TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex. — Texas legislators are at work on Gov. John Connally's recommendations for raising $144,200,000 in new taxes which include a "surprise" proposal to legalize the sale of liquor by the drink.

His local-option, mixed-drink endorsement was the major bombshell in an otherwise predictable package on boosts or adjustments in old standby sales and business taxes and a transfer of farm-road financing to the highway fund.

House Revenue and Tax Committee hearings are due to get underway immediately. Legislative leaders acknowledge some bitter controversies are upcoming for the first major revenue program advanced since Connally took over the governor's office.

In his 25-minute speech to a joint session of the House and Senate, Connally outlined his views on how to raise the $971,500,000 necessary to carry out his general revenue spending program for the next two years.

Here in summary, is the governor's tax program:

Repeal the sales tax exemption on all alcoholic beverages, effective on July 1. (Should yield $26,000,000.)

Increase the gasoline tax 1¢ a gallon (from 5¢ to 6¢), effective July 1. (Since $24,400,000.)

000 of the additional revenue automatically would go to the available school fund, general revenue of this amount would be freed for legislative appropriation. Tax raise would add $73,200,000 to the State Highway Fund.)

Repeal the 1949 Colson-Briscoe Act's general revenue allocation of $15,000,000 a year to farm-to-market roads and leave financing of these roads to the highway department. ($30,000,000 general revenue gain.)

Tax distilled spirits and wine sold by the drink at licensed establishments five-cents-an-ounce. ($15,000,000 gain.)

Increase the corporation franchise tax rate from $2.25 per $1,000 to $3. ($30,900,000.)

Raise the natural gas production tax from seven to eight per cent of wellhead value, effective July 1. ($17,800,000.)

Connally said he had tried to fashion "an equitable plan which will impose the least possible burden upon the individual and business taxpayers of this state."

He emphasized that he recommends legalizing liquor by the drink only on a local option basis and under "strict regulation" with punishment by revocation of licenses for repeat sales of liquor to minors. He hit at the existing "subterfuge" which now permits serving of mixed drinks through "so-called private clubs."

"It is time to bring this matter into the open," the governor said. "It is my considered opinion that a farmore-wholesome climate will prevail if liquor can be sold by the drink, legally and under tight regulation."

Connally got his biggest applause when he said he would NOT recommend a state college-university tuition increase.

PAY HIKE URGED
The Legislature has unanimously petitioned the governor to submit as an emergency an interim pay raise for all state employees.

Connally did not mention this request in his address.

however. If such a raise would be voted, to take effect immediately, another $5,500,000 in general revenue would have to be raised.

Connally's budget includes an overall-average 20 per cent pay raise for the state government workers, effective September 1.

It is not an across-the-board 20 per cent raise. Raises would vary widely by salary groups. For example, lower paid workers would be raised from $2,640 a year to $3,024 (approximately 12 per cent) and those in highest classification from $12,830 to $17,784 (nearly 39 per cent). This means a $32 a month raise to the little fellow and $412 per month in the high salary brackets.

Connally last week added $19,000,000 to his spending recommendations for another purpose—to raise to the maximum authorized by a 1963 constitutional amendment welfare grants for the needy, aged, blind, families with dependent children and the disabled and to implement the Title 19 program of federal-state aid to the indigent.

AG REPORT
Texas Agriculture is failing to attain its reasonable production potential by as much as a billion dollars a year, the house Interim Committee on Agriculture has found.

"This suggests that Texas agriculture is now operating at only one-half to two-thirds of its capability," the report says.

Committee made three recommendations. They are to set up a Coordinating Board to set agriculture goals, compile annual ag-business statistics, county-by-county, for planning and programming, and pass legislation to permit agriculture to provide funds of its own for research and promotion.

ATTORNEY GENERAL SPEAKS

Students at state-supported colleges no longer are required to take a "loyalty oath" in the opinion of Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin.

Martin said the 1949 act which required the oath of students and faculty was altered in 1953 by a law which covered only paid employees of the school. Some legislators are considering a bill to put students back under the law.

In other opinions, Martin held: District court judges who are members of county juvenile boards must be paid an additional $325 a month in salaries, and county commissioners cannot pay less.

A person convicted of a felony and given a suspended sentence is not barred from applying for and receiving probation under the misdemeanor probation act.

Texas inheritance tax provision concerning use of the "resident decedant's" entire estate wherever situated as a factor in determining the rate to be applied to succession of property is constitutional.

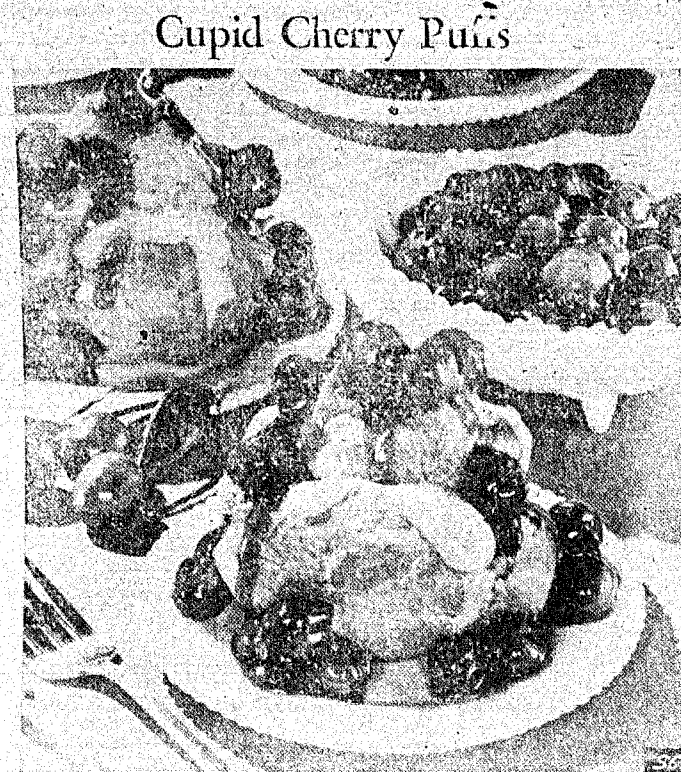

TO HAVE OR NOT TO HAVE
The on-again, off-again proposal to make Guadalupe Mountain lands into a national park is off again, but perhaps only temporarily.

A halt that slowed the progress of Texas' transfer of Guadalupe Mountain lands came when Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler went before the Senate Committee on Counties and urged that the rugged lands be made into a state park.

Committee had voted to report the bill favorably, subject to insertion of a corrective amendment if needed.

Possible amendment would provide a safeguard against any subsequent federal legislation that might deprive the state of its bounty in the event of oil or mineral production.

Sadler, however, presented his views and summed up with a declaration that minerals alone, "in a short period of time would more than pay for the total cost of the establishment of a state-owned park in the Guadalupe

Committee members directed that the bill be held back for a hearing and further action later.

REDISTRICTING CLOUDED

Two recent Supreme Court decisions invalidating congressional districts of 12.8 and 10.4 per cent population disparities in Indiana and Missouri may renew the reapportionment fight in Texas.

House Speaker Barnes fears the court may turn down the 1965 Texas redistricting acts. Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham, chairman of the House Redistricting Committee, hopes to discuss the matter with a Houston Federal court which passed on the Texas act and indicated some disapproval but never issued any standards of population tolerance.

Mutscher proposes to appoint three study groups on guidelines for congressional districting, standards for reapportionment of the House and to sample opinions of legislators on districts for their areas.

SHORT SNORTS

Texas has intervened in the suit filed in the U.S. District Court of Maryland against W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Labor, Testing the constitutionality of an amendment to the Fair Labor Standards Act, applying federal minimum wage laws to state hospital and college employees.

A. C. Turner of Walker County has been named by Judge K. K. Woodley of the Court of Criminal Appeals to another term on the State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Board of Pardons and Paroles has elected Pat Bullock of Colorado City as Chairman for the two year term ending Feb. 1, 1969, and James Berger of Austin has been named Director of Parole Supervision for the State of Texas.

Texas Highway Department officials say more than 6,700,000 motor vehicles will be registered in Texas in 1967, and car owners are urged to purchase their license plates early.

Senate confirmed Burton G. Hackney, Brownfield, as state commissioner of public welfare.

State Board of Insurance, in new report, defends the often-criticized auto-rate regulation practices.

Prevent Home Burglaries With Simple Precautions

Many burglaries of homes and apartments in Texas can be prevented if simple precautions are taken states the Insurance Information Institute.

The Institute's southwest regional office in Dallas lists these burglary - preventive steps:

1. If you are away from home, don't advertise it. Tightly drawn shades, notes to the milkman and accumulated newspapers are a dead giveaway even to the inexperienced housebreaker.
2. Whenever you leave your home—even if only for a few minutes—lock doors and windows.
3. When you are out at night, keep a few lights lit.
4. Never leave a house key under a doormat or over a door. These are the first place a burglar will look.
5. Keep your garage door closed and locked at all times, whether you are home or not.
6. Door hinges should be on the inside, to prevent a burglar from forcing them with a crowbar.
7. Heavy screening on windows and sturdy double locks on door make forced entries more difficult.
8. Careful attention should be paid to securing basement doors.
9. Large amounts of cash, jewelry and stamp and coin collections should be kept in a safety deposit box or adequate safe.
10. Locks should be changed when moving into a new apartment or when a key has been lost.
11. Don't leave ladders lying around where they can be used by a would-be housebreaker.
12. Be cautious when a stranger comes to the door. Women at home alone should be particularly careful. Use a "night" door chain.
13. Before leaving on a trip, notify neighbors and police so they can keep an eye on your house. Discontinue deliveries of newspapers and milk. If you will be on a long trip, arrange to have the lawn mowed.
14. Keep a record of the serial numbers of such property as typewriters, firearms, photographic equipment, bicycles, etc., to aid police in the event you are burglarized.

15. Always report burglaries and attempted break-ins to the police and cooperate with officers investigating crimes in your neighborhood.

'67 Duck Outlook Is Favorable

The successful waterfowl season just ended could blend its continued favorable duck and goose populations for next fall, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department observers along the Gulf Coast.

They report that, although the duck harvest was the best in ten years, and the overall goose bag was substantial, there is a heavy wintering area carry-over poised to return to northland nesting areas come spring.

In fact, the concentrations of geese are so great in some areas that sprouting grain fields are being raided.

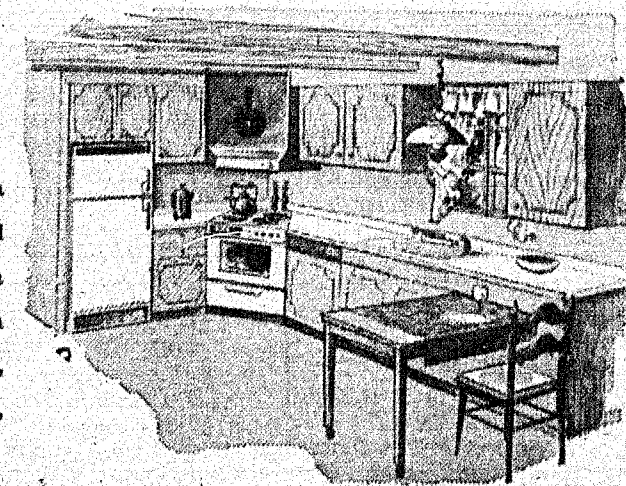

C. D. Stutzenbaker, department biologist majoring in waterfowl management said the big birds are so hungry for green growth that they are passing up grain used to bait traps for the spring banding routine.

He described coastal marsh conditions ideal in many of the areas for both ducks and geese, especially along the upper coast. He said water is so plentiful the ducks are well dispersed, reducing the danger associated with overcrowding, such as botulism.

Today's MEDITATION From The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

© THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Read Hebrews 4:9-16. We have not a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sinning. (Hebrews 4:15, RSV)

A minister I know has to walk by aid of a pair of crutches at all times. When he goes into a sickroom in a home or a hospital, immediately the people feel a oneness with him. They know this is a man who feels for them not in words alone. He has been where they are. He can understand them.

The Son of God restricted Himself in becoming a human being. He knew hunger and weariness, loneliness and betrayal, trouble and pain. He was tempted and knew the full agony of temptation.

Therefore when we talk to Jesus Christ, we know that He understands us. He has been where we are. He understands the conditions of our lives and needs, and the needs of others for whom we pray. We can come to Him with confidence in any human situation, knowing that He understands and cares.

PRAYER:

Our Father, we thank Thee for Thy Son Jesus, who knows our weaknesses and our strength and loved us enough to give Himself for us, even while we were yet sinners. Forgive us and make us strong, for we come to Thee and offer our prayer in His name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

I can pray with confidence because God understands. William K. Webb (Massachusetts)

Rare Snow Gets Snub From Birds

The historic January snowfall in deep South Texas caught Bensten-Rio Grande State Park with two full houses.

The camping facilities were at peak population. Ditto the bird population.

Park Chief Luhe McConnell said: "It caught us at just about saturation all the way around."

What this means birdwise was indicated by his report that the recent one-day winter census yielded 140 different feathered species in that area.

Yet the weather phenomena didn't panic not even a song bird. And the visitors known to the trade mainly as snow birds were refugees from northland rigidity. Some of the Canadian border state natives were grinning at the hometown radio-tv reports of three feet of snow on the level and then snickered at the feverish counter-measures so elaborately proclaimed for the scant inches decorating the green semi-tropical Valley.

McConnell kept his 25 bird feeding stations well stocked with scratch feed and suet.

That took care of most of the birds. He said the insect eaters and worm eaters would catch up quickly when the normal 70-80 degree weather returns.

One handicap to some of the migrants was the shortage of native beans caused by last year's heavy rainfall. But McConnell said there is a limited supply of hackberries for the hungry songsters.

It was a tranquil setting despite the rationing pinch. And those crazy-quilt tracks in the skimpy snow were from intrepid guests happily noting a green jay with its green and yellow body plus dark head featuring a delicate red eyeband. Or a Kiskadee Flycatcher's brown and yellow body, all contrasting with the unseasonal landscape.

Car Tags Will Help Advertise 1968 HemisFair

Texas passenger car license plates for 1968 will carry an invitation to visit with San Antonio's HemisFair.

The Texas Highway Commission today directed that the slogan, "HEMISFAIR 68" be included on the 1968 license plates, scheduled to go into production soon.

HemisFair will begin a 6-month run on April 6, 1968. Government, industry and business leaders have joined in helping develop and promote the event, planned as a "fair of the Americas."

Recent estimates by independent research agencies indicate that almost 11 million persons will visit the extravaganza.

On HemisFair and the recent World's Fair at Seattle have been granted official designation as international expositions in this decade. HemisFair was approved by the official international sanctioning body for world fairs.

The Highway Commission in its action noted that the U. S. Congress has appropriated $6.75 million for construction of a U. S. pavilion. The Texas Legislature has set aside $4.5 million for a permanent Institute of Texas Culture on the HemisFair site.

Foreign nation exhibits in HemisFair will be official displays of the respective governments.

"The HemisFair will bring national and international recognition to Texas," the Commission order said. "A successful HemisFair will add millions of dollars to the Texas economy from out of state and foreign visitors."

The Highway Department already has made plans to devote one side of its 1968 Official State Highway Map to publicizing HemisFair.

The eight Tourist Information Bureaus operated at key highway gateways and in the rotunda of the Capitol in Austin by the Texas Highway Department are expected to play host to many HemisFair visitors.

Three other Highway Department travel information facilities are expected to be in service during the half-year run of the exposition.

A new Tourist Information Bureau in Amarillo is expected to be in operation by the opening date.

Plans are well advanced for a new Tourist Information Bureau at Laredo, replacing an earlier facility temporarily closed during the development of Interstate 35.

Plans also are under way for a visitor center at the Judge Roy Bean Museum at Langtry, also operated by the Highway Department.

The Department's Travel and Information Division is anticipating heavy additional requests for literature on Texas from prospective visitors throughout the world.

More than three-quarters of a million travelers visit the Highway Department Information Bureaus each year. The Department also answers more than 225 thousand mail inquiries for literature and information about Texas, and distributes more than 3.5 million pieces of travel literature annually. Of this volume, more than two million pieces are produced as a part of the Department travel program.

The Dominion of Canada was established in 1876.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

Omar Burleson, M. C. 17th District, Texas

Washington, D. C. — While most thoughts are on such momentous questions as the war in Viet Nam, higher taxes, inflationary pressures, and other problems to be solved, there is news in the mundane.

The Navy has a project called "Operation Green Turtle." Maybe it is not so mundane after all that the Navy is involved with the subject of turtles. As a matter of fact, they become pretty important in a lot of places and have to be frankly admired. There seems to be something more noble about their actions in a way than anything a battleship can do.

At any rate, the Navy is taking a considerable interest in turtles. The particular species to which the Navy is giving some special attention is the giant sea turtles weighing several hundreds of pounds, seen mostly in zoos, unless one spends a lot of time around the sea. This fascinating operation which the Navy is engaged in may make a great deal more sense than some other things. It is trying to save something. It is the great green turtle that finds the Coast of Costa Rica as a favorite place to lay its eggs before, once again, moving out to sea.

The surprising thing is that the Navy, since the early 1960's, has been flying baby turtles to various locations throughout the Caribbean and the Gulf of Mexico with the idea of establishing more turtle colonies at various spots in South America. (This includes Bimini in the southernmost part of the Bahamas.)

The chief purpose of this whole operation is to fly thousands of infant turtles to these spots, where they will be released and where, by nature, they are expected to return after maturity, to raise their families.

This is a source of food for many people of Latin America and around the Caribbean. Not many of us would like turtle soup with our chili, but in times past, it has been a mainstay with some of our neighbors and the supply has run out in quite a few places.

For the past two years, the University of Florida has been carrying on a research program and finding, as is the habit of much of marine life, the adult turtle returns to the very spot where it grew up. The researchers prevailed on the Navy to help them with a conservation problem to which few had given any thought in the past. Like much other wildlife, there is concern that if something is not done, the marine turtle may disappear and not maintain its ancient role as a source of food. It seems that the early voyages of Columbus and others who followed him depended a great deal on the number of turtles they could catch and store aboard, while kegs of beef spoiled.

At the beginning, we were officially interested in an adequate source of native food for people around the Caribbean area, such as the Virgin Islands, over which we have jurisdiction. Evidently, the idea has caught on, and an organization called the Caribbean Conservation Corporation has been formed, which is expanding the operation to those places suitable for turtle habitats.

As yet unknown is the way the giant turtles will appear to cruise about the seas without so much as a radar set.

They are supposed to swim and float thousands of miles and always return to the beach where they were raised. Speculation is that they navigate by the sun and the stars, a feat deserving of admiration if true.

Some very interesting items turn up in publications about Washington and this is one of them. It is doubtful that very many people have any real respect for turtles, but from a publication by the United States Naval Institute, called "Proceedings" is the story about the Navy's interest in turtles.

Aside from the usefulness of turtles as a source of food, it seems they are pretty intelligent, which is enough to end this essay with: Turtles seem to know what they are doing—and it makes one wonder if we do

Texas Exhibit Touring Nation

Vacation planners in five of the nation's largest cities are discovering for themselves what Texas' "World of Difference" is all about. The state's first travel exhibit, sponsored by TTDA and previewed recently by Gov. John Connally at a special showing in the Capitol rotunda, is currently on a coast-to-coast tour that will take it before 5,500,000 prospective visitors.

Beginning in Los Angeles with the 8th annual International Sports, Vacation and Travel Show, the $12,000 display has additional scheduled stops at Kansas City, St. Louis, Milwaukee, and Chicago.

"This is the first venture of its kind for the State of Texas," Gov. Connally said in a brief statement. "We are confident it will help us in our goal to bring more tourist revenue to Texas."

Federal Tax Questions And Answers

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—Is it true that IRS will figure out your tax for you when you file the short form?

A—Yes, if your income is less than $5,000 and Form 1040A is filed then IRS will compute your tax if you wish. We will refund any overpayment or bill you for any additional tax due.

Q—I married a widow with two young children last summer. Can I claim the children as dependents?

A—If you provided more than half the children's support for the year then you may claim them as dependents. If your wife provided over half their support, she can claim the children as dependents on her separate return or they may be claimed on a joint return.

Q—Can I claim two exemptions for a dependent over 65?

A—No. You may only claim one exemption regardless of the dependent's age. The additional exemption for being 65 or over may only be taken by a taxpayer filing his own return.

Q—Why do I have to put a Social Security number on my tax return?

A—The law requires persons filing returns to furnish a tax account number. Since the majority of taxpayers already have Social Security numbers, these numbers are also used for tax identification purposes. Taxpayers who forget to list their number will have refunds delayed until the number is supplied.

Q—I teach in high school. Under what conditions will summer courses I take be deductible for tax purposes?

A—The courses will be deductible if the primary reason you took them was: (1) for the purpose of obtaining or improving your present teaching skills, or (2) expressly required by your employer to maintain your salary status or job.

Q—We lost a child in a traffic accident last year. Can we claim him as a dependent for the entire year or only part of it?

A—If the child was your dependent you may take the full $600 exemption for the year of his death.

Q—Do you have to be married to get the head of household income tax rates?

A—No you don't. On page 3 of the 1040 instructions you will find an explanation of whether you qualify for these rates. Head of household tax rates cannot be used if you are married an can file a joint return.

Q—I won a prize in the contest run by the local filling station. It was cash. Do I have to report it as income?

A—Yes you do. Prizes such as yours as well as money or merchandise won in lucky drawings, radio and television quizzes or from any sales promotion program are taxable and must be declared as income.

Q—My name was misspelled on the 1040 package I received in the mail. How can I correct this?

A—Make the change on the 1040 you received by marking through the error and entering your correct name. It is helpful for us to get the corrected label back to aid in identifying the error and making the necessary changes. If your Social Security number is misspelled please correct it in the same manner.

Q—I changed jobs last year and now find myself driving about 30 miles a day to get back and forth to work. Can I deduct 10 cents a mile for this driving?

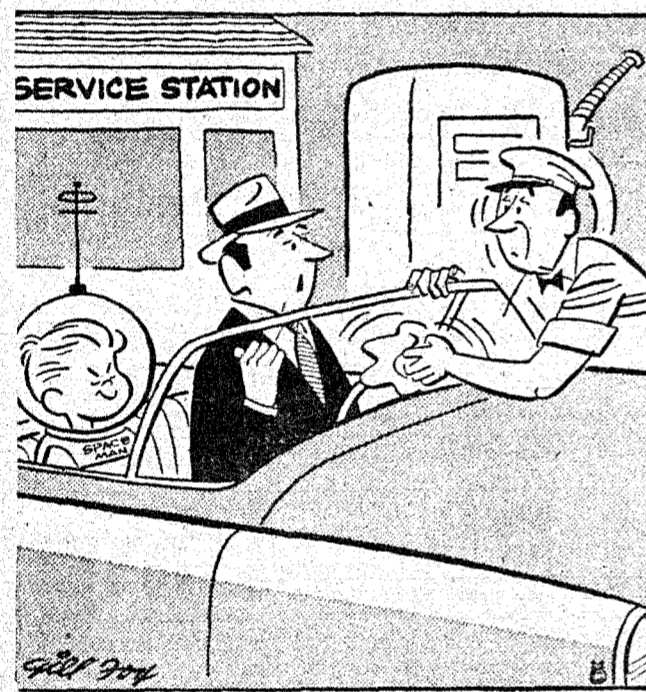

A—No. Commuting to and from work is a personal expense and is not deductible.

Gov. Connally, State Agencies To Meet With Small Town Task Force

Governor John B. Connally and representatives of State agencies will meet with members of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Small Towns Task Force February 16 in Austin.

The purpose of the meeting is to examine the state programs which may be of some assistance to small towns in West Texas. "The Task Force," according to Chairman C. L. Cooke of Fort Worth, "is not seeking state grants or state funds, but rather seeing if some of the agencies can aid in the educational, cultural, industrial, tourist or recreational development fields."

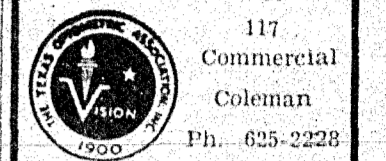

Cooke said that of the more than 300 community inventories that had been mailed out to small West Texas towns about 50 per cent have been returned in complete form. He further urged those towns that have not completed the questionnaires to finish them as soon as possible so that the Task Force would have them for study prior to the Austin meeting with the Governor and the state agencies.

Among the agencies that will furnish information to Task Force members are Texas Highway Department, Agricultural Department, Texas Employment Commission, Health Department, Industrial Commission, Board of Education, Texas Water Board, Parks and Wildlife, Fine Arts Commission, along with several others.

Teach Your Child To Handle Emergencies, Says Specialist

A young child, must be taught to think for himself, not just to react by habit if he is able to cope with the unexpected, say family life education specialist at Texas A. & M. University.

Although demands upon the preschool child must be kept within reason childcare authorities, including the Child Study Association of America, agree that the average 4-year old is capable of comprehending much more than his parents usually believe he can.

In teaching a child to handle emergencies, do not frighten him. Take a calm, matter of fact attitude in explaining emergency situations, even if you may be anxious about them yourself. For instance, in explaining these situations, do not offer sordid details or create a horror story.

Every young child should know what to do in these specific situations:

1) If lost in town, he must be able to repeat his name, address and telephone number to an adult. A small child should also carry some form of identification such as a bracelet or tag on his clothing with his name and address on it. Train him not to panic, but to try to seek a policeman or fireman for help.

2) If lost in the country, he should remain in the open where he can be found more easily. If an older child is lost while hiking in the woods teach him to pick one direction and walk until he comes to a road or path. He should be able to keep track of his direction by knowing that the sun rises in the east and sets in the west.

3) If bitten by an animal, train your child never to pet a strange animal. But, if bitten, and no adult is immediately available for help, teach him to wash the wound thoroughly under running water and to dry it with a clean gauze. He should report the injury to an adult as soon as possible and try to identify the animal.

4) If fire breaks out at the home, a child should know two escape routes from his bedroom. He should also know how to call the fire department and how to report the exact location of the house. The National Fire Protection Association says children as young as four have been successfully taught some simple responses in case a fire breaks out during the night. These include not to open bedroom doors, but to stay near an open window awaiting rescue and, on a predetermined signal from a parent, to crawl out a window. Repeated rehearsals are important because a child's impulse is to run to his parents in a fire emergency, an act that could trap him in the flames.

5) If clothes catch on fire, train the child to immediately drop to the ground and smother the flames by rolling about. If a rug or coat is handy, he should wrap these about his body.

6) If approached by strangers, many hundreds of boys and girls are victimized each year because they are not taught to beware of strangers who approach them in public places. Teach children not to become friendly with strangers and never under any circumstances to accompany a stranger to a lonely place.

Children should not accept automobile rides, candy, money or other favors from a stranger.

January Ends Big Hunt Fete

The soft melody "It's All Over Now" could play a finale for the greatest wildlife harvest in the memory of many Texans!

Because, as the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department notes, January 31 terminates further field forays by the upland game forces seeking something to fire at on the wing.

That will close the quail season everywhere except, of course, at the privately operated shooting preserves that continue on through March.

The Department suggested the formal finish was timely since some redoubtable Texas sportsmen have been touring the boon docks since way back on September 1 when the first phase of the successful mourning dove season opened.

Since then it has been waterfowl, deer, turkey and such in tremendous proportions.

TEXAN OF THE YEAR—Allen Ludden of Corpus Christi received Texas Press Association's 1967 "Texan of the Year" Award. Presentation of the copper, engraved plaque was made to Ludden by TPA Pres. Jim Barnhill, publisher of the Hillsboro Daily Mirror. Ludden, pictured here with his lovely wife Betty White, was honored for the tremendous publicity he has given the Lone Star State on his CBS-TV program, "Password." Presentation of the Award was made at TPA's Honor Banquet at its Winter Meeting in San Antonio. Award is given annually to a former Texan now residing outside the state and bringing recognition to the state.

Executive To Discuss Job Corps Center

Sargent Shriver, Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, and Texas Governor John Connally will co-host the first meeting ever held by top executives of leading U. S. companies, educational and community organizations which operate Job Corps Centers.

The meeting will be held in Austin and at the Gary Job Corps Center near San Marcos on February 6 and 7.

Governor Connally will address the opening dinner session in the Driskill Hotel. This will be followed by a presentation by Shriver.

Purpose of the session is to discuss the Job Corps program in its entirety.
