Guard Unit Ends Training This Week

North Fort Hood — The 5,300 members of the 36th Infantry Division, Texas National Guard, will wind up two weeks of annual field training this weekend as units from more than 40 communities depart for home stations Saturday and Sunday.

Training over the vast acreage of this Central Texas Army post has ranged from squad tactics to tank companies in the attack.

A highlight of the first week's training was an exercise in South Fort Hood's Vietnamese village — an amazing replica of the type of communities through which American troops operate in Southeast Asia. Each rifle squad of the division's three infantry battalions was put through the Vietnam training program.

Armored units—the 1st battalion of the 124th Cavalry from the Odessa-Midland area; the 6th Battalion of the 112th Armor from the El Campo-Columbus region; and the 7th Battalion of the 112th from the Houston area—moved into the field Monday for a five-day bivouac period under control of the Division 2nd Brigade.

Division Headquarters were four days in bivouac last week. A map exercise involving Division Headquarters, brigades and separate battalions was held Monday under the direction of Maj. Gen. Selden Simpson, division commander from Amarillo.

Division headquarters spent four days in bivouac last week. All units of the division participated in a map exercise Monday under the direction of Maj. Gen. Selden Simpson, division commander from Amarillo.

The cannons have been making good use of the vast range of Fort Hood for practice firing of their 105-mm, 155mm and 8-inch howitzers. Another highlight of the training period was the annual parade and review held Saturday. The troops marched in review before Gen. Simpson, the Texas Adjutant General—Maj. Gen. Thomas S. Bishop and other dignitaries.

In a letter prepared for reading to all members of the division, Gen. Simpson expressed his personal satisfaction with the accomplishments of division units. He also lauded the 1,250 Army Reservists (USAR) who are training with the division this summer.

Every unit of the division will have spent at least four days in field bivouac prior to starting the return movement to home stations. Many units spend most of the two-week period in the field.

The technical service units, administrative sections and other support organizations are receiving on the job training by providing the actual support for the combat units of the T-Patch Division.

Artillery batteries from El Paso and Infantry units from Amarillo and the Panhandle will be the first to break camp to start the movement back to home stations. All movements to Fort Hood this year were made with division transportation facilities.

Two Local Boys Attend Fire Training

Bill Tucker and Billy McCrary, members of the Santa Anna Volunteer Fire Department, attended the 38th Annual Texas Firemen's Training School, held last week at Texas A&M University.

They were among 2,200 firemen attending, representing 565 cities and 29 states in the United States and several foreign countries. Included were men who work in fire prevention and control for municipalities, industries and armed services.

Texas towns sending firemen to the school receive a key rate credit for their insurance rates according to the number of firemen participating. Cities sponsoring one qualified fireman who completes work satisfactorily receive three per cent credit. Those who sponsor a fireman and fire marshal, or assistant fire marshal, get four per cent. And cities with two or more firemen and the fire marshal gain a five per cent credit.

Henry D. Smith, Chief of the Firemen's Training School, emphasized the greatest benefit gained from the school is the reduction in fire losses through more efficient methods of fire fighting learned during the training.

Instruction includes 16 separate 30 hour courses in firefighting. Fire marshal training, fire department officer training, instructor training, pump maintenance, pump operation, armed services and specialized fire protection.

Experienced instructors and technical advisors assist in the school. These include representatives from the liquefied petroleum gas industry, the Texas Department of Public Safety, fire and arson investigators, fire apparatus and equipment specialists, and guest instructors from fire departments, industry and the armed services in Texas and other states.

Rash of Weekend Accidents

Four vehicle accidents were reported to investigating officials over the weekend. Considerable damage resulted to some vehicles, but apparently no one was injured.

One accident involved Mrs. Viona West and Paula Copeland. Both were traveling west on Bowie Avenue and apparently Miss Copeland attempted to pass Mrs. West as she was attempting to make a left turn on South Houston Street. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Copeland were passengers with their daughter, driving a 1967 Plymouth, which was not damaged very much.

Another accident happened at the corner of North Fourth Street and Avenue B. Mrs. Mary G. Talley of Mineral Wells, a Registered Nurse, was parked at the corner of the intersection. Jess Howard, driving a 1961 pickup, was attempting to re-arrange some fishing equipment to keep it from rattling, and hit the Talley car. Light damage resulted to both vehicles.

A one car accident happened at the hospital parking lot, when a car caught fire as the result of a backfire. The driver jumped out of the car and it rolled to the south of the lot and through the rock retaining wall. Damage was moderate.

An accident at the Modern Way Laundry involved vehicles driven by Mrs. Harvey Holland and Mrs. E. E. Pinson. Mrs. Holland was apparently leaving the laundry and her fender caught the fender of the Pinson car. Mrs. Holland stopped. The Pinson car received moderate damage.

Judging his distance well, Mr. Stephenson braked his car as he passed over the snake, hitting him just behind the head. They got out of the car and finished killing him with a large rock.

He had nine rattlers and they guessed his weight at about five pounds. He was not so very long, but was exceptionally large around the middle.

Freak Accident At County Line

A freak accident at the Coleman-Brown County line Wednesday evening of last week involved a pick-up truck, semi-trailer truck and a 1967 model Chevrolet.

Odis Brown of Brownwood was traveling west on Highway 67-84 at 6:45 p.m. As he went up the hill at the county line in a driving rain storm, he lost control of the vehicle. It went across the median, almost hit the fence on the south side of the road, then cut back toward the median before it turned over.

Six children in the back of the pickup managed to hold on and none were reported as being injured. Damage to the vehicle was moderate.

J. W. Wamack of Ferris, Texas, traveling east and driving a truck for a Dallas freight line, stopped his semi-trailer truck and offered his assistance.

Ivera Byrd of Santa Anna, driving her 1967 Chevrolet, was traveling west and lost control. She crashed into the trailer of the truck, doing extensive damage to her car. Mrs. Byrd was admitted to the Santa Anna Hospital.

The accident was investigated by the Sheriff's Department.

Austin, Tex. — Newspaper readers throughout Texas soon will be seeing long columns of type about important issues as secretary of State John Hill begins to advertise the six proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on November 11.

Fourteen additional amendments will be on the 1968 ballot.

Eight of the 20 amendments are of interest mainly to special groups (eg: legislators or state employees). Eight others would provide local governments with new powers or duties. Only four of the group directly affect most Texans.

Amendments to be voted on this year will appear on the ballot in this order:

● No. 1, House Joint Resolution 3, to permit counties to put all tax money in a single general fund rather than dividing income in specified amounts among separate funds for earmarked purposes as is now required.

● No. 2, HJR 37, allowing cities and other governmental units within hospital districts to levy taxes for participation in mental health and mental retardation community centers.

● No. 3, HJR 17, reviving the veterans land program and authorizing a total of $400,000,000 in bonds to finance continued purchase of farm and ranch land by veterans, including those who have served in Southeast Asia during present hostilities.

● No. 4, HJR 6, authorizing counties to pay medical, doctor and hospital bills of county law enforcement officers injured in line of duty.

● No. 5, HJR 12, authorizing $75,000,000 state revenue bond issue for the development of state parks and recreational areas. Bonds are expected to be financed by a small admission fee.

● No. 6, HJR 27, permitting state officers and employees to hold non-elective positions under the state or U.S. governments where there is no conflict of interest and where the state might benefit.

That's all for '67. Top interest in these amendments doubtless will center on the park bond proposal and the veterans land amendment.

Hospital mental health and mental retardation groups will emphasize the importance of Amendment 2 to the new community center approach of treating mental patients close to home.

Calling the 1967 election for Veterans Day and a Saturday, undoubtedly, was to assure a large voter turn-out for the land fund amendment. A substantial campaign to urge its passage already is taking form.

Gov. John Connally is the principal backer of the park bond issue. Last December he unveiled a 10-year plan for acquiring and developing 150,990 acres of recreational lands and historical sites. This would more than triple present state park acreage and open a variety of new facilities for outdoor recreation.

Only opposition to the amendment to date has been based on the $1 a car park-entry fee, initially proposed by Connally to finance the vast program; and scattered complaints that facilities included in the governor's master plan do not adequately serve most areas of the state.

He is expected to spearhead an intensive fall campaign—supported by parks, recreational and outdoor groups—to put over the bond issue.

The veterans land amendment would add another $200,000,000 to state bonds previously authorized and through which 35,300 veterans have purchased farm and ranch properties at low interest rates spread over a 40-year pay period.

This amendment would raise the amount which could be borrowed under the program from $7,500 to $10,000. The program was initiated in 1949. Additional bonds were approved by voters in 1951 and 1956. Amendments to enlarge the bond authorization were rejected at elections in 1963 and 1965. Opposition came mainly from Dallas and Houston.

Proponents emphasize that, while thousands of veterans have benefitted from the program, it has cost the state no money and actually has turned a profit of $2,500,000 a year while providing an expanded land market.

Opposition has adopted the argument that it is not the function of the state government to engage in the loan business and that veterans have had plenty of time to participate. Some also contend that "cheap money" invites purchases of land not needed and which will not be put to productive use.

Amendment 2 specifies that the legislature, in providing for creation of hospital districts, does not have to require that the districts assume full responsibility for community mental health and retardation centers and services. It would permit cities and counties to levy taxes and issue bonds for such services. Subdivisions within existing districts would be authorized to do so unless statutes creating the districts expressly prohibit.

An attorney general's opinion held that the constitution does not allow political subdivisions within the boundary of a hospital district to levy taxes and issue bonds for service. Under that ruling, cities and counties located in such districts were restricted in establishment of community health centers. Therefore, only hospital districts could establish such centers, a key part of the mental health program.

Amendments 3, 4 and 5 are self explanatory, and apparently non-controversial.

Amendment 6 is aimed primarily at permitting educators who are paid from state funds, to serve on federal advisory boards.

Choose Carpet Carefully

Rugs and carpets are usually long-term investments, so proper selection can save money and disappointment, says Bonny Lay, housing and home furnishings specialist with Texas A&M University. The following points outlined by Miss Lay may guide you in comparing qualities of carpeting.

Density of pile: The closeness of the weave or the denseness of the tufts of yarn which make up the pile of the carpet is one factor in durability. Dense piles with tufts closely packed together wear longest because yarns support each other, resisting bending and abrasion. Roll back the corner to test the closeness of the pile. Gaps showing a large amount of backing and sparse pile indicate low quality.

Height of pile: The higher the pile, the longer it will take to wear down to the backing. Unless the long pile is closely woven, it will mat down and not recover from crushing as well as a short dense pile. Deep pile gives a luxurious appearance and adds durability.

Resilience: A top quality carpet has much resilience or resistance to crushing. The recovery depends on the fibers used, their grade, the height and twist of pile yarns and density of construction. To test for resilience, press your fingers firmly into the pile for a moment and observe how quickly the pile springs to its original position. Another test is to put the sample under a chair leg overnight and observe how deep an impression is made; check the time it takes to spring back when the chair is removed.

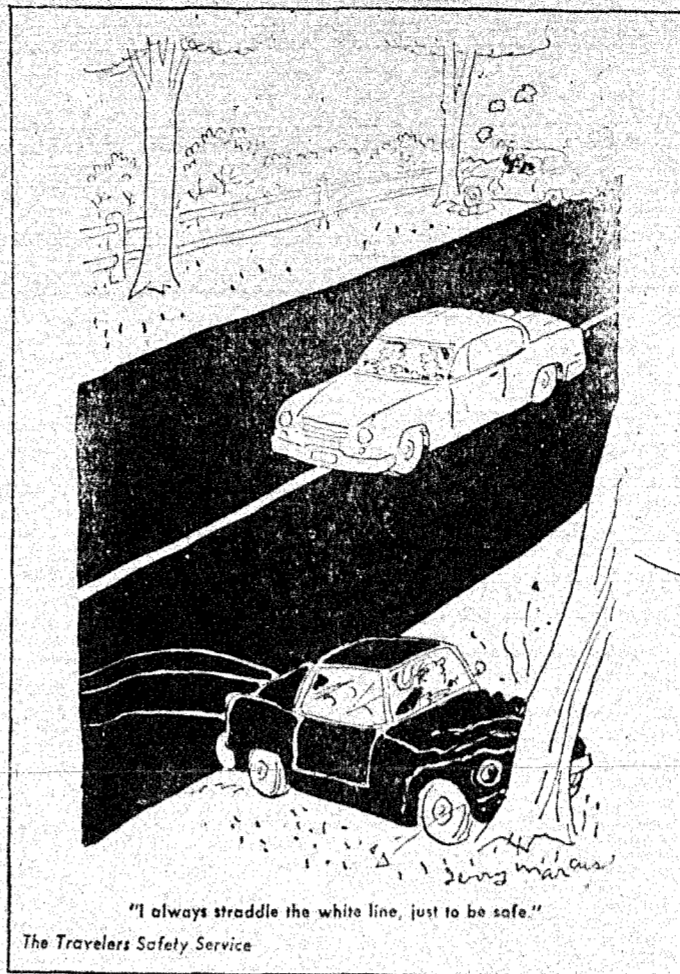

Quality of yarn: Yarns used, regardless of the fiber, should be strong, smooth and resilient. Two or more yarns are usually twisted together forming a yarn play. A higher pile does not always indicate a higher quality, but it does affect resilience and the appearance of the rug or carpet. The loosely twisted ones may soon look fuzzy and matted. The highly twisted ones will be more resilient and will resist matting and shading.

Accusing The Wrong Man

Late one night a widow, living alone, heard footsteps approaching her bedroom. While she lay in terrified silence, an intruder entered the room, scooped up her jewelry, and departed.

Feeling sure she had recognized the man as a neighborhood gardener, she filed burglary charges with the police. But at the trial the gardener produced such an airtight alibi that the jury found him innocent.

At this point he decided to switch from a defendant into a plaintiff. He filed suit against the widow for damages on grounds of "malicious prosecution."

"Since her accusation against me was a mistake," he argued in court, "she ought to pay for calling me a criminal and making me go through the ordeal of a trial."

But the court refused to hold the widow liable. The judge said a person cannot be held responsible for malicious prosecution so long as he had at least "probable cause" for making the original accusation—even if the charge did not stand up in court.

If an accuser does bring charges without having probable cause to believe they are true, then he may indeed be held for liable for damages. For example:

One man was held liable for malicious prosecution because he brought unfounded trespassing charges against a neighbor—simply as a means of throwing a scare into other possible trespassers.

And another man was held liable for malicious prosecution because he brought unfounded theft charges to bear against a business rival—simply as a means of collecting a debt.

But as a rule, courts are cautious about imposing liability on an accuser. For if such liability was imposed too freely, people might be discouraged from reporting crimes to the authorities. Even the well-meaning citizen might decide to keep quiet, rather than run the risk of being sued afterward for his pains.

Law enforcement relies heavily on its lines of communications with the general public. Giving an accuser reasonable protection against claims of malicious prosecution is one way of keeping those lines of communication open.

Topflight Entertainment Scheduled For Prison Rodeo at Huntsville in October

Huntsville — Some of the nation's topflight entertainment personalities have been booked for personal appearances at the 36th Annual Texas Prison Rodeo each Sunday in October at Huntsville.

H. H. Coffield of Rockdale, prison board chairman and chairman of the rodeo committee, announced that three artists of the Lawrence Welk television show will appear the first two Sundays. Jo Ann Castle, Welk's piano stylist, will give out with her own brand of honky tonk piano playing on October 1, followed by Norma Zimmer and Larry Hooper on October 8. Both Miss Castle and Miss Zimmer were favorites during the 1966 radio series. Miss Zimmer's singing has brought her many honors. Hooper doubles as a general pianist and deep-voiced singer. His rendition of "Oh Happy Day" piled up an impressive sales record of one million discs.

For the October 15 show, the featured attraction will be Judy Lynn and the Judy Lynn Show, said to be the most colorful figures in the country-western stable of music.

Sharing the October 22 limelight will be two well-known country music stars, Buck Owens and Floyd Tillman. Both have reputations as real crowd pleasers. Owens will be supported by his own musical group, The Buckaroos.

Closing the 1967 rodeo series on October 29 will be Roy Acuff, no stranger to prison rodeo fans. He will again bring his own brand of country music—the kind that spelled fame and fortune for this native son of Tennessee.

Also on the bill of fare all five Sundays will be former inmate Candy Barr, who proved to be a popular attraction last year. The famous Zoppe Family will be presented during each performance in the prison stadium beginning at 2 p. m.

Social Security Aid In Injuries, Illness Lasting Twelve Months

Thousands of working Americans suffer serious illness or injury each year. Many of these workers recover and return to their jobs within a short time. Others cannot return to work for as long as a year and some are never able to work again. What happens to the families of workers whose earnings stop? Don Austin, Social Security Field Representative for Coleman county has these answers:

Social security disability insurance is the answer for employees and self-employed people who have paid social security for at least 5 years out of the 10 years before their disability began. Individuals who become blind before the age of 31 may be insured with less than 5 years of work. In addition, benefits are payable only if a worker has a disability that prevents him from doing any substantial gainful work. This disability must have lasted or is expected to last for at least 12 months. The amount of your monthly benefit depends on your average yearly earnings. For example, if your average earnings under social security are $4200 a year, your disability benefit will amount to $2120 each month. Monthly benefits also go to dependents. A wage earner would be entitled to a total of $280.80 each month. It is important to remember that social security benefits are not paid automatically. Application should be made as soon as it seems likely the disability will prevent work for a year or longer. A representative of the Abilene social security office will be at Coleman every Monday and Tuesday at 10 a. m. with the exception of September 4 and

Information On Ghost Towns Wanted

Information, photographs and historical material on "ghost towns" are in demand for articles in national magazines, according to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce publicity department. Several requests have been received lately seeking the names of ghost towns, pictures of them during their better days, information as to their founding and their founders, names and anecdotes about characters who were prominent in the towns and other data about the famous landmarks of the particular town. "Many such ghost towns exist in West Texas, according to early records. Some of these towns have disappeared completely and others have dwindled to a store or two and a historical marker, but there is considerable interest by history buffs," publicity director Jack Nixon, Jr. stated. "Publicity in national magazines will create more tourist interest in these spots and more tourists mean more dollars in West Texas," Nixon said.

Sharp Knives Safer To Use

Do you realize that the kitchen knife's used approximately 130 times a day? This is the estimate projected by Mrs. Doris Myers, Extension home management specialist with Texas A & M University. Obviously, anything that is so vital to running a smooth operation should be kept in top-notch condition.

It is much easier to keep knives sharp than to recondition them after they become dull. For sharpening knives, many makers of fine cutlery recommend using a steel similar to that used by butchers. A fine, flat sharpening stone is also recommended for sharpening fine knives. Mechanical or electrical sharpeners are sometimes preferred. From a safety standpoint, sharp knives require less effort to use and cause fewer accidents than dull ones.

Be certain that knives are thoroughly clean and dry before storing them. This is essential with a hard steel knife, which will rust easily. Never leave a knife soaking in water. Not only is the blade likely to rust, but the handle may loosen, and, if wood, it may soften.

Knives should never be placed in a drawer unprotected. Racks in drawers or on the wall are the most convenient storage. The cardboard protector on knives when purchased may be used for temporary storage.

A magnetic wall holder is convenient. The knives are merely placed against the rack where a magnet holds them in place.

Daily Care Yields Bright Glass

Sparkling, brilliant glassware takes good, careful daily home care. This includes pre-washing preparation, proper washing, and adequate storage, notes Joy Arrington, Extension home management specialist with Texas A & M University.

To prevent difficulties in washing glassware, Miss Arrington offers a few "ounce-of-prevention" hints. Remove stains, such as lipstick, with a paper towel before washing. Glasses that held milk, tea, or coffee should be rinsed soon after use, since these beverages often leave rings difficult to remove by normal washing. For easier cleaning, scrape and rinse away all loose food. Soak glass cookware with burned-on food. Use cold water for soaking utensils with egg or starchy mixtures.

The cardinal rules for proper washing are—handle gently, and wash immediately after use.

Wash with mild soap or detergent and HOT water. Glass has more sparkle after drying if detergent is used. A few drops of bluing or ammonia in the wash water adds luster to glassware.

Some glass is easily broken by sudden temperature fluctuations, so it is important that glasses which held iced drinks not be suddenly doused in hot water. There is less chance of glass breakage if only a few pieces are washed at one time. Stemware should be handled extra carefully—hold by the base of the bowl, not by the stem.

An extremely hot water rinse is necessary for sparkling glassware. For a high polish, dry with a lint-free absorbent towel.

Proper storage is the final ingredient for the sparkling glassware. Shelves should be cushioned with paper or a tea towel, and glasses should stand with rims up. For maximum protection, crowding and stacking should be avoided.

Most homemakers already know the rules—but how many really use them?

One Sure Way To Find Out About Hay

There's one sure way to settle the "my hay is better than yours" argument. Have it tested.

Farmers have a great tendency to over-estimate the quality of their hay, says Al Novosad, pasture specialist at Texas A & M University.

There are imposing differences in quality and feed value of forages, according to figures from the A & M Forage Testing Service.

For instance, the high samples of coastal bermuda grass tested last year had over 19 per cent crude protein. The lowest sample tested only 3.7 per cent crude protein. The average was 8.7.

Forage sorghum cut for hay ranged from a high of over 12 per cent to a low of 1.9 per cent and an average of 5.2 per cent crude protein.

Crude fiber, digestible protein and TDN (total digestible nutrients) showed the same wide variation, says Novosad.

A relatively new figure is being included in the A & M forage analysis — net energy. Novosad says net energy is a more accurate indication of the worth of a forage to an animal than crude protein or TDN.

It is figured by subtracting the various energies lost in the digestion process from the gross energy in a feedstuff.

Novosad says there are several items influencing hay quality. Among the more important are the amount of fertilizer the hay got and the stage of maturity at which it was cut.

Lower fertilizer rates usually mean lower quality, he says. And, as a general rule, the longer the forage is allowed to grow, the lower in quality it becomes.

Hunt Bonanza Readied For Texas Sports

Austin—The most compre- hensive wildlife harvest plan in Texas history have been mapped almost in their en- tirety by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The 1967 big game season has expanded opportunities for the sportsman, especially the deer hunter who will have an extra day's hunting in many counties.

Shotgunners can look a- head to generous morning and white-winged dove hunt- ing. The north zone moun- tain dove season begins as usual at noon September 1 central standard time, and continues through sunset of October 30 with a daily bag limit of 12 and possession limit of 24.

Waterfowl enthusiasts will have a nine-day warmup period in the third and final experimental teal hunting season September 22-30 provided they apply for a special teal hunting permit prior to August 18.

Final decision on the duck and goose season cannot be made until late August to climax conferences on the regional and national level.

Keeping Records On Dependents

Taxpayers' failure to keep good records on the support provided to dependents who do not live in the household with the taxpayer continues to be a leading factor caus- ing tax audits. District Di- rector Ellis Campbell, Jr. points out that when you support a dependent that lives with someone else, you should keep careful records on the amount of support you provide if you plan to claim the dependent on your in- come tax return. Only one taxpayer can claim the $600 exemption on his tax return, even though several persons together may have contrib- uted more than half the sup- port.

On the other hand, if some- one else provides support for one of your dependents but you plan on claiming the de- pendency, you must keep a record of the amount of sup- port you provided in rent, clothing, food, medical ex- penses, and other normal support expenses.

Cases requiring careful re- cords on the support of de- pendents are: children re- ceiving support from both of their divorced parents; sup- port of mother and father by several children; and sup- port of a grandchild or other relative living with someone else.

IRS Document No. 5013 gives detailed information on claiming dependents and the records required to sup- port the claim. This docu- ment may be obtained from your local Internal Revenue Service office, or by writing Internal Revenue Service, P. O. Box 1738, Dallas, Texas 75221.

Read Mark 4:35-41
Jesus said to them, "Why are you afraid? Have you no faith?" (Mark 4:40, RSV)

A sudden squall on Lake Minnetonka, in Minnesota, made our outboard motor useless. We had to ride the waves to shore. Our situation reminded us of the disciples during the storm on the Sea of Galilee.

It seems the disciples felt that Jesus should suspend natural laws—for their safety. However, Jesus gave them a greater miracle than they expected. He did still the troubled waters, but He also gave peace and calmness to His fearful companions. He gave them the peace and faith which not only saw them through the storm on Galilee, but through numerous later storms as His apostles.

Christ still gives this kind of peace. Often we pray only to get through the immediate crisis. Our Lord strengthens us for the present. He will also give strength for the unknown crises in all our tomorrows.

PRAYER:
Heavenly Father, forgive our small faith by which we reduce Thee to our size. Forbid that waves of difficult circumstances should blind us to Thy presence with us. When we have done what we can, grant us the wisdom to leave the outcome in Thy hands. Through Christ, our Lord and Master, we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY:
Whatever the storm, the peace Christ gives exceeds our expectations.

Social Security Decisions May Be Carried to Courts

(Editor's Note: This is the 5th in a series of 6 articles, telling of safeguards against wrong decisions in the social security program, prepared for The Santa Anna News by R. R. Tuley, Jr., Social Security district manager.)

As the next to last in this series of articles showing how a dissatisfied social security claimant may press his claim on through the courts, here are some statistics as to the effect of such actions.

Out of every 100,000 disability claims, some 42,400 are initially denied. Reasons include lack of sufficient social security credit, failure to present medical reports, or that the medical reports do not reflect a disabling condition severe enough to prevent continued employability.

Of those denied, about 14,400 disagree with the decision and ask for reconsideration, which brings award action to 5,350.

Out of the remaining 9,050 reconsidered denials, about 4,100 ask for a hearing, which results in some 1,570 awards.

About 1,380 of the remaining 2,520 again denied ask for a review by the Appeals Council. At that stage 240 become award actions.

Only 165 of the remaining 1,140 again turned down file suit in a Federal District Court. Those courts, and later appeals courts, find that 100 should be paid.

Thus 57,600 award actions taken initially grow to 64,860 through the reconsideration, hearing, review and court actions.

Decisions on claims are not taken lightly by the Social Security Administration. At each step along the way, denied claimants are fully informed of their legal rights to go further if they feel the decision is in error.

Next week's article will summarize this topic.

Eight Longhorns Added To Herd

Albany — The longhorn herd at Fort Griffin State Park was increased by eight members which came as a gift from Charles Schreiner of the YO Ranch near Mountain Home, according to Joe Shelton, park manager at Fort Griffin State Park.

Shelton said the new additions consisted of five registered longhorn cows with three calves. This brings to total of 78 longhorns wearing the five-pointed lone star brand on their left hip.

72 are at Fort Griffin State Park, four at Longhorn Cavern State Park, Burnet, and two famous ones, Bevo VIII and IX, at the University of Texas.

GUARD AGAINST HEART ATTACK— CONTROL HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Austin—Over 250 outdoor billboards have been placed throughout Texas this month warning Texans to "Guard against heart attack—control high blood pressure." Sponsored by the Texas Medical Association and the Texas Heart Association, in cooperation with 36 outdoor advertising companies, the messages are part of the medical association's continuing public service outdoor advertising campaign against disease. Space for the posters has been donated by the outdoor advertising companies.

Heart disorders were selected as one of the diseases to be included in TMA's educational program because of the fact that heart and blood vessel ailments are the leading cause of death in the United States. Each year more than 500,000 people die of heart attack in this country.

No one can be certain of preventing heart disease or a heart attack but it is possible to control or lessen some of the factors that often are associated with a tendency toward heart troubles.

High blood pressure, for example, sharply increases the chances of heart attack if it goes undetected and untreated. Through regular checkups and proper medical treatment, this disease can be brought under control in most cases.

Her suggested ways to guard your heart are to reduce saturated fat and cholesterol in the diet; con-your calories—avoid excess weight; don't smoke; exercise regularly; and have regular medical checkups.

Skin Cancer Is Most Common Of All Cancers

The famous cancer specialist, Dr. James Ewing, once said that he had rarely seen skin cancer in a beautiful woman. "Good-looking women," he was quoted as saying, "are especially conscious of their appearance and take pains to keep themselves attractive." This included care to have all blemishes removed and, in Dr. Ewing's day, caution to stay out of the sun.

Even now, 100 years after Dr. Ewing's birth, the exact causes of skin cancer are not known. But it has been well established that such cancer occurs most frequently in regions with the most sunlight. In addition, persons with occupations requiring long hours in the sun most often develop skin cancer, thus giving the traditional names to "farmer's cancer" and "sailor's cancer."

Persons with fair or sandy complexions are the most vulnerable to the "actinic" type of skin cancer—the kind related to the sun; but all persons should be aware of the dangers of over-exposure and should use all protection possible when out in the sun: hats, long-sleeved shirts and a good lotion on exposed skin.

Skin cancer is the most easily recognizable and diagnosed of all cancers. It is also the most common of cancers. In spite of its accessibility and potentially high cure rate, skin cancer will kill an estimated 5,000 persons in the United States this year.

Now, in the increasingly small days of Texas summer, the American Cancer Society urges recognition of the warning signals that could mean cancer: "any sore that does not heal in two weeks" and "any changes in size, color or texture of a wart or mole"—both call for an immediate visit to the doctor. They may mean cancer until proved otherwise.

New Librarian For Howard Payne

Brownwood—Carolyn Eaves who has been serving as associate librarian at the University of Texas, M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, Houston, has been named librarian at Howard Payne College, according to Dr. Guy Newman, president of the college.

She will replace Mrs. Corrine Shields who is resigning from the position she has held since 1964.

Miss Eaves graduated from Marlin High School in 1953. She received both her B. A. and M.L.S. from Texas Women's University.

She served as head of the acquisition department at Trinity University from 1963-65. She has also served as librarian at the Amon Carter Museum of Western Art, Fort Worth.

Nation Observes National Farm Safety Week

The week of July 23-29 has been proclaimed National Farm Safety Week by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The proclamation emphasized "Agriculture remains America's first and most important industry. It supplies food for our people and many millions throughout the world, and a vast measure of the raw materials used in the making of other products.

"Therefore, whatever diminishes or impedes the efficiency and productivity of our farmers is detrimental to men and women everywhere."

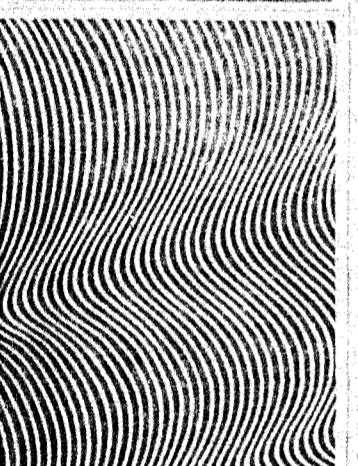

The objective of the National Farm Safety Week is to draw attention to the safety problems of farm and rural people and suggest the ways to prevent accidents on the farm, in the home, and on the highways.

"Disabling injuries and the resultant economic losses are at an all-time high. Not only is a personal hardship involved, but we as a nation cannot tolerate the drain on rural manpower and economic vitality in this time of critical world food needs." Leon J. Urban, manager of the National Safety Council Farm Department, points out.

In view of this costly loss of economy and the tragic loss of life, President Johnson makes this plea to America's farmers and their families.

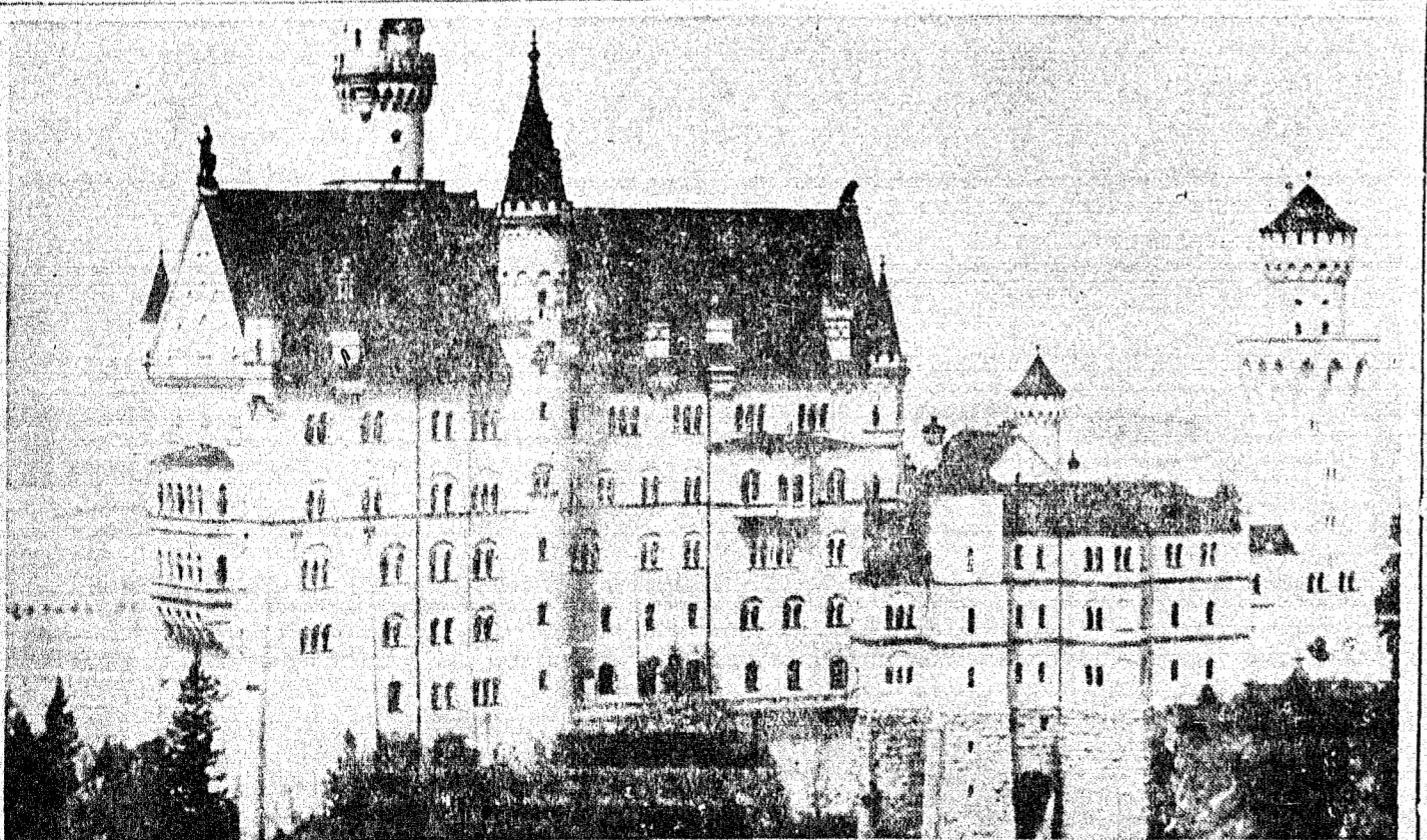

"I urge all persons who live on farms, and those persons or groups allied with agriculture, to respond to applying full energy to the ongoing task of reducing accidents at work, in homes, at recreation, and on the highways."

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

Omar Burleson, M. C.
17th District, Texas

Washington, D. C. — The filling station attendant had his book in hand, waiting to see the credit card.

When he was handed a five and a one dollar bill and some change in payment for a tank of gas, he looked suspicious.

Written on his face was the question, "What's wrong with this guy. Is his credit bad? Is the money counterfeit? He must be some sort of a nut."

Inside the station the manager looked at the bills and may have even bitten the edge of the coin as a test for genuineness.

There is a confession here. The sooner it is out, the better. I have no credit cards.

Most Americans are rather broad-minded people. They may accept the fact that a person can be an alcoholic, a dope fiend, a wife-beater, and even a congressman, but if he does not have credit cards there must be something wrong with him. Sometimes you are viewed with suspicion, and maybe even just a little bit of contempt.

In some instances when cash is used, such as at the filling station, you are looked upon with some suspicion. Actually, it seems easier to write a check or just say "charge it" than it is to offer cash. Sometimes we expect to hear the question when offering to pay in cash. "Do you have any identification? Not to be able to present cards from six or seven oil companies, the American Express, or Diners Club is a lack of something which may imply a lack of credit standing in the community and even integrity.

When asked for your credit card, you are looked at incredibly when you answer "I do not have any." Then the next question is, "Did you lose it?" The answer is, "No, I never had one." The look on the salesman's face is one of "This guy is trying to put something over," and you feel he is thinking about calling a detective. He seems to be thinking, "How Un-American can you get?"

There are an estimated 100 million credit cards of all types in the hands of users in United States. It has been estimated by business concerns that there is a turnover of 1 1/2 million of these in a year by being lost, strayed or stolen.

Criminal syndicates operate organized rings to steal credit cards and turn them over to fences.

Organized criminals have credit cards to purchase airline tickets under other people's names in order to leave no trail for law enforcers. It is estimated that the annual loss to card issuing industries and organizations amounts to approximately $40 million, and it is still going up. Legislation has been introduced to make illegal use of credit cards a federal offense.

This is, however not the reason for our not having credit cards. Ruth and I married at about the time the depression hit. If we could not pay for it, we did not have it. The psychology has stuck ever since.

This is not the best for business, but there is a growing concern in the business community that consumer credit may be exceeding its capacity to pay.

According to a Department of Commerce study, debt service now consumes 22 percent of the average family income. Consumer debt has advanced to highest point in history.

The experience with the filling station attendant is a bit exaggerated for the purpose of making a point. It is no exaggeration, however, when the Internal Revenue wants proof of certain claims for deduction, with nothing to show for it. This may be a case for credit cards.

Homecoming For Pioneer Area Set

A school homecoming for all former students, teachers and residents of the Pioneer, Liberty and Sabanno communities, will be held under the tabernacle at Pioneer on Thursday, August 10. Pioneer is located about four miles east of Cross Plains.

Each is requested to bring a TV tray or card table to hold the catered lunch, that will be served at the noon hour. Articles and hand-work are needed, to be sold to help support the cemetery fund.

Questions and Answers About Savings Bonds

Question: In past years, I have heard that taxpayers were permitted to take their income tax refunds in Savings Bonds. Will that be possible this year?

Answer: Yes, On your Federal income tax form, you will find a line to be checked, if you want your refund in bonds. You will receive the largest denomination Bond that your refund will purchase, plus a check for the difference between the purchase price and the amount of your refund.

Question: They say that Savings Bonds are indestructible; that any lost, stolen or destroyed will be replaced. Does it actually work out that way?

Answer: Since the beginning of the Savings Bonds program in May, 1941, more than 1.8 million individual Bonds have been re-issued after records had been checked and ownership facts established.

Question: What about accrued interest on Series E Bonds that are exchanged for H Bonds? Does tax have to be paid immediately?

Answer: No, the Federal income tax may continue to be deferred until the H bonds are cashed or reach final maturity. That enables the bond owner to continue to earn interest on the full amount of interest that has already accumulated.

Q—I have a $50 Series E Savings Bond which I purchased in January, 1945. What is this bond worth today? Is it still earning interest?

A—In March, 1967, your bond—for which you paid $37.50—is valued at $74.56, and it is still earning interest. No E or H Savings Bond ever sold has ceased to earn interest.

Q—My wife and I hold a number of Series E Savings Bonds. We will have to redeem some of them this year to meet anticipated expenses. That's why we bought them and held them. What's the best time of the year to cash our bonds?

A—Normally, on the anniversary date of your bonds, or at six-month periods thereafter, E Bonds gain in value every six months.

Q—They talk about the advantage of taking your income tax refund in Savings Bonds. What is the advantage and how do I go about getting it?

A—The advantage is that, when you take your refund in bonds, it continues to grow, as your bonds continue to earn interest. Look for the line near the bottom of your tax return form. There's a box to check, if you want your refund in bonds.

Nat'l. Guard Undergoing Field Training

North Fort Hood — National Guardsmen of the 36th Infantry Division, Texas National Guard, after dressing up for Saturday's annual parade and review, returned to fatigue dress on Sunday afternoon for the final week of annual Field Training.

The T-patchers, about 5,300 strong and 1,250 USAR men assigned to train with the division, had a short week-end break after the parade. But it was "back to the boondocks" for more firing, tactical problems and map exercises for the final week.

Infantry units of the division got an inside look into the type of warfare being fought by their brother soldiers, in Vietnam as they were given a problem during the week in Fort Hood's Vietnam village. Each rifle squad of the division's three infantry battalions performed the tactical exercise to acquaint them with village warfare in Southeast Asia.

All units of the division are spending some time in field bivouac during the two-week period with several heading for the field Sunday afternoon of early Monday. Many units already had spent several days in the field and undergone a 24-hour tactical period during which other divisional troops played the role of aggressor forces.

The 1967 AFT period for the 63th has been blessed with good weather to date. Rains came on Wednesday, but only helped to hold down normally high temperatures.

Bonanza Shrimp Harvest Now Underway

La Porte — Shrimp prices will favor the housewife this year if biological indications and the harvest trend continues, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

There are many signs which point to a very good shrimp harvest this year. A biologist's five-minute catch in a ten-foot trawl sample in Sabine Lake in early June netted 6,500 small brown shrimp, his largest catch in six years of sampling.

The May harvest of bait shrimp in Galveston Bay was a record: 202,000 pounds as compared to 19,000 pounds last year. Fish and Wildlife Service landing reports so far show offshore brown shrimp catches are 30 days ahead of last year.

The May harvest of shrimp in Texas totaled 24 million pounds, more than 220,000 pounds above landings for the same period last year.

Generally speaking, offshore shrimpers in the Gulf are making excellent catches this year, according to reports.

Medicare Completes Year in Texas

During its first year the new Federal medicare program paid out more than $130,300,000 for the care of people age 65 and over in Texas according to Wayman Register, Social Security Regional Assistant Commissioner in Dallas. About $100,000,000 of this amount was paid to the 548 hospitals which participate and the remainder was mostly for doctors' services.

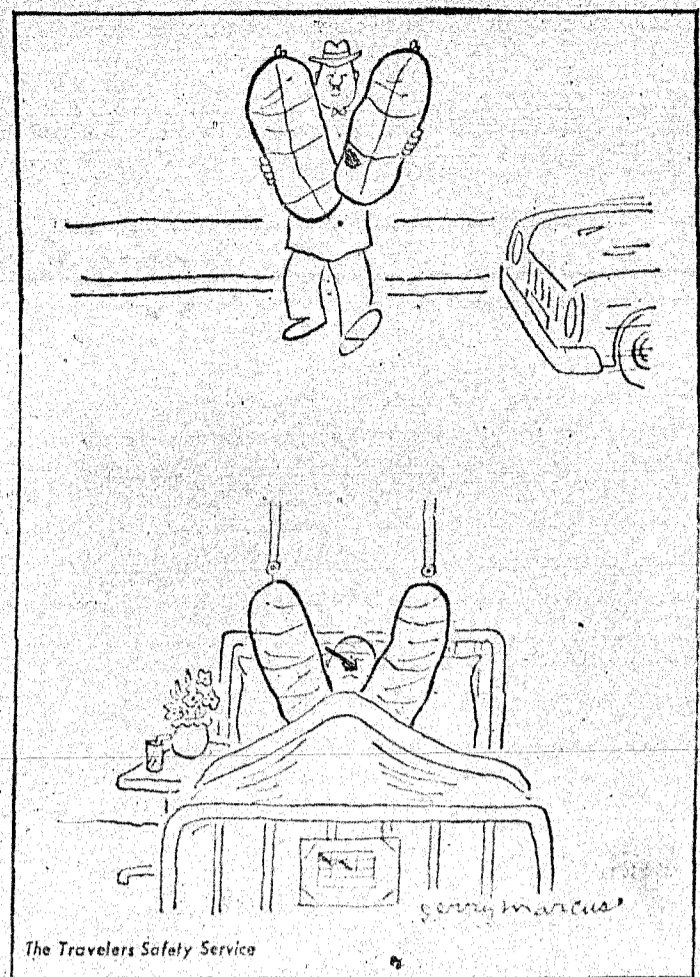

Register said that there are 895,500 people over 65 in the state who are eligible for the Hospital Insurance and this group produced 300,000 hospital admissions. While there was an increase in hospital use by older people, Register emphasized that the increase has been within "reasonable limits." "Overall, the program has increased total hospital occupancy rates by no more than five per cent," he said.

Register explained that it is hard to measure the great improvement in the quality of life for the older person who has had a cataract removed, hernia repaired, or other surgery or therapy; but it is substantial. "And just as important," he emphasized, "many more elderly Americans have been able to get medical care with the dignity that goes with the ability to pay."

Mrs. Bert Turney accompanied Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Avants to Christoval for the annual Avants family reunion. She visited with Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Fox in San Angelo. They brought Mrs. Turney home Monday afternoon and will visit a few days.
