RAMBLING AROUND

By JOHN C. GREGG

Mrs. Gregg and I were in Merkel, Texas on Saturday to attend the dedication of a new Post Office building. The impressive ceremony was attended by a number of Postmasters from over the area, as well as J. Allen Dupree, Assistant to the Regional Director of the Post Office Department in Dallas.

Congressman Omar Burleson was present and delivered the dedicatory address. One of these fine days we hope to have a new or remodeled Post Office facility in Santa Anna. Just how long this will be is a good question though.

We have enjoyed a few more light showers throughout the area during the past few days. The country side is greening up and beginning to look pretty good. Most farmers and ranchers seem to think if a good general rain would come our way within the next few days, they could still make a fair grain crop. Most of the cattle raisers are still having to feed everything their cattle have to eat, but some grazing will be available in another few days.

Recently a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Talley of Santa Anna and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen of Delmar, New York, Art Allen, who is in the Navy aboard the aircraft carrier USS America, visited an orphanage in Naples, Italy. The following article appeared in "The Telescope" publication of the First Methodist Church in Delmar, N.Y. describing the visit.

PERSONAL FROM CASA MATERNA

The following is an excerpt from a letter just received from Dr. Sant'Al Casa Matera Orphanage, Naples, Italy. Our Church School children and youth support two orphans, Rosa and Domenico, at this home.

"You will be pleased to know that Rosa and Domenico has some visitors on Saturday, a boy from your church, Art Allen and one of his shipmates from the aircraft carrier USS America. They stayed here for many hours and saw the home and had dinner with the children. What is more important, however, they had the opportunity to spend many hours with the children and to see how they live and what they do. Rosa, being a little girl, was very shy at first but got more friendly as the day wore on. She is a lovely child. Art gave her two packages of Lifesavers and when we went to visit the infirmary she gave one whole package to the little boy who was staying there for a few days. She was also pleased to have a photograph of herself with Art, especially since he had a Polaroid camera and she could see immediately the results.

We had to wait for Domenico to come home from school, as he goes out to the junior high school. He too was very pleased to have some visitors. He was very helpful in showing the Casa to our new friends. He escorted them to the canteen class to show them how this art is done. We all had a very enjoyable day.

It was on the same day that 50 of our children had a visit to an English aircraft carrier. This was the first English ship we have visited in a long time. The sailors were dressed as pirates and had an amusement park in one of the hangars. The children had a really enjoyable time. We then had tea with biscuits, cakes, and all the ice cream one could eat. Next there was a cartoon show and candles and photos of the ship before we made our way back to the Casa.

Again, our thanks for your continuing support. All the children join me in sending you warm wishes.

Our children have contributed $125 so far this year and additional gifts from the congregation are always welcome.

SCREW WORM REMINDERS

With the arrival of warmer weather and some moisture, livestock owners are reminded that the spring season poses a real threat for re-infestation of screw worms if ranchers relax their vigilance, say officials at Mission. They emphasize the importance of this close observation and urge producers to continue to treat all animal wounds, collect worm samples and send to the Mission Lab for positive identification.

Texans Must Consider Community Property Law in Filing Tax Returns

Dallas — The income tax instructions mailed to taxpayers do not tell the whole story for married taxpayers in Texas. Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of the Dallas District, points out that married couples in Texas must consider the Texas Community Property Law in determining what they should report on their income tax return. They must distinguish between what is community property and income and what is separate property and income if they plan on filing separate returns.

In filing separate returns each must take into account half of the community income and deductions, and all of his or her separate income and deductions, to determine the proper tax on separate returns. Each may claim only his own exemptions and deductions. A dependent supported with community funds may be claimed by either spouse—however, an exemption may not be divided by the taxpayers.

Mr. Campbell says that—contrary to other states—a non-working wife in Texas is liable for filing an income tax return and paying the tax due on 1/2 of her working husband's income, unless they file a joint return that is signed by both husband and wife. Determining the exact amount of community income and deductions becomes very important in divorce cases. The husband and wife are each liable for income tax on 1/2 of the income from the salaries of both and are each entitled to 1/2 of the deductions up to the date of divorce. Each is naturally liable for his or her own separate income after the date of divorce.

Document 5192, explaining the community property law effect on income tax, is available at IRS offices for taxpayers who need additional information to claim the proper dividend exclusion, capital loss, or retirement income credit.

Taxpayers who are concerned about the community property effect on their income tax return should call the Internal Revenue Service for help.

Jan. Service Station Burglaries are Solved

W. J. SMITH

Sheriff W. J. Smith announced early this week that the burglary of three local service stations and two in Coleman the night of January 3, 1967 was solved with the apprehension of Bobby Joe Mann of Abilene in the Benjamin, Texas area last week. Mann admitted all five of the breakins.

Mann, 24 years old, gave a complete signed statement to the county officials after discussing his situation with the District Attorney while in the Knox County jail.

Mann said he was born in Sandia, Texas and that he presently called Abilene his home. He fully described how he entered each of the five service stations, where the cigarette machines were in each station, where he parked his car and the approximate time. His description of each station and the manner of entry, the things disturbed in each station were exactly the way the police reports indicated they were.

Burden Mobil Service Station was hardest hit in the burglary. About $76.00 was taken from the desk and the cash register and about $16 from the cigarette machine. Horner Service Station reported about $58.00 was taken from his cigarette machine, but his biggest loss was repairs to the cash register. Bengel's Premier Service Station lost about $20.00 from the cigarette machine. All entries were by breaking the glass in the front doors and opening the door by reaching in and unlocking them.

Sheriff Smith said Mann would be charged by the District Attorney early this week and would be brought to Coleman to face the charges at a later date.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Austin — Texas cities now have won at least half of their battle for authority to levy a one per cent sales tax.

Both houses of the Legislature passed the bill. It's now ready for the Governor's signature. Final step is approval by local voters.

Failure of the bill to obtain a two-thirds majority vote of the Legislature means that the law cannot go into effect until 90 days after adjournment. This means that it probably will be September before any city can hold an election on the subject.

Approval over heavy opposition was a major victory for Gov. John Connally and officials of the Texas Municipal League Legislative presiding officers Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and House Speaker Ben Barnes also strongly backed the controversial bill.

These are important features of the bill:

- Tax can be levied only on those items covered by the present two per cent sales tax. (It will not fall on auto purchases.)
- City governing bodies can submit the issue to election on their own motion or by a petition of voters.
- Voters can also petition to get rid of the levy after two years.
- State comptroller will supervise collection (along with state sales tax) and refund one per cent, less administration costs, to the cities.

Passage of this bill, sponsored by Rep. John Traeger of Seguin and Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso, is viewed as having one effect not intended by some of the strongest backers: it likely will make any increase in state sales tax this year more difficult if alternate revenue programs fail.

FEED LOT BILL RIPPED, PASSED

A "version" of the bill by Rep. Tom Holmes of Granbury to license cattle feeder operations cleared the House. But it was hardly recognizable.

Led by Reps. Bill Finck of San Antonio, Felix McDonald of Edinburg and Jim Nugent of Kerrville, opponents tacked on amendments that would make licensing strictly voluntary and would remove the protection against nuisance suits on findings of inspectors.

Provisions in Holmes' original bill would have made the law mandatory for feed lots having capacities of 1,000 or more head, but smaller feed lots would be covered only if they asked to be, individually.

Holmes moved the bill to final passage, even though it had been rendered virtually meaningless. Apparently he's hoping for a better fate in the Senate, then beefing up by a conference committee.

WILDLIFE WEEK

Bills strictly for the birds and the bee-keepers have been passed by the House.

One would remove pelicans and peregrine falcons from the unprotected bird list. Another would provide for the branding and registration of bee-keeping equipment.

A Senate committee followed up by approving a ban on commercial exploitation of Texas tortoises and horned lizards.

ANTI-WIRETAPPING

Telephone wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping are frowned upon by the House which passed (116-29) a control bill recommended by the Governor.

Wiretapping could be authorized on court order if evidence expected to be gained might save human life, or prevent extortion, kidnapping, armed robbery, rape or arson. Evidence thus obtained would be admissible in court.

BUGGING BY LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS

permissible without court order for a one-day period where the procedure conceivably might save a life.

Bill now goes to the Senate.

PARKS BILL PASSED

A resolution that would authorize the state to issue $5,000,000 in bonds to finance acquisition of land for state park sites was unanimously passed by the House.

A proposed constitutional amendment by Rep. Gene Hendryx of Alpine passed 149-0. It had been amended twice by the House Constitutional Amendments Committee. One amendment was minor. But the other cut from six per cent to four and a half per cent the maximum interest rate to be paid on the bonds.

Measure now goes to the Senate.

COURT SPEAKS

A divided State Supreme Court reversed an important Taylor oil land leasing case. It ruled invalid a lease which it upheld three years ago. Leasing of oil and gas rights under seven million acres or more was at stake in the decision.

High court also said a Tarrant County woman judge was wrong in refusing a legislature-attorney's request for postponement of a divorce case during legislative session. It ordered a new trial.

Court overruled a $60,815 award to a Houstonian who complained that his expensive new auto jumped the road due to faulty brakes and steering mechanism. Decision was that neither the dealer nor the manufacturer was legally responsible.

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to grant a full hearing on its recent decision invalidating the 1965 redistricting of the Texas House of Representatives. Martin said the court's ruling dissolved the Texas Legislature.

STANDARDS HEARINGS ARE SET

Texas Water Pollution Control Board has set April 12 for the last in its series of scheduled public hearings on water quality requirements.

Austin hearing will be open to all interested parties. Water quality requirements will be set for rivers, lakes, bays and estuaries and portions of the Gulf of Mexico within the territorial limits of the state.

Evidence gathered will be considered by the board in establishing standards for a permits and applications for public waters. Witnesses can contact the Austin office of the Pollution Control Board at 1100 W. 49th St., at least 10 days before the hearing.

DISTRICT ENLARGED

Middle Sabine River Navigation District will add Upshur, Van Zandt, Smith and Wood counties under legislation just signed into law.

District formed two years ago to promote moving barge traffic from the Gulf of Mexico up to Sabine River included Gregg, Rusk, Harrison and Panola counties.

CRIME RATE AT NEW HIGH

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, reports that major crime in Texas reached an all-time high in 1966.

Total was 297,810, compared with 284,249 the year before.

Murder and homicide went up 17.5 per cent, robbery 10.4 per cent, burglary 9.2 per cent, theft 3.2 per cent and auto theft 11.2 per cent.

Local, state and national efforts to curb crime, said Garrison, "will be meaningless until each person determines to make crime prevention a personal issue and lends his support to law enforcement" activities.

SHORT SNORTS

A proposal by Reps. George Hinson of Mineola and Ralph Wayne of Plainview for annual legislative sessions has been reported out of the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments with the recommendation that it be passed.

A bill by Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont to exempt Texas from daylight savings time is out of the House Rules Committee and on the floor.

Senate labor committee hearing on the minimum wage bill has been reset for April 3.

A bill legalizing therapeutic abortions received Senate Committee approval.

An equal-rights-for-women amendment again has been passed by the Senate.

Governor Connally signed into law an historic sites restoration-maintenance bill.

HOPE IN A HUNGRY WORLD

Public opinion polls generally place such things as the Viet Nam war, the cost of living and racial strife at the head of the list of great issues that concern people the most. But one growing problem over-riding all others is that of world-wide population growth. Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, speaking on this problem, called it "the most challenging crisis for the rest of this century," and he speaks with good reason. World population in the year 1837 was 1.3 billion persons. By 1957, just 70 years later, it doubled to 2.5 billion. By the year 2000, careful projections indicate a world population of 6 billion people must be provided with a minimum diet in order to exist.

In the matter of food production, the United States has become the shining hope of the world for the simple reason that it has demonstrated what modern technology can do to increase the productivity of the land. Free enterprise, coupled with revolutionary advances in the development and use of machinery, chemical fertilizers and pesticides, has produced dramatic results. Take but a few typical crops. Corn production in the 1925-29 period approximated 26 bushels per acre. In 1965, it was estimated at 72 bushels. Wheat yield per acre went from 15 bushels to 27. Cotton production has tripled in the last 30 years. Milk production per cow has nearly doubled in the same period. In the forefront of the list of tools upon which we must increasingly depend to augment agricultural production are pesticide chemicals—the wide variety of insecticides, fungicides, weed killers, rodent destroyers, and plant growth regulators available for safe use in food production, processing and marketing.

The United States, among the developed countries, faces the challenge of playing a decisive leadership role in helping teach two-thirds of the world's people how to produce enough food to feed themselves. Advanced agricultural techniques cannot be applied overnight in countries with vastly different eating habits, crop requirements and political systems. U.S. agricultural progress itself depends upon public understanding of our economic system of free markets and private enterprise. This system provides the incentive to create and apply the constant flow of technological developments on which we and the rest of the world's people depend for survival.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Through The Loophole

No doubt about it: the case was a shocker. A city alderman had been caught taking a bribe. But when he was brought to trial, it turned out that there was a loophole in the state's criminal code. By mistake, the code failed to make this particular action a crime.

So the alderman went free. As speedily as possible, the state legislature passed a new law closing the loophole. But as far as the alderman was concerned, it was too late. He had slipped safely through the law's clutches.

Does that make sense? Should the court let a man "get away with it" just because of a loophole in the law?

We have to start with one blunt fact: no law is perfect, with no loopholes at all. Human wisdom cannot foresee all the possible variations of conduct that may arise in the course of time.

Still, when a mistake in the law is so obvious, shouldn't the court stretch a point in the interest of justice? For example, in the alderman's case the court might have said, "Loophole or no loophole, this fellow has done a wrong thing and must be punished."

The trouble is a court does not have that power under our constitutional system. Judges may interpret laws, but not make them. In the words of the United States Supreme Court:

"It is the legislature, not the court, which is to define a crime and ordain its punishment."

To be sure, there is harm in letting a wrongdoer escape the punishment he deserves. But in the process, he gives society vital information—just as the escaping fish shows the fisherman where his net needs patching.

And closing even a single loophole in the law may have far-reaching consequences. Thus:

A flour company in New York once used a society girl's picture in its ads without asking for her permission. When she sued, the court could find nothing in the law that forbade such unwanted publicity. The girl's suit was dismissed.

In short order, the state legislature closed the loophole with a new law. And, as it turned out, this law was the cornerstone of one of the most significant legal developments of our times.

It was, in fact, the first "right of privacy" law in history.

Vehicle Stopping Distance Depends On Road Surface

Mongolia's great desert is called the Gobi.

The Milky Way completely encircles the world.

A recent study by a major tire manufacturer concluded that the aggregate used in building the road has a decided effect on the overall stopping distance. Coffey said, in releasing the results of the study here:

"A car traveling at 60 miles per hour," he said, "can brake to a stop at a distance varying from 150 to 600 feet, depending on the road surface."

The study reported that sandstone aggregate, which crumbles with wear and constantly exposes sharp edges, has the greatest ability to stop the car in the shortest distance. "At the other end of the spectrum," Coffey said, "the longest stopping distances recorded were on asphalt that has become hot and semi-liquid and then dampened by a light shower."

Two types of limestone aggregate commonly used in road surface construction is another example of the difference in stopping distances. One, calcitic limestone, composed of smooth grains, is easily polished with use. A test on this surface showed that it took nearly 300 feet to stop a car going 60 miles per hour, while a test on a road surface using dolomitic limestone as an aggregate showed a car traveling at the same speed could be stopped in less than 200 feet. Dolomitic limestone has a crystalline structure which makes it harder to polish, thus making it easier to stop in a shorter distance.

The AAA official said that stopping distances also vary according to the tires which are used on the vehicle. He said, however, that the best way to safeguard against a mishap is to drive with extreme care and caution at all times.

White Paper On Small Towns To Be Released

One of the highlights of the 49th Annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Del Rio April 23-24-25 will be the release of the "white paper" on small town problems, according to John Ben Shepperd, Odessa, president of the WTCC.

The "white paper" which is being prepared at this time will be distributed at the convention. It is a resume of the six hearings held recently by the Small Town Task Force, as well as conclusions and recommendations for solution of small town problems.

"It was originally intended that the report would be released sooner, but the depth and scope of the study was so great that it could not be completed prior to the convention."

Other features of the convention program will include panel discussions on agriculture, business, government and other subjects of vital interest to the people of West Texas, according to the preliminary program plans.

HIGHLIGHT CARROTS MARKET

Crisp, colorful carrots are in good supply in local markets now, and the quality and prices are excellent, says Miss Gwendolyn Ciyatt, Extension marketing specialist at Texas A&M University.

Carrots are one of the most popular fresh vegetables in the leafy green and yellow group. Good quality fresh carrots are firm, crisp, and smooth, clean, and free from blemishes. They should not have deep green shoulders, which indicates a bitter flavor, and they should be uniform in size.

Not only are carrots nutritious, they are tasty, colorful, economical and versatile either raw or cooked.

Systemic OK For Pecan Aphid Control

Texas commercial pecan producers who have awaited a simple, economical aphid control may have their answer in disulfoton (Di-Syston), a systemic insecticide that is now cleared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A systemic insecticide is a chemical which can be absorbed into a plant's sap system. When an insect feeds on the plant, it gets a dose of the poison.

John G. Thomas, Extension entomologist at Texas A & M University, says disulfoton has proven effective against the black pecan aphid and the yellow of honeydew aphids. But the material will not work on nut casebearers, tent caterpillars or other foliage feeding pests.

The chemical has been cleared at the rate of 15 to 30 pounds of the 10 per cent granular material per acre.

"We recommend use of 20 pounds per acre under Texas conditions," Thomas said.

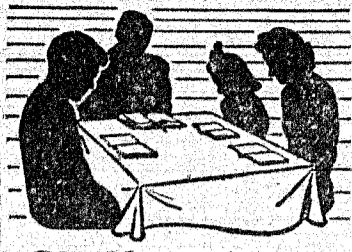

"The higher rates are required on the heavy, muck soils in the southeastern states."

Today's MEDITATION

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

Read I Corinthians 15:20-28

He will swallow up death in victory. (Isaiah 25:8)

My memory of Easter in 1943 will be forever a vivid one. Our battalion had just arrived overseas and was still in a starting area near Casablanca in North Africa.

The chaplain conducted the Easter service in an olive grove on a nearby hillside, and I thought of Gethsemane. A passing camel caravan on the crest of the hill added to the setting.

Death for some in our outfit was in the near future. But on that glorious morning our thoughts were primarily on the risen Christ and His victory over death. Home seemed far away, but Christ seemed as near as the soldier sitting on the ground next to me.

I have been even more aware of His presence in the years that have come and gone since that memorable Easter. I thank God that the resurrection enables me to walk in newness of life.

PRAYER:

Father of us all, we thank Thee that by the redemption offered through the crucified and risen Christ we are Thy sons. With joy we offer our gratitude that we can also experience the triumph over death through Jesus Christ Thy son, in whose name we pray.—Amen.

Nutrition And The Cow Herd

With spring around the corner, most Texas beef producers are in the midst of calving season. Now is when the nutritional requirements are most important due to the effect they will have on the 1968 calf crop, points out Uel D. Thompson, Extension animal husbandman at Texas A&M University.

The breeding season chores will soon be taking most of the producer's time and energy, and could well be the most important season of the year for him.

The first question producers should answer before attempting to plan a breeding program is when should the calves be born. No one can give a recommendation that is agreeable to all beef cattle producers, but keeping the best marketing dates in mind is very important. For the slaughter steer producers, their animals should be ready for market prior to June. Stocker cattle producers try to plan for an October market. All cows should be bred in a 90-day period, says Thompson.

HEALTH AND SAFETY TIPS FROM THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASS'N. Little Strokes

An often unsuspected reason for mental and physical incapacity is a series of "little strokes," says Today's Health Guide, the American Medical Association's book of health information for the American family.

A stroke occurs when the blood supply to a part of the brain is reduced or completely cut off. This can be caused by a blood clot or by a hemorrhage—bleeding from an artery in the brain. When the nerve cells of a part of the brain are deprived of their blood supply, the part of the body controlled by these nerves cannot function normally.

"Little strokes" may start when a person is in the 30's or 40's striking silently at night or passing almost unnoticed as a sudden dizzy spell, a momentary blackout, or just a few moments of confusion. The stroke itself is not severe enough to compel the patient to seek medical aid, but some permanent brain damage remains just the same.

A formerly kind, gentle person may become highly impatient and irritable. His judgment is often impaired. A strong man may become weak and prone to tears. Suspiciousness is common. A person with a tendency to emotional instability, held in check heretofore by will power, may suddenly develop a psychosis. Some become sleepy in dress and befuddled in thought, others lose a part of their moral sense. Sometimes the victim merely loses interest in his family and friends, and lives secretly, constantly hiding things that through forgetfulness he cannot find later.

When the symptoms are mild, as they often are, the person may get along fairly well. Surveys show that a sufferer of cerebral vascular disease can get along better in the slower-going farm and small-town areas than in the faster-living city.

The problem of small strokes is one of the most difficult ever tackled by medical science. The most hopeful research approach is that of finding ways to prevent a stroke. Science seeks to try to learn more about how to recognize early symptoms so treatment can be instituted promptly.

Thread Is Modern As Fabric

Durable press fabric now has its own special thread, according to Rhea Boyles, Extension clothing specialist at Texas A&M University.

"Dual Duty" thread is designed particularly for sewing durable-press knits and the stretch fabrics. Available in many sewing centers, the new thread sews and irons like cotton thread but gives the stronger, more durable seams of a synthetic thread.

The first "Dual Duty" type thread had a nylon core that is being replaced by a core of polyester covered with silicone-treated cotton. The nylon gave twisting and knotting problems in hand sewing.

The thread, size 60, comes in a range of 30 colors including black and white.

Boat Buffs Get Patrol By Wardens

Occasional periods of warm weather, stimulates fishermen and other aquatic enthusiasts, prompted the Texas Park and Wildlife Department to caution against repetition of tragedies that caused at least 236 water recreational deaths last year.

Meanwhile the department's warden patrol force is being geared for its seasonal responsibilities under the new state safety code and to help water buffs to have maximum fun with minimum risks.

Analysis of 1966 accident reports reflects positive benefits for the department's lake patrols, in that only a comparative few mishaps were traced to skiing, speed and the other action sports.

One of the major causes—accidents while fishing—became evident early last year. It applied mainly to fishing from a boat.

The other leading risk—in fact the principal reason that water deaths as unofficially totaled by the department increased by 36 over 1965—will not develop until summer because it concerns swimming.

Fishing hazards are a chronic challenge to patrolling wardens. They concentrate on prevention by checking boat rental outfits to determine that each boat occupant has a standard life belt.

The department cautioned that even with a life saving device, a person, suddenly exposed to water as cold as it is now, would incur great risk from shock and exposure.

Several of the 236 victims last year were kept afloat by life preservers but perished from the elements or other causes.

The department emphasized that just any life preserver is not acceptable and that only coast guard approved devices are adequate.

Variety In Canned Seafood

Tired of the same meat choices for lunch or dinner? Try canned seafood for a refreshing change, advises Miss Frances Reasonover, Extension nutritionist at Texas A&M University.

The canned-food shelf is a good place for the novice fish shopper to begin. These products are easy to store and easy to use for spur-of-the-moment snacks, a different luncheon menu, or even a well-planned dinner for company.

While fresh fish is not usually graded, some processed fish products carry the government inspection shield. Fish is a protein food with less fat than red meats. It offers high nutritive value in vitamins and minerals as well as protein. Shellfish is particularly rich in the minerals iron and iodine. Seafood products are generally of moderate calorie count and inexpensive as well as pleasing to the taste.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

Omar Burleson, M. C. 17th District, Texas

Washington, D.C. — In the days just ahead there will be news from Austin about the efforts of the Texas Legislature to change lines of present State Legislative and Congressional Districts.

Whatever is done in the reshuffling of Congressional District lines, will never be able to please anyone completely. The Legislature will do the best it can, and it has a tremendously difficult job.

The federal court in Houston retained jurisdiction over this matter when the Legislature redistricted two years ago, and now demands that the job be completed to meet the Supreme Court's decision on "One Man-One Vote."

Two years ago the state legislature acted responsibly and met the requirement the best possible way. They came as near to establishing Congressional Districts to provide equal population as was possible at the time. Of course, exact equality is an absolute impossibility, and the more nearly the Legislature approaches the requirement of the Court, the less community of interest there can be in a Congressional District. Presently, there are some ill arrangements, such as A&M at College Station being in the same District as T.C.U. in Ft. Worth, but, again, it was the best measure the State Legislature could pass. When the Legislature acts again, there will likely be even more conflicts, but unless they do, there is a danger of the 23 members of Congress from Texas running at large. Obviously, this would be chaotic.

At present, our 17th congressional district is approximately 9.5 per cent under the average of 417,000. Other Districts are approximately 11 per cent overpopulated, which makes a spread of a little more than 20 per cent. It is assumed that the Federal Courts will demand a more even apportionment.

On the other hand, the court has refused to indicate to the Legislature just what it expects in this regard. It gave no guidance other than to say that Districts must contain the same population.

Matters are further confused by suggesting that instead of using the official 1960 Decennial Census, which it seems is clearly contemplated by the Constitution of the United States, the Legislature may determine the number of people in a District by using any official or unofficial population figures. This indicates that the Legislature must reapportion all representative Districts, both State and Federal, every two years and come up with equal population in each District.

The success of representative Government depends heavily on the contacts between the people and their representative. Unless they know each other there can be no true and meaningful representation. If a County or a part of a County is shifted every two years from one District to another, it becomes completely impossible for the people to get to know the man who represents them as they should and for their Representative to know their problems, as it is his duty to do. The result is not better Government, but less effective representation.

The Supreme Court has indicated that not only must State Senatorial and State Representative and Congressional Districts be equal on the theory of "One Man-One Vote," but has now indicated that at every level of government, probably to include a school district, every District and Precinct must have an equal number of people.

The theory of such representative government is perfectly good, but as a practical matter, to be exact is impossible.

There is no question that this test should be met to the greatest practical degree, but the demands of the Federal Courts show how unrealistic things become when the Courts attempt to pass upon political matters.

In such a system as we have, if people and their local governments are left to their own devices, they will work out these problems in the most practical way. Theory is one thing, but a workable solution is another. Community of interest in Legislative Districts should be maintained. Grapes, bananas and onions do not mix very well with apples, when we only want apples.

Swans Favor Clay County

Henrietta — The perennial compliment to Clay County's staunch support of sound wildlife practices is being paid by a family of eight swans.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department noted that these large birds habitate only areas where proper protection is afforded.

Their size, long slender necks and completely white wings distinguish them from other big white birds such as snow geese and white pelicans, both of which have a little black on their wings.

Prevention Is Best Cure For Mildew

Prevention is the best cure for mildew, and you can prevent it by moving moisture outside your house, says Mrs. Laura Russell, area Extension specialist in housing and home furnishings.
 Most of today's houses are better built and tighter than in earlier days, according to Mrs. Russell. New construction allows inside air to pass to the outside and vice versa.
 "We constantly put moisture into the air by cooking, drying clothes, and using unvented gas-burning stoves during cool or cold weather," said the specialist. "The hydrogen in the gas combines with oxygen in the air to form water in the form of vapor," she explained.
 The vapor inside the house condenses into water in the cooler areas and on cold surfaces. Window panes, slab floors, and walls may go unnoticed until mildew forms.
 Vapor can seep through walls to the outside. It may condense on the inside of painted siding—and when the wood becomes wet, the paint can loosen and curl.
 Commercial materials such as special liquids, crystals, and paint additives are available for mildew control. Humidifiers can help. Keeping a window open for better ventilation or increasing air circulation with a fan will relieve the situation some.
 Save your paint inside and out, your wallpaper, carpeting, and clothing by venting gas heaters. Venting carries most of the moisture out of the house.

Wreck Delays Easter Visitors

Of Mrs. Golston
 Mrs. Lenora James and her daughter, Evelyn and her aunt, Mrs. Jessie Kimbrough, all of Houston, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. Rex Golston Mrs. Kimbrough sister of Mrs. Golston, was born on Mrs. Golston's seventh birthday and they celebrated their anniversary on Sunday, March 26.
 The Houston group left there in Mrs. James' car on Friday. At Hempstead they were involved in a car wreck when two youths, driving a small car, sideswiped their car and crashed into a truck. Considerable damage was done to both cars and two wheels were knocked off the truck.
 The group went back to Houston and got the daughter's car and made the trip home on Saturday. They were not injured in the accident.

THE MEDAL OF HONOR - 104 YEARS OF SUPREMACY

March 25 was the 104th anniversary of the presentation of an award so exclusive that it has been bestowed on only 3,223 of the millions of persons who have risked or given their lives for our nation - the Medal of Honor.

It is the highest recognition an individual of the Armed Forces can receive for his "gallantry and intrepidity in combat above and beyond the call of duty," according to legislation determining its presentation. On rare occasions by special congressional act it has been awarded for individual exploits during peacetime.

Hundreds of pages have been written, listing and grouping the recipients. One count shows that of the total 3,223 winners 2,207 have been to Army personnel. Another shows that in the Fourth U.S. Army five-state area there have been 108 all-services recipients: Arkansas 16; Louisiana, 19; New Mexico, 6; Oklahoma, 17, and Texas, 51.

This supreme recognition, flowered from ideas conceived by a few persons during the winter of 1861-62 at the beginning of the Civil War, and on July 12, 1862 President Lincoln approved a Senate resolution authorizing the Medal of Honor for "Army and Voluntary Forces."

The first medals were presented seven months later on March 25, 1863 to the six survivors of the Mitchell Raid through Georgia, and by the end of the Civil War there had been 1,199 presentations.

Surprisingly, there were more Army recipients in the Indian Wars (439) than in World War I and World War II combined, when 95 and 293 respectively were awarded.

Medals of Honors received by members of the Army for the Spanish-American War numbered 39; for the Philippine Insurrection, 70; Boxer Rebellion, 4; Mexican Campaign, 1; Korean Conflict, 78, and to date in Viet Nam, 3.

At first there were few legal definitions to guide the presentation of the Medal of Honor. But time brought on similar medals, changes in the military, and a rash of legislation on the Medal of Honor - also many inconsistencies.

In 1918 Congress made a set of perfectly clear rules for its award. Designated as the "Pyramid of Honor," those rules established degrees of service to the country, each worthy of recognition, but only the Medal of Honor to be accorded supreme recognition.

Dry Beans; High Protein, Low Cost

For high protein food at low cost, dry beans are recommended as a tasty meal or meal supplement by Mrs. Gwendolyn Ciyatt, Texas A&M Extension consumer marketing specialist.

A pound of dry beans will cook into at least seven servings at three-fourths cup each, or a dozen servings of rich bean soup.

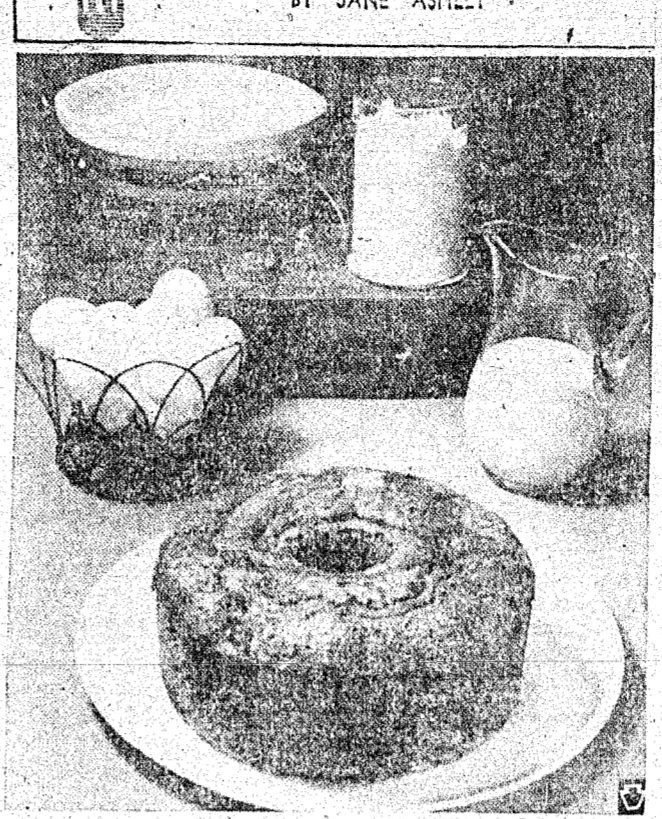

Dry beans are available in dozens of varieties, but today's specials are usually the dried pea, pinto, kidney, and great northern bean.

When looking for quality in dried beans, select those which are natural in color, uniform in size, clean, and free from pebbles or black mold.

Beans keep best in a jar or can with a tight cover. If properly stored, beans will keep for a long period of time. If you store them longer than a year they will take longer to cook.

An efficient way to prepare dry beans is to boil them in water for two minutes, then remove them from the heat and allow them to soak one hour. Then they are ready to cook.

GOLDEN TOUCH OF HOSPITALITY

Bake A Continental Cake

If you should go searching for cake recipes in Europe, you would find that many of them call for a mixture of wheat and another flour. Very often the second flour is corn flour, the continental name for what we in America call corn starch. We discovered a delicious cake using corn flour in Switzerland. It was a marble cake baked in a tube pan and like many European cakes, is served warm without any frosting. Warm or cold, this cake is good.

- Continental Cake
- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
 - 1 cup corn starch
 - 3 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 3 tablespoons cocoa
 - 3/4 cup margarine
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 4 egg yolks
 - 1 cup milk
 - 4 egg whites
- Sift flour, corn starch and baking powder together. Thoroughly blend 1/2 cup sugar and cocoa. Cream margarine and 1 cup sugar in mixing bowl; beat in egg yolks. Mix in sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. (Batter may appear slightly curdled.) Divide batter in half. Stir sugar-cocoa mixture into one portion, blending well. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form when beater is raised. Fold half into each portion of batter. Drop batters alternately by teaspoonfuls into greased 9-inch tube pan. Bake in 350 degrees F. (moderate) oven until cake tests done, about 1 hour. Serve warm or cooled. Makes 1 (9-inch) tube cake.

4-H Health Projects Give Lifetime Benefits

Special — Good health is not a "Sometime Thing" with 4-H boys and girls. They work hard at it year-round. Besides the 4th "H" stands for Health. More than 2,225,000 youth pledge their "health to better living."

Members enrolled in the national 4-H Health program are expected to: (1) get plenty of daily exercise (2) include nutritious foods in on their daily diet (3) get plenty of sleep (4) stretch mental capacities (5) acquire habits of personal cleanliness and good grooming.

State-wide supervision of the program is given by the Cooperative Extension Service. County Extension agents work with local club leaders in setting up and carrying out health projects for both the individual and the club.

National sponsor of the 4-H Health program and awards for the 12th straight year is Eli Lilly and Company. It will provide six $500 scholarships to three boys and three girls who qualify for 1967 honors. Winners will be announced during the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago next November.

Prior to the Congress one member per state will be named a delegate, and the award will be an expense-paid trip to Chicago. Thousands of members will earn the county 4-H Health medal, and individual clubs will be cited for both state and county honors.

These awards do not come easy, however. The 4-Hers must show definite progress in a health project or activity and should complete a specific phase of the program. Year-to-year records are kept by the member.

Here are examples of what two top 1966 winners did to improve their own health and that of others.

One 16-year-old boy headed community projects dealing with water pollution, immunization and drowning first-aid. As a matter of fact, one young mother who had attended the 4-H mouth-to-mouth resuscitation training sessions was able to revive her own child.

An 18-year-old university co-ed credits her work and knowledge gained in the 4-H Health program with her decision to become a social worker. Physical fitness, dental health, and eye and ear care were stressed in her projects.

No special requirements are needed for enrolling a youngster in a 4-H Club. Age limits are generally from 9 to 19 years. Parents wishing more information about the 4-H program can obtain it by calling the county extension office.

PAYS TO STAY 'BITCHED'

Married couples can look forward to a longer life together provided the marriage isn't broken by divorce or annulment. The progress made during the past half-century in reducing mortality has brought an increasing number of couples to their 50th year. A groom age 23 and a bride age 20 can anticipate an average of nearly 43 years together, according to home management specialists.

VETERANS Questions and Answers

Q—I have just been discharged from the Army. I served four years. Can I get a G. I. home loan on go to school under the new G. I. Bill at the same time?

A—Generally, yes. You should contact your nearest Veterans Administration regional office.

Q—Is a six-month reservist eligible for training under PL89-358?

A—No, since this was duty for training purposes only.

Q—I receive a widow's pension. I was not working when I began receiving the pension, but I have now secured employment. Is it necessary to report this to VA or may I wait until I receive an income questionnaire at the end of the year?

A—You should inform the VA at once so that your continued entitlement may be checked. This could prevent the creation of an overpayment, which would later have to be repaid to the VA.

Q—How many semester hours constitute full time training in a graduate school?

A—A specific number of hours for graduate college is not specified by the Veterans Administration. The determination of what is full time training is determined by the school, and would be based upon the type of the courses for which the student is enrolled.

Q—Can a veteran be enrolled in two schools at the same time?

A—Yes, when the veteran cannot get the program desired where he is attending or cannot obtain it within a reasonable time, training may be authorized at a secondary school. This can be done only with the approval and certification of the primary school where veteran is attending, and provided both programs lead to the same objective.

Q—Why is an established school sometimes not approved for VA training?

A—This may be because of several reasons—the most common being that school has for some reason never requested approval, or school does not meet one of the standards as set forth by the state concerned.

Q—Does the deduction for Medicare premiums from Social Security payments have to be reported as income for VA pension purposes?

A—Yes.

Q—Is an ex-service man who entered service after 2-1-55 entitled to VA burial allowance?

A—No, unless the peacetime veteran was in receipt of service-connected compensation at time of death or discharged or retired for disability incurred in line of duty.

Q—My friend gets maximum disability payments from the VA because of war injuries. He works for the state at a good salary and sells insurance at night. A fellow employee has challenged his entitlement to the disability payments. Is he justified in accepting them?

A—He most certainly is. Your friend apparently is receiving compensation for a service-connected disability. Outside income has no bearing whatever on compensation. The fellow employee must have confused compensation and pension—the latter being for total disability but not service-connected. Pension entitlement is based on outside income.

Q—My husband receives a disability check for wounds received in wartime. We have had several children since he was disabled, yet our compensation does not increase. Should it?

A—Only if your husband is more than 50 per cent disabled and submitted proof of additional children to the VA.

Q—My husband recently passed away. He served in the armed forces during WW II. Is he eligible for a headstone?

A—Any deceased veteran of wartime or peacetime service whose last period of service was terminated honorably is eligible for a headstone.

Federal Tax Questions And Answers

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—Does gas tax table in the 1040 instructions cover business driving as well as pleasure driving?

A—No. This table should only be used for non-business driving. If you are entitled to a deduction for your business driving handle it separately. Check page 7 of the 1040 instructions for details.

Q—Are weekends counted in the waiting period for a sick pay exclusion?

A—Yes, they are counted unless the illness began on a weekend. In that case the waiting period begins on the next work day.

Q—If you have more than one casualty loss during the year can you combine the losses so that you only have to apply the $100 limitation once?

A—No. The $100 limitation applies to each separate casualty.

Q—Is there any limit on what you can claim under the minimum standard deduction?

A—Yes, the limit is $500 for married persons filing separately and $1,000 for single persons or married couples filing jointly.

Q—Am I taxed on what I received on the sale of a house?

A—Profits made on the sale of a residence are taxable. However, if another home is purchased within a certain period that costs the same or more than the adjusted sales price of the old one you sold, payment of the tax may be postponed. There are also rules on home sales by those 65 or older.

Details on these provisions of the tax law are given in IRS Document No. 5017, "Selling Your Home." Send a post card to your District Director for a free copy.

Q—Is a man entitled to claim something for child care expenses?

A—Yes, under certain circumstances men as well as women are entitled to use this provision of the law.

Q—I got a refund on my state income tax last year. Do I have to declare that as income?

A—Yes. Refunds of state income tax deducted in a prior year are income. However, Federal income tax refunds are not taxable but interest on them is.

Q—I just moved. Should I notify you of my new address since I'm expecting a refund?

A—Yes, it will avoid delays in receiving your refund.

Q—My wife worked a little last year. Since there was no withholding on her salary does that mean we do not have to pay tax on it?

A—No. Income is taxable whether or not it is subject to withholding.

Q—My 14-year-old boy has earned several hundred dollars on his paper route. Does he have to report it or do I since he is my dependent?

A—If your son earned $600 or more last year he is required to file a tax return. You should not report his earnings on your return even though he is your dependent.
