Burglars Apprehended

In Santa Anna Store

A number of break-ins and burglaries in Coleman County and the area are thought to be solved after two men were apprehended and arrested Monday night while burglarizing the Western Auto Store in Santa Anna. Taken into custody were Donald Floyd Kilgore, 26, and William G. Wilwant, 19.

City nightwatchman Jim Lovelady discovered the back door at Western Auto ajar as he made his regular rounds Monday night, and called owner Clint Day to come check out the store. Upon entering the store, Lovelady and Day found stacks of merchandise near the back door, and assumed the burglars were inside the building.

When the lights were turned on in the store, the two burglars were found crouching behind the counters at the front of the building. They were arrested by Lovelady and held until Deputy Sheriff Mike Bowers arrived to take the two to the Coleman Sheriff's office to be booked into County Jail.

The two were charged with two counts of burglary and each placed on $10,000 bond for each count. They remain in County Jail and will be bound over to the next District Grand Jury.

The two men, who moved to Santa Anna only a few days ago from the Stephenville area, are suspected in at least six burglaries in Coleman County, three in Erath County and one in Eastland. The house on North Lee Street where the two lived, was said to be stacked with merchandise and other items supposedly taken in the burglaries.

S-Anna Native Shot in DEA Assignment

Nightmare Episode in Colombian Jungle

The intrigue and danger of international drug enforcement officers were brought close to home last week with the report of two U. S. drug enforcement agents being wounded in Colombia.

One of the officers was Kelly Don McCullough, 39, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester McCullough of Santa Anna.

According to news reports of the incident, McCullough and Charles Martinez, 34, of Miami Florida, had been in Cartagena, Colombia, South America since February 1 on a special assignment.

According to a story in a San Antonio newspaper, the two men were abducted at gunpoint from their hotel room by five men who posed as Colombian police. The two were taken to a remote area outside town where they were shot. Martinez was shot twice, and when the assailants' gun jammed, he fled into the jungle. McCullough was shot once in the shoulder and left for dead.

Some interesting and exciting innovations are planned for The Santa Anna News during the next several months. Among the changes will be a completely new typesetting process, of which this column is a sample.

We now have in our office a mini-disk terminal on which to set type, which is then processed at the Brownwood Bulletin office. Our paste-up and production operation is still in the Bangs office, with printing in Brownwood.

As you can see, the type face is a little different, but larger and darker than our usual type, which I think our readers will like.

Then another change - to take place in a few months - will be a big one, as we will go from tabloid size to "broad sheet," the regular newspaper size the News used until about ten years ago.

In the meantime, there will be stories set in different type styles until the transition is complete.

Junior High Girls Team Wins District Title

The Santa Anna Junior High girls basketball team won the District Championship last week by defeating the Rochelle girls 22-17 in a play-off game at Perry Gymnasium Thursday night.

Dilcy Kirven led the scoring with 12 points, and Melissa Buse scored four. Those scoring two points each were Irma Castillo, Kathy Baxter and Jeanene Jones.

Other members of the team are Missy Moore, Nola Hughes, Bertha Garza, Leslie Martin, Lynn Dockery, Jackie Weathers, Melissa Stanislaw, Jetta Rutherford and Rena Chessir. Barry Miles is coach of the team.

The girls finished with a 16-5 season record and won the district title for the third consecutive year.

Coleman Native Employed In WTU Farm-Ranch Post

Kit Horne, a native of Coleman and until recently an agricultural extension agent in Burleson County, has joined West Texas Utilities Company as its Farm and Ranch Supervisor.

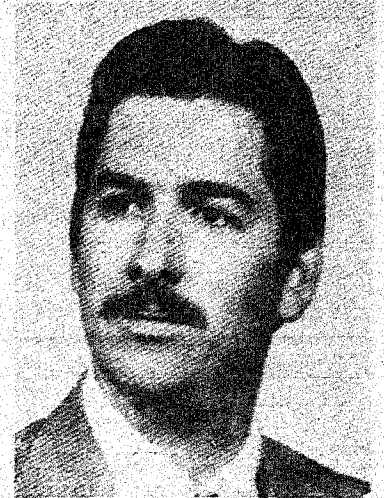

He succeeds James L. (Curly) Hays, who recently retired.

Horne holds a BS degree in agri-business from Tarleton State University and a Master's degree from Texas A&M University.

Bill Tedder, manager of WTU's Public Service Department, said much of Horne's work will involve youth activities, particularly 4-H and FFA programs through the WTU service area.

He will coordinate WTU's participation in the Texas Agri-Business Electric Council of Texas A&M, which will include sponsoring workshops for vocational agriculture teachers and others. He also will work with cattle associations, farm groups and in other civic and community programs.

Horne served as United States Ambassador in the International 4-H Youth Exchange in Norway in 1976. He later was with the First National Bank in Brownwood before joining the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in 1977. He then served as an extension agent in Brown County before taking leave to complete his graduate studies, and later became extension agent at Caldwell, in Burleson County.

His activities have included 11 years of 4-H Club work, membership in the Tarleton State Rodeo Club, the Coleman County Junior Rodeo Association, the Texas and National Association of Extension 4-H Agents.

His wife is the former Mindy L. Cardinas, also of Coleman.

Membership Drive Set During 'Farm Bureau Week'

During "Farm Bureau Week" February 15 - 20, the Coleman County Farm Bureau will be seeking to enroll new members, according to Victor Cardinas of Coleman, president.

The local organization is out to increase the 1981 total of 1,054 member families, Cardinas said. They are joining other counties across the state in an effort to exceed the Texas Farm Bureau's membership of 276,247 member families.

Bob Turner of Voss is county membership chairman.

The local leader said Farm Bureau represents its members in legislative and governmental activities, and provides educational programs for producers.

The Texas Farm Bureau maintains a full-time legislative staff in Austin, and the American Farm Bureau Federation has a similar staff in the nation's capitol.

Commodity activities play a major role in Farm Bureau on the state and national level. In Texas, producers are organized in ten commodity divisions - dairy, cotton, rice, beef cattle, peanuts, wheat, feed grains, soybeans, citrus and sheep and goats.

School Holidays

Slated Next Week

Santa Anna school students will have a long weekend as school will be dismissed Monday and Tuesday of next week, February 22 and 23.

Faculty members will be in Bronte for in-service training on those days.

The terms of Scott Patterson and Patrick Hosch expire this year. Candidates seeking the two-year term should apply for a place on the ballot at City Hall before the deadline.

Utilities Commission Approves WTU Rate Hike

A settlement agreement allowing West Texas Utilities Company to increase its rates to retail customers has been approved by the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

The new rates, which will average about 8.3 per cent above the old rates, were placed in effect on Friday, February 12. This action is in accordance with a stipulated agreement with all intervenors, including cities represented by the Texas Municipal League, WTU and the PUC staff.

WTU was denied a rate increase by Santa Anna City Council, which ceded jurisdiction to the Public Utilities Commission. Some cities in the WTU area approved the increase and others suspended action until a later date.

The increase is designed to increase the Company's annual retail revenues by $11.8 million. A wholesale rate increase of $5.5 million, also settled by agreement and expected to be approved by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission in Washington, would bring WTU's total annual revenue increase to $17.3 million. The Company had applied for a total increase of $32.2.

The effect on a residential bill for 600 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month would be slightly over 10 percent. This would include the fuel cost adjustment. For 600 kilowatts at a residence, the bill would be $37.89 under the new rates and $34.39 under the old rates.

All members of the club and interested persons are urged to be present to plan the event. Many people are needed to have the meet.

The Booster Club will also have a report on the surfacing of the track at the stadium, a project of the organization in conjunction with the school.

The Junior High track meet, also sponsored by the club, will be held in March, according to Derriell Warnock, president.

AMERICA'S HISTORY

One of the most palatial and imposing mansions in America is Stanton Hall in Natchez, Mississippi, open to visitors year round.

More and more Americans from all across the country are able to see a bit of their own history for themselves thanks to a unique idea that began 50 years ago.

In 1932, a group of Natchez citizens decided that many old homes in the city should be shared with the public. The concept proved so successful, Natchez now hosts two annual "pilgrimages" and other Mississippi towns from the Gulf Coast to Holly Springs have established pilgrimages of their own.

From Carrollton to Woodville and more than a dozen points between cities, towns, counties and areas open their homes each spring to visitors all over the world.

Mississippi's pre-Civil War homes are not all alike, and observant visitors will notice differences from town to town and within individual towns. Historic designers were influenced by different eras, personalities, climate, social conditions, political influences, and materials.

For example, Columbus offers town houses and plantation mansions; Holly Springs abounds in ornate houses trimmed in ironwork from a local foundry; Gulf Coast homes are raised to allow cool ocean breezes to flow underneath.

Each mansion has its own stories: of unusual furnishings, magnificent balls and famous visitors. And of the War "Between the States."

Mississippi pilgrimages dates and towns for 1982 are: March 6-April 4, Natchez; March 19-28, Gulf Coast; March 20-21, Woodville; March 20-April 11, Vicksburg; March 26-April 4, Columbus; March 27-28, Port Gibson; April 3-4, Panola County; April 16-17, Hattiesburg; April 16-18, Oxford; April 17, Yazoo County; April 23-25, Holly Springs; April 23-25, Lawrence County; April 24-25, Carrollton; October 2, Yazoo County; and October 9-23, Natchez.

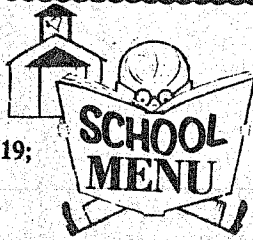

A free brochure on Mississippi pilgrimages is available by writing the Div. of Tourism, P.O. Box 22825 Jackson, MS. 39205, or calling 800-647-2290.

Energy Saving tips on Electric Heating.

Check your thermostat setting. Recommended temperature setting for winter heating is 68°. Remember, the lower you set the thermostat in the winter the lower your energy cost.

Have your heating system checked regularly! Proper servicing is good preventive maintenance.

Keep filters clean. Check the filter every 30 days on forced-air systems. If filter is permanent, clean it by manufacturer's directions, if it's disposable, replace when dirty.

Have your home properly insulated! Adequate home insulation keeps the warmth in, cuts energy use... can pay for itself by lowering heating (and cooling) costs.

Use the warmth of the sunshine! On sunny days open the drapes. The sun shining through the glass will supply additional heat at no cost.

Questions To Ask Your Eyecare Practitioner

by Dr. Jeffrey L. Cohen
 Director of Professional Standards
 Pearle Vision Centers

Dr. Jeffrey L. Cohen, O.D.

As both an optometrist and the director of professional standards at Pearle, one of my jobs is to put myself in the patient's shoes. I want to know that eyecare patients are being reassured, that they understand the process of the eye examination and that they are comfortable enough with the doctor to ask the important questions.

The rapport between doctor and patient is critical, and it works from both sides. Your eyecare professional needs to provide the right environment and help you fully understand the examination process if you are to feel confident and comfortable. On the other hand, you should ask your doctor any questions you have about your eyes or the professional services you are receiving.

Unfortunately, if you're like most people, you visit your eyecare practitioner only once a year or even less. So it is important that when you do go for the periodic check-up on your eyes, that you make the most of your time with the doctor.

Don't leave your doctor's office until you feel satisfied that your eyes are in good shape or that the doctor has given you a specific recommendation to put them in good shape. And never hesitate to ask if you have a question. That's what your doctor's there for.

Though the nature of the questions will vary from person to person depending on the eye examination and visual needs, it's important that what's on your mind gets asked.

In a spare moment the other day, I jotted down the following questions that I frequently hear and that you might want to ask your eyecare practitioner the next time you have your examination.

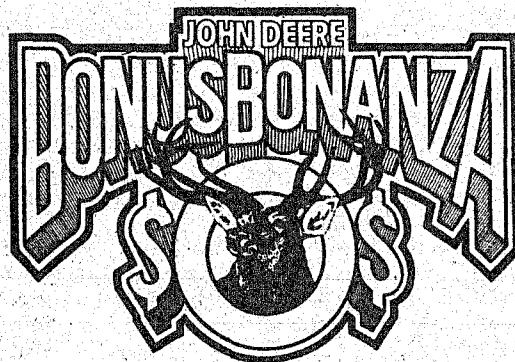

- Will you screen my eyes for glaucoma?
- How often do I need my eyes examined?
- At what age should I bring my child in?
- Do I have to wear my glasses all the time?
- Am I better off with two pairs of glasses or bifocals?
- Which color of tinted lenses are best for me?
- Is there anything I can do to help keep my eyes in good shape?

Don't be limited by these suggestions. I've been conducting eye examinations for a good number of years now, and I've been asked thousands of different questions about eyes and health by my patients. I haven't heard a dumb question yet.

TAX TIPS '82

Credit Yourself

By Henry W. Bloch
President, H & R Block, Inc.

Did you know that you will spend more during your lifetime on taxes than on any other item? That includes such major costs as those of housing, cars, clothing and even food.

Here are four basic, but still important, tax tips from H & R Block, Inc. which should give you a head start toward filing this year, as well as when filing in years to come:

• Make use of energy credits. Like many, you may have the impression that energy credits are available only to homeowners, but the fact is that in many cases renters may also be able to claim these important credits.

Specifically, the Residential Energy Credit, which became available just over three years ago, allows a person to cut his or her tax bills by 15 percent of the first $2,000 spent in purchasing approved materials or other energy-saving components.

• Keep all child care records. With more than half of American women now working, it becomes most important whether married or single to know about the child care credit that is available. This applies where the care is "employment related," says the IRS, which may mean working at a job or taking educational training that is job-related.

This year, you may claim 20 percent of up to $2,000 in qualified child care expenses (for one qualifying child), or $4,000 for two or more children.

Effective January 1, 1982, these changes take on even more importance as the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 makes available a more generous child care creasingly, business travel is being combined with family vacationing, and many people use their own vehicles for work reasons.

Bless This Mess

By Billie Wheatley

Several fence charger stories found their way to my door this week; I wonder why? It seems there are chargers that are plugged into an electric circuit and are much more powerful than the kind that uses a battery. These come in handy when you have livestock that are hard to confine, especially if you flip the regulator switch from "normal" to "increase."

If you happen to be the proud owner of one of these beauties, you are permitted to watch the antics that take place the first time the trouble-makers discover the power of these contraptions. If you intend to watch, you had better do it the first time because it usually doesn't take but one dose to effect a cure. If you can watch with a straight face, you have pretty good will power.

There are some exceptions however, and one was an old cow who thought the fence had never been invented that she couldn't outsmart. Three times she charged the monster, and as many times she was unceremoniously dumped in an undignified heap ten feet from the fence. On the fourth try she mustered all the smart she had. With eyes rolling and emitting a blood-curdling bellow, she began to crawl on her knees toward the wire, with the intent to go under writin all over her face.

When the sparks died away she discovered there was just too much cow for the space available, so she withdrew to plan the battle for another day. Chalk one up for the fence.

Usually, an out-of-the-ordinary commotion will bring the yearlings on the run to see what they're missing, and in this case, to get in on the action. One brave soul slides to a halt only a breath from the fence and very carefully runs his tongue out and curls it around the wire. I leave the rest to your imagination. The owner of the fence lost his will power at this point.

Picture if you will a mother sow, a warm summer day, and ten hungry little pigs to be fed. She was stretched out in the sunshine, well rounded, about half asleep, grunting little satisfied signs as her babies enjoyed lunch, when one sweet angel backed up too far and touched the electric fence. To say business picked up is an understatement. It rained little pigs for five minutes. This story came to me via three young men of my acquaintance and the thought has crossed my mind that the situation may have been helped along by the fence being nudged over a mite with a stick.

This story has a moral. If you have one of these fences and you need to crawl over it, you can either turn it off or do it the hard way. If you choose the latter, just be sure the stick you use to hold the wire down is strong enough not to break while you have one foot dangling up in the air over the thing. I'm told by an authority on the subject that this jogs the memory pretty good. Just one go round and you don't have any trouble at all remembering to turn it off next time.

About The Flu

As usual, an unwanted visitor is coming this fall and winter: the flu. With a basic understanding of the disease, you will be in a much better position to treat and prevent it properly.

Viruses and Vaccines

Flu is caused by an influenza virus. Vaccines against these viruses are very effective, affording considerable protection. Unfortunately, the particular variety of influenza virus responsible for causing a flu epidemic can change from year to year. So, last year's flu shot, even though directed at several viral organisms, might not protect against the flu this year. Because of this, flu vaccines are usually recommended only for people who are highly susceptible to flu-causing viruses because of old age or serious disease.

Is It The Flu?

A mild case of the flu might be difficult to tell apart from a cold. Both diseases affect the respiratory tract. Unlike the adult cold sufferer, however, the adult flu sufferer generally develops a mild fever of 99°-100°F and is usually sick enough to want to stay in bed.

The flu victim often has a dry cough, muscle aches and pains, and a stuffy nose. The symptoms can last for up to ten days and may be followed by a period of sluggishness.

Relief of Flu Symptoms

Available remedies do not kill or suppress the flu virus itself. Rather, they provide relief from the symptoms of the flu infection. The flu sufferer should try to get as much rest as possible, take aspirin to relieve aches and pains and to lower the fever, and drink plenty of fluids to prevent the nose and throat from drying out. Safe, non-prescription preparations such as Neo-Syneprine® 12 HOUR nasal spray or nose drops, provide much needed symptomatic relief for a stuffy nose and breathing difficulties.

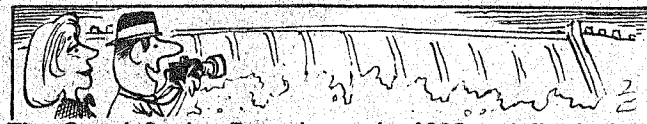

Complications of the Flu

The major complications of the flu occur in and around the airway passages, and include middle ear infections, pneumonia, and sinusitis. These complications can be serious. A high fever, especially in a child, or other signs of a worsening condition are reason enough to call the doctor right away.

Avoiding the Flu

The best way to avoid catching the flu is to keep up your natural defenses and your general health through proper diet and exercise. During the flu season, try to stay out of crowds and avoid close contact with anyone who is coughing, sneezing, or showing other flu symptoms.

The Grand Coulee Dam, begun in 1933 and finished in 1942, ranks as the mightiest piece of masonry built by man. It is made of 10,585,000 cubic yards of concrete.

April Deadline For Earnings Report

People who work and earn over the annual earnings limit while they are receiving Social Security benefits are required to file an earnings report with the Social Security Administration by April 15. Because the report also is used to tell the agency how much you expect to earn the current year, it makes sense to take some time in completing it carefully. The report should not be filed with the Internal Revenue Service.

Do you plan to do more or less work this year? Do you expect your earnings to change significantly? These are the questions you must answer as correctly as possible. This means planning and anticipating your work and earnings and sticking to those plans to the extent possible.

Once you make the earnings limit, the amount of your Social Security check is affected by the amount of your earnings. Benefits are reduced $1 for every $2 of earnings over the annual limit. The limit changes each year to reflect increases in average wages. The 1982 earnings limit is $6,000 for people 65 and over, up from $5,500 for 1981, and $4,400 for people under age 65, up from $4,080 for 1981. The earnings test does not apply to people after they reach 72.

People who fail to file well-thought out accurate earnings report risk overpayments—receiving benefits to which they are not entitled. This often happens when they earn more than they anticipated on their earnings report. When this happens, the best course to follow is to contact Social Security as soon as possible. The benefit can then be adjusted before substantial overpayments occur.

Overpayments are generally collected or withheld in a lump sum from future checks. The easiest way to handle them, of course, is to avoid incurring them. And the best way to do that is to make prompt reports when there is a change in plans. Earnings reports forms may be obtained from any Social Security office. Give us a call and we'll send you one.

Almost all social security matters can be handled by phone. For general information or to report a change, call toll free 800-392-1603. Medicare questions or filing of medical claims can be taken care of by calling toll free 800-442-2620. You may file an application to establish your eligibility by calling 915-646-7533 in Brownwood.

A representative of the Brownwood office visits Santa Anna once a month on the second Thursday from 1:00-2:00 p.m. The representative can be found at the Mountain City Center.

THE REAL ISSUES FOR ECONOMIC RECOVERY

As the second session of the 97th Congress convenes, there is still great debate throughout the land concerning the state of our economy. We are fed a daily, if not hourly, diet of predictions, prognostications, and rhetoric about what the future holds. Few people can really have any definitive insight into what the future holds for our economy, because there are too many things which feed into that economy which cannot be measured in terms of the age-old yardsticks.

We saw that happen when energy costs skyrocketed because of our supposed "shortage" of energy. In my mind, there never was a shortage, just a contrived fear, which gave those large oil companies and OPEC members the opportunity to squeeze our economy for all it was worth.

Once energy stabilized, then we took another stab in our economic heart with high interest rates, here again, not because the market demanded those exorbitant rates, but because our economic conditions provided an opportunity for those who want to destroy the existing financial markets in this nation a great opportunity to do so. They are succeeding, and the Administration and Congress sit idly by while every law on the books is circumvented to create utter calamity throughout our entire economy. In brief, we are witnessing today a revolution in the financial markets of this country. If this trend continues unabated, and I believe it will, we will see vast economic power transferred from thousands of small independent institutions to a few giant financial super-markets. The Federal Reserve is consciously creating this revelation through its totally unrealistic policies, and the Administration, I believe, is not only aware of this thrust, but condones it. The Congress is merely inept, and so lacks leadership in the area until it simply sits back and does nothing.

My point is merely this — the great debate raging today over the economy is missing a great deal of the target. Regardless of what else we might do, economic recovery will not come unless two basic changes occur: (1) We must end the depression in agriculture, and we could do that very simply if there was an effort in government to do so, and (2) we must bring interest rates down so that we have the ability to finance recovery.

The liberals are screaming about unemployment and deficits, yet they are the prime roadblocks to solving these problems. Instead of acting to create an environment for strong commodity prices to farmers, they consistently support cheap food policies. Ninety percent of parity on farm production would not only eliminate our deficits, it would solve unemployment within months. On the interest rate question, these reduced deficits and unemployment, along with mere enforcement and strengthening of interstate banking laws, would funnel billions back into the financial markets that have been drained out by the money market mutual funds, and make that money available for productive investment. You can be sure that interest rates would tumble if this happened.

Unfortunately, many conservatives are just as guilty in neglect of these vital actions, but neither side seems to recognize their real values, and until such time as we do, no

Santa Anna- Bangs AARP Has Meeting in Bangs

The Santa Anna-Bangs Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons met at Bangs in the community center on February 15 for their monthly luncheon with 41 attending.

President, Mrs. Lucile Wylie, presided over the meeting with Mrs. Faye Whiteley reading the secretary report and Mrs. Opal Little giving the treasurer's report.

Rev. Eddie Freeman, minister of the First Baptist Church voiced the invocation and Mr. Tom Williams led the group in Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. He also led the group in singing Happy Birthday to those having birthdays in February. They were Mrs. Nannie McGaughey, Juanita Ragsdale and Lola Hill. Laura Harris provided the beautiful birthday cake which was served.

Tom Williams introduced the guest speaker, Rev. Eddie Freeman. He presented several beautiful songs and gave a devotional from Psalms on happiness which everyone enjoyed.

Mrs. Laura Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miller had charge of the decoration. Washington's Birthday was the theme carried out with pictures of George all around included with the flag maker, Betsey Ross. She was portrayed making the flag in a lovely doll dress and hat.

Mabel May brought a lovely arrangement of red carnations. Hatches, fall leaves and berries adorned the table centers.

The organization would like to thank their new kitchen manager, Mrs. Nannie Brinson, for an excellent job. Mrs. Eunice Kowierschke and Mrs. Leona Williams assisted in serving the lunch.

HAVE A HEARTH!

Enjoy using your fireplace, but have no illusions about the heat you get from it. It may be warm right near the hearth, but overall a fireplace draws heat out of the house and sends it uselessly up the chimney. To prevent this, buy a glass screen instead of the conventional metal mesh. Better still install a "heatolator," a device which actually captures hearth heat and sends it into the room.

It also helps to open a window near the burning fireplace just a crack, to supply air to the fire directly, without drawing heated air from the rest of the house. Close the fireplace damper after the fire is safely out.

While you shouldn't normally fiddle with the thermostat, you should lower the setting to between 50° F and 55° F while the fireplace is in use.

After the gunmen left, McCullough was able to walk to a nearby church where a priest helped him board a bus for Cartagena. Martinez also returned by bus to the Caribbean resort town.

The two were hospitalized at a Colombian naval hospital where they were treated for their injuries. Both were returned to the United States within a few days, McCullough arriving in San Antonio Saturday. He was able to go to his home, and is recovering well.

McCullough, a 1961 graduate of Santa Anna High School, has been with the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency for a number of years, the last 15 in the San Antonio office. He was in business in San Antonio for awhile after completing college. He is a pilot, and with Martinez flying surveillance missions in "Operation Tiburon," a U.S.-Colombian effort to stop the flow of marijuana to this country. Colombia supplies 80 percent of the marijuana sold in this country.

The McCulloughs have talked every day with their son since he returned home, and they have expressed their appreciation to the many friends who have offered their support and prayers. Don expressed regret that he had caused everyone such concern, but appreciated their interest. His escape from his captors as well as his good recovery are considered no less than a miracle.
