financing under way. It is in the cards that the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee will look this phase of the problem over before another Congress convenes.

The interesting angle of the ownership bill is that men in the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Railroad Coordinators' Office sided in drafting it. Their reason for lending a helping hand was that if such legislation was going to get serious consideration it should be sound legislation.

Hopeful

Only one or two voices were raised in the House against the exemption of "labor" from conscription in wartime. This item of the bill to take the profit out of war was adopted by an overwhelming vote. Blanton of Texas, who has no big labor element in his district, objected strenuously to exempting labor while drafting everybody else.

"During the World War we had 5,000 strikes in this country, and President Wilson had continual trouble with labor," said Blanton. "Finally organized workers got $20 a day while their brothers were getting $30 a month in the trenches."

INVITING TROUBLE

Automobile drivers — some of them at least — seem to be careless, not only in their driving but in the matter of picking up people on the road. The results in either case are often deplorable. While the careless driver generally injures or kills some one in another car or walking on the road, the driver who is careless of who he takes into his car often pays with his own life.

Most recent case is a Houston traveling salesman who took two men into his car on the road in southwest Texas and one of them presently shot him, threw his body out of the car and took car and personal property of the confiding driver. Fortunately the two were arrested and in the course of time may be made to pay the penalty, but in the meantime the kind-hearted drummer is permanently dead.

It would seem that by this time people who drive cars on the highways would have more sense than to pick up people, no matter how innocent their appearance nor how apparent their need of a lift. The fact is that practically all of them are hobnobbing from one town to another and are entitled to no consideration. Any man or woman who finds it necessary to go from one place to another on legitimate business can find a way to make the trip without having to depend on the chance of getting response to a wiggled thumb.

In the beginning it was a sort of game. Many youngsters started out on the road in search of adventure to see something of the world, and car drivers were good enough to give them a lift, and for a time there were no ill results. But of late there have been criminals who have learned that it is fairly easy to get a ride, and so the motorist is inviting trouble when he picks up an unknown person on the road. It is a practice that should be stopped.

A POWERFUL ALLY FOR SAFETY

Aroused by the frightful record of traffic accidents and injuries during 1934, 11,000 Post and Auxiliary members of the American Legion are uniting in a 4-point program for greater safety on the streets and highways. According to an announcement from the National Headquarters of the Legion, the efforts of the Legionnaires will be guided by a handbook distributed by their National Americanism Commission in cooperation with the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters. The Legion's program includes:

- 1. Recommendations for uniform traffic legislation. 2. Plans for safety education among both children and adults. 3. Recommendations for improved enforcement of existing traffic laws. 4. Sponsorship of better traffic engineering.

Under legislation, the Legion will recommend the uniform traffic laws established by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety and endorsed by such groups as the American Automobile Association, the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, the National Safety Council and others. These laws are considered by safety authorities as a basis for efficient traffic control, and include: A Uniform Drivers' License Law, a Uniform Financial Responsibility Statute, and Uniform Traffic Ordinances.

In adult and child safety education, formation of school boy patrols to direct pedestrian traffic near school buildings, establishment of courses in safe driving for high schools, and sponsorship of community safety programs, are among the plans to be urged.

By enlisting the American Legion, highway safety has gained a powerful ally.

Texas City Will Become Port Landlords To Aid The State

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UP)—This city will be provided with a deep water port before the close of the year, making it an important shipping point for the first time since the Civil War.

It will be the ninth deep-water port in Texas. Like Houston, Brownsville will be an inland port. The channel will be extended from Brownsville to San Jacinto Pass across Laguna Madre, a distance of three miles, and then 14 miles across the coastal plain to within a few miles of Brownsville.

The channel is to be 25 feet deep, with a bottom width of 100 feet and a surface width of 250 feet. It will be large enough to permit the entrance of all but the largest of ocean-going vessels. A turtling basin is to be excavated near Brownsville. The jetties at Brownsville and Laguna Pass have been completed and work on the excavation of the channel and turning basins is under way.

Total costs for the project will be $5,500,000, borne jointly by the Brownsville Navigation District and the Federal Government. The canal is to be ready for ocean traffic in December.

Since the Civil War Brownsville has not been a port of any importance. During the Civil War, however, a narrow-gauge railroad was built from Brownsville to Point Isabel (now Port Isabel) and there was considerable commerce through the shallow harbor there.

Whirligig

The prevailing opinion in the House was that "labor" is free and "not" free, and doesn't need to be drafted. A strong argument against specific drafting of labor was that it men from 21 to 45 were subject to military duty anyhow.

ENJOY MORE SUNNY DAYS

Your mood, your actions, your very personality—all are influenced by the state of your health. Avoid common constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. This ailment may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy. It takes the color out of living.

Kellogg's All-Bran, a natural laxative food, furnishes you with this needed "bulk." Within the body, it absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

The "bulk" in All-Bran remains effective with continued use. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Isn't this cereal food better than patent medicines?

All-Bran also provides vitamin B and iron. Serve it as a cereal with milk or cream, or cook into muffins, breads, waffles, etc. It's much more satisfactory than part-bran products. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Keep on the Sunny Side of Life

Timber—Gov. Hoffman of New Jersey will visit Washington soon, to widen his acquaintance. He has stalwart friends who think they see in him the white hope of the G.O.P. for 1936. A few volunteer scouts who are on the lookout for sound timber are inclined to think that Hoffman is not sufficiently trained for the big race — that he might do well four years hence.

Col. Frank Knox is under consideration. He is well established in Illinois, having become publisher of the Chicago Daily News in 1931. Progressives who have been sounded out are favorably inclined toward Knox, and regulars praise him. That's going some.

Notes—No matter how busy Congress may be it always finds an excuse to adjourn over for the opening ball game. It required a peremptory order to shift the Soil Erosion service from Interior to Agriculture. Few men in this country enjoyed a wider acquaintance than Warren Delano Robbins, late Minister to Canada—he was President Hoover's master of ceremonies, and was universally liked. AAA spent $155,000 more than it collected in processing taxes during the last two years.

Sauce—The Fallroads will have a good game try at slicing their wage bill on May 1—when notice of a pending wage cut will be filed. But their employees won't have to worry about it for quite a while. Last time the brotherhoods cooperated in arranging a pay reduction on the promise of speeding up recovery—so it went through in five months. This time they'll fight it every step of the way. New York experts estimate it will take at least eight months to put through a slash—or until next January—if labor utilizes the resources for stalling at its command.

The machinery for rail wage adjustments is complicated. When one road files notice for a cut and the problem is handed over to a mediation board all other roads are enjoined from taking similar action until the original case is settled.

There are endless possibilities for legal delays.

The funny part of it is that rail executives themselves are responsible for this one-road-at-a-time business which now cramps their style. They urged it into the law—more prosperous days—to hamper unions gunning for pay increases. The present situation is a beautiful sample of sauce for the gander.

Weight—Wall Street has long cherished the impression that rail labor hankers for government ownership of the roads. Informed sources say that, in reality the brotherhoods are so strenuously opposed as the most ardent conservatives.

One reason the rail workers' chiefs are pushing to gain every inch they can—in the states as well as in Washington—is because they see federal ownership coming this way. They are convinced privately that once Uncle Sam takes over they will do well to hold the territory they have won—let alone making fresh conquests.

You might think such a large group of government employees would throw a lot of political weight and could darn near have the Treasury for the asking. But the brotherhood leaders figure the opposite. The keen financial observers agree. They point to the postal personnel—which is certainly numerous enough but obviously has a tough time making a dent either on congress or the executive branch.

Timely—For all the ills that beset the railroads, it's worth noting that in one important respect they are better off than they have been in previous depressions.

Their proportion of debt to equity interest is far smaller than it was in 1920. With all their RFC borrowing the roads collectively only owe about $200,000,000 more than they did in 1931—hardly more than chicken feed under the circumstances. The Interstate Commerce Commission—which has worked for years to get the roads to cut the percentage of their net worth in stock—is pleased by this phase of the situation. This was quite a factor in its approval of loan extensions to the New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio and fresh

Goes To Virginia

RAY CANTRELL, manager of Hotel Settles, leaves Saturday for Mountain Lake, Va., where he will manage the Mountain Lake Hotel, popular summer resort of the National Hotel company, which opens June 1. Mr. Cantrell will return to Big Spring October 1 to resume management of the Settles.

To Manage Settles

LEE H. HUBBY, formerly manager of Hotel Clovis, Clovis, N. M., will assume management of Hotel Settles in this city, succeeding Ray Cantrell, who is going to Mountain Lake, Va., for the summer months. Mr. Hubby has been with the National Hotel company for four years, first serving as clerk, auditor and manager at Clovis, then coming to Big Spring several months ago as auditor.

Cantrell To Manage Hotel In Virginia

Lee H. Hubby Succeeds Him Here As Manager Of Settles

Ray Cantrell, manager of Hotel Settles, leaves Saturday morning for Mountain Lake, Virginia, where on June 1st he will open the popular Mountain Lake Hotel. This summer resort, property of the National Hotel company, is open to the public from June 1 to October 1. It is located in the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia. Cantrell formerly managed the Mountain Lake hotel.

Before going to Mountain Lake, Cantrell will visit the home office of National Hotel company in Galveston for several days. He intends to go by way of New Orleans, Birmingham, and other southern cities.

Lee H. Hubby, formerly manager of Hotel Clovis, Clovis, N. M., and for the past several months assistant manager of Hotel Settles here, will assume management of the hotel here during Cantrell's absence. Cantrell will return to Big Spring after October 1.

credit to the latter. Central has won favor by reducing its equipment trust indebtedness under difficulties.

New York Central's security holders have cause to thank the RFC and ICC for their timely aid. If repayment of RFC credits had been insisted upon at the original maturity dates the road would have been in the soup for fair. The breathing spell now granted gives it at least a chance to come through without painful revamping of the capital structure.

Realizable—Many New Yorkers have believed that the Baltimore & Ohio was destined to end its career as a mere appendage of the Pennsylvania. Its success in obtaining federal credit implies a new lease on life.

Keen observers figure engineering advances in this picture. A number of B. & O.'s Pnes were laid out in the infancy of railroad-ing. The many curves discounted the possibility of handling modern high speed traffic safely without enormously expensive changes in the roadbed.

But the development of new light cars with a low center of gravity may make track straightening unnecessary. Insiders say that important progress in this direction is within realistic distance.

lomatic gestures to Whitney and Treasurer Warren Nash as healing lotion for bitter wounds. The man who have controlled the Exchange for years will have very little to say about it from now on.

Resignation—New Yorkers who know Jim Farley will be aware that he personally has no thought of resigning from his post office job—despite persistent reports to that effect. It is understood of course that his resignation is always in FDR's hands if FDR wants it—which holds equally true of other cabinet officers and high administration officials.

Expert—Sources in a position to know remark that most lawyers are as far as sea in preparing tax returns as an accountant would be confronted by a complicated legal problem. It's a little known fact that taxes are laid on an accountancy rather than a legal basis—indicating that it might be a smart coper for corporations to give the accounting profession a break.

New York state tax officials are frequently asked for assistance by lawyers in getting their client's returns ready. This service is given free. But there's no known record of a lawyer blushing when he presents a bill for a $500 fee for a job on which the tax bureau did most of the work. A critic observes that there are harder racketeers than posing as an expert.

ST. LOUIS TRAFFIC VIOLATORS MUST VISIT CITY MORGUE
ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP)—Black and white crosses, painted on streets throughout the city, prominently mark spots where persons have been killed in traffic accidents during the past year. On lamp posts at intersections where fatal accidents have occurred, black cloth is draped.

Among other features in Mayor Bernard Dickmann's Reduce-Traffic-Deaths campaign are visits offending motorists must make to the city morgue to view dead victims.

Negro Dies From Skull Injury

MIDLAND — Lewis Ray, negro highway worker who was struck on the head by a rock during blasting on the highway west of here Wednesday died in a Midland hospital at about 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

The body is held at the Ellis Mortuary where services will be held Friday.

Ray was seated with other negroes in an automobile eating his lunch when he was struck by a single large stone flung by a discharge of dynamite. His skull was badly crushed.

He is described as being the "Old Southern darky type" and well-liked by the colored population of Midland.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—Wharton Larned, who, as a commercial airline passenger pilot, drives planes 180 miles an hour and faster, was fined $10 and costs in police court here for driving his automobile 60 miles per hour.

Mr. Shevnav says: "The Zostic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly but increase the circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, thereby closes the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume no matter the size or location. A rationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments. ### WOMAN EDUCATOR SPEAKS TO PARENTS AND VISITORS AT FIRST EVENING PTA PROGRAM

Doctor Templin Of El Paso And Dr. C. E. Castenada Of Del Rio Address Audience On Phases Of Educational Problems

"Since the world is in a state of unrest and we in America are wondering if we have really turned the corner and are approaching a better day, I think we desire more than ever to give the younger generation the benefit of our experience," said Dr. Lucinda de L. Templin, of El Paso, chief speaker Thursday evening at the P-T. A. program given at the City Auditorium.

Doctor Templin, who is one of the few Texas women listed in Who's Who in America, is classed among the leading educators of the United States. She is head of the Radford School for Girls in El Paso and is conducting there an experiment in practical education for women that educators all over America are watching with interest.

In addition to being the author of a dozen or more books and essays on education and administration, Doctor Templin has been not only a student in such universities as that of Missouri, Harvard and Columbia, school abroad also in several camps. Dr. W. Conley directed the high school orchestra. After the invocation, which was delivered by the Rev. F. Walter Henckel, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, Mrs. Charles Koberg, general chairman, welcomed the visitors.

Mr. Cliff Talbot added the welcome of the city, as mayor, and Supt. W. C. Blankenship extended a welcome in the name of the schools. Mrs. W. A. Kay of Osana, fourth vice-president of the district, made the responding address.

Also on the program was Dr. C. E. Castenada of Del Rio, who talked on the advantages of recreation and led the audience in several songs, with Mrs. E. L. Mundt at the piano.

Doctor Templin's address was scheduled as the outstanding feature of the evening's program, yet a comparatively small group of parents turned out to hear her. So many favorable comments were made on her talk that it has been summarized, for the readers of the Herald as follows:

"We have ceased congratulating ourselves on the control which the world has been able to take of the physical forces of nature; such control of famine, disease, crime and other disasters.

"We realize that few things and conditions are static. We are living in a changing world and in a complicated society. We desire as we have never desired before to be able to pass on what little wisdom we have, what the bitter experiences have taught us, to those who are following us.

"It seems to me that we must have in mind certain clear essentials if we are to be of help to the younger generation. There are certain things that, education must teach, if the present and coming problems are to be solved.

"First, it must teach us how to cope with complex situations. To do this we must be able to think clearly, accurately and quickly.

"We must recognize a major issue and solve it, and somehow ignore the petty, trifling and annoying vexations of everyday living. Sometimes it is difficult to know a major issue when it appears, and many of us fret away our lives over questions and situations which really are not important.

"It is easy to jump at conclusions and go off on tangents, and it is difficult to think a situation through and find the logical way to meet it or the real solution of that difficulty.

"Almost anyone can in the course of human events decide what is best to do. Unfortunately, many of the great problems of life will not wait but demand immediate action. It is then that the person who thinks clearly, accurately and quickly has an advantage of the multitude whose mental processes are slow.

Sense of Humor

"This changing world demands that we have or acquire a sense of humor—the things which enables us to come through a trying day and retain a fresh, happy attitude. It makes life easier for those around us.

"We need some joy in living and it costs little to be happy if we have the ability to recognize real values. Today we all are striving for things, and material success seems to be the final goal. If we take time to stop and consider our many advantages, we can be really happy.

"A sense of humility is also essential. The complacent person who is perfectly satisfied with what she knows is one of life's greatest bores. Without this sense of humility, we can not do our best job solving life's problems.

RECEPTION HONORS SPEAKER OF P-T.A. CONFERENCE; HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS ARE GUESTS

Three Literary Clubs Of City Unite To Pay Tribute To Outstanding Educator During Visit Here

Templin of El Paso was complimented with a tea Thursday afternoon at the Settles ballroom by the three literary clubs of the city with the girls and women teachers of the high school as local guests and the district officials of the Parent-Teachers' association as out of town visitors.

Two tables beautifully spread with lace cloths and centered with punch bowls stood at the north end of the ballroom.

Bouquets of spring flowers on the tables and the lovely afternoon dresses of the house party added to the attractiveness of the occasion.

Missionary Baptist Revival Is Making Splendid Progress

The revival meeting at the Missionary Baptist church is making fine progress. The crowds are on the increase each night, and a great interest is being manifested. There has been four conversions and two recommitments. Rev. Ben D. Johnson, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church of Lubbock is doing the preaching. He preached every Sunday morning over station KFYO, Lubbock, which is operated on 1310 kilocycles. The services are from 8 to 8:30 each Sunday.

Rev. Johnson's subject last night was "The Four Anchors of the Bible." He said in part: "The first anchor was the blood of Christ, the only anchor we may have in God, which hope we have as an anchor of the soul. The second anchor was the Bible. We must anchor to it by accepting it as God's word and not man's, and by reading it. The third anchor, the Home—anchor to it in the Christ-like spirit as a God-given institution. The fourth anchor—the Church—the home of the Christian God's children."

The subject for tonight will be: "The Four Biggest Devils in Big Spring."

Mrs. Paul Watson of 200 South Nolan has returned from Fort Worth, where she has been with her aunt, Mrs. Marie Jones, who has been quite ill. She left her aunt much improved.

Mack Sundy, Reese Hildreth, Otis Thornton, Gladys Peters, W. A. Henderson, Meses Ora Morrow and Eula Hildreth.

"We must have a genuine curiosity about people and affairs. This is not a passive process. It involves stretching one's mind. It also involves a developed capacity for selection and discrimination in our mental food. To sharpen our curiosity constant reading is necessary.

Being Interesting

"Our young people should recognize that to be interested and to be interesting is a distinct asset. The man or woman who is an unmitigated bore has no defense. All new facts are interesting facts. Intellectual and cultural distinction is possible for thousands who never achieve it merely because they won't think.

"Our young people fall back on slang and wise cracking to hide a restricted vocabulary and an empty mind.

"The wantlessness of young people today keeps them from ever realizing what they might be. They want things—money, good clothes and fine cars. Most of them may never have money enough for these luxuries, but what they can have without money or success, which will be a perpetual investment for them, they have not the slightest interest in acquiring.

"Above all else, this changing world demands and needs men and women of strong, moral character. We are too apt to use the word character as a mere synonym of an amiable disposition. We must include more; intelligence and strength must be added.

"The world needs men and women who have the courage to stand for the right, even if that means standing alone. It needs persons who are not afraid to refuse to follow the crowd.

"Education should bring into our lives the ambition to succeed, but what is even more important, it should give us a feeling of responsibility. A realization of obligation and responsibility is essential to success.

"It is not mental giants that the world needs but men and women of normal stature who have high standards and ideals and who are willing to share in helping solve life's problems."

Postmaster General Farley Stamps Terrapin As Favorite Fish Dish

Terrapin has received the stamp of approval of James A. Farley, Postmaster General of the United States. Mr. Farley states that he is "very fond of fish, particularly terrapin, when it is prepared as indicated in this recipe."

Preparation of Terrapin
(about 2 terrapin)

Leave them in clear water for 10 minutes, then dip them into boiling hot water for a minute. With a towel pull the skin off from the legs and head. Put them back into plain boiling water for half an hour.

After that time, take one out and feel the front and hind legs; if they are soft, the terrapin are cooked; if not, let them boil longer.

When cooked let them cool over night. Then with a small knife open the box shell from the side and take everything out—throw away the head, gut and shell. Keep the liver. (Try not to break the gall when cutting it.) Keep the gills, if any. Cut the nails short and cut the legs at the joints with a pair of scissors.

Put a piece of sweet butter in a flat pan. When a little brown, add the pieces of terrapin, moisten with a cupful of chicken bouillon and reduce slowly over the fire. Then cover the terrapin with cream, and a little celery salt, black ground pepper, a little cayenne pepper to taste. After a few minutes, bind the sauce with one egg yolk for each terrapin, but do not let boil any more. Add to finish a pony glass of dry Sherry and 1-2 pony of brandy, a few pads of sweet butter and stir. Serve with Melba toast separately.

LAMB AND NEW BONNET TWO EASTER TRADITIONS

Leg of lamb and bonnet new, two Easter traditions. But leg of lamb is not the only roast suitable for this Sunday which stands out above all other Sundays of the year. You can have as much fun selecting your lamb roast as you do your Easter hat—and there are almost as many styles from which to choose. "Be your family large or small, be your budget rigid or simple, there is a lamb roast to meet your need," says Inez S. Willson, home economist.

Spring vegetables rally valiantly to the cause when planning your Easter menu around lamb; they seem to have a special affinity for this delicately flavored meat. Fruits, as an appetizer, make an excellent beginning for the Easter dinner, or you may punctuate the meal with a fruit salad, or finish with a flourish by serving a simple fruit dessert.

In the menu suggested below any lamb roast may be used instead of the leg and the menu may be added to or taken from to make the dinner more elaborate or simpler, as one wishes.

Easter Dinner Menu:
Fruit Cup, Cheese Wafers
Leg of Lamb Currant Mint Sauce
New potatoes with Parsley Butter
Glazed Carrots, New Peas
Pineapple Sherbet
Hearts of Lettuce Salad
Ice Cream, Strawberry Sauce
Coffee, Mints

In place of the leg of lamb, the cushion style shoulder roast shown in the picture will fit nicely into this menu as will any of the other lamb roasts, the recipes for which are given below.

Cushion Style Lamb Shoulder With Sausage Dressing
Have the bones removed from a shoulder of lamb and the roast sewed, leaving one side open for putting in the dressing. Wipe with a damp cloth, rub inside and out with salt, pepper and garlic, if desired, and pack lightly with the sausage dressing.

Chapter 20 OPEN BALAK

There came Aunt Sarah, calling him again, and Jane headed straight for him. A moment more, and he would be caught.

Abruptly he dodged behind a big lilac bush, and disappeared into the night. Alone, until almost morning, James waited in the woods. Who took Jane home he neither knew nor cared. And his aunt, warned by some rare intuition, never mentioned his absence to him.

James sent Leslie a great box of white roses next morning and went that afternoon to see her.

He saw, instead, Mrs. Harris who said that Leslie was out and insisted nervously upon apologizing for her husband's behavior the evening before—to James' profound and acute embarrassment.

Leslie was out next day when James called—and the next and the next. When he happened to meet her casually a week or two later he found a different Leslie entirely, a proud, cold, aloof little Leslie he found it impossible to reason with or comprehend.

At first he tried—tried desperately—and probably would have been trying yet if his self-confidence had not suddenly forsaken him and a sick gnawing doubt not whipsawed to him that perhaps after all Leslie never had cared for him in the least, had indeed rather welcomed a chance to break off with him.

Sam Fletcher still went there and Bud and Jack and half a dozen others. She did not refuse to see them or to answer their letters. And certainly it wasn't his fault that her father drank too much and made a scene.

He, himself, had done nothing—not a thing that he could think of to deserve such punishment, although he searched his conscience hour after hour. Surely, if Leslie liked him even a little bit she would not treat him so cruelly for nothing at all except worshipping the ground she walked on.

Leslie, meanwhile, after a week of retirement, went everywhere she was asked, laughed even more than usual and never once mentioned James or his party or made any excuses for her father.

However, not even her mother knew of the scene she had gone through that night at home after Sam had gone when she faced a half sober, half maudlin and thoroughly repentant father and forced from him bit by bit the reason that had sent him to bring her home.

"What was it, Father? You've got to tell me," insisted Leslie, standing over him and shaking him now and again into wakefulness. "I won't go to bed or to sleep until you tell me what it was."

John Harris took refuge first in haughtiness and finally in self-abasement. Leslie got it out of him finally that Dill Hawks had told him that Mrs. Dill had heard that Miss Sarah Stimson had told Miss Laura Thornton who told Jennie Sears that in her day young ladies were accustomed to let the young men do the pursuing, but that nowadays it seemed the other way round, and that she was thinking of having her telephone taken out because that flighty little Leslie Harris was forever calling her nephew on the phone and insisting that he go to see her when he wanted to stay at home.

Leslie remembered that she had called James on the telephone once or twice some weeks earlier and that Miss Sarah had answered it each time. "Oh," she said, "oh," and her color flamed. "Is that all? Was there anything else?" she demanded almost fiercely. "Did Miss Sarah say anything else?"

"According to Dill, it's common knowledge that . . . old Sarah Stimson thinks it would be unspeakably degrading for a Stimson to marry a Harris. I've been a bad father, Leslie, a damned bad father, but I'd rather see you dead than married into a family that looks down on you. Why, if your grandmother . . ."

"Yes? Tell me about my grandmother," said Leslie quickly. That evening was the first time in all her life Leslie had heard her father mention his mother.

John Harris rose and aside from a slight uneasiness seemed perfectly sober. "Your grandmother was a gentleman," he said with more dignity than Leslie had believed possible. "He has been in her grave many years and it seems best under the circumstances to leave her there in peace. She was a proud woman and suffered a great deal before she died. I must ask you in all kindness never to mention her to me again. It brings back many memories I . . . spent a lifetime trying to forget."

"I'm sorry," said Leslie gently. "I'll never speak of her after to-night. But Mother told me once she thought you had named me for her. Is that true?"

"Yes." "Am I like her? Am I at all like her?" Leslie asked. "In your tact and social gifts, yes. In your lack of pride, no. It has occurred to me occasionally that you were rather lacking in proper pride. Aside from that . . ."

He stopped suddenly struck by what he was saying and shrugged his shoulders in a half Gallic, half futile gesture. "God knows you haven't much to be proud of," he said mournfully and broke down and cried. Leslie had to call her mother finally and between them they got him to bed.

But before she slept that night Leslie vowed that she too would be a gentlewoman, that she too would acquire a proper pride. She would die, oh, she would die a thousand times before she would let Miss Sarah Stimson say she was running after James.

Let James marry Jane Northrup if he wanted to. She would show Miss Sarah, she would show James, she would show New Concord! James would have to sue on his knees and his aunt with him before she would take him back.

Never had New Concord been so

PA'S SON-IN-LAW

gay as during that summer. There were other dances, many suppers and dinners and picnics. Nine times out of ten James found himself partnered on these occasions with Jane while Leslie continued to be freezingly polite to him and made much of Sam or Bud or Jack—but particularly of Sam—under his very eyes.

James never saw Leslie alone now and gradually had ceased to try to force himself upon her, turning naturally enough to the comfort of Jane's presence. Jane at least was always stimulating and entertaining. Jane made his evenings bearable and got him out of himself.

Nevertheless, James looked so forlorn and wretched and was so evidently pining to rush back and throw himself at Leslie's feet at her first sign of softening, that Mrs. Millard, after a conference with Miss Julia and her cohorts, took the bull by the horns and invited Leslie to spend the month of August with her at her cottage on Lake Michigan, offering to pay all the girl's expenses there and back.

Leslie, a little white, a little thin, her head held high met James by chance one afternoon on Commercial Street and told him, "Mrs. Millard has invited me to visit her at Harbor Beach," she said smiling happily. "Isn't that lovely? I've been crazy to go there and can hardly wait to start."

"Why, yes," agreed James unhesitatingly. "That's fine." And added as an afterthought, "Will you be the only one?"

"No, Mrs. Millard expects her niece and nephew—she's just graduated from Harvard Law School. And Sam is planning to come up for his vacation, but of course he will stay at a hotel."

If Leslie had lingered a moment she might have noticed how white and sick James looked, but she had caught sight of someone she knew across the street and hurried off.

Standing alone in the shade of Moyer's drug store awning, James quite definitely abandoned Leslie then and forever. She must love the mutt—she must. And he had been so sure once that she cared for him.

If it had been someone else, someone more worthy who could have appreciated and understood her, it would not have been so hard to bear. But Sam wasn't a gentleman. He was coarse, common, supremely unfit to own so beautiful and rare a being as Leslie. It was as bad as a Fiji islander owning Venus de Milo.

It was weeks before he could bear to hear Leslie and Sam's prospective engagement commented upon. It was months before he could say without his voice trembling that Sam was certainly one lucky man. (Copyright, 1935, Masteel H. Farnham)

Chevigny To Continue Spring Drills Next Week

AUSTIN, (Sp.)—As the spring football training period draws to a close at the University of Texas, prospects for the 1935 team are no better than they were a year ago.

Every man of the group of 80 candidates saw action in the game last week and all gave indication by their performance that the coaching staff had made more progress than last spring.

At the ends, Collins and Van Zandt of the 1934 team showed a definite advantage in the game, while more than likely our friend La Belle would welcome the opportunity to take on Arthur. La Belle, you know, is also from Canada, and they say he's a bit jealous of Ernie's mat prowess.

DUTCH TENNANT, THE LIKABLE jai jitsu expert who should have defeated the big faker McEuin, expressed a desire to meet Gene in a title argument.

TENNANT GOT A DRAW WITH McEuin in San Angelo last night. La Belle and Bromberg also got a draw. In the main go Barackman took two out of three falls from Benny Wilson.

MILLARD "DIXIE" HOWELL, the conqueror of Stanford, fell victim to a battered baseball Friday. Dixie was training with the Detroit Tigers. He was struck a vicious blow on the head and was taken to a hospital where doctors said he had suffered a fractured skull.

HOWELL WAS ONE OF THE most-likely looking players ever to join the Tigers in a spring campaign, and the fans had been hoping he would show himself at Navin field before joining some minor league club for seasoning.

THE ALABAMA BOMBER WAS first given a chance at third base, and started like a house afire. He had speed, a fine throwing arm and instinct, but needed batting experience.

NAGS ARRIVE FAIR GROUND

Everything Points To Successful Meet

DALLAS, (Sp.)—Horses are arriving daily at the State Fair race course and applications have been approved for each of the 1020 available stalls. It has been announced by Julius G. Reeder, general manager of the track, that there are now 514 horses stabled at the track.

Ree String On Hand The H. Van Ree string of six horses arrived at the track during the week. These horses are widely known on the Florida tracks where they have been campaigning over the winter months. They come to Dallas from Tropical Park. Included in the string are Seminole Queen, Willow Wood, and Chu Chu.

The E. R. Pain horses of Wichita Falls, including Carlines Count, Carlines Count, Denver Lad, Light Zephyr, Caranza, and Durandal, will be seen in the feature events during the spring meeting according to Dr. J. M. Dunleavy, trainer.

The H. C. Rummage horses and those owned by Mrs. E. Davis will also be on hand for the opening of the spring race meeting. These horses, trained by W. M. Emerson, include such well known winners as Our Count, Phalaris, Rapid Belle, Trap Lee, Bettina H., Steves Pride, Closing Event, Lovely Amelia and Just Make.

Best of All "Everything points to the most successful season yet held at the State Fair race course," Judge Reeder said. "The fact that the track is in such excellent condition and that during the fall season there was not a single accident on the track, has popularized our racing strip throughout the country and horsemen are anxious to race their animals on our track."

Wilkins is completing his varsity career at Southwestern this year but has his heart set on making the trip to Germany for the Olympic games in 1936.

He began his jumping career by winning the state hop-step-and-jump championship in 1931 and since then has twice won from Southwestern A. U. title in that event. He holds the national junior and senior championships.

Mrs. A. Sidney Woods, Only District Officer Here, Discloses Plans For Future

By G. R. F.

Mrs. A. Sidney Woods, seventh vice-president of the district, has the distinction of being the only Big Spring P.T. A. member who holds office in the sixth district. She was appointed to fill the vacancy left by Mrs. Roy Pearce who resigned this year.

Mrs. Woods has one of the most excellent records in P.T. A. work held by any woman in Big Spring. She has served the East Ward P.T. A. as a capable president for the past two years, her term coming to an end this school session. During these years she has stimulated interest in attendance so that the number of mothers present at East Ward has never run less than 37 and has often been as many as 75.

During her administration the school has added playground equipment to an absolutely bare campus. A set of six swings, 2 seesaws, a slide have been erected. Twelve shade trees have been planted.

The school last year immunized 75 children against diphtheria and is planning this year to cooperate with the tuberculin test program.

As seventh vice-president of the district, it is Mrs. Woods' duty to keep a motherly eye on the various P.T. A. units in Howard and Glasscock counties. Every vice-president of the district is assigned her respective territory and her job is to aid local units therein to the best of her ability.

Mrs. Woods hopes to organize a county P.T. A. council this year. She will have until April 1936 to complete the work. There are already 6 active P.T. A.'s in the rural schools. Garden City has its P.T. A. also.

The Moore P.T. A. has a man as its president, G. C. Broughton, a farmer in that district. He has attended every one of the district P.T. A. sessions here, said Mrs. Woods, and his 4 daughters have registered as delegates. With such material to work on and an active interest in P.T. A. work in Howard county she believes the county can build up one of the strongest county councils in the sixth district.

This vice-president has herself attended all convention sessions. Unlike many of the local officers, she did not use the dust storm or her large family as an excuse for staying away from the meetings. Last year she went to Abilene to the district meeting—the first she had ever attended—and she brought back from it a wealth of ideas to use in her work as president of the East Ward P.T. A. She plans to visit the meetings of the executive board when they meet several times during the year in various West Texas towns.

Her office is a credit to Big Spring, but she is herself a credit to her office. She represents the finest type of P.T. A. official, whether local or district, because she takes her job with a well-balanced seriousness, an eagerness to learn, rather than to criticize. Her past record, therefore, is one of constructive, and her future, already well-planned, promises to be filled with fruitful results of her work.

Mrs. Sidney Woods, seventh vice-president is the only local woman who at presents holds office in the sixth district. Mrs. Woods is also the able president of East Ward P.T. A.

Baltimore & Ohio Train Strikes Bus Near Rockville, Maryland

ROCKVILLE, Md., (AP)—At least 23 children were dead Friday when a school bus containing 29 pupils was struck by a Baltimore and Ohio eastbound train near here.

The school bus was returning to the Williamsport, Md., high school after the pupils had attended a chemistry exhibition at the University of Maryland, not far from Washington.

The express, tearing into the bus, caught the wreckage up and carried it a mile before the brakes of the train ground it to a halt.

Immediate identification of the dead was made difficult by the mangled condition of many of the bodies.

The accident occurred virtually in the outskirts of this village, located 16 miles north of Washington. Ambulances were hurried from Washington to the scene.

One hospital at Washington reported it had received five injured, of which two were expected to die.

The pupils, whose ages ranged down from 18 years, were accompanied by the principal of the Williamsport, Md., high school, which they attended.

The view of the crossing on the outskirts of this village was described by police as not obstructed. Railroad men said the train was not derailed and was proceeding to Washington.

Kiwanis Hears Of Convention In San Antonio

An On-to-the-International Convention program was given at the Kiwanis club in their regular weekly session last Thursday noon with Dr. Lee Rogers in charge.

Plans made include the chartering of a bus by the club to carry 20 members to the convention to be held in San Antonio May 13, 14 and 15. In this way those attending would be out only the money for their food and lodging while there. It is planned for the bus to leave Big Spring Monday morning and to leave San Antonio for the return trip Wednesday at noon.

George Gentry, who was a delegate to the convention held in Milwaukee, spoke on the highlights of the meeting at that time. Merle Stewart, delegate to Los Angeles, spoke on that convention. Garland Woodward, delegate to Montreal, Canada when the convention was held there, forcefully urged the members to make the trip to San Antonio and stressed the good to be gained at the convention.

Baltimore & Ohio Train Strikes Bus Near Rockville, Maryland

ROCKVILLE, Md., (AP)—At least 23 children were dead Friday when a school bus containing 29 pupils was struck by a Baltimore and Ohio eastbound train near here.

The school bus was returning to the Williamsport, Md., high school after the pupils had attended a chemistry exhibition at the University of Maryland, not far from Washington.

The express, tearing into the bus, caught the wreckage up and carried it a mile before the brakes of the train ground it to a halt.

Immediate identification of the dead was made difficult by the mangled condition of many of the bodies.

The accident occurred virtually in the outskirts of this village, located 16 miles north of Washington. Ambulances were hurried from Washington to the scene.

One hospital at Washington reported it had received five injured, of which two were expected to die.

The pupils, whose ages ranged down from 18 years, were accompanied by the principal of the Williamsport, Md., high school, which they attended.

The view of the crossing on the outskirts of this village was described by police as not obstructed. Railroad men said the train was not derailed and was proceeding to Washington.
