VOTE ON COTTON ALLOTMENT TRANSFERS

Upland cotton farmers will vote from May 13 through May 17, by mail, to decide whether they favor transfer of 1969 cotton allotments, by sale or lease, outside the county but within the state. The vote this year will be held in counties where such transfers have not been previously approved for 1969, including those where transfers were approved in 1965. County ASCS offices can supply detailed information on the referendum.

The Commerce Department reports on some voluntary compliance with the objectives of the Fair Packaging Act. Instant coffee makers have agreed to eliminate all weights except even ounces between two ounces and 16 ounces. Food oil producers have decided to cut the number of container sizes from 15 to 7. Over 40 groups are also surveying packaging practices with an eye toward weeding out baffling fractional-ounce sizes.

When selecting a baby-sitter look for intelligence, maturity and ability to handle problems which might arise, advises family life specialist, Jennie Kitching. Parents should brief the sitter on each child's habits and problems and leave her a list of phone numbers to call in an emergency, especially the number at which they can be reached.

If your youngster plans his first job this summer, he should apply for a social security card now. At the beginning of each summer, social security offices are flooded with applications and last minute rush causes delay, remind A & M specialists. Some employers won't hire a youngster until he has acquired a social security card.

Visitors last weekend with Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Barker were Mrs. Barker's sisters, Mrs. Bee Hestand and Mrs. Allie Buck of Keene. They all attended the homecoming at Silver Valley Sunday.

Burton Makuta Completes Basic

Great Lakes, Ill., April 30—Seaman Apprentice Burton W. Makuta, USN, 19, son of Mrs. J. T. Morris of Santa Anna, Texas has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center here. In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian life to Naval service, he received instruction under veteran Navy petty officers. He studied seamanship, as well as survival techniques, military drill and other subjects.

Coast Guard Approved Life Jacket A Must

Austin—A life saving device not Coast Guard approved is not in compliance with the Texas Water Safety Act, says enforcement officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

"Our game management officers are continually issuing tickets to boaters who are totally unaware of what the law specifies, and carry unapproved devices in the boat, thinking they are in compliance with the law."

There are many types of vests, cushions, and belts for sale that may be termed "life preservers," but not all of them meet the requirements of the Act.

A life preserver, stamped and labeled "Coast Guard Approved" and affixed with an approval number, must be carried for each occupant in the boat.

Some illegal flotation devices have been found with the words "Coast Guard Approved," stamped on the plastic sales bag; but this alone is not enough.

Boaters should use care in buying their preservers, and they should obtain information concerning the law to be sure their equipment does meet all the requirements.

Mrs. Montie Guthrie has achieved the First Degree in the Pallas Athene awards program of her sorority, Epsilon Sigma Alpha.

State regulation has set the month of May as the time during which all transfers from one school district to another must be made for the 1968-1969 school year. Q—My refund hasn't come. Where should I write?

A—If it has been less than ten weeks since you filed your return, please be patient. Most taxpayers either get their refund or receive a letter about it within this ten-week period.

If it has been over ten weeks since you filed your return, write the regional service center where you filed. Be sure to give your social security number as well as your name and address, and indicate when you filed your return.

Millions of tax returns were filed in April, and our personnel are working on processing these returns as they can. Requests to check on refunds slow this processing.

Q—What is the rate I should pay when I report my maid's social security taxes this quarter?

A—The rate is 4.4 per cent for the employee and 4.4 per cent for the employer making the combined rate of 8.8 per cent. Employers who paid a household employee $50 or more in total cash wages during January, February and March, should pay 8.8 per cent of the total wages to IRS using Form 942.

The deadline for paying these taxes was April 30.

Q—My refund has arrived. Does that mean my return was okay and will not be audited?

A—No, it does not. The fact that you have your refund indicates that your return contained all the required information and that there were no mistakes in the arithmetic.

IRS generally has three lines of the return to examine the return and propose an adjustment in the tax liability.

For this reason, keep your tax records for at least three years from the due date of the return. Some records, such as those relating to the acquisition of a house or other property, should be kept longer.

Q—My refund was less than I expected. Who do I write about it?

A—Whenever a change is made on a return that affects the amount of tax due, an explanation is sent to the taxpayer, generally within two weeks from the date the refund check is mailed.

If you do not receive this notice, write to your IRS service center where you filed for an explanation. Please be sure to give your full name, address and social security number so that your return can be identified.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
Just over two months ago our family, consisting of my wife who is an R. N., myself, and our four children left to serve Adventist Community Hospital, Port of Spain, Trinidad. Their program was seriously hampered because of the illness and return of physicians to America at that time. Others may be interested in knowing the interesting facts and experiences from this tour.

Every native son traveling to a foreign land, regardless of how pleasant the people and the situations are, always feels his heartburn within him when he is arriving home again. Ours was no exception. We arrived home at the stroke of midnight last night and our children shouted and carried on, had to inspect everything, the barns, the yard and the house, wrestled with the dog, and enjoyed the sweet moments of coming home again.

In, even a country, such as Trinidad and Tobago, which is among the wealthiest in the West Indies, and Trinidad claiming a population of approximately 1 million people, one finds the same old problems that you see elsewhere in the world where you see the rich and the poor, with very few in between. Trinidad is making a real effort to keep itself stable, but progressive, and financially sound. It has been linked with Great Britain, intermittently, for hundreds of years since Columbus discovered America, and on his way to America, touched in on some of the islands.

However, I was impressed by the tremendous amount of Socialism, and yet Capitalism that was trying to develop side by side. A recent editorial from the Express of April 9, is quoted in part, "The Poor and You."

"Another door has been closed to Trinidadians; the poor house. A high ranking government official in the Ministry of Health has stated that there are many genuine cases where admittance where the poor house should be, but there is nowhere to put them... crude facts of life. There was an argument which gave support to Trinidad's position regarding its refusal to be involved in federation of smaller and poorer countries... It suggested that the poor couldn't help the poor... In the circumstances under which we operate it should not be seen as a crime that a man cannot get a job. There are not enough to go around. It seems necessary for a government to initiate ways and means to take care of a situation, which no one, under the circumstances can hold himself responsible for, nor prevent. Social assistance for the jobless and aged so should not be outside the scope of responsible government operating in a modern society."

During the past few weeks I had an opportunity to not only serve medically and surgically as a surgeon, but also to talk and visit with the people of high and low estate. The great clamor has been that there were in the month of April 27,000 heads of family unemployed in Trinidad and that additional labor saving devices and mechanization should not be allowed to come in. There is an unemployed percentage runs above 15 per cent, while our national one runs here in America, approximately 5 per cent. Hundreds of these, and more each year, of the abled are fleeing from this West Indies situation to America and other industrialized nations, but mainly to America to find suitable jobs, and to make a better living than a starvation one where there is minimal opportunity to do more than eke out a living for himself and a family. This does not mean that there is not a lot of wealth in the island, nor fine industries or buildings, but by and large, a great need for its land and these countries is for modernization, mechanization, to improve wages and living conditions, etc.

The government with its officials is doing a job that is the very best that can be done under the circumstances with what they have to work with, in the way of people and resources, and each developing country on receiving its independence, suddenly discovers the harsh facts of life, and people must be cared for, employment, modernization, a stable budget, a balanced trade, and a favorable climate for business and industry must be maintained with a minimal government interference and influence are all necessary for the country.

We were well received, served in a number of different capacities, and left a lot of people with a new knowledge of Santa Anna, Coleman County and Texas. To one and all, we are glad to be home again.

Very sincerely yours,
C. M. Henner, M. D.

BREEDING DISEASE RESISTANT TOMATOES

Breeding disease resistance into tomatoes is a time consuming job. For example, more than 20 years were required to develop and release "Nematex," a nematode resistant tomato, reports Dr. A. L. Harrison, a plant pathologist for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Yoakum.

To simplify spring cleaning consider how other family members can help you with large and small tasks. Break up large jobs into manageable parts and string them throughout the year.

FROZEN FOODS

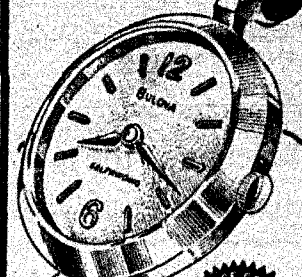

Shop carefully for high quality frozen foods. If you squeeze the packages of frozen vegetables gently and they crunch to your touch, it means there's icy frost. This indicates the package may have been defrosted and refrozen, says a specialist of Texas A & M University. The quality can't survive that kind of treatment. If you open the package and find the vegetables discolored, you will know that's what happened.

Hay supplies were tight at the end of the current winter season and now is the time to make sure the same situation doesn't happen again. The favorable statewide soil moisture situation, points out Neal Pratt, Texas A. & M. agronomist, gives hay producers an opportunity to make large tonnages of high quality hay this year. He suggests starting with a soil test; fertilizing according to the test recommendations and harvesting at the right growth stage.

THANKS

For myself and my family I want to express appreciation to our many friends and supporters throughout the 35th Judicial District who assisted us in my campaign for district judge. Certainly your help, your aid and your encouragement will always be a source of pride to the Griffins and we all want to say to you, "Many, many thanks."

To Judge Joe Dibrell, whom you have re-nominated as your district judge, I want to express my sincere congratulations. No one appreciates more than I his service as judge and certainly he has been a working judge. I eagerly look forward to resuming the private practice of law and to resuming my role as a lawyer in Judge Dibrell's court. Neither the judge nor myself have ever had anything uncomplimentary to say of the other and his successful race for re-nomination has been a model for cleanliness and high purpose.

SPORTS AFIELD

Finding bass in unknown waters is a matter of experience, born of years behind a rod—probing, pounding out casts, learning where fish habitually live according to the contours of a shoreline or other visible cover.

When you haven't had that experience, you start by following the pattern of men who have learned this skill. Here's how they do it:

First, an unknown lake, one so big that you don't know where to begin. One customary way is to ask the man at the dock where you rent the boat. But consider how many people ask him this same question, and how hard his "top" spots are fished.

Good advice would be, (1.) Get a boat that's big enough to be safe in rough water, and make sure it has both a big motor to move out fast and a small motor for trolling or mobile shore casting. And (2) start fishing the moment you reach quiet water just outside the reach of the dock's traffic highway. Plenty of good bass are caught within sight of the dock just because few people bother to fish there.

Next, crank up the big motor and hit the main channel of the lake. Look for quiet coves with cover in them. Hit each one a few licks with various types of lures. Keep moving.

Every time you see a rock or gravelly point jutting out into the lake, stop and fish it. Try surface and deep-going lures over the center and along the sides.

Always take along a map of the lake, and wherever you see an inflowing stream indicated, check it out. If it's too shallow, forget it. If a deep hole exists where the flow meets the lake, fish it thoroughly.

Streams are much easier to learn, advises Homer Circle, the new Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. Just watch where the flow of the current courses. It is carrying food with it, and where the food goes, that's where you find the bass, especially along undercut banks.

Another hit spot can be where a riffle disappears into the adjoining eddy water can be a hangout for big bass.

Around large, submerged boulders, alongside fallen logs and beneath overhanging bushes are good spots. Areas below dams or baffles in the deeper pools are productive places.

And if you are float fishing, don't race through the holes—beach your boat and fish them quietly and thoroughly.

HISTORICAL TRIBUTE—Mrs. Ida Schultze Goldbeck of New Braunfels, 99-year-old daughter of a pioneer San Antonio merchant, is shown here after unveiling an official state marker on a sidewalk of the building erected nearly a century ago by her father, Herman Schultze. The two-story stone structure has been restored and is now serving as the Humble Pavilion at HemisFair '68. With Mrs. Goldbeck are, from left to right, T. E. McAlister, chairman of the Bexar County Historical Survey Committee; Marshall T. Steves, president of HemisFair; W. W. Bryan of Houston, senior vice president of Humble Oil & Refining Company; and Lowell L. Wilkes of Hubbard, son-in-law of Mrs. Goldbeck.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Free Speech for Congressmen

Do congressmen talk too much? If they do, one reason may be that they—by law—more freedom of speech than you or I.

Suppose that a senator, in the course of debate, accuses a prominent businessman of cheating on his income tax return. Even if the senator has no proof at all, he cannot be held liable for defamation of character. As a member of Congress, he is protected by what the law calls an "absolute privilege" against liability for slanderous statements.

In fact, a congressman is protected not only against slander suits but even against criminal charges—if based on what he says in the course of debate. For example:

A bribery charge was brought against a congressman on the basis of a speech he gave on the House floor favorable to a certain financial institution. There was some evidence that he had collected a payoff from the institution for giving the speech.

But the court ruled that, even if the charge was true, he still could not be convicted—because that would be an infringement of a congressman's special freedom of speech.

Such an occurrence is the rare exception rather than the rule. And while it has been argued that there are grave dangers in entrusting to any individual so much leeway, there is a powerful purpose behind this principle of law: to encourage the utmost freedom in congressional debate.

The fear of unpleasant legal consequences, either justified or unjustified, could well put a real damper on a congressman's performance of his job. For the same reason, similar protection is given to lawmakers in almost all democratic countries.

Still, a congressman's freedom of speech is not totally without limits. One restraint (seldom used) is Congress' own power to discipline a member who abuses his privilege.

Another, more important restraint is that the congressman loses his immunity if he repeats his statement outside of Congress, apart from his official functions.

But probably the most effective restraint on an unscrupulous congressman lies in what the voters can do to him, come next Election Day: Throw the rascal out.

Economy Size—Save or Waste

College Station, May 9.—Is the economy size package a savings or a waste? The size of the family, refrigerator and cupboard storage family preference and cost per serving determine the economy of a food purchase.

Buying larger containers may lead to using more of an expensive item than is necessary—simply because you feel a larger amount is on hand, says Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist.

The container serving the family without left-overs, although perhaps more expensive per unit, is more economical than a larger one which leaves food, according to the specialist. Lack of proper storage for ten pounds of potatoes, apples or perishable products may cause a greater loss in money than the pennies saved at the time of the purchase.

Be sure it is really a saving to buy the large economy package. Read labels to learn the quantities the different sizes contain then compare the price per unit (pound, ounce, etc.) before you buy.

PRETREAT FOR TERMITE CONTROL

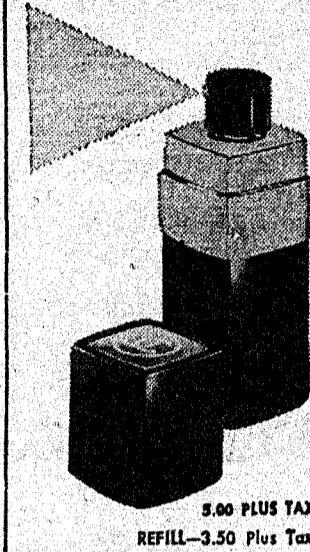

Home builders are reminded by Phil J. Hamman, assistant entomologist, that pretreating a new home for termite control is relatively inexpensive and highly desirable, especially for buildings constructed completely or partly on concrete slabs. He suggests hiring a reliable pest control operator to work with the building contractor or architect in getting the job correctly done.

I would like to take this opportunity to say thanks for the fine vote and support that I received on May 4th.

Now that you have shown enough confidence in me to elect me your Sheriff, it is my desire to discharge the duties of the sheriff's office in such a manner that you will never regret making me your sheriff.

Thank You

CORKY CHAPMAN

Austin — The Texas Liquor Control Board is heading for an early showdown test of its new get tough policies on subterfuge private clubs.

In a surprise order, the Board outlawed cash sales in all bottle clubs.

Some club operators, who already were complaining mightily about an earlier L C B directive prohibiting manager - members from issuing guest cards to walk-in customers, were hard hit.

One promptly filed a lawsuit here to enjoin the board's regulations.

Net result of the cash sale requirement will be to eliminate the casual guests, since operators wouldn't want to run the risk of granting total strangers a month's credit for a highly-perishable commodity.

Hotel-motel clubs who expect to solve the problem by putting club charges on room tabs may find the board's definition of a cash sale quite restrictive: "It shall be deemed that a cash sale has been made if payment for a service or commodity is made on the same date or within eight hours after the occurrence of such service or the delivery of such commodity."

Clubs also received a long list of new instructions for keeping records and running their affairs according to by-laws and through boards of directors.

More rules are expected to be forthcoming from the LCB. Times may be hard for all but strictly private and proper clubs in the near future.

LCB Attorney Lynwood Elliott said he thinks the cash sale directive will restrict clubs: "I feel, quite frankly, that when you prohibit a club from making a cash sale it will be less inclined to serve the public at large and will start serving properly screened members."

RIOT CONTROL TRAINING

All Department of Public Safety officers have undergone an intensive, accelerated riot control training program. Plans are drawn for maximum assistance to local authorities. State also is buying $200,000 worth of anti-riot equipment for use of National and State Guards.

DPS reported it stands ready to make "major commitment" of personnel and equipment on request from a local law enforcement agency—although it hopes none will be necessary.

COURTS SPEAK

The Supreme Court held taxable natural gas used as fuel for engines that pump oil.

In a variety of other opinions, the High Court ruled as follows:

The lower courts were right in concluding that a Houston fireman was suspended improperly for buying two mink stoles and a color TV set, believed to have been stolen, from another fireman. The suspended firefighter denied any knowledge of stolen goods.

Women should be enjoined from operating an alleged house of prostitution near Brenham.

American Travelers Insurance Company, Ltd., a Bahamas-based corporation, cannot do business in Texas without a state permit.

A Reguio County woman who granted a pipeline easement across her property in 1943 is still stuck with the deal for future extension of parallel lines.

The Thirteen Court of Civil Appeals supported a Nueces County trial court view that voter registration application cannot be submitted en masse.

The Third court of Civil Appeals held that a firm must pay $11,556 in sales taxes, plus interest and penalties, on the cost of transporting materials to job sites.

The same court also ordered a new trial in a landowner's suit against the city of Temple for damages due to inadequate drainage of property; found the movie "Blood and Black Lace" does not have to be labeled "not suitable for young persons"; and gave Austin's Texas State Bank a go-ahead to move its quarters from the University of Texas area to the downtown district despite objections of neighbor to be City National Bank.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held invalid an appropriations bill rider attempting to set up priority for restoring historical sites. This since the Parks and Wildlife Department is otherwise authorized to use its discretion in acquiring and rebuilding such sites.

In other new opinions, Mr. Martin held that:

Proceeds received by the Armory Board of the Texas National Guard in exchange for land near Camp Maxey must be deposited in the state treasury, and cannot be spent for purchase of land. However, other board funds not in the treasury can be spent to buy land.

County clerk of Parker County may accept for filing a city subdivision plat of property in an area overlapped by extraterritorial jurisdiction of two cities in the county if approved by the largest city's planning commission.

Although dedicated for a 120-acre park in Colorado County, Hill Memorial Park Foundation is not exempt from ad valorem taxes.

APPOINTMENTS

The State Liquor Control Board named Homer M. DeGlandon of Austin as its chief of staff services and Donald R. Fishel of Boerne its director of special investigations. New LCB district supervisors are Haskell H. Hall, transferred from Amarillo to San Antonio; T. L. Baker, transferred from Beaumont to Amarillo; Henry C. Knowles, transferred from Austin to Victoria; and Doyle E. Davis, transferred from Wichita Falls to Beaumont.

BUILDING, BUSINESS DROP OFF

Both building and business activity dropped off sharply in March, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research barometer.

Construction index fell almost 31 points from the previous month and was eight per cent below March, 1967. However, the January-March overall average of index this year still is 12 per cent above that for the first 3 months of 1967, due to the record February bulge. March business index was eight per cent below the February value but was 3.3 per cent above March 1966, the bureau reported.

SHORT SNORTS

Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham not only is assured of election as Speaker of the House of Representatives next January, but reportedly has a second term as speaker virtually nailed down.

Texas Aeronautics Commission certified King Flight Services, Inc., of Wichita Falls for scheduled service with Dallas.

The number of draft delinquency cases in Texas decreased from 1,028 to 970 in first quarter of 1968, State Selective Service Director Col. Morris S. Schwartz reports.

As a part of the new Texas Hill Country Trail, Texas Tourist Development Agency has arranged for President Lyndon Johnson's boyhood home, located 13 miles west of Johnson City, to be open to the public.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler, chairman of the Veterans Land Board, said the sale was necessary to continue purchase of land for the Texas program recently revived by constitutional amendment.

Before used for buying veterans land, money will be invested in short-term government securities to offset any interest costs accruing against the Veterans Land Board.

Sadler said AAA bond rating and the excellent pay record of the Veterans Land Board made it possible to sell bonds below market.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

Omar Burleson, M. C. Washington, D. C. —We can be very proud of our colleges and universities where no "sit-ins" or "lie-ins" have taken place.

In fact, it is beyond the imagination that students who respect and enjoy the opportunity of getting an education would permit a small, militant, disruptive minority to completely paralyze the institution to which they are devoted.

Here in Washington, some 60 odd students were able to totally close down Howard University of 8,000 enrolled students. This University is largely supported by Federal funds and out of which have come able men and women who have contributed greatly to the Negro race.

Maryland University at College Park was paralyzed by "student power" until the greater part of vague demands were met.

Until the police were called in and arrested the ring-leaders, a comparatively few students forced the closing of Columbia University, continuing their defiance even after some of their demands were met.

All this happens at time when thousands of students would like to get into Columbia, Howard University and other institutions of higher learning but have been turned back because of a lack of space.

Thee militants talk of free speech and free assembly but what they do is to deprive others by force and intimidation of the rights they claim for themselves.

Recently, at the University of Wisconsin, two members of the President's cabinet were hooted and heckled so raucously that the civil rights of free assembly was turned into a civil wrong of a free for all, preventing those who wanted to listen from hearing the speakers. In many instances, as was the case at Columbia University, junior professors have joined students encouraging violence.

In the case of Maryland University the strategy decided upon by the militants was to find issues on which the University authorities could not afford to yield and then push their demands with sit-in and campus strikes. This has been the pattern at university after university. More recently at Princeton students demanded the right to fix policy and run the university.

On last March 17, a report-

MAN'S GOTTA GIT A-

er from the Caller-Times of Corpus Christi quoted the speech of a young professor at the University of Texas who told an audience of students and faculty that he favored "toppling the power structure of our society" by taking property, production and mass communication out of private hands. The plan, according to the Caller-Times reporter, advocated by the university professor was that if such a program began catching on with enough people, sooner or later the government would step in to force it to a halt. "At that point," he said, "revolutionaries will have to fight to survive."

The assistant professor of philosophy, Larry Caroline, was further quoted as saying that political and cultural revolution was necessary because legislative reforms had proved unable to cure society's ills. "Abolition of private property is necessary for a just society and legislation won't go that far," he is quoted as saying. He said until people are convinced that "property is theft" that little justice can be attained in America.

Perhaps we should not wonder at the conduct of a few radical rabble-rousers who come under the influence of such teachings.

On March 12, 1964, in this space, attention was called to the power and influence of university students in foreign countries, the implication being that it could not happen here, but it has and it is.

Just as was the case at Berkeley, there is reason to believe that a pattern of Communist influence is present in these actions.

In our area students loyal to their school and grateful for the opportunity of an education, would likely save college and university officials the trouble of disciplinary action by throwing these elements off the campus by themselves.

Punishing the Past
Suppose you discover that, in your community, there is no law against smashing of street lights. And suppose you go out and smash a dozen or two. And suppose that the city fathers, in sudden alarm, pass a law forbidding such behavior. Could you then be punished, under the new law, for the lights you have already smashed?

No—not even if you knew all along that you were doing something wrong. Punishment by hindsight is forbidden in Article One of the Constitution, which says that "no ex post facto law shall be passed." No act, legal when committed, may be made punishable afterward by pinning a criminal label on it.

This applies not only to creating new crimes but also to increasing the penalty on existing crimes. For example:

A state legislature decreed that convicted murderers, while awaiting execution, should be kept in solitary confinement. But a court ruled that the extra penalty, the solitary confinement, could not be imposed on any murderer whose crime had already been committed.

On the other hand, a law easing the punishment may constitutionally apply to the past. Thus, lawmakers could reduce the death penalty to life imprisonment, and apply the change to murders committed while the death penalty was still on the books.

Moreover, the ex post facto rule applies to criminal penalties only. It does not protect you from assorted unpleasant consequences, other than criminal penalties, that may be based on your past misconduct.

In one case, an ex-convict who had served 10 years in jail wanted to practice medicine. But, according to a state law, no one who had been convicted of a felony could do so.

"This law is unconstitutional," the man charged in a court test. "True, I committed a felony. But I have already served my sentence for that. To prevent me now from practicing medicine would be to add an extra punishment, and that is ex post facto."

However, the court upheld the law, saying the legislature was not imposing a punishment but merely setting the standards for the practice of medicine. The judge said:

Migrating Hawks Seen Near Bend

Bend—Approximately 250 hawks were spotted the last of April about two miles northeast of Bend in Lampasas county while they took a short rest from their migration north says Frank Etheredge, information and education officer for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Etheredge said the birds were identified as Swainson's hawks, a particularly beneficial species because of the number of rodents and insects they eat.

According to Etheredge, some of the hawks were resting on the ground or perched in trees, and a great number of them circled overhead.

PROPER SERVICING NEEDED

The dry-type air cleaner on farm tractors must be properly serviced if it is to do its job. Henry O'Neal, Extension agricultural engineer, says a cup of sandy soil, if allowed to get by the air cleaner, can become about the most expensive soil on earth.

He says if this should happen, that cup of soil could be the cause of a complete engine overhaul to say nothing of time lost to down time.

J. E. Galloway of Huntsville visited briefly with Mr. and Mrs. Chester Galloway Sunday morning.
