The Santa Anna Council of Church Women will have their regular Fifth Monday meeting with the First Presbyterian Church on Monday, March 31, at 6:00 p. m.

This vesper service will be held commemorating the beginning of Holy Week leading up to Good Friday and Easter Sunday. The program is to be especially important to Christians who are observing this particular season of the year, of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

All the hymns will be chosen for this particular theme and several will be illustrated by Mrs. J. M. Duncan of Coleman, a former Santa Anna resident.

Also on the program will be Mrs. Billie Slepp Mercer and Miss Florence Balch. Several members of the local Presbyterian Church will also assist.

Mrs. Walter Holt will be program chairman. Mrs. Robert Markland, president of the Council, has asked that all business be put aside for the meeting, so that the solemnity of the occasion will prevail.

There will be refreshments served in the church annex following the service. After the services many are expected to attend Holy Week services in their respective churches.

The public is cordially invited to attend this unusual and moving presentation of hymns.

Sunrise Easter Services To Be Held At 1st Baptist

The Community Easter Sunrise Service will be held Easter Sunday morning in the First Baptist Church. A committee, composed of representatives of several Santa Anna Churches met recently to plan the service.

The Sunrise Services is an annual event, sponsored by the churches of the city. In past years the services has been held on the East Santa Anna Mountain, near Ranger Park. The committee felt that because of the early date and the uncertainty of the weather, the service should be planned this year as an inside meeting.

Mayor Ford Barnes has announced that the cross on the mountain will be lighted next week to remind everyone of the service.

Maurice Smith, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will be the speaker for the service. Other local pastors will be on the program and special music will be arranged by the Methodist Church. A special feature of the service will be a choir composed of persons from the various churches of the city. Everyone in the community is invited to attend this service, Sunday, April 6 at 7:00 a. m.

High School Broken Into Monday Night

Supt. Cullen N. Perry reports someone broke into the high school building during the night Monday and did some damage to a filing cabinet and took between $4.00 and $6.00 in money.

Perry said the entry was made through a fire escape or a window that was apparently left unlocked after a play practice was held there Monday night. Between $3.00 and $5.00 was taken from paper and pencil vending machines in the building and $1.00 was taken from his office. Also, in the main office a filing cabinet was pried open doing about $20.00 in damage to the cabinet. The cabinet was unlocked and could have been opened by a thumb latch, but the person doing the damage was probably unaware that it could have been opened so easily.

The person or persons in the building had apparently planned to take several other items, as they were stacked up as if they were to be carried off. However, very little if anything was actually missing.

Perry said that no amount of money is ever kept in either of the school buildings. Anyone wanting to, could break into a school building without too much trouble, and for that reason no money is kept there.

An investigation is underway by the Sheriff's Department.

Straight Talk

BY TOM ANDERSON

Mr. Eisenhower has submitted a 12-point "labor program" to Congress. It says that if there is corruption and racketeering in some quarters of labor, that it must be stopped, because sin is bad. The Eisenhower labor program has all the mouth-watering, rib-sticking satisfaction of boiled watermelon.

Labor Secretary Mitchell represents, not the nation, as Benson does, but union labor. He ought to be removed from office and replaced by a man of real stature who puts the good of the country above the selfish interests of the group he represents.

Ask your congressman to amend the Taft-Hartley law to:

1. Guarantee to all Americans the right to join—or not to join—a labor union.

2. Provide secret ballots by union members in selecting their officers and deciding union policies. (No other votes to be counted.)

3. Provide for elections every two years, with provision that 51% of membership can call an election any time.

4. Make all secondary boycotts illegal and subject to heavy fines and imprisonment.

5. Insure real two-way bargaining at the local levels.

6. Union dues, fees, and assessments would be protected, audited, and accounted for publicly. Union health, welfare, and pension funds should be protected same way as bank deposits and insurance funds.

7. A strike could be ordered only by a majority of members balloting secretly.

8. Make unions subject to same anti-trust, taxation, restraint-of-trade, and monopoly laws as are corporations.

9. Union members in a minority should be protected from retaliation by those whom they have opposed.

10. Make Reds and racketeers unwelcome in unions by denying them the right to hold office.

11. Prohibit employers from deducting union dues or assessments from wages of employees (the "check-off").

12. Make it illegal for unions to collect fees and assessments from members for political activities.

13. Make unions subject to same limitations on political contributions and expenditures as are corporations.

14. Make featherbedding and slow downs illegal.

15. Make picketing activities illegal by any except workers from the struck plant, whose future jobs could depend on legal, peaceful picketing. Regulate lawful picketing and prohibit anyone interfering with a worker's right to work; prohibit use of force, threats of violence, or intimidation, subject to fine and imprisonment.

16. National officers could not take over local unions without membership approval, nor create "paper locals" to perpetuate themselves in power.

Huge monopolistic unions are a far greater threat to American freedoms than are business monopolies. The AFL-CIO marriage should be annulled. It's no more legal than a merger of Chrysler, Ford and G. M.

The government has questioned the merger of numerous businesses, some of them doing not more than 3% of the total business in their industry. But the government didn't have the guts to prohibit the AFL-CIO labor monopoly. The 17-million member AFL-CIO is a merger led by bloody-handed conspirators who have killed, maimed, robbed, pillaged, and pilloried citizens and governments, and thrived on it.

Of Man River Most union Teamster members are either uninformed, crooked, or scared. One driver—when asked what he thought of Hoffa—said, "I'd rather look at that river over there than float in it."

Tennessee's Senator Kefauver, a male Carrie Nation, against ALL sin, now is chopping away with his little hatchet at what he calls "price-fixing monopoly in the automobile business. If it can be found that the Big Three car manufacturers are not truly competitive, they should be prosecuted. Of course, the labor monopoly is ALREADY PROVIDED and the sickening Tennessee Demagog (The Senate's Member-at-Large) is ignoring that—only because labor has many votes, business few.

Labor likes Big Government because it can TRADE with Big Government more effectively and vice versa—and the little people (the great unorganized majority) get hurt. Big Labor, Big Business, Big Government, and Big Spending go together like mutinies and poison. They feed on each other until freedom is put agonizingly to sleep and Liberty sputters out.

Revolution—by and for Dictators Teamster President James R. Hoffa said in a recent interview, "The future of labor-management relations is Big Labor and Big Business, for there is no room for the small business or the small union. We are out for every quarter we can get." He and Beck got plenty of quarters.

Jimmy Hoffa has proposed a giant union of workers in all kinds of transportation—trucks, airlines, railroads, and ships. "You cannot have a one-city strike any more, or a strike in just one kind of transportation," Hoffa said. "You have to strike them all." Thus Hoffa could paralyze the nation in an instant, which is more than Mr. Khrushchev can do yet.

A strike that shuts down transportation, steel, coal, or food processing is misnamed. It's not a strike. It's not merely against the companies. It's class warfare. It's a revolution, triggered by dictators. Unless we change the laws and unless we change a lot of the office holders—we will soon be up to our necks in a labor economy and political economy which can lead only to a Socialist or Communist dictatorship. As Donald R. Richberg says in his book, "Labor Union Monopoly"—"Labor's economic monopoly and political power are preparing the way for Communism far more effectively than the Communists themselves."

Forged Checks Being Passed In Santa Anna

During the past few days at least two forged checks have been passed to merchants in Santa Anna and two to Coleman merchants on Santa Anna people. Attempts have been made to pass a few others. One man is in the county jail as the result and investigations are being made of others who may have been involved.

Ray Owen, who has suffered at least ten robberies in the past ten years, was one of the intended victims of the forged instruments. The check was made payable to a man formerly living here and signed "Mr. C. R. Owen". The check was cashed in a local grocery store and was caught when it was deposited in the bank for payment.

Earlier in the week a forged instrument for $35.00 was passed at a local dry goods store and was caught when deposited at the bank. At least one other attempt was made to pass a forged check.

All merchants are warned to be more careful about taking checks from persons you may not be familiar with.

Ray Owen filed charges against the man accused of attempting to pass the forged check on him, Monday afternoon and the man was picked up before dark. Ray said the check wasn't any good anyhow, and wondered why attempts would be made to forge his signature on a check.

ACROSS the DESK

ideas from other editors

From The News, Ravenswood, West Virginia: A short "hurrah" for New York City school officials, who have finally realized that education is a privilege as well as an obligation. Because of the serious outbreaks of juvenile delinquency, the school authorities have kicked out more than 600 young terrorists. The city schools, the educators said, cannot afford to keep them around.

The action is not the first of its kind in the country. A few weeks ago a Massachusetts school board decided its schools were too crowded to pamper any longer pupils who were unwilling or unable to learn. The board said flatly that education was a privilege offered by the government, and it could see no reason to waste taxpayers' money on those who did not appreciate the opportunity.

Perhaps in these two actions the nation has found a workable weapon against juvenile delinquency, as well as a cure for some of our school problems. In the past generation we have adopted the bleeding heart theory that flunking or ousting a youngster would do permanent damage to his psyche. We had, at an even earlier date, decided not to do temporary damage to his posterior.

Teachers, between the Scylla of psysche and the Charybdis of shivs, were forced to pass a pupil on from grade to grade. Any attempt to discipline was met by outraged parents protesting that Junior was a good boy when he really was a goon. And the result was that each year the slow or lazy pupils held back the brighter or more willing ones. Teachers, conforming to a code that insisted there was no such thing as a bad boy and all people were equal in all things, spent too much time with the bottom of the class, not enough with the top.

So, this nation, in an age demanding the best that uncommon men can offer, has turned out millions of common ones year after year.

Now, with the ugly threat of being forced to take a job hanging over his head, New York youngsters might not be so quick to turn to hoodlumism. They will work and behave, or they will leave. Cutting up, literally and figuratively, will not be so cute in the future.

Though the reasons for the change of heart in New York are tragic, the return of realism is a delight to behold.

Her parents, of course. And they had the help of hundreds of other people — men and women that Mary's parents don't even know.

Our WASHINGTON Letter
By Congressman O. C. FISHER

A STORM HAS DEVELOPED over the proposed extension of the east front of the U. S. Capitol building by 32 1/2 feet, to conform with the Capitol architect's designs. In fact, the present architect in favoring the extension is repeating the plea of his predecessor of 34 years ago, architect Thomas U. Walter, who said the change was an "architectural necessity".

It's been a subject of fuss and fury ever since. Nearly each decade has brought its new round of study and debate. In 1935, and again in 1937, the Senate passed bills to authorize the extension. Then finally a year ago a law was enacted authorizing a commission, headed by Sam Rayburn, to proceed with the change.

A good many patriots now think it would be sacrilege to change a stone in the old structure. Others say the Capitol building is not a museum but a working plant which, without changing the basic qualities of the structure, should be modernized in that respect to meet in-safety. The best thing for you to do is wait for a break in traffic. If there is a signal light at the intersection behind you, wait until the light is red before you start backing.

Q. A truck had two signs on the back of its trailer. The left sign read: "Passing Side". The right sign read: "Suicide". This truck passed me on the right side. Was this an illegal pass?

A. Not if the right side of the roadway was wide enough for two lines of traffic to move safely. The signs referred to driving off the pavement of a two-lane road to pass on the right side. Such a pass on the right side is illegal.

Q. What is the speed limit for pick-ups outside of towns?

A. 60 miles per hour in daytime, 55 miles per hour at night. These limits apply to all commercial vehicles which have a rated capacity of 1,500 pounds or less.

Mr. and Mrs. Texas: Do YOU have a question about Texas traffic? If so, write it on a post card with your name and address, and mail it to Texas Traffic Quiz, Governor's Office, Austin, Texas. We'll answer the most interesting in this column.

TEXAS TRAFFIC SAFETY QUIZ

(Editor's note: Once each month, the Texas Traffic Safety Council will present the Texas Traffic Safety Quiz, prepared by the Safety Education Division of the Texas Department of Public Safety and distributed by the Texas Press Association.)

Q. If I signal properly for a turn in mid-block, do I have the same legal protection as in making a left turn at an intersection?

A. No. At an intersection, the driver who is meeting you and who is far enough away to slow down safely, is required to yield for you to turn left, provided you have signaled properly. He is not required to yield to you in mid-block. You are permitted to cross the center line to turn left in mid-block only when your vehicle will not interfere with the movement of other traffic. (Some city ordinances prohibit the mid-block left turn, especially in business areas.)

Q. Are blinking lights a legal signal for making turns, the same as hand signals?

A. Yes, if you are talking about directional signals mounted on each side of the car, front and rear, which a driver can turn on and off. A warning for a turn may be given by either a directional light signal or a hand and arm signal, or by both. (At night, the directional signal is safer.)

Q. If I am backing out of an angle-parking stall, does a car coming up from behind me have the right-of-way. If it does, how can I get out when traffic is heavy?

A. Yes. A driver starting from a parked position is responsible for the start being made with

ONLY A PAPER PROMISE
By Gil Uhrig

IT WAS Ma who saw it in the paper, first. "August!" she howled. "Bertha's engaged."

"Who's she engaged to?" I asked, lazy like, thinkin' it was one of Ma's jokes.

"So you don't believe me." She handed me the paper and almost poked a hole through it, pointin' out the item on the society page—with Bertha's picture too.

"Bertha Sondheim," it read, "announces her engagement to the well known polo player and Wall Street tycoon, Watson Kilo Cycles."

I walked out of my tinkering shop and I walked straight down Church Street right past the office of the Weekly Call. I had a notion to go in and see exactly what was what about this piece in their paper but I remembered that Ollie Moore was away on his vacation.

Maybe it was the real thing. That's what I had to find out. My Bertha always was a scatterbrain. Then finally a year ago a law was enacted authorizing a commission, headed by Sam Rayburn, to proceed with the change.

When I got to the grocery store where I expected to find her behind the counter—this was usually the time she sent her folks upstairs to eat—I had a story of my own all figured out.

"What's matter, Augie?" she asked me, innocent like.

"What goes on around here?" I asked. "Just when I was ready to elope with you, and take you to South America with me!"

"Elope? South America?" I had her stopped for a minute there.

"Sure. I've had a very good offer to be the head electrician for a new development, a power development in fact, not far from Caracas."

"Gee!" she said.

"I hope you and Mr. Cycles are very happy."

"Yeah," she said, not looking straight at me. "I hope so too. Where's Caracas, Augie?"

"It's the capital of Venezuela, the fastest growing country in the whole Southern Hemisphere. We could have fun there, but—well, you'll be busy buying your trousseau and everything. Besides, I gotta get home and pack. So long, Bertha. It's been nice." I started for the door.

"Augie," she called after me. "Wait. Are you really goin' to South America?"

"Sure. First thing Monday morning."

She bit her lower lip. "Want a—want a take someone along?"

"Meanin' who?"

"Meanin' me."

"I can't, you're gettin' married."

She laughed nervously. "Augie, there isn't any Watson Kilo Cycles. Couldn't you tell that was a phony name? Everybody's been kiddin' me about it. That's what Dad calls you—when you're not around — because you're so all wrapped up in electricity. You think more about electricity than you do about me. And Mr. Moore was away and Clara thought up the idea to make you come to your senses. She'll probably lose her job but she's gonna get married herself and she wants me to get married too—to you. That's why we tried to jolt you into it—sort of. But now oh dear maybe my folks wouldn't let me marry you and go to South America, not by Monday anyway."

"That's all right Bertha—honey," I said. "Maybe I can postpone my trip. In fact I'm pretty sure I can postpone it—for a long time—if you'll marry me."

"Will I?" She was in my arms and I heard wedding bells.

creased need for space and to add architectural balance to the outlines of the building.

Right now it looks like Sam Rayburn will have his way about it and the contract will be let soon. But it's an easy thing to postpone things, and history may repeat itself — as it has many times — and let the issue simmer. Right now everyone is wondering just what will happen.

Some of the opponents use such techniques as cartooning massive changes in the Alamo, to "modernize" it, and carving a modern drive-in garage into the side of Lincoln's log cabin, in attempts to ridicule the Rayburn plan.

Mrs. Van Casey, Mrs. May Sharp and Mrs. Lew Story went to Temple Sunday, where they visited with Mr. Story in the McCloskey Hospital, where he became a patient on Wednesday of last week. He is now undergoing tests and doing fairly well. Edd Simmons took the three ladies in his car.

TAX-MAN SAM SEZ:

Every year the tax folks tell taxpayers to please follow the instructions and it will save you time and trouble. Every year a lot of the tax folks work in the "Pre-Refund-Audit" Program holding up taxpayers' refund checks until they can correct the errors the taxpayer made because he didn't follow the instructions. The Internal Revenue law requires the tax folks to select tax returns containing probable errors for audit prior to paying the taxpayers refund. A pre-refund audit takes a lot of time and delays the taxpayer's refund check. It pays dividends and saves time to read the instructions and avoid errors that will cause a tax audit.

About Your HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health. HENRY A. HOLLE, M. D., Commissioner of Health

Austin — With proper care and prompt treatment from your physician, those unsightly varicose veins, the scourge of pretty legs, can be normal again.

Physicians report that they often have women patients who complain about varicose veins. Some of them admit to the doctor that they are embarrassed because the unsightly blotches on their legs are so noticeable through their nylon hose.

Mental health as well as physical health is involved. Such seemingly unimportant troubles can upset an individual until he or she thinks up excuses to keep from going to a neighborhood swimming party, where the varicose veins would be on display.

Varicose veins are caused by certain disturbances in the normal make-up of the individual. They can be treated. Continued trouble in the veins may lead to noticeable symptoms, such as pains in the legs. Swelling may occur because the skin is no longer properly nourished by the blood.

Continued malnourishment in the skin can lead to an ulcer. A danger signal for this complication is a brownish patch on your leg where one finds the varicose veins.

What can you do about varicose veins? Your first move is to go to your physician. He will want to make sure that there is no underlying disturbance present, before he can start measures for treatment of the varicose condition.

Treatment will be given to try to remove the difficulties which cause the bulging veins. There is no method for restoring the already troubled veins to normal; however, they can be obliterated so that the woman may again wear nylon hose and the man may appear in a swim suit without embarrassment.

There are several methods of treatment available and commonly employed by the physician.

Some of these are: injections of certain drugs which cause a diminishing of the bulging veins and occasional operations which tie off a portion of the affected vein.

Another popular remedy is the bandaging of the leg with an elastic bandage to prevent some of the swelling and help overcome the back pressure and pooling of blood.

So if you are not getting justice from the new super-sheer hose styles or are dreading the forthcoming summer for fear of showing your legs—see your physician. Frequently, he can do something about it.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burleson, Joe Fred and Patsy, of Hobbs, N. M., visited from Saturday to Monday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Talley. They found Mr. Talley somewhat improved.

Jesse Hunter returned to his home at Overton Sunday, after about a weeks visit with his father, C. K. Hunter and his sisters, Mrs. Ross Kelley and Mrs. Arthur Turner.

Mrs. C. F. Walker and daughter, Frankie Ruth, of Spur, were visiting with the home folks at the weekend; her father, B. G. Brown and other members of the family.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read John 1:14-18.

Of his fullness we all receive, and grace for grace. For the law was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ. (John 1:16, 17. ASV.)

We were at prayer meeting in the lean-to chapel back of the church in Cheng Tu, West China. A hymn had been sung. The Chinese pastor had read a few verses of Scripture and commented on them.

At my left, in the end of the seat, sat a poor man. I had never before seen him. He followed several others in prayer. One sentence in his prayer in Chinese has clung to my memory through the years as a real blessing.

To express the same idea in English requires more words and also loses some of its force. Using Chinese words of strength, he said, "Most earnestly we beseech God to add grace to grace."

That poor man may not have been well-versed in the classics, but he certainly knew God and the Bible and practiced the grace of obedience.

PRAYER

Dear Lord, we thank Thee for the inspiration of prayers we have heard. Some of them have been abiding blessings to us. Add grace to grace in our lives that we may be a help to others, as others have been a blessing to us. In Christ's name and for His sake. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

This day I will pray and practice the grace of obedience.

PRICES, PROGRESS, AND PROBLEMS IN TEXAS FARMING

The "between-crops" period in farming is always a time for weighing prospects both on the farm, at the market place and in the country. Probably even more people have been set to wondering what's in store for them this year, considering unusual weather, uncertain legislation, and nervous economic conditions of which much has been said and little done. Following are a few brief sketches concerning late happenings in agriculture, dealing variously with commodities, weather, economy and new developments in farm progress:

WET WEATHER has blessed many and burdened many others. Plains-West Texas wheat prospects look generally good, having already attained enough moisture to carry the crop well into spring. This is good news to Texas farmers if not to surplus-minded government chiefs who have been having some trouble marketing their goods abroad lately. Farther south, in the Rio Grande Valley, farmers are less happy with the weather. Onion harvesting has been seriously delayed, by as much as a month in some cases. During the delay, old-crop onion prices climbed higher in commercial trade.

THE RECESSION, along with better supply prospects, is expected to help lower beef prices somewhat from the present healthy level. Some livestock men say prices probably have reached their peak and will gradually drop by as much as 20 percent by early summer.

TEXAS POULTRY PROCESSORS are keeping an eye on the California state legislature which is considering bills to discourage imported chickens. Although California produces only a fraction of the broilers needed to satisfy the brisk local demand, home growers are fighting hard to keep out Southland competition, not a small part of which is Texas competition. A sample proposed bill would require retailed chickens to bear a "date killed" stamp, hinting that shipped-in products become stale in transit.

HYBRID COTTONS — crosses between older strains which offer higher yields and better quality — are becoming feasible on a larger scale. Researchers say spraying cotton with chemicals produces a no-pollen plant which can be then fertilized with pollen from another variety, resulting in a true hybrid. Hybrid cottons up to now have been possible only through tedious hand-pollination.

Public Hearing Asked By Sheep & Goat Raisers at Eagle Pass

San Angelo — An urgent request for a public hearing at Eagle Pass on the Mexican National labor program has been made by the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers Association.

A telegram from T. A. Kincaid, Ozona, TS&GRA president, to Senator Lyndon B. Johnson and Congressman W. B. Poage (D), Vice Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, pointed out that "the livestock industry of Texas is placed in jeopardy because of recent action by certain officials of the Mexican Government in refusing to permit the contracting of braceros for ranch work."

Kincaid said that the purpose of the hearing he was requesting was for determining the cause and effecting a remedy for this most serious situation.

"Braceros are practically the only source of labor in this area," he added, "and a shortage of ranch labor is certified to by local officers of the Texas Employment Commission Lambing and shearing season which is a critical time is here and the extra labor is essential."

Kincaid stated that Association officials had received definite assurances on February 12 from Robert C. Goodwin, Director, Bureau of Employment Security that nothing would interfere with processing the specials. For a short time processing did go on but stopped abruptly on March 13. There have been no specials since that date nor any action from the Department of Labor, he said. Kincaid added that Mexico was not permitting the passage of any braceros at Eagle Pass as specials and for those reasons he asked for the Congressional hearing.

Mrs. Callie Overly, who has been staying with her daughter and family, Mrs. S. C. Wagner, at Irving, came recently and is now temporarily at her home here.

Easter Seals Aid All Types Of Crippling

"SHOWING OFF" his new-found ability to stand and walk without the aid of crutches, young Mark LaPlant proudly delivers the first sheet of colorful 1958 Easter Seals to Carl J. Aldenhoven, Fort Worth civic and business leader, and chairman of the 1958 Easter Seal Appeal in Texas.

Born with cerebral palsy, Mark has spent four-and-a-half years in two of Texas' 31 Easter Seal treatment centers, where Easter Seals are aiding him and 5,603 other crippled children to overcome or minimize the effects of their handicaps.

The Easter Seal Society is the only national organization which offers aid for all types of crippling, whether the result of birth, accident or disease. 1958 marks its 37th year of service to the nation and is also the 25th anniversary of its annual Easter Seal Appeal.

GIVE cole slaw a lift by combining with well-drained pieces of fruit cocktail and nuts. Toss with a dressing of soured cream, mayonnaise and a little mustard.

Onion-flavored biscuits are teasingly good with fish, egg or cheese dishes. Stir about 2 teaspoons of instant minced onion to the milk.

THIS WEEK'S RECIPE

Crabmeat Scramble

(Serves 4)
 2 1/2 cups cooked or canned crabmeat
 6 eggs
 6 Tablespoons milk or cream
 1 Teaspoon salt
 Dash of cayenne pepper
 1/4 Teaspoon sweet basil
 1/2 cup butter

Pick over crabmeat and remove any bones. Flake into small pieces. Beat eggs until bubbly, add all remaining ingredients, except butter. Cook crabmeat in butter for 5 minutes, then pour egg mixture over all, stirring constantly until eggs thicken.

before it is mixed with the dry ingredients.

Cubes of bread tossed with garlic-flavored butter make a wonderful flavoring for cooked green beans.

Have some leftover egg yolks? Poach them until hard-cooked, then put through a sieve and use with broccoli or spinach to add perfect color to the vegetables.

If the cookie jar is empty, add some raisins to gingerbread mix, cutting down on the liquid to make a stiff dough. Drop on a baking sheet and bake as for drop cookies. The jar will be filled in minutes.

Creamed chipped beef becomes quite special when you fold in some avocado pieces and a bit of soured cream just before serving time.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

By Clare D. Smith

Going Steady Popular With Teenagers

"GOING STEADY" HAS ITS DRAWBACKS...

AND ITS GOOD POINTS TOO...

It must be exasperating to teenagers to have their parents continually saying: "Well, when I was your age I didn't do that." This seems to imply that if the parents didn't do it when young, then it's wrong for the offspring to do it. Several of my friends have exhausted my patience with their criticism of the teenage fad of going steady. Most of them never give specific reason, they just say "we didn't do it," thus implying their children shouldn't.

Personally, I can't decide whether this "going steady" is good or bad for the youngsters. But just because I didn't "go steady" when in high school, doesn't mean my son shouldn't.

It seems to me that the kids miss out on a lot of fun. I've known teenage boys to turn down invitations to dances and parties because their "steady" wasn't invited. The same is true of girls.

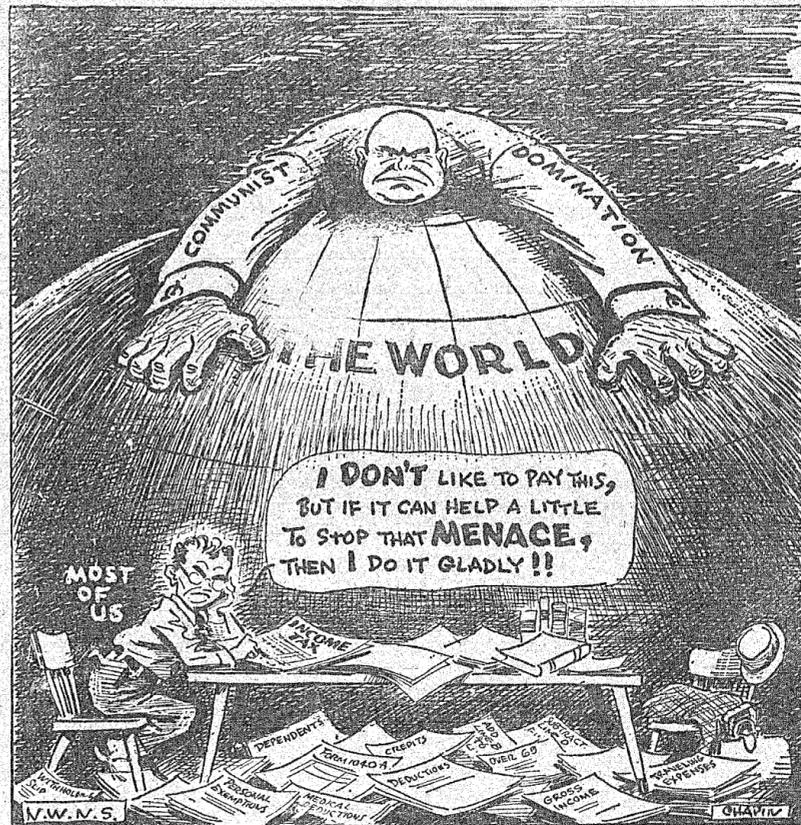

I believe this current trend confines youngsters to a narrow circle of friends, and I don't think this is good.

Also, 90 per cent of these friendships must be broken up when high school is finished. The boy goes to one college, the girl to another. There is likely to be a period of unhappiness in such cases.

I would like to hear other views on the subject, from both parents and teenagers. What do you think?

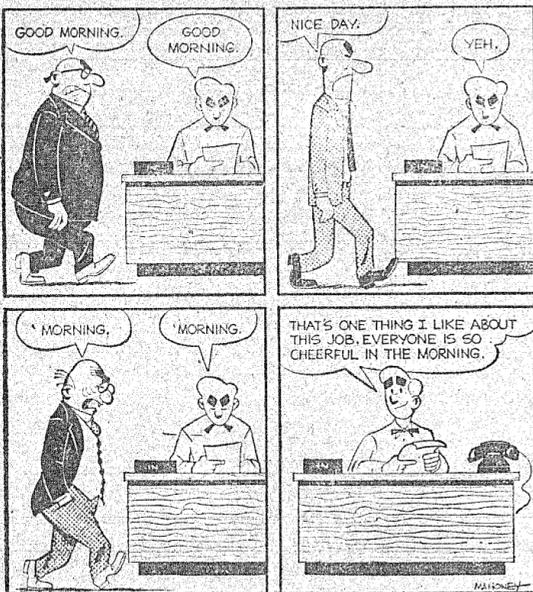

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

TELL US YOUR PROBLEM
 AND LET US PASS IT ON TO HELP OTHERS IN SOLVING THEIRS.
 BY JOHN and JANE STRICKLAND

TODAY'S PROBLEM: ARGUMENTS

MARY WHITNEY, 142 York Street, New Haven, Connecticut, says she read a little book called "Getting the Most Out of Life" that completely revolutionized her way of thinking about family affairs, and, in fact, probably saved her marriage.

She and her husband had formed the habit of arguing, one perhaps was as bad as the other, though neither at the time realized that the habit was bad.

They argued on practically anything that affected the lives of both of them, and often about matters too inconsequential for the concern of either. They would begin at the breakfast table, and sometimes begin again after they had gone to bed. Naturally this was a strain on their relationship. Mary says she even thought of points to argue on her side while she was alone during the day. It had become with her almost a battle for getting the better of her husband.

Then she read the little book! She doesn't know where this book came from; she found it laying somewhere. But it advised her that in the main the way to win an argument was not to take part in it. "Of course," she said to herself with a grim smile, "one can't lose what one hasn't had."

But the little book gave some concrete rules for winning an argument once it was entered into. Here they are:

- 1-In any discussion, show respect for the other fellow's opinion.
- 2-Assume a friendly attitude; never display belligerency, which is commonly done.
- 3-Let the other person do most of the talking; bring in your points adroitly, and keep them far between.
- 4-Look at every point made by the other person from his point of view.
- 5-Where you do not agree, at least be sympathetic.

Just for the fun of it, she decided she would put these rules into practice. But the next morning no subject came up on which she and her husband could possibly disagree. The second morning they got up late and had no time to discuss anything before her husband's train time. Very discouraging!

PARALLEL LINES

AT SCHOOL years ago it was affirmed that parallel lines meet only at infinity. This is a way of saying that they never meet. Now, would it not be a wondrous thing if some rocket adventurers should be able to reach the point where parallel lines meet?

But the writer has been disturbed by the thought of what might happen if a rocket should crash smack against the side of the moon. It would be infinitesimally less than little birds crashing-bombing pigeons sitting on a limb. And the other side of our satellite would still be unseen by human eyes and earth-bound gazers could still talk of the "man in the moon."

As these lines are written, word has come that our Country has launched a satellite that is now traveling around the earth. Someone has asked if there is danger that it may crash with Sputnik in space. Aside from facetious thoughts about space travel, let us consider what may be learned from the satellites circling the world. And how would it do to forget the Russians for awhile, if we can, and give ourselves solely to our own business of making rockets and of learning from them.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Jeanette Landrum, Dayton, Ohio: I remember when I was four years old I had the thrash in my mouth and my father took me about five miles to an old lady named Warren and she washed my mouth with oak leaves. She had kept the leaves in a cigar box. There was a big snow on the ground and I rode in front of my daddy in the saddle.

We children walked two miles to school. We had two dresses for "everyday" and one for Sunday, and we wore aprons with sleeves in them. Each had chores to do. I fed the geese and the calf, carried in wood and chips for the morning fire. Later, when I came home from school, I milked three cows.

On Saturdays, I did the washing and ironing and helped pick beans to string on a string to dry for winter use. We fattened and killed our own hogs and made lard for family use. We had our own sorghum molasses and mother canned everything that she could for winter use.

We had no corn planter. For medicine, father gave us all a round of calomel and vermifuge every spring—to keep us able to hoe the corn.

We went to church and Sunday school every Sunday. We all sat on the front seat beside mother—who dared anyone to move or talk while the preacher was in the pulpit.

(Send contributions to this column to The Old Timer, Community Press Service, Box 39, Frankfort, Kentucky.)

Mr. and Mrs. Luke Pricer and sons, Randell and Gaylon, of Abilene, visited Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Goble.

Mrs. Norman Walters, before coming here to visit her parents, had been to Los Alamos, N. M., for a meeting. She returned to Washington, D. C. Sunday via plane.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron McDonald and sons, Joe Tom and Michael, of Lovington, N. M., visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. T. G. McDonald.

Mrs. J. J. Kirkpatrick, afflicted recently, got moved to her home Saturday, after a five day stay in the Santa Anna Hospital. Her daughter, Mrs. Warren Caylor of Lohn, is here staying with her, while she is recuperating.

HOW MUCH IN EXAMPLE?

(A distinguished Texas judge offers pointers on combating our rapidly increasing juvenile delinquency problem.)

By JUDGE SARAH T. HUGHES

JUDGE HUGHES

How much power is there in example to provide children with character training that will see them through our complex and contradictory modern conditions? Especially in their teens, when nature makes them particularly unstable?

Do you remember during the war how many people got more gas, coffee, and meat than they were entitled to? And how some even bragged about getting around ration limitations?

Attitudes Are Contagious

The children are bound to know these things. And if parents cheat and get away with it, isn't it all right to cheat at school? ... And then to cheat on property, the law?

If a child hears his mother tell his father an untruth, won't he feel that it's all right for him to fib just a little — and later a little more — if he needs to get out of a tight situation?

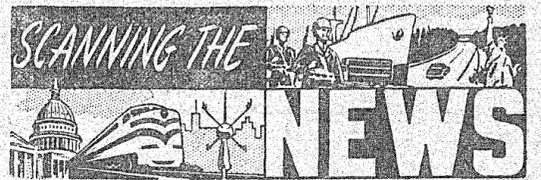

The Contagion of Goodness

Just TELLING a child to be honest, to speak the truth, is not enough. Moral-ethical ideals can't be inculcated by education and religion alone. Little effect will be had on behavior, still less on character, unless right attitudes become a part of the individual — that is, unless they have been learned through living — through constant example.

Perhaps all of us need a re-dedication to the old-fashioned virtues — honesty, truthfulness, industry.

Mrs. Will Hall of Fort Worth was here at the weekend, visiting with home folks, her three sisters and brother, Mrs. Joe Baker, Mrs. Ella Stiles, Mrs. Blanche Grantham and Sam Collier.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davis of Fort Worth spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Davis and his sister, Mrs. Arlie Welch and family.

WHY should we have trouble with rockets after our initial successes? Such is a question on the mind of the man in the street. It's a good question, and there's an answer for it.

For one reason, today's large missile system contains a million and a half parts, and getting them to work together is a problem of astronomical proportions, says Paul Lieberman, associate research engineer at Illinois Institute of Technology, who lectures on propulsion systems.

A homespun comparison is provided by the electric radio and the electric razor. They work well, individually, but not together. The problem with rockets, then, is that of getting everything to work together. Even if the rocket were composed of only 500 parts which worked properly 999 times out of a thousand, the unit's probability of success would still be only 6 out of every 10 runs.

This explains why we can have a rocket that will travel 600 miles and not be able to turn it into an intercontinental missile by merely increasing the size of the parts to make up a larger rocket.

But, says Lieberman, success is only a matter of time. Scientists and missilemen will work out their rocket problems and, "most of us will see the space age in full bloom."

Point of interest during the current concern over the adjustment of the economy may be found in the fact that the American people have built up a strong annual income stabilizer in the form of personal protection programs.

Figures compiled from governmental and nongovernmental sources show that the combined public and private programs established to protect the individual against the economic impact of death, disability and retirement are currently contributing the huge sum of more than $25 billions a year in the aggregate to the nation's income stream.

This figure is the equivalent of about $1 out of every $12 of total personal income for the year based on 1957 data. Both the total of the payments under these protection programs and their relationships to aggregate disposable personal income have been going up steadily year after year, and now are at new record levels. The biggest single element of this great personal income source is life insurance, its benefit payments representing close to a third of the total.

With conditions as they are, it is interesting to note that the more publicized economic stabilizers, such as a personal income tax reduction, don't come close to the total payments the people are now receiving regularly out of the individual and family protection programs they have built up for themselves.
