Dogs Being Poisoned North of Town

Reports have reached The News the past week that several farm homes have experienced the loss of valuable dogs due to poison being put out around private property.

Mrs. Archer Tucker said they had lost three valuable dogs during the last few days. They were trained to help in the handling of livestock and would be hard to replace. The William Browns have also lost at least one dog to poison.

Apparently someone is just driving by farm homes and throwing out poison, which can be very dangerous. The Tuckers and Browns have small grandchildren playing around their homes. These children could easily pick up some of the poisoned materials and get it in their mouths, the same as the dogs do.

This can be a very serious offense and those who are doing it are requested to stop it immediately.

Perry said they would be able to take 30 students in this program and he hoped all of those interested would contact his office during next few weeks.

Susan Newman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Newman, presented a 4-H Demonstration on Money Management and Dining Eubank, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Eubank, presented his 4-H speech, "Americanism." These students entered the 4-H Elimination contests during the weekend.

The accident was investigated by the Sheriff's Department.

Rockwood Man Is Science Teacher at Weatherford College

The following article appeared recently in Weatherford, Texas Democrat and concerns Clyde D. King, who is a graduate of the former Rockwood High School. Three members of the King family still live in this area: Arthur King of Rockwood; Mrs. Lige Lancaster of Trickham and Willie King of Coleman.

The article is by-lined Mary Davis, and is as follows:

"Changes have been numerous at Weatherford College since 1942 when Clyde D. King began teaching the sciences.

The senior faculty member in point of service was one of the teachers selected by the college faculty as a state teacher of the year candidate.

King became a member of the faculty in 1942, teaching both freshman and sophomore classes in chemistry and biology, and for a short period he served as the Dean and Director of Guidance before returning to the classroom on a full time basis.

He is a dedicated teacher who has devoted 41 years of his life to his profession. Before joining the faculty of Weatherford College, he served four years as principal and teacher of science in the public schools at Rice, Hico and Rule and four years he served as superintendent of schools at Ellsville.

Born in Lott, in Falls County, Sept. 11, 1901, King attended public schools and was graduated from Rockwood High School in Coleman County. He earned the Bachelor of Science Degree from North Texas State Teachers College. He has also completed additional work at Southern Methodist University, Hardin-Simmons University and North Texas State University.

A member of the Baptist Church since childhood, he is an active deacon of the Jerry said he would continue to live in Santa Anna and would continue to serve as a City Alderman for the time being, but could not say at the present time whether he would ask re-election to the council next year.

Clark has been employed by the telephone cooperative since before the system was changed to dial operation several years ago.

Assisting in the entertainment throughout the afternoon were floor officers in floor length formals. They were Mrs. Richard Bass, Mrs. Jack Bostick, Mrs. Zuda Henderson, Mrs. Roy West, Mrs. Montie Guthrie, Jr., Mrs. Cliff Herndon and Mrs. Henry Newman.

Guests were registered in a white leather guest book. The table was laid with white satin floor length cloth which was embroidered with iridescent sequins. Across the table lines of music formed with pink ribbons and felt notes, re-embroidered with pink bugle beads.

The center arrangement was a cascade of pink rose buds with pink streamers on a five point candelabra holding pink candles.

Refreshments of pink petit fours topped with pink roses were embedded in golden spun sugar. Mints shaped as musical notes were decorated with tiny rose buds. Decorated open faced sandwiches were in keeping with the color scheme. Pink punch was ladeled from a crystal service.

Arrangements of Spring flowers, rosebuds and miniature tall pastel candles surrounded a miniature pink piano, while a golden violin reposed near red roses in a silver container on which roses touched a page of music entitled, "The Touch of God's Hand." A flowering shrub sheltered a white bird with fluting yellow flowers on its limbs, where perched red and blue birds and butterflies.

Robert Clark Foils Attempted Dallas Robbery

Robert Clark of Santa Anna, 25-year-old night manager of a Dallas grocery store, overpowered an 18-year-old youth last weekend while the youth was attempting to rob the store.

The youth entered the store about 11:00 p. m. and after asking for a pack of cigarettes, told Clark to "give me your money." As he barked the order, the holdup man reached into a brown paper sack for a revolver. But he was a little slow on the draw and Clark reached across the counter and grabbed the weapon. As they wrestled for it, the gun discharged once but Clark finally came out the winner.

He held the youth at bay until the police arrived.

Clark was told by the police and the store manager that his action was commendable, but that was not the usual manner of handling a situation like this. He was told the next time it would be advisable to give the bandit the money rather than risking his life.

The marker dedication highlighter a historical tour that started at 1:30 p. m. at the old rock house located at the west end of the Santa Anna Mountains, and traveled to Trickham by way of the old military road from Fort Belknap to Fort Mason, a route that was established in the early 1850s. The tour was sponsored by the Coleman County Historical Survey Committee.

The old rock house was furnished in antiques of the last century. The hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Tom Kingsbery, Mrs. Bruce Cammack and Mrs. Elgean Harris, assisted by Debbie and Sandra Harris, Leanna Bryan, Kelley Cammack, all wearing calico dresses of the pioneer period, and Mrs. Curtis Bryan and Mrs. Bill Sneed. As the tour began the group were churning, piecing quilts, spinning, carding quilt cotton and washing with rub-board and wash pot. About 175 visited the house.

At Trickham, the first town in the county, Oscar Boenicke gave the invocation and the Coleman National Guard posted the colors. Milton Autry of Coleman, was master of ceremonies. Hal Woodward, whose grandfather lived for a time on the headwaters of Hay Creek and taught school nearby, gave the address of dedication. A wreath was placed on the monument by Mrs. Helen Oakes of Winters, whose great-uncle, Dave Upton, was buried there.

Mrs. Joe Burroughs of Novice, Historical Committee Chairman; County Judge Frank Lewis; and County Commissioner Thomas Wristen, Jr., who implemented much of the restoration, were introduced. Also recognized was Mrs. Minnie Wilson, the Trickham Postal Clerk, whose concern for the preservation of the historical sites there began the movement to preservation; and Mrs. C. D. Bruce, Vice Chairman of the committee and author of the historical book, "Trickham, Texas," published last year. The benediction was by Howell Martin and the Guard retired the colors.

Following the dedication, an open house was held by the people of the community in the Community Center. The pioneer theme was used in decorations and appointments, with antique iron tea kettles as containers for flowers. Cookies were served from an heirloom Dutch oven, and punch was served from a crystal bowl placed in a fine old iron bean pot.

At the serving table were Ann and Janice Martin and Sherry McIver, all wearing heirloom dresses of pioneer families. A display of family relics from along the Muekwater, Hay and Home Creeks was in an assembly room, with an unusual showing of rare barbed wire by Anton Bpenicke and L. E. Story.

Other sites visited were the Fiveash Cemetery, started as the Enoch Fiveash family was all but wiped out by smallpox in 1876, the remarkable sign painted on the bottom of a tin cistern, advertising a blacksmith shop and other services, and the site of the Chisum-Shield store, the first in the area, begun in the 1860s.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Austin—House of Representatives has passed to the Senate a far-reaching consumer credit code regulating most consumer loans and allowing banks higher interest rates.

Gov. John Connally recommended the code which resulted from a two-year study of the credit field.

Bill by Rep. Randy Pendleton of Andrews establishes maximum credit charges, limits required insurance on loans, requires disclosure to borrower of all charges he must pay and prohibits misleading advertising.

Pendleton said his measure would provide Texas with one of the most "comprehensive and effective" regulations of consumer loans in the nation.

But Rep. Paul Floyd of Houston claimed the bill would "increase cost of money to borrowers."

Code covers all fields of credit under $2,500, whether loans are by banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions or pawnbrokers. Installment purchases, including those of autos, are included.

Proponents contend that consumers will have a better loan market if banks and other leading agencies can charge the same rates as finance firms.

Although opponents emphasize that the bill allows up to 240 per cent annual interest on a loan of $10 for one month, rate permitted still is a reduction from that now fixed as ceiling in that class of small loan. (Actual charge on the $10 transaction under the code would be $2.) Reduction is about 25 per cent below those now charged for loans under $100.

These rates are authorized by the code:

- Auto installment loans — $7.50 per $100 on new cars ranging to $15 per $100 on autos over four years old.
- Regulated loans — $13 per $100 annually on first $300 and $8 per $100 above $300, to $2,500.

• Secondary mortgage loans on residential property — $8 per $100, same rate as on installment loans.

• Retail installment sales and services would be limited to $12 per $100 for first $500, ranging down to $8 over $1,000.

• Revolving credit maximum would be one and one-half per cent per month for first $500 of unpaid balance and one per cent on unpaid balance over $500.

OPTOMETRY BILL DELAYED

Bill to reverse State Board of Optometry ruling which restricts multiple-office practice and advertising of eye glass firms under trade names (e.g. Texas State Optical, Lee) was sent to subcommittee after hearing before Senate Public Health Committee.

Fate of the bill is uncertain. Contested ruling, upheld by State Supreme Court, was made by six-member Board, five of whom are independent optometrists.

Dr. N. Jay Rogers of Beaumont, TSO head, said Board ruling was aimed at curtailing competition and would run up prices of glasses.

Board attorney Charles Babb argued, advertising would not be prevented by ruling, although he criticized some advertising by multiple-office optometrists. He said intent of Board's ruling is to require optometrists to practice under own names and maintain closer relationship to "patients."

WATER RIGHTS LAW

After 50 years of effort, Texas now has a water rights adjudication act to help solve water disputes without prolonged and costly court battles.

Act follows the "Oregon plan" of administrative procedure in refereeing water wrangles, plus automatic judicial review.

Riparian users must file a record of their claims with the Texas Water Rights Commission, the administering agency, by Sept. 1, 1969.

Backers of the bill said they hope it will prevent repetition of cases like the Rio Grande Valley Water Rights suit which has cost an estimated $10,000,000 ($400,000 of that out of state funds) over years of litigation. Case now is on appeal.

INDUSTRIAL AMENDMENT PASSES

Legislature has cleared for submission to voters next year the first constitutional amendment of this lawmaking session—to permit cities and counties to issue revenue bonds for industrial development.

If approved by Texans in the November, 1968, election, bonds could be used to build industrial plants for private concerns and repaid through revenues of the corporations. No tax funds would be obligated.

MEDICAID BILL ADVANCED

Senate has passed a bill to implement the "medicaid" program of medical assistance to needy which would provide a program totaling more than $200,000,000 in the next two years.

Federal government will match state expenditures on a four-to-one dollar basis. Bill, virtually assured of House passage also, would provide hospital, nursing home and physicians services to public welfare recipients, including aged, blind, disabled and families with dependent children.

MH/MR LEGISLATION

Last week was a big one for Mental Health-Mental Retardation.

House passed a bill to allow MH/MR board members to be paid for every day they work instead of just the days they attend a meeting; bill transferring the authority to license private mental hospitals from the State Department of Health to MH/MR; and a bill to allow the voluntary admission of mentally retarded persons to state schools.

House MH/MR Committee favorably reported a bill setting out the schedule of monthly payments for persons in mental retardation facilities; bill to allow the MH/MR to make contracts for the provisions of MH/MR services with hospitals and other private facilities; and a bill to require county attorneys of counties where community centers are located to file suit to collect fees for the treatment of non-indigent persons in those centers.

TRAFFIC SAFETY—

House Committee on Highways and Roads favorably reported two bills and sent two others to subcommittee.

Reported back to the House were bill to expand motor vehicle inspection requirements to make them conform with federal statutes and bill to provide for reflective license plates to be

ECONOMY RUN SHOWS 1967 CARS GET BETTER MILEAGE

Best mileage in the 1967 Mobil Economy Run came from this Plymouth Valiant shown at the finish of event. It got 24.57 miles per gallon.

DETROIT — Three Plymouths, a Chrysler, a Mercury, a Chevrolet and a Buick won class honors in the recent 1967 Mobil Economy Run from Los Angeles to Detroit.

Termed one of the most grueling in the 31-year history of the event, this year's run covered 2,886.5 miles in six days.

The 41-car fleet encountered gasoline-devouring freeway driving, ice-laced mountain passes, snow, wind, rain and a time-consuming fire in Chicago. Despite these hazards, the cars averaged 19.9884 miles per gallon, reversing a six-year downward trend in the event which has become the fuel economy yardstick for America's newest passenger cars.

Winning the six-cylinder compact car class was a Plymouth Valiant which averaged 24.57 m.p.g., the highest of any car in this year's competition. A second Plymouth, a Barracuda, won top honors in the eight-cylinder under compact car class.

In the intermediate size six-cylinder class the winner was a Mercury Capri, and a Plymouth Belvedere II was the winner in the eight-cylinder intermediate size class. It was piloted by a first-time Economy Run driver.

The tightest contest of the event saw a Chevrolet Impala SS race out a Ford Custom 500 on the very last leg. The margin here was so close that United States Auto Club officials, who supervise the run, double checked all their computations.

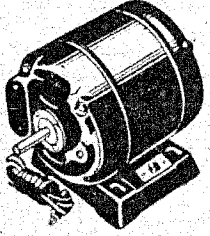

Women drivers scored better mileage than their male counterparts for the second straight year averaging 20.60 miles to the gallon vs. 19.81.

While virtually all class winners returned better mileage than last year, the greatest improvement was shown in the low price six-cylinder compact car class. Here, four cars in a field of eight bettered last year's winning figure.

Third Court of Civil Appeals reversed Austin district court and held that last November's constitutional amendment repealing the poll tax and requiring an annual fee registration system is valid. SHORT SNORTS

Governor Connally named R. Henderson Shaffer director of $10,000,000 Institute of Texas Cultures being constructed on San Antonio HemisFair Site.

State Republican Chairman Peter O'Donnell Jr. named a coordinating committee, a "Task Force on Clean Air and Water," headed by Dr. S. J. Skinner of Houston and Mrs. Robert Good of Dallas.

Dr. Robert L. Clinton Jr., superintendent of schools at Snyder, is new assistant commissioner of higher education in charge of development of public junior colleges.

AG OPINIONS

Proposed law to prohibit sale of merchandise below cost "with intent to injure competition" would be constitutional, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin has held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

• State institutions can adopt reasonable standards of clothing and attire for students, inmates or employees. However, "anti-beatnik" bill by Rep. Delwin Jones of Lubbock is unconstitutional because caption does not cover all provisions.

• Court would have power under new bill to require presence in courtroom of parents or guardians of a minor charged with driving while intoxicated.

• Law does not require an employee be given time off to vote while working overtime hours for which he volunteered.

• Galveston County may use flood control funds to maintain seawalls.

• It is responsibility of the committing county to physically return an escaped juvenile offender to Texas Youth Council custody.

• Bill authorizing exchange of benches by justices of peace in the same county is constitutional.

• Harris County commissioners court cannot enjoin a subdivider from selling lots on the ground that he has failed to complete roads to standards of county engineer.

• Chattel mortgages filed prior to last July 1 should be renewed or extended by filing affidavit with county clerk as required by law in effect before the Uniform Commercial Code adoption.

HEALTH AND SAFETY TIPS FROM THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASS'N.

Arthritis

Rheumatoid arthritis is potentially the most serious of the major forms of rheumatic diseases, says Today's Health Guide, the American Medical Association's manual of health information for the American family.

Rheumatoid arthritis characteristically occurs in attacks of pain and swelling in the joints, weakness, fatigue, and stiffness, especially in the mornings. The attacks may last for weeks, months or years, but usually the intensity of the disease fluctuates.

The disease varies in severity from time to time, seldom completely leaving, though a few people have recovered completely. A small percentage of patients have severe, steadily worsening arthritis that finally results in crippling and deformity.

The best treatment usually includes a variety of different methods and techniques. Rest is a cardinal principle of management and is usually prescribed as a number of hours per day. Details of rest are outlined by the physician. The bed should be firm; pillows under the knees or back should be avoided. The feet should be supported by a footboard. The bed is easier to get in and out of if blocks six to eight inches in height are placed under the casters.

Rest is alternated with exercises and activity. Prescription of the proper balance is the physician's responsibility. Specific exercises are prescribed, among which are muscle strengthening exercises. Joint deformity can be prevented or made less severe by daily putting the joints through a full range of motion. If pain lasts for more than 15 to 20 minutes after exercise, it has been too much.

Rest is necessary to reduce joint inflammation but exercise is required also to retain muscle and joint function and prevent gradual onset of deformity. Proper balance of rest and exercise is the keynote.

Warm or hot tub baths once or twice daily are helpful. Hot towels wrung out of hot water, applied to the joints and then wrapped in plastic sheets provide muscle relaxation. Infrared lamps are sometimes useful.

The family members of the patient with arthritis are his most important allies. They should be trained in home care and instructed in special techniques of treatment. They should understand the nature of the disease and participate in the overall treatment program.

Omar Bureson, M. C. 17th District, Texas
 Washington, D.C. — In his state of the union message delivered to Congress in January, the President promised he would submit proposed legislation for amending laws to prevent long tie-ups of vital industries because of strikes.

months. Some of our largest industries are involved. A few days ago it required only a few hours to rush through Congress a Resolution to forestall the threatened nation-wide railroad strike. If not settled within 20 days, the Congress will have to again act, by passing emergency legislation of tolerating a national railroad tie-up. It is incredibly shortsighted to leave the national interest exposed to such a hazard.

Everyone is aware of the fact that the problem of settling strikes is both sensitive and complex. The Congress itself should not be in the business of mediation, but there comes a time when additional powers ought to be voted to cope with emergencies, even if no perfect solution has been devised. No one has come up with any single satisfactory formula in national emergencies or lockouts. It may be necessary to grant the President a wider choice of remedies which could be applied to different situations as may be necessary in the national interest. It is entirely possible that Congress may have to broaden the powers which may be exercised under the national Railway Labor Act and the Taft-Hartley Act than to try to cope with every emergency situation after it has arisen.

Legislation has been introduced which provides that the mediation Board would notify the president if, in its judgement, a dispute between a railroad or an airline and its employees should threaten to deprive any section of the Country essential transportation service. The President then would have a choice of procedures. He could appoint an emergency board or a special board to investigate the dispute. If an emergency board is appointed, it would be directed to outline the facts behind that dispute and make recommendations within a 60-day period, with a right to extend the period for another 60 days. Work would continue during that time and 30 days afterwards.

HELPFUL HOME HINTS

Be alert for belt backing which cannot be washed or dry-cleaned, warn clothing specialists. Some backings are of plastic, but they are used with fabrics which must be dry-cleaned. Plastic backings cannot be cleaned by this process. Belts with paper interlinings will usually dry-clean, but cannot be washed. Belt backing, which indicates that the backing may be washed or dry-cleaned, is usually acceptable. Some will merely state 'wash' or 'clean' as the garment requires.

1967 Savings Bonds Campaign Boasts Bonus "Freedom Shares"

President Lyndon B. Johnson launched the 1967 "Share in Freedom" campaign for sale of U. S. Savings Bonds with an announcement of a companion savings note, to be known as a Freedom Share. The new security will go on sale on May 1.

Freedom Shares will be sold only in combination with sales of Series E Savings Bonds, through regular Payroll Savings and Bond-A-Month Plans.

The new security will earn 4.74 per cent interest when held to maturity—4½ years. It must be held for one year before it can be cashed.

Series E Bonds will continue to earn 4.15 per cent interest, when held to maturity—7 years.

The President's announcement was made on a nationwide closed circuit telecast from Washington to meetings of some 10,000 Savings Bonds volunteers in 32 cities. The meetings were held to announce plans for this year's intensive sales campaign in April and May.

Freedom Shares will be sold in four denominations—$25, $50, $75 and $100—with purchase prices of $20.25, $40.50, $60.75 and $81, respectively. There will be an annual limitation on holds of $1,350 face value.

With an investment of $39, a purchaser can get back $50—half in 4½ years, the other half in 7 years. The combined yield of the two securities, if each is held to full maturity, is 4.39 percent.

In introducing the Freedom Share—a temporary addition to the Savings Bonds "line"—President Johnson said:

"Freedom must be at all times defended, because it's at all times besieged. Not all of us are called to fight on the battlefield. Many of us must, quietly and firmly do what we can and all that we must here at home. Buying bonds, regularly, is as important to this nation in the long reach of history as almost anything we can do.

"We can do no less than those who fight and die for our freedoms. Last year, our American servicemen bought almost $350 million worth of Savings Bonds—close to $90 million in the last quarter alone. Battle honors come hard in Vietnam, because the price of honor is often the price of life. Yet in jungle and hamlet—on shipboard and airfield—there is one trophy that every American unit prizes. It is not the flag of the enemy. It is the Minute Man Flag that symbolizes 90 per cent or better participation in the Payroll Savings Plan.

"Throughout Vietnam, there are scores of units who fly those flags for all our countrymen to see. I have seen them in Vietnam. They are declarations of our faith, and they declare that we are still the people that the post saw—with The Flash of freedom in their souls and the light of knowledge in their eyes."

Tens of millions of Americans now hold the popular Savings Bonds—which got their starts in May 1941. Today, more than $50.3 billion is outstanding in the hands of bond purchasers, representing some 23 percent of the publicly owned portion of the national debt.

Savings Bonds have long been a major tool in the development of thrift habits and in helping the government meet its obligations and combat inflation.

It is expected that dollars invested in the new Freedom Shares will be dollars that would not, otherwise, enter the savings market.

Texas Baptists Increase Giving To Mission Funds

Dallas Texas Baptist churches shattered all previous records during March for Mission giving in a single month, according to an announcement from the office of R. A. Springer, Treasurer of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Springer's report over the weekend showed an unprecedented $1,125,746 given by the approximately 4,000 Texas Baptist churches through the treasurer's office to the Cooperative Program, a unified budget plan for undesignated receipts. The funds support work in the state, across the Southern Baptist Convention and in foreign countries.

Designated gifts of $457,659 also were given during the month, bringing total mission giving for March to $1,583,405.

The Cooperative Program receipts were some $107,000 above the monthly budget of $1,618,750.

Previous high for giving in a single month was $1,126,518 in November, 1966.

T. A. Patterson, executive secretary of the 1.8 million-member state convention, has called the Cooperative Program "the missionary arm of Texas Baptists."

Budget For Landscape Development

The cost of landscape development - grading, drives, patios, retaining walls, screen plantings and professional service - are often overlooked in planning for a new home.

These are items, points out Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist at Texas A. & M. University, which can have a great deal to do with making the new home more beautiful and living more enjoyable. Too often, he adds, they are overlooked in planning the budget for the new home.

The average cost of land development is between 10 and 20 per cent of the cost of the house and lot. These figures do not include the cost of a large installation such as a swimming pool or tennis court.

Santa Fe Again Offers Awards To Texas 4-H Youth

Twelve Texas 4-H Club members can look forward this fall to being guests of the Santa Fe Railway in Chicago at the National 4-H Club Congress. They will be chosen on the basis of a good all-around 4-H record, and will join the state delegation to the congress, Nov. 26-30.

Four of the 12 will receive educational scholarships in addition to the congress award. The Cooperative Extension Service will name the winners.

This marks Santa Fe's 45th year of 4-H support. Awards are offered in the 11-state area served by the railway system. While attending the 4-H Congress, officials of the railway personally will greet the young visitors and are hosts to a gala dinner party complete with top entertainment.

According to past winners, it's a delightful experience never to be forgotten.

Self Culture Club Observes Federation Day

Federation Day was observed by the Santa Anna Self Culture Club with a luncheon at the clubroom of the City Library Friday of last week. The district president, Mrs. Lewis Hale of Christoval, was the honor guest. Miss Mary McCorkle gave the invocation.

The buffet table was laid with cutwork cloth, in the Texas theme, the floral centerpiece was of red amaryllis and blue bonnets in a white pottery bowl. The quarter tables were covered with pastel cloths and had white hobnail vases with blue bonnets and crystal bowls of nuts and mints.

Mrs. W. B. Sparkman, club president, introduced the program. Mrs. Hale gave a greeting to the club. Reporting on the community service of the club, which won a Sears award for the second year, were Mrs. Hardy Blue, Mrs. Joe Mathews, Mrs. James L. Harris, Mrs. C. D. Bruce and Mrs. Tom Kingsbery.

The four winners of poetry reading in the Santa Anna High School, who will compete in district Interscholastic League later this month, gave readings: Susan Newman, Melinda Dean, Ricky Jones and Jimmie Benton. Each was presented a box of candy by Mrs. Kingsbery as a token of appreciation from the club.

Mrs. Bruce related the history of the Bartons of Home Creek, a family coming to this area during the Civil War and having a varied and interesting pioneer life.

Committee for the luncheon was composed of Mrs. Joe Mathews, Mrs. Charles Evans and Mrs. Bruce. Twenty-two members and guests were present.

How Will They Spend It?

A new emphasis has been added to one of the oldest programs for 4-H Club members. The 45-year-old national 4-H Home Economics program this year features consumer education, according to the National 4-H Service Committee.

The reason for introducing the consumer section in the program is because of the need for more guidance in this field in view of the tremendous buying power of American teenagers, a committee spokesman says.

By 1970 teenagers will spend from $21 to $30 billion. This compares to $11 billion spent in 1963.

In less than three years, it is estimated that more than one-fifth of the total U.S. population will be between 10 and 19 years of age. The purchasing power of this young generation will exceed anything in the past.

Today approximately 1.3 million 4-H youths are engaged in home economics projects involving some purchasing. Most of the members are girls, but with the emphasis on consumer education 4-H leaders expect more boys to participate.

Their reasoning is that boys buy clothing, grooming aids, food, furnishings for their rooms, record players, records, televisions and radios.

Girl members buy the same things plus small appliances, sewing and interior decoration items. The importance of being an informed shopper is further underscored by the fact that today's teens will suddenly become tomorrow's homemakers.

Club members who highlight consumer emphasis in their projects will be rewarded by Montgomery Ward, the program sponsor.

Awards are six national $500 scholarships, a trip to the National Club Congress in Chicago for the state winner, and honor medals for four top members in the county. Winners are named by the Cooperative Extension Services which directs all 4-H programs.

To help 4-H leaders and members carry out program goals, the National 4-H Service Committee has published a brochure entitled "4-H Home Economics with Emphasis on Consumer Education."

This educational aid will show 4-H girls and boys who contribute a sizeable sum to the nation's economy, how they can get the most for their dollars.

Among things to do are (1) become familiar with stores in the community (2) examine quality of merchandise and services (3) check brands, labels, utility (4) compare impulse buying versus planned buying. The young consumers also are urged to study ads, take advantage of seasonal sales, and learn about cash, credit and installment buying.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Pig In The Parlor

Is an ugly junk yard a nuisance? Is a noisy radio a nuisance? Is an odorous henhouse a nuisance? Consider this definition by the United States Supreme Court:

"A nuisance may be merely a right thing in the wrong place—like a pig in a parlor."

In other words, in complaining about an annoyance, it is not enough for you to point out how it looks, smells or sounds. You must also show that it is not appropriate to the location.

For the eyes of the law, when you choose your residence you are also choosing your environment. Choose the amenities and the excitement of the city, and you also choose its clutter and its dirt. They are a normal—even an essential—feature of urban living. As one judge put it:

"Without smoke, Pittsburg would have remained a very pretty village."

Complaints about nuisances may be judged not only in terms of the general community or the particular neighborhood but even in terms of feet and inches.

For example: A home owner was denied an injunction against cooking odors blown from the house next door, when the court ascertained that there was a space of almost thirty feet wide between the two buildings.

But an apartment dweller was granted relief from the cabbage and onion fumes aimed his way by the people directly across the hall.

Of course, to the person annoyed, the mere location of the annoyance is not the whole story. Not every individual has the same "threshold" of irritation. A smell or noise that vexes a neighbor may leave another—equally close to the source—totally unconcerned.

But as a practical matter, the law must decide according to the average, not individual, tastes and sensibilities. Thus, a court refused to interfere with blasting noises which were irksome only to an especially nervous woman in the neighborhood.

Even if it tried, the law could not please everybody. Inevitably it would run afoul of those people who, in one court's words, "consider all noises offensive except those they make themselves."

Grandparents Enrich Children's Lives

Children's lives can be enriched greatly by their association with grandparents, says Leota C. Lane, Extension specialist in family life education at Texas A&M University.

The most loved grandparents are not those who "spoil children," but those who love them and respond to them. Children can learn a great deal about the meaning of love through their association with grandparents.

Another important contribution of grandparents to their grandchildren is as a link to the past. Young children understand things only on the basis of their own experiences—in the present. Through grandparents, the younger generation can come to learn their family heritage. They enjoy hearing of "when Mom and Dad were our age."

In these days of emphasis on youth, grandparents can also impart a wholesome attitude toward older adulthood. When children have an opportunity to love an older person who is vital, interesting, and well-adjusted, they learn to appreciate the older people and to look forward to the time when they, too, will be grandparents.

Grandparents can support parents, subtly or openly, in their relationships with the grandchildren, reinforcing of teaching done by parents at every opportunity. And, best of all, grandparents can have fun with the young people in "the new generation."

LIFE BELTS FACE TESTS BY WARDENS

Extraordinary care is being taken by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to safeguard water recreational buffs and also to protect them from penalties provided for failure to comply with life preserver regulations.

State game wardens, empowered by the water safety law to enforce safety provisions, are checking unusually close, according to the Department, to determine that all water borne persons have access to the proper type of life preservers.

Above all, wardens have been instructed to strictly apply the safety code so far as it directly affects individuals.

Journalism Scholarship Offered at ASC

San Angelo—A $300 scholarship honoring the late Millard Cope, former publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times, will be awarded this spring to some young person who will be a freshman journalism student in Angelo State College next fall.

Three similar scholarships awarded last year, will be renewed if present holders can maintain their qualifications.

Funds for the scholarships are provided by the Millard Cope Memorial Scholarship Fund, a $25,000 trust established by Mr. and Mrs. Houston Harte-of San Angelo. Mr. Cope, formerly publisher of the Marshall News-Messenger, was publisher of the San Angelo newspaper and president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association at the time of his death on Jan. 4, 1964.

Applicants for the freshman scholarship will be considered on the basis of need, interest and ability in the field of journalism, and intent to enter the newspaper profession, said Dr. R. M. Cavness, president of ASC.

Applications should be addressed to Fred Conn, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times, or Mrs. Maxine Wells, chairman of the ASC journalism department.

A selection committee composed of Conn, Dr. Cavness and Bob Craig of Hamlin, president of the West Texas Press Association, will choose the recipient.

Any student who plans to enroll in ASC as a freshman next fall is eligible to apply for the award. Applications should be in the hands of either Mrs. Wells or Conn by May 15.

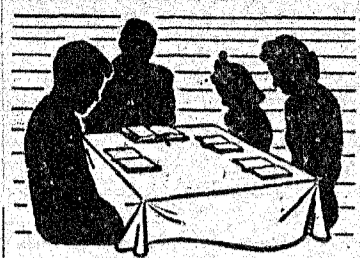

Winners of the 1966 scholarships, which are subject to renewal for 1967-68, were Deanna Loring of Paint Rock and Gerald Garner and Timothy Gette, both of San Angelo. If any of these should disqualify of withdraw from school, an additional award will be made to a new applicant.

Today's MEDITATION from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

Read Acts 17:1-9

"These are the men who have turned the world upside down and have now come here. (Acts 17:6, Philippians)

In a yacht harbor near Chicago there is a sign with these words: "Cause no wake." This means that boat pilots must go slowly so that hardly a ripple will be made in the water behind their boats. Those who use the harbor must not disturb the serenity of the situation.

This is a good rule for the harbor. But there are many people who seem to adopt it as a philosophy of life. They believe in keeping things as they are—never disturbing the status quo. They believe in keeping their privileges to themselves, and shuffling with no one. Christians are about as guilty of this attitude as any one else.

Early Christians turned their world upside down. Today some things in our world need to be explored, changed, and improved.

"Cause no wake" is a good sign for the harbor, but it would be a tragedy for any Christian or any church to obey such a sign in living the faith.

PRAYER: Help us, O God, to constantly subject our lives as well as society to critical scrutiny. Where revolutionary action is required, give us the courage to act in the love of Christ. In His name we pray. Amen.

He works for his country—a traveling man. Like seven out of ten government employees, he invests in U.S. Savings Bonds. He saves for the future—his own and America's—when he puts something into U.S. Savings Bonds every payday. Bonds are a good deal.

They earn a good return and make you feel good when you buy them. Buy Savings Bonds where you bank or join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. You'll walk a bit taller.

Compact Cars More Dangerous Than Standards

Drivers of U.S. compact cars run more than twice the risk of a one-car traffic accident than drivers of standard cars according to the American Automobile Association.

Adding a trailer to a passenger car increases the one-car accident risk four times.

Drivers of small cars and sports cars have an accident rate three-and-one-half times greater than drivers in standard passenger cars.

These are the conclusions of traffic expert J. Stannard Baker of Northwestern University, after a study of 850 accidents on U.S. Route 66 involving only a single car.

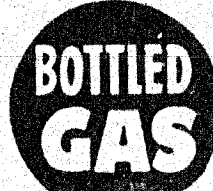

"The reason for the difference is not clear," Mr. Baker said, in a report to the annual meeting of the Highway Research Board. "Perhaps it is because different types of people drive the different cars."

"For example, generally the smaller cars are driven by young males who statistically account for more than their share of accidents."

Other facts cited in the survey based on reports of highway patrols in seven states:

1. Driver sleepiness was blamed by the police investigators for 25 percent of the accidents, excessive speed for 16 per cent and distractions for 9 percent.
2. Slippery roads were blamed for 13 percent, and faulty trailer hitches for 3 percent.
3. 23 percent of the vehicle occupants in the 850 accidents had seat belts, but only half were using them.
4. Two percent of the reported accidents involved fatalities.
5. In 92 per cent of the accidents, the auto or truck first ran off the pavement.

Fish Feathers Prove Genuine

Paint Rock, Tex.—An estimated 500 ducks killed by hail on a Concho County pond didn't go to waste completely.

San Angelo hatchery superintendent A. E. Pettit was catching some large catfish out of the pond for brood stock when he noticed some feathers in their mouths.

Investigation revealed duck feathers and duck gizzards in several catfish stomachs. Pettit learned how the ducks had been so tragically killed and could only use that the foraging breed cats had salvaged at least something from the incident.

TORNADO SEASON IS HERE!

Austin—Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, today urged Texans to review tornado safety precautions.

"While tornadoes can occur any time of the year," Garrison said, "April, May and June are peak months."

U. S. Weather Bureau records indicate that Texas leads the nation in total number of tornadoes per year. The annual average of 80.7 is based on a record of 1,210 confirmed tornadoes from 1951 through 1965.

"It is especially important for every school, church, hospital, hotel, business house, and industry to establish an emergency plan," Garrison said. "To know what to do when a tornado is approaching may mean the difference between life and death."

A circular on tornado safety is available from most local Civil Defense offices.

West Texas C of C Promotes "This Is West Texas"

The first of the new THIS IS WEST TEXAS billboards was "posted" at Fredericksburg recently by workmen from the Duplex Advertising Company of Austin.

"This is the second phase in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce's intensive tourist promotion plan," according to John Ben Sheppard, president of the regional organization. "The first phase was our new magazine, THIS IS WEST TEXAS, the first of which was circulated last week."

The three color 24-sheet sign will be seen throughout the West Texas area within the next three weeks when outdoor advertising agencies complete the posting of them. They are being displayed as a public service by the advertising companies as an aid to tourism in all of West Texas.

The large signs tell of the 61 major lakes, 163 museums, the 9 mountain ranges, the 23 national and state parks and the 1,266 historical markers through the 132 county area.

The third phase of the tourist promotion program is smaller signs with the same distinctive THIS IS WEST TEXAS insignia. They are for individual cities to use in telling of the specific tourist attractions in their immediate area.

The prototype of the small sign was unveiled earlier at the WTCC legislative breakfast in Austin, when it was viewed by legislators, officials of Texas Highway Department and Texas Tourist Development Agency and the members of the WTCC.

BOTTOM BUMPING FOR BASS

Every try bottom bumping with unweighted floating worms?

Add a quarter-ounce lead to the line, about 18 inches from the end. On the end of the line use a plastic worm on a weedless hook. Then slowly bump the lead across the bottom, letting the worm move freely... as if swimming.

This works many times when the jig-n-worm fails.

La. Fishing Fee Reduced for Texans

Austin—The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has been informed by officials of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission that Texans may fish in Louisiana by paying the same sports fishing license fee of $2.00 as residents of that state.

Texas, ten years ago, adopted its universal fishing license law with a provision that residents and non-residents pay the same fee for fishing in Texas. It was one of the first states to legalize such procedure.

Now, the Louisiana Attorney General has just interpreted a new Louisiana law as meaning that Texans under the agreement may buy the same $2 license that the Louisiana residents do.

The department pointed out that Texans will be required to have the Louisiana resident license for sports fishing in that state.

The Texas sports fishing license fee is $2.15 for each year ending August 31.

Sports fishing licenses for other non-residents of Louisiana cost $5 except for a $2 license good for seven days.

Solid State Captures Space Age

Can you imagine a television set that turns on and off, is timed and adjusted by a wave of the hand?

Or a temperature sensitive oven that cooks to perfection? How about a washer-dryer combination that cleans the clothes, discards the water, dries the clothes, and turns off when the correct dryness is reached? And a home computer that keeps your bank account and household budget up to date, works out your tax return, keeps stock of household supplies, and decides the best way to store food in the refrigerator—all automatically.

Sound impossible? Not according to Miss Joy Arrington, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University, who says Space Age solid state electronics will bring these conveniences into the near future.

Multi-Unit Furniture Store In Future

The multi-unit furniture store is the trend for the furniture retail business, according to Dr. Edward Bursh, editor of the Harvard Business Review.

Quoting Dr. Brush, Bonny Lay, extension housing and home furnishings specialist at Texas A & M University, says that the city store with several branches will be the fastest growing kind of retail operation.

These multi-unit stores are large enough to have a staff of trained employees able to give proper assistance, but small enough to know the market and what they want in home furnishings.

The discount stores with their quick sales will continue to grow, but not as fast as the multi-unit store. The greater convenience and higher quality furniture available in the multi-unit store has slowed the discount store trend.

Today's more knowledgeable customers are demanding higher quality and better designs in furniture. There are signs that the smaller retailer is coming back. Many of the small retailers have recognized the fact that they must be market-minded and have changed their store image for this reason. The small retailer must also have a clear idea of the segment of the market he is catering to and direct his sales efforts toward that market.

There is evidence that the masses of customers are not well pleased with the standardized merchandise of the giant chain stores and that these stores will not attract the largest market in the future. The customers are turning to smaller and multi-unit stores where they can get more attention, greater individuality of merchandise and higher quality furniture.

Paper Clothes For Fun Utility Wear

We once thought a garment had to be old and worn out before it could be thrown away—but not any more. That was before the debut of paper clothes, explains Rhea Boyles, clothing specialist with Texas A & M. University.

Paper dresses in bold designs and colors were first introduced as a gimmick, but their popularity is increasing.

One of the latest innovations is paper underwear. Garments of this type are available for both men and women.

Lingerie for the ladies is gayer and more frivolous. Bras, panties and slips are available in bold, gay colors. Garments like this are usually sold in kits, the price varying with the number of items in each kit.

Disposable garments are also used for utility and convenience. Current usage includes aprons, bibs, hospital lab coats, gowns for food processors, surgical gowns for nurses and doctors, and examination gowns worn by patients in doctor's offices.

TUITION TO STAY SAME AT BAYLOR

WACO — Baylor University trustees Thursday authorized preliminary planning for two new buildings and accepted President Abner V. McCall's suggestion that the Baptist school "hold the line as long as possible" against boosting tuition.

A committee headed by Trustee E. B. Burlison of Waco recommended that planning begin for a new physical education building to cost about $250,000 and for a new building to house the Baylor Press at a cost of about $150,000. Some local or designated financing now is available but a final go-ahead depends on availability of funds, Burlison reported.

McCall, noting that many other universities are raising tuition, said he hoped this would not be necessary at Baylor, where the current charge is $25 per semester hour. The board authorized McCall to adjust fees to costs in departments where students pay for laboratory materials.

Gas Fumes Pose Boat Fire Bait

Boat owners with enclosed gas tanks of inboard motors beware! A cupful of gasoline, properly atomized, packs the explosive force of 15 sticks of dynamite, says Parks and Wildlife Department Enforcement Supervisor N. E. Glover.

He added that boat explosions caused by gasoline fumes collecting in poorly ventilated boat bilges, rank second to collisions in water mishaps.

The Texas Water Safety Act stipulates that all inboard motors or covered gas tanks be ventilated fore and aft to rid potentially dangerous compartments of high explosive fuel mixtures.

Any low spot in a power boat that is not ventilated properly can collect dangerous gas fumes and blow a boat apart, warns Glover.

He said the relatively new ventilation requirement, that will be rigidly enforced by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department wardens this summer, is a necessary safety requirement on any boat with a tightly enclosed gas tank and/or motor compartment where gas vapors can collect and explode with the slightest spark. Any distributor or spark plug are can supply the little spark!

ELECTRIC POWER

The Edison Electric Institute, trade organization of the nation's investor-owned electric power companies, reports that to provide for America's electric energy needs by the year 2000, the electric utility industry plans to build the equivalent of seven additional power systems, each equal in electric energy size to that which is serving the American people today.

Residue From Pesticides Now Being Measured

Pesticide residues are now being measured in terms of parts per billion. New methods of detection and evaluation have made such measurements possible, says Dr. Jack Price, leader-agricultural chemicals for Texas A&M University's Agricultural Extension Service.

Raw agricultural commodities, such as meat, milk and eggs, containing more than established tolerances of pesticides residues are subject to condemnation and seizure, explains Price. Therefore, he adds, agricultural producers and commercial applicators of chemical pesticides should have as complete as possible basic knowledge of the sciences and skills related to the use of chemicals.

Pheasant Egg Hatch Under Way

A different breed of bird watchers is maintaining a close vigil at the Tyler State Quail Farm nowadays.

It's all because the first pheasant eggs of the season are being incubated.

And the sixty eggs represent a cross of the Afghan white-winged pheasant with the Iranian ring neck pheasant.

Birds produced will be released under the Department's exotic stocking program that already includes releases in several state areas, including the coastal prairies and far west Texas.

The new batch of chicks will be released where research indicates they will have the best opportunity to survive and reproduce.

Theoretically, the new stock will supplement native game such as bobwhite quail and other species.
