RAMBLING AROUND

By JOHN C. GREGG
The Santa Anna News has just purchased a new camera. It is one of the new 250 Polaroid Cameras and our first experience with it was taking the picture elsewhere on this page of the first place winning Livestock Judging Team. What better time and place to break in a new camera.

We hope to be able to find the time to take a few pictures now and then and have them in The News. However, we will not be in the commercial picture taking business.

Talk about little towns dying certainly does not hold true with our town of Santa Anna. Last week, Mrs. Henry Newman, secretary and manager of the Santa Anna Housing Development gave us some figures that showed just how much our town has grown during the time since 1960.

During this time more than $930,000 has been invested in repudeling and building of new homes and the sewer projects just completed. With the completion of the sewer project, much more building is expected and many homes where the sewer is now available are expected to be remodeled.

Included in the growth of our town is an increase in the number of gas meters from 568 in 1960 to 612 at the present time; an increase in the water meters from 539 to 592. Electric meters increased from 642 to 671 in the seven year period. Telephone connections have increased from 585 to 731 and sewer connections have increased from the low total of 394 in 1960 to 554 at the present time.

Bank deposits have increased from $2,090,959 in 1960 to $2,234,625 in 1966. Postal receipts are way up, from $15,642 in 1960 to $19,827 in 1966. Only one thing has decreased and that is enrollment at the schools. They have dropped from 418 to 385.

Some of the new buildings our town has gained during this time are the telephone cooperative building, the new educational building at the First Methodist Church, two new flower shops, the new Presbyterian Church, a complete new motel and the new 80-bed Ranger Park Inn nursing home. Also included are at least 13 completely new homes valued at more than $130,000, along with numerous homes and churches that have had from little to extensive remodeling.

Not included in the above list is numerous streets that have been paved, a new and well lighted football field and extensive other remodeling at the schools, the well kept cemetery and a large number of other items that some thought could bring to mind.

We are real proud of our town and like to see it grow.

Senior Class Activities

By LEANNA POLLOCK
At the present time the Senior Class of Santa Anna High School is involved in many various activities. Plans are now being made for the senior trip and the class is undertaking several projects to raise the needed funds.

On Friday night, March 31, the class sponsored a rodeo at the Neff arena, a good crowd attended and from concession stand approximately $150 was made. All stock was furnished by Buddy Neff, without which the rodeo would have been impossible. His interest and work helped to make the rodeo successful.

The class has also begun work on the senior play that is to be presented on Friday night, April 28. The name of the play is "Lock, Stock and Lipstick" and the class is working very hard to make it something that will be enjoyable and worthwhile. Plan now to attend the play and do your part in helping the class of 1967. Announcements will be made later concerning admission prices and reserved seats.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Langford and girls of Plano and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Langford of Dallas, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Langford and Janice over the weekend.

Local School Approved for Basic Adult Education Program for '67-'68

The Santa Anna Independent School District has been approved to operate an Adult Basic Education Program for the 1967-68 school year. This approved program will be offered free of cost to adult students participating. Expenses for the program have been allocated from state and federal level for thirty students who can qualify.

It is presently expected that the program in basic education for adults will operate from about September 10, 1967 to June 30, 1968 with classes meeting at night twice weekly, two hours per meeting. Classes will be on three levels. Adults needing instruction in spoken English, writing, reading and instruction to aid in passing necessary tests for American citizenship will find a place in one of the three classes. Basically, levels will be as follows:

Level I: For adults who have not completed third grade level of education.

Level II: For adults who have completed third grade but not sixth grade.

Level III: For adults who completed sixth grade but not the eighth grade.

Much latitude is given in order that the local school may plan a program to meet the needs of the adults who enroll before the beginning of the program.

Enrollment forms will be available at the school for the 1967-68 program in Adult Education. More detailed information will be published in June; however, the school will begin taking enrollments of adults this week.

No Injuries In Pickup Accident Saturday Night

Heavy damage was sustained by a 1965 Ford pickup about 1:30 a.m. Sunday, when it turned over near the top of Featherston Hill, between Trickham and Whon. Driver of the vehicle was Stanley Calcutt, 15, grandson of Robert Stearns, owner.

Other passengers in the vehicle were Melody Ann Begey and Patrick Bolton, both of Dallas. The three were visiting in the Stearns home.

Apparently the youth became confused when he started down the hill and locked his brakes, causing the vehicle to turn sideways and flip over in the ditch.

The accident was investigated by the Sheriff's Department.

Annual election of members of the City Council was held at the City Hall Tuesday of this week, with no opposition being listed on the official ballot. Only 4 write-in votes were cast for the Mayor's position and no write-ins were cast for the Alderman's positions.

W. Ford Barnes was re-elected to another term as Mayor, receiving 204 votes. Leona Bruce received four write-in votes.

In the election for Aldermen, H. A. (Sye) Burden received a total of 211 votes and Lewis M. Guthrie received 210 votes.

There was some rumor for the past several days that there would be some write-in candidates for election to all three posts. However, the write-in did not develop.

Glen Copeland was the Election Judge, assisted by Mrs. Hardy Blue and Pierre Rowe.

Very Light Vote Cast In School Election

A very few voters of the Santa Anna Independent School District thought enough about the situation to go to the polls Saturday and cast a vote for the ones seeking to serve for another three years.

A total of 59 votes were cast in the local school district election. Both Barbara Kingsbery and Robert Smith received 57 votes. Two of the ballots had to be thrown out as they were not properly voted.

In the vote for membership on the County School Board, Ford Barnes received 55 of 57 votes cast, with the apparent same two voter's ballots having to be thrown out.

The election will be canvassed at the next meeting of the school board and new officers will be elected.

During the first two months of 1967 sales in Coleman County totaled $22,360 which is 15 per cent of the 1967 goal of $150,000.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Austin — Prepare to move the hands of your timepiece forward one hour on April 30. Otherwise you'll not be in tune with the "times."

Texas, along with virtually all other states, is going on Daylight Saving Time for the summer months and until October 29.

A bill to exempt the state from provisions of the federal Uniform Time Act of 1966 (DST) was killed by a 59-60 vote in the House of Representatives.

House members debated the bill by Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont for more than an hour before rejecting it.

Federal law now requires DST from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October except in those states which pass specific legislative exemptions. So far, only Michigan has voted exemption.

Broadcasters, railroads and airlines opposed the bill. They emphasized the need for uniformity of schedules among states.

Smith argued eloquently—but unsuccessfully—that DST is "an artificial, unnecessary thing."

Operators of theaters, restaurants and farms backed the measure.

Opinions differ as to whether Texas, once on DST, can ever get off. Amendments calling for a "trial run" and for a statewide referendum on the issue were resoundingly defeated.

LONG TERMS, ANNUAL SESSIONS ADVANCED

House approved and sent to the Senate two proposed constitutional amendments. First calls for four-year terms for all statewide officials; second for annual sessions of the Legislature.

An earlier long-term bill was defeated by Texas voters in 1965. Issue will be re-submitted in November of 1968, if the Senate passes this bill.

Legislative sessions during even-numbered years would be limited to budgets, taxes and emergency measures submitted by the governor. Governor Connally strongly backs both bills.

BUDGET VOTE NEARS

Appropriations bills are nearing a vote in the Senate and House. Decisions — plus those on teacher pay bills to follow — hold the key to the size of the tax bills Texans soon will have to pay.

Senate bill calls for general fund spending in 1968-69 totalling $846,800,000 ($4,700,000,000 from all sources). This is $20,000,000 above the presently appropriated revenues. But even that high figure is $64,600,000 below the basic general fund outlays recommended by Gov. John Connally.

Sen. A. M. Aiken of Paris, Senate Finance Committee Chairman, says the Senate bill is $18,000,000 to $19,000,000 above Comptroller Robert S. Calvert's latest income forecast. But apparently there is hope that Calvert will certify the measure without new taxes.

House bill, still in committee, is expected to be near the level recommended by Connally.

Teacher pay bill totalling $136,000,000 is being heard this week.

Senate bill would provide pay raises ranging from 18 to 30 per cent. It would allot general fund money as follows:

Judiciary, $12,800,000; public health, hospitals, special schools and youth institutions, $202,800,000; executive and administrative departments and agencies $143,200,000; education, $476,500,000; and legislative agencies, $11,100,000.

AG PRODUCTS BILL

A bill in the House would authorize producers of any agricultural commodity to conduct a referendum to determine whether they would levy on themselves an assessment of up to 1 per cent of their commodity's market value.

Funds from the assessment would be used to finance programs of research, education and promotion on that commodity.

Rep. Delwin Jones of Lubbock is sponsoring the bill. His proposal has the support of wheat, turkey, peanut, grain sorghum and egg producer associations. It is opposed by the Texas Farm Bureau.

INDUSTRIAL REVENUE BONDS

House has passed a resolution favoring a proposed constitutional revision which would allow the Legislature to authorize cities and counties to issue industrial revenue bonds.

Resolution, by Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake would pave the way for cities and counties to build industrial plants, rents from which are to be used to retire the bonds.

Rep. Forrest Harding of San Angelo was one who opposed the bill as a subsidy. He contended, "We will be subsidizing monopolies and industry against private industry."

WATER ADJUDICATION ACT PASSED

Both houses of the Legislature now have approved the water rights adjudication act to settle controversies arising from the statewide water plan.

A House amendment requiring appeals from Water Rights Commission decisions to be tried in the county of the parties involved apparently will require conference committee.

SUNDAY CLOSING TIGHTENED

A House approved bill to tighten Sunday closing regulations was passed by the Senate and sent to the governor after an eight-hour filibuster by Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston.

It knocks out the emergency-purchase provisions of the present law under which many stores in major cities stay open on Sundays.

Present law prohibits the sale of 42 named items—including clothing, hardware, furniture, utensils, yard tools and toys — on penalty of fines up to $500 or six months in jail.

Under the new law stores could remain open either on Saturday or Sunday, but not stay open on both days.

CONDEMNATION BILL DIES
Senate Jurisprudence Committee has killed a bill which would have allowed both sides in a condemnation suit to be represented on the special commission which sets the price to be paid for condemned land.

As the law now stands, when condemnation proceedings are instituted by the county, three "disinterested parties" to judge the value of the land. Senate bill would have provided that the condemnor and condemnee appoint one each then agree on the third.

HIGHWAY BEAUTIFICATION PLANNED

Texas Highway Commission has approved a new highway beautification and landscape-planting program to screen 154 junkyards in 86 counties.

If the Bureau of Public Roads approves, the federal government will pay 75 per cent of the estimated $601,300 cost. Department began junkyard screening program with nine projects in 1965 and conducted an inventory of 1,220 junkyards, dumping grounds or other blight along federal aid highways.

States failing to cooperate in beautification work will be penalized by a 10 per cent reduction in highway allotments. This would amount to $20,000,000 a year in Texas.

ATTORNEY GENERAL SPEAKS

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held that the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation tribal council has authority to borrow money from a bank to improve the reservation's economic conditions and income. Loan is subject to consent of the Texas Indian Affairs Commission.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

• A constable cannot serve as director of a water control and improvement district.

• Waterworks and sewer system tax and revenue bonds of Harris County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 are not eligible collateral security for state deposits.

• An attorney named to represent a person previously acquitted of a criminal offense by reason of insanity and committed to a hospital is not entitled to state or county compensation for representing the same person under the same appointment at a subsequent sanity hearing.

• Out-of-county witnesses are entitled to fees and to mileage at such sanity hearings.

• Parks and Wildlife Department agents may be designated park keepers as additional duties.

COURT RULES

Right of a Nueces County doctor to sue to force the State Board of Medical Examiners to renew his revoked license was upheld by a divided State Supreme Court in a decision reversing the Court of Civil Appeals.

High court refused to review the lower court decisions rejecting the suit of a Kirbyville man for injunction against a nearby cattle pen and loading chute which he claimed drew noisy auction crowds, in addition to being smelly.

HEALTH AND SAFETY TIPS FROM THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSN.

Post-Nasal-Drip

Post-nasal drip, says Today's Health, the family magazine of the American Medical Association, is the common term for a relatively common condition which annoys many persons.

Quite often its effects are encountered during the night or early in the morning. A sleeper moves and changes position. He coughs, perhaps even retches, and spits up mucus.

Some of the basic causes for post-nasal drip are allergic reactions, irritants in the air, smoking, changes in barometric pressure, chemical or physical damage to the membranes, gross deformities of the airways and individual responses to such conditions as climate, altitude and humidity. Post-nasal drip often is closely inter-related with sinusitis.

At the root of the problem, says Today's Health, are abnormal secretions in the upper throat, the nasopharynx. One of the functions of the nasopharynx is to warm and moisten air drawn into the lungs through the nose and to catch dust and bacteria on its moist surfaces.

To maintain moisture, the nasal passageways normally produce rather copious quantities of two types of secretions — a watery, or serous, secretion and a thicker mucus. A certain amount of these secretions lingers in the nasopharynx, but when an over-supply accumulates particularly on oversupply of mucus, the result is post-nasal drip.

Modern drugs can restore normal function in a high percentage of cases, and severe deformities of the airways can be corrected surgically. Gargling is not effective against post-nasal drip or the offensive breath which frequently accompanies it. Gargling reaches only the front two-thirds of the oral cavity, and the secretions causing the trouble are in the rear one-third.

Sometimes coughing fails to expel the accumulation. Breathing can then be made easier by using certain medicines.

What people are saying about...

A CLEAN BREAK WITH THE PAST

"I would have nothing but an electric Gold Medallion home," says Mrs. Bob Corkins of Alpine, Texas. "I like the low operating cost," says Mr. Corkins who thinks the electric bill a good value. Kathy, age 5, and Greg, age 10 months, smile contentedly, and that means they like the comfort of total-electric living.

The Corkins' Early American style home has 7 rooms, 2 baths, and a covered patio—2,000-square feet of living space. The only fuel used for all purposes is electricity. It operates a 4-ton heat pump with 15 KW Auxiliary Strip heating, 4-ton refrigerated air conditioner, electric range, washer, dryer, disposal, dishwasher, refrigerator, freezer, two 1.3 KW bath heaters, and Medallion light for living, yet operating cost averages only $38.03 per month—22.8¢ per square foot per year!

The Corkins have been living better electrically since 1959 and are well pleased with it all. "I love electric cooking," Mrs. Corkins says. "It's much better, faster and cleaner." The Corkins especially like the even heat throughout the house, and let the temperature stay at 70° year-round.

Would you like to live in total-electric comfort? Then see your electric contractor or visit WTU.

Game 'Lab' Is Dubbed As Showplace

Tennessee Colony — Many people never hunt or fish, but almost everyone enjoys looking at wildlife.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department points a finger at the Engeling Wildlife Management Area as a prime example of potential wildlife enjoyment for the family that enjoys looking and shutter bugging.

Located near Palestine in East Texas, and the scene of annual public deer and squirrel hunts, the Engeling showplace has an abundance of wildlife species. It is open during daylight hours for those who'd like a nice outing, and an entertaining drive through the flora and fauna.

No guns or dogs allowed on the Area, says Biologist George Veteto. He points out though that a camera is a desirable thing to have handy.

There are wild birds of many types, also squirrels of two species, deer by the dozen. Beaver and beaver dams are to be found, and many other fur-bearing are often seen, wild, not penned.

Alligators have been seen in the 10 miles of Catfish Creek and there are several fish species to tempt anglers in creek and lakes.

The Engeling Area is liberally sprinkled with directional signs over the 11,000 acres, and camping is permitted on designated sites after registration, no fees. Picnic areas are scattered over the hills and near a beautiful spring-fed creek.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Cheating Uncle Sam

Question: What is the difference between tax evasion and tax avoidance?

Answer: five years in the penitentiary.

This old joke is often used by lawyers to illustrate a basic principle of income tax law—that, although evading taxes is illegal, avoiding the tax is not.

In fact, avoiding taxes is not only legal in a technical sense but perfectly ethical as well. Judge Learned Hand once put it this way:

"There is nothing sinister in so arranging one's affairs as to keep taxes as low as possible. Everyone does so, rich or poor, and all do right, for nobody owes any public duty to pay more than the law demands. Taxes are enforced exactions, not voluntarily contributions.

Thus, the law itself suggests various ways of saving taxes: by splitting income between husband and wife, by investing in tax-exempt bonds, by using an accelerated rate of depreciation on property.

And there are many tax-saving methods which, even if not actually suggested by the law, are at least within its permissible leeway.

Then where does lawful avoidance end and unlawful evasion begin? The most obvious evasion is simply to file no tax return at all. But there are other telltale signs—"badges of fraud"—that the law looks for.

One such sign is a double set of books—the first to show the government, the second to reflect the real facts of a business operation.

Another is a dummy bank account, in which to hide unreported income. And another is a fake claim of "charitable contributions," to fatten the amount of deductions from total income.

All devices of this kind have one thing in common; they indicate a dishonest state of mind, an intention to deliberately cheat Uncle Sam.

Of course, even the honest person may be tempted to venture close to the dividing line between avoidance and evasion. But out-right skulduggery is relatively rare. The Internal Revenue Service says that 95 per cent of all returns are completely honest.

Perhaps some citizens, at least, share the sentiments of Oliver Wendell Holmes, who said:

"I like to pay taxes. With them I buy civilization."

The outdoor life. Any indoor man will tell you how great it is. But only an outdoor man can tell you what it does to human skin.

Constant sun dries skin out. Leathers it. Burns it over and over again. And that can be dangerous.

If you are out in the sun a lot (or even if you're not), check into any sore that does not heal. Promptly. It could be a warning signal of cancer. And cancer is easier to cure when it's detected early.

Lorne Greene knows the seven warning signals of cancer. So should you:

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge. 2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere. 3. A sore that does not heal. 4. Change in bowel or bladder habits. 5. Hoarseness or cough. 6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing. 7. Change in a wart or mole.

If a signal lasts longer than two weeks, see your doctor without delay. It makes sense to know the seven warning signals of cancer. It makes sense to give to the American Cancer Society.

Snakes Ape Kinfolk As Star Guest

The old sayings about all the comforts of home has a definite meaning also for Texas' bountiful snake population, cautions the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

This ancient adage gets into the reptilian act because most snake bites occur in and around homes for the ironic reason, the department notes that they are made to feel welcome, unintentionally or not.

The Department's popular POISONOUS SNAKES bulletin No. 31 spells out how to discourage the trespassers from moving in:

"Rock piles, trash piles, stacked lumber, tree stumps and other forms of debris near or under houses often harbor rats and mice which form the principal food of most snakes. In addition, this trash furnishes cover for the reptiles and offers them protection from the premises, the food and shelter which attracts snakes are largely eliminated and the snakes are forced to seek a more suitable environment.

Dense, low growing plants may also supply cover for snakes."

In any event, the Department suggests that people watch their step nowadays whether around the house or afield. It urges all to have a standard snake bite kit handy and that snake bite victims be rushed to the nearest hospital. The Department suggested that precious time may be saved by meeting the physician at a hospital rather than wasting time going first to his office.

Texas' poisonous snakes are rattlesnakes, copperheads, water moccasins and coral snakes.

One commonly mistaken for a rattler is the harmless diamond back water snake. It is marked almost identical to the rattler but its pointed, rattlerless tail is the easiest distinguishing mark. Naturalists rate it along with the other do-gooder species as a valued defense against rats, mice and other undesirable.

Army Blankets May Soon Contain Texas Mohair

Texas mohair may soon go into Army blankets.

Congressman O. C. Fisher of San Angelo has advised the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association that the Defense Personnel Support Center's currently outstanding contracts for manufacture of 1,815,132 blankets may contain 10 per cent of mohair.

"The procurement Center at Philadelphia has requested 13 contractors to revise specifications to include the mohair content if at all feasible," Congressman Fisher said.

Congressman W. R. Poage of Waco, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, has aided Congressman Fisher and TS&GRA officials in their efforts to have mohair included in military orders.

Evil Tool Now Helps Game Sift

The spotlight in wild game country, once linked only to illegal activities, now is the subject of scrutiny as a possible "data processor" for vital Animal Kingdom studies.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists are evaluating material gathered from a year of wildlife census taken with a powerful light probing device.

The technique, definitely in the experimental stage, is not to make a head count on deer, nor to study deer density. Rather it is to determine a heretofore relatively unknown factor in east Texas concerning the ratio of bucks to does, does to fawns, and other similar problems in management work.

Project Leader Bob Alexander and Biologist Knight of Marshall believe that the most significant thing they have now learned, is the fact that deer are less predictable than many believe.

They seem to be affected in their movement by many things, including weather, temperature, moonlight and other seasonal changes.

This has long been known, but Alexander noted many people may have been mistaken in the belief that deer movement may be pinpointed by a particular type of weather.

Other pertinent factors, the biologists believe, are creeping into the picture.

So over an extended period of time, they hope to provide some badly needed answers to wildlife activities.

Approximately 60 per cent of our teenage girls and 40 per cent of our teenage boys today have poor diets.

Social Security Numbers Must Be Reported

Dallas, Texas — Texas taxpayers were reminded today that the law requires them to list their correct social security number on their Federal income tax return.

If husband and wife each have income and file a joint return, they should list both numbers in the spaces provided on page 1 of the 1966 Federal income tax return. If the wife has no income, however, the husband's number will suffice.

Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for northern Texas, said that omission of the number, or entering an incorrect number delays the processing of the return.

If you do not have a social security number, application Form SS-5 may be obtained from your local Internal Revenue Service office, Social Security Administration office or most Post Offices. Applications should be filed as soon as possible.

Sock Shifts Trash Fish From Ponds

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department staffers at the Sheldon State Fish Hatchery have conceived a sock-type filter to reduce the introduction of rough-fish through water supplies. The filter constructed of saran, or nylon, is a long round, socklike bag to be fitted over the intake pipe of the pond. The material can handle up to 2500 gallons of water per minute through the system while filtering out small unwanted trash fish or their eggs.

The sock filter, one of the several types tested at Sheldon now in general use at most Texas Hatcheries, has the advantage of being relatively easy and cheap to construct. It is light and portable, and easy to maintain. It was tested on 17 ponds for periods of from 4 to 29 weeks and was effective in controlling the introduction of the unwanted fish if the filter was replaced every two months. Biologists think the sock filter could be well adapted to private lakes.

Adventure Script Is Minus One

Nobody around the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department headquarters hears regrets about spring, sweet spring.

For one thing, it has brought those eager-beaver letters antipating exciting experiences in state parks and other open-air areas.

Like the South Texas father who wrote: "I am particularly interested in information that would influence as to where to take my children for a week with nature."

But the eager crew has not yet decided how to classify this long-hand order from a North Central Texas young fellow:

"I have become interested in wildlife, forests, national parks, lakes and fish, especially salt water fish. If I may wonder (sic) if I could have some kind of weird life in national parks like unusual snakes, bugs, poison plants trees, flowers, seaweed or ants."

A mere juvenile oversight no doubt that he completely snubbed the chummy stinging scorpion.

Furniture Must Perform Its Job

When house furnishings are well designed, well constructed, and well finished, they are pleasant to live with through the years, says home furnishing specialists at Texas A&M University.

To have such furnishings, a family must begin with a plan which fits their house and their way of life.

Since good design and good workmanship are found at all price levels, the family should shop around. It pays to compare merchandise and check prices at various stores.

Learn to read labels and understand facts about materials and construction. Look for the manufacturer's name on the label. A reputable furniture manufacturer "stands behind" his furniture should anything go wrong.

Study woods and other materials used in making the furniture. A single piece of furniture may be made of several different woods chosen for very good reasons.

Learn to recognize good construction features. Look behind, inside and under to see how the piece is made and what materials are used. Examine drawers, doors, and all visible joints, then test rigidity.

A good finish is a definite indication of quality. The back and underside of high quality furniture are sanded smooth, sealed, and finished to reduce the chance of wood swelling and shrinking. Inspect the finish in a good light.

A chair, table, or any other piece must perform the job for which it was designed. If you're buying a desk or table, sit down and see if it is a comfortable height. A similar test will help determine the comfort and usability of other pieces.

One Man's Game Role Recognized

Austin—The civilian equivalent of a distinctive military decoration has been awarded posthumously by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission to a plain man with a plain name who left a monumental contribution to posterity.

He was Emmitt Smith who started out as a trapper with the department 20 years before his death. His duties primarily concerned hard-knocks routine of catching wild deer and transplanting them around the state where the herds needed reinforcements or had to be initially stocked.

Smith, who learned about maximum individual effort as a World War II Marine Sergeant, became a mighty personal factor in the amazingly successful department big game restoration program.

He was such an influence, in fact, that fifteen years later he got the equivalent of a battlefield promotion by elevation to the elite game management rank of wildlife biologist.

Department records indicate the extreme rareness of such recognition since career biologists routinely gain their original status only after a lengthy scholastic preparation.

Thus Emmitt August Smith in time became project leader for the major state deer transplanting program during which thousands of wild bucks and does were processed through the rigors of catching, crating, hauling and releasing in stange habitat.

And in this ranking capacity, he added climaxing conquests that prompted the his memory for "superior performance of duty."

The story behind this extraordinary public servant was sketched by an associate: "Only Emmitt Smith could have accomplished what he did. He was a son of the soil, accustomed to recurring ecological and economic crisis. He knew about people, about the land and about its wild creatures. His sense of humor blending into an unyielding devotion to duty created an uncanny ability to advance the cause of wildlife conservation."

Smith, who was 47, is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Louis Babyak.

Numerous Items On April List of Plentiful Foods

It's a sure sign of spring. Egg production is on the upswing. And supplies are expected to be well above a year ago, due primarily to a larger laying flock. So the U.S.C. Department of Agriculture is featuring eggs on its April plentiful foods list, reports the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Other plentifuls include oranges and orange juice, grapefruit, peanuts and such products as peanut butter and oil, beef, frozen fish fillets and steaks, as well as carrots and onions.

Look for more beef specials during April. About 13 per cent more cattle were on feed in five major feeding states on Feb. 1 than a year ago.

Around 78 million pounds of fish block and fish fillets are in cold storage, 22 million more than a year ago. Plan lots of menus around delicious fish.

Market news offices of the USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service report big supplies of carrots and onions heading for producer counters in the Southwest and Lower Rocky Mountain areas. Wise shoppers can take advantage of these flavorful vegetables to brighten up the mealtime.

Federal Tax Questions And Answers

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I sold some family property I inherited. What do I use as the basis to determine whether I made any profit, the original cost of the property or its value when I inherited it?

A—Usually the basis should be the fair market value of the property at the time you inherited it.

Q—My buddy says strike payments are taxable while unemployment payments are not. Is that right?

A—Strike benefits are taxable unless they are clearly intended as a gift. Unemployment payments are not taxable.

Q—I don't work but do have my own savings account. Is it necessary for me to have a Social Security number?

A—The law requires you to furnish an account number to any payer who is required to report to IRS interest paid you. Check with any IRS or Social Security office for an application form to obtain a number.

Q—If you are married and file a joint return you must report any interest you earn on the account as income.

Q—Is a government disability pension taxable? I retired last year at age 57.

A—A disability pension received before normal retirement age may be treated as sick pay. In that case up to $100 a week may be excluded from income. When retirement age is reached, the pension will be treated as an annuity for tax purposes.

Q—I just started working this month but won't move my family here until school end and so have been commuting weekends. Can I take a deduction for either my living costs here or my transportation expenses home?

A—Your home for tax purposes is your place of employment. Unless your assignment here is temporary and you will return to your former place of employment, your travel and living expenses will not be deductible.

Drop a postcard to your district director if you want more information on this subject. Ask for Publication 463, "Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expense." It's free.

Q—I am legally separated from my husband. Does that mean I am taxed at single persons rates?

A—Yes, unless you qualify as a head of household. Check page 3 of the 1966 instruction booklet for details on this provision of the law.

Q—Do you have to file your 1966 return before you can apply for additional withholding allowances?

A—Yes. The additional allowances are based on the lesser of your actual itemized deductions for 1966 or your estimate of what these deductions will be this year.

Use Schedule A (Form W-4) to apply for these allowances. This is the first year this provision of the law on graduated withholding is applicable.

Q—Our son was married in December. Does this mean

"HERE'S WHERE I GET OFF!"

Cowboy Butch Hatley is having his ups and downs—up on Bull #162, an animal too mean to have a name, and then down. Rough, tough and exciting will be the action at the Dallas All-Star Rodeo April 8 through 15 in the Livestock Coliseum at State Fair Park. There will be eight action-packed two-hour performances featuring some 300 big-name big-hatted professional rodeo cowboys competing for prize money of $35,000.

we will lose our exemption for him since he otherwise qualified as our dependent?

A—As long as your son meets the other dependency requirements, you do not lose your exemption for him unless he files a joint return with his wife.

Q—Is there any situation where legal fees would be deductible when they are for personal rather than business reasons?

A—Legal fees are generally not deductible unless they are incurred as a business expense or in the production of income. If you sell a home or other property, legal fees may be included as a cost of the sale. The purchaser may include his legal fees in the cost of the property.

Q—How do you handle child support payments for tax purposes? Are they deductible and do you include them while figuring out if more than half the child's support has been provided?

A—Child support payments are not deductible and do not have to be declared as income by the recipient. The payments should be included when determining which parent is entitled to claim the child as a dependent.

Q—I lost a tree to a snowstorm we had this January (1967). Can I deduct this on my 1966 return?

A—Casualty losses can be deducted in the situation you describe only if the President has declared the area a disaster area and your loss stemmed from that event. Aside from such a special situation, casualty losses can only be deducted in the year they occurred.

Q—My wife is visiting her mother for a few weeks. Can I file our return without her signature as most of our income is from my salary?

A—No, your wife's signature is required as well as yours on a joint return.

Failure to have her signing the return will hold up processing and any refund due.

Q—I was off the job about 2 months last year because of illness. Doesn't some of the pay I received during this period qualify for the sick pay exclusion?

VA QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS . . .

Q—I had active duty in the Air Force from 1959 to 1963. I want to establish a business. Am I eligible for a G. I. loan for this purpose?

A—No. The new G. I. Bill makes provision for G. I. loans for the purpose of a home or a farm, but not a business for persons with active duty after January 31, 1955.

Q—I was discharged from military service last month after serving three years. I am not a disabled veteran. May I take on the job training in an automobile repair shop to learn a new trade?

A—No. Educational assistance is not available for on the job training under the so-called "New G. I. Bill". Educational assistance however is available for veterans who desire to study at recognized colleges, universities, trade or vocational schools. It is possible to study automobile mechanics or many other approved subjects in this type of training.

Q—Are educational assistance allowance benefits payable under the provisions of the new G. I. Bill taxable?

A—No. These benefits are not considered income for income tax purposes according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Q—I am receiving pension under the new pension law with the additional benefit for aid and attendance. My wife takes care of me while I am at home. Next week I am scheduled to enter the Veterans Administration hospital for extensive surgery. Will my pension benefit be suspended?

A—No. You will continue to receive your basic pension while hospitalized. After one full calendar month that portion of your pension benefit ($100) paid because of a need for aid and attendance will be replaced by the "housebound" benefit of $35 monthly. Upon discharge from the hospital, the full benefit will be restored.

Q—My wife and I are both veterans and we have one child. Can we both claim the child as a dependent when attending school under the new G. I. Bill?

A—Yes.

Q—Is the training allowance I receive under the new G. I. Bill taxable?

A—No. This benefit is not considered taxable income by Internal Revenue Service.

U. S. Took On Responsibility Of Being World Power 50 Years Ago

It was 50 years ago this Thursday, April 6, that the United States entered the war "to make the world safe for democracy."

It had been preparing for a long time.

"The war stirred American feeling tremendously," says World Book Encyclopedia. "Strong ties bound the nation to Great Britain, France and Belgium, although some Americans sympathized with Germany and Austria-Hungary."

"Economic factors soon bolstered the country's sympathy for the Allies. The United States had developed profitable trade with the British and French," the encyclopedia continues.

"Stories of German atrocities in Belgium inflamed the Americans. The sinking of the Lusitania in 1915—when 128 Americans were among the nearly 1,200 killed—helped move the U.S. toward war. German saboteurs were active. On January 31, 1917, Germany proclaimed unlimited submarine warfare, and the United States broke off diplomatic relations.

In March, the State Department released the infamous Zimmerman Telegram—an intercepted message in which Germany proposed an attack by Mexico on United States.

On April 2, 1917, the 65th Congress met for the first time. President Wilson went before a joint session at 8:30 that evening.

He said the Imperial German government, like all autocracies, was a natural foe of liberty. Therefore, "The World must be made safe for democracy."

He asked Congress to declare war. "The day has come when America is privileged to spend her blood and her might for the principles that gave her birth and happiness and the peace which she has treasured. God helping her, she can do no other."

The chamber broke into cheers and applause. Later, at the White House, Wilson said, "Think of what it was they were applauding. My message of today was a message of death for our young men. How strange it seems to applaud that."

Several members of Congress had withheld their approval. Sen. James K. Vardaman of Mississippi and Sen. Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin argued long against the war, and were among the six senators who voted "nay" on the roll call.

In the House of Representatives, the first woman ever elected to Congress, Jeannette Rankin of Montana, said, "I want to stand by my country, but I cannot vote for war. I vote 'no.'"

Miss Rankin, a pacifist, served only two terms in Congress. It was during her second term, on Dec. 8, 1941, that she became the only member of Congress to vote against war with Japan.

Voting in the House concluded at 3:12 a.m. April 6, Good Friday. The vote was 373 to 50, and the United States had entered the Great War.

The country was almost totally unprepared. It would be October before American soldiers could fire a ceremonial "first shot" at the Germans.

Many Have Diabetes But Don't Know It

Approximately two out of every 100 Texans have diabetes, and one-half of them do not know it. Based on statistics from the U.S. Department of Commerce, there are 108,200 undetected diabetics in Texas.

Although diabetes is ranked seventh among the ten worst killing diseases, it can be controlled with modern treatment if it is discovered soon enough.

Most likely candidates for diabetes are those with relatives who have diabetes, people who are overweight, and those over 40 years of age, especially women. It can, however, hit anyone at any age. Symptoms in advance cases include excessive thirst, constant hunger, frequent urination, loss of weight, itching, easy tiring, changes in vision and slow healing of cuts and scratches. People can also have diabetes with no symptoms at all.

In an effort to find the undetected diabetic, the Texas Medical Association is urging individuals to ask their doctor about the simple and easy diabetes test if they are among those most likely to have the disease or who notice any of the usual symptoms of the disease.

Diabetes is a chronic condition which develops when the body cannot make use of certain foods, especially sugars and starches. It cannot be cured but it can be controlled in most patients with a minimum of discomfort. Neglect of the disease can lead to such complications as heart disease, failing eyesight, hardening of the arteries, kidney disorders, gangrene, cerebral hemorrhage and diabetic coma.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

Qamar Burleson, M. C., 17th District, Texas.

Washington, D. C. — The President has made recommendations for some rather sweeping changes in the Selective Service Act. Many of the proposals can be enacted by Executive Order without action by the Congress. Parts of the basic law require Congressional action if there is to be a new draft system.

There is no question, however that the proposals will be debated long and steamily. Many of the proposals have already met stiff opposition from some of the Congressional leaders.

A major issue on which debate will no doubt center is how the draft is administered. Is the present decentralized system and local draft board responsibility outdated? The proposal says it is, and has suggested 500 area centers to assume the present functions of local draft boards and apply uniform policies with respect to classification and appeal. Already the Armed Services Committee has disagreed, apparently feeling that there is merit in the neighborhood approach to the selection of registrants.

The next issue will be "the younger first" recommendations of the President's panel. On the surface, there appears to be unanimous agreement between the White House, the Armed Services Committee and the Department of Defense. Underlying this seeming agreement, however, is a basic question of just how the 19 year olds to be drafted should be chosen. The White House Panel recommendations could be termed a "random selection process" using the fishbowl method or computer. They avoided using the word "lottery," but basically this is what it amounts to and both the Committee and the Department of Defense have objections.

The issue of student deferments is probably the most knotty area of dissension of all. The White House Panel recommends abolishing the system of student deferments entirely. The Congressional Committee favors the college deferment program in general, except for non-critical graduate students. But it did insist such students be enrolled on a full-time basis and have an age limit of 24 for their study program. After that they would be considered eligible for the draft along with 19 year olds. While this was the general consensus of the Congressional Committee, it was by no means unanimous, and there are a number of objectors to the entire student deferment program who have publicly stated they would support the White House Panel recommendations in this field.

Both the White House and the Congressional Committee are concerned with the National Guard and Reserve Units being a haven for evaders of active duty. The House group proposed that those in the reserve enlistment program be liable for additional active duty if they did not complete their reserve obligations. At this time, the Department of Defense has already announced plans to immediately call for terms of extended active duty those young men who have willfully neglected fulfilling their reserve obligations and the individual services are preparing the methods by which these men would be called. The White House group also urged that men eligible for draft not gain immunity by direct enlistment in the Reserves or Guard.

So, the outlook is for a long and strenuous debate. What emerges will probably be neither just what the White House Panel proposed nor what the Armed Services Committee panel envisages.

Today's MEDITATION

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

Read 1 John 5:1-9

Thou shalt be His witness unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard. (Acts 22:15)

A boy was hurrying home from school to show his mother something he had found. Along the way, he was showing it to others. I saw his beaming face and spoke to him. He said, "Do you want to see what I've found?" He quickly showed me a shining silver dollar. He was proud of his find and anxious to tell others about it.

We Christians have found a Savior and He has forgiven our sins. We have hope for a free life both now and forevermore. This is more precious than silver and gold.

Is there any wonder that those who have made this find are anxious to tell about it? It is mighty good news to them. They know that it will be good news for others also.

Am I grateful for the saving power of Jesus Christ in my life? Am I telling others about Him and what He can do for them?

PRAYER: Dear Father, how thankful we are for the sending of Jesus Christ into the world. We are grateful beyond measure that He has saved our souls. Unloose our tongues and lighten our feet that we may be witnesses for our living Lord, in whose name we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Knowing Jesus is too good to keep to myself.

Grover I. Chapman (Texas)

Social Security Annual Reports Due by April 17

Social Security beneficiaries who worked in 1966 may still receive some payment even if their earnings were over $1500 by several hundred dollars last year, R. R. Tuley, Jr., District Manager of the Abilene office said today. To claim those benefits a beneficiary must file an annual report of earnings for 1966 on a form provided by the Social Security Administration.

Tuley stressed that beneficiaries who earned more than $1500 in 1966 should file an annual report if:

- their actual earnings are less than original estimates, which would allow some benefits to be paid;
- they earned less than $125 in any one month as employees;
- as self-employed persons, substantial work was not performed in one or more months.

Beneficiaries who believe they might qualify for payment based on one of these conditions should not delay filing an annual report, Tuley said. The deadline for filing annual reports has been extended two days beyond the usual date to April 17. Filing later than April 17, he cautioned, may result in the loss of benefits.

Beneficiaries who did not get a report form in the mail may obtain one and any additional information desired from the social security office at Room 2321 in the Federal Building in Abilene, or by meeting a representative of that office in Coleman at Dept. of Public Welfare on April 3, 4, 10 or 11 at 10 o'clock.

New Look In Food Types Since 1950

The food store of even 10 or 15 years ago would look antiquated beside those of today. The number and types of food available in retail food stores have changed greatly even in that relatively short length of time, reminds Gwendolyn Cyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist with Texas A&M University.

New items have ranged from TV dinners introduced several years ago, to breakfast cereals packed with dried fruit, and of course, a host of diet foods.

Some new items simply involve the restyling of an old product or bringing it out in a new package.

Many products are developed to meet changing needs of consumers as families become smaller; the age of the homemakers changes; residential locations change; the homemakers work away from home.

Increased knowledge of nutrition and a strong emphasis on health have influenced the foods industries, and disposable incomes have increased so that the average family can spend more for foods.

Changing consumers are probably the more important factor behind new product development, says Mrs. Cyatt.

As consumers purchase a new product the second and third time, they are telling the manufacturer they like it. In that way consumers cast votes for products on retail store shelves.

TSCRA Accepts Governor's Proposal

Governor Connally's proposal to establish an agency to be called the Texas Agricultural Development Board was endorsed by the membership of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association in its annual convention in Houston recently.

A resolution by the Association called attention to the fact that the governor had proposed to establish the agency to provide leadership for the optimum development of agriculture in the state to the end that Texas may mobilize the total agricultural resources for its people and organizations for the benefit of Texas and all Texans.

The resolution noted that legislation had been introduced to establish the agency and the TSCRA endorsed this action. The convention was held March 13-15.

How Much Credit Can You Afford?

Planning to buy "on time?" Before you decide to buy something on credit be sure you know just how much credit your family can afford, urges Mrs. Wanda Meyer, Texas A&M University Extension home management specialist.

Installation credit can be very useful, but it can be dangerous, she adds.

When you buy on credit or use a payment plan, remember that sooner or later the total cost must be paid and that using credit usually costs extra. It may or may not be worth the extra cost to you.

"Unless you know you can meet your financial obligations in an emergency, better wait awhile before buying any more goods on credit," Mrs. Meyer recommends.

Imported Dairy Products May Soon Be Reduced

Washington, D.C. — Congressman Omar Burleson announced today that the Secretary of Agriculture is recommending to the President that action be taken to reduce the volume of dairy products being imported into the United States.

The recommendation is being made that the President direct the Tariff Commission to undertake an investigation under Section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, looking to the establishment of import quotas on certain dairy products not now subject to quotas.

Burleson pointed out that dairy product imports in 1966 totaled 2.7 billion pounds of milk equivalent as compared with about 9 billion pounds in 1965. Of this quantity 700 million is a mixture of butterfat and sugar, and Colby cheese made up about 1.3 billion pounds milk equivalent. This is a 300 per cent increase in dairy imports which was largely accomplished by evasion of the current law.

He said these imports are having an adverse effect upon our price support program.

Burleson emphasized today that he considers this a most urgent issue and is gratified that the Secretary is urging the Tariff Commission to begin hearings as quickly as possible.

"It is hoped," Congressman Burleson said, "that this prompt action will relieve pressure on the income of our dairy farmers."
