"He Profits Most Who Serves Best"

SMOKE

FROM THE MOUNTAIN

Santa Anna has a lot to be proud of and among the list is the large number of honor students from this city in colleges over the state. We have already received unusually favorable reports this week on the scholastic records of John E. Smith, Francine Merritt, John David Harper, Marian Foley, Clifford Oder, Aleene Ripley, Edwin Moore, Willie C. Revel, Ruth Niell.

Notice to Cafe Owners: Please notify all customers when serving pie on paper plates. (Not that you care about the plates, but the customer might sue you for indigestion after dining at your place, although you can show a piece of the plate to show it wasn't the cook's fault.) One local cafe owner has already profited by this advice.

It seems there is always some one who rushes the season. February swimming is now in vogue—at least J. J. Gregg took an unintentional swim last weekend when he was looking over the fishing possibilities on his creek and his foot and the slippery rocks together decided they'd "get to the bottom of the matter." He did, clothes and all, but he's not planning to make it a habit.

There was once a young man named Reg, and he bought him a pretty pair of cowboy boots. But he was very vain they say and instead of getting boots to fit his foot, he got some several sizes too small. Now he wanted to wear them every day, but they hurt him so he had to wear them just about three times a week. The blisters behind his ears pained so and his friends laughed so that Reg said he would never be so foolish again. "Apologies to the fairy tale books—but this is not a fairy tale."

Mrs. J. H. Stovall doesn't have the goose that laid the golden egg, but she has something almost as good—a hen that lays double eggs. We have two such eggs on our desk this week to prove it. We'll venture that that is one old hen who won't be served for chicken salad for some time to come.

Glenn Williamson, Jim Harris and the editor must have been born several thousand years too late, since their chief diversion during their spare time now is that cave man game of hunting rattlesnakes. Now if some one would just import some lions and tigers into the woods, their Tarzan instincts might be better satisfied.

It seems that one of the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show boosters sorta took up with one of our local young ladies in the brief time in Santa Anna and was so interested in poking his head out the window where she was gazing down at the show that the buses went off and left him. But he seemed to think it was worth it.

Why is it that certain well known business men of our town, young, single, and in funds, will not pay a debt, which they admit is just, reasonable and owing?

By the way, we are all admiring the "new" 1937 Ford Jack Mobley is sporting and apparently that will be his only method of transportation for some time. We can't find out, though, just what finance company took his new 1936 car.

Senator Davis Answers Prescott in Soil Conservation Controversy

Captain Davis Replies to Letter in Santa Anna News by Representative; His Bill Favors Farm Terracing

Controversy over the two proposed bills on Soil Conservation is exciting more attention throughout the state by voters, all farmers, and particularly the two sponsors of the bills, Senator E. M. Davis of Brownwood and Representative Ross K. Prescott of Santa Anna.

In reply to the letter published in the News last week, written by Prescott in defense and explanation of his proposed bill, Senator Davis has sent his explanation of his soil conservation bill. The News is thus presenting to the readers both sides of the argument which has reached unusual fervor among the farmers and those interested in the welfare of the farming group.

Below is quoted in full the exact copy of Senator Davis' letter:

Austin, Texas
February 23, 1937

Santa Anna News,
Santa Anna, Texas.
Gentlemen:

I notice in your last week's issue you have a signed statement from Mr. Ross Prescott advising you that the Davis Soil Conservation bill does not have the approval of the Federal authorities.

I am reluctant to rush into print on any pending bill, but this statement is misleading, because I have in my possession a telegram from the Department of Agriculture specifically approving my bill with three minor changes. In this connection, I would like to discuss briefly the differences between my bill and the so-called Federal model bill, including the Upper Colorado River bill.

The bill introduced by Mr. Prescott was prepared by those favoring the so-called Federal model bill, and I shall discuss my bill in contrast to the so-called model bill.

The two fundamental differences between the bill introduced by me and the so-called Federal model bill are these: First, the model bill, including the so-called Upper Colorado River conservation bill, has a crop control feature to it, whereby the district authorities acting under the dictates of the Federal authorities may determine what you may plant on every acre of your land, or whether you may plant anything on your land. My bill is purely a co-operative bill and does not undertake to control what crops you may grow and how much of such crops you may grow on the land. Second, the model bill provides for a complete new setup, and this setup takes its instructions from Washington. My bill proposes to use the state and local authorities in the terracing of lands in Texas.

In framing my bill, I took cognizance of the fact that there are only two Federal agencies operating in Texas today that are operating economically and efficiently, namely: the Federal Bureau of Roads and the Extension Service. The Federal Bureau of Roads operates through the State Highway Department and the counties, and the Extension Service operates through the A & M College as the State agency and the counties as the local agency. It occurred to me that in the terracing of lands in Texas it might be well to follow the Federal Bureau of Roads and the Extension Service, and recognize the state and local agencies. My bill proposes to create a state bureau composed of the President of A & M College and the President of Texas Technological College and five farmers selected from five districts in Texas, composing a board of seven members who serve without pay except $10.00 a day when they are actually in attendance on their duties, exactly as the Boards of Regents of the various educational institutions in Texas serve. The Commissioners' Courts will have the carrying out of the actual terracing program in conjunction with the Extension Service and under the supervision of the State Conservation Board.

I do not have time to discuss this matter further at the present time, but permit me to say that the fundamental differences between my bill and the Upper Colorado and all the model bills are that my bill is a "may" bill.

New Projects Presented to Lions Members

Discussion of obtaining band uniforms for the Santa Anna musical organization was the main topic of the Lions Club meeting last Tuesday, when Tom Wallis, band director, was guest of the club.

Although nothing definite was decided about uniforms, the members of the club agreed that the band, which has made remarkable progress in the short time it has been organized, would make a better appearance in uniform.

J. R. Lock announced that the Boy Scouts would place posters in four merchants' windows next week, the places to be determined by the invitations of the merchants. Each patrol will prepare a poster for each window, the posters to include the roll of the patrol members. This is a project in connection with Scout Month, the birthday month of the National Organization.

Announcement was also made by A. D. Pettit, vocational agriculture teacher, that the F.F.A. boys and vocational agriculture boys of the high school are planning a livestock and poultry exhibit soon and asked the cooperation of the business men in this project.

Mr. Thate, who has been in business here for about ten years, has purchased only the most up-to-date equipment for the new store, which will be housed in a double brick building. The shelves, counters, meat refrigerators, and other refrigerators are all new and roomy and are conveniently placed so that they will be easily available to the largest number of purchasers. The store is light, since the large plate glass windows admit light across the entire frontage of the store and the walls and ceiling are a light color. The floors are of hardwood and have been freshly polished.

The building previously had two front entrances, but one of these has been taken out, making only one large entrance. The back portion of the building will be used as storage space, and a large sliding door near the rear will make delivery of trucks convenient at the side of the building.

The employees of the Piggly Wiggly under the direction of Mr. Thate will move all other equipment and supplies into the new store Saturday night after closing hours and will be ready to open to customers Monday at the usual hour. The grand opening date however will be announced by Mr. Thate later.

Mr. Thate is now moving into his third building since his many years in business in Santa Anna. Piggly Wiggly has grown from a moderate sized store with its first location in the Shield building into the large store of today. Remaining several years in the first building, he moved in 1932 to his second store where he is now. Throughout that time Mr. Thate has desired to increase the size of his establishment to make trading conditions more pleasant for both customers and employees and the new store is the fulfillment of several years plans and aspirations.

Few towns of this size can boast a store so roomy and so fully equipped.

Mr. Thate takes with him into the new location his present employees, Everett Kirkpatrick, Neal Oakes, and Augustus Lightfoot.

New Hopes For Our Band

Discussion of band uniforms this week by various persons and organizations has been welcomed heartily by band members and citizens as a further proof of the interest of the town in continuing the organization which has reached a goal of excellence even in the short time it has been organized. Much work and enthusiasm has been placed into the band work and it would be a deplorable situation if the group should have to discontinue its activity.

This brings up the question of making definite provisions for the band in the future so that it will not discontinue one single practice. As the band members know and perhaps a few of the citizens, their very able director graduates from college in June and unless provision is made to continue his services here on a full time basis, the band will lose interest, will not practice regularly of its own accord without a leader, resulting in a loss to the members for their instruments and music and a great loss to the town in the way of entertainment and civic progressiveness.

It is not a question of the ability of the director, Mr. Wallis. He has satisfactorily proven to all that he is more than capable of directing the band and musical entertainments. It is a question of funds for a position which he might fill. Some of the band members, worried over the situation, have asked if there is a possibility of creating a position as music instructor for the public schools and coordinating this with the position of band director for the city. To the best of our knowledge, public sentiment favors this move. It would assure our band of another year's progress.

The citizens should express themselves on this matter. We need immediate action to assure a band for the summer. See the proper authorities, the group or organization that you think should take care of this problem. We must not let the band die due to lack of leadership.

Texas Independence Day

The Texas Heroes, who on March 2, 1836 declared freedom for Texas had little idea that 101 years later their descendants would celebrate the day marking their courageous step. They were not thinking of the praise they might receive; they were concerned only in making life safe and happy for family and friends and for the assurance of that safety in the future.

To them we owe the fact that we are a part of a government which, not perfect, is patterned as the citizens make it. If it is not to our liking, we have the privilege through the polls to change it. We can worship in our chosen church; our children receive the benefit of public education. These men have given us all these privileges, but our Texas patriots of the last century might find fault with many present day Texans for their use of these privileges.

The vote they so desired, so many of us fail to use or fail to use wisely. The right to free worship, which was disturbed often by the Mexican government, is ours but there are many who neglect or utterly fail to tend to their religious life. The heroes of the Alamo and San Jacinto gave up their lives to give their children educational opportunities, yet how numerous are the parents and children who scorn education or discourage it by creating no incentive for culture or information.

It is well to have celebrations for the forefathers of Texas. It would be better to celebrate the year round by endeavoring to create a citizenship such as these heroes hoped for — a citizenship realizing their great advantages and making the best of these opportunities with the aim for good government, moral, Christian living, refinement and education among its people. Then and only then will the Texas heroes have the respect and honor due them.

COLEMAN COUNTY INCLUDED IN PORTION OF TEXAS TO WHICH RANGE PROGRAM WILL APPLY

Coleman county has been included in the portion of Texas designated as the range area of the range area of the state, according to information which has been received by County Agent C. V. Robinson.

The line designating the range area of Texas runs south along the Western line of Montague, Wise, Parker, Hood, Somervell, Bosque, Coryell, Burnet, Blanco, Comal, Bexar, Atascosa, Live Oak, Jim Wells, Kleberg, Kennedy and Hidalgo. All these counties and all counties west of them are designated as being in the western range area of Texas where the range program will apply.

Practices which have been approved from which ranchmen may choose those needed on their ranges and earn payments limited strictly by the range building allowance established for their ranches are: deferred grazing; fencing; contour listing or terracing; constructing levees; spreader dams; earth-works; and reservoirs, buling spreader terraces; establishing fire guards; eradication of prairie dogs and kangaroo rats; reseeding land from prickly pear, mesquite, cedar, and lechuguilla.

The range building allowance which establishes the limit of payments for carrying out range building practices will be calculated on the grazing capacity of the individual ranch.

JOHN E. SMITH MAKES HIGH GRADES AT TEXAS TECH

John E. Smith, son of W. E. Smith, has made one of the highest records in scholarship this last semester at the Texas Technological College at Lubbock, according to grade reports received here recently.

His record shows that of five subjects taken, he made two straight A's, two grades of A-minus, and one B. That is a very high record, especially for college work.

John E. graduated from Santa Anna High School in 1930 and was employed here until he entered Texas Tech this last fall as a freshman student.

Demonstrators Give Plans of Yearly Products

In beginning work on her room early in January, Mrs. H. A. Hagler, bedroom demonstrator of the Bowen Home Demonstration club, first built a clothes closet. She felt that it was impossible to keep clothing of her family in good condition without proper storage. The closet is papered inside and out to make it dust proof and the woodwork is to be painted ivory. Moths dislike smooth, new paint or light colored paper and with the above provisions, Mrs. Hagler has made she should not be bothered with moths.

In the closet there is a rod for hanging coats, suits, and dresses just a little above shoulder height. Above this rod is a shelf for the storage of hats, and in the east end of the closet under the rod several shelves, 9 inches apart, for storing folded garments. Mrs. Hagler is also adding a shoe rack in the bottom of the closet to keep their shoes up out of the dust.

Mrs. Frank Golsen, bedroom demonstrator of the Burkett Home Demonstration Club, is fixing over a small bedroom for her daughter. In February she made plans for the fixing over the room with the help of Miss Alice Glenn Young, County Home Demonstration Agent.

The walls of the room are painted green and Mrs. Golsen plans to change the color to ivory so as to make the room seem larger and more spacious. The floor is to be refinished with varnish and waxed to make it more attractive and easy to keep and small rugs are to be used that can be carried outside to clean. Smooth finished floors and small rugs in the bedroom are the most convenient and easiest cleaned, thus making the home-makers job an easier one.

Mrs. Golsen is planning to add a reading and writing desk as her daughter is not yet of high school age and needs a place for writing and reading, and for the storage of books. When the room is completed it will be a cheerful, restful place for resting, reading, dressing, and studying.

Rev. Womack Addresses Student Body

Reverend Womack, pastor of the Presbyterian church, gave an interesting talk to the student body last Friday morning, February 19. Reverend Womack has spoken to the students for several years and has proved to be quite an interesting speaker. His funny jokes always attract the attention of the students and his interesting moral lessons hold the interest throughout the story.

Had You Thought About It?

Do you know how many months, weeks, days, hours, minutes and seconds are left to attend school of this term. Well, this question has been solved. From this day it has been figured to be 3 months, 12 weeks, 60 school days, 420 hours, 25,200 minutes of 1,512,000 seconds. When one thinks of weeks or months it seems very short time, but when one thinks of seconds, it sounds a very long time. It is true that the end is drawing closer, so each student should do his best to make a success, for some are going for their last time. Remember students, these are the happiest moments of your life even though sometimes you think they are your worst.

Let's Talk about Clothes

The past week the seniors have taken their measurements for the caps and gowns. The order was sent in Tuesday. They have all paid for their diplomas and in a few days they will send in the order for their invitations. The seniors all agree that graduation will be expensive, (at least for "their" pocket books).

Judge: You are called as a witness of the quarrel between your friend and his wife. Were you present at the beginning of the trouble.

Carlene: Certainly, I was a witness at their wedding.

Donald: What will the men wear this spring?

Lee: The clothes they bought in 1929.

Cecil: Why don't you sound your horn?

Hilburn: Because I don't give a hoot for anyone.

Doris S: When I was a baby I was left an orphan.

Doris R: What did you do with it?

H. L: How far down do you wish to sit, lady?

Miss Harvey: All the way, of course.

Mr. Lock: Weak eyes, have you? Well, how many lines can you read on that chart.

M. L.: What chart?

Girl Revue Is Scheduled for Fat Stock Show

FORT WORTH.—Negotiations have just been completed to bring Kathryn Duffy's sparkling "Internationale Revue" for the floor show entertainment at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show as the attraction for the new Rainbeau Garden, March 12 to 21.

The entertainers come highly recommended, according to Manager John B. Davis. The cast includes 25 girl singers and dancers.

Several leading night clubs in other states have presented the cast but the revue as it now stands is practically new. It has never been seen in this part of the country.

Show officials say that the costumes — and advance notices say they will be rather brief — are especially elaborate and attractively designed by experts. Arrangements have been made whereby the show will be presented in two sections, the first to end during the middle of the Exposition. This assures two complete shows for the Garden.

The Exposition will soon announce the name of a nationally known orchestra which will furnish dance music.

In keeping with the attractive costumes the floor show artists will wear here, there will be new and attractive decorations in the Garden.

DENTON, Feb. 22.—It takes wizardry, super-imagination, color sense to the nth degree, and enthusiasm to make hats that lift any and all out of a mid-season slump. But it's been done! Some of the most exciting models we've seen are in the shops ready for immediate wear.

Every one of the new hats achieves flattery. Each is daintily individual and not a single creation is anything but rhythm, inimitable color combination, and the last word in wickedly French accented smartness. For instance, the silk turbans are noteworthy examples of what undertaking hatmakers have done for a dark day in town. These are brilliantly colored and deftly tied in new headlines to cause appreciative glances from the spectators. Vivid reds, with greens and yellows, a reddish orange splashed with jade green and beige mixups, are the outstanding color combinations. These patterns dramatize all kinds of headlines, to say nothing of assuring a vivid accent for coats or suits. They also come in soft crepes as well as the smooth silks.

Tiny pill box hats of practically every fabric have beguiling streamers for smart sophistication. Black and beige lead the parade in colors, but there are some raspberry red numbers giving them a good run for popularity.

authorizing the landowners to cooperate with local, state and Federal units in the terracing of the lands, whereas the Upper Colorado River bill and all the so-called model bills are "must" bills which give authority to the district board to determine what and how much of any given product you can plant and how you may cultivate your land. My bill avails itself of local and state units of government, whereas the so-called model bills, including the Upper Colorado River bill, make a complete new setup and ignore all existing local and state authorities.

What will be the comparative result of these two bills? In my judgment, if the so-called model bill dealing strictly with watersheds is adopted, the result of all the efforts will be the building of one or more big monumental dams with the prospect that the water basin will be a silt bed in the course of a few years. If my bill is adopted, the terracing of lands will be the primary object, and in the course of a few years, every acre of farm and pasture lands in this state will be adequately terraced, and this program will save the soil of this state and conserve the flood waters, and is it the most effective way to prevent, or at least obstruct, the devastating floods of this State. If the so-called model bills are passed, I seriously doubt if any attempt will be made to terrace the lands of our State for years to come, but if my bill is passed the principal program is that of terracing the land, and the results will be immediate. In my judgment, my bill is a practical one which will result in immediate benefit to all the landowners in Texas in the terracing of their lands.

If we adopt the so-called watershed bills it will result in an effort on the part of the Trinity River Watershed to obtain deep water for Dallas and Ft. Worth and thereby reduce their railroad rates to the point where no wholesale house can exist in West Texas, and it will further result in a few spectacular projects, such as big dams across a stream, but will never result in the actual terracing of lands.

I am for the principles of my bill, first, because it avoids the necessity of an elaborate new setup and uses the existing state and local agencies, and, second, because it will result in a practical and universal terracing program.

Sincerely yours,
E. M. DAVIS
