

Jury To Probe Mystery Abduction Of Negro

Jimmy Allred, energetic attorney general of Texas, who usually is described as "young", is naturally pretty sure because various bodies, including the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, and local chambers in Henderson, Fort Arthur, Houston and other towns have criticized him for filing the ouster suits against fifteen major oil companies, charging violation of state anti-trust laws.

As we see the matter the question is not one that properly comes before officials of local Chambers, insofar as criticizing Allred is concerned.

We do not deal with the wisdom or lack of it shown in filing the suits when we make this statement.

Allred is a public official charged with protecting the states interests in the courts. The recent "oil session" of the legislature made a special appropriation to finance an investigation by the attorney general to determine whether the anti-trust laws were being violated by all companies.

That was a specific mandate from the legislature and Allred could have done nothing else if he had wished, and at the same time performed his duties faithfully.

We take it that his investigation disclosed facts affording cause of action sufficient to keep the suits in court or Allred would not have filed them.

But, after the legislature had issued its special mandate had Allred's investigation not disclosed sufficient grounds for filing the suits and had he followed his judgment under that condition and not filed them great would have been the howl from the people, especially the ultra-independents of the oil industry.

Yes! Even if he could have found nothing worthy of notice by the state in the role of plaintiff against the "big boys" of the industry, the people still would have hungered for court action against them.

When we say that we do not champion the majors' cause, but simply point out that old, old-down habit we have out-and-down here in Texas.

Texas just now is approaching an industrial era. Until about now our acquaintance with what the public terms the "big trusts" has been by remote control, comparatively speaking. We have been pretty hard-boiled toward the larger corporations, especially the Standard Oil company. We have figured we'd be better off without them.

We are better off with them so long as they do not prevent free trade and fair competition and the preservation of the right of every citizen to engage in any business without being told to sell out quick or get out broke.

If the defendants in these ouster suits are guilty as alleged by Plaintiff Texas the courts will find out about it before the affair has ended.

Whether the industrial welfare of Texas will be damaged because these suits were filed in another matter, it is, by the way, a matter that the great mass of voters care nothing about. For, so long as someone is hopping on the big boys their appetites are satisfied.

When we "average folks" hit hard times we instinctively blame it on someone else. And, equally instinctively, we usually blame it on somebody who has more money.

It's always been that way. It always will be. And, after all, that instinct periodically serves as a sort of check upon the periodic expansions of corporations toward real monopoly.

We do not charge Allred with filing these suits merely to fill his vote bag at the next election. But, it'll bring in the sheaves anyway.

One thing Jimmie did do, though, that was not necessary was send—

CITIZEN OF BIG SPRING

CHARLES WALL CUNNINGHAM

Judge Cunningham is a perpetual source of surprise to his friends. He is continually giving out information on the subject which none of them thought he knew anything about; he will even reveal that he had studied along this line at one time or another.

He has done a lot of things in the 54 years he has spent on this earth and he began doing them early. By the time he was barely twenty he was graduated from the Sam Houston Normal and was superintendent of the school at Winters. There he met his wife, Miss Mamie Bell, who was smart enough to see the possibilities in this shy, tall, lanky boy and to give him an encouraging smile.

Teaching school was only a money-making step to pharmacy. He went to the University of Texas and in 1901 obtained his Ph. D. He has been a druggist ever since. At first he was located in Lufkin, where he had his brother, the late Dr. S. C. Cunningham of San Antonio, owned a drug store jointly. He was there seven years, including the time he took off to Big Spring and marry Mamie Bell.

She was a Howard County girl, reared on a ranch eight miles south on Highway No. 9, and, as Howard County girls will do, she encouraged him to travel farther west. At first he settled in Garden City. There he began that active interest in civic affairs.

County Judge of Glasscock Co. He had studied a little law on his side so the citizens of Glasscock County made and kept him county judge for six years, giving him a handle to his name that he was to wear the rest of his life.

In 1919 he left Garden City for the bigger opportunities that in a railroad center. He worked for a while for J. L. Ward, then for Shilne Phillips, formed a partnership in the drug business and Big Spring has been his home ever since.

Judge Cunningham is an outstanding civic-minded man. He regards his adopted city with some sort of the affection he has for his family and whenever it thrusts responsibility on him he does not regard it lightly. For many years he had been a member of the City Commission and when R. D. Matthews resigned his post as mayor, Judge Cunningham stepped into the breach and served until the election of the present mayor.

Before the organization of the Community Chest he was treasurer of the Charity Fund for many years. Judge Cunningham's church membership is with the Presbyterians. He is also a Mason and a member of the Texas State Pharmaceutical Association, and a director of the local Chamber of Commerce.

He has one child, a daughter, Doris Cunningham.

Angelo Scrap Friday To Be Interesting

'Obie' vs 'Dusty' Football Game Arousing Much Interest

By CURTIS BISHOP
On Christmas Day, which happens this year to come on December 25, the Stamping Steers of Big Spring High, runners-up in District 4 this year and coached by J. Gordon (Obie) Bristow, and the San Angelo Junior College Rams, sponsored by Dusty Waller, manager of the Hilton Hotel in San Angelo, and coached by "Big" Crews, coach together on Graveyard Field in San Angelo in the football headliner in this portion of the state for the year.

The game was scheduled as the result of the failure of the San Angelo High Bobcats to agree to a post-season conflict with the local, West Texas high school team for the week ending Thanksgiving Day, and a taunt made by Mr. Waller to the effect that San Angelo had at least two clubs that could defeat Mr. Bristow's charges. After he had discovered that it was practically impossible to schedule any West Texas high school team for the holiday game Bristow accepted Waller's challenge, and so confident was his team's superiority over any and all elevens that might be brought to come out of the Concho bottoms that he consented to allow Mr. Waller to play any star that might be so fortunate as to be here, or threaten to appear on his roster Christmas Day.

Disappointed
At first gloom spread over the Concho camp, for Mr. Waller was singularly unsuccessful in securing "ringers." Albie Booth of Yale was taken sick and had to retract his promise to appear in San Angelo. Jerry Dalrymple of Tulane said that he would be glad to play, but that he had promised his coach not to take part in any "tough" game until after Tulane's New Year Day game with Southern California. Weidman Mason of S. M. U. could not come, as it would mean canceling an invitation to the annual East-West game.

But Mr. Waller was not to be denied. As a result he has a great bunch of all-stars corralled for the holiday clash with the plucky little school kids that carried Big Spring High's colors this year. Joe Young, giant guard from Terrell, the San Angelo King, center of two years' all-state linemen last year "Ox" Blair, who refuses to admit his Alma Mater, Bull Crawford and Bernie Jones at guards, Jimmy Russell, Happy Rosson, and a host of other brilliant backs, responded to the Rams' invitation. As a result the starting lineup for the San Angelo Junior College will average something only 1900 pounds.

Against this avalanche of brilliant "exes" Coach Bristow expects to send his squad of 1931 lettermen, intact except for one or two basketball men who will not be allowed to compete. Captain-led Henry Richburn, "Dub" Coots will have places in the starting lineup at halfback and end respectively. Tack Dennis will act as captain during the contest and will call signals, do the brunt of the passing, ball-carrying, and punting. Howard Schwarzenbach will play at quarterback. Carleton Coburn will play his last game as a halfback. Armstrong, Roberts and Sanders will divide the tackle duty. Harris will be Coots' running mate at the wings. Smith, Freuca, and Orr will take turns at guard, and Dyer is expected to play the whole game at center.

Bristow is optimistic over the holiday clash with the Rams, reinforced as they are by former college and high school stars. "It is an ideal opponent for a post-season game," he declared, "and I am confident that we will make a good showing. Of course my club cannot compare with their man-for-man, but remember that the Steers will be playing their twelfth game of the season together, and that nearly all of them are in the best of condition. We should draw a good crowd, and I hope to see lots of local fans on hand for the game."

"After all," he continued, "it is nothing more than going a little bit out of our class and playing a strong team. And I want the Big Spring club to get the reputation of being willing to tackle anybody and to make a good showing."

Aged Englishman Finds Relatives Near Big Spring

Henry Butler, 84-year-old Londoner, will eat Christmas dinner with his grand daughter, Mrs. J. D. Galt, who resides 22 miles north of Big Spring. After considerable misfortune he reached the city Saturday from Fort Worth after Miss M. Gladys Pittenger, head of the city welfare department there, got in touch with Mrs. Galt by long distance telephone.

Mr. Butler reached Fort Worth after hitch-hiking from Kansas City. Not familiar with West Texas, he did not know just how far from Big Spring his grand daughter resided.

Ruddy-faced, white-haired and bubbling with wit, he kept the welfare staff in Fort Worth laughing much.

He fished about in a pocket for a letter from his grand daughter and drew out a large bundle of papers. "If I die," he explained, "I'm going to have this put in my coffin so if I wake up I'll 'ave something to read."

Butler said that he had lived in England, Australia, Hawaii, Canada and the United States.

"What do you do now?" Miss Pittenger asked.

"Sell things," he replied, "I can sell anything except second-hand coffins."

Kahn said Germany had demonstrated her capacity for extraordinary accomplishments.

'Broncho' Charlie Miller, Last Pony Expressman, Here

"Broncho" Charlie Miller, 81-year-old pony express rider, and his black Montana Morgan thoroughbred, Pole Star, were Big Spring visitors Monday.

Miller is on his way from New York to Hollywood with letters from 15 governors in his keeping for delivery, and almost 200 postmarks in his register. He reached Coahoma Saturday at 4 p. m. after a leisurely week's journey from Abilene.

The hale and hearty old veteran of the frontier cocked his weathered forehead this morning and allowed that he would stay around a day or so, in hope that the weather might clear up. He is stopping at the Crawford.

Miller claims to be the oldest remaining pony express rider and the oldest member of the American Legion. He told of joining Bill Cody's show in Denver in 1885 and traveling Madison Square Garden and later England and Europe. He relates experiences as a member of "Queen Mary's Own," to which he was assigned after joining the British forces in Toronto, Canada, in 1917.

In Hollywood Miller expected to "brake" into pictures and then return to his wife in New York state via plane. While here he called on the mayor, the postmaster and other officials.
