COLEMAN COUNTY STORY

TRICKHAM IS FIRST COMMUNITY TO BE SETTLED IN COUNTY

The sources for the articles on early-day history of Santa Anna include the book, "Into The Setting Sun", by Mrs. Beatrice Grady Gay of Santa Anna. Permission to use the excerpts from the book has been granted by her son, Coleman Gay of Austin. Mrs. Gay is in frail health, and at present is recuperating from a broken hip suffered last December.

Although there was a trading-post at Camp Colorado for the convenience of the soldiers stationed there, the first town settled in Coleman County was Trickham, on the line of John Chisum's cattle trail near its entrance into the county. It is hard to tell just when the first little town was laid down on Mukewater Creek, but it was sometime in the late fifties, probably about the time Camp Colorado was established, on the river near there. One authority tells us that "John Chisum started a little store down on Mukewater about a mile below the army post for the convenience of his traildrivers." His brother-in-law, Emory Peters, who had a crippled hand, ran the store with the help of a man named Bill Franks, and George Teague was bookkeeper. In those days the nearest bank was at Austin, and Mr. Chisum always carried his money in a wallet hung on the horn of his saddle. According to Dick Fiveash, a settler who lived there until recent years, "John Chisum would send Franks to Austin after money to pay off his men, and Franks would return with his saddle bags full of gold and silver; or he would be sent to Austin with money received from a sale of cattle, to be placed in the bank."

John Chisum never lived in Coleman County, but he maintained his store at Trickham for a number of years, and a ranch headquarters on Home Creek; also a series of corrals in this and nearby counties for aid in the distribution of his cattle, which ranged from the Concho down the Colorado, all over the southern part of the county.

In May, 1874, he sold his store at Trickham to L. L. Shield, who came from Hunt County. Mr. Shield enlarged the old building, which for so long had been a center of all activities in that part of the county, into one of generous proportions, in which he installed a general mercantile business, the first of its kind in the county. Mr. Shield also bought cattle and marketed them, for a number of years.

More about Trickham next week.

Rev. Jim Henderson Leaving For Alabama

Rev. Jimmy Henderson, who has been serving the Christian Church here as pastor for about two years, while attending TCU, will be holding his last service here next Sunday morning. Usually, he has just been here on the weekends, but was here during all of last week and assisted in getting the offering envelope system established.

Jimmy and his wife both graduated recently from TCU and now want to settle down. He will be leaving soon for Falkville, Alabama, and he will be joining a church September 1st, where his wife was reared. She and the three children are already there. Jimmy's many friends will wish him well in his new work.

Mrs. Lois Henderson returned last week from a several days visit at Sweetwater with her son, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Henderson and children. At the weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Buren Elkins of Bisbee, Arizona, came for a two weeks visit with Mrs. Henderson.

This will be followed by all present singing "America, the Beautiful," followed by one verse of "America." The Pledge of Allegiance will be led by Lion Elgean Harris, followed by the invocation by Rev. Maurice Smith, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Following the meal, to be served by the Homemaking Department and prepared by the ladies of the lunchroom, Lion Harris will introduce the visitors. Mrs. W. A. Standley Dies Monday

Mrs. W. A. Standley, a long-time resident of Santa Anna, died at her home about 2:00 p. m. Monday afternoon, following a long illness. She became very ill about 30 minutes before death came. The doctor was present and funeral home attendants were there preparing to take her to the hospital.

Mrs. George Ralstin of California, a daughter, was there caring for Mrs. Standley. Mr. Ralstin arrived shortly before death came.

Campbell Brothers Loses 40 Acres Of Wheat To Fire

Calvin and Dutch Campbell lost about 40 acres of good wheat by fire last Wednesday on the Campbell farm in the Liberty Community. The fire broke out soon after lunch and it is thought the fire was caused from a spark from the combine.

Dutch was just getting started cutting the grain and had made three rounds when the fire was noticed, right behind the combine. Attempts were made to put the fire out, but because of the high wind, it was soon out of control. The combine was badly damaged but the tractor did not receive much damage. Joe Riley was also moving into the field with a combine but he did not get caught in the fire.

The fire burned a new fence around the field also. Loss was very heavy. The fire was brought under control by the local fire department. It was thought to be out by the middle of the afternoon but broke out again later in the evening.

Earlier in the season F. B. Hill, five miles south of Santa Anna, lost several acres of grain to fire, that apparently started from a cigarette being thrown from a passing car.

NATIONAL GUARD IN TRAINING

The 59 boys attending the encampment will return to their homes Sunday.

Moral Good In National Guard Encampment

Special to The News
The Santa Anna unit of the famous 36th Infantry Division, Texas National Guard, are getting into the full swing of their two week encampment at North Fort Hood, Texas. The Unit is Tank Company of the 142nd Infantry Regiment. The Commanding officer is 1st Lt. Billy J. Harvey.

Colonel Everett A. Simpson, Commander of the 142nd Infantry Regiment, stated today that the 36th Division of which the 142nd Infantry Regiment is a part, is the first National Guard Division to undergo combat training during peacetime.

Col. Simpson went on to say that perhaps the most outstanding thing is the spirit and the enthusiasm in which the men go about the training. Comments from the enlisted men indicate that they are actually learning more in this camp than at any prior camp. On the whole the men are working longer hours, but their morale is at a high point.

The members of the Santa Anna Unit are withstanding the training with ease, taking into consideration the extreme temperature inside their vehicles.

This year has been unique in that all officers and enlisted men must go through the basic combat training unless they have had prior service. This basic training is given in addition to regular duties.

The 36th Division operates as a team and every member is assigned specific duties on the team. For instance, a cook, who must cook all the meals for the men plus going to the field and participating in the basic training.

On some days, the men in the unit will get up at 5:00 a. m. and with only the regular break time will train until the next morning at 1:00 a. m. Even though the training is hard, and their duties have been doubled, the men seem to realize that after completing this camp they will be the best qualified combat soldiers ever to complete a National Guard summer encampment during peacetime.

The members of the Santa Anna unit arrived at North Fort Hood Sunday, June 9th, and will return to their homes Sunday, June 22nd.

Centennial Stickers And Buttons Go On Sale Here

Automobile stickers and large buttons advertising the Coleman County Centennial went on sale in Santa Anna Saturday and will continue to be sold until the present supply is sold out. The sticker or button sells for 50 cents each.

Plans are to have them on sale at the Santa Anna Insurance Agency office and at all the service stations and cafes in town. They will also likely be on sale in some of the stores.

Everyone who will be requested to wear the buttons and put a sticker on your cars. These are good advertising for events of this nature.

Plans for the Santa Anna Day are progressing nicely. Santa Anna Day will be Saturday, July 5, the second day of the County Celebration. Mrs. Wanda Campbell, chairman of the local committee, said most of the local program would be held in the late evening of July 5th, with a number of local windows being decorated in the Centennial theme. A large number of persons are making preparations for the local day. A complete outline of the program will be published later.

Right now is a good time to get your buttons and stickers. The more you help advertise the program, the more people you will help get here for the observance.

Box Rent To Drop At End Of This Quarter

With the end of the Postal Quarter on post office box payments, new prices will go into effect, announces Mrs. Leona Bruce, Acting Postmaster. The new prices will be lower than at present, a welcome change from the usual rise in the cost of everything.

The No. 1 boxes, which have been 90 cents per quarter, will be 70 cents; the No. 2 boxes, which have been $1.10, will be 90 cents; and the No. 3 boxes, which have been $1.50, will be $1.10.

Due to new regulations on the endorsement of checks, Mrs. Bruce would prefer that patrons paying their box rents would pay in cash, rather than by check, as some of them have formerly done. Box rents will be payable beginning June 20 and may be paid for an entire year if desired.

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Wallace, Jr., and children of Baird, visited here on Father's Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Talley.

A. B. Carroll Loses Hand In Combine Accident

A. B. Carroll, prominent farmer and rancher of the Shields Community, suffered the loss of his right hand just above the wrist in a combine accident last Thursday morning. The accident occurred on his farm 16 miles south of Santa Anna about 9:30 a. m.

Mr. Carroll was driving his tractor and Dee Yancy was sacking oats on the combine. The big canvas roller stopped and Mr. Carroll stopped the tractor to get it started turning again, but did not disengage the combine. Carroll said he braced himself with his right hand and when attempting to start the canvas with his left hand, his right hand slipped and went into the cylinder. Yancy stopped the combine and Mr. Carroll said he told Yancy how to take the combine apart to get his hand out.

After getting the hand out, Mr. Carroll sat in the shade of the tractor while Yancy went over one-half mile to get the pick up truck to take him out of the field. Mrs. Carroll had come to town earlier in the car and Yancy brought him to the hospital in the pick up, arriving there about 10:30 a. m., almost an hour after the accident.

A specialist from Dallas was called and the hand was removed late in the afternoon. His son, Jack, of Fort Worth, also came Thursday afternoon and went back home Sunday afternoon.

On Friday and Saturday Edgar Shelton, Byron Gilbreath, Rommie and Douglas Milligan, R. A. Milligan, Douglas Milligan, W. O. Brehm and George Cobb went to the Carroll farm and finished harvesting his grain.

Mr. Carroll said they had just got started on the harvest, and had made only about 6 rounds in the field.

Mr. Carroll will be in the hospital approximately 14 days.

Keep Grass Off Paved Streets

The City Council requests the cooperation of individuals who live on paved streets in keeping the grass off the street. This can easily be done and with very little effort. It will help prevent considerable damage to the streets.

In order to keep grass from growing in the pavement, all you have to do is not let the grass grow over your curb, or where there is no curb, just keep the grass trimmed back away from the pavement.

Once the grass gets started in the pavement, it has to be killed in order to stop the growth. If the grass is let alone after it gets started in the pavement, it will ruin the street where it grows.

It is not the responsibility of the City to keep this grass off the pavement. However, they will cooperate with you in any way possible to help you keep the grass off the pavement.

Mrs. H. B. Thompson of Dallas, the former Dorothy Baxter of Santa Anna, visited here during last week with her aunt, Mrs. A. R. Brown and other relatives. She also attended to business while here.

Mrs. Vernon Bartlett of Rochelle, visited all day last Friday with her mother, Mrs. J. M. Rouse.

Remember
first

With full heart and watchful eyes you helped him enjoy his very first taste of independence.

And how proud you were when he achieved his goal, all by himself, and then, laughing, ran to your waiting arms to share his triumph with you!

Nothing you can give your child is half so precious as this wonderful opportunity to be himself. All through life you want him to be free to choose his way.

That's why it's so important to be on the watch for ideas or ideologies that could set limits to his independence. The idea, for instance, that government should own and run more and more businesses, services, institutions. Don't forget that when government runs more and more things, the individual has less and less freedom and independence!

Think of your son's first "independence day" when you hear talk like that. Point out that in countries where government does control almost everything, the individual is controlled, also. And the loss of anybody's independence is a threat to everybody's freedom.

Very much aware of this danger are the independent electric light and power companies, because government already runs part of the electric business. And powerful people are pressing to take over more.

"Freedom is a woman"

Electricity costs so little—you can afford to use lots of it!

Bismarck—Teeming Prairie Capital

STATE CAPITOL—Bismarck, N. D.

Capital City of a teeming prairie state—that's Bismarck, North Dakota. Located at the approximate geographical center of the State, Bismarck traces its history to the winter of 1804-05 when the Lewis & Clark expedition camped at Fort Mandan, just a few miles from the present site of the city. Settlement did not begin until 1860 when the increase in river transportation caused the need for a town, first called Burleightown, near the present site of Ft. Lincoln. Later the townsite was moved and called "Edwinton," and again the name changed to "Bismarck," in honor of Germany's Iron Chancellor as a possible inducement for him to invest money in the settlement.

Two famous army installations are in the Bismarck area, Ft. McKeen and Ft. Lincoln. The famous Seventh Cavalry rode from Ft. Lincoln to defeat under the generalship of Custer at the Battle of the Little Big Horn.

In 1889, following the division of the Dakota territory and North Dakota's admission to the Union, Bismarck became the capital of the newly formed state.

Early commerce consisted of fur, buffalo hide, and market shooting, which eventually gave way to cattle and wheat. Today, Bismarck is a great agricultural center. North Dakota farms produce hard spring wheat, durum wheat, barley and flax. Farm income for the Bismarck area alone totals $126,579,000 yearly. Deposits of 600 billion tons of lignite coal adjacent to Bismarck are rated as the largest potential source of cheap power in the U. S., and chemists are discovering new uses for lignite. Bismarck is the oil capital of North Dakota, in the heart of the Williston Basin which encompasses the western two-thirds of the state. Beef is a big factor in Bismarck's economy. Two of the newest and most modern sales rings in the world lie on the outskirts of Bismarck and the cattle industry rates North Dakota the fastest growing beef state in the nation.

Based on current estimates, Bismarck's population is close to the 27,000 mark. The city has outstanding recreational facilities.

"Choice, Not Chance" Opportunities In Army Offered

Young men who have recently graduated from high school and are interested in developing their technical skills are invited to visit M/Sgt. Leonard M. Evans, U. S. Army recruiter, to discuss the many opportunities available in the U. S. Army.

M/Sgt. Evans will explain the "Choice, Not Chance" enlistment program that offers a choice of technical training, overseas duty station or branch assignment. Applicants may select one of these options and are guaranteed their choice before enlistment.

Technical training courses such as electronics, radar, radio, guided missiles, photography, medical, and mechanics, are available to qualified applicants. Selection may be made from a list of over 127 courses. The training received in the U. S. Army will be of the highest quality, and can be the beginning of a rewarding career.

Overseas stations are available in Europe with designated "Operation Gyroscope" units. Applicants may also choose a tour of duty in the Far East. This affords an opportunity to visit Europe or the Far East—a chance of a lifetime.

Those who select a branch assignment may choose Airborne, Medical, Signal, Infantry, Armor, Artillery, Chemical or one of the many others of the Army.

Visit with M/Sgt. Evans at 900 North 3rd St., Abilene. He will be glad to explain the "Choice, Not Chance" program. He also has a "buddy enlistment" plan for young men who desire to enter the service with a friend or friends.

Mr. Lacy Pierce was his brother's best man and groomsmen were Mr. Charles McClellan. Ushers were Mr. Ralph Brisbin and Mr. Donnie Simmons.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a ballerina gown of hand clipped chantilly lace over satin. The moulded bodice was topped by a mandarin collar. Long sleeves tapered to points at her wrists. The bouffant skirt of lace shad-owed tulle ruffles at the hem line. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a half hat of rose point lace sprinkled with sequins and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Her attendants wore ballerina dresses of powder blue taffeta and lace. The lace topped bodice was encircled by a cummerbund and large pouf bow. They wore blue head pieces of horse hair braid, having illusion veils. They carried bouquets of yellow roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church Fellowship Hall. Mrs. Bartow Boylston, Miss Clara Jean Stewardson, Mrs. Charles McClellan and Miss Patricia Davis were in the house party.

Change In Command For Salvation Army Announced

The Salvation Army in Texas will have a new commander, effective June 19, the first change in top command in ten years.

Chairman W. Ford Barnes of the Santa Anna Service Unit Committee, announced that he had been notified that orders have been issued by Lt. Commissioner William Davidson, Territorial Commander of the Salvation Army in the Southern Territory, Atlantic, Ga., for the retirement of Lt. Col. John A. Morrison as Divisional Commander of the Texas Division, effective June 18 and the installation of Lt. Col. Ernest Pickering as Texas Divisional Commander, effective June 19. Col. Pickering has served as Divisional Commander of the Virginia-Southern West Virginia Division for the last two and one-half years. The orders affecting Colonel Morrison and Colonel Pickering also include their wives who hold equal rank with their husbands and fill important executive positions on the Divisional Staff.

In the new assignment, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Pickering are returning to Texas and to Dallas after an absence of 14½ years. Both had previously filled two assignments in the Texas Division. From January, 1937, to January, 1941, Col. Pickering served as Youth Secretary in charge of youth activities, and Mrs. Pickering was Director of the Guard; and from January, 1941, to January, 1944, Col. Pickering served as Divisional Secretary for the Texas Division and Mrs. Pickering was Divisional League of Mercy Secretary.

By coincidence, Col. Pickering succeeded Col. Morrison when he became Divisional Secretary in 1941, and he will succeed Col. Morrison again as Divisional Commander on June 19th.

Straight Talk

BY TOM ANDERSON

"Why should I worry about taxes — I don't pay any income tax," some farmers say. According to Tax Foundation, an average worker who makes about $4,000 a year pays about $1,200 of that in Federal, state and local taxes, most of which are hidden.

Farmers have long found it hard to understand the vast price difference between the raw materials they sell and the finished products they buy. One big reason is taxes, for the corporations really don't pay their taxes — they tack them on the price of the product and YOU pay them. Corporations are tax COLLECTORS for government.

One-Third of Everything

Government now costs the average person more than he spends on food, clothing, medical care, and the church combined. Local, state and national governments consume almost one-third of every product and service of our entire population. In 1917 government took $7.92 per person from us. Forty years later, it took $446.86 per person. Much of that was hidden from us — taken in unseen nibbles with almost our every purchase.

You can't go anywhere, to the bathtub, across country, or to town without paying a tax. The government even gets its "take" from your shoe leather. Every movie, radio, telephone, shirt, egg and car 40% of its price has its built-in taxes. There are 151 taxes on a loaf of bread! Taxes are collected on the sheets you were placed on at birth and the coffin you'll be placed in at death. The bureaucrats will keep their hands in our pockets as long as we'll let them. Government will spend all the money it can get — and then some. Changing politicians is not enough. Changing undertakers can't stop death. We must change the tax system itself by changing the law.

Repeat The Income Tax

The 16th Amendment says Congress can tax us without limit (the politicians have taken that seriously). Let's repeal the 16th Amendment! Before it was passed, in 1913, the Federal Government could not levy a direct tax on any earnings, savings, or inheritances of the citizens of the sovereign states.

The soak-the-rich tax program has become soak-everybody, because the rich have got only enough income to pay for a small part of the total cost of government. Eighty-five percent of all federal income from personal and direct taxes is paid by people who make under $6,000 a year. Since the Federal government is taking up to 91% of their incomes, many people spend their thoughts and energies trying to avoid taxes instead of trying to make more money. Thus the government is in the position of the shortsighted sheepman who, when wool prices were high, decided to skin instead of shear.

Representative Gwinn of New York points out that Congress is not going to repeal socialistic programs one at a time. No group will leave the trough before the others. Running the pigs away from the trough one at a time won't save the slop. The way to save slop is to empty the trough. Kill the federal income tax. If the money's not there, the pigs can't get it. Crazy? On the contrary, it's practical and workable.

Congressman Gwinn proposes a bill which would kill the federal income tax and also take the government out of all business not specifically authorized by the Constitution. Thus the government would no longer need the income tax. Here's why: The U. S. Government is operating more than 700 huge federal corporations. Those federal corporations have 40% of the land area and 20% of the industrial capacity of the U. S. They are unconstitutional tax-EATERS. By selling them to tax-PAYING private companies the government could get enough tax money from them to offset what it would lose from killing all individual income taxes. The unconstitutional federal lands and businesses in which the government has put $200 billions of our money could be sold back to the American people for say, $50 billion, to be conservative. That'd mean $50 billion debt reduction. And it'd mean $2 1/2 billion yearly savings on interest payments and amortization on that $50 billion. Those government businesses, even though tax-free, manage to lose more than $10 billion a year.

How To Reduce Prices—Halt Inflation

It is estimated about $4 billion a year could be saved by firing the one million federal workers whose services are for those government corporations but whose salaries are charged to the general government payroll. Add to that the cost of buildings, typewriters (there are 3 1/2 government typewriters for every government typist), and multitudinous goods and services provided for these million employees and you have $12 billion more. That makes $16 billion saved by getting the government out of its rent-free, interest-free, tax-free competition with the rest of us.

Gwinn's proposed 23rd Amendment (Bill H. J. 355) would also kill most Foreign Aid, saving about $5 billion. That's $33 1/2 billion saved — more than the total federal government tax-take from individuals.

By killing the personal income tax we would sound the death knell of Federal Aid, the most insidious con game ever foisted on the American people. We'd cut the mushrooming federal bureaucracy down to a size we might be able to control, comprehend, and afford. This is no proposal to give advantage to vested interests. It is a proposal which can go far toward saving our Republic from Socialism, bankruptcy, and defeat.

The states would regain, reassume and reassert their sovereign taxing powers and responsibilities. There would develop a healthy competition between states. If personal or corporate taxes in Illinois became oppressive, the person or business could move to Georgia, or vice-versa. No state could afford to be too far out of line.

When, and only when, the government is cut down to its proper size, will taxes and prices be cut. The vast federal bureaucracy is so powerful and complex that it is beyond the control and understanding of the people. A government that is big enough to give us all we want is big enough to take all we've got.

Central Colorado Soil Conservation District News

Mukewater watershed leaders report excellent progress toward creating a Water Control and Improvement District for the Mukewater watershed. A petition has been signed by a majority of the landowners in the watershed, requesting the Commissioners' Court to proceed with the creation of a water district. A hearing has been called by County Judge Emet Walker to be held at 10:00 a. m. June 30, in the Commissioners' Court room at the County Court House, to determine interest in the district among resident watershed land owners. If the hearing is favorable, it is expected that temporary directors for the district will be appointed who will call an election soon after to approve the district.

Creation of the water district will enable local leaders to obtain easements and provide for maintenance as a part of their contribution by local people, to the 10-dam watershed work plan for Mukewater. Local land owners who have kept the project progressing include E. R. Cupps, W. P. McClatchey, William Brown, Tom Kingsbery, Rankin McIver, Hal Martin and W. L. Vaughn.

Mukewater is a sub-watershed of the Middle Colorado-River watershed which was authorized for flood prevention activities by Congress under the Agricultural Flood Prevention Act of 1944. Other sub-watersheds that are also a part of the five million acre Middle Colorado and on which construction is nearing completion include Brady Creek, Lower San Saba, Deep Creek and Clear Creek. The small watersheds program or Upstream Flood Prevention and Watershed Protection Program, as it is better known, was set up in USDA by the Congress and the Soil Conservation Service was assigned responsibility for its operation. The work is carried on through soil conservation districts as local overall sponsor.

Mukewater is one of several sub-watersheds in the Central Colorado SCD that are believed feasible and justifiable to meet requirements of USDA for participation in the watershed protection program. More than 2000 head of livestock have been reported lost in flooded streams in Coleman County during the past four years. Mukewater Creek alone had flood damage amounting to $138,000 during the rainstorm of April 30, 1956, according to a survey made by SCS following that storm.

KEEP OFF THE G-A-S

"Keep off the gas!" This is not a typographical error, but a life-line of advice from J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, whose organization is sponsoring the current Slow Down and Live program being conducted throughout the state.

"Summertime — like any other season of the year — means safety time, but a lot of Texans forget this," Musick said. "They let the warm days and balmy nights detract from their driving responsibility as they hurry from one cool spot to another."

"They step on the gas and rush to vacation spots, picnic areas or a day at the water's edge — forgetting to ask themselves: 'How much time do I really gain by speeding, if I get there.'"

Musick pointed out that traffic engineering and enforcement are important in public speed control, but that the final answer lies with the individual driver.

"Every driver on our streets and highways must initiate his own personal campaign to obey all the traffic signs and signals and to regulate his speed so that it is neither too fast or slow," Musick said.

The TSA general manager said the purpose of the Slow Down and Live campaign is to simply draw the public's attention to the fact that speed is dangerous anytime, but especially now, during peak vacation months, through Labor Day.

By Congressman O. C. FISHER

ANY HOPE for relief for our hard-pressed Texas oil industry at this session of Congress may have gone down the drain last week when the House voted against an amendment to the reciprocal trade extension bill, then being debated.

The amendment, in the form of a substitute bill, while by no means adequate in respect to oil would at least have provided a procedural remedy and a ray of hope for domestic industries plagued by excessive low-cost imports.

With drilling operations down 25 percent and producing wells allowed to operate only 8 days out of each month in Texas, the impact of ever-increasing imports is playing havoc with drilling contractors, independent oil operators, and with our state economy.

The bill which was approved offers little hope of relief to any domestic industry adversely affected by the dumping of competitive products on our markets. The reciprocal trade program, which is sound in theory, has drifted far afield from its proper purposes. The House-approved bill continues the program for five years and delegates to the State Department the right, without Congressional review, to reduce tariffs up to 25 percent on any imported commodity.

IF YOUR faucets need polishing, use a half lemon after the juice has been squeezed out. Wash and rinse and polish with an old soft cloth.

To clean out a slender vase, fasten a piece of sponge on a stick and push it down into the vase. This is also good for decanters and bottles.

Pearl handled cutlery can be polished with very fine salt. Rub

Black specks from silverware, often difficult to polish off, yield readily to a paste made of whitening and olive oil. Polish lightly with a soft cloth.

Linen can be bleached easily with lemon juice. Dry in good sunlight. Repeat the treatment if the linen needs more bleaching.

10 CLUES TO CANCER

Clue No. 8, Age

Many scientists regard the cancer cell as an eternally young cell. It remains young by constantly dividing and, with each division, rejuvenating itself. There are several chemical and physical similarities between cancer and embryonic cells.

Some of the most profound research now in progress centers around efforts to determine how cells age. And some progress has been made. Compounds necessary for cell growth and for cell aging have been isolated and identified.

If the cell aging process can be regulated by chemical means, it may prove feasible to control cancer in humans with cell-aging drugs.

D-DAY FOR GRASSHOPPERS AND FIRE ANTS

The Texas Department of Agriculture has declared open war on two major farm pests—the grasshopper and the imported fire ant—and is engaged in active battle on two vital fronts in East and West Texas.

The two enemies are being engaged in separate campaigns befitting their individual tactics. The grasshopper, an ancient foe, has been met in a pitched battle in several Panhandle counties with a mechanized force of eight federal-state strag units. These units are working along major roadways to prevent organized movement and regrouping of hopper of fenses in highly strategic points such as field crops and rangelands.

On the eastern front, federal-state "demolition" troops are waging more subtle warfare on the imported fire ant through means of a federal-state quarantine recently imposed in six East Texas counties. A new adversary, the native South American fire ant first began its march on Texas last year after having been introduced into Alabama several years ago.

Natural movement of the ant is rather slow; however, "subversive" movement by means of mechanical transportation of soil from one area to another provides a quick free ride into unconquered territory. Therefore, the new anti-ant campaign will involve a complete check on movement of all products capable of carrying the fire ant from the quarantine counties into the uninfested areas.

Although grasshoppers far outnumber the fire ants and are capable of doing more actual crop damage, the hoppers are not ordinarily so bothersome. The fire ant is notorious for both its painful bite and sting and does most of its harm through discomfort caused to humans and animals. In heavily-infested areas, field work by farm laborers is extremely difficult and sometimes impossible.

In addition to the initial spray entrenchment against the grasshopper along Panhandle highway right-of-ways, an air attack involving straying of at least 500,000 acres of privately-owned rangeland has been approved. Counties involved in the grasshopper campaign include Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Hartley, Moore and Hutchinson.

The ant quarantine counties include Jasper, Newton, Tyler, Hardin, Jefferson and Orange.

AUNT EMMA'S CANDY SHOP

By John Ewan Jones

THE white-haired old lady looked as though someone had told her she had only a month to live.

Pompous Mayor Watson looked uncomfortably at his shoes for a moment or two then spoke again. "You must think of the town you know. We had to condemn your candy shop to make room for the new supermarket which will be an asset to the town and provide a lot of people with jobs."

"—and save you raising taxes as you are up for election in a couple of months," Aunt Emma said bitterly.

After a brief uncomfortable silence Aunt Emma walked out of the building, a pathetic, bowed little figure.

For a week she enjoyed the novelty of staying home. After that she began to realize how badly she needed the children who used to come into her shop after school to buy suckers and tell her their problems.

It was the afternoon she felt that life was completely empty that the young man came.

When she saw the pleasant-looking young man she had a fleeting regret that her hair was untidy but after his first words she didn't care.

"I'm Paul Siddoway, manager of the new supermarket," he began—then Aunt Emma slammed the door. Of all the nerve—she thought—not content with taking my candy shop away from me but he has to come and gloat about it.

The second week at home was worse than the first. Friday evening she was sitting in the garden when a voice behind her chair said, "Hello." She jumped. It was the young man again. "Now look here—" she began. He interrupted—"I want you to do me a favor."

"Why should I?" she said tersely. He shrugged. "You have no reason to."

"What do you want me to do?" She had a woman's curiosity.

"Go to our grand opening with me. I have a special reason for asking."

"We—ell," she said carefully. "Please," he pleaded in a soft, little-boy voice.

"Oh all right," she finally agreed.

It was the great day. The high school band was playing. A huge limousine called for Aunt Emma and whisked her to the store where the young man was waiting.

At the far end of the aisle they stopped. Aunt Emma gazed at the display in front of her and her eyes misted. In the corner of the huge supermarket facing the main entrance was a tantalizing display of penny candy, taffy, all-day suckers and all the things that Aunt Emma used to have in her store.

"Here you'll see dozens of children every day. Many more than ever came in your old shop." He said it respectfully to take away the sting. "Mothers will be glad to leave them here while they shop around. We'll be glad to have them kept out of the shelves."

"The kids came for the candy," he continued in an excited voice tempered with culture, "but they went away with a lot more!"

Aunt Emma let him lead her behind the gleaming cases. He pressed a button and the candy case was bathed in rainbow colors. A flashing neon proclaimed "Free Candy for the Kiddies."

Paul smiled as he edged out of the cases. "I want to be your first customer." She solemnly handed him a big, red sucker.

"Then you'll do it? Not just for me but for all the children in Midvale."

Aunt Emma gazed at the increasing tide of small, outstretched hands. "Yes, oh yes," she breathed.

ACROSS THE DESK

From the Italy News-Herald, Italy, Texas: In the light of the disrespect shown the United States flag, personages and property in South America, Lebanon and Algeria during the past two weeks, we believe it very timely that the U. S. Marine Corps is engaged in a campaign to encourage display of our national emblem on all proper occasions beginning with Flag Day, June 14. Certainly, if we do not give the flag all the respect to which it is entitled here in the United States we should not be too surprised if it is treated disrespectfully abroad.

We do not believe anyone will not agree that there has been a lessening of patriotism in the United States during the past 15 years. We have had so much one worldism and so much United Nationsism thrown at us since the end of World War II that it isn't surprising we have lost almost all sense of national entity.

This is not good. We have glorious traditions, history of unprecedented achievements in freedom of initiative, dignity of the individual, and successful self rule that should not be subjugated to the bickering of other nations that have not yet learned to live with themselves.

Within recent months we have read in the back files of the News-

Herald of the spirit of patriotism that once prevailed here in Italy. This community achieved worldwide acclaim for its prideful rebuke of Mussolini; it received advice from all over the world when it was debating a change in name to escape the stigma the Italian fascists had placed on the word Italy. It sent hundreds of its young men into the armed forces during World War II, probably a larger percentage than any other community of similar size. At one time every business house had a flag and bunting set that was displayed on appropriate occasions. But in the past several years about the only flags ever seen are at the post office and occasionally in front of the American Legion building.

We believe it time to revive patriotism, to rekindle a national pride. We believe the place to begin is right here at home—in Italy. The News-Herald wants to suggest that some local organization undertake the task of inducing each business house to purchase a new flag of uniform size and encourage their display at the proper times.

We would further suggest that the Boy Scouts collect all the old dirty and moth-eaten flags in town and destroy them with appropriate ceremonies.

Read Ephesians 1:15-23.

Christ...loved the church, and gave himself for it. (Ephesians 5:25.)

More than thirty years ago, in the midst of the anti-Christ movement in China, a young man was told that the church had this and that bad with it.

This young man answered, "I don't know many things, but I know I came from a poor family. If there were no church, I could not have received any education. My wife and many of my friends are Christians. They are not so bad as you have said."

The man who had said so many bad things about the church had nothing more to say.

Why do I love the Church? I love it because I myself am growing spiritually and mentally in the fellowship of the church. Our children are trying to be good citizens. All our Christian friends are doing good things for the church and for society.

We need the church as sheep need the fold. We should feel as King David felt in saying: "I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness."

PRAYER

Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy Son, Jesus Christ, who came and founded the Church. Guide us that in the Church we may grow in the love and knowledge of Christ and that we may become perfect in Him. In His name we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Christ is our good Shepherd, and the Church is our fold.

10 CLUES TO CANCER

Clue No. 7, Transforming Principle
 One of the basic chemicals of life is a substance called DNA, or deoxyribonucleic acid. It is the fundamental component of genes, which govern the inheritable traits of cells and individuals.
 Scientists have found that when they remove the DNA from one kind of cell and use it to bathe a second — entirely different — kind of cell, the second cell acquires some of the hereditary traits of the first cell. For this reason, DNA is also known as "the transforming principle" — it transforms one kind of cell into another kind of cell.
 Experiments now are underway to apply the transforming principle to cancer. Scientists are attempting to learn whether they can make a normal cell cancerous by exposing it to DNA from cancer cells. And they are also trying to learn whether a cancer cell can be made normal again by exposing it to DNA from normal cells — the first step toward a possible treatment for cancer.
 Help science help you! Send your contribution to the American Cancer Society!

THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY
THERE'S a strong rumor in the air that ABC and Mutual will merge their networks... Satirist Stan Freberg will make five appearances on Dinah Shore's summer replacement show... Phil Silvers will headline several spectaculars for CBS which is a nice change of pace for Phil but it will be hard for the viewer to separate him from his Bilko role, he's so much a part of it now... CBS has acquired TV rights to "Wonderful Town" and Rosalind Russell is set to recreate her role in the musical comedy.
 Jackie Gleason was sought for six one-hour shows by a prominent sponsor but turned it down... He prefers to play golf and read movie scripts offered him. And who can blame him when CBS is paying him $100,000 a year while he's idle? He may do a movie this summer if the spirit moves and if he finds a script that appeals to him... The popular and informative "Wide, Wide World" may be cut to an hour next season or may even possibly be dropped altogether which would be a TV catastrophe.

HOW many U. S. workers belong to some labor organization?
 The National Industrial Conference Board says that one out of every four U. S. workers had some union affiliation in 1957 as compared with only one in fourteen in 1930.
 During the past quarter of a century, union membership has increased four fold, reaching 18.4 million last year. The three largest unions — teamsters, automobile workers and steelworkers — accounted for more than one-fifth of this total, while four additional unions had memberships ranging from one-half million to one million.
 Nearly half of last year's total union membership was employed in manufacturing industries. Another 27 per cent was engaged in transportation and construction work.
 These facts were brought out in a publication, "Roadmaps of Industry."
 The National Association of Manufacturers, in a booklet of their own issue, declare that labor unions have "come of age" and that organized labor "through evasion of legal restraint and misuse of its power now pose a major threat."
 The NAM complains that proposals as a result of the McClellan Committee hearings have been aimed at protecting union members from the mishandling of union funds by the unions' own leaders and not at the job of "protecting the public and the economy from the misuse of organized labor power."

 The growth of our economy is pictured in figures released by the National Industrial Conference Board which show that one out of every four U. S. families earned between $4,000 and $6,000 (before taxes) in 1957, compared with one out of five families ten years earlier.
 Sixty-three per cent of American families earned less than $4,000 in 1947. By 1957, only thirty-seven per cent of the nation's families were below the $4,000 mark. At the upper end of the income scale, only one family in twenty earned $10,000 or better in 1947, but the 1957 ratio had climbed to slightly more than one family in ten.
 Total family personal income rose more than 75 per cent during this ten-year period, from $134.6 billion in 1947 to $328.2 billion in 1957. During these years the total number of families and unattached individuals increased only 20 per cent, from 44.7 million to 53.5 million.
 Average family income before taxes rose nearly 50 per cent, from $4,130 in 1947 to $6,130 in 1957, according to the Conference Board. When price rises are taken into account, the income gain amounts to 20 per cent.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Fern Stewart, Safford, Indiana: Who remembers when walking was a pleasure? I lived in a village and everyone didn't have a horse and buggy, or live by the railroad. Once every summer we enjoyed visiting our relatives on the farm.
 A group of mothers, aunts and little cousins would pick a lovely sunny June day, after the spring cleaning was done and before the hotter days came, and start early for the country.
 We walked leisurely along, the women chatting, the children chasing rabbits and squirrels, and catching June bugs.
 The farm wife never knew when we were coming until Old Shep, the farm dog, joyfully barked a welcome. With our appetites sharpened by the walk, we ate heartily of the bountiful country dinner of chicken or fried ham, mashed potatoes, biscuits, blackberry preserves, with bread pudding or quick cake, or warm fruit pie for dessert—all served with tall glasses of cold milk.
 A trip to the barnyard to see the young animals and poultry was a big treat to town kids and the playthings (especially dolls and books, for me) belonging to our country cousins were fascinating.
 The long June day seemed very short and reluctantly we started home. The dusty, narrow road did not seem as glamorous as on our morning trip, but we could look forward until another summer—and wish for the time we children would be old enough to join the young people's group in their moonlight walks to the country schoolhouse or church programs.

Mrs. Vivian Underwood of Great Falls, Montana, is here visiting her mother, Mrs. Annie Taylor, who lives in the Santa Anna Hospital. Mrs. Underwood will spend the summer here and will also visit other relatives and friends.
 Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bass and children of Midland, were here Sunday to visit her grandmother, Mrs. W. E. Wallace. Mrs. Bass is the former Miss Mary Wallace of Fort Worth.
 Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pittard visited his father, E. E. Pittard, and his brother, Louis Pittard and family, at Mozelle, Sunday.
