Mountaineers Win Over Llano, Mason

The Mountaineer boys took advantage of the home court in two exciting basketball games during the past week and came out the best over two opponents who had defeated them previously.

Last Friday night the local boys took a 22-point victory over Llano by a 62-40 score, to even the score for a 2-point loss earlier in the season. The local girls lost to Llano.

Tuesday night the Mountaineers took advantage of the free throw line to win over Mason by a 51-43 score. The girls lost by about 10 points.

This win over Mason gave the local boys 25 wins in 32 starts this season. Tuesday night the local caegers were outshot from the field 18 to 17, but made the foul line pay off in big dividends sinking 17 of 30 attempts while Mason hit seven of 14 attempts.

At present Llano is still leading the district with a 7-1 record, Santa Anna has a 6-2 record and Mason a 5-2 record. The district could be thrown in a three-way tie by Mason defeating Llano when they meet later in the season. Llano won over Goldthwaite Tuesday night by a 53-44 score after trailing for three quarters. This takes Goldthwaite, Cross Plains and Rising Star out of contention for district honors.

Friday night the Mountaineers will go to Cross Plains and next Tuesday night they will entertain Rising Star in the local gym. These two games will complete the district schedule.

City Council Calls Election For Tues., April 1st

In regular session last Thursday night, the City Council called the annual City Election for Tuesday, April 1. Three Councilmen are to be elected this year.

The terms of Ben W. Yarborough, O. A. Eltheredge and George M. Johnson expire. All three have indicated they do not intend to seek re-election at this time. Other members of the Council are Mayor Ford Barnes and Councilmen Ozro Eubank and D. H. Moore.

Filing deadline for a place on the ballot was set for noon Saturday, March 30. All names must be filed with the City Secretary at least 30 days prior to the time of the election. Anyone interested in seeking a place on the city council should begin thinking about it now and get your name filed before the deadline.

After taking care of the routine city business in an early meeting, the council met with a group of men from the Presbyterian Church. The church group requested a paved street to the church and requested one of three ways be considered. One way is from Wallis Avenue on North 5th Street, across the railroad to Willis Avenue and west to the church; the second way is from the Rockwood Highway or South 8th Street east to the church; and the third is from Bowie Avenue north to Willis Avenue and west to the church.

The Council told the group they would be glad to cooperate with them in anyway possible on either of the proposed routes but requested they contact the property owners on the streets and get them to sign paving contracts, which amount to $2.00 per running foot for paving and curb and gutter. The Mayor offered his assistances in helping to contact the property owners.

Mrs. Nettie Mitchell, who is in Abilene for treatments, is reported to be improving. She is with her son, Wilbur Mitchell.

W. W. Bartlett took his aunt, Mrs. Davenport, to her home at Rochelle early this week, after she had been here since Dec. 1, caring for his wife in their home.

School Trustee Election Called For Saturday, April 5th

In the regular meeting of the Santa Anna School Board last week, the annual School Trustee election was called to be held on Saturday, April 5th.

A new law concerning the election of school trustees is in effect this year. All candidates must file their names at least 30 days prior to the election. The filing deadline has been set for Wednesday, March 5th.

All names must be filed with the County Judge, President of the School Board, with the School Secretary or in the school office. All names filed other than with the county judge, will be turned over to him.

Ballots must be printed at least 20 days previous to the election to give more time for absentee voting.

There will be two members of the board elected this year. The terms of Jesse K. Barton and Dick Baugh expire. Barton has already offered his resignation, stating that he did not think he would be able to attend another board meeting. Baugh has not indicated his intentions.

Other members of the board are: W. H. Pittard, president; Tom Stewartson, secretary; J. W. McClellan, William R. Brown and Oscar Boenicke.

Soil Bank Money Can Effect Getting Social Security Money

"Many farmers who are signing up in the Government's soil bank program are asking us what effect this has on their social security," R. R. Tuley, Jr., district manager of the Abilene social security office, said today.

"We explain to them that, for social security benefit purposes or for the amount of earnings permitted to a farmer getting retirement benefits, soil bank payments must be counted. These payments apply to acreage reserve, conservation reserve and also in cases where a farmer has placed his farm in the soil bank under the 'bid' procedure.

For example, Tuley went on, a farm operator getting soil bank payments before he retires, reports those payments as net earnings for social security purposes. He gets social security credit for them. A farmer who places his farm in the soil bank after he retires and has started getting old-age insurance benefits, must report soil bank payments also. They apply against the amount of earnings that a person under age 72 can have and get social security benefits. Whether or not benefit payments are effected by the money he gets under the soil bank program depends upon the substantial services he renders. Soil bank payments would not affect the old-age insurance benefits of a farmer who elected to plant trees on his land and merely gave a little time to directing the planting of the trees. However, a retired farmer who placed his farm in the soil bank and personally planted a cover crop on his land would probably be rendering substantial services during one or more months in the year. In this case, he would not get social security payments for the months in which the cover crop was planted.

"Farmers who have questions about soil bank payments in relation to their social security should get in touch with a representative of our office when in their county," Tuley concluded.

Mr. McNatt of the Brownwood Station will be at the Coleman Department of Public Welfare at 10:00 a. m. every Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Williams of Abilene came Friday for a visit with her mother, Mrs. R. B. Archer. On Saturday the three went to Brownwood and spent the day with other members of the family, Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Dick and children. Mr. and Mrs. Williams returned home Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Will Parker returned home on Thursday of last week from Oklahoma City, Okla., where she had visited several weeks with her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Browning and children.

Fred Oakes was home last weekend from Fort Worth, visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Turner Oakes.

March of Dimes Drive Nets $710 For Santa Anna

The annual March of Dimes drive in Santa Anna has been completed and a total of $710 was realized from the drive. Actually $755.60 was raised but expenses amount to $45.00, leaving the balance of $710.00.

Your local director feels good about the final results of the drive. Although this is about $500 less than usually is raised for the drive, it is comparable with other drives over the state and county.

We would like to personally express our appreciation to all who have worked on the drive and to all who contributed to the success of the drive.

Gas Company Asks Rate Increase

Scott Bower, president of the Coleman Gas Company, met with the City Council in regular session last Thursday night and presented a brief to each councilman and requested a rate increase in the gas used in Santa Anna. The same increase had previously been requested in Coleman.

The Coleman Gas Company has properties in Santa Anna and Coleman. Bower said about 80 percent of the properties were in Coleman and 20 percent in Santa Anna. The estimated valuation of the entire system is $630,000 and at the present rate the company makes a little less than 3 percent on their investment. The rate requested would increase this amount to just under 6 percent and would amount to about a 17 percent increase in the local rates. Bower proposed a sliding scale rate, stating that he felt gas should be just like any other commodity, this is, the more you buy the cheaper each unit becomes.

Bower based his request on inflation. He started by describing how his home in Dallas has increased in value over a period of years, how salaries and other costs of operation have increased during the period since the end of World War II. Bower said the rate increase granted the company in 1952 by the Railroad Commission was based on the cost of the property previous to the inflationary period but since that time the Supreme Court has ruled that a reasonable replacement value could be placed on the property in order to determine the company's present worth.

Bower compared the gas utilities with electric utilities by stating that primarily the users of gas consumed about the same amount today as they did in 1925 and in the electric industry so many new appliances have been put on the market, the increased use of electric power offsets the need for a rate increase in that industry. He said there were some new gas appliances but they had not been pushed in this area and very few of them were in use.

No action on the proposal was taken by the Council. However, the proposal was countered by Mayor Ford Barnes. Barnes told Mr. Bowers that the increases in salary and properties he pictured could not be compared to the present day status of Santa Anna. By way of comparison, the Mayor told of the present day local value of his home and the approximate cost to construct the same type structure today. Barnes also told Bower that salaries in this area had not increased in proportion to the rates they have in other areas.

It is likely the gas rate will be discussed further in the next regular meeting of the City Council, which will be on the first Thursday in March. Citizens of Santa Anna who are interested in the gas company's proposal should meet with the Council and express their opinions.

Members of the Council are doing their best to represent the desires of the city as they see them. In order that they can more ably represent you, they must know your desires.

Two Students From A & M Practicing In High School

Santa Anna High School has been selected as a student teaching center by the department of Agricultural Education at Texas A. & M. College.

The student teachers, Harvey Percy of Seabrook and Alton Moellering of Fredericksburg, will conduct classes in the vocational agriculture department at Santa Anna High School during February 10-21, according to Mr. C. N. Perry Superintendent of schools.

Percy and Moellering, students at Texas A. & M., are preparing to become teachers of vocational agriculture after graduation.

In preparing for this profession they will spend two weeks of this semester doing student teaching. Such teaching, made possible by cooperation of the local agriculture department and Texas A. & M. College, permits them to gain direct teaching experience under supervision of an experienced teacher of vocational agriculture.

E. V. Walton, head of the Agricultural Education Department at A. & M. College, said that the local vocational agriculture department, with Mr. A. D. Pettit as teacher, is considered one of the outstanding departments in Texas.

He also said he felt confident the student teachers would gain valuable experience while at Santa Anna High School.

DESPITE President Eisenhower's statement that security should not be a political issue in this year's Congressional campaigns, the question, "How good is U. S. defense?" is certain to be political "meat" as the two major parties battle for Congressional control.

Even as the President spoke his chief aide, Sherman Adams was charging Democratic forces with "politicking with national defense" and saying that they should be held accountable to the American people. If this was to be the battlefield, he suggested, the Republicans would meet the opposition with "anticipation."

Democrats, of course, were quick to pounce upon Eisenhower's contention that the nation's security has been "markedly strengthened" during his five years in the White House. They suggested that, while our defenses are stronger than they were five years ago, the Russians have made faster gains than we have and that after all, defense is a "relative matter." The matter will not end here.

Our national security should come first and foremost above either political party. But it is foolish to think that such is likely to happen. Whether right or wrong, and whether we like it or not, defense will remain a political issue.

Whether or not it was revived by the Sputniks, the talk about "flying saucers" has been stirred up again. A recent television program reviewed the history of UFO's (unidentified flying objects), presenting pro and con evidence and commentaries by individuals representing groups which believed there are flying saucers and groups which believe there are no flying saucers. After reopening the case of UFO's, the program re-confused the issue and then wound up asking, "What do you think?"

Some observers feel that perhaps the fact that man has succeeded in putting a satellite into outer space lends some credit to the flying saucer possibility. Others point out that the majority of reports of flying saucers always are credited after investigation to some natural phenomenon. What do you think?

The conquest of space is man's most immediate dream and writers and observers are having a field day speculating on the new vistas such a conquest would open up. Foremost, of course, is the question of whether new achievements and discoveries in space will be channeled in the direction of war or peace.

Some scientists believe that man can use his knowledge of space to control weather conditions on earth, to get a closer look at the stars and the moon. TV cameras placed on satellites could keep the entire world—perhaps even other planets—under constant surveillance.

And the staggering potentialities of a space war... space vehicles with powerful weapons... guided missiles with unlimited range.

Perhaps the next few years will tell the tale. We must hope and pray that mankind will make the decision for peace.

THE WORLD OUTDOORS

By MIKE BENNETT

WHAT lies in the years ahead for the hunter?

Once upon a time game was plentiful. What a hunter took home was determined by the skill of his shooting eye and the strength of his back. It wasn't such a bad deal; hunters were few, game was plentiful. But that was once upon a time.

The constant pressure of an increasing population of hunters and the consequent dwindling of both game and available hunting lands made conservation methods and practices a necessity. Hunting seasons became shorter and shorter. "Split" seasons now have been initiated by certain states. And more and more people who like to hunt continue to pressure the situation.

To meet this pressure, some states have established controlled hunting areas. Under one setup, game is released periodically, in a given area. It's a "put and take" arrangement. As hunters take out game, a new supply is released. Refuge areas are sometimes set aside and developed to provide ideal propagation conditions for certain game birds or animals. Along migratory bird flyways areas have been developed into attractive stopover points for the birds—and equipped with ready-made shooting blinds hunters can "reserve" in the same manner as a hotel room.

Free and open hunting territory is becoming increasingly harder to find in many parts of the nation. It could be possible that one day there would be only controlled shooting on public lands or commercial shooting on privately-operated preserves—where you pay your money for the guarantee of something to take home in your hunting bag.

EGG LAW ENFORCEMENT BEGINS

Only a few more days remain before the Texas Egg Law becomes effective.

On Monday, February 17, official enforcement of the new law is inaugurated by the Texas Department of Agriculture. After that date, Texas will no longer be the only state in the Union without legal protection for the egg industry.

The new egg law is essentially a grading and labeling act. Briefly, it requires all eggs sold within the state to be properly marked as to its grade—and the eggs must meet the specifications indicated on the carton or crate whenever inspectors from the Department makes one of their frequent spot-checks at any level of trade.

The end result of this new law will benefit all persons connected with the industry. The producer is given an incentive to market high quality eggs that bring a premium price. The better his eggs, the more his profit and his good quality product will not have to compete on the same levels with inferior eggs.

The housewife, too, will be relieved of the hit-or-miss methods of egg buying. No guesswork is involved when she picks her eggs at the market. The grade on the box is the grade of the egg inside and she still will have a wide choice of quality and price according to her cooking needs.

The entire egg industry can expect a boost, also. For years, Texas eggmen have been plagued with false or misleading labeling methods within the trade. Various phrases were used in advertising which lead to confusion in trying to buy high quality eggs. Now the trade has a uniform system of grading on which to base their price.

In addition, egg handlers can buy and sell Texas eggs of a known quality without having to rely on out-of-state purchases for accurately graded eggs. This will help to keep Texas money in Texas.

When the Legislature passed the egg law, it also set up a Texas Egg Marketing Advisory Board to aid in policy making and enforcement problems. Agriculture Commissioner John White is chairman of this board, with D. W. Reneau of Seguin serving as vice-chairman.

Other members of the board are: T. D. Craddock, Hamilton; G. F. Siebel, Burton; Jim W. Whitaker, Paris; Jack Dubose, Gonzales; Marvin Gilbreath, Weimar; Dewey Stringer, Houston; Tom R. Boothe, San Antonio; and Frank Ehrle, Childress.

INCREASE FACILITIES

(A distinguished Texas judge offers pointers on combating our rapidly increasing juvenile delinquency problem.)

By JUDGE SARAH T. HUGHES

JUDGE HUGHES Our good Texas program for re-training juvenile delinquents into worthwhile citizens is today imperiled by too little space in our very good institutions and too few probation and other personnel for adequate supervision and training.

The last regular session of the Legislature did something to relieve the situation but not enough.

Extremely Overcrowded The State Training School for Boys at Gatesville is designed to handle 575 boys. It now has about 850. The girls' school at Gatesville was built for 180; it has 220.

The last Legislature provided dormitories for 160 boys, a school building, kitchen, and dining room.

Release Too Soon No more boys, however, will be accommodated. The new buildings will simply serve to relieve the present overcrowding. Many boys who already need to go there can't be sent; many boys sent will be released before their training is sufficient. And with our ever-increasing delinquency rate, even more offenders will be free who need to be confined and trained.

At Gainesville three new dormitories and a security treatment cottage were provided to replace existing ones considered extreme hazards. But they will not provide room for more girls.

Increase Facilities With present facilities so inadequate, whose responsibility is it for failure to rehabilitate? Isn't it ours? We are the people whose elected representatives carry out our wishes. What can we do to remedy the situation? We can make our legislators and our county officials (for county-level facilities) understand clearly what we want.

Next week: The younger learn from the older.

TAX-MAN SAM SEZ:

It would seem unnecessary for Uncle Sam to remind taxpayers that he would like to have a check along with the taxpayer's income tax return on which tax is due. Nevertheless, Uncle Sam goes into the letter writing business asking thousands of taxpayers to please send in a check for the tax they owe on their income tax return, because the taxpayer didn't send his check along with his tax return. All of us have to go sometime and those tax dollars have to go with the income tax return.

VISITORS AT NORTH SIDE CHURCH OF CHRIST SUNDAY

Among those attending services at the North Side Church of Christ Sunday were three students from Abilene Christian College, who spent the weekend in the home of the minister, Jack Horton and family.

They were: Bill Green, H. P. Nance and a Mr. Lacy. Mr. Lacy led the song service Sunday morning and he and Mr. Green made talks at the night service. Mr. Nance led the singing for the night service.

Mr. Horton also attends ACC, going from Santa Anna on Tuesdays and Thursdays to attend classes.

SENIOR 4-H CLUB NEWS

There were nine present. We elected a new vice president. She is Barbara McIntire. We played a game and sang a song.

Reporter, Clara L. Wright

Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Early and baby from Odessa, have moved into the Lew Story house in the west part of town. Mrs. Early is the former Jo Ann Morris of Santa Anna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Morris.

Mrs. M. N. McBurney returned to her home at Zephyr on Tuesday afternoon, after spending the weekend here with her mother and sister, Mrs. Alice Daniel and Mrs. E. S. Sewell.

Almost Everyone Must Pay Social Security Tax

The 1956 Amendments to the Social Security Act brought lawyers, dentists, osteopaths, veterinarians, chiropractors, naturopaths, and optometrists under social security. They are now, for the second year, required to pay their social security tax along with their Federal income tax returns. This announcement was made today by A. E. Fogle, administrative officer for the Abilene office of the Internal Revenue Service.

In conjunction with Fogle's announcement, R. R. Tuley, Jr., district manager of the Abilene office of the Social Security Administration, pointed out that, since the extension of coverage to these professional self-employed persons, they are now building the same kind of insurance protection for themselves and their families that the Federally-operated system has afforded most other self-employed persons since 1951.

Fogle stated that the law was effective with the first taxable year ending after 1955. Those named above who file their Federal income tax returns on a calendar year basis are required to pay a self-employment tax on their net earnings for each calendar year after 1955 if such net earnings amounted to $400 or more in a year. The SE tax rate for 1957 is 3 3/4% on the first $4200 of net earnings. This amounts to a maximum SE tax of $141.75 on $4200. These taxes are in addition to any income taxes that you have to pay. Schedule C (Profit From Business or Profession) must be properly completed, including the Schedule SE portion, and submitted at the same time as the other forms that are filed as a part of the Federal Income Tax return.

Both Tuley and Fogle emphasized the law is compulsory and applies to all self-employed individuals — with the exception of doctors of medicine — if their net earnings amount to at least $400 in the taxable year. They also pointed out that the taxpayer should make certain to show his correct social security account number on the Schedule SE so that he may receive credit for his payment. Failure to show the account number may result in no such credit and could mean the loss of future benefits.

Where the taxpayer does not have a social security account number card, or has lost one he did have, he should get Form SS-5 from his social security office or his local post office, complete it properly and take or mail it to the social security office so that the number will be available at income tax filing time. Questions about the filing of tax returns should be directed to the Internal Revenue Service; those about social security benefits, to the Social Security Administration.

Guests in the Norval Wylie home at the weekend were their sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Gilmore of Fort Worth, Mrs. P. E. Snook of Artesia, N. M., and their daughter, Mrs. W. L. Tillman and young daughter, Elizabeth Ann of Roswell, N. M. The Gilmores returned home, but the others will remain until the latter part of the week. Mrs. Snook is staying part time in her home here, the former Kathryn Baxter home.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Pritchard moved recently to Midland, where he has employment.

20th Century Club Met With Mrs. J. F. Goen On Friday

The 20th Century Club met in regular session on Friday afternoon of last week in the home of Mrs. J. F. Goen. A variety of flowers blooming in Mrs. Goen's yard were used in decorating the living room. Mrs. Warren Aldridge, president, was in charge.

"Care and Cultivation of Pecan Trees," was the subject developed by Mrs. Aldridge. Mrs. Roy Stockard, Mrs. Goen and Mrs. A. L. Oder, who read government bulletins and magazine articles on the subject. Mrs. W. E. Vanderford and Mrs. Edd Jones added to the discussion by telling of their experiences and observation on growing pecans. Coleman County is listed as one of the leading pecan growing areas of the state. Some plans for the future were discussed.

Mrs. Goen served refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, home made cookies and good coffee.

When the meeting adjourned the group went to the home of Mrs. Sam Rutherford, where her daughter, Mrs. Sam Grant, here from Fort Worth, showed interesting picture slides from a large projector.

The first picture was of the club meeting for an early morning coffee in the Clifford Stephenson home during last year, honoring Mrs. Claude Conley of Temple. The "Come as you are" apparel of the women caused much laughter.

The trip the Rutherfords and Grants took to Fredonia, Kansas last year to visit the Gene Rice family resulted in some lovely pictures. All pictures shown were in color. Scenes in Arkansas and Oklahoma were shown, as well as those from Panama Canal and Venezuela, made and sent by Kenneth Grant.

Progress of Christianity and devotion of converts was brought out.

Mrs. Clifford Stephenson gave a good financial report. Mrs. Norval Wylie agreed to serve out the term as Study Chairman, replacing Mrs. Bill Pritchard, who moved to Slaton.

Different things for the good of the cause, were discussed. It was agreed, instead of meeting at night for the next meeting, there would be an all day quilting on Wednesday, February 19, in the home of Mrs. George Richardson. All the women of the church are asked to be present sometime during the day. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon.

Mrs. John Roberts of Coleman made the quilt top, and gave the lining. The quilt will be used in the bedroom of the annex.

Liberty Home Dem. Club Has Regular Meeting Tuesday

The Liberty Home Demonstration Club met in the Community Building on February 11, in regular session.

Subject for the afternoon was "Repairing and Refinishing of Furniture". Mrs. W. H. Pittard, president, called the meeting to order.

Mrs. Olin Strange, hostess for the meeting, led the club in the pledge and prayer.

Mrs. Jewell Powers called the roll, which was answered by a miscellaneous fact.

In the business meeting it was decided to have a chili supper at the next Saturday night meeting on March 1st, in the Community building. Home made chili, pies and coffee will be sold at 50 cents per plate.

Mrs. Strange was appointed on a committee of arrangements for the supper. Mrs. Nora Goen and Mrs. Myrtle Gray, who had attended an Upholstery School in Coleman earlier in the day, demonstrated what they had learned.

For recreation, Mrs. Roy Stockard led the group in a Valentine quiz. The group learned in the quiz they didn't know all about love.

Mrs. Strange served lemon pie, coffee and cocoa to ten members. Mrs. Cecil Curry will be hostess for the next meeting, on February 25, when the subject will be "Civil Defense".

Mrs. Elmon Kirby of DeLeon visited here one day, last week with her sister, Mrs. Hardy Blue.

Reduce Delinquency

LEARNING CRIME?

(A distinguished Texas judge offers pointers on combating our rapidly increasing juvenile delinquency problem.)

By JUDGE SARAH T. HUGHES

JUDGE HUGHES

Gatesville, as you know, is the state school for delinquent boys. Only the worst offenders, should be committed there, but unfortunately many counties do not have facilities for handling boys who cannot be rehabilitated on probation. Many others do not have probation officers, paid or voluntary.

The result is that in some instances small boys 10 to 13 are sent to Gatesville simply because the county doesn't know what else to do with them. They may have committed only minor offenses and have no home.

Too Young

Such boys are really dependent and neglected rather than delinquent. They should never have been sent to Gatesville and it is not good that they are there. These 40 to 50-year-old boys sleep in a separate cottage. But otherwise—at meals, in school, and at play—they mix with older boys who have longer and more serious criminal careers and are good instructors in the ways of crime.

Too Little Remedy

The last regular session of the Legislature did not provide a separate school for younger boys but did remedy the situation in part. Dormitory and eating space were provided away from the main campus.

In many activities, however, the younger boys WILL CONTINUE TO MIX WITH THE MORE HARDENED OLDER BOYS, and only when the schools are entirely separate can the facilities be considered adequate.

Next week: How to get what we need.

ception of the sinners. Such a conception of brotherhood is firmly rooted in our relation with the Father. His love is what enables us, selfish and sinful men that we are, to find the secret of loving one another. See the picture of the angry, scornful brother pointing his finger and saying, "This, thy son." Against this censorious tone came the gentle words, "This, thy brother." Does this not rebuke us all?

PRAYER
 Our Father, we are reconciled to Thee by Thy merciful and loving gift in the death of Thy Son. We have joy in the reconciliation which restores our love to Thee and to one another. In the name of our blessed Redeemer we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
 Under God, the loving Father, men become brothers through Christ, His Son.

HENRY'S LUCKY COOK
 By Jayne Mayfield

HENRY sipped his second cup of coffee, leaving half of his hotcake swimming in syrup on his plate; even a loving heart could demand no more of a shrinking stomach. He thought longingly of his mother's cooking, then swallowed the thought with the last of his coffee. Linda would learn, given time. They hadn't been married six months yet.

Linda looked mighty sweet in the morning, fresh and neat, like a doll, in her gingham dress and frilly apron. He could wait for her to learn the housewifely arts—like cooking.

That's what Henry thought when he kissed his wife, goodbye that morning.

The picture changed about five that afternoon when Mr. King announced in his hearty, fat man's voice: "I'm opening my cabin at Lake Jaggerwocky this weekend boys. Mrs. King and I would like you all to join us for a potluck dinner." Reaching in his pocket King pulled out several strips of paper. "As usual, we will draw for the dishes each of us will furnish. Mrs. King feels that's the fairest and most interesting way."

Henry closed his eyes praying that his slip would name something simple—like potato salad—even he could manage that. He fidgeted while Smithers, Fiddle and Jones casually reached for their slips. They should worry, they had all been married a long time—their wives could cook.

Henry hastily read his slip, his heart sinking. "Cloverleaf rolls." Linda would never in this world manage those.

Linda, however, was more optimistic. "Anybody can do it, goose! All you have to do is read the directions that come with the flour. Don't you worry, honey, I'll make them so light and fine they'll purely float away. Come on now, let's eat."

Thursday passed, Friday passed, nothing happened. Henry was busy during the day, waiting on customers in the store, and had little time to think. He liked his job. He liked the men he worked with. He even liked his boss. But he loved his wife, and was proud of her dainty blond beauty. He wanted his fellow workers to envy him, not pity him because she couldn't cook.

The women too. He could almost hear them gossiping among themselves. "Poor Henry, such a pretty wife, but an awful cook! Did I tell you about the rolls she brought to the potluck? My dear, you'll never believe it—but we just couldn't eat them. Imagine!"

Sunday arrived, bright and clear, and had to be faced. "Here's the rolls, honey, put them in the car, will you? Be careful now! Don't mash the top, there's a cake too — a lovely chocolate cake."

Oh my! She hadn't been satisfied with bungling rolls, but had to try her hand at a cake too! Henry was angry enough not to care if he did hurt her feelings—until he looked at her. She was so utterly unaware of anything wrong; so happy to be going "To meet Mrs. Boss, and all."

The other women were already setting food and plates on a long table by the lake shore when Henry and Linda arrived. He led Linda up to Mrs. King, introduced them and hurriedly joined the men playing horseshoes. But, of course, he had to return when the men were called to the table.

Henry looked dazed when Mrs. King beamed on him. "My these rolls are delicious! You're a lucky man, Henry, having such a prett-wife who can cook like this." Henry was sure she was merely being kind until he tried a roll himself. It was light, just brown enough, faintly crusty—and good.

Read Galatians 3:23-29.

Ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. (Galatians 3:26.)

An interesting sidelight on the parable of the prodigal son is found in John Wesley's notes on the New Testament. He says: "In the 30th verse the elder son had unkindly said 'This, thy son'. The father mildly reproves him and tenderly says, 'This, thy brother.' Amazing intimation that the best of men ought to account sinners their brethren, and should especially remember this relation when they show any inclination to return."

ideas from other editors

From the South Pasadena Review, South Pasadena, California: It must be quite maddening to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to hear the periodic disarmament proposals coming from Moscow couched in tones of "sweet reasonableness." For Mr. Dulles knows (as does everybody else who is willing to see) that once he or the President or any other American representative sits down at the conference table with their Soviet counterparts there is no reasonableness whatever in the Soviet negotiations.

There is no doubt that the Kremlin wants peace—but on Kremlin terms! Nothing else will do. So, the oft-repeated pronouncements of good will and peaceful co-existence are obviously 99 per cent propaganda.

President Eisenhower has suggested that the Soviets show more evidence of a desire for disarmament and world harmony. That's a perfectly sound suggestion. But we are closely tied together with the Free World in purpose and we cannot act independently. And much of the Free World still believes there is a possibility of diplomatically dealing with the Russians.

The people of Western Europe want negotiations again at the top level. They want every possible prospect for a lasting peace examined exhaustively. They have felt the scourge of war as we have never felt it. They live under the shadow of the hammer and sickle.

Some members of the Eisenhower Administration feel that we should again be willing to consider serious talks with the Kremlin. They feel no doubt, that while the talks themselves would achieve little, a top-level conference would further show our willingness to make every reasonable effort for peace.

From the Lincoln Times, Lincoln, N. C.: Labor union demands for a shorter work week, if granted, would put the nation under the destructive economic crush of more inflation.

Headline-seeking union bosses, arrogant in their monopolistic power, deliberately neglect to tell us that the shorter work week would result in drastically lowered production, spiraling unit costs, skyrocketing prices and depressed living standards.

The shorter work week would create a gigantic swell of inflation that would burst onto our entire economy, wiping out hard-earned savings for capital investment.

Sharon and Terry, to our community. They are living on the John Will Vance farm and formerly lived at Mozelle.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Jones and Karen visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bud Elliott and Gloria at Camp Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. James Narramore and Gwen of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fowler and Sandra and Larry spent Sunday with the J. R. Lane family.

Everyone is invited to attend the Saturday night supper February 15, at the Community Center.

Bro. Parker is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Carroll on Sunday.

Mrs. Ione Caton spent Monday with Mrs. E. S. Jones. Evening visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Noble Carpenter and children.

Mr. Carl Williams entered the Shanon Hospital in San Angelo for treatment Thursday. A report Monday states he is doing nicely.

Guarding Tomorrow's Freedom

How to maintain a lasting peace . . . how to preserve full employment . . . how to ward off recession . . . how to keep our high standard of living. Those are problems which continually face the Government of our country.

Tomorrow they may blaze into issues that must be solved by the factions and interests that make up our democracy. Each of these factions and interests will demand to be heard — and they will be heard.

The press of America will report and comment on what each and every party to an issue has to say. The public will know what is going on.

It is only thus that the best interests of America can be served over and above the interests of any one faction or any limited-interest group.

This vital function can be performed only by a press that is free to write and free to publish the story of national issues, unfettered by dictation from any source.

Today's freedoms can be secured and tomorrow's freedoms guarded only by a press that owes allegiance to no ogre of tyranny bent upon shaping our destiny to suit its own ends.

If the press of America is, in a real sense, to remain the guardian of our future, we must preserve the freedom it possesses today.

TODAY'S PROBLEM:

The Younger Generation

LET'S call him Henry since his regard for his parents prompts him to ask that a pseudonym be used. Henry is married and has three children, boys of fourteen and ten and a daughter of twelve. He says both he and his wife knew all along that they had been over-indulged as children, and that problems were created which they were not equipped mentally to solve. This was not to happen to their own children!

It was easy enough to teach children not to snatch small objects from the tables and bookshelves; they could learn while young to respect the property of others; they must realize the futility of crying over every frustration. No, they were not going to rear their children as they had been reared—with so much left for them to work out for themselves.

So Number 1 had his hands slapped when he reached for things not meant for him; when he fell down he was told "Come here and I'll pick you up." The youngster, when not really hurt, became so intrigued over getting to the parent that he forgot to cry; when the little sister came along he was told, "No, No," over touching her properties until, said his mother, "he really thought his name was "No, No."

They were not allowed to eat all over the house; they could have cookies and milk at the kitchen table, in the playroom—but not in the livingroom. They could not turn on the water at the kitchen sink and spatter the floor, but they could have a large pan on the porch and boats to sail in it.

What did this mean for the parents? Well, it meant ceaseless supervision for the first children who served as a good example for the others. It all paid off in school. Their report cards were marked 100% when it came to courtesy, obedience, respect for the property of others, attentiveness and neatness. And they looked up to their parents as the years went by.

Two of their children now have children of their own and they are following the routine by which they were reared.
