THE JUDGES' RECORDS

By Rosalie M. Gordon

(Editors Note: Rosalie M. Gordon is editor of ALL-AMERICAN BOOKS, ALL AMERICAN BOOK DIGEST and AMERICA'S FUTURE.)

The Supreme Court's shocking decision in the New York prayer case continues to cause 'endless discussion and questioning, as well it might. What puzzles so many people is how six justices of the Supreme Court could reach so tortured and distorted interpretation of the First Amendment to the Constitution as to ban the use of a voluntary prayer in a school in a nation that recognizes God on its coins, in its pledge of allegiance to the flag, in its oaths of office, in its employment of military chaplains and in innumerable other instances. The clause in the First Amendment on which the six justices based their decision had only one purpose — to prevent the establishment of an official church in the United States. Anyone familiar with American constitutional history and judicial precedents is aware of this. Justice Potter Stewart, the lone dissenter in the prayer case, called the reasoning of the majority "unlightening," which is judicial understatement. But it indicates that perhaps the answer to this and many other strange Supreme Court decisions lies in the type of men who have been named to the Supreme Court in the past 25 years by political-minded presidents either wedded to or deluded by liberal and left-wing philosophies. Many of these Supreme Court appointees were without previous judicial experience and thus perhaps without knowledge and awareness of American judicial history and the meaning of the great debates which surrounded the forming of our Constitution.

In this respect, a glance at the records of the six justices who rendered the majority decision in the prayer case is revealing. Only one — Justice Brennan — had had any considerable previous judicial experience, though he quickly became part of the Black-Douglas-Warren liberal leftist bloc on the Court. Justice Harlan's previous judicial experience consisted of one year on the N. Y. Circuit Court of Appeals. The other judges who delivered this odd opinion — Chief Justice Warren, Justices Black, Douglas and Clark — had practically no judicial experience when they were named to the highest Court. Chief Justice Warren, in fact, was the first man named to the Chief Justiceship directly without previous judicial experience in 43 years of our history up to the time of his appointment.

As for Justice Hugo Black, the man who wrote the decision, his previous judicial experience before he was named to the Court by FDR consisted of 18 months as a police court judge. Justice Black was not always noted for consistency in defending so-called "civil liberties." When he was a senator he sized over five million telegrams and letters during an investigation of private corporations. He stoutly defended Congress' right to investigate and expose in the public interest. But as a Supreme Court Justice, he joined in a decision curbing a congressional committee's right to expose. What was the difference? One cannot read a man's mind, but when Justice Black defended congressional exposure it involved American businessmen. When he condemned congressional exposure it involved an admitted accomplice of the communist conspiracy.

We have heard many deeply felt objections to the Supreme Court's decision from numerous sorely troubled Americans. But the most poignant reaction was that of a new citizen who escaped from Communist Hungary at the time of the ill-starred freedom revolt. He was in a state of almost deep shock over the decision. He said "I feel as though I am living a nightmare all over again." He explained that when the Reds took over Hungary — a deeply religious nation — they did not issue a ukase banning the crosses that hung on the walls of many schools and other public places. They did not publicly tell the people that their children would no longer begin their day in school with a prayer. But gradually all the crosses disappeared. Gradually the prayers stopped. Gradually children came home from school mouthing communist dogmas. And one day it suddenly dawned on the Hungarians

First Bale of 1962 Cotton Gets Good Premium

Billy McIntire of Rockwood brought the first bale of 1962 cotton to Santa Anna Wednesday of last week. He was presented a nice premium on the cotton by the local merchants and by the Santa Anna Cooperative Gin, who ginned the 545-lb. bale.

This included the ginning, a premium on the cotton and a premium on the seed. Sale of the cotton brought $163.50 and the premium raised through the Community Chamber of Commerce from the local merchants amounted to $106.70.

This is the first year McIntire has had the pleasure of bringing in a First Bale. He has lived in the Rockwood area about 50 years and is well-known throughout the south part of the county.

that religion and recognition of a Supreme Being had been thoroughly wiped out of existence in all public places in Hungary. This new American asked pleadingly: "That won't happen here, will it?" In the light of the Supreme Court's latest decision, we could not answer.

Hot, Dry Weather Brings Danger Of Grass Fires

Extremely hot and dry weather throughout Texas greatly increases the danger of grass and prairie fires in this area. Actually, the area to the north of Santa Anna is still fairly green and is not in immediate danger, but the area to the south, east and west, is in considerable danger and every precaution is urged by everyone concerned.

With the temperature going about the 100 degree mark for the past several days, and expected to continue for several more days, the entire area is in considerable danger. There is a lot of growth in the pasture areas, that could catch fire and burn very rapidly.

L. J. Clark, City Fire Marshal, this week requested the cooperation of citizens here in town as well as those of the rural areas to be as careful as possible in burning trash and rubbish. He requested those who do burn things to do so in the mornings and only when there is no wind.

Clark said that if a fire gets out of control to call the fire department immediately, rather than attempting to bring it under control yourself. After the department is called, then do what you can to keep the fire controlled.

Clark also urged rural citizens to report grass fires as soon as possible and a truck and crew will come to your rescue. He said to report a rural fire, telephone the Santa Anna operator, give the direction to the fire and have someone waiting on the main road to direct the team the best way to get to the fire.

The fire marshal said anyone wanting a lot burned off here in town should contact him or some other member of the fire department. They will bring a truck for standby purposes while the lot is being burned off.

Marty Donham Painfully Injured Sunday At Noon

Marty Donham, 13-year-old son of Mrs. A. D. Donham, was painfully injured about 12:30 p. m. Sunday, when he ran into the rear of the T. B. Gilmore station wagon. He was apparently not seriously injured, but suffered severe cuts on the face and forehead. Thirty-seven stitches were used to sew his cuts up.

After Mrs. Donham, Marty and Mr. and Mrs. Dwan Cozart and children, who are visiting here from Abilene, returned home after church, Marty had gone to town on his bicycle to get the morning paper. On his return home he hit the rear of the station wagon, but does not remember exactly what caused the accident. Mrs. Doris Harvey picked him up and took him to the doctors office for treatment. He suffered two bad cuts on the face and one deep cut across the forehead and lost a lot of blood.

After treatment he was released to go home. He is to have at least a part of the stitches taken out the latter part of the week.

His brother, Larry, who is employed at the Abilene Aviation Co., brought a plane to Coleman Monday night and took Marty for a ride over Santa Anna and Coleman.

Small Attendance At Ceramic Classes

Mrs. Cullen N. Perry said the attendance at her Ceramic Class was rather small as compared with classes the past two years. Anyone interested in ceramics is invited to contact Mrs. Perry and make arrangements to attend one of the classes.

There is no cost for instruction. The only cost is for materials used and this will be very small, based on the amount and type of material used.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bruce and Mrs. Tom Kingsbery, Sue and Carol, were in Junction last week attending the Hill County races. The Kingsberys returned on Friday and the Bruces Saturday.

There will be 13 returning lettermen from last year and a number of last years squad have indicated they plan to return. There is also some new boys who have indicated they will be out. Four boys were graduated from

Senior Band To Begin Practice Monday, Aug. 20th

T. K. Martin, Santa Anna Band director, said the Senior Band will begin practice for the fall season Monday, in an effort to be ready for the fall festivities by the time school begins.

Mr. Martin said all Senior Band students are to report to the Band Hall at 8:00 a. m. Monday, Aug. 20. This includes all Junior Band Students of the past year who were promoted to the Senior Band at the end of school.

Martin said it was important that all Senior Band Students be present for the practice sessions.

the team last year: Harold Walker at fullback, Dayton Jackson, Brian Baucom and Don Rutherford on the line.

The pressure will be on the coaches and team this year. All Santa Anna fans are looking forward to the Mountaineers having an excellent season. At Coaching School last week, the Mountaineers were picked for the top spot by five of the seven coaches. One coach picked Burnett and another (Smith) picked Goldthwaite.

Coach Smith said he felt we have a 50-50 chance with all the teams we are to play. All are good teams and capable of winning at any given time — the same as the Mountaineers are expected to be. The coach said he felt we had a good prospect of winning the district as long as the boys were in good mental and physical condition for each game, and that he was going to make every effort to have the boys ready for each encounter.

Two new rules will effect training this year. One is that only one scrimmage per week is allowed. This rule will allow us to have only one scrimmage this year and that is scheduled against San Saba the night of Aug. 30 at 7:30 p. m. at San Saba.

The other new rule is that Junior High practice cannot begin until school starts. Thus, the Ward School practice will not begin until Sept. 4.

Coach Smith is to be assisted this year by A. D. (Cotton) Bowen and the new eighth grade Teacher, Don Davis. Davis will be principally the line coach and this is something we have needed for the past several years.

The coach urged all boys planning to come out for football to be present at the gym at 8:00 a. m. Monday to check out their suits and start their training period. He expects to put the boys through some very rigorous training in preparation for the first game on Sept. 7.

State Capitol NEWS

Austin — Members of the 49th Armored Division of the Texas National Guard received a personal "Welcome home" from Gov. Price Daniel. He greeted them in front of the State Capitol.

Afterwards the Guardsmen paraded down Congress Avenue, then dismissed for their homes and civilian jobs.

Governor Daniel told a crowd of about 500 spectators:

"When the President moved to augment the active army in the face of the Berlin crisis last year, the Texas National Guard was ready for this obligation, just as it always has faced up to its responsibilities since the first conflicts by Texas civilian-soldiers at Anahuac and Gonzales in 1835."

Among the returning soldiers was a father and son team, C. H. and Ronald H. Cheshire, both highway patrolmen with the Texas Department of Public Safety.

C. H. Cheshire, a chief warrant officer with the 49th, organized 42 other department employees—including his son, Ronald—into the "Texas DPS 49ers" during their stay at Fort Polk, Louisiana.

All have reported back to their civilian boss, Col. Homer Garrison Jr., DPS director. But the department still is 100 men short.

MORE MONEY FOR WELL STUDY

Governor Daniel has okayed the release of $105,000 from Texas Railroad Commission funds to finance additional equipment, personnel and other expenses connected with the investigation of slant-well drilling and oil producing operations and pollution of public waters.

He also authorized Atty. Gen. Will Wilson to adjust his present appropriations to cover slant-well and anti-trust investigation expenses.

Meanwhile, the Railroad Commission called a temporary halt to oil well testing in East Texas and Hawkins fields, in order to rearrange personnel.

TWO TERM LIMIT?

Another effort may be made to limit the term of office of the governor.

Similar resolution was unsuccessfully sponsored in the 57th Legislature. New proposal would set the governor's term at four years. It provides that he could not succeed himself in office.

Many legislators feel that such a system actually stretches a political life rather than limiting it.

PRESSURE POSSIBLE HAZARD

When Brad Smith, the governor's traffic safety assistant, learned that a fatal automobile crash occurred every other hour and a car wreck every hour, for three consecutive days, he decided it might be due to the weather.

Study revealed that the barometric pressure had dropped to a low point the day previous and stayed low through the three day period.

Smith a former newsman said that reporters always look for unusual happenings when the barometer falls and remains low for a few days.

"I am now convinced that oppressive weather has a decided effect on some personalities," he said. Scientists call the effect of weather on people "bioclimatology."

DIVORCE STUDY STARTED

House Interim Committee on Divorce held its first meeting.

Committee, headed by Rep. Renal B. Rosson of Snyder, was created by the 57th Legislature to study divorce laws, with special attention to: Rights to children; methods of promoting and protecting family life; and possible ways to encourage reconciliations.

Texas now has the fifth highest divorce rate in the nation. More than 28,000 divorces were granted here in 1961.

Members of the study includes Reps. David Crews of Conroe, Paul B. Haring of Goliad, Henry Fletcher of Lubing and Charles Whitfield of Houston.

MENTAL HOSPITALS CROWDED

State mental hospitals are crowded with elderly persons physically but not mentally ill.

Dr. C. J. Rulman so reported to the House Committee on Saving Taxes.

Dr. Rulman, director of mental health for the State Hospital Board, said about 25 percent of the 16,000 patients in state hospitals are more than 65 years old.

"Our problem (in cutting state hospital costs) rests with patients who are physically sick — he said. "Of 3,500 elderly patients in state hospitals, only about 1,400 have serious psychiatric disorders."

HELP FOR RURAL HOSPITALS

Although federal funds have financed construction of more than one-third the hospital and medical facilities in the state, under the Hill-Burton Act, most of the aid has been given to ## big-city institutions.

Officials of the State Health Department, who make recommendations for the aid, feel that smaller communities have been penalized under former measuring standards. When new building allotments are authorized for Hill-Burton assistance in September, requests from rural areas will be weighed according to "relative need."

So far Hill-Burton projects around the state have been built at a total cost of $310,433,369, with the federal government footing $110,102,770 of the bill.

The Hill-Burton program is so popular in Texas that federal financing is twice the national average of 15 per cent of total cost.

CRIME EXPLOSION

Texas prison wardens and agencies interested in rehabilitation of "first offenders" are being haunted by the expected population bulge just as are colleges, universities and for that matter, all future planners.

Post-war bumper baby crops which started in 1947 are expected to hit the cell as well as the campus in full force in 1964.

Three phases of clemency — suspended sentence, judicial probation, and state parole — are being studied as a means of keeping youthful offenders out of the penitentiary.

Objective is to make the prison an old settlers' home for hardened congenital criminals who cannot be rehabilitated, and who have aged in making their record.

MARKET TESTING HELPFUL

"People who have never known and cared less about brucellosis eradication are now getting their herds cleaned up," Dr. Seymour J. Smith told state animal health commissioners.

Awakened interest is due to the state-federal plan of market testing, under which a county can be modified or certified brucellosis-free without testing every herd.

Another animal health officer, Dr. H. H. Payne of El Campo, told the group that he never had seen anything like the mosquito menace in May, June and July, which caused an estimated loss of 50,000 Texas cattle and ruined many more in Jefferson and Chambers counties alone. "Some cattle are permanently warped from the long period of stress," he said.

Payne said cattlemen in the two-county area may be "wide open" for more trouble if fall showers make mosquito-breeding beds out of blackish pools created by Hurricane Carla.

SCREWORM BATTLE RAGES

Weekly production of sterile screwworm flies has hit the 50,000,000 mark and is expected to reach 75,000,000 by September 1, according to Dr. G. D. Stallworth of the Texas Animal Health Commission.

He said the battle against screwworms, initiated a year ago is going so well that the Kerrville fly plant is being closed down and all production centered at Mission.

Outcome of the fight for screwworm eradication this year may depend on winter's weather whims.

"We're at the mercy of winter weather," Dr. Stallworth said. "If a very mild winter occurs, the overwintering line that serves as a boundary for release of sterile flies, will have to be pushed farther north, and more resources and more flies will be needed."

NO DEATH FOR TAXES

Robert S. Calvert, State Comptroller, warns that merchants must pay the state sales tax on gross receipts despite a recent court ruling by District Judge Herman Jones.

Calvert expects a lot of merchants to quit paying the tax on sales of under 25 cents after reading about the ruling.

Judge Jones ruled that the state has no right to make the merchants pay while at the same time prohibiting them from collecting. "There won't be any change until the suit finally is settled by the higher courts," Calvert said.

VET LAND INSURANCE

Veterans Land Board has reaffirmed its plans to offer credit insurance through a Dallas firm to 30,000 land purchasers despite a complaint lodged by Rep. Don Garrison of Houston.

William A. Harrison, insurance commissioner, advised Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler that a Complaint concerning the company which will insure the veterans who borrow money from the state to buy land "seems to be an isolated case."

We dropped in on Mrs. Mary Boenick (who has been in the hospital for several days) on Sunday to find her in a chair and feeling pretty good. We hope she too will soon be home.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Cozart and family of Angleton returned to their home on Sunday, after visiting here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haynes and Jerry and Billy the past week. Mr. Haynes went with them to stay a few days.

Operation Leaves Off
— Big Aid To Machine Harvest

College Station — Last year 64 percent of the Texas cotton crop was machine harvested — 13 percent by mechanical pickers and 51 percent by strippers. The trend is upward for this type of harvesting, says Fred C. Elliott, cotton specialist for the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

An important consideration in the machine harvesting of cotton, he says, is the use of either defoliants or desiccants for preparing the cotton plants for the harvesting process.

Defoliants are used to prepare the cotton plants for sprindle picking and two groups of material are available — dusts and sprays.

Arsenic acid and pentachlorophenol are the materials commonly used for desiccating purposes, that is preparing plants for stripper harvest.

For detailed information, Elliot suggests that growers get from the local county agent's office a copy of L-145, "Texas Cotton Defoliation Guide."

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Ragsdale left Santa Anna for Tarrytown, New York, recently. He is employed by International Business Machines. They report they travelled in rain the last 500 miles of the trip.

Mrs. John Murrell and son Tony, are visiting a few days in Fort Worth, Cleburne and with her sister, Mrs. Fred Blackwell in Keene.

Opening lead: Ace of diamonds.

West took the first trick with ace of diamonds. West again led diamonds and South trumped in own hand. South then led four rounds of hearts, three rounds of spades and hand was made.

COMMENT: This was a pat hand. South was correct in bidding a small slam since there was only one losing trick in that hand if the spades break. However, South definitely should have redoubled.

This hand was played by a bridge group that has been meeting regularly for 12 years. Although not professionals, all of the players are above average. How would you have bid and played this hand?

Miss Darlene Mercer, student nurse at Hendricks Hospital in Abilene, was at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gregg and family, over the weekend. The family accompanied her back to Abilene late Sunday afternoon.

It's Time For...
EYE CARE

Dr. Newton K. Wesley
MATURE VISION AND ITS CARE

Imagine a camera the size of a ping-pong ball. It takes motion pictures in 3-dimension and color. Focus is automatic for distances from four inches to the most far away star, and there's no computing with a light meter, whether you're taking pictures in candle-light or brilliant sunshine.

Well, you own two such cameras right now! I'm talking about your eyes — next to your life, your most precious possession.

But as you reach the later years, you have to realize your eyes aren't as young as they used to be. They can't do the work they used to do. Does that mean we have to gradually put away our reading, driving and other pleasures aside — and wait for darkness to overcome us? Not on your life! With proper care and attention, our vision can last much longer than it used to in the days gone by. Today, with modern glasses and contact lenses plus other modern techniques for dealing with such problems as cataracts, our elders may look forward to good vision for many years.

The first step in caring for the vision of all of us is to have regular eye examinations. In this manner, we can learn of eye defects that are present and treat them early. In some cases, early examinations may prove to be the means of saving your sight.

Rev. ROBERT H. HARPER
 WINSTON CHURCHILL
 WINSTON CHURCHILL is descended from the celebrated Duke of Marlborough, of whom someone has said that he never fought a battle he did not win, never besieged a city he did not take, and never conducted negotiation that he did not carry to a successful conclusion. It is small wonder that this illustrious descendant, Sir Winston Churchill, has been a man of indomitable spirit.

When he was brought home recently and taken to a hospital after falling and breaking his hip,

JUST A THOUGHT:
 Doing the "right" thing is sometimes difficult, often unpleasing at the outset. Once it is done, however, we usually wonder why we ever gave any consideration to the fact that we would have done otherwise.

he lifted a hand and gave his famous victory sign. And who has ever heard that Winston Churchill in all his life ever showed a white feather?

To the English people and to peoples who dwell along all the Seven Seas, he has demonstrated a spirit that would not shrink though pressed by every foe and would "not tremble on the brink of any earthly woe." The English people and of the free world have reason to be grateful that Winnie led them to accept "blood and toil and sweat" instead of shame and oppression. And surely we in the United States find it easy to admire Winston Churchill. After all, his mother was from our shores.

Take Dry Cotton To The Gin

College Station — Drink an extra cup of coffee and make money. Does this sound reasonable? It makes a lot of sense to Texans who use mechanical pickers to harvest their cotton and explains why they are in no great rush to start their pickers early in the morning.

The wise farmers wait so that cotton moisture can drop to a reasonable picking level, says B. G. Reeves, extension cotton ginning and mechanization specialist. This waiting can get them a full grade or more when they go to the gin, adds Reeves. Regardless of how dry the weather, cotton should never be harvested at night nor early in the morning or late evening.

explains the specialist. Even on the driest day, he adds, cotton will probably never be dry enough for machine harvest until 8 a. m. or later.

Moisture in seed cotton from humidity may not be seen or felt but it is there. And, it limits the kind of a job the ginner can do. Excess moisture in cotton usually results in the loss of grade and quality and this in turn can cost the grower $1 or more per bale, points out Reeves.

The ginner must increase the heat in the dryers to try to get desirable grades from high moisture cotton. Using more heat increases the danger of fiber quality damage on the bale being ginned and the bale following, explains Reeves. Over drying can result and this makes for the kind-of cotton the mills don't want.

How can you know when to start your mechanical pickers? Delay harvesting, advises Reeves, until the relative humidity in the field at boll height is 60 percent or less. Normally, 60 percent relative humidity is correlated with 8 percent lint moisture, he adds.

If you don't have a hygrometer or cotton moisture meter, Reeves says to pick a handful of cotton, squeeze it tightly in your hand and release it quickly. If the cotton fluffs out when released, it is dry enough for mechanical picking. Otherwise, wait and make the test again later. And make the test at several different spots in the field, advises Reeves.

Visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Buddy DeSha and family recently were Mr. and Mrs. DeSha and family of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Herrington and family of Grand Prairie, Mrs. Mary Maurice and daughter of Sun Valley, Calif.

OCEANS MAY PROVE HUGE POWER SOURCE

An answer to the world's fuel problems may lie in the five oceans, according to Princeton University scientists. There is enough deuterium (heavy hydrogen) in the water, they say, to supply the world with power for millions of years, adding that the deuterium contained in one gallon of sea water can produce more energy than hundreds of gallons of gasoline. "But tremendous technical difficulties" must be overcome before this immense power source can be tapped.

They're labeling milk while it's still on the hoof on a Princeton, N. J. farm. The labels - made of sticky lightweight paper that conforms to the contours of the cow's rump - distinguish animals that have been given experimental medicines and vaccines. The labels indicate a specific time period during which the cows' milk cannot be used.

OF

Change of Ownership of B&M Feed Co. to Hollingsworth Feed Mill

We wish to announce that we have sold B&M Feed Company to Ray Hollingsworth, effective Monday, July 30, 1962.

Aside from the fact that we hope to remain in Coleman, our plans for the future are not complete.

We wish to take this means of expressing our most sincere thanks and appreciation for the friendships and patronage we have enjoyed since we opened the business here in 1956.

We are proud of the many fine customers we have served, and trust that our business has helped contribute to the growth and development of this area.

Once again, thanks for everything, and we hope to be seeing you.

Guy and Jewel Manning

We are happy to become residents of Coleman and Coleman County, and to be the new owners and operators of B&M Feed Company, which will operate in the future under the name of Hollingsworth Feed Mill.

We just want to say that we will appreciate the opportunity to serve you and we will do our best to give you the best service possible, as you have been accustomed to.

Our operation will be basically the same as in the past, and we do plan to expand both the feed manufacture and feed lot operations.

We have many years experience in this business and we will do our best to serve you well.

We extend an invitation to everyone to visit us, at any time.

PRESIDENT—NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

GETTING THE NATION MOVING

In his Yale speech President Kennedy did a good thing for the country by calling for further "dialog" about problems that beset the nation's economic life. However, in laying down the ground rules that virtually prevent straightforward attacks upon the basis of our problems he has severely limited the usefulness of the debate that he recommends. Must we, for example, avoid searching for alternatives to deficit spending, on the grounds that debt is good for the nation, a theory some of his advisors are recommending? Mr. Kennedy is taking action of various kinds. Overhauling depreciation allowances for faster federal tax write-offs will be appreciated by business, but this may or may not help shore up the economy as a whole. What it will mean in any event is a temporary reduction in federal tax revenues in the period to which it applies. It is not a windfall, nor is it equivalent to a tax cut for businesses and corporations. It seems to be a move in the right direction toward long overdue reform of our tax laws. But even this, whether or not it includes an actual tax cut, may prove to be no panacea for avoiding recessions.

Remedies Not Mentioned

It is currently being projected that President Kennedy will follow the advice of his counselors and bring about a general tax cut. No one can deny there would be some sort of a stimulus because of extra funds in private and corporate hands. We need "seed money," but would it be used that way? It does not necessarily follow that $8 to $12 billions saved from taxes would head off a possible recession. If such savings could be achieved without government borrowing or deficits, the prospects might be more pleasing and more stimulating.

Where do the basics lie? It is granted that a tax cut plus tax reforms might stimulate the nation's economy. But would not the most direct approach be to find ways and means to relieve the people of the tremendous burden of federal spending, of deficits and debts that cheapen our money, and of general waste that pervades the "big government" operation? It is notable that the President's advisors and consultants rarely mention these possibilities.

A Pleasant Exception

It was therefore a welcome surprise when Defense Secretary McNamara announced that our defense costs could be slashed enough to save $3 billion over the next five years, without endangering the nation's safety. This is indeed a move in the right direction. The Secretary is proposing to divert $900 million from the dollar drain overseas, by means of more careful defense spending. If the department of Agriculture, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and all the others, were economy-minded, it staggers the imagination what could be saved!

Whether the rather desperate remedy of a quick tax cut this year could further dampen business confidence is a question Mr. Kennedy must study. Fears economic and fears political are the associated twin bugaboos that always haunt any White House occupant, but this question of tax cutting is more political than economic. Neither President Kennedy nor business itself can too much be blamed for the fact that there's less steam in the economy than both would like to see. The facts are that the cost of producing goods has risen so high that American goods are being priced out of the markets, both at home and abroad. Wages, feather-bedding, high overhead, taxes and depreciation schedules all contribute to this condition.

The Frontiers Remain

Even so, given the right kind of climate for operation of the enterprise system, American industry will forge ahead to produce all sorts of new goods and services. Real tax reform, including better depreciation schedules, could come easily if we cutback government spending. This would do much to provide the conditions under which enterprise could flourish, providing more jobs and more goods for everyone. That, in fact, has been the whole American story so far, under freedom and God's providence.

Surely the American people must realize that our economy is being increasingly hobbled by oppressive tax burdens brought on by excessive government spending at home and abroad. If Mr. Kennedy really wants to get the country moving, as he said he did in the campaign, he could start by working on next year's budget—downward. That would remove the need for a dangerous deficit-financed tax reduction. This kind of solution is basic and it would provide the spark American enterprise needs in order to move ahead.

Impressive Statistics:

●The nation's roadways are three times safer now than they were 25 years ago and twice as safe as they were 15 years ago.

●In 1945 there were 11.5 deaths per 100 million miles driven. Last year that rate had been cut to 5.2, the lowest ever.

●In that same period the numbers of vehicles on the highways more than doubled to 76 million and the number of licensed drivers rose to 90 million.

●In 1961 there were 2,000 fewer fatalities than 20 years ago and yet Americans drove 400 billion more miles.

"With the ever-improving traffic safety record, many safety officials believe it is time that automotive safety be approached positively," says the magazine. "The pleasures of safe driving should be stressed rather than the accident stories that are frightening people off the road. In fact, some people suggest that the scare campaigns encourage the very accidents they try to prevent."

What is needed, believes the writer, is the rediscovery that there is fun in pleasure driving — weekend tour into the Country, a leisurely jaunt to a nearby recreation area or historical site. Mountains, woods, or the seashore are within easy reach of almost everybody. Some even prefer to embark with no particular destination in mind. The open road never fails to unfold with adventure, whatever the corner of America.

"Enjoy your car," urges The Humble Way. "The old work-horse may turn out to be something of a winged white steed."

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Yancy, Richard and Carol, of Ben Brook brought his mother, Mrs. C. F. Yancy, home Saturday night after she spent a weeks visit with them.
