What the man on the street has to say about the current business situation depends upon how things are in his particular corner of the business world. Salesmen in many fields will tell you that the business is still there - you simply have to work harder-and longer -to get your share of it. In trade parlance, the current situation is said to be one that separates the salesmen from the "order-takers." The art of salesmanship is not a high demand for merchandise.,

Take an average town in the wants a "cushion" to fall back on they will all admit that a thorough analysis of the black and white figures will indicate that business is not off to the alarming degree some believe it to be.

One way to find out is to add up the ways you put electricity to work in your home. The more jobs you do electrically, the more likely you are to live comfortably and conveniently.

Just for fun, why not add up all the ways electricity is working for you and compare the total with your "Jones' "? You'll be amazed - for electricity is probably serving you in dozens of ways you often forget.

And just think how little all this convenience costs!
