

25-Year Men

Two Big Spring members of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks received pins signifying 25 years of membership in the organization Friday night. Shown presenting one of the emblems to D. C. Sadler is Robert H. Wood, of Dallas, right, general chairman for BRC in Texas. The other recipient was G. W. Dabney, second from right. Also on hand was Earl A. Males, left, assistant chairman. M. F. Jarrett and C. H. Vick also qualified for the pins but were not on hand for the meeting.

AFL, CIO Officials Near Crucial Stage In Merger

By NORMAN WALKER
MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 5 (AP)—AFL and CIO officials are about to enter a crucial stage in negotiations aimed at merging their union groups into a single powerful labor federation.
CIO President Walter Reuther is to lead a group of his union chiefs down to this winter resort where AFL President George Meany and top AFL officials have been holding strategy sessions.
Meany and Reuther, in the two years since becoming the major leaders of organized labor, have made steady progress toward their announced goal of combining their federations into a single 15-million-member union organization.
However, the unity talks have reached the stage at which all prior merger efforts floundered and the guessing is still 50-50 whether any merger will be accomplished.
Outwardly and apparently genuinely hopeful that they will go through with the amalgamation, three-man subcommittees representing the AFL and CIO will go into a huddle at the Roney Plaza Hotel here Tuesday to try to hammer out a written merger agreement. This will be subject to review by two 10-man committees at another meeting Wednesday. Any pact would have to be ratified later at the AFL and CIO conventions.
The union leaders say that by combining forces under a single banner they can build greater political power for organized labor, tougher economic strength against employers and more efficient drives to sell unionism to unorganized workers.
Standing in the way of achieving the merger are the jealousies and rivalries between various labor leaders and their unions for prestige and worker organizing rights.
However, Meany and Reuther say they plan to bring all AFL and CIO unions under the same tent on a status quo basis and let them fight out any differences once the merger takes place. It has been 20 years since the CIO was formed by a group of unions splintering away from the AFL.
Meany is expected to emerge as head of the combined setup with Reuther bowing out and sticking to his other job as president of the million-member auto workers union, possibly with added political responsibility as an aide to Meany.
Scientific collection of meteorites did not begin in earnest until after 1903 when a large shower at Laigle, France, convinced men of learning that the bodies were extra-terrestrial.

The excitement of the week was provided by a piece of merchandise which arrived in a $5000 crate. The "Simplex" motorcycle which has really taken its place among the many items carried by your Western Auto Associate Store, was uncrated and moved into position beside the well known Western Flyer bicycles.
The low cost ($298.00) of this motorcycle, coupled with practically no up-keep and the capabilities of approximately 100 miles per gallon of gasoline makes this machine a transportation bargain.
Excellent maneuverability in traffic and practically no parking problems are features which should not be overlooked. Although its streamlined shape makes it a thing of beauty, the Simplex motorcycle's outstanding quality is its low total cost per mile.
Low down payment and our time payment program make it possible for you to pay as you ride.

4-H Caravan Leaves For El Paso's Show

A vanful of 4-H Clubbers, leaders and animals left Big Spring Saturday for El Paso and the Southwestern Livestock Show.
Ten Howard County 4-H Club members carried 10 steers and one lamb for entry in the El Paso show. The animals are to be weighed in Monday and judging gets under way at 5 p.m. Tuesday.
Accompanying the group when the van left Big Spring about 9:30 a.m. Saturday were Joe Scherschel and Harrison Lilly, photographer and writer for Life Magazine. County Agent Durward Lewter said the journalists are to prepare a picture story of the Howard County club in action, following the club members through all the preparations for the show and into the showing.
The Howard County 4-H Club has the outstanding record of any group in the nation's livestock shows. Members have won practically every major title on at least one occasion. The latest victory was at the Houston Fat Stock Show where Life Lewter, 10, son of the county agent, copped the grand championship and $13,500 on the sale of his steer, "Buster."
Taking steers to El Paso Saturday were Ann and Sue White, Sunny Choate, Leslie White, Joyce Robinson, Wanda Boatier, Rodney Brooks, James Cauble and Lloyd Robinson. Cauble took two steers.
Robert Lomax carried a lamb to the Southwestern, also in the van.
All of the steers are entered in the club division except the one owned by Lloyd Robinson. It will be exhibited in the open class.
Accompanying the group when they left were Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Boatier and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Choate. Lewter said he will fly to El Paso today.
Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Brooks are to drive to El Paso Monday.
Life Lewter will remain in Houston another week with his grand champion steer, the farm agent said Saturday. His mother also is in Houston.
Lewter said that two other Howard County steers, owned by Royce Hull and Lorin McDowell III, also were sold in Houston Friday. The animals brought 45 cents a pound—about 20 cents better than the market.
The county agent went from Houston to Fort Worth prior to the Houston auction. He reported that Lloyd Robinson and Sue White each sold a steer at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show (Fort Worth) at 40 cents per pound.
Lewter said several Howard County 4-H Club members will leave Monday, Feb. 14, with steers.

STANTON (SC) — The Martin County 4-H Club van and four Martin club steers departed about 8:30 a.m. Saturday for El Paso's Southwestern Livestock Show which opens Monday.
The steers are owned and will be exhibited by Bobby Sale, Marilyn Sale, and Carol Hull. Bobby has two animals entered in the stock show.
Robert Lomax, a member of the Stanton chapter of Future Farmers of America and the Howard County 4-H Club, and J. C. Sale, father of Bobby and Marilyn Sale, accompanied the van. Lomax also has a lamb entered in the show, but it made the trip to El Paso in the Howard County 4-H van.
In El Paso, the Martin and Howard groups will pool facilities to sleep and eat in the two vans on the show grounds. Ralph Jones, Martin County agricultural agent, said he was to leave Stanton early today for El Paso.

Farm Placement Day Is Monday

Farm Placement Day at the Texas Employment Commission office will be held Monday, according to Manager Leon Kinney.
The FPD is an attempt to bring together the farm employer and the farm worker. He said that persons who desire to hire farm workers should come by the office Monday morning to meet with unemployed workers.
Several satisfactory placements have been made in the past on FPD, Kinney said, and with cooperation from employers they should be even more successful in the future.

Four leaders of the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce get together during the organization's annual banquet Thursday evening. Left to right are Eldon Mahon, district attorney and a C-C director; Roy Porter, out-going president who is manager of the Lone Star Gas Company; Joe Bell, new president and editor of the Colorado City Record; and Kenn Eastin, vice president of the City National Bank who served as master of ceremonies. ### MOD At Lamesa Up To $6,657

LAMESA — Contributions to the March of Dimes campaign totaled $6,657.11 which is below the anticipated figure of $7,000 plus expenses. Mrs. J. P. White, MOD secretary, reported.

In order to increase the fund, the march has been continued for an additional week.

A telethon, featuring Lamesa talent, Saturday night over television station KDUB in Lubbock, was expected to swell donations, and reports from test tubes and Lamesa schools not yet turned in, will also add to the anticipated goal.

The Mother's March on Polio, under the direction of Lamesa club women, netted $1,218.05. Lamesa Shriners contributed $1,014 and the Lamesa DeMolay Chapter brought in $1,093 in their "operation road-block." The Kiwanis Club collected $217.66, Rotary Club, $222.50, Comision Honoratificas Mexicana de Lamesa, $311.70; Tate Brother's calf auction sale, $785; and Girl Scouts $100.

A local polio victim, Weldon Kidd, is credited with being responsible for over $600 netted from his musical review and radio request program. Auction of a German Shepherd dog belonging to another Lamesa polio victim, A.

E. Harvick, is expected to go over the present $150 bid.

John Agge, MOD chairman, said he was gratified with the results and felt that Lamesa will surely go over the anticipated figure.

Son Born To Widow Following Fatal Fall

HOUSTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—A son was born last night to the widow of a window washer who was killed Tuesday in a fall from the 10th floor of an office building. Mrs. Zane Doyle and the 7 pounds 11 ounce baby were in good condition. Doyle, 29, died a few minutes after joking with an elevator operator about the dangers of his job.

Bootlegger Victims Stay Silent In South Plains Hijacking Cases

By BOB FENLEY

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. Written for The Associated Press

LUBBOCK, Feb. 5 (AP)—A lusty thirst which all the pumping windmills on the South Plains can't seem to quench has brought to amazing proportions the business of that furtive character with the bulge in his pocket—the bootlegger.

In 24 counties where the handle hooks onto the pan in Texas, it is against the law to sell any beverage containing alcohol, even a can of beer.

The West Texas wars between rum and righteousness have been waged a long time, but, as was inevitable, the law of supply and demand has come out on top.

On the South Plains, the lure of the thirty dollar makes pawns of men.

The newest look in the game is violent, but it's really an old profile. Brutal inter-club clashes in bootlegging ranks have been punctuated late at night with the crackle of gunfire.

In Lubbock recently a man and woman were bound, gagged and locked in the closet of their home while hijackers drove away their liquor-loaded car.

A Negro hired to guard a collection of liquor near Lubbock was virtually whipped to a pulp with a chain wielded by robbers.

What's the picture? Today in Lubbock you can buy a fifth of cheap bourbon for $6 to $7. The Latins drink beer at $1 a quart. The Negroes like wine at $1 a pint.

In "bone-dry" Lubbock, police records show that over half of arrests, excluding traffic, have to do with liquor.

Bootleg liquor is too costly for some. An aged man recently told police he had been mixing canned heat with strawberry soda pop.

No less than 11 South Plains clubs applied for federal liquor dealer's permits from 1950 to 1952.

But if you're not a club member and have a thirst you pick a telephone number. Some of the easiest-to-remember numbers in Lubbock are owned by bootleggers.

If you are "in the know and sent by Joe" the bootlegger has your name listed.

Liquor moves into the South Plains in amazing quantities, but not without effort and trouble. Picture a lonely South Plains road in early morning hours as the lights of a fast-moving car cut through the blackness.

Ahead of the car, shadowy figures move across the road and place instruments with spikes in the way. The figures retreat to watch the car whose driver sees the trap too late. Flat tires slap at the pavement and the dark figures dart toward the lurching vehicle.

"Okay, bail out . . . Get 'em up."

As the driver is marched down the highway, long brown packages from his car are transferred to another auto. Then the auto roars away, leaving the driver alone to contemplate his monstrous bad

Glasscock Grand Jury's Task Easy

GARDEN CITY, (SC) — A new Glasscock County Grand Jury will be impaneled Monday morning, but apparently the panel will have no work to do.

District Attorney Gufford Jones said in Big Spring Saturday that he knew of nothing to be presented to the grand jury.

District Judge Charlie Sullivan will be on hand to impanel the grand jury, but that probably will conclude his work for the day.

Jones said he knew of no cases — either criminal or civil — to be tried.

Former Big Springer Receives Promotion

W. B. Thornton Jr. of Odessa has been promoted to oil scout for the Gulf Oil Corp. of Wichita Falls. Formerly from Big Spring, Thornton has held the position of assistant geophysicist until the new promotion.

Mrs. Thornton is to join him at Wichita Falls when her position at the Bunch Construction Co. has been filled. She is a former Howard County librarian.

carried out by Leon Bowman, supervisor of the Lubbock Liquor Control District, which has led, or been close to the top in the state in liquor law violation fines assessed in recent months.

The bootleg business rolls along. It's hard to stop, but most officers agree strict enforcement by themselves and by juries probably can do the most toward solving the problem.

The stiffer the fine or jail sentence, the higher the stake in the business of the thirty dollar. When the stakes get too high, even the hardest-nosed gambler won't ante.

Lamesa Farm, Civic Groups Set Livestock Show Awards

LAMESA — Lamesa civic and farm organizations are joining in developing farm youth leadership in the Dawson-Borden County Junior Livestock Show by presenting showmanship awards at the show Feb. 24-25-26.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce will give a showmanship trophy to the boy selected as the most deserving Future Farmer or 4-H Club boy that exhibits animals.

Kiwanis Club members will give awards to the most deserving FFA or 4-H boys in the divisions of beef cattle, swine and sheep.

The Dawson County Farm Bureau will present $25 savings bonds to the boys who present the grand champion sheep, the grand champion steer and the grand champion pig.

The Lamesa Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development will present a gold belt buckle set to the boy who shows the reserve champion steer, the reserve champion sheep and the grand champion pig.

The basis for showmanship judging and eligibility of boys entering in the show are that a boy must be a FFA or 4-H Club member and show his own animals in each division.

Awards will be made on the following five points: General appearance of the animal, how well trained the animal is, general appearance of the boy, sportsmanship, and how well the shower and the animal conduct themselves in the ring.

Superintendents for the show are (Stut) Griffin, assisted by Wayland Cox, superintendent of grounds; Arlan Youngblood, superintendent of beef cattle, assisted by Kenneth Pearson; Ralph Bench, superintendent of sheep; assisted by K. T. Redell; Keith Vandiver, superintendent of swine, assisted by W. C. TENDERFOOT — There's a reason for the broad smile of Joe Brown and his mother, Mrs. Roy Brown, 1508 Vines! He has been working toward a tenderfoot rating since school started in the fall, and now he has attained it. Mrs. Brown, who has a Brownie troop and also a daughter, June Ann, who is a Girl Scout, is well-versed in just how to wear any article of the Scout uniform. Here she adjusts the neckerchief slide for her son's brand new uniform.

CATCHING ON — Mrs. Frank Eppner learns some tricks of the trade of being a Cub Scout den mother from Mrs. C. H. Farquhar. The object under discussion is an achievement chart showing what individual Cubs have done. Mrs. Eppner is new in the role of den mother and is slated to take over Den No. 4, Pack 13 from Mrs. Charles Sweeney. Mrs. Farquhar has been den mother of Den No. 1, Pack 48 for a year and supervises the work of eight boys.

TIME'S A-WASTIN' — Unsung heroines are the wives of Boy Scout officials. Mrs. Lester Goswick, left, spends a lot of time crocheting while she is waiting for her husband to come home from the Scout meetings. He is the Explorer Scout adviser for Post 9, Marshall Day, whose wife is the "clock-watcher," is his assistant. On occasion, the men are gone for a week at a time, as for instance, when they attend the Scout ranch in the Davis Mountains.

DOUBLING IN INDIA INK — Mrs. Allen Orr's talent in painting is a boon to her husband, who is Lone Star District commissioner of the Buffalo Trail Boy Scout Council, especially when it comes to lettering posters. Here she finishes up one publicizing the Boy Scout Circus on Feb. 11. She also helps out in an unofficial capacity by calling representatives of every local troop to remind them of council meetings every first Thursday.

AN EAGLE AND HIS MOM — Eagle Scout Bill Owens has that "camping out look" in his eyes and his mom cooperates by shining up his mess kit. Even an Eagle Scout would admit that his mom can do a bang-up job. The cooperative mom here is Mrs. W. Lysie Owen, 1704 S. Monticello. Bill has been a top-ranking Eagle since last May.

How You Say—

Mrs. Memduh Tamlover (or Oscan, as she is known to her friends) depends on her fat Turkish-English dictionaries to help out when the right English word doesn't come to her. She and her husband, both Turkish, have been here just a month. He is a 2nd Lieutenant and is working toward his pilot's wings at Webb.

Turkish Wife Of Student Pilot Compares U.S., Turkish Customs

By CAROL MITCHELL
The paper napkin industry wouldn't do too well in Turkey found after interviewing a polite young Turkish wife whose officer husband is going through pilot training at Webb.
"We are not using paper napkins," explained Mrs. Memduh Tamlover, in telling of Turkish customs. Instead she uses sheer, fine linen napkins on which she has done intricate embroidery. These and some delicate crocheted-like doilies were shown to us, an example of fine handwork she learned at the Institute for Girls in Ankara, Turkey.
Oscan, (which is her first name) has been studying English for the seven months she has been in the United States. She is apologetic about it although she does a good job of making herself understood. If she can't remember just the right word she pulls out one of two thick English-Turkish dictionaries and looks it up as she did when she wanted to say that her father was "retired," but was once a teacher in a secondary school and ran a printing shop.

Oscan (you pronounce it sort of like O-John, but not quite) and Memduh were married four years ago, but they had never met before. Their marriage was arranged by their families, a custom that Oscan says is gradually changing in Turkey. They were both from different cities, she from Ankara and he from Demizli.
They are Moslems and Oscan says their religion does not require them to attend a service at a mosque as long as they believe in God and are "kind to people." She showed pictures of beautiful mosques in her country.
At school she learned everything—embroidery, dressmaking and regular academic subjects. She put her dressmaking to good use and did it commercially before her marriage. She explains that the ready-to-wear clothing is not of good quality and people in Turkey prefer to have theirs made to order. Pure silk is the favorite material with women for the summer and woolen in winter. She showed us a number of attractive dresses she had made for herself.

The appointment for the interview with Oscan was made at a tea given recently for newcomers at the Officers' Club. American-type teas are not given in Turkey, she says. Tea is not served to large groups like in the United States, she explained. Instead, a person will inform her neighbors that she will be at home on specific days and they may call then, or that she is at home all the time and they may call any time for tea.
The visitor is greeted and served chocolate or candy followed by Turkish coffee. Then in one or one and a half hours tea and cakes, or fruit juice will be served, depending on the weather.

Oscan has observed that the fruits and vegetables here are about the same as in Turkey but there is a taste difference because of chemicals used here in growing them.
Asked about music, Oscan answered that she and her husband like American music and are complimentary about Eartha Kitt, who is well-known for singing in Turkish. But it seems that Turks like their music played in bright places, no dimly lit night clubs for them.
When Lt. Tamlover wins his wings in about five months, he and his wife will return to Turkey, but separately. They will probably live at Izmir, Ballesire or Diyarbakir, where jet planes are based. Before he went into pilot training he taught Turkish airmen how to parachute out of planes.

Las Artistas Plan Spring Art Show

At a joint meeting of the Show Committee and the Executive Board of Las Artistas, plans were made for the Spring Membership Show. Co-chairmen Mrs. Richard Patterson and Mrs. E. A. Jones led the discussion.
The spring show will be held May 13-14 and will be open to club members only. Each member will be allowed one entry in each of four divisions: oil, pastel, water color, and graphics.
Each entry, which will require an entry fee of 50 cents, must be original and must not have been shown in competition previously. No work under class or instructor is eligible.
There is no restriction in size, but all pictures must be framed; drawings and watercolors must be matted. Out-of-town judges, artists themselves, will be announced later.

Each picture will have a grading sheet attached; the artist's name will be masked and the picture will be graded on originality, technique, skill, idea, degree of success, feeling, color, composition and balance.
Any artist of Howard County is cordially invited to join the group, which meets on the second Tuesday of each month. Mrs. D. W. Conway is president.

LS OF BLF&E
Members of the losing side in an attendance contest of the LS of BLF&E served a plate luncheon to the winning side at a meeting Wednesday at WOW Hall. Mrs. W. R. McGinnis was chairman of the losers and Mrs. Tip Anderson Sr. headed the winning side. Twenty-two attended.

SHARON MCREE

As spring semester chugs along more evidence than ever reminds Seniors that this is truly the last mile.

Earl Ezzell will be here tomorrow and Tuesday to take orders for graduation needs and supplies.

A representative of Christian College in Missouri has been available in Mr. Roe's office for consultation by any senior girl who might wish to investigate that particular college.

Our education was particularly spurred this week by two very interesting and educational assemblies.

Startling facts of drug addiction amazed many as state representative from Fort Worth, Robert Weaver, showed us a film and answered questions in an assembly Tuesday.

"You know," Doris continued, "when we were talking about being relaxed, I forgot to mention something someone told me once that I've remembered and found very helpful.

"Tenseness can spoil the best figure and liveliest features. If you can remember to sit loosely you'll have a much easier ride through life and this will be reflected in your looks."

Doris Day tells Lydia Lane what she has learned about relaxation and flexibility for preserving youth and vitality.

Several students are really skipping off the most of next week. Big happenings are going on at the El Paso Fat Stock Show the entire week.

Freedom In Action

Members of the Big Spring American Heritage discussion group laugh at a humorous point made by leader William Dawes. Shortly after the picture was taken, the members were involved in serious discussion of the powers of the Supreme Court. The meetings thrive on humor as well as friendly controversy. Members in the group at

Gotham Socialite Pays Dali $7,000 For Hated Canvas

NEW YORK (AP)—Socialite Mrs. William Woodward has paid surrealist Salvador Dali $7,000 for a portrait she says she can't stand and won't have in her home. The attractive Mrs. Woodward sat for Dali for a year, agreeing not to look at the painting until it was completed. Came the finish — in April 1953 — and after one look Mrs. Woodward said take it away. Dali sued for "the reasonable value of his services." Last week Theodore Miller, Mrs. Woodward's attorney, said Dali got a $7,000 check and agreed to withdraw the suit. The painting shows a woman resembling Mrs. Woodward standing on a beach in front of a coral cave. Commented Dali: "She has now paid the agreed price. The painting will be delivered to her. I have no further comment."

Racial Integration Is Termed Success In Catholic Schools

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—While debate persists on school segregation, South Texans have quiet proof that it can work. The Supreme Court declared May 17 segregation of Negro and white students in public schools illegal. In some San Antonio schools of a private system, white and Negro students then already were studying together, playing together. They were attending Catholic schools of the Archdiocese of San Antonio, in which color bars came down on Archbishop Robert Lucey's orders in early April, more than a month before the Supreme Court acted.

BIG SPRING HERALD

Sec. III Big Spring, Tex., Sun., Feb. 6, 1955 Sec. III

Freedom In Action Is Heritage Theme

By GLENN COOTES

The American guarantee of peaceable assembly and freedom of speech is clearly demonstrated each month in Big Spring by the American Heritage discussion group.

It is the aim of the American Heritage project to foster the free exercise of constitutional rights by encouraging periodic meetings of persons interested in discussing the events of the day in relation to their historical background.

There are no requirements for becoming a member of one of the groups. Persons with no educational background are sometimes more enthusiastic than college professors. About the only similarity among discussion group members is their desire to voice their opinions and discuss important issues.

The Heritage group in Big Spring meets monthly in the Howard County Library under the supervision of librarian Opal McDaniel. As a preparation for each meeting, the members decide upon a topic and short readings are suggested as a basis for the discussion. These readings are usually brief, informative, and interesting. At the meeting, all discussion is shared among the members. Everyone gets into the act and almost no one monopolizes the conversation. Friendly disagreement is a regular part of the meetings, as few controversial issues have only one side.

These discussions are not lectures by visiting "experts" or monopolists. Nor are they debates or classroom experience. In fact, the group makes no effort to arrive at a decision agreeable to all the members.

Meetings of this kind help the individual to understand the viewpoints of persons with whom he disagrees. They enable the citizen to extend dimensions of his own outlook and expand the scope of his experience.

The discussion-group member hears many arguments on the various public issues of the day. These he can use as a reference in developing his own ideas toward the matter of discussion.

The American Heritage project is sponsored by the American Library Association and is financed by contributions. It recently had a grant from the Fund for Adult Education. Films, newsletters, and a large supply of books are furnished to the individual groups.

The librarian here has a supply of these books available for persons interested in learning more about the organization. The West Texas director of the project, Margaret Goodrich, is connected with Texas Tech in Lubbock and makes occasional visits to this city.

Last year, the national director of the project, Nell I. Scott, was a visitor with the local group. Miss Scott was succeeded Jan. 1 by Ruth Warncke.

The meetings are conducted here by William Dawes. As discussion leader, his responsibility is to get the discussion under way at each meeting.

The next meeting has been set for Feb. 21 and all interested persons are urged to attend.

Dies In Dalhart Crash

DALHART, Feb. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Herschel Wilson of Lynd, Minn., died today of injuries received in a car-truck crash 25 miles southwest of here a few hours earlier. Her husband, a son and four soldiers riding in the Wilson car, were hurt. The driver of the truck, Wayne Grone of Wichita, Kan., was uninjured.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, HERALD, SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1955

SECTION IV

Air Scouts

Advisor Louis Maneely and members of Squadron No. 106 display some of the model planes which they have built. The Air Scout unit majors on aeronautics, but also works on all phases of the Scouting program.

Thomas Bowen, Gene Hair, Sonny Meador, Scoutmaster A. E. (Preach) True, James Stephens, Richard McCutchen, Ralph Wilkerson and Art Dodd. The Post is sponsored by the Men's Bible Class of the First Methodist Church, and members meet every Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m.

Emergency Means Action

Six Little Indians

Indian Lore Is Part Of Cub Scout Work

Cubs of Pack No. 100 were decked out in their Indian costumes when a photographer and reporter visited their meeting. The study of Indian lore, and the making of many items which the Indians used and wore, are parts of the Cub Scout program. In addition to costumes, Cubs make tomahawks, spears, shields, drums and similar items. They learn Indian dances and study the various customs of the different Indian tribes. Of course, the den mothers and Cubmasters are handy with suggestions, but the construction of the many Indian articles, including the costumes, is the work of the individual Scout. Pack No. 100 is a relatively new unit of the Lone Star District, but it is growing rapidly. Started only last July with six boys, the Pack now contains nearly 20 members. The leadership is growing, too. M-Sgt Allan Peters is the Cubmaster. The den mothers are Mrs. Peters, Mrs. Jo McCullah, Mrs. Dorothy Clements, Mrs. Mary Sturdivant, Mrs. Jean Harter and Mrs. Darlene Cahoon. The Pack is sponsored by the St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, with Bob Heine as chairman of the pack committee. Other committee members are Paul Gibson, Charles

Training Given Scout Leaders

One of the things which Scouting works constantly toward is trained leadership. While any good man with a love for boys may step right in and begin as a leader for a pack, troop or post, he can do a better job if he acquaints himself with some of the program tools developed in two score years of Scouting. The ultimate goal of the Buffalo Trail Council is to have every unit at least two deep in trained leadership. For example, if the Scoutmaster, who is trained, were to be obliged to give up his place, the assistant, who also is trained, would be a ready replacement. Out of 228 units, 150 last year had "two deep" leadership. There were 101 units whose entire top leadership was trained. During the past year there were 29 basic courses offered in addition to 127 Roundtables for leadership. These gatherings drew 1,065 men. Seven Scouters received specialized training at the Fairmont Scout Ranch in Northern New Mexico. District training teams, consisting of three men each for Cubbing, Scouting and Exploring, conducted courses in all 10 districts of the council. They had been trained by a team from the region IX office and M. Wyatt. The 29 training courses drew an enrollment of 586 leaders and 280 of them qualified for certification. Included were 136 Cubbers, 53 Scouters, 29 Explorer Advisors. In addition there were 7 courses for commissioners, 7 for den mothers, seven for advanced scoutmaster, 3 for crew leader and 39 for junior leader.

Cubs Make Use Of Ceremonies

Ceremonies are used frequently in Cubbing, for lads of 8-10 years of age are impressed by the solemnity of these affairs. One device used frequently is what the Cubs call the "living circle." It is formed by each Cub placing his left thumb out and palm down. The thumb of the person on the left is grasped so that in this manner the circle is formed. The right hand is then raised with fore and middle finger spread in the Cub sign. As a usual thing, those in the circle repeat the promise. "I promise to do my best to do my duty to God and my country, to be square and to obey the law of the pack." Not infrequently, this is used as a sort of benediction on the den or pack meeting. The living circle has an added meaning—that all Cub Scouts are friends. Cubs use ceremonies to make inspiring use of the United States flag. This may be done by forming a straight line, a hollow square or a circle for repeating the Pledge of Allegiance. Still another place where ceremonies are used to heighten the fun of Cubbing is in Indian events. Cubs make their own Indian costumes and occasionally a tom-tom pipe of peace. They like to get around a camp fire or dance around a blanket tee-pee. With their fertile imaginations, they are projected into the primeval long ago. Among the packs making use of ceremonies is Pack No. 45 at Gay Hill. Neil Spencer is Cubmaster.

Farewell Gathering Makes Crowd Guess

ST. LOUIS — Thomas J. Dolan, chemist for the Monsanto Co., had people at Lambert-St. Louis airport guessing as he boarded a plane recently. Gathered around the loading entrance were 19 youngsters, all less than 8 years old and all shouting, "Goodbye, daddy." Only six were his, however. The rest were nephews and nieces brought along for a visit to the airport.

Boy Scout Circus Set For Friday

Friday evening, a half hour's band concert having been completed, the lights will be turned down in the high school gymnasium. While an expectant hush falls over the audience, the spotlight will pick up the lone figure of such mighty characters of the past as Kit Carson, David Crockett, and other pioneers. While the narrator, Joe Reynolds, provides the background, a colorful tableau will be unfolded. With this the band strikes up a march, and as the house lights go up, Scouts, Explorers and Cubs, with the flag of the United States of America proudly leading, will stride on stage several hundred strong. Again the house lights dim and die, and the spotlight pierces the dark to center on the flag, which flutters majestically in the breeze. "The Star Spangled Banner" is sounded by the band, and from the lips of every Scout, Explorer, Cub and leader, and from the throats of an anticipated 2,000 or more spectators.

gally bedecked. Object of this part of the program, however, is to show the proper way to ride, to give signal turns. Just for contrast, some youngsters will show how not to ride a bike and how to be utterly unsafe. Signalling will be the next activity. As the narrator calls out letters, Scout participants will signal that letter until a special message of welcome is spelled. Again the thread turns to fun with a pyramid building contest. Each troop may enter a team of six Scouts. At a signal, they will form a three, two and one-man pyramid. After two practice runs, the contest will be started until a championship team is picked. Quickly, Noah's Ark passes in review with Cubs dressed as animals of all sorts. There will be monkeys, mice, horses, bulls, dogs and a host of other varieties, all frolic around the arena. Spectators will get a glimpse of some typical Scouting games. These may be such things as steal-the-bacon, push pole, pillow fight, antelope race, etc. Explorer Scouts move on to the stage for a demonstration of camping and pioneering. First protecting the floor, they will rig frames which will permit the erection of tents and other apparatus. A fire lay will be made in the center and means of starting fires without matches will be demonstrated. Once the camp fire is "lit," Cubs come into the arena along with other Scouts for a few songs that boys like to sing. Up come the house lights once more and all the boys join in singing "Scouting We Go" as the finale. Director of this massive production is Dell McComb, whose father, Sam McComb, as camping and activity chairman, is general chairman of the affair. Bill McRee, area executive, has been the executive advisor for the show. Ticket sales have been directed by D. M. McKinney and finances handled by Bill Sheppard. Announcer for the show is Joe Reynolds, while Ray Rhodes and George Melcar are the property masters. Heading the health and safety factors is John A. Freeman.

Those Who Can't Do—Can Teach

SALMON, Idaho (AP)—A rooster teaching pullets how to lay? Mrs. Doris Hicks of Salmon says she saw it happen with her own eyes. Mrs. Hicks reports her flock was doing very poorly in the egg line. But one day her prize Brahma rooster boosted a pullet bodily into the nest. The bird laid an egg, Mrs. Hicks said, and the rooster summoned the other pullets to the side of the nest to look at it. For about a week, every time a pullet got near the nest the rooster would push her in. Mrs. Hicks said, repeating his summons if the pullet produced results. Apparently the pullets got the point. Mrs. Hicks reports the flock is now laying regularly.

Dick Clifton is event director for the tableau (7:45 p.m.-7:50 p.m.); Allen Orr is director of the grand entry (7:50-8:00); Capt. R. O. Franz is director of the carpet race, assisted by Garrett Patton (8:00-8:10); John Davis is director of the Bull Whip (8:10-8:15); Glen White is director of first aid (8:15-8:20); Charles Paphone is director of the bicycle drill (8:20-8:25); T. B. Mann is director of signalling (8:25-8:30); Jim Smith is director of pyramid building (8:30-8:35); Jack Alexander is director of Noah's Ark (8:35-8:40); A. E. (Preach) True is director of Scout games (8:40-8:45); Bob Davenport and Lester Goswick are directors of the camping and pioneering (8:40-9:00); C. H. Farquhar is director of the grand finale (9:00-9:05).

Off On A Hike

These three Scouts try to determine the best method for carrying a heavy bedroll as they prepare to start a hike that will include an overnight bivouac. Ray Alexander, left, thinks Arlen Bryant, center, should carry the roll since he's going to sleep in it. Jake Glickman appears impatient with the delay. The boys are members of Troop No. 5, sponsored by the Wesley Memorial Methodist Church.

Scouts Trained To Help Others

Scouting has as its slogan "Do A Good Turn Daily." While this is primarily for the individual Scout — for he is supposed to do at least one good turn daily without hope of reward and for the joy of helping — the good turn idea is also manifested in service for groups.

In the Buffalo Trails Council last year Scouts and Explorers, along with Cubs, helped in polio campaigns, the Heart Fund and TB Seal sale by distributing posters. They also distributed literature for nine community chests, and for special efforts such as the cerebral palsy campaign.

They took part in Safety Day service, ushered at rodeos, football games and countless other events, distributed fire prevention posters and conducted inspections. They staged the Operation Korea project in which they collected clothing for youngsters in Korea.

Carrying out the idea of conservation in the Scouting program, 2,578 boys and leaders in 143 units took part in this good turn. They developed 48 soil and water conservation projects; they planted 158 trees; they worked on 69 fish and wildlife conservation programs; they had 24 projects in outdoor manners; they posted 830 Outdoor Code posters.

They conducted 23 gun safety demonstrations, 17 boat and fishing safety demonstrations, built 79 nesting boxes, gave 41 conser-

Boat Builders

Skipper Bob Haskell is checking up on the construction details of the sailboat being built by Sea Scout Post No. 18 as Sidney Cravens and Tommy Hammond make the necessary adjustments. The 14-foot boat is scheduled to be finished by summer and arrangements have been made to launch it on the Cosden Lake or Lake J. B. Thomas.

vation talks, developed 20 exhibits on soil, fish and wildlife; worked on a special conservation project at the Scout Ranch.

10,000 Items Of Advancement Shown For Area

Nearly 10,000 items of advancement were recorded by Cubs, Scouts and Explorers in the Buffalo Trail Council last year. This averaged out about two per boy.

Cubs set the pace with 5,645 pieces of advancement, which included 2,030 Bobcat, 419 Wolf, 301 Bear, 161 Lion, 83, Webeles and 2,651 Arrow Points.

Boy Scouts contributed their bit, too. There were 1,573 Tenderfoot Scouts, 472 Second Class, 272 First Class, 52 Star, 19 Life, 11 Eagle, 1,530 Merit Badges, and 3 Eagle Palms, or a grand total of 3,934.

Of the 73 bits of Explorer advancement, 62 were for Apprentice, 5 for Bronze Award, 4 for Gold Award, and 2 for Silver Award.

Of all the Merit Badges, the 12 most popular according to the number completed, were: Home Repairs and Cooking, 132 each, Camping 101, Hiking 91, First Aid 80, Nature, 79, Citizenship 75, Wildlife Management 74, Swimming 58, Scholarship 43, Firemanship 36, Fishing 34.

Boys who attained the Eagle rank, highest in Scouting, during 1954 were Charles E. Morris, Stanley Chessir, Billy White, Bill Owen, Garland Wood, Sherwood Reaves, J. E. Shillenburg, Dwight Reagan, Kenneth Braddy, Glenn Howze, and Ronald Jones. The Silver Explorer awards, comparable to the Eagle, went to Garland Wood and Tommy Roberts.

LEARN SEAMANSHIP Local Sea Scouts Work On Sailboat

The Post No. 18 Sea Scouts in Big Spring are the Sea Scouts between Fort Worth and El Paso. Sponsored by the ABCub, the Scouts are taught the art of seamanship with particular attention to safe boat handling and water safety.

Navigation and other nautical subjects are also studied by the Sea Scouts. Boys must be from 14 to 18 years old to be members of the unit which is on a par with the Explorer Scouts.

At present, the scouts are building a 14-foot Penguin class sailboat. They expect to have it in the water by summer. It is about three-quarters finished now.

They expect to launch it either on the Cosden lake or the property at Lake J. B. Thomas. The post meets each Thursday night to work on the craft.

The post has been chartered for three years and has about 12 registered members. Skipper of the Post is R. E. Haskell.

Sidney Cravens is First Mate, Johnny Hickson is the Second Mate, and Randal Hamby is the Senior Crew Leader.

Other members of the crew are Blanton Dees, Tyson Dees, Kenneth Dees, Lanny Hamby, Kenny Davidson, Kenneth Harmonsens, Tom Hammond, and Preston Bridges.

Committeemen include Grover Cunningham Jr., J. B. Apple, and Bryce Wigninton.

Only two groups of Americans still buy buggies in any numbers: The Amish, found in Pennsylvania and the Midwest, and the French-speaking Acadians of the Louisiana's southern cajun country.

Death Of Michigan Fish Proves Puzzle

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Another of nature's mysteries has come along to tantalize man. It's the "selective kill" of millions of tiny shiners of Michigan's streams within a few days.

Fish and wildlife experts were at a loss to say why it happened. The millions of little fish piled deep in the water. But there was no clue to the cause of their death.

Naturalists call it a "selective kill," because only one kind of fish died. In the early 1940s there was a selective kill of smelt. That tasty little fish lay ankle-deep on the shores of Lakes Huron, and Michigan.

"There are a lot of theories but none of them can entirely be supported by facts," says Dr. Justin W. Leonard, research administrator of the state conservation department.

STATE NATIONAL BANK

IN BIG SPRING

Here's How, Rocky

Safety First

Pack 46 Cubs know and practice the rules of safety. Ray Rogers with a pole and Ronnie Rogers with the hammer are preparing to adjust this clothes line pole up higher so others will not be caught in the neck like Steve Wilemon. Terry Marsh holds a box while Donnie Johnson picks up sticks, glass, and other dangerous material lying in the yard.

Pack 46 Puts Safety First At Home, Camp

The Cubs of Pack 46 are careful to practice the rules of safety around their homes. They work carefully with their parents to eliminate all fire and accident hazards from their houses.

Fire hazards are extremely dangerous and the Scouts observe all seven of the Fire Safety Rules.

1. Don't play with matches.
2. Keep gasoline away from fires or strong heat.
3. Keep matches away from small children.
4. Destroy all waste materials.
5. Be sure all electrical wiring is in good repair.
6. Know where all the fire escapes are in any building you enter.
7. Be sure an outdoor fire is out before you leave it.

Other accident prevention measures are to have a light on dark stairwells and keep knives in a knife-holder. The Cubs know and practice these rules in order to make their homes a safe and comfortable place in which to live.

Pack 46 has about 20 Cub Scouts, according to the Cubmaster, Capt. O. R. Franz. It is sponsored by Webb AFB and has been chartered since June 1953.

The Den Mothers are Mrs. William Evans, Mrs. E. L. Maynard, and Mrs. Ray W. Rogers.

The committeemen are Maj. Harry Long, Capt. William Evans, Sgt. Curtis Chaffin, Lt. Ernie Walls, Sgt. E. O. Maynard, Maj. R. B. Wall, and Maj. Max Wilemon.

Many Cubs, Others Attend Functions

Cubs and their parents and leaders turned out in impressive numbers for their activities last year.

Over the spread of the Buffalo Trail Council there were no less than 32 Blue and Gold banquets which attracted 3,029 boys and parents and leaders to the pack gatherings.

Two Cub Day Camps, one of them at Big Spring had attendance of more than 500.

Two districts had oil shows, and again Big Spring (the Lone Star District) was one of them. These drew 500 people. Armed Forces Day had 175 participants by Cubs.

The origin of meteorites is still controversial. Generally, they are believed to be lumps from an exploded planet or perhaps two that collided.

Cubs Learn To Be Experts In The Art Of Tying Knots

Cub Pack 29 is sponsored by Cosden Petroleum Corp. and has about 100 boys on the roll, according to Cubmaster Jack Alexander.

The boys are expert at tying knots and other items about the home which is a help to mother and dad. The Scouts learn to tie their own ties without their mothers' help.

They also can tie their shoe laces tight enough so that they will stay. Some use the square knot and others use the bow knot.

Packages are a cinch for the Cub Scouts. They can wrap and tie a package so that it is neat and tight. Gifts and other packages that are to be mailed are wrapped securely by the boys are a big help to their mothers. They also learn to tie the overhand knot which has many other uses around the home.

Den Mothers in Pack 29 are Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Lucian Saunders, Mrs. W. S. Goodlett, Mrs. Dan Greenwood, Mrs. Rex Baggett, Mrs. C. M. Bentley, Mrs. Preston Harrison, Mrs. Roy Sloan, Mrs. Theo Isabel, Mrs. W. O. Moore, and Mrs. J. M. Griffith.

The assistant Cubmasters are Lige Fox and R. M. Heine. Committeemen are W. S. Goodlett, C. M. Bentley, Dan Krausse and J. T. Morgan.

The pack has grown considerably during the last year, according to the Cubmaster.

Woman's Good Deed Backfires In Injury

VIOLA, Ill. (U)—When Miss Jessie Miller recovered from her illness in the hospital, Mrs. Fred Langford, her niece, went to her home to ready it for her return. Now the aunt is home and the niece is in the hospital. Mrs. Langford cut her foot on a jagged piece of glass after dropping a refrigerator tray.

The jaguar, an animal something like a leopard, is found from Southern Texas south to Patagonia.

No Special Privilege, Councilman Informed

DETROIT (U)—James H. Lincoln, a newly elected councilman, called Public Works Commissioner Samuel G. Gentile on the carpet to inquire: "Is it your policy to improve a man's alley the minute he is elected to City Council?"

"I was in office less than a week when a crew showed up, cleaned the alley back of my house and re-stoned it," Lincoln said. "It will take me three years to explain this to my neighbors."

Gentile told Lincoln being a councilman didn't count; that no one in his department knew the alley was Lincoln's when it was fixed up.

Neither Wins In Fight Of Snakes

ALICE, Tex. (U)—Two perfectly matched rattlesnakes were having it out when a two-legged varmint settled both their hash.

Edgar Lee Startis said after he killed the fighting snakes, he found each measured 5 feet, 3 inches and had 13 rattles.

Camp Program Attracts Many

The "out" in Scouting is always stressed in a successful program. The Buffalo Trail Council, like other agencies, sort of sets a measure of efficiency by the response to its camping program. By this measure, the year 1954 was a successful one.

There were 2,578 boys and leaders out of 143 units who took part in camping. At that, there were approximately as many more who did not.

The most encouraging aspect was that 1,046 boys took part in long-term camps (six days or more), and this was about 42 per cent of the Scout and Explorer membership last summer.

The Buffalo Trail Scout Ranch camp drew 840 boys during its six weeks of operation. There were 83 who made the winter camp at the ranch in the Davis Mountains; another 1,050 took part in the two-day campout at the Big Spring Round Up. Ten boys in the council went to Palmont Scout Ranch for a week. There were 144 at the

BASIC PRINCIPLES

Cubs Understand Meaning Of Pledge Of Allegiance

Cub Scout Pack 10 is sponsored by the First Baptist Church Brotherhood and the Cub Master is A. C. Brown. The boys are thoroughly familiar with the basic tenets of the Pledge of Allegiance which is taught to them by their Den Mothers, Dr. Ora Johnson, Mrs. C. T. Clay, and Mrs. C. A. Stevenson. Scouts stand at attention and salute the flag when repeating the pledge and all of them know it by heart.

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the republic for which it stands; one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Cub scouts realize that the pledge is a promise. That "allegiance" means being true to the country. "Republic" means the way people rule themselves. "Indivisible" means that the country can't be broken into parts. "Liberty" means being free and "justice" means being fair.

The boys know that these aren't just words, but they stand for real principles upon which a young boy can believe and have faith. The boys in Pack 10 are Lane Clawson, Charles Clay, Robert Clay, Anthony Rhodes, Grady Stevens, Ward Stevenson, John Kee, Dick Irons, Rex Kirby, and Billy Worley.

Committeemen of the pack are C. A. Stevenson, Jack Irons, H. W. Kirby, Roy Worley.

Cubmaster Brown said the Pack had only been chartered since September of last year and has not built up a large membership yet, but they expect to build up this year.

The boys are planning a banquet in February.

Pack 14 Cleans Up

PACK 14 NO EXCEPTION

Cub Scouts Learn To Aid Others With Various Jobs

A good Cub Scout is always ready to help others with their jobs and the boys in Pack 14 are always ready to help their parents around the home.

Helping with housework enables the boys to live up to the Cub Scout Promise and the Law of the Pack.

Many of them keep a chart on which they record their duties and how often each one may be done. But, usually they attend to each job as it becomes necessary.

At school, a Cub Scout is always on hand to clean the blackboard for the teacher and at Sunday School he volunteers to pass out the books.

Helping mother by carrying out waste baskets, drying dishes, and cleaning up his room is also a regular task for Cub Scouts.

Mowing the lawn and weeding out the garden supply plenty of exercise as well as helping Dad with the work.

By keeping his own clothes picked up and the toys straight in his room, the scout helps mother in this way.

Scouts Of Council Stage Many Events

Activities figure in the Scouting program prominently.

Last year in the Buffalo Trail Council there were about 30 major events reported to the council office. These drew around 18,000 participants and spectators.

Two expositions or display events had an estimated 8,600 in attendance. There were five Scout circuses in the council with 6,500 attending. Three outdoor demonstrations drew 900 and six swim meets 1,550. There were 500 at half a dozen first aid meets, 102 at safety programs and 92 at the Explorer Conference at Webb AFB.

The Den Mothers for Pack 14 are: Mrs. J. N. Bowen, Mrs. D. M. Crabtree, Mrs. E. C. Martin, Mrs. Vergil Smedley, and Mrs. Lee Gist.

The committeemen are Louis S. Sady, Marshall Vernon, H. L. Gist, Leslie H. Steward, W. D. Mercer, H. E. Rhyne, Vergil Smedley, Joe Matthews.

There are about 50 boys in the pack, according to the Cub Master James N. Bowen, and it is still growing. The East Ward P-TA is the sponsor of the boys and principal Mr. R. Turner is the institutional representative.

Scouts Are Reverent

Religion is stressed in Troop 5 meetings, and Chaplain Don Autrey is shown above as he presents the weekly Scripture lesson. The Scouts seated are A. C. Rawlings, Willy Woodard, Gary Pickle, Joe Brown and Ross Reagan. Standing behind are Scoutmaster James Scrimshire and Assistant Scoutmaster Jimmie Smith. Guest speakers talk to the Scouts on religious topics at some meetings, and one member of the Troop—Joe Brown—is working on his God and Country award. Scoutmaster Scrimshire states that the religious training comes in addition to regular Scout work.

Troop 5 Emphasizes Religious Training

Non-denominational religious training is emphasized in meetings of Boy Scout Troop 5, though Scoutmaster Jim Scrimshire says regular Scout training is not neglected.

One of the Scouts—Joe Brown—is now working on his God and Country award, one of Scouting's highest. And Scrimshire expects two or three others to start on the award in the near future.

The God and Country award is given to the Scouts by churches after the boys train with the pastors in religious work. Dr. P. D. O'Brien of the First Baptist Church is training young Brown.

The length of training time is not set, and the God and Country award is given only when the pastor thinks the trainee is qualified. Scout meetings, every Tuesday night at 7 p.m., are usually highlighted with a speech from someone stressing the "Scout is Reverent" theme. A recent speaker was Dr. P. W. Malone.

The troop is sponsored by the First Baptist Church, and meetings are held in the church annex. Don Autrey is chaplain and spiritual advisor. The assistant scoutmaster is Jimmie Smith.

At the present time the troop is busily engaged in preparations for the coming Scout Circus. The assignment which has been made to the troop is "keep away" in game competition. The Scouts must also set up a pioneer table and gadgets.

Scrimshire pointed out that about 75 per cent of the boys in the troop are new to Scouting. Therefore most of the present program deals with basic fundamentals.

All the boys have "scratched," however, meaning that they have reached the rank of Tenderfoot. The troop was reactivated about four months ago and since that time seven of the boys have received advancements. Several others are ready for advancement, it was reported.

Just as soon as the Scout Circus is out of the way, the troop plans to enter first aid training in a big way. Hiking and camping will also take quite a bit of the boys' time.

Troop No. 3 Now Inactive

Boy Scout Troop 3, which reportedly has graduated more Eagle Scouts among present day Big Spring businessmen than any other troop, is today in a period of inactivity.

The troop has not been discarded, however, but is now in the process of being reorganized. It is hoped that activity will be booming within a month's time.

Sponsor of the unit is Big Spring's Kiwanis Club, and Kiwanians are doing everything possible to build the troop back up to its former status.

Dr. K. L. Brady has been appointed institutional representative, and it is his responsibility to appoint a Scoutmaster and assistant to work with the boys.

At the last meeting of Troop 3, several weeks ago, there were only six present. At that time Ladd Smith was scoutmaster, but he has since been forced to retire because of other duties.

Troop 3 is one of the oldest troops in Big Spring, and it is rich in heritage. It being down at the present time is unusual, Dr. Brady explained, and the intention is to bring it back up to usual operation.

They Know Their Neighborhood

HAS THREE DENS

Cub Pack No. 48 Knows More Than Neighborhood

Boys in Cub Scout Pack No. 48 not only know their neighborhood as the training books suggest, but they also know their city.

All 22 of the members can point out the courthouse, city hall, hospitals, fire stations, railroad terminal, airports, churches, highways, hotels, and various other civic and business centers.

There's not much they can't tell an inquiring stranger about the City of Big Spring.

The Pack, sponsored by the Central Ward P-TA, is divided into three dens—according to age groups. The organization is for boys between the ages of eight and 10.

C. H. Farquhar, 903 Scurry, is the cub master. Den mothers are Mrs. C. H. Farquhar, Mrs. Bill Emerson, and Mrs. Camille Patterson. The entire pack meets once a month, and den meetings are held in the den mothers' homes every week.

"Know your neighborhood" is only one of the projects which they have undertaken. The Cubs must become experts in 12 different fields, and progress is expected with age.

Such things as tumbling, strength exercises, house helping, tool work, collections, flag lore, patriotism, scrap book tabulation, knot tying, safety training, family fun, and reading are all on the Cub agenda.

The whole purpose of Cubbing is to bring the parents and the boys together into family projects, said Farquhar. When the boy has a project he usually asks his dad to help him, bringing the two into a close relationship.

Then too the parents attend the Pack meetings, and Den Mothers meet with their separate groups each week.

Farquhar, whose own son is a Cub, explained that such things as electrical and radio projects, model building, code work and exhibits make for a marvelous father-son relationship.

Cubs in Pack 48 are in various stages of progress. Some are training from the Wolf book, while others are working out of Bear and Lion books. There are several Webelos, preparing to enter the Boy Scouts.

Farquhar stated that the Cubs' parents must certify that the boys have actually achieved the various phases of scout work. Arrow Point awards do not come easily, he said.

Otto Peters Jr. is the institutional representative, and members of the Pack committee are Peters, Andrew Jones, Capt. H. B. Fraser, G. Rangel, Bill Emerson and Farquhar.

Mrs. Farquhar's den, number one, has as its den chief Scout Danny Feather. The Denner is Alton Fields, and assistant Denner is Rex Jones. Members are Johnny Farquhar, Michael Peters, Buddy McCullar, Ben Fraser, Melton Rangel, and Roy Mills. Meetings are on Thursday at 3:30 p.m.

Mrs. Emerson's den, number two, consists of Tonny Emerson, Johnny Mapp, Troy Spears, Ben Jordy, Bill Mase, Robert Baker, and Butch Wendeborn. It meets every Saturday at 9 a.m., as does den three.

Den three, that of Mrs. Patterson, consists of members Ronnie Roberts, Pat Patterson, Gene Holley, Glen Holley, Wayne Brown and Dennis Harter.

Music Picked Up From Tombstone

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—John DeMarcus was sent by the Knoxville Utilities Board to the New Grey cemetery to find a water leak. Placing his sensitive amplifier among the tombstones, he picked up not the gurgle of escaping water but music, music, music. "Ghostly hepcats? No, said DeMarcus, just a freak of radio reception. But he added: "I'll tell you this, if the front of one of those tombstones had lighted up with a television picture, I'd have been long gone." A meteorite is simply a meteor that hits the earth.

Scout's Training Covers Patriotism, Use Of Flag

Development of patriotism is one of the objectives of the Scout movement, and an important phase of Scout work is a study of the American flag and the things for which it stands.

Scouts training covers the history of the flag, how it should be displayed and respected, and the laws protecting the banner.

This was explained by Irwin B. Spoor, scoutmaster for Troop No. 15, at a meeting this week at the Eagle Hall. Several members of the troop demonstrated by reciting the pledge of allegiance and saluting the Stars and Stripes.

Instruction, as well as a chapter in the Scout Handbook, explains how the Scout should salute the flag, how it is raised and lowered, when it should be displayed, and various methods of display.

The flag is the one symbol that is as prevalent at Scout meetings as is the Boy Scout emblem itself.

The Scout learns that it is a universal custom to display the flag only from sunrise to sunset on buildings and stationary flagpoles in the open. However, it may be displayed at night upon special occasions when it is desired to produce a patriotic effect.

Scouts also learn that the banner always is hoisted briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously. It is never flown in inclement weather.

Spoor's Troop No. 15 is just being reorganized under sponsorship of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. The unit meets each Wednesday night in the back of the Eagle Hall at 703 W. 3rd Street.

Assistant Scoutmaster is Dick Gray.

At present the troop has 13 members, including Charles R. Cunningham, Leo Brooks, Gary Walker, Farrel Smith, W. L. Nowell, Earl Owens, Dewey Phillips, Ronnie Goforth, Gary Cunningham, Robert Prichard, Don Vaughn and Jimmy Holt.

Nowell and Brooks are patrol leaders, Smith is an assistant patrol leader and Walker is the scribe. Senior patrol leader is Charles R. Cunningham.

Institutional representative for the Eagles is William Cochran. William Boodle is chairman of the troop committee which also has Cochran, N. E. Dietz, R. H. Townsend, R. E. Bennett, W. A. Green, C. E. Watkins and Earl H. Ellett.

Salute To The Flag

SIGNALING

Scouts Learn Communications

"Signaling is more than fun," say members of Scout Troop No. 7, sponsored by the Big Spring Lions Club.

Just like the spoken word, signals are used to communicate, and scouts find that the ability to transmit and receive understandable signals often saves considerable time and work. Signaling also can mean the difference between life and death in certain emergencies.

For those reasons, training in the art is given all Scout units.

Members of Troop No. 7 were working with the semaphore flags last week when a reporter attended their troop meeting.

The troop consists of 30 Scouts. Its affiliate is Explorer Post No. 7 which consists of six Explorers, all former members of the Scout troop.

Scouts in the troop are Deciderio Hernandez, Grabel Subia, Manuel Sosa, Raul Robles, Don Francis Arroyo, Martin Davales, Benjamin Garcia, Tom Aristo, Ishmael Valdez Jr., and Frank Parader. Explorers are Gilbert Barraza, Jesus P. Gonzales, Rafael P. Sanchez, Viloiso Garcia, Joe Subia, Vaudello Y. Garcia.

The Scouts study three methods of signaling. These are "field signals," given with the hands by the patrol leader who wishes to direct his squad into various formations, etc; international Morse code, which may be transmitted by sound, light or motion, and the semaphore.

Use of the code involves the spelling out of words in the familiar "dit-dah" of shortwave radio, although flashes of light over short and long periods of time will transmit the dots and dashes that spell out the words of a message.

Merit badges are awarded Scouts for proficiency in the signaling art. Signaling contests are a part of every district and council encampment and many other Scout gatherings.

But whether he wins a signaling merit badge or not, every Scout learns the meaning of field signals and is adept at following instructions delivered by leaders in this manner.

Troop No. 7 has been sponsored many years by the Lions Club. It is undergoing a reorganization at present. Juan Palano is the new Scoutmaster, just recently having taken over the post which has been vacant since the resignation of Jesse Mendora.

Institutional representative is John L. Dibrell, Chairman of the troop committee is Lt. Robert Hall. Other members of the committee are Joe B. Huddleston, Gus Barr and George Melear. The Explorer advisor is E. W. Talbert.

Explorer Takes A Pledge Of Citizenship

When a boy becomes an Explorer, he must have attained the age of 14 years.

Although he may already have subscribed to the Scout oath, he must in addition take the Explorer Citizenship Pledge. In it he says that "As an Explorer Citizen: 1) I will live the Scout oath and Law. 2) I will be familiar with the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States and the Bill of Rights. 3) I will respect and obey the law in order to have security and freedom. 4) I will share the responsibility of my home, school, church, neighborhood, and community; and when legally of age, I will register and vote in all elections; 5) I will deal fairly and kindly with my fellow-citizens of whatever race or creed, in the spirit of the Scout Law and America's tradition of equality of opportunity. 6) I will work to preserve our American heritage of liberty and responsibility. I acknowledge that the privileges we enjoy were won by hard work, and sacrifices, faith and clear thinking of our forefathers. I will do all in my power to pass on a better America to the next generation."

Cub Pack Finds Cleanliness Vital To Personal Health

Cub scouts know that to keep well, personal health rules are very important. The Cub Scouts in Pack No. 13 are careful to practice all the necessary habits which keep them healthy and strong for scouting. They are careful to brush their teeth each morning and night and after every meal. They also see their dentist twice a year. The hands of the Cub Scouts in Pack

No. 13 are washed before eating and before going to bed. The nails are clipped trim and kept clean. They all bathe regularly too, using plenty of soap and without too much coaxing from their mothers. And they drink lots of water to replace what is used up in heavy playing and scout work. The Cub Scout rules for staying healthy have made the Pack No. 13 a strong healthy group of boys. Sponsor of the Pack is the Park Hill P.T.A. and the Cub Master is Bennett Brooke. The committeemen for the boys are John Fish, William Boyd, Jack Richbourg, Otis Grafa Jr., and Pete Harmonson.

The Den Mothers are Mrs. William Dawes, Mrs. Wallace Dunning, Mrs. Floyd Jones, Mrs. Frank Eppner, Mrs. Harold Hall, and Mrs. Richard Thompson. There are three dens in the Pack and at present 23 boys are attending the regular meetings. Last year, the boys had many activities arranged for them such as a watermelon feast and a weiner roast. They also made the trip to Sweetwater recently and during Christmastime, they visited the VA Hospital.

Personal Health

Council Had 'Greatest Year' During 1954

By adding more than 1,000 boys, the Buffalo Trail Council in 1954 experienced its greatest year in 32 years of history. Actually, the increase was 1,030 new boys, a gain of 22.29 per cent. This brought the membership to 5,651 as compared with 4,621 the previous year.

Breakdown showed 2,778 Cub Scouts as against 2,191 in 1953; a total of 2,988 Boy Scouts as compared with 1,794 in 1953; and 785 Explorer Scouts as against 636 the previous year.

To accomplish the increase in membership, 42 new units were organized, bringing to 228 the number of packs, troops, and Explorer posts. During the year only nine units were dropped, a new low for the council and a record reflecting holding power. The previous year there were 195 units after 33 new ones had been added and 13 dropped.

The total number of boys registered is not the greatest in council history, for one year ago it was 5,562 — just 11 more than for 1954. The difference, however, is in the 941 boys who were in the 43 units of the East District, comprised of Nolan, Fisher and Stone-wall Counties. This district transferred to the Chisholm Trail in November, and the membership figures quoted at the outset are adjusted with the figures from the affected counties deleted for both years.

Auto Sounds Horn To Warn Of Blaze

SAYRE, Pa. (AP)—Tom Kenrich, borough secretary of Sayre, didn't realize automobiles came equipped with fire alarms until his garage went up in flames.

Most of the garage was saved when the heat melted wires in the horn, causing it to blast loudly. The noise brought the fire company and saved Kenrich several hundred dollars.

Splints Should Be Standard Equipment

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Because broken bones occur so frequently in auto accidents, Dr. Robert S. McClintock, an orthopedic surgeon at the State University of Iowa hospital, gives this advice:

Every motorist should carry something in his car — such as a 2-inch by 3-foot piece of plywood — which could be used as a splint.

Troop No. 6 Scouts Are Among Best Cooks In Lone Star District

Camping out is a specialty of Troop 6, and the members are among the best camp cooks in the district Boy Scout ranks.

Aim of Scoutmaster Ray McMahan is to take the troop on a trip at least once a month, and some of the patrols get out even more often than that.

The troop, sponsored by the First Christian Church, has 15 members. Meetings are held every Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. in the Scout hut at the church.

During summer months, the Scouts can meet in the Birdwell Park area between the Church and the football stadium. They get quite a bit of camping practice in the park too.

Scouting skills of all types are practiced by the group, and camping is only one phase of the many operations.

Most of the troop members are newcomers to the Boy Scouts. Only three have first class ranks, five are second class Scouts, and the rest have Tenderfoot ratings. Scoutmaster McMahan stresses a proper menu on all camping trips and takes every measure possible to see that the Scouts get well-rounded meals.

Before any outing, he calls the Scouts together and they all plan what they want to eat during the various meals. After planning the menu, they stick to it. Either they all chip in and buy the necessary foods, or each Scout brings his share of the whole.

"I've only had two boys to get sick on me during camping out periods," McMahan said. "Both of them carried their own food."

The scoutmaster explained that boys when not guided will carry weiners, mustard and bread and practically nothing else. These foods will not suffice more than one or two meals, McMahan pointed out, and proper nourishment must be substituted.

The Boy Scout Troop 6 has two large water kettles which are taken on camping trips. These kettles are used to wash cooking utensils, and care is taken to assure that everything used is clean.

If the group is small, most of the cooking is done over one fire. And sometimes one or two boys are appointed as cooks. When a large group is out, one huge fire is made and then the coals are transported to individual cooking holes so that each Scout can cook his own food.

McMahan stated that either he or some other adult makes all the camping trips. Glenn White is institutional representative, and Dan Feather is chairman.

Troop 6 was organized in the early 1930's, and the church is the only sponsor in town supporting Cub, Girl Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer units, McMahan said.

Camp Cooks

Some of the best Boy Scout cooks in the district are shown in operation above. They constitute a patrol for Troop 6, widely known in the area for frequent trips to the country on overnight and weekend hikes. Scoutmaster Ray McMahan insures that all his troop members know the ins and outs of cooking, and he always plans a menu in advance to make sure none of the Scouts get sick on trips from an improper diet. Those above are Danny Feather, Danny Dunlap, Tommy Burleson, McMahan and Loran Ford.

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
By Harold R. Foster

Our Story: PRINCE VALIANT'S TWO SHIPS ROCK SIDE BY SIDE, WAITING. WHILE ACROSS THE WATER THE VIKING PLUNDERERS PONDER VAL'S WORDS. PERHAPS, AS HE SAID, THEIR SHIP IS UNSUITED FOR THESE SOUTHERN SEAS.

THEY ASK FOR A COUNCIL, AND FOUR FROM EACH SIDE ARE ROWED UNARMED TO A SANDSPIT. TO THE GREAT SURPRISE OF THE VIKINGS ONE OF THE NUMBER IS A WOMAN!

AND KATWIN SPEAKS: "YOU HAVE COME FROM THE NORTH BY THE LONG RIVER ROUTE TO WHICH YOUR BOAT IS SUITED. OUR SAILING SHIP IS NOT BUILT FOR SUCH WORK. WE WISH TO TRADE."

THEY HAVE SEEN HOW SPENT WERE THE OARSMEN IN VAL'S LONGSHIP WHEN IT CAME IN FROM THE SEA, SO THEY DESIRE THE SAILING VESSEL. A TRADE IS MADE AND DULY CELEBRATED.

THE VIKING CAPTAIN SAILS AWAY WITH BUT HALF HIS MEN. BUT THE LAST OF ALETA'S SAILORS GO WITH HIM TO HANDLE THE SHIP. VAL LOOKS ADMIRINGLY AT KATWIN, NURSEMAID TO HIS WIFE, HANDMAIDEN TO HIS CHILDREN, YET SHE HAS CONTRIVED TO GET HIM TWO VIKING SHIPS AND A CREW OF NORTHMEN.....HOMEWARD BOUND!

THE GREAT MARSH GIVES WAY TO FORESTS AND FOR DAYS THEY SEE NO SIGN OF LIFE.

BUT WHEN THEY REACH THE VAST UKRAINIAN PLAINS HORSEMEN FOLLOW THEM ALONG THE BANK, GROWING IN NUMBER AS THEY PROCEED.

NEXT WEEK: The First Obstacle.

Dr. William C. Menninger Tells: “How to Make Friends and Keep Them” (page 4)

I was just thinking...

... I DON'T BELIEVE an unborn child works out the multiplication table upside down or develops an aversion to men who wear loud neckties. I don't think he does anything more than, like Buddha, contemplate his navel.

But a school of thought which I never attended opines that an unborn child can react to unsanitary subways or to old ladies who read aloud and that these problems will crop out when the erstwhile embryo reaches the age of 47 and takes a backward glance at the primordial era.

In Thomas Wolfe's "Look Homeward, Angel" there's a chapter in which the novel's subject recalls his impressions of the world through the bars of his crib. I've always considered that particular chapter a highly clever bit of balderdash.

Yet I keep thinking I remember the way the white tile hearth at my grandmother's house tasted when I licked it with a 6-month-old tongue and was regularly licked for the licking. I think I can recall to this day the bland coldness of it and the narrow roughness between the bricks.

When I'm being rational, I convince myself that it's only because my mother has told the story so often. Like the way I know the moon tastes a little like French brie cheese with a green seafoam flavor added.

I think I remember the pink organdy ruffled sunbonnet, but it must be because I've seen the old snapshot so many times. But maybe there is a certain squiggle in the gray matter which sorts out the beloved incidentals of babyhood and keeps them like a mother keeps a tattered baby shoe. Maybe they're a vital part of what was and is to be.

But I'll have none of this embryo wisdom. I learned about the birds and bees some time ago, but I plan to save a few illusions.

And one of the most important is that the age-old mystery of birth is just that. A child is born, innocent and unknowing, into a beckoning world.

And that's the wonderful beginning of it all.

Patty Johnson

As You Were Saying...

Must We Remain Strangers?

I passed a teen-age boy the other day without saying a word. An ordinary occurrence, yes. Yet it suddenly seemed strange to me. I work on a military base, and the street was deserted except for the two of us. We glanced at each other, glanced away, and passed without a word. I started thinking of the mysteries of human civilization. Here we two human beings of the same race, language, country, and business environment had passed without a word of greeting. Had either of us been on a far-off planet, shipwrecked on an isolated island, or lost in a forest, we would have thanked God for the sight of another human being. When our country was founded the settlers always spoke to each other, whether or not they were acquainted. But as great cities sprang up the habit of greeting a passing stranger began to die out. The next time I pass a lone stranger, I shall at least nod, lest one day I wake up on a desert isle and find I have forgotten how to hail a fellow human being.—Mrs. R. C. White, Albany, Ga.

utes later, she was bemoaning the fact that her 40-year-old neighbor had died "so young." I'm surprised she didn't notice the inconsistency herself.—H. H. R., Kingman, Ariz.

I Cured My Husband of "Newscasting"

As if my husband's habit of hiding behind the newspaper at breakfast weren't annoying enough, he's recently taken to reading stories aloud. Several times I've asked him to stop "newscasting" because it spoils the paper for me. He agrees, but forgets in a few minutes and reads another "flash."

The other morning, just after he finished reading a story I said, "Yes, I know. I've read it already." Since he himself had brought the paper in from the front porch, he was puzzled. But the explanation is simple: After all these years of staring across the breakfast table at a folded-over newspaper, I've learned to read upside down.

I took my husband so completely by surprise with my secret talent that he's not apt to continue reading the newspaper to me.—T. O. P., Gilbertville, Ia.

Young or Old? It's in the Point of View

Here's an incident that showed me how important a point of view can be: A friend who celebrated her fortieth birthday recently told me she was depressed about reaching the "home stretch." Not five min-

This Tuesday marks the 45th birthday of the Boy Scouts of America, and few organizations are as deserving of our heartiest congratulations. Actually, the nation owes a two-fold debt of gratitude to the Scouting movement: for the outstanding job of youth-building it performs and for the wholesome good times it offers young boys everywhere. On starry evenings, George Washington used to pursue one of his favorite hobbies—astronomy. This old-fashioned telescope is now part of the collection at Mt. Vernon.

our versatile president:

George Washington

DIRECTING the destinies of a new nation took most of George Washington's time, but he devoted his leisure hours to hobbies and innovations. As a gardener, he introduced new methods of planting and cultivating. He liked his terrestrial globe, his telescope, and his library. And on the social side, his levees and parties were always in the finest Virginia tradition.

To keep powder from getting on clothes, Washington designed this door (left) so a gentleman could insert his bewigged head through it while a lackey powdered the wig. The mantel over-decoration (right), was designed by him for his mother's home in Fredericksburg, Va.

How to Make Friends--and Keep Them!

by
William C. Menninger, M. D.

General Secretary
the Menninger Foundation,
Topeka, Kansas

MOST OF US take our friends for granted. They're people who belong in our lives, like parents, grandparents, cousins. Everyone has some friends, and though we may not realize it, they play an important part in our everyday existence.

That's because we're social animals who weren't meant to exist all by ourselves on individual islands. We like to live with others like ourselves; we need friends to listen to our woes, give us encouragement and approval, share our joys and activities. Besides, life is always much more interesting when it's not a one-man operation.

You may feel that getting along with people and making friends is no problem, so why worry about it? You've lived with people all your life, and you have lots of friends. But can't you remember times when you've unwittingly said or done something that spoiled a perfectly good friendship? Maybe it was a thoughtless act, a broken promise, or a foolish argument. You knew you were wrong, but you were too proud to give in.

Perhaps your friendships aren't as satisfying as they might be. You may feel you don't have any really close friends or as many friends as you'd like.

Most teen-agers want to be popular and well-liked. Don't you sometimes envy Eleanor, who is always being elected to class offices, asked to join clubs, invited to important affairs? If you're like most young people, you too want to make new friends and to be closer to those you already have. But all this doesn't just "come naturally."

Stop for a moment and take inventory of your friendships.

- How many close friends do you have?

- How many new friends did you make last year?

- Are you always ready to make new friends?

- Why are you interested in your closest friends?

In fact, just what does friendship mean to you? Have you ever thought carefully about how you can improve your relations with others? You spend hours thinking about your wardrobe. You devote years to studying mathematics and grammar and planning your career. Yet you've probably never sat down to think about the friends you have, those you'd like to have, and most important, what you can do to become a better friend.

Just who are your friends?

If someone were to ask who your friends are, you might answer: "Why, the people closest to me, like Marge and Judy. We're together all the time." Or: "Bud is my best friend, but I pal around with a few other fellows, too."

Most of us tend to think in terms of our closest friends; yet we have many different kinds of friends. And different people mean different things to us. Therefore we have different friends for different reasons.

As your interests and ideas change, so do your friends, particularly while you are growing up. As you mature, your interests become more settled and your friendships more permanent. But all through life your circle of friends will include many different kinds of people. Let's consider who these people are likely to be.

One important requirement of a close friend is that he be a good listener, someone to whom you can tell your troubles. But sometimes you need more than just a listener—you need an adviser.

Usually an adviser or counsellor is someone older and more experienced than yourself. Your first friends of this kind were your parents—you ran to them when you cut your finger, when you had a fight, when you wanted to know what dress to wear to that important party.

But your parents aren't the only adviser friends you have. There may be things you can't or don't want to tell your parents. Then you turn to someone else—a teacher, your minister, your scoutmaster, or an adult friend. Perhaps you need advice your parents can't give. You consult a teacher about your high-school course, a family physician or school nurse for advice on diet or skin care. Or you may have a personal problem you can't solve alone, so you turn to a school counsellor or your minister.

Sometimes young people with serious personality problems consult a professional counsellor—a psychologist or psychiatrist. Only a few of them need professional counsel, but nearly everybody turns to a friend for help with a difficult situation:

Every day you rub elbows with people who live near you, go to school with you, or belong to the same clubs you do. You see the postman, the grocer, and the cleaner regularly. Much of the satisfaction of life depends on how well you get along with these people, even though most of them remain only acquaintances.

Mutual interests important

One of the most common bases of friendship is a mutual interest in some hobby, sport, or other activity. Brad, for example, is a very good friend of yours. You spend at least three afternoons a week together comparing notes on photography or poring over sensitized paper in the darkroom. Nan and Earl didn't notice each other especially until one night they discovered a mutual interest in classical music.

Whether it's stamps or football or Western movies, a mutual interest draws people together and makes many firm and lasting friendships.

At the same time, the old saying, "opposites attract," often holds true. An individual interested mainly in ideas may be drawn to someone with a practical approach to things. A quiet, retiring fellow may be devoted to a lively and talkative person.

Just as you choose some friends who are like yourself, you choose others because you admire some traits they have that you lack. In such cases, your friends complement your own personality.

It takes special effort to be a real friend to someone who is shy or doesn't make friends easily or is new in school or in the neighborhood. It's so much easier just to brush him aside. But it is just such friendships that are apt to yield rich rewards. The "unknowns" are often individuals about whom people say, "He doesn't make a very good first impression, but he's terrific once you get to know him."

So try building new friendships occasionally. Remember that there are always others who are shyer than you or know fewer people than you do, who would warmly welcome your friendship.

Marriage is a friendship

Chances are you've never thought of marriage as a friendship. It's surrounded with such an aura of romance that it seems to be removed from the demands of everyday companionship or friendly give-and-take. Yet marriage is a friendship—the closest one possible. The process of choosing friends means selecting those with whom you have mutual interests or who have some other attraction for you. The choice of a husband or wife is guided by much the same principles. You have to be more discriminating, though, because you are choosing the one person with whom you will share the rest of your life.

Marriage, more than any other friendship, requires loyalty, consideration, generosity, give-and-take, and the ability to love. But since marriage is a very special kind of relationship, both partners must assume responsibilities for each other that go far beyond those either one has toward other friends.

Together, all these people make up a series of circles—your circles of friends. If you drew a diagram of the circles, you'd come out with something like the waves surrounding a pebble when you throw it into a pool. The first and smallest circle takes in the people who are your best friends. A little farther out is a larger circle which represents the friends you see less frequently. A still-larger circle encompasses the people who are just acquaintances.

These circles don't remain set, however; they're always changing. People you know only slightly become your friends; casual friends become much closer to you; occasionally you and your best friends drift apart.

The circles you move in are usually made up of friends and acquaintances who have much the same background as you: they live in the same neighborhood in the same part of town, in similar homes.

Dr. William C. Menninger is general secretary of the Menninger Foundation, a nonprofit organization in Topeka, Kan., devoted to treatment, education, and research in the field of mental health. He has served as president of the American Psychiatric Association and the American Psychoanalytic Association, and as chairman of the Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry. He is the author of several books, including "You and Psychiatry," and was chief consultant in Neuropsychiatry to the Surgeon General of the Army in World War II.

They may go to the same church, belong to the same clubs, have pretty much the same financial status.

This is not an accident or a coincidence. People with the same types of background tend to associate with each other. This doesn't mean that you will not be included in any groups but those made up of people just like you. In your school and extracurricular activities you'll come in close contact with people from many groups. Some may become good friends and include you in their social activities, or you may include them in yours. In this way, most people move from one group to another.

To sum it up, the more friends you have and the more circles you move in—within reasonable limits—the more varied your experience will be and the more satisfaction you will get out of life because of your friendships.

This article was excerpted from "Making and Keeping Friends," a booklet written by Dr. Menninger, and published and copyrighted by Science Research Associates, Inc., 1952. If you would like copies of the full-length, 48-page booklet, write Family Weekly, 179 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 1, Ill., enclosing 50 cents for each copy.

Coconut Classics

Set out cookie sheets.

Using an electric blender, finely chop
3½ cups moist, shredded coconut
(yields about 4¼ cups, finely chopped)

Set aside.

Sift together and set aside
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking soda

Cream until butter is softened
1 cup butter or margarine
½ teaspoon vanilla extract

Add gradually, creaming until fluffy after each addition

1 cup sugar
Add gradually, beating thoroughly
1 egg, well beaten (until thick and piled softly)

Blend in 2 cups of the chopped coconut. Mix thoroughly. Stir in dry ingredients. Knead lightly with finger tips 5 to 10 times until mixture holds together.

Spread remaining coconut onto waxed paper. Form dough into 6 rolls about 1 in. in diameter. Roll in coconut. Wrap rolls in waxed paper and place them in the refrigerator to chill thoroughly (about 3 hrs.).

Set out

1½ cups (6 oz.) pecan halves

Lightly grease the cookie sheets.

With a sharp knife, slice rolls crosswise into ½-in. slices. Place slices on cookie sheets ¼ in. apart. Blend thoroughly

1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon cream

Brush lightly onto tops of cookies. Press a pecan half onto center of each cookie.

Bake at 325°F about 20 min., or until very lightly browned. Using a spatula, immediately remove the cookies to the cooling racks.

Heat until warm

½ cup white corn sirup

Glaze cookies by brushing with the warmed sirup.

About 10 doz. medium-size cookies

Strawberry Bavarian Cream

A 1½-qt. fancy mold will be needed. Thaw according to directions on package contents of

2 12-oz. pks. frozen sliced strawberries (about 2½ cups, thawed)

Put in refrigerator to chill, a bowl, beater, and

2 cups whipping cream

Pour into a small bowl

½ cup cold water

Sprinkle evenly over cold water

1½ tablespoons (1½ env.) unflavored gelatin

Let stand 5 min. to soften.

Dissolve softened gelatin completely by placing it over very hot water.

Meanwhile, turn thawed strawberries into a large bowl and blend in

6 tablespoons sugar
1½ tablespoons lemon juice

1 teaspoon almond extract

When gelatin is dissolved, stir it and blend thoroughly with strawberry mixture. Chill in refrigerator or in pan of ice and water until gelatin mixture is slightly thicker than consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white. If mixture is placed over ice and water, stir frequently; if placed in refrigerator, stir occasionally.

Lightly oil the mold with cooking or salad oil (not olive oil) and set aside to drain.

Pour 1 cup of the chilled cream into the chilled bowl. Using the chilled beater, beat until cream is of medium consistency (piles softly). Repeat, using ¼ cup of the remaining cream. Combine whipped cream.

Gently fold into whipped cream, 3 drops at a time, until desired color is reached

10 to 12 drops red food coloring

Gently fold whipped cream into slightly thickened strawberry mixture. Turn into prepared mold. Chill in refrigerator until mixture is firm.

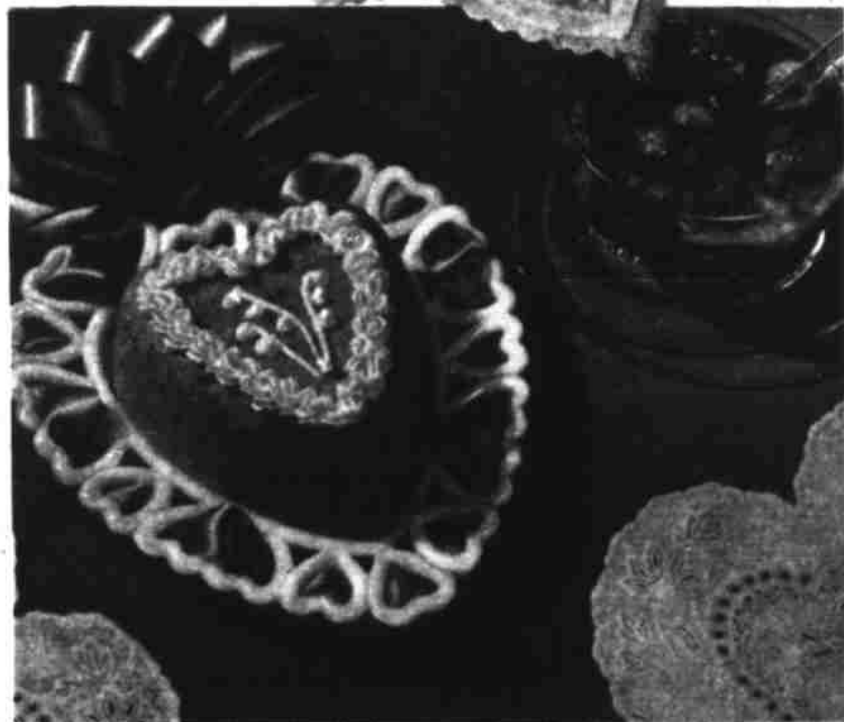

Wash beater and bowl; return to refrigerator to chill.

To unmold the Bavarian Cream, loosen top edge of mold with a knife. Wet a clean towel in hot water and wring it almost dry. Invert mold onto chilled serving plate. Wrap hot towel around mold for a few seconds only. (If mold does not loosen, repeat.)

To Decorate Top of Bavarian Cream—Using the chilled bowl and beater, beat the remaining chilled whipping cream (¼ cup) until cream stands in peaks when beater is slowly lifted upright. Force whipped cream through a pastry bag and No. 27 decorating tube for border and a No. 6 decorating tube for flower (as in photo).

Serve with additional strawberries.

METAL FURNITURE

Moves Indoors

by Ruth W. Lee,
Home-Furnishings Consultant

SOMETHING NEW and important has happened to contemporary interiors: Metal furniture, formerly relegated to porch and yard, has moved indoors. And small wonder; it's easy to care for and its smart, simple styling mixes happily with upholstered furnishings to create distinctive modern settings. Newly-designed tables and chairs with bases of wrought iron and brass adapt to any room in the house. And as bonus features, the tabletops of formica, micarta, or marble are practically impervious to marring. Room dividers of iron or brass add utility and design interest to dual-purpose areas such as living-dining rooms and guest room-studies. Modern metal furniture has come inside to stay.

Handsome, practical dinette group of black iron features heatproof plastic table top and washable plastic seats.

Test Yourself for Tact

by Charles and Jean Komaiko

THERE'S a legendary story about a party Mrs. Dwight Morrow once gave that illustrates a tactful attempt which resulted in a tactless conclusion. J. P. Morgan was one of the invited guests, and because he had a large nose the hostess carefully warned her children to ignore it. Young Anne Morrow, now Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, sat next to the great financier through dinner and did as she was told, though the nose fascinated her. But when coffee was served, she asked: "Mr. Morgan, do you wish cream and sugar in your nose?"

4 Short Cuts to Better Sauces with Carnation Milk

Carnation's special blending qualities and double richness make them possible. No other form of milk will do!

CARNATION 1-2-3 FUDGE SAUCE

Easy to remember, easy to make! No constant stirring, tiresome "soft ball" tests or candy thermometer needed. Combine 1 large can (1 1/2 cups) undiluted Carnation with 2 cups sugar and 3 squares (3 ounces) bitter chocolate over hot water or low heat. Cook 15-20 minutes, stirring just occasionally. Remove from heat; add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat until smooth. Serve hot or cold over ice cream, cake or pudding.

CARNATION LUMP-FREE CREAM SAUCE

Sure to be cream-smooth every time with this better-blending milk. So much quicker to make, too—with double-rich Carnation only half as much flour and shortening are needed. Mix 2 tablespoons flour with 1 teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan over low heat until smooth. Gradually add 1 1/2 cups (large can) undiluted Carnation. Stir over low heat until thickened and smooth.

CARNATION 3-MINUTE CHEESE SAUCE

So smooth—because of Carnation's special blending qualities. So quick—no flour or shortening needed, because of Carnation's double richness. Simmer 1 1/2 cups (large can) undiluted Carnation and 1/2 teaspoon salt over low heat to just below boiling (2 minutes). Add 1 cup grated process-type American cheese. Heat until cheese melts (1 minute). Makes about 2 1/2 cups. Also serve with vegetables.

CARNATION EVER-SMOOTH BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE

Such an easy, sure way to make it. Never curdled or stringy. Always smooth because of Carnation's special blending qualities. Mix 1 cup brown sugar, 1/4 cup granulated sugar, 3/4 cup undiluted Carnation, 1/4 cup butter, 2 tablespoons corn syrup and 1/4 teaspoon salt in saucepan over medium heat; cool slightly. Stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1/4 cup more undiluted Carnation. Serve warm or cold.

Blouses with Feminine Ways

by Allyn Rice

IF ANY WOMAN thinks femininity is out of fashion, let her cast a discerning eye on the elegant dressmaker blouses that Spring brings. Their ladylike manners are charmingly evident in soft ruffles, bows, and embroideries that are as expressive as a valentine: the feminine furbelows say you dressed especially for him. These smart flatterers, styled to do wonderful things for suits, skirts, and tapered lounge-pants, give overtones of Spring romance to a woman's wardrobe.

Easy-to-Make Yarn Holder

If you know someone who likes to knit — (or maybe you do!) here's how to make a container that keeps yarn clean and prevents tangles. Cover a cylinder-shaped oatmeal box with wallpaper, gift-wrapping paper, or colored cutouts from magazines, using library paste or rubber cement. Finish top and bottom edge of box with strips of bright Scotch tape. On each side of the box near the top make a small hole with the point of your scissors. Thread a length of ribbon through for a handle, knotting each end on the inside. In the middle of the round lid, puncture another hole. Cover with a gummed reinforcement and color the lid. Place a ball of yarn down in the box, pick up the loose end, thread it out of the hole in the lid, and press the lid on firmly. Now you have a knitting box just like the ones you buy, and you made it yourself!

Happy Landing!

Here's a problem for you future fliers. The pilot of a jet fighter plane is flying in formation with another jet but loses his way in a heavy storm. By the time he comes out of the storm, he discovers he is very low on fuel and must land right away. He doesn't know where the airport is, but he sees there are rugged mountains all around and he has to be careful or he'll crash.

You can help him land safely. Here's how to do it: guide him in on the vapor trail of the first plane. (Vapor trails are the white streaks left by planes under certain weather conditions.) You can go over and under the circling path of the trail, but don't hit one of the mountains. And remember, the pilot is almost out of fuel, so look for the shortest route.

Here is how to make a paper ballet skirt for a small doll:

Take a fluted nut cup with two layers of ruffled crepe paper and a twisted paper handle. Take off the handle and the small white paper cup in the middle. Now the ruffle part looks like a full ballet skirt. Cut the handle into two equal lengths and scotch-tape them to the top of the ruffle like shoulder straps. Then you will have a pretty costume for a small doll.

Scouts Today, Leaders Tomorrow

Learning how to be better citizens is an adventure the way the Boy Scouts do it.

AS THE NATION salutes the Boy Scouts of America this week, did you ever wonder what makes Scouting such a rich experience in a young boy's life? Well, there's the thrill of hiking and camping outdoors, of cooking over an open fire, of making useful articles out of elementary materials. But Scouting offers a lot more besides nature lore and handicraft. It teaches a lad sportsmanship, comradeship, citizenship. It builds his character, his self-reliance, and his civic-mindedness. In short, Scouting prepares a boy for his role as one of America's leaders of tomorrow. And the Scout has fun in the process.

Even these Cub Scouts learn the lesson that voting is a responsibility of all citizens.

Participation in competitive sports helps instill the ideals of clean sportsmanship.
