Mountain Echoes

By Barbara
Kingsbery

A phase of Santa Anna history is coming to an end this week as another downtown business -- Hosch Furniture Store -- closes its doors.

That's one less business in our block -- with only the NEWS office and Getty Oil Co. office the only two fulltime occupants, along with the Lions Club building and some buildings used for storage.

The decline of small towns is one of the problems of our time, but I regret that it is happening to us.

Those of us who live in our community are first to recognize the benefits of small-town life, and we should encourage others to come to our town and be a part of the "good life."

Happy New Year to all of you! Thanks to the many patrons and friends who support our hometown newspaper through advertising and news. We appreciate all of you very much.

The children, Barbara, 13, Scott, 11, and Judy, nine, contribute to the concert both vocally and instrumentally by playing the violins, piano, organ, accordion and melodicas. They provide their own keyboard accompaniment as well as having taped ensemble and orchestral background music.

The Carpenters have traveled extensively during the last six years, appearing in concert throughout the country.

John Stanislaw, pastor of the church, extends a cordial invitation to all members of the community, stressing that the program will appeal to the entire family.

Hosch Furniture Closing After Over Half-Century

After 53 years in business in Santa Anna, Hosch Furniture Company is closing its doors this week. The merchandise has been closed out during the past six months in preparation for the closing.

The business has been in the present location since before the late R. W. Hosch purchased interest in the business in 1928.

The original business was established in 1877 and located in "The Gap" with other early-day businesses that paralleled the old Military Road from north to south. Grady and Rufus Adams were early owners of the business, and later the late S. W. Childers purchased an interest. It was operated as Adams Mercantile Co. until 1929 when Roscoe, Pat and Norman Hosch bought out the Adams interest in the business.

The Hosch businesses included the furniture store, a grocery store and funeral home. The funeral home was sold to Donnie Henderson in recent years, and the grocery business closed in the mid-1970s. In 1978 Patrick Hosch bought the interest of Norman and Roscoe Hosch and

Dwight Eppler Certified As Master Scuba Diver

Captain Dwight Eppler, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Eppler of Rockwood, was recently certified as a Master Scuba Diver by the Professional Association of Diving Instructors after successfully completing a series of specialty courses. He is only the third diver ever certified as a Master Diver in the state of Arizona, where he lives at Fort Huachuca.

In order to complete the requirements for the Master Diver rating, Dwight completed classroom training and open water testing in Rescue Diving, Search and Recovery Diving, Night Diving, Underwater Hunting and Collecting, and Equipment Specialist courses. He has concentrated his efforts in the Search and Recovery field over the past two years and was recently named as the Operations Officer of the Cochise County Search and Recovery Team. Dwight has participated in the recovery of drowning victims in Arizona and Mexico with the team, serving both as a diver and assistant mission planner.

His wife, Debbie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David McReynolds and Milene, started her training as a scuba diver in October by completing the requirements of Basic Scuba Diver and Open Water Diver. Although she hasn't decided whether to try to catch up with Dwight and work toward Master Diver, she intends to continue diving.

A BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF A FARMER

It has been so long since we have had enough moisture in the ground to plow decent, the farmer has come close to losing his identity.

According to Mr. Webster, a farmer is a person who farms, especially one who cultivates the ground. A farm is a piece of land used for raising crops or animals.

Now, everybody knows the farmer raises animals in order to have something to do when it's too dry to cultivate the soil, and they come in handy to eat all the hay and other feed he fills his barns with in the summer. Also, they make it possible for him to mend fences.

Farmers are easy to identify. They wear blue jeans or overalls, according to preference, boots or heavy shoes, cowboy hats to turn the sun, or sometime the nice caps their seed dealer gives them. Some of them chew tobacco.

They are a talented lot. Out of necessity they have become carpenters, plumbers, painters, mechanics, welders, fence builders, trappers, electricians, and some work in the oil patch. They are honest, hard-working fellows who put in long hours, and when not at work can be found in various places like the coffee shop, at the cross roads discussing the dry weather with a friend, asleep in front of the T.V. and on Sunday in church with his family. Should you lose one, don't worry, come Wednesday, he'll show up at the cattle auction.

Farmers are men of many moods. When moisture is ample and grass is plentiful, their cup runneth over, and each new baby calf or lamb is a welcome blessing. When moisture is nonexistent and grass hard to come by, they have been heard to mumble, "just another mouth to feed."

These fellows tend to spoil easily when they plow. If you don't believe me, just take cookies and milk to the field at mid-morning and mid-afternoon for three days in a row, and then skip a day.

I think the trait I like the most in these boys is their toughness. I asked one about the tufts of grass that were left untouched in his fresh-plowed field. "Oh, that's where I lifted the plow over a bird's nest," he said. What's a bird? Oh, that's his friend who sits in the tree by his shop and sings, "I love you."

Good Hunting Season For Deer and Turkey

Austin -- Deer and turkey hunters appear to be enjoying an outstanding season in the state's traditional hunting areas.

In most Texas counties, the deer and turkey hunting seasons run concurrently. This year the seasons started November 14 and will continue through January 3 in most areas.

Horace Gore, deer program leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department said the deer harvest, which was below average last hunting season at an estimated 260,000 animals, should rebound. "This looks like one of the best years we've had in quite a while for deer, and turkey populations are as high as I have seen them in 15 years," Gore said.

The Edwards Plateau, popularly called the Hill Country, is where a majority of white-tailed deer are taken each year. Hunters' success so far has been outstanding in that region, according to biologists.

I has been good in terms of both numbers of deer harvested and in body condition and antler development. Hunters have had little trouble in finding deer this season.

Hunters planning to participate in the spring turkey gobbler hunts in April can expect to see plenty of birds, due to the outstanding hatch last spring, Gore said.

Gore said the outstanding year for hunting was the result of adequate rains which began in late winter 1981 and continued with remarkable regularity through the summer months over most of the state.

Years Ago In The News

The following stories are from the April 24, 1925 issue of the news;

Wednesday morning between 3:30 and 4 o'clock, City Marshal J. M. Martin arrested two young lads, 12 and 11, from Stephenville and captured a Hudson Super Six Automobile, which the boys had stolen Tuesday night in Stephenville, and were making their get-away.

Mr. Martin was notified by Brownwood officers to be on the lookout for the boys and the car, and was successful in his plan to get them. The boys and car were carried back to Brownwood where Erath county authorities and the parents of the boys were notified.

When arrested the boys had between them 63 cents in cash, and were just about out of gas. They said they had stolen the car and were going to steal their way to the state of California, where they expected to go into the movie business.

Dr. T. Richard Sealy, physician and surgeon in charge of the Santa Anna Hospital, went to San Antonio last week in response to an urgent request from the Bexar County Medical Society and read a paper before the society. This is what we call a distinction, for a physician to be called from a town the size of Santa Anna, to a city like San Antonio to take a leading part in such an important meeting as was held by the Bexar County annual meeting for the purpose of augmenting their knowledge and capacity for service. Burgess Weaver accompanied the Doctor on the trip.

The Pansy Embroidery Club met with Mary Harriet Simpson. There was a good attendance of girls who are learning to do nice work. They have received some new members lately. Nice refreshments were served.

A. L. Oder preached at Long View school house Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Oder, Velma Oder and Miss Eatha Waldrip accompanied him.

The Mothers Club or Child Study Club met Wednesday afternoon of last week with Mrs. Stafford Baxter. An interesting program was carried out as arranged. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Bond.

FROM THE OLD TOWN OF TRICKHAM

Trickham is still here, and its people are enjoying plenty of sunshine and free air. We haven't time to take the blues over the dry weather. Health in general is fine. Ball games are in great demand. Had about 5 the past week. Our school has a new ruling that has gone into effect. They now open school early in the morning and close at 3 in the afternoon which gives the teachers and children so much more time to attend these athletic games. On Saturday afternoon last, Trickham played Howard Payne of Brownwood on the Trickham diamond, finished 7 to 1 in favor of Trickham. Some of our boys want to go and hunt Babe Ruth and his bunch and take them to a cleaning.

Prof. Pearson has a new Ford Coupe. Wonder who will be next?

Miss Minnie Laughlin has been assisting in the post office the past week.

We understand all the vacant seats around the domino parlor have been leased by visitors for six months in advance, or until it rains.

Our water supply is getting very bad, but see no prospects of it getting better.

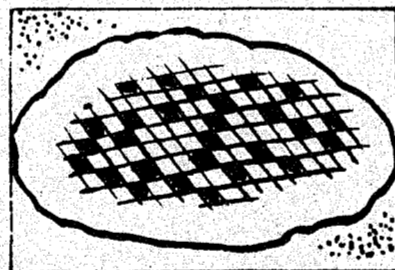

The Presbyterian meeting conducted by Bro. Pleasant of Santa Anna was well attended and he did some fine preaching, but we really believe the attraction on the school ground drew the largest crowds.

JANUARY 1982

IT IS POSSIBLE TO AVOID A COLD.
Colds are more easily caught from others as soon as their distress symptoms appear. The odds are that you will catch a cold if you come in direct contact with a cold sufferer. Therefore isolate, as much as possible, any member of the family who has one.

INCREASE YOUR RESISTANCE TO COLDS.
Cold resistance is lowered by poor nutrition, tension and fatigue. Normally your body can usually overcome the virus which probably causes a cold. But lack of rest, accompanied by exposing yourself without proper clothes is an invitation to a cold. Adults must also be very careful for they are more susceptible to colds than infants.

INFLUENZA IS MORE SERIOUS THAN A COLD.
The early symptoms of both may seem the same. But, if the distress which accompanies a cold is not relieved in about five days, it is wise to no longer delay a visit to your physician. Complications may have developed, or possibly influenza.

COLD TREATMENT IS TO RELIEVE DISTRESS.
Rest and warm surroundings help. Temperature should be checked and if it stays too high a physician is needed. Vaporizers can keep sinuses open. Cough medicines and analgesics are helpful.

DEPEND ON OUR COMPLETE STOCK.
Whatever medicine, health-aid or sickroom need you require; we have it. Should you wish our professional guidance when selecting helpful products to relieve cold distress we will be glad to assist you. And, should we suggest it would be wiser to consult a physician instead of using a home treatment, it will be because we consider your better health to be more important than any immediate sale.

Figures Are Announced For 1982 S-Security Base

The annual earnings base -- the maximum amount of annual earnings that counts for Social Security -- will increase to $32,400 for 1982, up from $29,700, the 1981 base, Priscilla Tercero, Social Security branch manager in Brownwood, said recently.

The increase is based on the change in average earnings levels from 1980 to 1981.

Also scheduled to increase in 1982 is the Social Security tax rate, Tercero said. The 1982 tax rate will be 6.7 percent, an increase of 0.05 percent over the 1981 rate of 6.65 percent. The increase will amount of just over 50 cents a month for a person earning $1,000 a month.

Other Social Security figures are scheduled to increase in 1982 as well. The annual exempt amount used in the annual earnings test will increase. The annual earnings test is the measure used to determine whether a person will receive benefits during a year. A person whose earnings do not exceed the annual exempt amount will receive all benefits due for the year. A person's benefits are reduced $1 for each $2 of earnings above the exempt amount.

In 1982, the annual exempt amount for people 65 - 72 will be $6,000. For people under 65 all of 1982, the exempt amount will be $4,440.

There is also some important news concerning the age at which the earnings test no longer applies, Tercero said. Under the law in effect before 1981 the age at which the earnings test no longer applies is scheduled to drop from 72 to 70 in 1982. A law delayed the change -- to 1983.

More information about Social Security taxes and benefits can be obtained at the Brownwood Social Security office, located at 300 North Main. The telephone number is 646-7533.

A representative of the Brownwood office visits Santa Anna once a month on the second Thursday from 1 - 2 p.m. The representative can be found at the Mountain City Center.

Volunteers -- Questions Asked About Their Motives

COLLEGE STATION— Why do people want to give of their spare time to help an organization or promote a cause?

"Understanding the motivation of the individual volunteer is critical to his recruitment, placement, training, on-the-job support and recognition," points out Dr. Bill Jackson of Stephenville, 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, a state agency that relies heavily on volunteers to help with informal educational programs in agriculture, home economics and community and youth development.

Although some people still base volunteerism on the philosophy that "it's better to give than to receive," many of today's volunteers have selfish motives, notes Jackson.

"In other words, they view volunteer experience as an opportunity for continuing education through in-service training or they feel the practical experience will provide them with an opportunity to try out a new career before actually deciding on that career," he points out.

Jackson also notes these reasons why people volunteer today:

1. They need a sense of belonging.
2. People profit from a sense of sharing in planning objectives and realizing that these objectives are within reach and make sense.
3. People need to feel that what they are doing has real purpose or contributes to human welfare.
4. They want to share in making the rules.
5. They need responsibilities that challenge.
6. People enjoy seeing progress made toward goals that they helped set.

A recent survey by the Bureau of Labor Statistics showed that people volunteer primarily for humanitarian reasons. Some 200 reasons were listed by volunteers as to why they give of their time and skills, and these can be grouped into five categories: a sense of duty, to help people, they enjoy volunteer work, they were asked to do volunteer work, and to gain experience, help friends and relatives with volunteer work and aid people suffering from natural disasters or other calamities.

According to Jackson, certain social changes and trend also have brought an increase in volunteer activity:

1. Increased leisure time.
2. Changing status of women, making them feel a need to accomplish and fulfill themselves outside the home.
3. Disappearance of the self-sufficient family, allowing more time to pursue other activities.
4. Many religious groups foster the need to serve.
5. Need to belong, to identify with some group or organization.
6. Desire to gain special knowledge.
7. Opportunity to put talents to work.
8. Desire to meet the expectations of others, to seek approval.

9. Desire for status and community recognition.

"So, people volunteer to help a cause or organization for a multitude of reasons. Being aware of these is important when working with volunteers so that their contributions will benefit both themselves and the organization," notes Jackson.

Precision Drilling Co. Inc. of Coleman will drill the No. 1 Dick Baugh Daughters as a planned 2,990-foot wildcat.

The site is six miles south of Santa Anna on a 436-acre lease in William Farris Survey 279, A-193.
