Congratulations to the Santa Anna Mountaineer football team on their victory Friday over Goldthwaite for the District 7-A championship. All local people are urged to attend the game this week in Comanche.

An interesting note about the game: David Horner, Richard and Oma Dean's youngest, is on the coaching staff of Meridian High School, our Bi-District opponents. David was quarterback of the 1972 Mountaineer team that was the last district winner in our town!

Some local residents were without water for almost two days when one of the main lines broke in the south part of town. The break was discovered early Sunday morning, and city crews and volunteers went to work in the near-freezing weather to stop the leak and repair the break.

Clouse Construction crews arrived in Santa Anna Monday to replace the faulty line, guaranteed in the contract for the recent project. Air locks in the large lines also hampered completion of the service.

Congratulations, Mountaineers!

District 7-A Title Won by Santa Anna; Bi-District Clash with Meridian Friday

Santa Anna football fans who braved the 40-degree weather Friday night got their money's worth when the Mountaineers swept from behind to defeat Goldthwaite 22-13 and win the District 7-A championship. Santa Anna won in a coin toss the right to represent the West Zone after their loss to Bronte the previous week.

Goldthwaite had a perfect 5-0 zone record and was favored to win the game.

The Mountaineers will meet the Meridian High School team in the Bi-District playoff in Comanche Friday night at 7:30. Meridian was winner of their zone and district, defeating Era in the title match Saturday night.

Sheriff's Dept. Is Investigating Truck Theft Here

A Dodge truck fitted with a welding outfit and tools was stolen Thursday night from Hartman Construction Co. yard at the west edge of town.

According to Edd Hartman, the thieves cut a barbed wire fence between the equipment yard and a field belonging to C. D. Bruce and drove the truck through the field and out the gate on the highway.

The truck was equipped with a Lincoln welder, tools, drills, grinders and other equipment.

The theft was discovered early Friday morning and is being investigated by the Sheriff's Department.

Goldthwaite scored their two touchdowns before halftime, with Dwayne Warnock making his first of three TDs with just two minutes left in the second quarter. Rusty Buzzard added the PAT for the 13 - 7 halftime score.

The Mountaineers returned to the game in full power, scoring on a pass play from Buzzard to Warnock. Buzzard's kick gave the Mountaineers a 14 - 13 lead.

With just over one minute in the game, Warnock scored on a two-yard run and made a two-point conversion to put the game out of reach for the Eagles.

Santa Anna led in first down 21 to nine and had 206 yards rushing to 201 for Goldthwaite. The Mountaineers completed 7 of 14 passes for 80 yards, while the Eagles had 19 yards

Water Costs Increase; Rates Here To Rise

The second increase in water cost in two years has been announced by Brown County Water Improvement District from which Santa Ann purchases water for the town. At a called meeting of Santa Anna City Council Tuesday night, November 18, the group approved a rate increase for City of Santa Anna customers to take care of the additional cost for the water from Lake Brownwood.

Although the water cost increased this month, the new rates for residents of Santa Anna will not go into effect until January 1. The minimum water bill will increase to $14.50 for the first 3,000 gallons. Rates above the minimum will also increase in proportion.

Rates for water patrons outside the city limits will also be increased, and an increase from $3 to $5 is set for sewer and sanitation within the city.

City Councilmen also approved a policy for delinquent water bills. Customers whose bills are unpaid for two or more months will be disconnected until the bill is paid in full.

The water from Lake Brownwood is now costing 28.21 cents per 1,000 gallons, an approximate 35 percent increase over the last contract.

Santa Anna has received $15,431.81 during 1980 in tax rebates.

Predator Control Funds Needed In Coleman Co.

Special Trapper Teams, local trappers and the aerial unit of the Texas Rodent and Predatory Animal Control Service have just completed a highly successful month-long control program in Coleman County. A large number of predators were taken including some known problem coyotes.

Further aerial work is planned for February, but some financial help is needed so that the flying may be done. Donations to the Coleman County Animal Damage Control Committee may be made at any of the three Coleman County banks and will be greatly appreciated. Guidelines for donations in the past have been 5 cents per acre of land operated.

County Extension Agent, Roger Blackmon stressed that predator control is everyone's problem sheepmen, cattlemen, and people who appreciate hunting deer and turkey. All these species are hurt by predation. "We're making progress, lets all stay with the program," Blackmon said. Blackmon was highly complimentary of the efforts of Glen Riley, Area Supervisor of the Rodent and Predator Animal Control Service, local trappers, trouble shooters.

New loans help owners improve homes

COLLEGE STATION — Buying up is slowing down.

Families who need more space are finding that moving to a larger home is too expensive. Instead, many are adding a room, putting in a swimming pool or converting the garage into a den.

The Texas Real Estate Research Center at Texas A&M University reports that money for long-term home improvement loans, which has been difficult to obtain from savings and loan associations and commercial banks, may be more available when the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (FHLMC) begins rebuying home improvement loans from local lenders later this year.

This new practice is expected to increase the total number of loans and the dollars available at the local savings and loans and participating banks.

The FHLMC announced that the maximum amount available will be $30,000 for single-family dwellings and $60,000 for multi-family units with terms from three to 20 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ray Owen and son, Randy and Cindy Betz, all of Kemp, were weekend guests in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Owen.

Cattle dogs are making a comeback

COLLEGE STATION — Cattle dogs, a relic of another era, are on the way back, says Professor Charles Long of Texas A&M University's Department of Animal Science.

Driven by inflation, high production costs and dropping cattle prices, many ranchers are more than willing to pay big money for a well-trained, 2-year-old cattle dog. A well-trained dog sells for $1,000 to $2,000. Puppies go for about $100.

Professor Long, a veteran dog trainer and expert on cattle production, said handling stock is nothing but the right pressure in the right place, and a dog is one of the best at putting on the right pressure.

The most common breeds are Australian Cattle dog, Australian Shepherd, Border Collie and the Catahoula Leopard or "Cur."

MEET TODAY'S ARMY RESERVE.

We Enter Into

Christ's Rest

There remaineth therefore a rest to the people of God. Heb. 4:9.

If you are willing to learn meekness and lowliness of heart in Christ's school, He will surely give you rest and peace. It is a terribly hard struggle to give up your own will and your own way. But this lesson learned, you will find rest and peace. Pride, selfishness, and ambition, must be overcome; your will must be swallowed up in the will of Christ. The whole life may become one constant love sacrifice, every action a manifestation, and every word an utterance of love. As the life of the vine circulates through stem and cluster, descends into the lower fibres, and reaches to the topmost leaf, so will the grace and love of Christ burn and abound in the soul, sending its virtues to every part of the being, and pervading every exercise of body and mind.

In being co-workers with Christ in the great work for which He gave His life, we shall find true rest. When we were sinners, He gave His life for us. He wants us to come to Him and learn of Him. Thus we are to find rest. He says He will give us rest. "Learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart." In doing this you will find in your own experience the rest that Christ gives, the rest that comes from wearing His yoke and lifting His burdens.

A form of godliness without the power is a weariness and burden; but when the whole heart is enlisted in the service of Christ, there is rest to the soul; for God causeth such to triumph daily over the powers of darkness. God helps him who commits his soul unto the Lord as unto a faithful Creator.

To learn the lessons Christ teaches is the greatest treasure students can find. Rest comes to them in the consciousness that they are trying to please the Lord.

Coach Roger Goodwin had the highest praise for the team, citing the entire team for their effort. "The way the team played, they deserved to be District Champions," Goodwin said. "I've always felt good things happen to hard-working people, and it hap-

DRIVELINE

Here's a new disease: "Traffic Phobia." Honest, psychologists define it as "a debilitating fear of traffic," brought on by megawatt stress in freeway and rush hour situations...

White Lightning Department! Want to blend your own gasohol? If you need the booze portion of the formula, check out Harrison County, nestled on the Louisiana line in deep East Texas. Seems that over the decades that county has had more illegal stills busted than any other place in Texas. (That's what the Texas Atlas says, anyway.)

Bumpersticker of the Week: "I may be slow, but I'm ahead of you." Actually, safety experts warn that driving too slow, especially on freeways, can be just as dangerous as going too fast. Strike a happy medium, 55 MPH, and go with the flow...

Whoa! ... Here's a great bet winner: When is a horse not a horse? Answer: When you ride it on a public street or highway. Then the law defines it as a vehicle, and the rider is subject to all the duties of any driver. German Village Known For Passion Play Production

By Barbara Kingsbery

Our tour group made an interesting side trip as we traveled from Innsbruck, Austria to Munich, Germany. We visited the historical village of Omerammergau, Germany, where every ten years a passion play is staged.

Traveling from Innsbruck, we drove into the mountains to Seefeld Pass, passing Zugspitz Mountain, the highest of the Austrian Alps.

The old Roman Road ran along our route, built by Emperor Claudius of Rome in 48 AD. The scenery was beautiful with tall green trees, green grass and wild flowers in profusion.

From the main road we took a narrow paved road up farther into the mountains to the village of Omerammergau that has a population of perhaps one or two thousand people. The little town, like all the others in most of Europe, was spotless despite the thousands of visitors during the summer.

The passion play, depicting the life and crucifixion of Christ, has been staged by the people of the village every ten years since 1634. An additional production is planned in 1884 to commemorate the 350th anniversary.

The story is told that the people of Omerammergau prayed for their village to be spared from a plague in 1534, promising to honor God with the production if the village people were the fatal disease, which they were.

Although the play was being presented this year, tickets were sold out months in advance and were not available even when our tour reservations were made in the spring. The play is now staged 3 times weekly in an inclosed amphitheatre just off the town plaza, with seating capacity for only several thousand. The production lasts about eight hours, breaking for lunch.

The cast for the production is chosen months in advance from residents of the town, and being cast in the leading roles is considered a great honor.

Narrow cobblestone streets criss-crossed the little town that has more souvenir shops than other businesses. Most of the salespersons spoke some English and were very friendly.

Several of our group chose to eat a quick lunch in order to sightsee and shop, so visited a hamburger shop similar to McDonald's or Burger King. After three weeks away from home, a hamburger—even European style-tasted delicious.

Many of the sturdy two-story white stucco houses had colorful paintings on their facades. Most were scrolls and flowers around the doors and windows, but some were more ornate with landscapes or pastoral scenes. Many of the buildings in the town were artistically painted, perhaps for the occasion of the passion play.

During the side trip, we stopped at Ettal to visit a Monastery that was an important site on the Roman Road near Mittenwald Pass. The monastery is a stone-walled compound covering at least a city block that includes a beautiful cathedral that has been in use for centuries. Our route also took us through Garmish, the site of the first winter olympics in 1936.

The castle of Mad King Ludwig is nearby, but our tour did not include a visit at the well-known tourist site, that is said to be one of the most ornate and oppulent castles in Germany.

ASCS NEWS

As was announced last week, Coleman County has been approved to offer Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) insurance coverage.

Grain sorghum and cotton are the only two crops presently approved for coverage in 1981. Wheat and oats will be covered under the 1982 crop year.

For the 1981 crop year, producers will have the opportunity to elect one of two options for grain sorghum and/or cotton. A separate election may be made for each crop.

The first option permits producers to pay the full cost of the 1981 FCIC premium for either or both of the crops, and still retain full eligibility under the ASCS disaster provisions for that crop--provided you meet all ASCS program requirements for the disaster coverage.

The second option permits producers to decline eligibility for ASCS payments on either or both of the crops, and thus have the cost of the FCIC premium for such crop(s) reduced by 30 percent for coverage up to 65% of the yield.

The three levels of yield guarantee on the crops will be based on 50%, 65%, and 75% of the FCIC average crop yield. At each level of yield guarantee, producers may choose one of three available price elections. The top price election will be the FCIC projected market price for the crop. The actual cost of the FCIC premium will be reduced by 30% for the 50% and 65% levels of guarantee.

Producers who do not elect to have the Federal Crop Insurance will still be eligible to participate in the regular ASCS disaster programs for the 1981 crop year.

More details of the program will be provided just as soon as I can Obtain them.

MR. AND MRS. BOBBY MORGAN
Wed in November 8 Church Ceremony

Cozart - Morgan Wedding Held Here November 8

Michelle Cozart, daughter of Janice Cozart of Santa Anna and Dwan E. Cozart of Lancaster, became the bride of Robert Stephen Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Morgan II, of Santa Anna, at 8 p.m. Saturday, November 8, at Santa Anna First Baptist Church.

The Rev. John Stanislaw, pastor, performed the single ring ceremony.

Wedding vows were exchanged before an archway of assorted greenery and baby's breath, centered with a pair of white doves. Candles were lighted by John Morgan and Gus Morgan IV, nephews of the groom. Large white bows and greenery highlighted the candelabras and marked family pews.

Donnie Neff, organist, accompanied Sammie Wade of Coleman who sang "The Wedding Song" and "One in a Million, You."

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a floor-length gown of white chiffon over bridal satin fashioned by her mother and grandmother. The empire bodice was re-embroidered Pere de Angel lace which was embellished with seed pearls. The full sleeves had wide cuffs of matching lace with covered buttons fastened by fabric loops. The sweetheart neckline and Queen Ann collar was fastened with covered buttons. To complete her ensemble, the bride chose a cluster of white baby rosebuds for her hair and carried a bouquet of two white Catalya orchids on a bed of English ivy. Her jewelry was a diamond drop necklace and matching diamond studs, a gift from the groom. She carried two handkerchiefs belonging to her great-grandmothers, one edged with tatting by her late great-grandmother, as something old. Something borrowed was her maternal grandmother's wedding band that was attached to an embroidered heart sewn into her wedding gown. She wore a dinner ring that belonged to her paternal grandmother, and in her shoe was a penny dated the year of her birth. A traditional blue garter completed the good luck tokens.

Matron of honor was Sherry McGowen Gilbreath of McAllen. The bride's sisters, Cynthia and Suzette Cozart, were bridesmaids. Their floor-length gowns were jade crepe-backed satin with matching capes. They carried large bouquets of silk roses in shades of coral and apricot with baby's breath.

Flower girl was Stephanie Morgan, niece of the groom, who wore a long dress that matched the other attendants and fashioned with lace and pearl trim. She carried a white basket of rose petals.

David Morgan of Mozelle was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Gus Morgan

III, brother of the groom, and Jimmy Clifton.

Ringbearer was Clinton Glen Donham, cousin of the bride. He wore a jade suede Eton jacket with matching knickers.

Ushers were Martin Lewis Donham, uncle of the bride, Lance Rasch, cousin of the bride, Ted Wristen and Ricky Jones.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cozart wore a floor-length dress of apricot knit featuring a cowl neckline and long sleeves fastened with pearl cufflinks that belonged to her late grandmother. The groom's mother was attired in a long dress of rust knit with rolled collar and long sleeves. Their corsages were of white silk catalaya orchids.

Immediately after the wedding a reception was held in the annex of the church. Linda Rasch, cousin of the bride, presided at the bride's book that lay on a table covered with a heirloom white draw-work cloth. The table was decorated with a pleated fan, a white dove and a single apricot rosebud.

The bride's table, draped with a floor-length white cloth, held a crystal punch bowl with fruit punch. The bride's bouquet centered the table in a cherub holder, with bouquets of the attendants encircling it. The tiered wedding cake was decorated in apricot and white and served with mints and nuts.

The groom's table was covered with a brown cloth overlaid with apricot. The chocolate cake was shaped like wedding bells with the names of the bridal couple written in apricot frosting. The centerpiece was a miniature oil derrick and dog house. Coffee was served from a silver service.

Assisting in the houseparty were Mmes. Nikki Donham, aunt of the bride; Pam and Kay Morgan, sisters-in-law of the groom; Vickie Blackburn, Jana Dooley and Kema Cozart, half-sister of the bride. Dena Rasch, cousin of the bride, distributed rice bags.

After a wedding trip to San Antonio the newlyweds will reside in Santa Anna. The bride is employed by Southern Savings and Loan in Coleman and the groom is employed by Bandera Oil Co. of Abilene.

The groom's parents hosted a dinner at First United Methodist Church annex following the wedding rehearsal.

Special guests at the wedding were Mrs. Carmen Donham, maternal grandmother of

Mrs. Sparkman Hostess For Meeting of Self Culture Club

The Thanksgiving theme was used in table and room decorations when the Self Culture club met at the Community Center last week. Mrs. J. L. Sparkman was hostess for the day, with Mrs. Sidney Tucker co-hostess. The long table was covered with white linen and had a runner of crepe paper, and figurines of paper turkeys, pumpkins and corn shucks. The tea table held a wicker cornucopia of fruits, and iced fruit juice and coffee were served with the cakes, dips and nuts.

Answering the roll call with the names of Eastern personalities the members named some of the leading figures in the countries of the Near East today.

A committee reported accepting a bid on a rail for the entrance of the City Library. The Civic committee chairman, Mrs. Tucker, plans awards for excellence in some phase of scholarship for students of the grade school and the Seventh Day Adventist school, to be given at the close of the year. The Christmas activity for the club will be donations to the Meals On Wheels.

By Clem Autry
Coleman County Chronicle-D.V.

On Monday, November 17, Jess E. Howard of Santa Anna celebrated his 80th birthday with an informal come and go party from 2 to 6 p.m. at his home, 903 Ave. B, Santa Anna. His son and daughter-in-law, Don and Emily Howard, hosted the party for his friends to stop by for a visit.

On Tuesday morning, it was back to work at his barber shop on Wallis Street in Santa Anna. Mr. Howard wouldn't have it any other way, as he doesn't believe in retirement. He now has been active in a business longer than any other businessman in Santa Anna. Howard has been barbering in Santa Anna over 50 years, and still works Tuesday through Saturday each week.

Mr. Howard spent his childhood in Grimes County where he lived on a sandy land farm. He attended school in Iola. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. G.T. Howard and the family included 7 boys and 3 girls. In 1917, he visited his brother Ruppert in Coleman County. He liked it, so moved at the age of 19—in 1919—to work on the J.K. Baker farm in the Red Bank Community.

On that first trip, he met Miss Raney Duggins when he attended a party given by her parents on the occasion of her 14th birthday. He remembered her, and was impressed, but it was to be nine years later, November 3, 1926, before they were married.

In 1923, Mr. Howard enrolled in Texas Barber College in Fort Worth, returning to Santa Anna when his work was completed. He first worked in the Hill and Lewis Barber Shop, and later bought an interest. After 3 or 4 years, he bought a barber shop from the

JOHN B. ELLIOTT

Although I have neglected to publish a thank-you note for the fine support you gave me in the November 4th election, I would like to take this opportunity to extend my HEART-FELT thanks for that support and would appreciate your support in the future.

It was especially gratifying to me to see such a grand turn-out of the voters here in Coleman and Coleman County, and remember, the VOTE is one of the most powerful weapons in the world.

Very sincerely,

Deer Habitat Governs A Hunter's Success

Thousands of avid Texas deer hunters will be intensely waiting atop their favorite stand when deer season opens at sunrise on November 15.

Each year hunters match wits with one of nature's most elusive big game animals and many times fail to meet the challenge. The real key to a successful deer hunt this year may lie in a better understanding of deer and their behavior, says Dr. Dwight Guynn, a wildlife specialist based in Uvalde with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

According to Guynn, hunters have a reasonable chance of shooting their prey at close range even if they are seen first, provided the animal's highly sophisticated sense of smell hasn't detected danger and signaled it to quickly flee.

However, modern science can help neutralize the deer's tremendous olfactory system.

Guynn says field tests have shown the most effective method of neutralizing human odor is to bathe and rinse clothes in a bicarbonate of soda solution. Soda has the capacity to absorb odors, a fact long recognized by housewives who for years have placed an open box of soda in their refrigerator for that purpose.

Masking scents can be beneficial, but like soda, they aren't a cure-all for overcoming the deer's keen sense of smell. These "artificial" odors flood the area with scents which dilute the human odor to a point that it won't be easily recognized. Adding such scents won't dissipate human odor will serve as a dilutor. Guynn warns against using masking scents which have secondary odors containing a disinfectant or insect repellent.

If deer have a weak sense, it's their eyesight. While well developed, this sense has some weak points a deer hunter can exploit.

Deer fail to recognize still objects, yet they're quick to pick up even the slightest movements, says Guynn. By remaining motionless, even though in full view of the deer, a hunter stands an excellent chance of going undetected.

Another weakness in a deer's eyesight is due in part to the location of the eyes within the head, a factor that limits peripheral vision. Guynn says a hunter can take advantage of this fact by timing the number of seconds a deer feeds before raising its head to look around. The hunter can then move forward until the deer raises its head, being extremely careful to stop before the deer looks up again. By using this stop-and-go technique a hunter can usually get close enough for a good shot, even in an open field. Ordinarily, deer never seem to realize that the motionless object (hunter) they see when looking up is closer each time, points out the wildlife specialist.

Because deer are not naturally conditioned to expect danger from above, they seldom look higher than ground level. Hunters can capitalize on this weakness in self-defense by hunting from elevated or tree stands which serve three purposes: the hunter's field of vision is greatly enhanced, hunters are less likely to be spotted by deer, and human scent may be above the animal.

Knowing the feeding and drinking habitat of deer also can help increase the success chances of any hunter.

But all that scouting, knowledge of deer behavior and extension preparation and planning goes for naught if "the shot that couldn't miss" goes astray.

late R.B. Renfro at a location near the Santa Anna post office where he stayed for 35 years and one month. In 1962, he moved to the Hubert Speck Shop where he is presently located. For 28 years during this time, he also was a stock farmer 2 miles out of Santa Anna.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Howard are active members of the First Baptist Church of Santa Anna. Mr. Howard served 18 years with the Santa Anna Volunteer Fire Department, and 8 years on the Santa Anna School Board.

Hunting and fishing have been his lifetime hobbies, and he has many happy memories of some special fishing experiences with his friends, Neal Oakes, R.W. Balke, Clarence Gilbert, "Boggy" Disrens, the late Dr. R.R. Lovelady and others. He and daughter-in-law Emily Howard still "go fishing" now and then.

Until a few months ago, an antique metal barber pole marked his shop at Santa Anna. Unfortunately, this proud possession has been stolen, and no trace has been found. It had been restored by his son and daughter-in-law, and was sparkling with its new paint job.

Whenever Don Howard meets a new acquaintance who is a barber, he tells him he will let him cut his hair if he can have a haircut like he gets from a barber in Santa Anna. When asked what kind that is, he replies that he gets the haircut free, and gets invited afterwards to the barber's house for a steak supper.

New Rules Help Disabled Workers Return to Jobs

Disabled workers who wish to attempt to return to work will find it much easier to do so without risking the loss of their disability benefits as a result of new social security disability legislation.

Up until now, a worker's efforts to regain the ability to work were discouraged by rules which resulted in a complete cutoff of medical and cash benefits. The ambitious person who succeeded in returning to work and suffered a relapse could find it a difficult process regaining benefit status.

Social security disability benefits are paid to workers and their dependents when the worker has suffered a mental or physical impairment that is expected to prevent him or her from working for a year or more or to result in death. Workers who attempt to work in spite of their disability while receiving benefits are given a 9-month trial period during which benefits continue while they test their ability to work. At the end of 9 months of trial work, a determination is made as to whether the work represents "substantial gainful activity." If it does, then benefits are stopped after an additional 3-month adjustment period. Earnings of $300 or more a month generally are considered an indication of substantial gainful activity.

These rules are still in effect. The new rules are generally designed to continue Medicare benefits longer, make it easier to regain benefit status, and otherwise ease the path from the disability rolls to the world of work.

One work incentive provides for automatic reentitlement to disability benefits for a person still disabled whose benefits are stopped because he or she went back to work, but who is then unable to continue working within the following year. For example, if a person has to stop working 10 months after the disability benefits are stopped because of work, a new application will not be needed to get the benefits started again.

Another change continues Medicare protection for 3 years after the monthly cash benefits are stopped because a person returns to work. For disabled workers previously entitled to Medicare who have been off the benefit rolls longer than one year but begin receiving disability benefits again within a 5 year period, Medicare protection will resume immediately. The latter rule also applies to disabled widows and widowers and adults disabled before age 22 whose benefits start again with 7 years.

If a person formerly did not complete the 24 month waiting period for Medicare, any months for which he or she received disability benefits during the first period of disability can count toward meeting this requirement in the second period of disability.

Another important change enables a disabled worker to deduct from earnings impairment related expenses in determining whether earnings are too high to allow payment of benefits. Formerly, work-related expenses were not deducted for items needed by an individual regardless of whether or not he or she worked; the cost of a wheelchair was not deductible for example. Now, expenses for services or items which a disabled individual needs in order to work may be deducted if the person pays those expenses.

In addition, the new law extends the 9 month trial work period, which is now provided to disabled workers who attempt to return to work, to disabled widows and widowers who attempt to work. Under the old law, the trial work period was available only to disabled workers and persons disabled before age 22.

All of the above changes are effective as of December 1980.

Another change continues monthly benefits, Medicaid, and social services to disabled people receiving supplemental security income benefits (SSI). Under the old law, an SSI beneficiary whose earnings represented substantial gainful activity could no longer receive cash benefits and often was also ineligible for Medicaid and social services.

Under a 3 year experimental program starting January 1981, all these benefits may continue even though the person's earnings exceed the level representing substantial gainful activity. However, as earnings increase, the amount of cash payments decrease until the payments are phased out. Eligibility for Medicaid and social services may continue if a disabled or blind person could not work without this assistance and does not earn enough to pay for similar help.

Almost all social security matters can be handled by phone. For general information or to report a change, call 646-7533. Medicare questions or filing of medicare claims can be taken care of by calling toll free 800-442-2620. If you wish to file an application to establish your eligibility you
