SMOKE

FROM THE MOUNTAIN

Well, it seems that Curtis Collins and the News has at last reached the pinacle of fame or notoriety for we 'made' the State Press column at last. Quite recently we commented on Mr. Collins being superstitions and State Press of the Dallas News picked it up. We are quoting the clipping that appeared on the editorial page of the Dallas News, August 9.

NO MAGIC SUFFICES.

Santa Anna News: For many weeks Oscar Cheaney has been wanting us to put Curtis Collins in this column and now at last we have a chance. It seems our Road Commissioner is superstitious. Last year on Sept. 1 he gave a watermelon feast at his home and before the guests arrived he had a man helping him kill Johnson grass. It 'so happened, for the first time in his life, that not one blade of Johnson grass lived, so Mr. Collins grant in the west side of the building.

Safety On Our Texas Highways

Automobile drivers and truck drivers, make this information part of your first hand knowledge so you won't be numbered among accidents that happen during August.

Nearly 50% of the drivers involved in fatal accidents have no one to blame but themselves! Figures compiled by the Dept. of Public Safety for the month of June reveal that 1417 accidents occurred in Texas, 1582 were injured, and of the total number of accidents, 142 were fatal with stract No. 965, and J. Johnson 159 deaths, according to Caskey Livingston, Coleman, Tex-survey No. 45, abstract No. 447 as, Member of Governor's Traffic Safety Committee. Again being about 8.35 acres in Diaz SPEED REIGNED SUPREME.

Half these deaths were non-collision and fixed object wrecks caused by speeding and reckless driving. Drivers lost control of cars, plunged them off roadways, crashed them into culverts and fences and draped them around trees; often drivers were hurled through windshields. Many were picked up by the ambulance a crushed, mutilated, mangled, bloody, inert heap. In several instances hours elapsed before the tragedy was discovered.

It is no longer considered smart to be able to brag about how quickly one can drive from one town to another. This type of motorist is fast becoming not only a bore but a menace to public welfare. THE SMART DRIVER IS THE son to J. D. Nabours and Mrs. CAREFUL DRIVER. CAREFUL DRIVER.

COLEMAN GAS & OIL COMPANY SUBN PROPOSITION FOR REDUCTION IN GAS RATES

At the last Regular Session of the Legislature there was passed a law amending Article 1119 of the Revised Statutes. which statute had heretofore provided that cities and towns of over 2,000 population could prescribe rates for gas and other public utilities, and further provided that no rate should be prescribed that would yield less than 10 per cent per annum to the utility company. This act as amended and effective April 12, 1937, provided that all incorporated cities and towns could fix gas rates through its governing body or City Commission, and further provided that the rate prescribed should be such as would not yield MORE THAN 8 per cent.

The Coleman Gas & Oil Company feeling that the rate now in existence of 50 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas was in excess of the legal limit, offered to the City Commission on the 6th of this month to reduce the present rate to 35 cents per thousand with a minimum of 50 cents for the first thousand cubic feet of gas. This would be a saving to the people of Santa Anna of nearly one third on their gas bills and would still yield to the Gas Company a substantial profit on its investment.

According to the figures submitted, the Coleman Gas & Oil Company is making on its investment in Santa Anna 13.65 per cent, which is 5.65 per cent above the legal limit. Otherwise expressed, 13.65 per cent is about 170 per cent of 8 per cent, that is, about 1.7 as much as the maximum allowed by law.

The City Commission has the proposition under advisement and will pass upon the same in a short time and if they act favorably upon the proposition, the Coleman Gas & Oil Company will immediately reduce its rates to the schedule above outlined of 35 cents per thousand, with a minimum of 50 cents for the first thousand. The proposition further involves the prompt payment of the bills by the 10th of each month and in default of such payment the rate would be 5 cents per thousand higher.

Mr. Sheppard and I saw eye to eye on this matter; we believe that the law makes it mandatory on us to see that the schools get $17.50 per capita. We did that and they're going to get $20; and at the same time, the taxpayers are going to get a tax reduction.

As a final citation of the record, concerning the attitude of public school teachers: In February of this year, one of the heads of the Teachers Association told a legislative committee that if they could "hold the $19 and maybe get $1 more they would be tickled to death." THE STORY

CHAPTER I—Preparing to close her gummer home and spend the winter in France with a great-aunt, Anne Vincent, a middle-aged widow, accedes to the speak of her adopted daughter Rachel, wenty and pretty, that she tell her about her real mother. Anne, an unsetish, understanding soul, finds the task difficult, since she feels Rachel is putsing a barrier between them. Rachel-kearns that her real mother was beautiful eighteen-year-old Elmor Malloy, deserted by her young husband, before Rachel's birth. He was killed in the World war. In desperate sinancial straits, Elmor had agreed to Rachel's geoption at birth by Anne, whose own barby nat died. Elmor subsequently had married Peter Cayne, a wealthy New York business man, and ker a son. To spaten the story for Rachel, Anne omits telling her that her mother had been callous and selfish.

CHAPTER II—Rachel goes fishing with Bob Eddis, a local boy who runs a library and does wood carving. She refuses his plea to stay in Rockboro and marry him instead of going to New York for the winter. At dinner Rachel announces she is going to do something of her very own in New York. Departing the next morning they leave the keys with Mr. Kreel, a neighbor.

CHAPTER III—Reviewing the situation between Rachel and herself, Anne is confirmed in her belief that it is time for Rachel to learn more self-dependence. Rachel makes arrangements to stay in New York for the winter with "Pink," a keer, vivacious girl absorbed in her job, Anne leaves provision for Rachel's finances in case of need and leaves for Europe. After Anne sails, Rachel, bent on seeing her real mother, looks up Elimer Cayne's number.

CHAPTER IV — Rachel learns the Caynes are not yet in town. Pink takes Rachel to dinner at Tom and Rhoda Steele's where she meets oliver Land, a shabby genteel young man out of work who suggests that she apply for a job as a photographer's model for advertising illustrations. He agrees to introduce her to the head of an agency.

CHAPTER V—Thinking of Anne. Rachel is piqued, fretfully believing her own mother would not have left her alone. She is not entirely happy with Pink Matthews. Her desire to see Elizar Cayne increases. Through Oliver Land she meets Louis Vinco, is hired as a photographer's model and succeeds on her first assignment posing for furniture advertising. Oliver makes her feel her ladebtedness to him.

CHAPTER VI—On an assignment, Rachel meets Curt Elton, a young friend of Vinco's. At lunch she learns that he is Vinco's, At lunch she learns that he is a country newspaper man spending a year in New York. For experience he takes a number of different jobs, planning to return home later to edit the paper his father left. That evening she receives flowers from him. She phones Mrs. Cayne's home but is rebuffed because she will not give her name. Later Curt reveals that Vinco had received an inquiry from a private detective for a girl to go into a rich family and act as lady's maid to check up on some jewelry thefts. Rachel is amazed when she fearns the name is Cayne. Without revealing her relationship, she gets, Curt to persuade Vinco to let her meet Terriss, the detective, hoping to get the gab

CHAPTER VII—Terriss explains that Elinor Cayne is twenty years younger than her husband and that the son is seventeen. He agrees to have Rachel meet Mr. Cayne. She impresses him favorably and gets the job.

CHAPTER VIII

She was, then, accepted, but she could not quite believe it. She said to Terriss as they went downstairs, "But he didn't ask me any really sensible questions, and he told me nothing about what I'd have to do. I slow't understand it."

Well, Miss Vincent, I figure ft west this way: Mr. Cayne's one of wose men who prides himself on Ane way he can read character and grou made a hit with him by being coffnand and quiet. Besides, he was spratiz well worn out seeing people metore you and there's always a goint where folks who're mixing into stuff they don't know about give right up. See what I mean? I mustn't let them know I'm working for Terriss, I mustn't let Terriss know why I wanted to do this work. I know he suspects there's something special in my mind about it. And then—Anne! What will she

All the way back to Vinco's she fought the problem of whether to tell Anne and how to tell her and when, but she worked out no satisfactory answer. It was a relief to see Curt Elton standing at the door waiting for her as he had promised, friendly, easy, somehow he gave her confidence.

"I know it's all arranged," he said. "Terriss phoned Vinco, I thought you'd come in carrying banners and singing songs of victory. What's the matter?" "It seems so queer now I'm really in it. Maybe I've lost my nerve." "Oh no, you haven't. Stop thinking about how you feel and concentrate on what you've not to do. There's plenty of that around, Vinco's been yelling his head off to get you started on an appointment. Now I'm not going to bother you, but I do want to see you when you're all set to go into this Cayne house. Call me up if you haven't time for anything else, will you? I got you into this and I'm going to see you through it. And take it easy. It's not so very important, you know, just a stunt, and you can "pull it off"

Which was all he knew about what it meant to her. Rachel thought. Even so, she found his point of view steadying. "I'll call you up," she promised, and went on to placate Vinco.

That was not hard to do, for below his fussiness Vinco was highly pleased that one of his young ladies had qualified for a difficult and unusual task. When she came home that night there were letters waiting for her, letters from Anne, two of them, brought in on one of the slow winter ships, and a letter from Bob Eddis. Pink was waiting, too, an emiable agreeable Pink who had seemingly forgotten all about their late stiffness. It came to Rachel suddenly that she'd have to tell Pink what she was going to do, yes, and she'd have to tell her about Genie Moore snatching her white beret. Pink would never be so lilting and gay if she knew of that. Evidently Genie hadn't brought it back. She put the letters aside unopened.

"Pink," she began cannily, "I'm going to take you out to dinner. we'll go some place where it's expensive and snooty. I've got an elegant new job, so we'll celebrate.'

"Ob. grand! I feel like a prond What's the job?" party. "I'll tell you at dinner. How about

Have you got it?" "Oh, I forgot to tell you, Genie told her you'd not like it, but she went right in and took it."

As Rachel finished her toilet, there was an ominous silence,

Rachel Heard Pink in the Hall

Hammering at Genie's Door. then the outer door slammed and Rache! heard Pink in the hall hammering at Genie's door. Presently she heard the door again but she didn't look out. When she was ready Rachel came into the living room and a moment later Pink entered too, scarlet spots on her cheeks, her lips compressed and not wearing the white beret. "She stretched it. her head's bigger than mine," she said shortly, "I hate lending hats, they always get spoiled."

Rackel said nothing. As they walked down the stairs Pink added: 'You're right, Rachel, she's a little grafter. I'm sorry about your dress. We won't either of us lend her paything again, ever if she has to go out like a fan dancer." "I'm sorry about the hat," Hachel said. "She really did grab It. had quite an argument about it." "Yes, she told me." Pink looked up and laughed, "We're a pair of nuts," she said, and the reconciliation was complete.

The dinner at Lori's was great fun. Rhoda was amazing in a red upholstery plush and earrings of three-inch copper discs, but at Lori's this was not conspicuous. She was sweet and kind, as always, and so was Tom, and delighted to hear that Rachel had a new job.

Back at the apartment Rachel was more frank with Pink about her work, there was no difficulty in that for the name of Peter Cayne meant no more to Pink than it had to Rachel six months before, and it was necessary that Pink should know where she was going and what her position there would be. Pink thought it all a great adventure and wished that the advertising business offered equal thrills. But at last Rachel had to go to her room and face the three unread letters.

She began with Bob's, written in his small clear script which was almost like print. It was all gossip, the winter fishing, the cerie whiteness and silence of the beach in the snow, the new kittens of Mrs. Duffy's cat Jerusha, the books Bob had read-mostly trash, he confessed-the progress of the carved room, the breakdown of the furnace in the Congregational church.

Rachel put the letter down with relief that he hadn't asked her again to marry him or even made love to her. She didn't want to feel anything more. And Anne's letters were waiting. She opened them reluctantly, arranged them according to date and began to read the first one. It was not very long. Tante Helene, it seemed, had a persistent bronchitis and Anne was busy nursing her and running the house and property as well. Rachel could feel Anne's fatigue and her patience, "The servants have been here a long time and they don't want to make the least change in their ways and I'm sure they believe I'm only here to get hold of Tante Helene's money. The man on the farm is amiable because he's due to make a new lease and he thinks I'm going to be easy. They all have to be treated like difficult children. Tante Helene herself is difficult enough, she lies in her huge bed swathed in woolen shawls and blankets of every color of the rainbow and her sharp little voice clacks all day long except when she is coughing or when the doctor has the thermometer under her tongue, She considers illness a cruel and unjust penance for sins she never committed. She won't have a nurse, so Marie, her maid, and I wait on her, I trying to carry out the doctor's orders and Marie paying no attention to them or to anything but the old lady's whims. It will be a miracle if she gets well." Rachel felt a moment of panic. If Tante Helene should die and Anne came sailing back to America while she was at the Caynes', what a mess that would be! She opened go any place very smart, if we the other letter in haste, it had take them. Rhoda's getups are too been written nearly a week later. And at once she breathed more "Then we'll go to Lori's. The easily, for Tante Helene was better, food's good and they're accustomed | Anne had the household more in hand, even the dreary winter rain While Rachel was changing her of the valley had given way to cold dress she heard a wail from Pink's but bright sunshine. As she read Rachel could see Anne gently, expertly managing one person after another, placating but passing over no borrowed it last night, she came in here and grabbed it, literally. I of order and system and justice through petty obstacles and slipshod customs. And for the first time she had a sense of Anne's spirit transferred to her in her own struggle to see her own mother. "We're alike," she thought, "Anne and I, we want something and we work to get it. But Anne's the best, she only wants what's right. I'm not sure that what I want is right but I want it just the same." It was all right now, she could go ahead and not worry about being disloyal to Anne. Anne would understand, Anne would know what had pushed her on so urgently. But -she wouldn't tell Anne just yet, she'd write tomorrow, before she started in at the Caynes', and say nothing about it, she'd write a long letter and tell about Pink and Genie was given a good pair of scis-Moore and the Steeles and Curt El- sors. That was really a thrillton. Anne would like Curt Elton. Ing moment. It was strange, she thought, how these letters communicated the very essence of Anne, the calmness, the steadiness, the power to resolve chaos into clarity. It was exactly what she needed. She dropped off to sleep thinking gratefully and lovingly of Anne.

The next day she went to see Terriss, who offered practical counsel. "You've got some sort of plain dress to wear up there, I suppose, and plain clothes to take," he said. 'Mrs. Cayne will go through the motions of engaging you herself, but that's all hooey. Mr. Cayne runs the house and has ever since they were married. test in the cooperator class.)

In December 1936 the Cross Roads girls met and organized a 4-H club with a membership of thirty girls. As I was chosen president of the club it made me more eager than every to learn just what 4-H club work was really like.

The first thing we made after equipping our sewing boxes was an apron. We made it by hand because we all needed practice using thimbles. There were only a few of us who used the thimble to begin with but when we had finished our aprons almost all of us were using them and could hardly sew without them.

The second garment we made was a gown or kimono. That was where I met with my first problem. All I lacked having my gown finished was putting in the bias tape around the neck and sleeves. But when I started to sew it on I found that it was harder to do than I had thought it would be, because I didn't know whether to open the tape or not. I did not ask anyone about it and sewed it on just as I thought 4-H Club Work. it should be. Of course it was it should be. Of course it was wrong and I had to take it off ing that included making a cup and put it on right.

The last and most interesting thing we made was a sport dress. It was lots of fun picking our own patterns and materials. We did our best because we knew it depended on us if we were to get anywhere in the contest that was being held in June. I made my dress without any trouble because I had picked a simple pattern. The material was green pique.
After we had finished our dresses we all looked forward to the Rally Day that we had at the City Park on June 19th. We modeled our dresses in the morning and our other garments were put on display. In the afternoon we had a style show. After the style show prizes were awarded to the girls whose dresses were made the nicest and the most becoming.

I won first place on my dress in the cooperator class and I

In our clothing work besides making three garments, we kept an inventory, wardrobe and an account of our clothing expenditures. It was interesting to see how much you really spend on clothing. In clothing work the thing

I learned that I value most highly, was how to sew and to ew well. Our year in clothing work was successful because we had a good sponsor and a good county H. D. A. There was nothing else to keep us from it.

I can honestly say that I enjoyed being in the club very much and hope that we have one in our community just as good as next year.

VOTE FOR

COURTHOUSE AND JAIL BONDS

ON AUGUST 14th

DO YOU KNOW:

- 1. That the proposed bond issue for new buildings and equipment will cost the taxpayers only 11c on the $100 valuation? (For instance one rendering $1000 worth of property of any kind would only pay $1.10 per year).
- 2. That it is now necessary for the county to pay outside rental for County Agent and School Superintendent for office and book storage amounting to $900.00 per year; and, that when the present short lease is up this will in all probability be raised?
- 3. That the county is sharing with the City an additional rent bill of $70.00 per month for sewing room and other necessary relief projects?
- 4. That it is absolutely necessary in order to confine dangerous criminals that they be removed to other counties and held where there are adequate jail facilities, at a considerable expense each year?
- 5. That in 30 years (term of proposed bonds) these extra expenses will approximate $50,000, and that this amount will go a long way toward paying for new buildings of our own?
- 6. That the older deed and probate records are necessarily stored in unprotected portion of courthouse and in case of destruction it would cost large sums in legal and court expense to again perfect and establish your titles?
- 7. That during the past 15 years many Grand Juries have made recommendations that more adequate courthouse and jail facilities be provided?

- 8. That owing to courtroom, jury boxes, jury sleeping and deliberating quarters being so infested with bats and mites that many jurors almost refuse to serve, thereby hampering the transaction of your business?
- 9. That owing to old and dangerous condition of plumbing in both building that it is impossible to maintain healthful and sanitary conditions?
- 10. That no suitable quarters can at present be provided (as should be) for meetings of County Agent, Home Demonstration Clubs and other similar important agencies.
- 11. That the present healthy condition of the bond market makes this an opportune time to advantageously sell bonds?
- 12. That as much of the old material as is possible to use will be incorporated in new buildings, and that building at this time will come before general rises in material?
- 13. That employment will be provided for many families for some months to come?
- 14. That anyone rendering ANY property for taxation is entitled to vote in this election; and, that the wife will be entitled to vote in all cases where community property is rendered?
- 15. That in 1884, the then population of one-ninth the present population and with a valuation of one-sixth of the present valuation built the present structure at a cost of approximately one-third the amount proposed at present?

This is a county-wide issue; it is not the wish or project of any clique or any locality.

Your Commissioners' Court is composed of men of sound judgment who are responsible to you and who can be trusted to carefully handle all phases of this or any other program.
