Big Spring Anxiously Awaits Grid Game

Court Here Will Readily Continue Suits For Foreclosure Grand Jury Is Told; 'Bank Rumor' Law Is Read

Armistice Day Program Given by Rotary Club

Fahrenkamp Recalls His Feeling When News Was Received

In an earnest talk based upon his emotional experiences at the time of the signing of the armistice in 1918...

Mr. Fahrenkamp was stationed at Carnegie Tech, six miles from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, at the time of the close of the war.

Dallas Whaley, commander of the Big Spring post of the American Legion, spoke to members of the club and had each ex-service man introduce himself by giving the name of his military connection...

The presentation of the charters from Troop One of the Boy Scouts sponsored by the club, was made by Dr. J. R. Dillard, who stressed in his remarks the relationship of the Boy Scout movement in Big Spring to the very small amount of juvenile crime to be given the attention of the courts of the county.

Guests at the luncheon were: Fred Hopkins, Dallas; C. E. Boydston, Hawley, Calif.; J. M. Jones, College Station, Texas; J. Adams, Dallas; Whaley, Dr. J. R. Dillard, A. Cummings.

The program was in charge of Joseph Edwards

We are very anxious to aid a deserving young woman, who must support a small brother and sister, in finding employment. Any work which she may do and be in a position to return home evenings, will be acceptable. Call The Herald.

Last night we inspected the splendid museum the Current Event History Club has started at high school. The museum was turned over to trustees of the West Texas Memorial Museum by the club.

All kinds of work must be done to make a school system useful and efficient. While the coaches and their team battle before the cheering multitude other faculty members spend many hours of labor in classrooms and other types of endeavor.

Tomorrow we observe the thirtieth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, which ended hostilities in the world war.

But that war has not ended for thousands of former service men who today are in government hospitals, maimed, or suffering because of wounds or the effects of gas, or disease contracted while serving their country.

A great American said the other day that the Peace Conferences, treaties, international communications designed to end war are but an indication of the state of the public mind; that the greatest protection the United States has against being drawn into another great conflict, lies in the fact that, in the final analysis, the man-in-the-street does not want war.

Granting of judgments in suits for foreclosure of liens on homes and farms will be entered only in unusual or extreme cases, Judge Fritz R. Smith of 32nd district court told the grand jury of the November term in his charge late Monday.

"I have heard of no specific violation of this statute in this county, although they have been reported in other counties in my district," said the court.

"This court is going to be very slow in rendering judgment against his fellow man for foreclosure of liens," said Judge Smith. "Some ought to be and will be given but where a man has given his life to establishing a home here in West Texas and, due to general conditions of business throughout the country, faces loss of that home, just any kind of application is going to get a continuance in suits for foreclosure," he continued.

The court urged lawyers to be careful in taking suits for foreclosure, saying he believed the bar and the court could help the people by pursuing such a course.

Slightly Less Demand Seen For Gasoline

Voluntary Committee On Petroleum Economics Makes Report

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (UP)—A decreased demand of 1.6 per cent for gasoline manufactured in the United States for the period Oct. 1, 1931, to June 30, 1932, was predicted today by the voluntary committee on petroleum economics in a report to the federal oil conservation board.

The committee also estimated that demand for crude oil during the same nine months would show a drop of 2.1 per cent.

United States demand for gasoline was estimated at 289,000,000 barrels for the period, an increase of 1.9 per cent as compared with the same period last year.

Crude oil demand of the United States was placed by the committee at 833,100,000 barrels, a decrease of 3.2 per cent for the nine months. The committee expects, however, that a substantial increase in crude oil exports will partially counterbalance this decrease in domestic crude oil demand, leaving a total decrease of 2.1 per cent.

The board estimated an increase of 3.6 per cent in the crude oil supply to be drawn during the nine months period from domestic sources, with a drop of 38 per cent in import supply and a practical cessation of supplies drawn from storage.

The committee recommended to the oil conservation board a further curtailment of United States fuel oil production as "essential to the maintenance of economic stocks." The committee pointed out that although gas oil and fuel oil production this year has, for each month except August, been less than for the corresponding months of 1930, the stocks of these oils have been increasing.

League Told Chinese Will Build Forts

Doctor Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate, told the League of Nations conference in Paris that China would strengthen her national defenses enough to withstand aggression if the League fails to settle the Manchurian dispute.

Japanese women and children at Manchul and Hallar were ordered to come to Harbin for safety because of the increasing Chinese hostility.

London dispatches said that the Japanese demanded the surrender of Tatsien and that the Chinese had asked the League to send an international police force of 4,500 troops to patrol the South Manchurian railway territory.

Position Of American Legion On Prohibition Question Explained By Earl Earp, State Commander

Speaking before the William Frank Martin post here Monday evening at the Crawford hotel V. Earl Earp of Sweetwater, commander of the Texas Department of the American Legion declared that the Legion at its recent national convention in Detroit did not vote in favor of a repeal of the eighteenth amendment; that after turning down three resolutions, the resolutions committee finally went on record as desiring of finding out whether the country is in favor of enforcement of the law and to learn, if possible, why public officials apparently are unwilling to enforce the present prohibition laws.

"The Legion did not in any manner ask for a repeal or change in the laws," said Mr. Earp.

Citing a record of the uses to which $200,000 in bonus money drawn by ex-service men in Howard county had been put, the state commander declared that 61 homes were saved from foreclosure, 100 persons were taken off the charity list of the city and county and 83 were enabled to purchase homes in the county.

"While in the army the men drew a dollar a day and, after taking out for their insurance, family and Liberty Bonds, the average soldier drew $4.50 per month. Naturally the men coming out of the army under those conditions were unable to buy clothes or to do anything else," said Mr. Earp.

More than 4,000 football fans attended the pep rally held at the home of the Mustangs last night in Sweetwater. This was the largest gathering of football enthusiasts ever seen in the Nolan county center, and believed by many to be one of the largest ever staged in West Texas.

Starting at 7:15 with the parade through the business section by the band, the tooting of whistles, sounding of horns and the employment of every instrument known to make a noise the fans began wending their way to the vacant lot just east of the high school where a stack of boxes fifty feet high was ready for the application of the match which would send the mass up in flames and smoke just as the Ponies are planning on scattering the Steer hopes to the four winds tomorrow afternoon.

D. H. Reed, principal of the local junior high school was introduced by master of ceremonies James Beall as the first speaker of the evening and drew a tremendous ovation from the vast audience. Greetings from Big Spring and the Steers were extended to that of the Big Spring Steers and the assurance of a fighting black and gold clad team on Newman Field tomorrow was given by the local school man.

Steers Slaughtered

With all the bellowing of a wild steer there came rolling into the center of the cast crowd a large Steer mounted on a truck. With a shaking head and rolling eyes this ferocious animal emitted a loud bellow each and every time the word Mustang or Pony was mentioned. On one side of the animal was a large placard bearing this inscription, "The Big Spring Steers Headed For The Slaughter House."

The mournful bellow of this steer as he is led toward the slaughter pen is nothing compared to that of the Big Spring Steers as they try in vain to stop the Pony onslaught on Wednesday afternoon. Buck Johnson said.

Coach Hennig Speaks

The greatest football team Sweetwater has ever had the honor of playing will invade Newman Field Wednesday afternoon, and the greatest team Sweetwater has ever been able to put on the field will march out to stop the Big Spring Steers Armistice Day.

A team with the record of the Steers even though the opposition has not been so powerful must have something. We expect a terrific struggle but at the same time I am confident that the Mustangs will be able to herd the Steers into a corner of Newman Field and apply the branding iron in a most convincing manner," the Pony mentor added.

In introducing the Mustangs who will battle the locals tomorrow afternoon Captain Bob Brooks was introduced. First, Bob plays a guard position and will give a good account of himself in the coming struggle. Sam Baugh at quarterback was introduced as the "smartest quarter in Texas high school circles." Rambling Mike Hicks was brought forth as the man who will personally see to it that Tack Den-

Train Leaves At 11:30 A. M.; Sale Is Slow

Steer Delegation To Parade From Station; Occupy East Bleachers

Big Spring will move on Sweetwater Wednesday, Armistice Day, for the Steer-Mustang football game, which will begin at 2:30 p. m. at Newman field.

As time for the conflict arrived both cities had all but cast aside usual activities and were talking and thinking only of the game, heralded as potentially one of the most thrilling to be played by Class A teams in Texas this season.

High school officials again urged fans as well as students to buy tickets to the game and on the special train to be operated from here with stops in Coahoma and Colorado. The train will leave here at 11:30 a. m., reaching Sweetwater about 1 p. m.

Came tickets for all—except students—are 75 cents, for students 25 cents. The latter will get their tickets at high school.

Tickets for the special train may be obtained, along with adult game tickets at the Crescent Drug store, the Petroleum Pharmacy, Cunningham & Phillips' Settles Hotel store, Cunningham & Phillips No. 1 and Collins Bros. No. 1, as well as at the high school.

George Gentry, high school principal, reminded all purchasers of special train tickets they would have to exchange them at the passenger ticket office of the T. & P. for regular tickets. Tickets on the train are $1.20 each.

It was indicated early Tuesday afternoon that the number that would ride the special train would be considerably less than had been predicted previously.

The school community expected to turn out this evening at 7:30 o'clock for the pep rally at the courthouse lawn and at 11 p. m. for the football benefit performance at the Ritz theatre.

Mr. Gentry announced that the Big Spring delegation would march from the T. & P. station in Sweetwater to headquarters at the Blue Bonnet hotel; that the Big Spring people would sit on the east side of the field. A gate located near the east side bleachers will be most accessible to the local fans.

Sportswomen To Brave Hardships Of 10,000-Mile Flight Over Africa

By SUE McNAMARA
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP)—Marking a sky trail above Africa is the goal of Mrs. Margery Durant, daughter of W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer.

And guiding her in her plans for the flight is a two-fold purpose. First, she says she wants to do her bit in demonstrating the everyday practicality of flying, and second, she hopes to help in opening up Africa, for she believes that aviation is the key that will do it.

Mrs. Durant has received a permit from the state department to fly from Cairo to Cape Town. Starting from Marsilles early in January she plans to fly her own two-motor, 10-passenger amphibian. The journey is to be made in a roundabout way, covering about 10,000 miles and visiting isolated parts of Africa.

She will take with her a pilot and several photographers. She will not pilot the plane herself.

Mrs. Durant says she "took up aviation first to bridge the chasm between the vivid youth of my son, who is a pilot, and my own drab maturity."

She has the fresh complexion and slim figure of a girl though she says she is 44.

Mrs. Durant has her own philosophy of life.

"To prove his right to exist every person should do something constructive," she says. "In demonstrating the everyday practicality of flying I feel that I'm doing that very thing. I've chosen Africa because the flying conditions there are ideal and because I believe aviation will really open up that country."

On the long trip Mrs. Durant will carry only a small suit case and a traveling bag. They will contain among other things two daytime dresses, one thin black wool, one of black chiffon, one evening dress, six shirts, two pairs of trousers, one blue jacket, four pairs of shoes and a dozen pairs of stockings.

"Hardships," says Mrs. Durant. "Of course, but what of it? Even in remote villages the people are courteous and kind."

Everyday Flying Practical, She Says

Mrs. Margery Durant, shown standing in front of her plane, plans to make a 10,000 mile flight over Africa, visiting remote places. She hopes to be instrumental in opening up the continent through the means of aviation.

The African flight will not be Mrs. Durant's first long air jaunt for she already has toured European cities by plane. She has been prominent, too, in other outdoor ventures.

"No injuries will keep us from having the best we have on the field to oppose the Steers. If they beat us we will have no alibi for our full strength will be in there fighting," Coach Hennig declared.

Brooks Lights Fire
Captain Bob Brooks set fire to the huge pile of boxes amid wild cheers from the crowd. As the flames reached toward the sky the band struck up the Mustang song and the voices of 4,000 fans rolled out on the night air, singing the praises of the Red and White and death to the Steer hopes on Armistice Day.

Home Town

While such organizations as the Navy League clamor for the expending of hundreds of millions of the people's money in construction of more and more ships, the sight of these thousands of disabled veterans, still before our eyes rather than mere memories of the past that our grandparents have told us about, too strongly demonstrate the futility of war for the average American to want any more of it.

There will, of course, be wars so long as the world stands. But thirteen years is but a brief interval in the history of the world and that short span is not sufficient to blot from our minds the horrors of the last one.

Theories for preventing war differ. Disarmament is the recipe of some, "preparedness" that of others. The meaning of preparedness varies; some take it to mean nothing but militarism, the same imperialistic method for which we cursed Germany. Others are more conservative.

When we attempt to take stock of the ruin spread through humanity by the last great war it is not surprising that such organizations as the American Legion are looked to by the nation to help lead the way for continued peace. Of all the people in the country who, we take it, do not want more of such wars, the men who suffered in the trenches of the last one, are the leaders.

This column has been criticized for having expressed its own viewpoint concerning some actions of the last national convention of the American Legion. If we have been accused of being ungrateful to those who served their country during the world war we raise our voice right now to brand such an accusation as without any foundation in fact.

He reviewed the history and nature of that organization and said he would like to see the delegates, numbering about 40, entertained, if they choose to come here.

Announces Going Out Of Banking Business; Won't Withdraw Money

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 10 (AP)—Usually when a bank closes it causes consternation in a community. But here's one that didn't. The president even had a hard time in getting his customers to call for their money after he announced the bank would be closed.

M. C. Parrish, president of the University Bank, small financial institution in the University of Texas section of Austin, recently announced he intended to close the bank and go out of the banking business. He cashed the bank's securities and had $100,000 in cash on hand to cover deposits. He employed eight assistant cashiers to handle the rush.

But the rush failed to materialize and less than 100 depositors called for their money the first half-hour the bank was opened for withdrawals. One girl student at the University of Texas came into the bank to withdraw her deposit and then changed her mind, saying she would come back later.

Parrish said the bank was unprofitable to operate because of the small volume of business and he was closing it because he could not give it his personal attention since most of his interests are centered in East Texas.

PORT ISABEL, Nov. 10 (AP)—Charles Polhemus of Harlingen claims a record for catching the largest tarpon ever landed in the waters of the Gulf in this section. He hooked a tarpon at Port Isabel which was 7 feet 2 1/2 inches long.

It took him 45 minutes to land it. A number of tarpons have been caught the past few weeks measuring more than six feet.

Frog Leg Business Thrives At Rio Hondo

RIO HONDO, Nov. 10 (AP)—The frog leg business has been built up to the point where Dan Affolter of Rio Hondo and his son, Paul, pay as much as $400 a month to men and boys in this community for the delicacy.

One family makes a livelihood supplying frog legs to the Affolters, who sell them all over South Texas, trucking them as far as Corpus Christi. Thousands of pounds of frog legs are sold annually by the Affolters, who also truck fruit and vegetables to various points.

hunting lands will not be under lease when the season opens November 16.

Already the deer are running across the roads and the mating season is on. Bucks are pawing at the earth and salt licks are popular. It is an easy matter to see a dozen deer in a few miles' travel over the roads which lead to every part of this game paradise. Deer this year have better horns than ever before, because of the mild winter says J. T. Brown, one of the sportsmen of the section. Turkey gobblers are plentiful. The limit this year is two bucks and two turkey gobblers.

One old buck of many points, some say 25, which has eluded hunters for years, will again be sought this year. He has been shot a time or so but each time has escaped.

Streams in this county are filled with beaver, but they are protected. Use of dogs is forbidden in hunting deer. Glenn W. Smith, justice of the peace, promises to deal speedily with those who kill deer or turkeys unlawfully.

University of California has chosen as coach of its hockey team Phil Stevens, who coached the Oakland Seals to three California league titles in a row.

Protection Of Women In Industry, Theme Of Speech To Club Women

LUBBOCK, Texas, Nov. 10 (AP)—Robert B. Gragg, state labor commissioner, made an appeal for better working conditions, enforced by adequate state laws, in an address today before the annual convention of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

He said there was great need "for a complete revision of the statute governing the hours of employment" for women.

"No woman should be employed or permitted to work in any industrial or clerical occupation for more than eight hours per day," Gragg stated. "An absolute requirement for one day's rest each week should be inserted. The vastly increased efficiency made possible by improved machinery would seem to demand as a matter of common fairness that the worker be permitted a larger share in the benefits of increased production."

"After a long and arduous struggle, the right and duty of the state to enact laws and promulgate regulations for the protection of the health and well-being of women workers has been established. The courts, state and federal, have given full recognition to the principle that the general welfare is concerned by the protection of women workers from unhealthy conditions of employment and long hours of labor. Legislation upon the subject has now been enacted by every state in the Union. But while the principle has been securely established much is yet lacking in scientific industrial codes and adequate enforcement machinery."

"In Texas we have only two statutes specifically designed for the protection of women in industry. One statute, known as the nine fifty-four hour law, limiting the hours of employment for women, was enacted in 1915. The other, known as the health, comfort and safety law, enacted in 1918, sets up certain standards of safety, sanitation and ventilation of work shops. Other statutes, such as the child labor law indirectly afford protection to certain classes of female employees. The general statute creating the labor department and defining its functions is broad in its scope and requires a large amount of work that is purely educational in its nature."

Gragg said that the greatest difficulty encountered in the labor department's work of law enforcement is in administration of the nine fifty-four hour law. He said employers in certain industries had "been able to induce the legislature to provide exceptions in their favor on specious pleas of special conditions."

The law fixed the general limitation at nine hours per day and 54 hours per week, it being intended to set up a standard of six days of nine hours each per week for female employees.

Gragg said "these exceptions and amendments have become so numerous as almost to emasculate the original statute and render it of doubtful constitutionality." He said the courts had ruled that a woman's work may not be restricted to six days so long as the total time is held within the 54 hours per week limit.

"Thus in many industries and occupations women and girls are required to be on duty seven days per week by the simple expedient of working eight hours for six days and six hours on the seventh day," Gragg said. "The exceptions making such an arrangement possible should be repealed. Every worker, especially every woman worker should have one entire day for rest, recreation and diversion."

Enforcement - Not Repeal

Woman's Christian Temperance Union To Meet Economic Emergency

National W. C. T. U. Officers

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union meets emergencies with a nation-wide organization trained in civic and social work. This organization has done its part in every crisis. In the world war it sold liberty bonds, contributed ambulances, and ministered to the comfort of soldiers in camps and forts. It helped relieve drought areas of our own country, and answered the appeal from the starving people of other lands.

In the present situation it is ready to act. We confidently expect our members to cooperate in unemployment and relief work with agencies established by the President, governors of states, and by local organizations.

Wherever possible those whose incomes have not been affected should not make curtailment; and contributions for religious and philanthropic work should be the last to be reduced.

The needless discharge of employees and unnecessary reductions in wages add to unemployment and are a waste. We emphasize that money spent for liquor finances an illegal business and is a waste. It diverts consumer dollars from legitimate industries to the illegal liquor industry. It decreases industrial efficiency; reduces the rate at which men can rise out of poorly paid occupations, and therefore increases occupational congestion, poverty, and unemployment.

To restore the legalized liquor traffic by modification or repeal would complicate the economic situation and make permanent a large part of the problem of unemployment.

Labor and Liquor

"There is nothing more absurd than the belief that closing the saloons will cause workmen to lose their jobs. There are few things more important to our social advancement than the loosening of the grip of the liquor interests on the labor movement. The saloon represents economic loss."

—Theodore Roosevelt, quoted in Union Signal, April 29, 1915 (Contributed each Tuesday by the local chapter of the W.C.T.U.)

The DEAD MONTHS that follow FIRE

FIREs in stores, factories and other commercial buildings are followed by dead months. Trade stops—customers go elsewhere for goods—expenses pile up while the building is being replaced or repaired. It is sound business to insure a continuance of your normal profit—and dividends—during the non-earning period following a fire.

The insurance that gives this guarantee is called Business Interruption (Use and Occupancy) insurance. Ask your Stock Fire Insurance agent to explain it.
