Local Personnel Attend State Hospital Meeting

Merl Roller, administrator, Myrtle Burden, nursing supervisor, and Lois Haines, R.N., attended the Texas Hospital Association meeting in Houston on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. The meetings were held in the Shamrock Hilton Hotel with 4444 registering from the 548 Texas hospitals.

Santa Anna Hospital is proud to hold membership in both the American Hospital Association and the Texas Hospital Association. These associations are voluntary associations of hospitals and hospital leaders for the purpose of developing and conducting programs and services to the end that each hospital can render more effective and economical patient care. No hospital is required to become a member but once the organizations standards are at the level to be recognized and membership has been attained, then certain privileges are immediately available.

With the privileges comes obligations. The principal obligation is to work cooperatively with other member hospitals in conducting the worthwhile programs that will meet the current needs of the patients of the member hospitals. Membership in these associations indicates to the community that its hospital is qualified, ethical and is meeting the high standards of good patient care.

From discussions, lectures, and exhibits at area and state levels the member administrators may learn of new ideas for more efficient functioning of the hospital and new methods of education of hospital personnel to effect more efficient handling of patients. Also new ideas and solutions to existing problems may be gained.

This means that your hospital is continually striving to provide you with the best possible medical care and treatment at the very lowest possible cost. It means that personnel charged with your care are keeping abreast of the development of the medical, nursing and scientific field. It means that the member hospital, having attained the necessary standards and goals to be accepted, will continue to meet the demands for safe, economical hospital care designed to speed you—the patient—to rapid recovery.

His body will be brought back to Santa Anna for burial. However, it is not known at this time just when it will arrive. It usually takes several days.

William Burl Sparkman, 83, a longtime resident of Santa Anna, died in the Coleman Hospital early Sunday morning, May 28, after a long illness.

Our Printer On Vacation

Grade Steen, Linotype operator and printer for The News, is on vacation; this week. He is somewhere in the State of Colorado, spending most of his time fishing. Mr. Steen went to Colorado on a fishing trip last year and the bug really got him. He just couldn't resist the temptation to return.

The Santa Anna Quarterback Club will have a called meeting at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, June 1. The meeting will be held in the directors room of the Coleman County Telephone Cooperative.

All members of the board of directors are urgently requested to be present. Persons interested in managing a ball club for the summer months are also urged to be present. An invitation is extended to any other persons who might be interested also.

An Urgent Plea...

Monday afternoon a little after six o'clock a false alarm was turned in to the local Volunteer Fire Department. The fire was reported to be at 708 Avenue A, the home of Louise Purdy and Miss Mollie Denton. When the fire fighting equipment arrived there, there was no fire and they had not turned in any alarm.

Several times recently false alarms have been turned in. The fire department and many other local citizens hope this practice will be stopped immediately.

Of course no one knows who is turning in the false alarms. We wonder does this person realize the trouble it is really causing.

Our fire department is strictly volunteer. These men are willing to take the necessary time from their regular routine of livelihood, to assure us of fire fighting protection. When they are called out on a false alarm, they are certainly not being treated right. They give us their services free of charge. It is a measure of protection to us and saves everyone who pays insurance many dollars every year.

Please don't take advantage of these men who give us their services in an effort to protect our homes and life. They are valuable to us and we need their services—when it is really needed.

EXCELLENT RAINS HERE

The best rains we have received in a long time came early Monday morning when more than an inch of badly needed moisture fell in our area. From statewide reports, it seems that the entire state received a good rain.

The report from the official gauge at the County Commissioner's barn showed a total of 1.3-inch rain. Ironically, the same amount was found in the gauge at the publisher's home, which is somewhat unusual.

Apparently most of the county received about an inch of moisture, and in some places the amount was a little over an inch. It was the kind of rain we have needed—slow and with very little wind. Most of the moisture soaked in the ground.

Revival At S. S. Church Of Christ

A revival meeting will be held at the South Side Church of Christ, beginning Sunday, June 4, and continuing through the following Sunday.

Services each Sunday will be at 10:30 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. Weekday services will be at 7:30 p.m. each evening.

Evangelist for the series of services will be Larry Brum of Irving, Texas. The church, located at the corner of South 5th Street and Willis Avenue, extends a cordial invitation to everyone to attend each service.

Inside and Out

Spring Clean-Up isn't just an inside job!

Also clean up the grounds around your house, advises the National Fire Protection Association.

This is a common-sense fire safety measure because any stray spark in nearby weeds, dead grass, old wood or other quick-burning debris could easily start an outdoor fire—a fire that could just as easily spread to your house and to other property.

Look for fire-inviting conditions around your home and correct them promptly. NFPA urges. This includes keeping all exterior surfaces of your house painted and in good repair, and replacing combustible wood shingle roofs with fire resistant roofing.

If you dispose of trash by burning it outdoors, be sure to follow any local regulations regarding type, use and location of home incinerators.

number of older people is increasing at a faster rate than the total number of births in the county.

As the aging increase in numbers, they will receive wider public attention; their role in politics will become greater; more attention will be given to their recreation and housing needs; different kinds of pensions and retirement programs and medical and welfare services.

Men have a higher death rate than women. The typical older married man, while the typical older female is a widow. Therefore, there are more widows than widowers in the aging population.

Sixteen older citizens live in Federal Housing Units; 131 live in the three nursing homes, approximately 75 live in the homes of relatives, and the remaining 2300 live alone in owner-occupied or renter-occupied housing.

Each agency represented explained briefly resources available for assisting the aging. Needs were cited as revealed through day to day contacts with them.

Emphasis was given toward educating people to grow old gracefully, to help them accept their roles, and how they can look forward to being a senior citizen.

Major problems defined by the agencies included the following: 1. inadequate income; 2. suitable housing and living arrangements; 3. unemployment; 4. and disabilities and handicaps.

Since there are many organizations which include activities for the aging, and in order to develop a worthwhile program and to avoid duplication, all organizations will be invited to send representatives to a meeting scheduled for June 13 in the Hospitality Room from 2:00 to 3:00 p.m., to each organization can participate in order to motivate county-wide action in 1968.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford

Austin — State Legislators wound up their 60th session here on schedule, despite a hectic flurry of last minute assignments, and left behind a far-reaching record of achievement in many areas.

No one can deny that there were some notable failures. But the accomplishments are impressive.

Here is a random look at some of the session's highlights.

● BUDGET — Lawmakers agreed on a $2,400,000,000 in spending ($448,800,000 from general revenue) for 1968, without passing a tax bill.

They will come back next year to budget for 1969. Funds provide for substantial increases in all areas of the state government, including education, health, general administration and welfare.

● SCHOOL TEACHERS — After requesting a $68,000,000 salary increase program and being offered $55,500,000 by the Senate, teacher finally got $51,000,000.

● STATE EMPLOYEES — These workers came up with their most substantial salary benefits in history. Raises averaged about 14 per cent and ranged up to 30 per cent and more in some salaries.

● MEDICAID — Title 19 hospitalization and medical aid to the needy — most dramatic step in public welfare since launching of social security — was implemented for Texas by passage of a special act and appropriation of nearly $25,000,000.

● EDUCATION — Money was made available for 2-300,000 public school pupils, and a 20 per cent increase in higher education spending. Junior college appropriations were increased from $13,600,000 to $24,400,000.

● CITY SALES TAX — Cities got the authority they sought to supplement their property tax income by levying one percent sales taxes on vote of their citizens after next August.

● LABOR — Although defeated on minimum wage legislation and workmen's compensation law revision, labor came to terms with management on a compromise industrial safety act and an increase in unemployment compensation benefits from a maximum of $37 to $45 a week.

● CONSUMER CREDIT — State's first consumer credit code regulates lending at all levels. Rates of up to 240 per cent on very small loans stirred controversy, but they passed by big margins.

● TRAFFIC SAFETY — Major part of Gov. John Connally's recommended highway safety program was approved. It included a new drivers' license act, an auto inspection bill and establishment of a traffic program to be administered by the Governor.

● OPEN MEETINGS — Another Texas legislative first, an act to require open meetings of governmental agencies at all levels was signed into law by the Governor who termed it "a great step forward to provide a means whereby the public can be more informed on governmental and public affairs."

● REAPPORTIONMENT — Legislators agreed on both congressional and state House of Representatives redistricting. However, they could not get together on judicial reapportionment.

● WATER — Texas Water Development Board received $1,200,000 more for its operations and completion of a statewide master plan. Texas Water Rights Commission got a boost of $34,422 to aid in administering the new water rights adjudication act which also is a product of the 60th session.

● POLLUTION — Strengthened Water Pollution Control Board got $12,600,000 for its operations. An air pollution control measure also became law.

● SUNDAY CLOSING — Lawmakers tightened Sunday closing law by repealing the "emergency purchase" provisions of the old law.

Key recommendations of Governor Connally which failed to clear the Legislature were proposals for sweeping revision of the state constitution by a 450-member convention and legalized sale of liquor by the drink.

Bill to legalize parimutuel wagering on horse races never came to a showdown vote, but a referendum on the issue was approved for inclusion on next May's Democratic and Republican primary election ballots.

● CONNALLY VETOES — Most of the bills passed by the Legislature are signed into law. But once in awhile

Blue Flame Queen

CHICAGO — Ross K. Albon, newly elected president of the National LP Gas Association, crowns Miss Blue Flame at the association's 36th annual convention in Chicago. Albon is president of Northern Propane Gas Co., Omaha, Nebraska. The NLPGA convention was attended by 3800 persons engaged in the production, transportation and distribution of liquefied petroleum gas and gas-fired appliances to more than 12 million customers for 1960 different uses.

the governor vetoes a measure. One he vetoed would allow cigarette distributors to make payment for cigarette stamps purchased from the state within 15 days after the purchase rather than when the purchase is made.

Connally said he vetoed the bill because, although it would have required the distributors buying on credit to put up a bond, "this surety bond does not change the constitutionality of pledging the state's credit."

In addition, the Governor said the state comptroller has informed him that "the general revenue fund in the treasury would lose approximately $5,500,000 during this current fiscal year because of the delay in payments for cigarette stamps."

● LEGISLATORS' PAY — Both Houses approved — and the people will get a chance to vote on — the proposed constitutional amendment which would raise the salaries of legislators from the current $4,200 to a maximum of $8,400.

Measure, authored by Rep. Alonzo Jamison of Denton, will be placed on the ballot in the next general election to let the voters decide on whether they want to raise the salaries of their representatives and senators.

● EDUCATION FUNDS DISTRIBUTED — Governor Connally has approved an expenditure of more than $1,000,000 requested by the Texas Education Agency under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act for educational planning in a variety of fields.

Some $97,390 will go to schools in Edinburg, Corpus Christi, Victoria, Orange, Kilgore, Mount Pleasant, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Waco, Abilene, San Angelo, Lubbock, Midland, El Paso and San Antonio. Bryap and A&M school districts each will receive $22,508.

Money can go for salaries, consultant fees and travel. Grants soon will be transferred to the board of directors for the Education Service Center in each geographic region of the state.

● COURTS SPEAK — Supreme Court will hear

Coleman County Employers Reported First Quarter Wages of $1.3 Million

About 1,600 workers in Coleman County's nonfarm businesses earned taxable wages under the old-age, survivors, and disability insurance program, according to the latest edition of "County Business Patterns," according to R. R. Tuley, Jr., Social Security District Manager in Abilene.

Three hundred and one reporting units of employers of nonfarm employees covered under the program paid out some $1.3 million in taxable wages in the county during the first quarter of 1965. The largest proportion of employment, 489 workers, was in retail trade.

The current edition is the 12th in a series showing the county and industry statistics based on wage reports filed under the Federal Social Security program.

The data are uniform and comparable from State to State and County to County and are shown for many kinds of businesses under the following broad industry groups: agricultural services, forestry, and fisheries; mining; contract construction; manufacturing; transportation and other public utilities, wholesale trade; retail trade; finance, insurance and real estate; and services.

The publication shows the number and location of the workers, the industries in which they are employed, and how much they are paid in taxable earnings. The publication furnishes businessmen with data to evaluate private demand for both industrial and consumer products, is valuable in analyzing market potentials and establishing advertising and sales programs, in analyzing the industrial structure of regional areas, and in making basic economic studies of small areas.

Reference copies of "County Business Patterns" may be examined at district and branch offices of the Social Security Administration, and at many public libraries. The complete set of 43 books for the U.S. as a whole, 1 for each state, D.C., and Puerto

● ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES — Galveston County Memorial Hospital employees and other public workers have the right to be represented by a labor union if the union does not claim the right to strike or bargain collectively. Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin has held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

● Board of Vocational Nurse Examiners may use the best pool examination of the National League for Nursing as its licensing examination as long as it proves adequate to meet state statutory requirements.

● Water Control and improvement districts and fresh water supply districts do not have the authority to acquire and maintain fire-fighting facilities and equipment.

● SHORT SPORTS — Mrs. Hilda Weibert of Seguin, for 16 years a national Democratic committeewoman from Texas and also former vice chairman of the State Democratic Committee, was honored in ceremonies during the closing week of the legislative session and her portrait was placed in the state senate reception room.

House of Representatives recessed Friday to attend funeral services for Rep. Ira Kohler of Houston.

Texas retail sales dropped eight per cent in April, according to UT's Bureau of Business Research.

In its hurry to adjourn before the Legislature's 140 days were up, the Senate passed 200 bills in a single day — most of them local and uncontested.

HIGH TEENAGE DEATH TOLL

Almost one-fourth of all traffic fatalities in Texas in 1965 were youngsters under the age of 20, says "Texans for Traffic Safety." All motorists are urged to use extreme caution in operating a vehicle around children, or with a young passenger in the car.

Cost of Driving, Vacationing Are Up, AAA Says

Costs of owning and operating a car and taking a highway vacation have risen substantially in the past two years, the American Automobile Association reports.

Fixed costs such as insurance, registration, and depreciation have risen from $807 yearly in 1965 to $982 today, with increases noted in all categories. These costs are entailed even if the car never leaves the garage.

Variable costs, which are in relation to the number of miles driven, also have gone upward. According to AAA figures, if the car is driven 10,000 miles a year, which is about average, the total will be on the order of $380 as compared with $370 two years ago.

Adding the fixed costs to the variable costs, assuming a mileage of 10,000 per year, it turns out that it costs $1,362 or about 13.6 cents per mile to own and operate a comparatively low-priced car for the span of a year.

In its report, AAA emphasizes that these figures are only averages and that individual expenditures can range quite far in both directions above or below. But the AAA feels that they are instructive for those car owners who do not keep a detailed record of car costs.

Vacationing by highway also has gone up in price. Two years ago, AAA recommended for a couple a daily budget of $31 for necessary spending, based on 300 miles of daily travel, with the car averaging 15 miles to the gallon. Now, AAA recommends allowing at least $36 for the daily budget while on the road. AAA breaks this budget down as follows:

Figure $13 daily for meals and snacks; $12 for lodging; $8 for gas and oil and $3 for tips and miscellaneous.

"In addition," AAA cautions, "there will be expenditures for souvenirs, amusements, admissions to places of interest, recreation, retail purchases and so on. Its wise also to include in the vacation budget a contingency fund for emergencies of one kind or another. Turnpike tolls, depending on the routing you have chosen, would be an added expense."

Despite rising costs, most families seem to be able to stick to their vacation budget. In a recent survey of AAA members, the question was asked about the total of vacation expenditures in relation to expectations. In response, 81 per cent of AAA's ten million members said they had spent about what they expected; 8 per cent reported they had spent less than expected; and 11 per cent reported they had exceeded their vacation budget.

4-H Paves Way For Future Leaders

"You have to be a jack of all trades to be a leader," observed an 18-year-old 4-H Club boy. And he should know because he was among the top 12 4-H member leaders in the U.S. last year.

It may be safe to say that all 550,000 junior and adult 4-H leaders agree. For there are scores of different 4-H projects, activities and special events supervised by volunteer leaders. They involve boys and girls 9 to 19 years old.

Any youngster can enroll in the national 4-H Leadership program. It is not only a training ground for subject matter leaders in safety, health, electric, livestock, home economics and public speaking, but also a springboard for future businessmen, teachers, lawyers, doctors and civic leaders.

Self-determination, responsibility and perseverance are among prime requisites for successful leadership, according to the Cooperative Extension Service which sets up guidelines for the program. In the course of 4-H membership, many opportunities present themselves for advancement as leaders.

Two persons in each state—a boy and girl—will be eligible to enter their 4-H Leadership records in competition for 1967 national $500 scholarships. A total of 12 will be given. One state winner will be a delegate to the National 4-H Club Congress, Chicago, with all expenses paid.

New Herbicide Improves Mesquite Control

A relatively new hormone-type herbicide, picloram, in combination with the well known 2,4,5-T has shown superior results in mesquite control on West Texas ranges.

Aerial application tests begun in 1964 boosted mesquite root kills from two to five times that obtained with 2,4,5-T alone.

Picloram, however, is not used U. S. Department of Agriculture-approved for use on rangeland. Further testing is necessary.

The trials have been supervised by E. D. Robison, brush control specialist at the Rolling Plains Livestock Research Center at Spur. The center is a unit of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Lowry, Donna and Sheryl of Plano came Saturday for the Memorial Day holiday weekend with Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lowry.

4-H Girls Have Edge On Most Home Sewers

There is a big difference in clothes that have the "handmade" rather than the "homemade" look. And it is the distinctive "handmade" look that 4-H girls can perfect when they make their own clothes, says 4-H clothing leaders.

The national 4-H Clothing program annually enrolls about three-quarter million girls from 9 to 19 years of age. Many mothers of today's members learned to sew when they were enrolled in this program now in its 27th year.

What is so special about the clothing program? First of all, it is flexible enough so even a 9-year-old miss can learn to operate a sewing machine and make easy things like a poncho or head scarf. Twelve-year-olds make skirts, blouses and straight line dresses.

Teenage girls who stay in the project wind up making the most important clothes in their wardrobe such as suits, coats, party dresses, sports attire and basic outfits for school.

But there is much more to the clothing program than cutting out a garment and running it up on the machine, extension clothing specialist point out. The young seamstresses study design, color, fabrics and finishes. They learn how to use time, energy and money wisely in planning and making their own clothes.

By participating in the clothing program over a period of years, the 4-H girl has an opportunity not only to have a fine wardrobe at low cost, but also to compete for valuable awards.

This year six of the nation's most outstanding clothing members will receive $500 scholarships. Fifty — one from each state — will win an all expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. Several thousand will earn the county medal.

Importance of Veterans and Dependents as Consumers Stressed

The importance of the veteran and his dependents as consumers was emphasized recently by the appointment of William J. Driver, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, to the President's Council on Consumer Interests.

The appointment of the council members was announced as Betty Furness was sworn in as President Johnson's assistant on Consumer Affairs. The council was upgraded and given new authority by the naming of the principal cabinet officers and four top agency heads as members.

The impact that the 26-million living veterans have on the consumer market was a determining factor in naming Driver as a member of the council. Together with their dependents, the veteran population constitutes 49 per cent of the total population of the United States. Administrator Driver said Veterans Administration representation on the council was indicative of the vast economic and consumer potential the veteran population exercises as a determining factor in the overall economic structure of the United States.

Driver pointed out that the veteran population deserved full protection in the fields where they were most vulnerable to unfair and improper practices.

Over seven millions homes have been built with the aid of VA GI loans. As homes are furnished and as repairs or extension to these homes become necessary, Driver said it was imperative that the consumer be protected not only in the quality of the products and services which would be purchased, but that there be assurances that the truth in lending and truth in advertising practices were carried out.

Driver said many veterans and their widows and orphans were dependent on veterans benefits for much of their total income. Because of this, he said, it was imperative that protections be inaugurated that would guarantee the maximum benefit from such allotments.

Among the VA beneficiaries who would benefit most through consumer protection are nearly 1,200,000 low income veterans and dependents of deceased veterans receiving VA pension payments. He also listed about 26,000 war orphans receiving VA educational assistance, some 600,000 minors and mentally ill beneficiaries under VA guardianship protection, and more than 265,000 veterans receiving educational training under the new GI Bill.

In addition to the individual consumer problems faced by those served by the VA, Driver said that the agency itself was one of the largest single consumers of products and supplies in the nation. In the 165 hospitals, 211 outpatient clinics, 16 domiciliarys, and 57 regional offices, the VA spends annually $153-million for provisions and supplies. Of this amount, $63-million are spent in the local community on the retail market.

"While safeguards are taken as to quality and cost," Driver said, "because of the vast expenditure of government funds, it is important that we be able to purchase what we need without fear of substandard supplies or exorbitant prices. I feel that this council will be able to suggest requirements that will protect all of the consumers, whether they be large or small."

Food Coatings Soon Edible

Film and food coatings are a rapidly growing area of food packaging, according to Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist with Texas A&M University.

Twenty years ago the choice for flexible film consisted of cellophane and glassine; but today there are a multitude of films and laminates available. They range from films of simple construction, such as metal foil, to highly complex, synthetic films.

Films may be modified in many ways to make them shrinkable by heat, flexible at low temperature, transparent or opaque and permeable to gases and moisture. One of the newer developments is the production of edible coatings for foods. Results of research with this type of packaging is varied. Some have proven acceptable, but others are still in the experimental stages. The exploration of space has created urgent needs for edible coatings, since they retain flavor, enzymes, meat cures and spices.

Wasps Can Be Dangerous

Wasps, as a rule, are beneficial insects, but they can become "tough customers" when disturbed. This often happens, says Phil Hamman, assistant Extension entomologist at Texas A&M University, when the insects build nests in such close proximity to the house, or even in the house, to make the area too confining for both insects and man.

Polistes, hornets, yellow jackets, mud daubers and the cicada killer are all wasps and as a group are beneficial insects. They destroy harmful insects found around homes and in gardens, but they also can attack people. Mud daubers and cicada killers usually will not sting unless touched or get caught in a person's clothing. But stay clear of the nests or hornets, yellow jackets and Polistes, warns Hamman.

A wasp stings by driving its needle-like ovipositor into the wound. This causes a painful swelling that may last for several days. In some people, a wasp sting results in severe illness or even in death, says the entomologist. Because of the probability of serious trouble, Hamman suggests that a sharp look-out be maintained for the insects and especially for their nests.

Nests and insects can be destroyed by applying recommended insecticides. Do the control work at night, he says, when wasps are less active and most are in the nest. Since many nests are found in trees and shrubbery or on the house, Hamman suggests using a water based spray containing DDT, chlordane or dieldrin. If the wasps are nesting in the ground, the same materials in a dust form are recommended.

Numerous ready-to-use formulations and aerosol bombs are readily available and will give good results, says Hamman. But he warns that regardless of the material used, label instructions should be carefully followed. Local county agents, he adds, can supply information on recommended insecticides, including rates of application and directions for mixing and using the materials.

Glenn Gilbreath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gilbreath of Shields, has accepted summer employment as a junior engineer with an oil company in Midland. He is a junior student at Texas Tech and a 1964 graduate of Santa Anna High School.

DON'T OVERLOAD THE BOAT KEEP DRY AND UPRIGHT...

Thinking about taking the gang fishing in your outboard this weekend? Better think twice.

Overloading a boat can capsize it, cautions the American Insurance Association.

Most boat manufacturers post on OBC (Outboard Boating Club of America) capacity plate on each boat showing the maximum recommended weight that the craft can safely carry.

Each person aboard should wear a life jacket. NOT depend on the cushion-type preservers that often float out of reach. One never knows when an accident will occur and the boat will tip over.

Foam Rubber Flourishes

Easy-care foam rubber is serving in more places in homes today, says Jane Berry, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist, Texas A&M University.

Foam rubber is easily and safely cleaned with suds and water. Solvents and cleaning fluids will cause deterioration of foam rubber and should not be used in cleaning.

Wash rubber mats often by squeezing in soap or detergent suds, rinse in clear water and hang over parallel lines to dry. Occasionally clean foam fleece mattress pads in the same manner; this treatment keeps them light and airy and helps retain their shape and elasticity.

Foam rubber pillows may be washed by hand or in the automatic washer. Put each pillow in an old pillow case. Baste up the open end with long stitches to allow space for the soiled water to be released. Set the automatic washer for five minutes, plus the spin cycle. Dry rubber pillows in the air, but never in the dryer or in strong direct sunlight.

When washing pillows by hand, squeeze the suds and warm water through them and rinse in clear water. Take a couple of clean towels and press and kneed out as much water as possible. Dry in a breezy spot away from sunshine or heat. It will take some time to dry pillows in this manner. Always protect foam rubber pillows with a covering which can be removed for laundering.

Spot-sponge foam mattresses with thick suds of detergent or soap when needed. Many foam mattresses have removable damask or ticking covers which should be laundered periodically.

Mrs. Sibley Jones of Austin and Mrs. Hobart Rowley of Killeen and son and daughter visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bruce. They are nieces of Mrs. Bruce, daughters of John R. Banister of Austin.

The seventh annual Lykins family reunion was held Sunday, May 28, in the Coleman City Park, with 49 present.

The eldest member of the family present was Mrs. R. M. Lykins, Sr., of Santa Anna. The youngest was her great-granddaughter, Lana Kay Lykins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lykins of Bangs. Traveling the longest distance were two sisters, Annie Peyton McLesky and Willie Peyton Brumley from Meselli Park, New Mexico.

Report was made that a book containing the history of the Lykins family compiled by Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sparks of Sparks, Nevada, is now complete. A copy will be received soon for inspection by various members of the family. This history traces the family back to two Lykins brothers who came to this country from England in the 18th century. Copies will be available to all members who desire them.

Travel Trails Network Being Mapped in State

Austin — A scenic network of travel trails, winding through historical and recreational Texas, is being mapped by the surveyors who know the territory best—the state's citizens and community officials.

Letters have been mailed to the state's 254 county judges by the newly appointed Texas Travel Trails Committee, requesting information on sites in their areas which might be included on the trails.

Copies of the letter were also sent to chairmen of the state's county historical survey committees and presidents of chambers of commerce.

Specifically the committee is seeking information on:

- Sites of unusual scenic, geologic or geographic interest.
 - Outstanding historic and archaeological sites.
 - Recreational sites.
 - Cultural attractions.
- County Judges will have until June 30 to meet with city leaders and submit reasons why their areas should be included in the program.

The Texas Travel Trails Committee will study these proposals, determine which sites will be promoted and announce the precise roadways chosen for the trails by Oct. 1.

The major cost of establishing and publicizing the Travel Trails will be borne by the state. Each community and county, participating in the program, will bear the responsibility of purchasing uniform signs to designate the tour routes.

Plans for the Texas Travel Trails, aimed at increasing the state's billion-dollar tourist industry, were unveiled by Gov. John Connally at a state-wide meeting in Austin on May 3.

The byways, designed to lure travelers "off the beaten path," will be routed over existing highways.

Last year 19.2 million out-of-state visitors came to Texas; but their average stay declined from 6.1 days in 1965 to 5.8 days.

Governor Connally expressed the hope that the Travel Trails program will induce tourists to remain in the state longer by opening up tours through the countryside and smaller communities which have been bypassed by super highways.

The governor said, "Our purpose is to encourage sight-seers off the high-speed highways and onto the byways where they may take their time savoring the wealth of attractions Texas has to offer."

Leather Linings An Extra Shoe Bonus

Fashions for women this season include shoes lined with leather. Leather linings give extra comfort and longer wear to shoes, but cost no more, says Rhea Boyles, Extension clothing specialist of Texas A&M University.

Leather linings give any shoes an extra bonus — closed pump or sandal. The lining is made from split cowhide, sheep, or kid leather and helps retain the original contours of the shoe. Leather lining eliminates curling and buckling of leather.

The almost weightless and very thin lining is made of millions of tiny pores. Fresh air enters the shoe from all sides. Your feet stay dry, comfortable, and free from that burning feeling caused by excess perspiration.

Leather lining comes in many colors and designs, some linings match the shoe itself or complement the shoe's color. Polka dots or printed linings are found in some shoes, but frost white, black and beige still remain popular colors.

Co-eds Heading For Home Economics Careers Can Win 4-H Scholarship

Girls who have been 4-H Club members and are planning careers in home economics can get financial aid for college by applying for one of six 4-H Home Economics scholarships offered by three private enterprises.

Application should be made now through the state 4-H Club office or the county extension office. Information regarding eligibility also can be obtained there. Winning candidates will be announced in November by the Co-operative Extension Service.

Special Celebrations For June

Dairy Month, Barbecue Month and Father's Day — they're all a part of June.

Six types of foods in plentiful supply also are a part of this month, says the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. They include eggs, orange juice, potatoes, dry beans, milk and other dairy products and beef.

Every homemaker knows the value of a good supply of eggs in the refrigerator. Since June is Dairy Month, you'll find it an especially good time to plan on lots of dairy-oriented items. Milk is the base for so many refreshing summer drinks.

Ample stocks of beef are perfect for celebrating National Barbecue Month. Or what better way to please Dad on Father's Day than to serve his favorite beef cut—perhaps prime rib, steak or roast.

This year's orange crop is running about 34 per cent above last season, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Understandably, orange juice supplies are also large. Orange juice makes the perfect breakfast eye-opener.

To spend more time outside the kitchen during warm summer weather, serve potatoes. Baked potatoes almost cook themselves, and they're family favorites. Market news offices of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service report big supplies of potatoes arriving at local markets now. Dry beans add tasty enjoyment to mealtime.

For good selection and attractive cost, shop plentiful foods.

Downy Mildew Attacks Sorghum

Downy mildew. That's the name of it, and farmers who grow sorghum may profit, in the literal sense, by learning what they can about this disease.

Dr. Richard A. Frederikson, assistant professor in Texas A&M University's Department of Plant Sciences, is studying this spore-borne disease that can reduce the yields of several crops, mainly forage and grain sorghums. "The disease was first noted in this country in 1961," Frederikson said. He explained that downy mildew probably has existed in the sorghum-growing regions of Africa, China and India for centuries.

E. K. Jones visited recently in Dallas with his brother, and wife, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Jones.

Mrs. Edith Newsome of Winchell came Tuesday to visit several days with her sister, Mrs. Kate Holmes.

Ivory is supplied by the boar, hippopotamus and walrus, as well as the elephant.

How Safe Is Home?

"Safe at home" means a baseball player can relax for a while — but American homeowners who take safety for granted are "out in left field."

Leota C. Lane, Extension family life specialist at Texas A&M University, reports that 28,000 persons are killed in home accidents each year. About 25 million home accidents occur which cause injuries requiring medical attention. These statistics indicate that one's home can be a downright dangerous place.

American Medical Association records indicate that falls are the second most common cause of accidental death, next to highway accidents. Falls in and around the home each year cause injuries to nearly seven million people and 12,000 deaths.

Falls account for more than half of the fatal accidents for people over 65 years old, and about 75 per cent of these falls occur at home.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

During the summer thousands of students find jobs and become taxpayers through our income tax system of withholding. The Internal Revenue Service reminds these students that they should be sure to file an income tax return next January 1, even though they may make less than $600. Students who work only during the summer are usually entitled to a refund. Unless they file an income tax return, the Government has no method of giving them a refund of the taxes they do not owe.

DON'T DRIVE INTO TROUBLE!

KEEP YOUR MIND ON THE ROAD, NOT ON YOUR TROUBLES

Are you in the habit of mulling over personal problems while driving? It's a poor habit that could prove fatal. The American Insurance Association cautions.

Safe driving — especially these days as more and more cars crowd streets and highways — requires your full attention. Any distraction can lead to an accident that might have dire consequences for you, your passengers or some innocent motorist in another car.

To help keep down traffic fatalities, the Association urges that you concentrate on nothing else except safe driving. While you are behind the wheel.

Improvements In Gas Cooking Performance

Dramatic improvements in cooking performance, convenience, cleanliness and styling have made the 1967 gas range as up-to-date as a computer.

Modern gas ranges will be featured at local gas appliance dealers and Lone Star Gas Company offices during Lone Star's Spring Gas Range Sale through April.

One of the largest advances in gas ranges has been in automation, according to the Lone Star Gas Company. Programmed cooking has made the absentee cook a reality.

"Delay, cook and hold" programming on top-of-the-line ranges allows the housewife maximum freedom. She can put the food in the oven, set the controls in the morning, and find it waiting for her, ready to eat in the evening. The controls turn on the oven at a pre-set time, cook the food for the length of time selected, and then reduce the temperature to the "keep-warm" level.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

Omar Burleson, M. C. 17th District, Texas
 Washington, D. C.—(Note: Due to the death of Congressman Burleson's Mother, this release is being prepared by his Washington staff for this week.)
 The Congress of the United States, in its 90th Session, already has more than 11,000 bills to consider in the House of Representatives and 2,000 in the Senate. The scope of these proposals covers about every facet of American life. By reason of the great progress of our Nation, there are now legislative proposals that would not have been dreamed of a few years ago.
 One such complication is involved in legislation calling for a comprehensive national weather modification program. The day when "everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it" seems to be gone forever. There are currently some 40 or 50 commercial weather firms at work, and government and university research projects are nearing the same figure. The most recent figures, for 1962, indicated there were 6,120 scientists and engineers in the field.

Laws in effect relating to weather modification present a subject controversy because of the lack of pertinent litigation and statutory law. The unique features of the subject have caused considerable discussion by law review commentators and students in an attempt to define the rights and duties of those engaged in changing the weather, as well as the rights of those who would be affected by such changes. So far, legislation dealing with it at the State level is generally of a regulatory nature, while Federal legislation has been largely concerned with the support of research and development.

Obviously, time and events will bring the need for both. A number of years ago, in Jeff Davis County near El

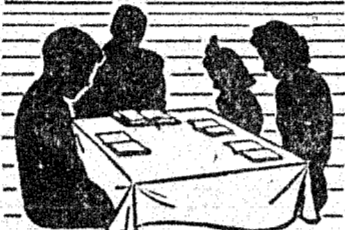

OPEN MEETINGS MANDATORY BY GOVERNMENTAL BODIES

Gov. John Connally, on May 22, signed into law an "Open Meetings" bill which he proclaimed as "a great step forward for the people of Texas."
 He was referring to Senate Bill 94 sponsored by Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena. Similar legislation was introduced in the House by Rep. Bill Rapp of Raymondville.

Passage of the "Open Meetings" legislation at the 1967 session culminated a drive that began some 20 years ago. It was engineered by legislators and the press to insure a better flow of information to the public.
 "Beyond any question, one of the weaknesses of a democratic society is that it's always difficult to try to articulate and to inform the public of the problems that surround the administration of government. I personally feel that if the public is informed, if it has the knowledge, people themselves will always make the right decisions. And this is going to be a step in providing the means where people can be better informed on the workings of their government."

Gov. Connally further stated: "This is particularly important because the affairs of this state are run by the various agencies, boards and commissions. People generally do not quite understand the significance of these various boards, agencies and commissions and the work that they do and the decisions they make. It is really the heart and the essence of government in Texas."

Today's MEDITATION from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

Read Matthew 10: 27-33
 Whoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven.

fall around Almanor and, in turn, increase the spring runoff for its power station dams. Below the dams, a disastrous flood occurred, causing millions of dollars worth of damage. Although citizens of the area sued the utility company, the court concluded there had been no unusual spillover at Lake Almanor and the lake had contained whatever extra rainfall the seeding had produced.

Among weather - control victories are impressive experiments conducted by airlines in clearing fog and the banks of low-lying clouds from airports. By dropping crushed ice on top of a "fog deck" results have been described as "spectacular" in allowing flights to land.
 It is a field in which great strides are being made - this field of weather science. It has left the ground and gone up into the air, to inner space and outer space, where all our weather comes from. It involves making measurements, collecting data, going through intricate calculations creating new techniques. In this scientific age, simply "forecasting" the weather is not enough; now man's ability has reached the point where he can change it. It is a great and awesome power. It has enormous potential for good - or evil - over our lives.

Whether it's cold, or whether it's hot, we shall have weather, whether or not.

"So I want to applaud the efforts of the press itself to bring into the light and to the awareness of the Legislature the need for this type of legislation. I want to commend the members of the Legislature who supported it and congratulate the people of Texas that they now can be better informed on their own affairs."

Excepted in the bill, so far as open meetings are concerned, are grand juries and certain executive sessions supported by or expending public funds. The law also excepts meetings called to consider the appointment, employment or dismissal of a public officer or employee or to hear complaints or charges brought against such persons, unless the individual concerned requests a public hearing.

Similar legislation was introduced by the Texas Press Association some 20 years ago. This year it had the backing not only of TPA but also the Texas Daily Newspaper Association and the Sigma Delta Chi journalistic fraternity, plus the support of radio and television media.

Co-sponsors of the new law, in addition to Senator Brooks, were the following Senators: Joe Christie of El Paso; Barbara Jordan of Houston; Criss Cole of Houston; Henry C. Grover of Houston; A. R. Schwartz of Galveston; and Dorsey R. Hardeman of San Angelo.

Joining Representative Rapp in escorting the bill through the House were Representatives Russell Cummings and Paul Floyd, both of Houston.

HEALTH TIPS FROM AMA

GARDENING

The home gardening season is in full sway across the nation again this month. After long months of winter, followed by spring rains, millions of American householders are back at the annual battle with crab grass and insects in the perennial effort to add a touch of natural color and beauty to the American scene.

The American Medical Association recommends gardening as good therapy and good exercise for almost everyone. Gardening also entails some hazards of health and safety, most of which can be avoided.

● If you have done nothing more strenuous than sit by the fire most of the winter, by all means take it easy for the first few weeks of gardening. Give your muscles a chance to regain strength gradually, rather than trying to do too much on the first day out.

● Gardening often brings cuts and scratches from twigs, thorns, sharp tools. First aid usually consists of washing the scratch with soap and water and applying an adhesive bandage. Let it bleed a little to wash away impurities. Deeper cuts may require medical attention.

● Tetanus germs are harbored in the soil, particularly if barnyard fertilizer is used. The home gardener who fails to protect himself with tetanus immunization is courting lockjaw.

● Power tools, particularly lawn mowers, are standard equipment for the modern home gardener. They save many an aching back, but they are potentially dangerous. Your power lawn mower comes with instructions on its safe use. Study them carefully. If you're in doubt, check with a mechanic as to potential hazards of power tools.

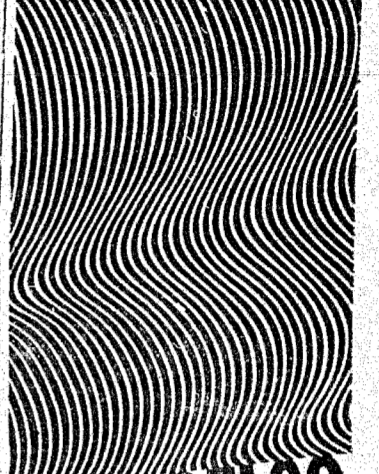

● Insect sprays and powders, plus poisons that kill weeds, are useful adjuncts to gardening. These, also, have inherent hazards if improperly used. Once again, read the directions, especially the warnings.

● Bees, wasps and spiders are out for the spring season, too, and now and then one of them may sting you. For most of us, a sting is painful and causes swelling, but it isn't serious. If you are one of those individuals with an allergy to insect bites, ask your doctor about the desensitizing injections.

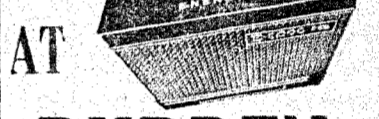

"Mush," the Alaskan term is a contraction of French "marchons" meaning to go on.

Unique Rail Museum To Tour During Chisholm Trail Centennial, 1967

Austin—Workmen in a Topeka, Kansas, railroad yard are busy these days hammering out a re-creation of one of the most storied portions of the Texas heritage—a visual portrayal of the Chisholm Trail—which, during 1967 celebrates the centennial of its founding.

Plans for a mobile history of the Chisholm Trail, over which ten million cattle started their way from Texas to northern markets, have been announced by the Texas Chisholm Trail Centennial Commission, named last year by Governor John Connally with Roger Conger of Waco, chairman. In conjunction with similar commissions from Oklahoma and Kansas, the Texas commission is outfitting a museum on rails, donated and refitted by the Santa Fe Railroad.

The Chisholm Trail exhibit car will visit as many towns as possible along the historic trail during the period from June to October. Precise schedules will be announced later, a commission spokesman in Austin announced. Between ten and fifteen stops in Texas are anticipated, including some areas that were not precisely on the trail but which fed cattle into it.

In Topeka, the 60-foot museum car is presently in the Santa Fe yards being outfitted with display cases, special lighting and sound, and being air-conditioned. Included in the blueprint for renovation is a small counter for selling Chisholm Trail souvenirs, special publications, and the like to the public.

The front part of the car will be used to tell the story each state played in the cattle drives.

The first display cases will be devoted to Texas, where the Trail began and the drives originated. The exhibit will show the different types of cattle and tell the generalized story of the round-ups, the cattle drovers, their horses, and the development of the highly specialized equipment used by man to drive the large herds of wild, almost unmanageable cattle up the Chisholm Trail.

The Oklahoma display cases will tell the story of the actual drives, the river crossing, and the Indian encounters.

Kansas' display cases will finish the monumental story with the railheads and the cowtowns that grew up about them, the loading of cattle for eastern markets, and the peace officer's enforcing law and order among the unruly and fun-seeking cowboys after the long drive.

The second half of the rail car will have three large exhibit areas. The first will depict a cowboy and his horse in full working regalia.

The second area will be devoted to the camp cook and his chuck wagon. This exhibit will contain the working end of a full-sized chuck wagon.

The third area will contain art work by Charles Russell and Frederic Remington, the artists who romanticized the west in paintings and sculpture.

Other displays on barbed wire, spurs, guns, branding irons, etc., will be included throughout the car.

movement of animals by man in the history of the world—in the years 1866 through 1884 more than a half million cattle were driven each year from Texas to the loading pens in Kansas for shipment to eastern meat markets.

The Chisholm Trail was only one of several routes over which these cattle were driven. However, it was the first major trail and therefore the most celebrated. It was named for an Indian Jesse Chisholm, who ran his own cattle over a portion of the route from northern Indian Territory to the Kansas railheads.

The idea of a Chisholm Trail was conceived by Illinois cattle trader, Joseph G. McCoy, who was concerned over the fact that Texas had four million cattle and the north was going meat hungry because there were no rail connections to the markets. In 1867, he persuaded Texas cattlemen to trail their cattle to a small hamlet at the end of a railroad—Abilene, Kansas—and at the same time he persuaded the railroads to build cattle cars, loading pens, a cowboy's hotel, stock tanks, corrals, and all the other necessary items for a complete cattle town. He brought the two—together, the first trail was a huge success, and one of the epic stories in Texas and American history was begun.

Crossbred Steers Bring Good Price

A study here shows that crossbred steers can bring just as high a price at the market place as straight bred steers.

There has been a stigma associated with crossbreds in the past—and almost invariably they would bring less than a comparable straight bred animal.

But no more, says Walter Kruse, of Texas A&M University's Livestock and Forage Research Center at McGregor.

Kruse marketed 26 crossbred steers this spring that brought an average of $23.25 per cwt. He sold Hereford steers that brought $23.24 and 4 Angus steers that brought $22.96.

"There was no significant difference in price whether the animal was straight bred or crossbred," said Kruse.

The highest price paid per pound was for a Hereford steer that brought $24.30 per cwt.; the lowest price per pound for a Brahman cross at $22.10 per cwt.

About the only noticeable price difference was in steers weighing less than 800 pounds. These brought about 50 cents less per hundred.

Kruse points out these steers were sold at community auction in Central Texas—but he believes there is a lessening of price discrimination against crossbred steers over most of the state.

Traffic Safety Bills Pass Tex. Legislature

Austin—The Texas Legislature has given Lone Star motorists a set of traffic laws designed to help check the state's escalating traffic accident rate. Strengthened driver license provisions, the more complete vehicle inspection requirements plus state-wide expansion of the driver education program and study of the medical aspects of traffic safety are all a part of the newly enacted legislation.

Introduced by Representatives David Crews, Conroe; Ralph Wayne, Plainview and Senator H. J. Blanchard, Lubbock the bills creating these new laws were a major portion of Gov. John Connally's 1967 highway safety program. Citizen support for these measures was led by Texans for Traffic Safety.

The new drivers license law provides for the issuance of licenses at age 16 to teenagers who have completed approved driver education courses, or who present a certificate from their superintendent of school showing that driver education is not taught in their school. This exception will apply only until June 1, 1969 and is designed to permit schools to gear up for a vastly expanded driver education program.

The minimum age for teens without driver education will be 18, however operators of motorscooters or motorcycles with 5 horsepower or less may be licensed at age 15. The minimum age for chauffeur and commercial licenses will be 17.

For the first time in Texas all motorcycle operators will be required to have a drivers license and all persons will be required to pass a driving test in the type of vehicle for which they will be licensed to operate. This provision includes trucks, tractor-semis and motorcycles.

Penalties for driving while a license is suspended are increased by the new driver license law. Persons convicted of driving while their license is suspended or revoked will be faced with a mandatory jail sentence of not less than 72 hours nor more than 6 months, plus fines ranging from $25 to $500. Rehabilitation driver training schools will be established by the Department of Public Safety for drivers whose license have been suspended or revoked.

VEHICLE INSPECTION STEPPED UP

The present vehicle inspection law has been amended to provide for the inspection of a vehicle's steering system, seat belts, wheels and rims. The inspection fee is raised to $1.75 to cover this addition to the list of items inspected.

Expansion of the driver education program in high schools was assured with the appropriation of $2 million. When this expansion is completed, all Texas teenagers should be able to take driver education prior to graduation from high school and qualify for licensing at age 16 instead of 18. The bill accomplishing this also designated the Governor as the one person responsible for preparing and administering a state-wide traffic-safety program designed to reduce traffic accidents.

The Governor is also authorized to cooperate with the Federal Government and with all political sub-divisions, of the state to receive and disburse on behalf of the state, Federal funds to be made available under the Highway Safety Act.

COMMERCIAL SCHOOLS LICENSED
For the first time, commercial driver training schools and their instructors will be licensed by the state. This is an effort to bring all driver training schools up to the standards set by the State and Federal governments.

Taking another approach to the problem of traffic accidents, the legislature directed the State Department of Health to study the medical aspects of traffic safety and to recommend standards and procedures based on these studies to the Department of Public Safety. Particular attention will be given to driver licensing law enforcement and accident investigation.

September 1, 1967 is the effective date of most of the traffic laws passed by the legislature. A law requiring all motorcycle riders to wear approved safety helmets will become effective January 1, 1968 and on that same date all motorcycle operators will be required to have a motorcycle operators license.

Homeowner Policy Wise Investment

The homeowner policy, introduced in 1952, has become one of the fastest and most effective forms of insurance, says Wanda Meyer, home management specialist with Texas A & M University.

Many homeowners prefer this policy because it is more convenient to pay only a single premium for the various types of protection needed. Generally, the single policy is less expensive, too.

In the basic protection of a homeowners' policy, liability coverage is usually $25,000. Personal possessions and household contents are insured for 40 per cent of the house coverage for loss by fire, theft, etc. An allowance is given for additional living expenses, such as hotel or motel bills, which a family may face if their house is damaged or destroyed.

These policies are written in three major groups depending on the number of perils covered. The standard form covers 11 perils—fire, lightning, windstorm and hail, explosions, riot, aircraft, vehicles, smoke, vandalism, theft, and glass breakage. The broad form covers an additional eight perils. The comprehensive form covers most risks, except earthquake, landslide, flood, surface water, waves, tidal water, backing up of sewers, seepage, war, nuclear radiation, and those related to deterioration.

The more perils covered in an insurance policy, the higher the premium cost. These costs can often be reduced by including a deductible feature. This means the policyholder pays the first $50 or $100 in certain claim areas.

Under a homeowner policy, if the house is insured for at least 80 per cent of its replacement cost, any damage is paid for in full at the replacement cost. When the house is insured for less than 80 per cent, only a portion of the replacement value of the loss is paid.

People who rent homes or apartments also can be insured for fire and other perils, theft and liability, under either homeowners or separate policies. In these cases, only their personal property in the house or apartment is covered.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

If you filed your tax return at the last minute don't expect that refund check to get there in a few days. It takes longer for Internal Revenue to process the flood of returns that come in at the last minute. Last minute filers tend to make more errors in the excitement of meeting the deadline. This further delays the refund checks. The best policy is to be patient. If you haven't heard from Internal Revenue by July 1, write and ask them what happened.
