Few people realize how folks in our area are affected by the Dallas Cowboys and their ball games.

While getting information last week about the VFDs call to a rural grass fire, Donald Strickland said they were enroute home when it was fourteen to seven.

When I commented that he must have just made it to the seven o'clock church service, Donald replied, "Oh no, I mean when the score was 14 - 7 during the Cowboys game!"

Guy Allen To Take Part In Post Benefit Roping

Guy Allen, runner-up for the 1981 World Champion Steer Roping title, will be among the 36 steer ropers to take part in the annual OS Steer Roping and Art Exhibit near Post this weekend. The event benefits West Texas Boys Ranch.

Also on the list of top ropers is James Allen of Santa Anna, a top-ranked professional steer roper. Arnold Felts of Mutual, Oklahoma, the World Champion, is also on the list that includes seven of the sixteen finalists.

Other arena events will include a cutting horse contest, team roping, calf roping and barrel racing. Guy Allen is also an entry in the calf roping.

Guy was second place in the finals competition in Laramie, Wyoming earlier this month, adding another $8,000 to his yearly earnings in the single steer event and coming closer to the championship that he held in 1977 and again in 1980. He set another record at the finals, tying the fastest steer in 10.2 seconds.

Santa Anna 4-H To Meet Monday

The Santa Anna 4-H Club will meet Monday, October 5, at the Presbyterian Church fellowship hall at 7:30 p.m. All interested young people aged nine to 19 are invited to meet with the group.

Pat Rutherford is adult leader of the local club, assisted by Patsy Starr, Montie and Sandra Guthrie. About 50 young people are expected to enroll in the club this year, with many interest groups available for two age groups.

The club meets once each month.

Surcharge to be Added To City Utility Bills

In a called session of Santa Anna City Council Monday night, a $5 per month surcharge on city water and sanitation bills was approved and will be included on the November billing. The charge was proposed at the town meeting last week as a method of raising additional funds for the City.

Water bills of city residents will also be increased with the October billing, a result of a price hike in water purchased from Brown County Water Improvement District at Lake Brownwood. The increase will add approximately $2.50 to the bills of city residents.

The additional funds from the surcharge are expected to bring about $3,000 per month into the city account, and the water rate increase will offset the increase in water costs for the City. The financial problems of the City are expected to be eased and debts retired within a year with the additional revenue.

The City of Santa Anna has a garbage truck in service at the current time, in operation under a lease arrangement. Purchase of the vehicle, replacing the old truck that could not be repaired, must be by sealed bids, and that action is expected to be taken by City Council at their next meeting.

At the Monday night meeting, the 1981 tax rate was set at $1.22 per $100 valuation. The rate is a three-percent increase over the 1980 rate, according to City Secretary Pat Rutherford.

Famed Iwo Jima Statue Moving To Harlingen Site

A convoy of Texas trucks will transport the original sculpture of the famous flag-raising by U. S. Marines on Iwo Jima in World War II from the studio of its creator in Newport, Rhode Island to the Marine Military Academy in Harlingen. The convoy, comprising trucks from eight member companies of the Texas Motor Transportation Association, will begin the five-day move October 6.

Dr. Felix DeWeldon, who created the six-story, 130-ton sculpture, has donated it to the Marine Academy, the world's only college-preparatory school offering military leadership training based on the customs and traditions of the U. S. Marine Corps. The well-known bronze statue of the Iwo Jima flag-raising at Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D. C. was cast from this original plaster and concrete work, which currently is in crated pieces in Dr. DeWeldon's studio.

The 2,200-mile movement of the 78 crates will involve nine flatbed trailer rigs and a low boy trailer unit that will transport a crane.

The transportation is being provided free of charge to the academy.

Firms providing trucks for the convoy are selecting drivers for the project on the basis of safety records and experience.

The convoy is expected to arrive October 9 in Dallas where ceremonies welcoming it to Texas will be conducted. The convoy will reach its Rio Grande Valley destination on October 10.

Reassembly of the statue, which will be done under Dr. DeWeldon's supervision and is expected to take four months. Reconstruction is scheduled for completion for a dedication date February 19, 1982, the 37th anniversary date of the Iwo Jima flag-raising.

Bless This Mess

By Billie Wheatley

The things people will do behind your back! A secret dropped now and then I can live with, but selling my garbage disposal has got to be the meanest trick in the book!

Granted, after ten years of use, the warranty had run out, and she was a little temperamental, but she was dependable and I loved her appetite dearly. She took care of a world of sins from my kitchen.

Rumor has it that removal wasn't easy, for which I give thanks. I could have guaranteed that she wouldn't want to go. She knew a good deal when she tasted it.

I had a lot of time invested in training that old cow, and besides, friendship can't be measured dollar wise. She's seen me through some kitchen disasters you wouldn't believe, much less recognize.

Some foods you can salvage when they flop. If the cake looks like an elephant stepped in it, you simply fill up the hole with gooey icing and the family goes wild thinking you did it that way on purpose.

If the rolls refuse to rise, you just drown them in butter, sprinkle five pounds of cinnamon and sugar over them, fan the fumes into the living room and get out of the way.

But - in a quarter century of cooking, I still haven't learned how to serve burned beans and black potatoes without them tasting like something that started out as a disaster and gradually got worse.

That's where Old Pet came in.

Unlike some folks I know, she would eat anything. We had an agreement. At the first hint of smoke, she would make a bee-line for the back yard gate and stand there drooling up her appetite to the point she would eat anything I asked of her.

In return, I kept her secret and never once told the boys why her milk sometimes gave them hic-cups.

Old friendships are not easily forgotten, and nobody knows how I miss her, especially on the days I try again to cook lima beans.

During my cooking career I'll bet I've spent fifty dollars buying butter beans and as of this date I've never made it to the table with as much as a tablespoon full that didn't taste scorched.

I can tell you one thing. For six months after Pet departed I steered clear of the hamburger section at the store. I may have my faults, but buying back an old friend of mine a pound at a time is not one of them!

The pessimist would be happy to "have a good day," if he could only find one.

His Gifts Are To Stablish and Strengthen Us

But the Lord of all grace, who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you. 1 Peter 5:10.

Blessed is the soul who can say, 'I am guilty before God: but Jesus is my Advocate. I have transgressed His law. I cannot save myself; but I make the precious blood that was shed on Calvary all my plea. I am lost in Adam, but restored in Christ. God, who so loved the world as to give His only begotten Son to die, will not leave me to perish while repentant and in contrition of soul. He will not look upon me, for I am all unworthy; but He will look upon the face of His Anointed, He will look upon my Substitute and Surety, and listen to the plea of my Advocate, who died for my sin, that I might be made the righteousness of God in Him. By beholding Him I shall be changed into His image. I cannot change my own character, save by partaking of the grace of Him who is all goodness, righteousness, mercy and truth. But by beholding Him, I shall catch His spirit, and be transformed into His likeness.... The heart that is filled with the grace of Christ will be made manifest by its peace and joy; and where Christ abides, the character will become purified, elevated, ennobled and glorified.

The Creator of all worlds proposes to love those who believe in His only-begotten Son as their personal Savior, even as He loves His Son. Even here and now His gracious favor is bestowed upon us to this marvelous extent. He has given to men the gift of the Light and Majesty of heaven, and with Him He has bestowed all the treasures of heaven. Much as He has promised us for the life to come, He also bestows princely gifts upon us in this life, and as subjects of His grace, He would have us enjoy everything that will ennoble, expand and elevate our characters.

The Lord has in readiness the most precious exhibitions of His grace to strengthen and encourage.

Biofeedback Techniques Used At University

HOUSTON--A middle-aged man from East Texas lies on a floor pad in a Baylor College of Medicine clinic and concentrates in a matter of minutes, the sharp pain in his back that has plagued him for years recedes.

The technique, used at Baylor's Pain Control and Biofeedback Clinic, is known as biofeedback and is being used increasingly by physicians to teach patients to "think" their pain away instead of relying on drugs or surgery.

Patients are referred to the Baylor clinic from throughout the state to learn the process, although clinic costs are high and physician caution that it is not for everyone who suffers from chronic pain. In combination with other treatment though, biofeedback does work for more than 60 percent of those admitted to the Baylor clinic.

Patients' charges may run as high as $2,250, but many who come to the clinic may have already spent several times that amount trying to relieve their pain.

Biofeedback is a technique in which patients concentrate on controlling body functions such as blood pressure or skin temperature. As patients reach certain levels of biological control, monitoring equipment "feeds back" the results.

Patients are taught to gain control over pain with biofeedback training. They learn to reduce pain by raising their skin temperature and lowering sweat gland activity.

The typical patient seen in the clinic has chronic back pain usually caused by accidental injury or surgery. The patient has probably suffered from the pain for several years, cannot work and has been to numerous physicians.

"Pain may convert a previously productive person into an individual whose energy is spent contemplating his or her tragedy. The person becomes a chronic complainer, withdraws into himself, anxiously awaits the next pill and involves family and friends in his misery," said H. Martin Blacker, M.D., director of the Baylor Pain Control and Biofeed-back Clinic.

Patients enter the Baylor clinic after medical and psychological evaluation to determine the treatment to be used.

Treatment may involve physical therapy that teaches patients to train their bodies to diminish pain signals.

Electrical nerve stimulation also helps some patients. "The stimulation causes a tingling sensation, which sends soothing signals to the brain that compete with and tend to override pain signals," Blacker explained.

Because emotional problems often accompany chronic pain, Blacker uses the psychological evaluation to determine how well patients will respond to the therapy.

"We try to avoid taking 'losers'--people who want to continue to use their pain for financial benefit or to manipulate family and friends and are not willing to apply the techniques we teach them," he said.

Psychological counseling for clinic patients is also provided to help them with the depression, irritability and damaged personal relationships associated with chronic pain.

Patients in the Baylor clinic spend 12 days learning biofeedback techniques and undergoing treatment. For the next three months, they practice three hours a day; then an hour and twenty minutes each day.

The various techniques used in the Baylor clinic are designed to come together to help patients raise their pain tolerance level, Blacker said. But the key to the success of this clinic is not what is taught the patients, but how well they apply what is learned to controlling their pain.

ARE YOU ALWAYS TIRED?
 Real fatigue is brought about by strenuous exercise, hard labor or by illness. Chronic fatigue is usually caused by boredom.

EXAMINE YOUR ROUTINE.
 How do you spend your time? Are you always planning to do things but never get around to them? Do you really want to do these things?

AVOID LONELINESS.
 Don't spend too much time with yourself. Being alone sometimes is good for the soul but don't overdo it. Take an interest in other people. It can help you to not concentrate on yourself.

PLAN FOR SOMETHING PLEASANT.
 Anticipation is one of the great pleasures of life. Plan for something interesting to do when you are finished working.

AVOID EXCESSIVE REST.
 Bored, always tired people try to "rest up." If there is no real illness extra rest will not stop fatigue.

HAVE A PHYSICAL EXAMINATION.
 The odds are that no serious physical disorder will turn up. But the examination will reassure you and help. For those cases where a vitamin supplement or a tonic is called for, we carry a complete stock.

Enjoy that bacon in moderation

HOUSTON, TX. — Have you ever wondered what gives ham or bacon that tasty, cured flavor? Nitrates or nitrites, forms of salt, have been used for years to preserve food and add extra flavor.

But studies have shown that when nitrates and nitrites combine with certain other compounds in food, they can form nitrosamines, substances which have caused cancer in laboratory animals.

Should you give up smoked foods completely?

"Not if you enjoy them," says Dr. Guy R. Newell, director of cancer prevention programs at The University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute. "About 95 percent of nitrates come from naturally ingested foods, and nitrates, per se, have not been shown to cause cancer."

Children learn stereotypes early, says child expert

STEPHENVILLE — Using "non-sexist" story books with preschool youngsters apparently changes the teachers' attitudes toward stereotypes faster than the kids', says a Tarleton State University child development expert.

"Teacher attitudes changed significantly with training, but children's did not in the four-week observation period," said Dr. Dolly Thiem, head of home economics at Tarleton State, part of the Texas A&M University System.

The study underscored the theory that prekindergarten children had already developed ideas of roles based on gender.

Thiem said they probably received these much earlier from family attitudes, other story books, television and perhaps even from images in the news media.

Trickham News

By Mrs. Oscar Boenicke

Rev. Swanner, the Baptist minister, will preach next Sunday morning at 11 a.m. at Trickham Union Church.

Rankin and Natalie McIver had dinner with me last Sunday and later in the evening I visited Walter and Carrie Stacy. Before I started home I walked across the yard and liked to have stepped on a rattlesnake -- a big one -- and it got away and we did not get to kill it. So people had better look out for them now.

Joe Stacy visited Walter Stacy Sunday evening, and Estell Fellers visited Carrie Thursday evening.

Ilene Haynes and Lou Vaughn and Oma Lee Dockery went to Cherokee to visit Flora Bowden and family Sunday and they had dinner together.

Saturday the Haynes family came and put flowers on their mother's grave, Aunt Ruby Haynes. Her birthday was September 26, and she would have been 100 years old if she were living. All her children came, Mr. and Mrs. George Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lineberry, also Mrs. Verdine Haynes and Nancy Jo Dudley. They all brought their dinner and had dinner at Ilene Haynes. Oma Lee Dockery visited Ilene Saturday night.

Janie Hunter and niece Sherry Cabral of Corpus Christi returned home after spending a month with her sister and aunt, Mary Lea Mitchell.

Mary Lea spent the weekend with her daughter and family, Lea and Loyd Mock, Jennie and James at Post.

Visitors with Oma Lee Dockery last week were Ilene Haynes, Lou Vaughn, Russie James and Leona Henderson. Saturday Oma Lee attended a luncheon and meeting of the Porcelain Arts Guild at Adams Street Community Center at Brownwood.

Mary Lou Storm and daughter-in-law, Patricka Storm and baby (she is Loyd Storm's wife) from Alaska visited the Bernice McIvers Monday evening.

Visitors with Florence Stearns last week were Carrie Stacy, Nancy Jo Dudley and her mother, Verdine Haynes, and G. K. Stearns.

Two of the ladies of our community helped with the Coleman Fair Saturday. They were Russie James and Lou Vaughn, who had charge of the quilt booth. Sure lots of pretty quilts there this year, and other pretty things too.

Natalie McIver and myself and others from the community went, and others were Leona Henderson, Becky Martin, and maybe others I did not see.

Doyle McIver and Wilbur Jost of Wall had supper Wednesday night with Grady and Genia McIver. Sunday evening Grady and Genia went and visited with Flora and Gordon Monsey at Mozelle.

Saturday Ilene Haynes brought Sug and G. K. Stearns a birthday cake. G. K. and Sug went Sunday and spent the day with their son and family, Dortha and Sherman Stearns, Clint and Sabrina at McGregor. They fixed a birthday dinner for them.

Lyndall Moore spent Friday night with Russie James, and Sunday Russie had dinner with the Roy Mathews at Bangs and visited several friends in the afternoon.

Stafford Stephens, 66, of Bangs died Monday morning in Brownwood Regional Hospital after a long illness. His funeral was in Bangs. First Baptist Church and burial in Bangs Cemetery. He and his wife, Mamie, lived in our community years back, and he will sure be missed.

Survivors are his wife; two daughters, Betty Lee Sharp and Wanda June Weatherman; and one son, Odis Wade Stephens; and eight grandchildren and other kin and a host of friend.

Zonell and Bill Hultz of Garland visited her parents, the Joe Stacys, over the weekend. Their three sons are in college going to school.

We are having some clear dry weather. We need rain again.

Hartman Family Has Reunion During Weekend

The I. E. Hartman family reunion was held at Hords Creek Lake near Coleman September 26 and 27. The group enjoyed swimming, singing, games of forty-two, picture taking and visiting during the weekend.

Saturday night the family members enjoyed a grilled steak supper, and a covered dish meal was served for the group Sunday at noon.

Those attending the reunion were Mrs. I. E. Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Loy Blansett and Russell of Midland; J. B. Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hough, Joseph and Rachel of Odessa; Sandra Walker, Scotty and Stacy, Daryl and Cindy Boyle, Matthew and Shannon of Bangs; Eddie, Mary Ann Hartman, Mike and James, Stanley Hartman, Robin and Stephanie, Ronnie and Leanna Hartman, Jeremy and Jeffrey, Edd and Ruby Hartman, all of Santa Anna.

Important Changes Made In Medicare Insurance

Several important changes have been made in Medicare health insurance protection by a recently enacted law, Priscilla Tercero, Social Security branch manager in Brownwood, said recently.

Changes were made in both parts of Medicare -- hospital insurance, which helps pay for inpatient hospital care and certain kinds of post-hospital care, and medical insurance, which helps pay for physicians services and other medical services and supplies not covered by hospital insurance.

Changes made in hospital insurance include:

- Per-day amounts paid by patients will be based on the hospital insurance deductible in effect during the calendar year the services are received, rather than the year the benefit period began. This provision is effective for hospital services and extended care services received in 1982 and later.

- The law raises the base amount used to determine the hospital insurance deductible from $40 to $45, the first change since the Medicare program began in 1966. As a result, future deductibles will bear a more accurate relationship to the actual costs of care. This provision is effective starting with 1982.

- The medical insurance annual deductible will be raised to $75, from $60, starting in 1982.

- Under the old law, any medical expenses incurred during the last three months of a year which counted toward that years medical insurance annual deductible also counted toward the following years deductible -- the 'carryover rule.' This carryover rule has been eliminated. Starting with 1982, the annual deductible will have to be met each year without regard to the previous years expenses.

- General enrollment period. Under the law in effect before 1981, a person who did not sign up for medical insurance at his or her first opportunity, could enroll only during a general enrollment period, the first three months of each year. Since March 1981, a person could enroll at any time. The new law returns to the way things were before 1981; there will be a general enrollment period the first three months of each year.

- More information about these changes and the changes made in Social Security cash benefits can be obtained at the Brownwood Social Security office, 300 North Mail Building. The telephone number is 646-7533.

A representative of the Brownwood office visits Santa Anna once a month on the second Thursday from 1 - 2:30 p.m., officing at Mountain City Center.

The heat pump

"THE ELECTRIC SAVINGS MACHINE"

Stretch your energy dollars—install an energy-efficient electric heat pump

A heating system that's more than 200% efficient may seem like something out of the future. But it isn't. It's yours today, with the electric heat pump. Because when correctly installed in a properly insulated home, the heat pump produces two units of heat for each single unit of electricity it uses. It transfers heat that's always present in sun-warmed outside air into your home during the winter. And reverses the process, pumping heat outdoors during the summer.

Country Living Rated No Healthier Than City

COLLEGE STATION— Is country living really more healthful than city dwelling?

Many Texans believe that country living is a healthier way of life -- both mentally and physically -- as compared to urban living.

Not necessarily so, says Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, a health education specialist on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Rural communities are often considered to have cleaner air and water, fresher meats, produce and dairy products, a higher value system among 'good ole country folks' and a generally better environment. On the other hand, the specialist said, city dwellers have assumed that their way of life breeds stress and tension -- and mental-health experts have tended to agree.

However more and more evidence has begun to show that the health of city dwellers is as good -- or possibly better on some counts -- than that of country folks, the specialist says.

Here are a few facts concerning the health of country living in Texas -- while some rural residents still hold a better record than city dwellers on some things, the problem topics involve a sizable number of rural residents, Shirer says:

1. Rural living produces drug abuse, child abuse, wife beating and teenage pregnancy just as frequently as urban living.

2. Certain diseases often are more prevalent in rural communities, including TB, cerebrovascular disease, pneumonia, influenza, strep throat and scarlet fever, along with food poisoning, diarrhea, hepatitis and rabies.

3. Of all the suicides in Texas, 17 percent were in rural communities.

4. Generally, youths in rural communities report earlier experience with drugs than youths in urban communities.

5. Rural youths also have been shown to be more likely to deal drugs for money than urban youth. 6. In 1979, there were fewer deaths of infants less than one year old in Texas urban communities than in rural communities.

7. Of all the births to mothers between ages 15 and 20 in 1979, 21 percent were reported in Texas rural communities.

8. In health-service availability, as of 1980, there was one physician for every 1,413 rural residents -- as compared with one for every 578 urban residents.

9. Also in rural areas, there was one dentist for every 3,384 people -- as compared to one dentist for every 2,231 people in urban areas.

Former S-Anna Businessman Writes of Early-day Coleman

The following article was written by the late Ed K. Jones in recent years. The former Santa Anna merchant, who died in 1979, operated produce businesses at Coleman, Valera and Santa Anna for 23 years, moving to Santa Anna from Coleman in 1920.

I was born in Richland, Texas, Navarro County in 1898. My parents were J. S. and Minnie Jones. We came to Coleman in 1908. My father said it was a good place to live and to rear a family. At that time there were seven children in the family with three more coming later, making a big family, seven sons and three daughters.

My father was a blacksmith and was hired to shoe the mules for the railroad. They were extending their service toward Sweetwater. The main line of Santa Fe went to San Angelo. The Y was called Coleman Cutoff by some, Sweetwater Cutoff by others. Trains took water there for the steam engines.

The dirt moving was done by mule-drawn scrapers, handled by men called skimmers. The work was hard, and a day's work was from sun to sun by men and mules. Those mules wore out lots of shoes, and even lost some.

Men and boys, and even girls wore out their shoes and had them half-soled by the shoe cobbler, Mr. Ewing. Every home had a shoe last, and light shoe repair was done at home.

While I am on the subject of railroad, there was a terrible explosion and many were injured and some killed (near Novice).

My older brother Sam, was working for Stevens and helped some, so he told us all about it. Coleman was a busy place.

The reason I am able to remember so much about Coleman businessmen, I was the first messenger boy for the Western Union, and since there were only a scattering of telephones, business was transacted by telegram. I delivered and many times was asked to wait and I would carry back an answer to the message I delivered. Would be surprised at some peoples questions as it they thought I read the messages! Mr. Minor was the telegraph operator.

Mrs. Martha Overall gave me my first tip, and was I happy! I rode my bicycle if it was not muddy. There were no pavements, and I believe it rained more those days because I pushed my bike lots of miles, or so it seemed.

The blacksmith shop where my father worked was owned by a Mr. Byers. It was located where the High Rise apartments are now. The Nymans operated a hotel north of the shop. Clean bedrooms upstairs were a God send to many weary salesmen and travelers. Entrance was gained by the outside staircase (still visible.) The dining room was downstairs where good meals awaited. That building was later used by Vernon Thames' hamburger house.

Bill and Ed Rose operated a livery stable, keeping good horses and conveyances for hire as well as meeting the trains and rendering service to the traveling men with their heavy trunks filled with merchandise to show and hopefully to sell to merchants. I will name a few -- Newsom, B. A. Pessels, Tom Garrett, L. Litt and Mr. Nance.

I believe Mr. L. C. Collins was spoken of as a banker. Prominent ranch folk were Joe Morris and J. C. Dibrell and a Mr. Knox. My father did some work for Mr. Dibrell later on. I recall Mr. J. O. Woodward as a big lawyer.

Judge Bowen was a familiar figure around the drug store run by his sons, Robert and Joe.

Bill Futch was the Sheriff. His crossbar hotel was in the same place as it is now, back of the courthouse.

F. C. Behrend operated a banana store on the north side of the jail. Freight cars bringing in loads of fruit packed in straw furnished bananas galore after the stalks of fresh fruit were unloaded. That was a real treat for boys. Fruit was not bought only at Christmas time and not in every home then.

B. C. Howell opened a theatre, with a brass band out front to attract people.

Since horses furnished transportation, there was a need for saddles, and Mr. Nance furnished at least one for each family of riders.

George Garrett had a three-chair barber shop where the men could get a haircut, maybe a shine and shave, and for an extra quarter a tub bath in the back. Water was not too plentiful, but everyone had wells, cisterns or sleds with barrels of water outside, and windmills were being bought one or two a day.

Derrick Lumber Co. was on South Commercial with Mr. Edgerton as a good carpenter. Sam Henderson was a land agent and bought cattle.

Where the Shopping Basket is now, a Mr. Hemphill had a meat market. His meat cutter was Mr. Schick. He delivered by mule cart.

The tailor shop was known as Blackshire Tailors.

When men dressed up they wore stiff front white shirts, laundered well by a Chinaman named Sam Sing. He sprinkled from his mouth, and when the shirts were ready to be delivered, he put them in a basket on his head and walked to town and got his money. He also made a very good praline that cost a nickel, and boys worked hard to get one. Sam lived on the creek across from the City Park.

I remember a few cars. Mr. M. T. White had a Regal that impressed me. There were two 1904 Cadillacs, one 1905 Buick and a 1904 Lanchester. They all had to be cranked. So a few injuries happened before they started. It would create quite a laugh to see a rear wheel jacked up sometimes. What part that played, I do not know, but it was done in the starting process.

We had to make our fun and games. We pitched horseshoes, played ball, even marbles at the ball park in the field south of the City Park. Riding horses was fun, too, but Archie Allen broke horses out there, so we had to scamper.

Peddlers came around with almost everything. Fresh meat, especially, also milk in big cans. The housewife could dip out any amount she wanted or could pay for -- no inspectors, just white cloth coverings.

A Mr. Paddleford had a store filled of implements. Grant Lewis was the first bottled drink man.

Madge was the name of a lady who lived in the northeast county. She had a telephone and anyone having a message for anyone there could get it delivered to the four winds from Madge. Telephone, telegram or telawoman is good communication.

Schools and churches were what a growing community could afford, but summers brought the meetings out of doors. No air conditioning except God's. Some local boys would leave town figuring they could see the world, but before long they returned, feeling home was not so bad after all.

Mrs. Rockmore had some nice rooms and well-served meals, too. Her beds looked so inviting with white counterpane and big bolsters.

Arbuckle was the highly advertised coffee.

R. J. R. Tobacco which boys called Run Johnny Run, on the sly. An officer told us if God had intended our nose to be smoke stacks, He would have turned them straight up!

Mr. Wade was the newspaper man. Rush Jonigan was an officer well remembered by many.

In 1911 I was working with Coleman Graves on the Dibrell place and a rattlesnake struck me on a finger. Mr. Graves took me to the house where Grandmother Graves got a big can and put soda in it with kerosene to cover my hand. She told me to keep it covered til I got to the doctor. There was a doctor Manes, but Dr. Beaumont looked at at and said, 'look at the poison on top of the kerosene.' I had proud flesh in my finger for nine months, no trouble, but a crooked finger which has kept me from having to milk all these years.

Son of Santa Anna Man Injured in Monday Mishap

A former Santa Anna resident, Douglas Tucker, 17, of Merkel, is in intensive care at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene after being in an accident near Merkel Monday afternoon. Tucker, a senior at Merkel High School, was driving a pickup truck and pulling a trailer of anhydrous ammonia fertilizer when his vehicle was in collision with a pickup pulling a trailer of cattle. The valve on the nonflammable but deadly chemical tank was broken in the impact and the toxic fumes leaked from the tank.

Both Tucker and Javier Valdez, driver of the other vehicle, were able to get from the wreckage and sought help from a resident at a nearby house. Both were hospitalized in serious condition.

All six of the cattle in the trailer died from the toxic fumes. The two men are being treated for lung burns. The man who assisted the two at the scene was treated and released from the hospital.

Tucker is the son of Bill Tucker of Santa Anna and Rita Cowin of Merkel. He has an after-school job with a local rancher and was apparently moving the farm fertilizer to a different site when the accident occurred.

According to Jeanette Brock, the paternal grandmother of the young man, he was resting comfortably Tuesday, but tests will be made today to determine damage to his lungs.

Coleman Church Local Residents Sets Fall Event

The Sacred Heart Catholic Church of Coleman will hold the annual parish festival Saturday, October 10, at Coleman National Guard Armory.

Festivities will begin at 11 a.m. with a Mexican lunch served, and events and games continuing during the day for children and adults.

A Mexican supper will be served from 5:30 - 8 p.m., and a dance starting at 9 p.m. will have music by the Sierra Lights band.

Proceeds from the festival will be used for the building fund for a new parish hall and education building. All area residents are invited to attend.

Attend Austin Game

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bengé and their daughter, Corine Eubank and Jana of Abilene, and Ray Jones of Coleman were in Austin Saturday to attend the homecoming activities at the Texas School for the Deaf. The Bengés' grandson, Larry Willis, is a freshman at the high school and quarterback of the football team.

Larry is the son of Don and Lanita Bozeman of New Caney.

The local people especially enjoyed seeing the activities, including halftime ceremonies and crowning of the queen, in sign language.

Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bozeman.

OFF TO COLLEGE

Robert Key, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Key, is back at Southwest Texas State University where he is a senior math major. He is currently student teaching at a high school in New Braunfels in physics and math.

FRIENDS VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Burton, Belinda and Betina of Iraan, came to Santa Anna Friday, and the family visited Mrs. W. B. Griffin. They all went to San Angelo to enjoy fishing and on Saturday attended a track meet at Angelo State University where the Burton's older daughter, Beth, was participating with the Abilene Christian University Women's track team.

JETS Group Enjoys Weekend Trip
