SMOKE

FROM THE MOUNTAIN

Jimmy Watson's horse just couldn't muster the Brady Band music Tuesday when the bunch passed by his trailer and blew their horns right in Horlie's ears. It surely wasn't that he didn't like music that he rared—must have been home town patriotism for the local band that made him object so strenuously.

Now why didn't someone put up a loud speaker at the softball game Tuesday night for the benefit of the Louis-Brad-dock fans. We might have had a better crowd at the ball park then.

While scouting around the streets this week for personals, we asked George Johnson if he knew any. He said his lumbago was about the most personal thing he knew of and from the groans he let out we were convinced he really took it to heart. Now that won't do—how are these firemen going to win that softball championship if the boss gets lumbago. You'd better start working on him, boys.

Seems like the merchants are agreeing about 100 per cent on shooting their firecrackers on July 5 and forgetting their business one day this summer.

Rumors this week have it that there's gold in the mountain. And all the time we thought it was smoke. Anyway if it's so we sure are wasting our time making a living here if there's gold in "them thar hills."

It surprised some of us to see C. H. Richards bending over a wash tub in the afternoon heat Wednesday, but when we got a glimpse of Mrs. Richards with a washing stick in her hand right near him we began to understand.

Civic Loyalty Builds A City

It takes a lot of faith and hope and work to make a city grow. One of these without the others will make your efforts of no avail. Your faith in your community and its progress is needed to make Santa Anna a growing city, a community which can serve its citizens.

You cannot have faith and do nothing about it. Prove that you believe in Santa Anna by showing your civic loyalty. Be proud of your town and you will be proud if you give it your support.

You expect your merchants to support the schools, churches, sponsor all types of activities for the youth of the city, and all types of civic enterprises. The merchants gladly give their support to these projects. They ask of you only your loyalty to them by trading with them and giving them your patronage. It is a little thing to ask in return for the many services they render.

SHOW YOUR CIVIC LOYALTY. BUY IN SANTA ANNA AND SUPPORT THE MERCHANT WHO HELPS YOU AND YOUR TOWN.

City Attorney Begins Work of Tax Collecting

Williamson Asks Tax Payers to Talk With Him in City Hall Office

John T. Williamson, recently chosen City Attorney by the City Commission, for the purpose of collecting city delinquent taxes, has opened his offices at the city hall and is ready to receive tax payers who wish to discuss payment with him.

Under a new law passed by the last session of the legislature, the city is now permitted to sue for delinquent taxes, suits to be filed on the owner of the property or the lien holder.

At the present time Mr. Williamson is making a list of all delinquent taxes from 1919 to 1935. Those whose names appear on this list will be given a chance to pay on easy terms, according to the City Attorney, before suit is filed.

Before the new law was passed, taxes that were collected were divided first among the state, county and other units, with the result that the city taxes were slighted and the city finances became handicapped. The present law allows each tax unit to file suit for delinquent taxes, and thus all the taxes received from a suit filed by the city will be retained by the local government.

Funeral services for William Wesley Taylor, who died June 19, were held Sunday afternoon, June 20, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Clara Gilbreath of Shield. Linwood E. Bishop of Coleman, reader for the Church of Christ, officiated.

Local Resident Relates Experiences During Fifty Years in Santa Anna

First of a Series of Articles Tells of Chambers Family While Living in Waco and Of Visits Here

Fifty Years In Santa Anna

By Miss Luella Chambers

Editor's Note: Beginning with the following article by one of the most prominent residents of Santa Anna, Miss Luella Chambers, the News will feature each week, tracing the development of Santa Anna in both a historical and humorous vein. Miss Chambers is considered one of our most accurate historians of the early days of Santa Anna.

Long years ago when I was about knee high to a duck, the two greatest events of the winter were the coming of Santa Claus down the chimney, be it stick and dirt or brick he always got there, and the coming of the buffalo wagons to Waco, and Dad always brought home the buffalo. Mother would spread a buffalo robe on the floor before the fire and we were happy—we five children were raised on a buffalo robe with its long shaggy brown hair and my remembrance is the buffalo came from Coleman county and perhaps ranged around Santana mountains.

One afternoon we heard a man say he had just returned from a buffalo hunt in Coleman county and saw a prairie dog town. The little dogs would stand on their hind legs and bark at people but when they got near would dart in the holes in the ground. He was told owls, prairie dogs, and rattle snakes all lived in the same hole. A man asked him if the snakes were large and he pointed to a stick of wood about eight inches in circumference and said "about the size of that stick." Well, we children thought Coleman county was a ter-

Local Citizens Learn of Social Security Problems

Social Security was the subject of discussion in numerous interviews in Santa Anna, Tuesday, June 15, by George D. Clark, representative from the Social Security Board at Austin. Mr. Clark spent Tuesday in Santa Anna helping people who were in any way confused over the program. He particularly discussed the old age benefits program.

The old-age benefits program applies to establishments with only one employee the same as to large firms, Clark said.

Benefits are based on wages received, and beginning next July each employer will be required to make a simple report to the Bureau of Internal Revenue on every person who has worked regularly, part-time, or temporarily, since January 1. The report will show name, address, account number, wages paid, date of payment, and period of service covered. From the employers' reports on wages paid, the employees' wages will be posted to their Social Security accounts and their monthly benefits, when they reach age 65 and retire, will be paid on the basis of the wages credited.

In view of these informational returns, the first of which will be made in July (and quarterly thereafter), it will be seen that employers should now be keeping records, Clark said, showing for each person who has worked since the beginning of 1937, the name, address, account number, wages paid, date of payment, and period of service covered. Employers who have kept such records will

Band Will Give Concert Sunday at Cross Plains

The Santa Anna Municipal Band under the direction of Tom Wallis, will present its first out-of-town concert of the summer at Cross Plains Sunday at the City Park. The program will begin promptly at 4 p. m.

The thirty-five piece band will present a program including the following numbers: "The Corn Huskers March," "Semper Fidelis" by Sousa; "Billy Sunday's Successful Songs," a medley of church hymns; "Gala Night Overture;" "A Night in June;" "Leo Fiast Band Medley;" "Organ Echoes;" and "Invercargill."

The band plans to make several trips in the next few months to near-by towns for concerts and plans are being made now to push the securing of uniforms for the band since the organization will present a much better appearance if uniformed.

Mr. Wallis has now moved to Santa Anna and will be here at all times to assist band members and assist in band projects. He is domiciled at the Kirkpatrick garage apartment.

find it easy to make up the simple information return, but the employer who is not keeping records may find difficulty in making up his reports.

In order that each wage earner in the United States may be assured that his wages will be posted to his social security account and not to some other wage earner's account, the Board, Clark said, has set up a system to assign numbers to all Social Security accounts, and employees have been required

Malodorant to Be Installed by C. Gas & Oil Co.

Chemical Will Protect Customers from Gas Leakage in Homes; Company Among First to Make Installation

The Coleman Gas & Oil Company will begin next Monday the installation of a malodorant to the gas supplied in the homes of its customers. This innovation is in accordance with House Bill No. 1017, recently passed in the Legislature.

Injection of the malodorant will require about 20 minutes to reach the city from the main line 4 1-2 miles south east of Santa Anna where the injection will be made. It will require a longer period for the malodorant to be distributed to the outlying districts.

Probably Calodorant will be used as the malodorant. This is manufactured by Standard of California, which when fed into the gas at a maximum rate of 2 gallons of malodorant to 1 million cubic feet of gas will impart an odor to the gas like very strong gasoline odor. The chemical is a sulphur compound.

The Coleman Gas & Oil Company has planned this addition of a malodorant for the protection of customers for many months and after the tragic explosion which took the lives of so many school children in New London, efforts were pushed even more. However action was necessarily delayed until definite word was received from the legislature so that the installation would be in accordance with the law.

The installation is under the supervision of the Railroad Commission of Texas which has also formulated rules and regulations for installation. The apparatus used must meet the requirements of the commission, which specifies also the type of malodorant to be used.

Customers can thus easily detect leaks since the malodorant makes the odor of leaking gas noticeable, yet it is not an unpleasant odor.

The benefits of this malodorant is that it warns consumers of leaks and when repaired cuts the gas consumption.

Free Grasshopper Poison Now Here for Farmers' Use

A. D. Pettit Named Distributor by Government in the Fight Against Pests

Local farmers may now obtain free grasshopper poison from A. D. Pettit, vocational agriculture teacher for the local high school, who has been appointed distributor of this poison by the government. Headquarters are in the Old State Bank Building.

A load of bran was brought down from Coleman Wednesday by Mr. Pettit and is now ready for distribution to the farmers, provided the farmers purchase sacks of bran from local dealers first. If one sack of bran is bought from a local dealer, farmers may then go to the Old State Bank Building and receive a sack of bran free. The number bought from local dealers will be matched by the government. Arsenic will be here in a few days for distribution.

All desiring this grasshopper poison to fight the pests are urged to get their supply immediately. No red tape is required to get it, according to Mr. Pettit.

College Station—A grasshopper infestation equal to or worse than that of 1924 threatens a large portion of the State, according to R. R. Reppert, Extension Service entomologist. As the result of counts of eggs deposited last fall, Reppert forecast in April a severe grasshopper infestation, and reports from county agricultural agents indicate that the emergence of grasshoppers will be even more serious than anticipated.

Poison mash scattered around areas of concentrated egg deposits does much to control the insects before they do much damage, Reppert said. A state grasshopper control committee, with Reppert as state leader, has been set up to combat the infestation. This committee has requested 150 carloads of material from federal sources to use against the Texas grass-

The Faithful Life

The long story of Joseph, unexcelled from a literary standpoint and a record of utmost importance in the chronicle of the people of Israel, is a clearcut revelation of the continuing purpose of God. It illustrates understandably God's sovereignty, the manner in which he plans for his children and preserves them even against their own folly, and finally saves them for his own glory.

In slavery as well as in a position of great power, Joseph let it be known that he was a follower of the true God, and in every crisis in his life he not only turned to God for deliverance but gave to God the praise for his remarkable achievements. Thus it was that he was able to resist temptation, and remained faithful to Potiphar, to the keeper of the prison and finally to the Pharaoh when in his maturity he became the dictator of the country.

The faithfulness of Joseph gave him a calm and confident attitude toward all the difficulties he encountered. Although a mere lad, there was no crying when he was thrown into a pit by his brethren, or sold into Egyptian slavery, or placed in prison unjustly. To the contrary, he maintained a kindly spirit toward his brethren, and toward his fellow prisoners the butler and the baker, and left in God's hands the avenging of the wrongs he had suffered.

Humility was a mark of his life, both as a lad and as a high government official, so that even in the hour of his greatest triumph, when his conscience-stricken brethren stood before him and realized that they were completely in his power he was able to say, "God sent me before you to preserve a remnant in the earth, and to save you by a great deliverance. It was not you that sent me hither, but God; God hath made me lord of Egypt."

God can use to His own glory those who are weak and vacillating in their faithfulness, but that life is destined to true greatness which is completely yielded in devoted service to him: "God doth not need either man's works or his gifts. Who best bear his mild yoke, they serve him best. His state is kingly: thousands at His bidding speed, and post o'er land and ocean without rest; they also serve only who stand and wait." "Wait ye upon the Lord."

Good Sportsmanship

Softball season is about over in Santa Anna according to the present schedule and it seems that this group of athletically inclined folks will set a record for any town—a season without a squabble.

We didn't witness the games last year here so cannot judge from last year's activities, but in many places the softball league or any other league comprised of a group of men of different occupations and interests, ends the season with misunderstandings and hard feelings and grudges about "We got a dirty deal."

Of course some will differ with the umpires and players in the decisions and plays and some think they've had pretty hard luck on their playing but on the whole the players have been good sports and have kept the element of argument out of the game.

They seem to have learned a valuable lesson. Take the decisions, play your best and refrain from whining about "the raw deal."

Equally as important and equally as hard to do, is refraining from gloating over the glory of winning. However, there is not a team this year who has not suffered a defeat, so that there is none that can justly be too boastful.

Our men have acted like adults, which so often adults fail to do. When that is so, regardless of who wins, the season should be counted a success.

Monday evening of this week was the date of the young people's Zone meeting, at Talpa. All the chapters of Coleman County were represented but one. Santa Anna led the county by a big majority in attendance. We felt proud of our young people, for this is the first time any chapter has had more to attend these meetings than Coleman church.

We have a very fine group, and they are deserving of our appreciation and encouragement. They always have a good time, and never scatter seeds of tares, but sunshine and hearty good cheer for every one whom they meet.

Last Sunday we had a very fine attendance at church and Sunday School. We hope to see even a larger number in attendance this last Sunday in June.

$75,000 Pan American Lock

Here is the costliest lock ever made. Wrought by Arthur A. Everts, Dallas jeweler, it was presented to the Pan American Exposition for its opening ceremony June 12. The lock, valued at $75,000.00, contains nearly two pounds of platinum and white, green, yellow and red gold, and 1,056 gems—diamonds, sapphires, pearls, zircons, emeralds and rubies. The large diamond weighs 14 carats. Only by the insertion of all 21 keys, each representing one of the Pan American nations, was the lock opened, throwing wide the Exposition gates while representatives of the 21 nations looked on. The original diamond-set keys were sent as gifts to presidents of the Pan American countries.

Coleman Farmers in Favor of Proposed Changes in Government's Farm Program

Coleman County farmers favor the 1938 farm program that the Federal government likely will present—if the opinion of members of the county's chapter of the Texas Agricultural Association can be taken as a criterion.
For some 50 members of the Association indicated their attitude on the proposed changes at a meeting held at the county courthouse recently. Carroll Kingsbery, president, and W. N. McCulloch, secretary, were in charge of the meeting. County agent C. V. Robinson, Assistant Agent Sam Rosenberg and Ward Evans, member of the County Conservation Board, were principal speakers.

Points in the proposed program were discussed by the leaders and several of the farmers took an active part in the program.
Major changes include: In 1938 every farmer in a county would be given a base acreage whether or not he takes part in the program—thus aiding those taking part in that their bases would not be trimmed in reaching a certain quota; the 1938 program seems fairer to all classes of producers—grain, cotton, and other producers would have equal opportunities; and soil building would be stressed in the 1938 program.

MILLIONS OF POUNDS HAVE BEEN USED BY OUR GOVERNMENT

Home Demonstration Notes

Being a wardrobe demonstration for this year has been most interesting and helpful to me, said Ada Jean Jameson, wardrobe demonstrator of the Echo 4-H Girls club. In January Ada Jean took an inventory of all clothing on hand. Then she made a wardrobe plan of all clothing she estimated she would need to buy during 1937 to go with the clothing she already had on hand. By planning ahead for a whole year, Ada Jean felt she could have a better and more adequate wardrobe for the amount of money she had to spend.

To have adequate clothing storage a new closet had to be built to take the place of a wardrobe Ada Jean had been using. This closet is provided with a rod for hanging clothes, a shelf for hats, shelves for folded garments, a shoe rack, and 12 coat hangers. Clothes cannot be kept in good condition without adequate storage space.

Ada Jean has made a kitchen apron, a kimono, a slip and a dress in her clothing work. All of these articles were shown at the 4-H club Rally Day June 19.

For the past three years the Home Demonstration club women in Coleman County have been working on Bedroom improvement. As much progress has been made and a large number of bedrooms improved the Coleman County Home Demonstration Council sponsored a tour of some finished demonstration rooms June 22, 23, 24, and 25. Fourteen or fifteen rooms were shown during the four afternoons of the tour.

The rooms displayed during the tour were those improved by the bedroom demonstrators in the various clubs in the county. In these rooms the demonstrators have worked to achieve attractiveness, comfort, and convenience for their families. On June 22, Tuesday, the rooms visited were in Precinct 1. The party visited the homes of the following bedroom demonstrators in order named:

1. Mrs. J. G. Brown, Live at the Club, who lives 3 miles west of Coleman on the Shield rd.
2. Mrs. Ben Dunn, Coleman dependent, who lives 3 miles east of Coleman.
3. Mrs. Garland Abbey, Indian Creek, who lives 6 or 7 miles north of Coleman.
4. Mrs. John B. Henderson, Rae-Echo, who lives a mile north of Echo.
5. Mrs. Frank Golson, Burkett, who lives in Burkett.
6. Mrs. Elmer Key, Comal, who lives several miles northwest of Burkett.

On Wednesday, June 23, the tour was in Precinct 2. From the Club room in Santa Anna the party visited the homes of the following bedroom demonstrators in order named:

1. Mrs. Marshall Duggins, Liberty, who lives about 5 miles south of Santa Anna on the Brownwood Highway.
2. Mrs. Jess York, Trickham, who lives 12 miles south of Santa Anna on the Santa Anna Highway-Trickham Road.
3. Mrs. H. E. Stewardson, Shields, who lives 1-2 mile south of Shield.
4. On Thursday, June 24, the tour was in Precinct 3 and the first home visited was that of Mrs. J. H. Roberts, Brown Ranch, at 2:00 p. m. From Brown Ranch the party visited the home of Mrs. W. C. Norwood in Gouldbusk.

Today, June 25, the last day, the tour will be in Precinct 4. Everyone interested in going on the tour is to meet at the Bowen School House, six miles west of Coleman, at 1:30 p. m. From the school house the following demonstrators' houses will be visited in order named:

1. Mrs. H. A. Hagler, Bowen, Central.
2. Mrs. Josephine Nalley, New Central.
3. Mrs. Odean Lancaster, White Chapel.
4. Mrs. Clarence McCurdy, in Silver Valley on the Abilene Highway.

The groups will stay at each place between 30 or 40 minutes to inspect the rooms.

FARM AND HOME DEMONSTRATIONS ATTRACT LARGE ENROLLMENT

COLLEGE STATION—County agricultural and home demonstration agents in 146 counties have reported an enrollment of 439 families in the Extension Service whole farm and farm home, or whole ranch and ranch home demonstration program, according to S. A. McMillan, extension economist in farm management and chairman of the committee which drew up the plan.

McMillan said that the response to the demonstration was living up to the expectations of the committee. The group contemplated the establishment of only a few well scattered demonstrations in 1937, he pointed out, and the report, although incomplete, is encouraging.

Extension district 1, the Panhandle area, leads in enrollment with 17 counties listing 54 demonstrations. Other high districts include number 4, in the Dallas and Fort Worth section, 14 counties and 52 demonstrations; and district 11, centering around Houston, with 18 counties and 49 demonstrations.

The demonstrators' first move is to list the improvements they hope to make from the front gate to the back yard over a five-year period. Extension agents report that many farm families have already completed improvements suggested by the survey.

FOOD PRODUCTION INTERESTS WEST TEXAS H. D. CLUB WOMEN

Production, preparation, and preservation of food has held the attention of West Texas home demonstration club women and 4-H club girls recently, according to the reports of county home demonstration agents of that section.

"The 26 fruit trees, 300 tomato plants, and the large variety of leafy, green and yellow vegetables which I planted this year will do much toward feeding my family," says Mrs. L. A. Stevens of Gillespie county.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens added a new one and one-fourth acre garden this year, of rich, black, loamy soil. The fruit trees they planted consisted of peaches and plums. The garden is irrigated by running pipes from the tank and placing hydrants at the lower end of the garden for convenience.

Eight demonstrations on pruning and staking tomatoes were given for 106 McCulloch county 4-H club girls during the past month. Jeanell Barrow of McCulloch county has 100 plants growing rapidly and making great gains over her mother's plants which are not subirrigated. Jeanell had in-

Guard Your Securities Investments

This is the first of a series of articles prepared by D. Leon Harp, Securities Commissioner of Texas, President of the National Association of Securities Commissioners and Director in the National Association for the Prevention of Fraud in the Sale of Securities. These articles will appear in the Santa Anna News from time to time as they are received from the office of the Commissioner at Austin.

The results of numerous national surveys show that more than eight million people in the United States are owners of corporate stocks, debentures, municipal bonds or other forms of securities.

We are, in fact, the greatest nation of investors on the face of the earth. Placed upon various estimates, it is safe to say that more than one million people in the State of Texas come within the category of securities investor. One need not look very far to see some of the results brought about by this tremendous pooling of capital. The system has provided not only a means of making money by investing money, but it has brought about the employment of hundreds of thousands of laborers and skilled workers, and has made of America the world's greatest industrial country. This growth of corporate enterprise and joint use of capital has created an economic system that affects the daily lives of each and all of us. If the bed you slept in last night was made in one of America's large furniture factories, several thousand people furnished the capital to manufacture it. If you had bacon for breakfast this morning that came from one of several large meatpacking companies, thousands of other stockholders received benefits from your investment. Very likely, the telephone you use is owned by more than three hundred and fifty thousand people. If your wife's scissors, your razor, the hoe in your garden or the wire in the fence around your farm is made of steel, manufactured by a certain American steel corporation, you made a purchase from a company owned by more than two hundred thousand people. Your radio, your automobile, your electric refrigerator, the pavement on your roads and streets, the books you read and countless hundreds of other things you enjoy were made possible by the contribution of capital, practically all of which is evidenced by some form of securities. Thus, our daily needs come from the furnishing of billions of dollars by millions of people who make money by hiring out their capital.

The issuance and sale of securities has brought about the most technical phase of our business life. Back of your stock certificate, for instance, in a large utility corporation, there are facts and figures that might well baffle the mind of any but an expert on utility financing. Not one stockbroker in a hundred knows these facts and figures. The average investor puts his money into the security upon representations made by others or through blind faith. The greater part of such financing is fair and honest, but the very nature of this plan of financing, the vastness of its boundaries and the bewildering ramifications that lead here and there has made it possible for men without conscience to cheat and defraud the investing public out of billions of dollars. Some estimates place the losses as high as two billion dollars annually—losses suffered through actual fraud.

It is the purpose of the securities laws to protect the investor against the machinations and unwholy schemes of the promoter and salesman. These laws, at the same time, offer encouragement to those who raise capital honestly and who manage corporate enterprise faithfully. Some form of a securities act has been passed by forty-seven of the forty-eight states of the Union. The Federal Government has passed regulatory acts involving the issuance and sale of securities to protect the investors of the whole country. Texas should be proud of the Act its Legislature has passed and has upheld since its enactment.

In a forthcoming article, your Commissioner will point out the main features of the Texas Securities Act and will demonstrate to the readers of this paper how it works to protect the investors against the racketeer.

It is unlawful in Texas for unlicensed dealers and salesmen to sell stocks, bonds, oil and gas leases and other classes of securities. The investor should help the state of Texas protect him against fraud by refusing to deal with unlicensed salesmen and dealers. Each licensed salesman and dealer carries with him an identification card with the seal of the State of Texas and the signature of the securities commissioner thereon.

to file applications for account numbers in order that certain identifying information can be obtained from the applications.

Every employee in covered employment must have an account number. He should get his number immediately after getting a job, and he should tell each employer for whom he works what his number is, so the employer can use it in reporting the employee's wages. If there are any employees in Santa Anna, Clark said, who do not have account numbers, they should get them immediately. All one needs to do is to go to the post office, fill out an application and the postmaster will get the number in a few days. After June 30, the post office will cease issuing account numbers. Then applications for numbers will have to be filed with the Social Security Board office at 104 Old Federal Building, Austin, and it will be a little more troublesome to get a number.

Claims

Benefits are now being paid in the following manner: Any person who has worked in covered employment since the beginning of 1937, and who has become 65 years of age since January 1, 1937, is now entitled to a lump-sum in the amount of 3 1-2 per cent of the total wages he has received between January 1, and his 65th birthday. Also, in the case of any person who has worked in covered employment after December 31, 1936, and has died, the estate is entitled to a death payment in the amount of 3 1-2 per cent of the wages received between December 31, and the date of death. Some 4000 persons in Texas are now entitled to these lump-sum and death payments, but only about 100 claims have been filed. To file a claim for payment, one need only to write the Social Security Board at Austin and advise that the worker became 65 and wishes to claim his benefit, or that the worker died, and his widow, or his child, or his executor or administrator or the guardian or trustee of his estate wishes to file claim. Then, Clark said, his office will send the simple forms that are required to be filled in and returned to the Austin office of the Social Security Board, after which the claim will soon be on its way toward adjudication.

The minimum monthly benefit that will be paid is $10, which goes to the beneficiary who has been paid only $2000 total wages, while the maximum monthly benefit will be $85 per month. To qualify for a monthly benefit, one must have earned by the time he reaches age 65 a minimum of $2,000 in total wages, he must have received these wages in some part of 5 different calendar years, and he must cease working for wages in covered employment. Benefits are based on wages received, and are figured on the basis of 1-2 per cent of the first $3000 wages received, or $15 a month, 1-12 per cent per month on the next $42,000, or $35, plus 1-24 per cent per month on the next $84,000 or $35, making a total of $85 per month maximum.

As an example, Clark said, a man now 60 years of age who works for $50 a month for the next five years till he is 65 years old, will have received $600 a year for five years, or a total of $3000. That man, when 65 years old, and when he retires, will receive a check each month for the rest of his life in the amount of $15.

A man now 20 years old, who works till he is 65 at $50 a month will receive $6000 a year for 45 years. He will have received a total of $27,000 in wages and his retirement benefits at the age of 65 will be 1-2 per cent of the first $3000 or $15, plus 1-12 per cent on the next $24,000 or $20, making a total of $35 a month that he will get for the remainder of his life each month. If that 20-year-old fifty-dollar-a-month man should save and invest enough money to yield himself a $35 a month retirement income, he would have to save the estate to a death amount of $10,500. He therefore might consider that his social security account is worth $10,000. Some employees, Clark said, do not understand the value of their social security accounts. In fact, it is reported that some employees in Santa Anna are refusing to apply for numbers. When they realize that these accounts are worth big money, they will not hesitate to get numbers. Also, the numbers are required by the law, Clark said, and therefore one cannot choose to remain out of the program. Neither can a person who is not within the scope of the program voluntarily elect to participate. If a person works in any kind of manufacturing or business establishment he is required to get a number and participate.

The Social Security Board office is in the Old Federal Building at Austin, Clark said, is prepared to answer questions regarding the problem.

Miss Bess Evans Weds C. Britton

Announcement was made this week of the marriage of Miss Bess Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans of Santa Anna, to Chester Britton of Brownwood.

The marriage took place Saturday, June 5, three days after the closing of Daniel Baker College, where both the bride and groom were students. Rev. Collins of Brownwood officiated at the ceremony which took place in that city.

Mrs. Britton is a graduate of the local high school in the class of 1932 and has been attending Daniel Baker since her graduation.

The couple is residing in Brownwood.

Father's Day Dinner At Nichols Home

A lovely Father's Day dinner was enjoyed Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Nichols with the father, B. B. Nichols as the honoree.

The home was decorated with flowers and a pink and yellow color scheme was used.

Preceding the dinner the honoree was the recipient of many lively gifts from his children and their families.

A delicious dinner was served at the noon hour; during the dessert course a large and gorgeous yellow angel food cake was served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Nichols and daughter, Hallie Ray; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nichols and daughter, Elva; Mrs. Verna Russell and son, Stanley; and Marvin Nichols.

PIONEERS OF TWO COUNTIES MEET AT RANCH RECENTLY

Many early-day happenings in this section were recalled and many pioneer stories were retold when old timers of Brown and Coleman counties met at a barbecue given by Aaron D. Lee on his ranch in the Clear Creek section of Brown county on Sunday. About sixty persons attended.

Old timers and their friends registering the date at the end of some of the names indicating the year they came to either Brown or Coleman county, were:

Baxter Featherston, Blanchard, Okl.; E. B. Tongate, Brownwood; S. P. Burns, Owens, (1872); Lee Guthrie, Brownwood, (1879); Bill Harris, Bangs, (1873); W. A. Bell, Brownwood, (1882); John Featherston,

A similar program in 1924 resulted in a saving of more than seven million dollars to Texas agriculture.

The federal material for the mash, which is composed of bran or mill run feed and sawdust, an arsenic compound, and water, would be delivered to centers of infestations and distributed under the supervision of county agricultural agents.

The threatened infestation apparently will center around northwest and central Texas, according to Reppert, who is making a tour of the State to get an accurate estimate of the situation.

house of the consumer are not the responsibility of the gas company since the company did not purchase or install apparatus into the home. Such leaks should be repaired by a plumber. The gas company is responsible for leaks only in the meter and lines leading to the main line, all of which they themselves installed.

The office force, including Alex Clarke, manager, Mrs. Theo Kirkpatrick and John Franklin Turner, will be glad to answer any questions about the installation and any information desired in regard to the malodorant.

In installing this malodorant, the company is among the first in the smaller towns to comply with this law and had plans worked out for the installation before many of the large cities.

The Coleman Gas & Oil Company has spent $50,000 in the past four months in Santa Anna improving equipment. A new main line and new lines into town have been installed recently. The Company has made many continual improvements during the twenty years in business here.

Winners Named in Contests at 4-H Rally Day

Brown Ranch Girl Wins Trip to Short Course; 10 Communities Represented at Meet Saturday

The 4-H Club Rally Day on Saturday, June 19, at the City Park in Coleman, brought to a close a most successful year of clothing work for the girls. Fifty-six 4-H club girls from ten clubs attended the Rally and brought with them the garments they had made this year.

At 10:15 a. m. Saturday, the judging of the sport dresses made by the girls was begun at the Camp Colorado Replica in the Park. The judging was done in the two classes, wardrobe demonstrators and wardrobe cooperators. Forty-six girls entered the contest—eight of the ten demonstrators in the county were present and 38 cooperators participated in the clothing contest.

Miss Clara Price, Home Economics teacher at Mozelle, and Miss Agnes Hays of Santa Anna were the judges.

In the demonstrator group the following girls scored highest: 1. Dorris Jean McKee, Brown Ranch, a well equipped sewing box. 2. Dorothy Douglas, Trickham, manuring set. 3. Joan Croom, Silver Valley, good grooming set. Dorris Jean McKee, as first prize winner in this group will get to go to Short Course at A and M College August 16-19 to enter the District Wardrobe contest.

In the Cooperators group the following girls were winners: 1. Glennie Johnson, Cross Roads, scissors. 2. Dorothy Sackett, Cross Roads, manuring set. 3. Eva Lou Henderson, Echo, good grooming kit.

Besides the 46 dresses entered in the wardrobe contest the girls exhibited 29 gowns, 14 kimonos, and 64 aprons. This exhibit was viewed by approximately 75 persons.

At 12:00 p. m. the girls, sponsors, their families, and friends had lunch. The Coleman County Home Demonstration Council served the crowd lemonade.

At 2:00 p. m. the afternoon program was opened by Judge John O. Harris, who spoke to the group, congratulating the girls sponsors, and club women on their work this year. Following Judge Harris, Miss Maurine Hearn, District Agent, spoke on the advantages of 4-H club work to Coleman County and commended the club women and girls on the progress made in the last year in the 4-H club work. Mr. R. A. Cox, Talpa, Commissioner from Precinct 4, represented the court and expresses their interest in the work being done and its advantages.

The following sponsors were introduced:

Mrs. J. W. McKee, Brown Ranch; Mrs. R. G. Gardiner, New Central; Miss Anna Laura Wilson, Leaday; Mrs. Harry Wilson, Trickham; Mrs. Harry Dibrell, Cross Roads; and Mrs. R. T. Ransberger, Happy Home Makers Club. Besides these women, the following sponsors were unable to attend: Mrs. J. E. Richardson, Concho Peak; Mrs. Carter Dibrell, Echo; Miss Nora Lee Calk, Silver Valley; Miss Iva Van Dalsem, Voss; Mrs. Burt Turney, Whon. The sponsors are to be congratulated on the work they have done this year in helping girls in attaining a high standard of workmanship in sewing, selection of good colors and becoming patterners.

There are eleven 4-H girls' clubs in Coleman County with about 140 girls enrolled. It is hoped that 1938 will bring an increased enrollment and make more clubs. All girls have showed much interest and have made noticeable progress in 1937.

Thirty-three girls wore their dresses in the Style Show. Following the show the prizes were presented by Mrs. Clyde Larance, Chairman of the Coleman County Home Demonstration Council. Mr. Curtis Collins, Commissioner of Precinct 2, and Mr. E. C. Jameson, Commissioner of Precinct 1, were also present to see the style show.

The following club girls attended the Rally:

CHAPTER I

"This room might be a man's office, stripped like this," said Anne Vincent from the flat desk where she was ostentatiously busy with a pile of bills and a check-book.

"But think how feminine it is with rugs and the curtains and the cretonne covers and the china dingbats on the mantelshelf," said Rachel, adding, as she pulled two more packages into the boxed window-seat, "Do you think I've used enough mothballs? Remember how the mice made nests in here last winter!"

Both women had spoken louder than was necessary and there was the tension of a topic avoided in their voices. The living room of the cottage was bare except for the furniture, even the bookshelves had been emptied and the pictures taken down.

Anne twisted about to look at Rachel's packing. "You put in the whole two boxes? That'll surely be enough. It was Mrs. Kreef's fault—the mice, I mean."

"Poisonous woman!" said Rachel and banged down the lid of the window seat. "Every time I see her and that squabby sister of hers walk by I want to rush out and beat them with my tennis racket!" Her work finished, she rose and stretched her tall young slender-ness, pulled her white sweater down and adjusted her belt. She watched Anne from the corners of her eyes. At last she went over to the desk and sat on the edge of it. "Aren't you almost done?"

"There are ever so many more." "Are you checking every item?" "Yes, of course. Why don't you take a last swim? Where's Bob? I thought he asked you to go out in his boat?"

Rachel swung her feet obstinately. "You're stalling, mother. You want to get away without telling me a thing. It's no use. Bob's gone out alone and I'm not having a swim. You can just come out of that mess of eggs and potatoes and cords of wood and talk."

"Rachel, I've always told you that when you were twenty-one, if you wanted to hear—or before, if there was good reason—"

"There's plenty good reason. You're going abroad and Great-aunt Helen may hang on to you for ages!"

"If I stay more than six months you can join me. You know that." "Don't evade. It's only another year till I'm twenty-one and I'm just as mature and sensible now as I will be then. The way you act I'm beginning to feel as if there was something perfectly rotten—"

Anne Vincent's protesting hand stopped her. "Darling, no! Don't say such things. There's nothing rotten or foul or poisonous or any other of your favorite bad adjectives about it—really. Give you my word."

"Then why do you want to hold out on me?" "Maybe I'm a little jealous."

"Mother, darling lamb, don't be ridiculous. Jealous of what?"

Anne's grasp tightened. "I'm afraid I'm jealous of your interest in your real mother, Rachel. I'd like you not to think of her."

"But I don't think of her as my mother. I don't. She's never thought of me as her child, that's evident enough. She was glad to get rid of me. Wasn't she?"

"I can't answer yes or no; it's not as simple as that." Anne considered the sea a moment longer, wondering, doubting, uncertain. If she could only understand Rachel's urgency! Then she resolved. "I see I'll have to explain things, I don't want you to be getting strange notions. Let's go down to the beach; it's so dreary here with everything packed."

They linked arms as they stepped off the terrace before the low shingle house which had been their home for ten summers. It was the last but one of the straggling village street, there was only the roadway between it and the dunes. The single house beyond theirs was an ugly square high-elbowed thing with stiff small-bordered walks, and a gypsy kettie on a tripod painted a flaming red and filled with clashing magenta geraniums, beside the front door.

As Anne and Rachel crossed the road this front door opened swiftly and a little anxious man hailed them.

"You be out some time, Miss Vincent?"

"I don't know exactly, Mr. Kreef," said Anne, "but you can go in and turn on the radio."

"Thank you, ma'am. There's a message on the radio about a fire at the school and a bus full of children was sent to the hospital. I want to go and see if I can't do anything for them."

Malloy—he was a young clerk in the corner drugstore—and she had married him. Now remember, Rachel, I'm simply telling you the story I heard. I never met Mrs. Rhodes. Even so, I can understand what a shock this marriage was for her. If she'd had the means she probably would have had it annulled, because Elinor had lied about her age. But she could do nothing, so she took them into their cramped apartment to live with her. And from the first they weren't happy, nothing went right. Your father was apparently just a good-natured, good-looking boy with almost no education and no family, he made very little money, he wasn't ambitious, he wasn't clever. Mrs. Rhodes detested him and kept lamenting the marriage all the time, and there was Elinor herself with her beauty and her youth and her pliable unformed nature—you can see them, can't you?"

"Yes. It must have been tragic. For all of them."

"Tragic and pitiful. You must remember this of your mother, Rachel; she was very young and had married where she had no chance of being happy, not even ordinarily contented."

"Mother, you're apologizing for her!"

"I'm not apologizing, but I want you to understand her. I'll go on. They were married in June, 1915, and they stuck it out through the summer. Then Elinor discovered that you were coming and she was so frightened and her mother so angry that your father—you see, he was young too and not the sort to face anything hard and difficult, so—he ran away."

"Deserted her! But that was foul!"

"I think it was the best thing he could have done, he wasn't their kind, there was no way to work it out and—well, anyway he went. Like a good many other unsettled young men he went over to France—this was before America went into the war, remember—but he found a place as orderly in one of the hospitals and in January he came down with pneumonia. Edwin Malloy died in France and you weren't yet born. So there was poor little scared Elinor and her mother struggling along with hardly any money, anxious and not very well, not knowing what in the world they'd do with a child to bring up—it was desperate for them all."

"I can see why I wasn't welcome."

Anne disregarded this. "And when at last—no, I must put in a little here about Harry and me. I had been to the hospital a few weeks before Elinor died, of course I knew nothing about her then, I'd never even heard of her. My baby died as soon as it was born, Rachel, and one of my nurses inadvertently let me know that I could never have another. So I—I was very ill. I don't think I'd have tried to get well except for Harry, he was so wonderful to me, he put aside all he was feeling and just took care of me. When Elinor was brought in I didn't see her, she was put into a ward and I was in a private room, but we both had Dr. Ayres; he'd known Mrs. Rhodes in her previous days and she had gone to him and begged him to take care of him and poured out her troubles, so then, do you see, with my disappointment and grief for my baby and this lovely healthy child—you—

"Who wasn't wanted," put in Rachel.

"—who couldn't be cared for, he I mean Dr. Ayres, talked to Harry—and then one day they brought you in and put you in my arms and you—you went into my heart, you've darling, you were my own. You've been my own ever since. Harry loved you, too, in the same way. We asked about adopting you, there wasn't any great difficulty, and so we did it, legally of course, and in the other way too—I mean we adopted you into our thoughts and—hopes and plans and, most of all, into our love."

She was gazing out at sea so she did not see Rachel's look of contradiction.

"Now one more thing, Rachel, I've never brought you to the attention of your mother in any way, I've never even seen her except for our one talk when I left the hospital. I know that she married Peter Cayne, I saw that in the papers, and I saw her mother, Mrs. Rhodes, died a little later. Dr. Ayres told me when we were arranging the adoption that Mrs. Rhodes was incurably sick and couldn't live long. So there was one reason why she was so insistent that Elinor give up the child."

"But, mother, didn't Elinor herself mind? Didn't she want to keep me?"

"Rachel, you seem to have a sentimental streak I never noticed before. Darling, physical motherhood is a normal process of nature but it doesn't inevitably carry affection and solicitude with it. Elinor married when she was nothing but a child, her mother drilled and hammered into her all the disadvantages of her marriage and had made you seem a frightful care and handicap. Don't you see? Under other circumstances she might have clung to you through everything."

"How soon did she marry again?"

"That same year, in September."

"Has she any children by that marriage?"

"I believe there's a son."

"She's never asked to see me or tried to—to get in touch with you—to know about me, mother? Never once?"

There was a shake of fear in Anne's voice though she tried to keep it calm and even. "No, Rachel, I think she must have accepted the adoption as final, just as Harry and I did. She may have seen you secretly, I don't know. But once you were mine, you were mine, and I no more would have brought you to her attention than I would if you had been born to me. Our ways don't cross. Mr. Cayne has a great deal of money and they figure more or less in the kind of society that newspapers feature. I mean she's always a patroness for some of the big balls and they go to the Riviera or Egypt or Palm Beach in winter, and have a country place in Connecticut, they're not the top, as you young ones call it, but I'd call them fairly prominent. Mr. Cayne's in some sort of machinery business."

Anne suppressed a tremulous sigh, it had been so different, so much harder than she had ever imagined. The way Rachel had listened, the questions she had asked and their implications—all these stirred Anne with apprehension. What was behind all this? What was going on in Rachel's mind? How far away and strange the girl seemed. It wasn't much more than a week ago that Rachel had suddenly begun to inquire about her parents, the people of her own blood, and had insisted on knowing the truth about them, not much more than a week, and at the very time when their usual easy summer round had been broken into by preparations for leaving the cottage and for Anne's journey to France and the separation it entailed from her daughter.

"It seems to me I've told you all I know, Rachel," she said, dully. "I've tried not to impute motives or make guesses appear as facts."

"I wish you'd tell me again how she looked when you saw her. And I'd like to know what she said, and what you said—exactly."

"I don't know if I can remember exactly what we said, but I'll try. They put me in a wheeled chair because I was still weak, and the nurse wheeled me into the ward. She was sitting up in bed, she had on the high-necked common hospital gown and a blue dressing gown over it, cheap woolly stuff but a lovely color, like her eyes. Her hair was loose, very dark against the pillow. She—she looked at me with a good bit of curiosity and she smiled. She looked like a child! But what we said was so trivial—"

"Can't you recall any of it?"

Anne hesitated, because she must tell Rachel a lie. "I believe she said you were healthy and I—well—said something about wanting you very much and that I'd take care of you. I told her that I wanted to leave the hospital within the week and hoped that everything could be arranged before I went, and she said her mother would know about that. All the time I was there I was thinking of her beauty, it was so arresting and so—complete. We shook hands when I left and her hand was soft and delicate, yet very alive."

Rachel was gazing down at her own hands, long and strong and brown. "I don't want to know anything more right now," she said. "Mother darling, you were sweet to be so patient. I didn't realize it would be so hard for you."

"She knows more of what's going on in me than I do about her," thought Anne. Then aloud: "It wasn't so very hard, I suppose. You had to hear it some day, I suppose. She rose and brushed the sand from her skirt. 'I'm going back and finish up the bills and tell Mr. Kreef he can use the radio this winter. Coming along?'"

"Not right yet. If Bob comes back we might go out and fish a little before dinnertime."

Anne walked back alone over the dunes remembering what Rachel's mother had said that she would not tell Rachel. The little creature had been self-possessed and callous. "It's odd," she had said, "that your baby died and mine didn't. It ought to have been the other way round." Even now Anne could not recall that cool smiling speech without a stab of angry loathing.

Another trouble with the world is that man has developed enough skill to destroy it and not quite enough sense to save it.

Most of these schools were transferred last year although the last named will become effective for the first time during the 1937-38 school term.

Schools to teach through the 7th grade will include: Cotton, Liberty, Mukewater, Line, Folk, Junction, Silver Valley, Cleveland, Shield, Leaday, Anderson, Indian Creek, Echo and Goldsboro.

Schools that will teach all 11 grades include Burkett, Novice, Talpa, Buffalo, Mozelle, Centennial, Rockwood, Santa Anna and Coleman.

All elementary schools in the Mozelle and Centennial rural high school districts will teach seven grades.

Mr. Beard explained that the classifications could be changed by the Board before the beginning of the next school term. The Board will be glad to discuss proposed changes with any person or delegation that might want a change made.

Albert Gibson and Cecil Stovall of Silver Valley and Alton Stovall of Mt. Vale asked the board to transfer the Mt. Vale students to Silver Valley during the next school term and asked that T. B. Chambers be appointed bus driver. The latter request was granted but trustees of the two school districts will have to sign contracts before the other requests can be granted.

E. L. Allison, Bob Stewart, Tom Bryant and Roy Stafford, all of the Rockwood area, all requested that the Rockwood school be continued through the Concho Peak community. The request was granted.

The Board named J. H. Arant, J. E. Gray, O. C. Yancy, Dan Wheatley, E. M. Whitley, M. A. Richardson and Tom Stewardson as trustees of the recently consolidated Shield school district.

June Bride of '37 Upsets Tradition And Tells Grandma a Thing or Two

Don't pity the bride — imitate her! Don't pine because her tulle veil must be exchanged for kitchen gingham—she'll probably wear shorts! Don't brush up on jokes about bride's leaden biscuits; she turns out feathery ones with a speedy new method. Don't patronize her cake and gingerbread; she makes them perfectly in five minutes with the new ready mixes. Don't worry over her first meals; all the food purveyors are busy helping to tell her what to serve. And as for her being a butterfly turned moth, put it right in the don't-give-it-a-second-thought department; modern appliances will keep her high-flying!

It's hard on the joke-makers, this new scheme of things, and it may upset traditionalists. But grand-daughter reverses procedure and now figuratively tells "her grandmother how to raise ducks."

Brides of '37 or brides of '97; all brides that were and brides to be will find something old or new or borrowed to keep the blue on the budget ledger from the recipes following.

Bride's Quick Biscuit (Good for Shortcake Too)

- 2 cups flour
- 4 teasp. baking powder
- 1 teasp. salt
- 1-4 cup mazola
- 3-4 cup milk (about)

Sift together dry ingredients. Combine mazola and milk and stir into dry ingredients, using enough milk to make soft dough. Remove dough to well floured board and pat until smooth. Cut into rounds and bake in hot oven, 450 degrees F. ten to twelve minutes.

Can't-Fail Devil's Food (Every Groom Loves 'Choclit' Cake)

- Based on Mary Washington's recipe for "Black Cake," the packaged Washington's devil's food mix makes layer, loaf or cup cakes. For the cup cakes use 3-4 cup of water; add 1-4 of the water to the contents of a package of the mix, stir vigorously until free from lumps; stir in remainder of water and pour mixture into well-greased muffin tins; bake 20 minutes. The little cakes may be served plain, frosted or topped with ice cream or whipped cream for tea or dessert.

Sauteed Bananas (To Serve for that First Dinner)

One thing every bride should know is the versatility of bananas. In desserts, pies, cakes, salads, muffins, atop cereal, for shortcake—bananas star at evitate her! Newest way to serve them is cooked—with the main course as a vegetable. To sautee bananas peel, cut bananas into quarters or lengthwise halves. Heat 1 or 2 tablespoons of butter in frying pan. Fry bananas, turning them until brown and tender. Sprinkle with salt if desired. Serve very hot.

Orange Blossoms (Always in Season)

- 2 cups water
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tbsps. lemon juice
- 2 tbsps. gelatin
- 3-4 cup canned Florida orange juice
- 2 cups whipping cream
- 2 doz. lady fingers
- 1-2 lb. marshmallows
- 1 cup nutmeats

Candied orange peel. Boil sugar and water 20 minutes; dissolve gelatin in cold water; add to boiling sugar and water. Add lemon juice and canned Florida orange juice and chill for one hour. Beat chilled mixture with wire whisk; add whipped cream to which has been added cut marshmallows and nuts; beat mixture thoroughly. Select mold with straight sides (or use straight-sided pan). Line with waxed paper and arrange lady fingers around edge, rounding side out; place other lady fingers between filling. Chill until thoroughly set. Unmold and decorate top with cut marshmallows and candied orange peel to represent flowers. Cut in wedges to serve.

"At-Home" Supper Salad (When Dinner's for Six)

- 1 pkg. gelatin
- 1-4 cup cold water
- 1-2 cup hot water
- 1 cup canned Florida grapefruit juice
- 1-4 teasp. salt
- 1-4 cup sugar
- 12 whole pecan nutmeats
- 1-2 cup celery, diced
- 24 stuffed olives, sliced

Pour cold water in bowl; sprinkle gelatin on top. Add salt, sugar and hot water and stir until dissolved. Add canned grapefruit juice. Pour a little of the liquid jelly in individual molds, rinsed in cold water. Chill. When thickened slightly, arrange a ring of sliced olives with a pecan in the center on the jelly molds. When remaining jelly has stiffened, stir in rest of olives and celery, and fill molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce and garnish each salad with mayonnaise and whole pecan nutmeats. Makes six servings.

BUFFALO SCHOOL CONTRACT LET TO ABILENE COMPANY

Old Structure to Be Left Standing for Time Being

Contract for construction of a new school building in the Buffalo community, to be built on the same grounds with the present building, was let Monday, June 14, to Abilene Construction Co. at $23,600.

Plans drawn up by W. E. Love, Fort Worth architect, stipulate a 12-room brick and tile structure of one story. The contract, as let Monday night, includes the complete building, including blackboards, plumbing and electric wiring. Work is due to start in from two to four weeks, it was stated.

In order to keep expenses within the contract price, it was necessary to temporarily abandon plans for building a home economics cottage at this time. It was originally planned to raze the old building and use part of the materials in the cottage. Since the change in plans, the old structure will be left standing, for the time being.

rible place. We knew Africa and South America had snakes large enough to swallow a man or horse and had tarantulas as large as saucers, but not such big snakes so near us. We decided we were stuffed geese—that the snake was too big.

We had been told that two of Waco's best men, Col. George A. O'Brien and Capt. R. G. Piddocke had fought the Indians at Santana mountains.

Mr. Walter Erath, son of Major George B. Erath for whom Erath county was named had a bunch of cattle on Mukewater and traded to our Waco friends for their home there. The Merrills moved here and often wrote of Coleman county to us till they, with Rev. E. B. Bloys, moved to Fort Davis where the Merrills have a hereford ranch. My oldest brother, C. A. Chambers and family had a home six miles below Thickham and Mother came to visit them. She arrived on the day of the sale of town lots. It was a cold day in May and the pretty girls here and from nearby towns looked very cold in their white dresses.

Mr. John Parker heard a lady wanted to go down in the country and found a man with a two horse wagon to take her for five dollars.

The following September she came again for a visit and boarded at the Brooks Hotel in the gap. She certainly enjoyed the singings the young people had in the Brooks home. The Brooks family could sing. They now reside near Bangs.
