Santa Anna Native Noted For 50 Years as Attorney

The December 1981 issue of Texas Bar Journal included a story written by Santa Anna native Tom Sealy of Midland, in the "Reflections" section of the publication. Sealy has been an attorney for the past 50 years.

TOM SEALY
50 Years in Profession

The article reads as follows:
My father was a doctor, my brother is a doctor -- but I was the "black sheep" of the family. I studied law! I have never regretted my decision, and for the last 50 years I have enjoyed the practice of law.

When I began my law practice, I was a general practitioner in every sense of the word. One day I might try a lawsuit, the next day I would examine an abstract and write a title opinion, and on the third day I would write a will or probate one.

But today law practice involves fields of specialization. For instance, if you expect to be and become a good trial lawyer, then you must specialize in that field, and the same thing is true with respect to tax law, labor law, SEC law, etc. While we still have a field of general practice, with the advent of our very complex system of laws in various subjects, it is obvious that specialization is essential in such areas, and without such specialists the State Bar of Texas would be remiss in its services through its membership to the people of our great state.

The State Bar now offers

Residents Requested To Bag Garbage

Residents of Santa Anna are asked to continue placing their household garbage in plastic bags. This was a regulation several months ago.

Until a new garbage truck is put in operation, most of the garbage collection is done with only a pick-up truck, with loading and unloading done by hand.

Trickham News

By Mrs. Oscar Boenicke

The Fifth Sunday Singing was good, with so many good singers there. We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arnold here and the Walter Newmans are so good, and so many other good singers. Also a number of ladies to play the piano, which helped make a good singing, too. We had people here from so many places, and a good crowd to hear the singing, some from Bangs, Brownwood, Santa Anna and Trickham. We also had a pretty day for the singing.

Next Sunday will be Baptist day and they think they will have a minister to preach that day.

The Quilting Club will meet again Tuesday. We will meet each Tuesday at the Community Center for awhile. There were 18 at the last meeting.

Visitors with Oma Lee Dockery have Lynne Dockery who spent Saturday night and Sunday, and Lou Vaughn had dinner Sunday and visited in the afternoon. Ruth and Marvin Smith, Ilene Haynes, Grady and Genia McIver also visited after the singing Sunday.

Mary Lea Mitchell had all her family over the weekend except Loyd Mock. Those here were Lea Mock, Jennie and James of Post, Betty and Damon Miller and family of Austin.

Dr. Norman Fry and wife Sara, Susan and a girl friend, Jeff and a boy friend and Dr. Fry's mother, all from Midland spent the weekend at their home here. I visited them Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brewster had dinner Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Roach of Zephyr. They went home with them from church.

Doyne and Wanda McIver and family had dinner with Grady and Genia McIver Saturday, and later Doyne and Wanda and family and Grady and Genia all had supper with Terry and Orabeth McIver and family.

Mary Lou and Melvin Storm and their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Loy Storm and baby daughter Ashley of Brownwood visited the Bernice McIvers Friday night.

The last report from Betty Martin is she is doing better and may get to come home some time this week.

Visitors with the Wilburn Hendersons were Ilene Haynes and Ginnie Haynes and Grace Ellis, who all visited last week.

Thursday night the ones who played 84 at the Hendersons were Mattie and Jim Lineberry, Goldie and George Haynes, Charlie and Thelma Fleming, Grady and Genia McIver, Oma Lee Dockery and Ilene Haynes.

Pat and Roberta McShan went to Lubbock to their daughter's, Cindy and Kelly Hoffman, and spent the weekend and brought Russie James home. She had spent the past two weeks with Cindy while her husband was away on a business trip. Also Kelly's parents and Pat Jr. and Shannon McShan were all there Saturday. Russie and Roberta returned home Sunday night.

Visitors with the Walter Stacys were their daughter, Marjorie Sullivan, who came Saturday and spent the night and Sunday. She went by Burnet on her way home to San Antonio and visited her daughter and husband. Also Don Heidbrier of Midland spent Saturday night and Sunday with his grandparents, the Walter Stacys, and Del Ray and Patsy Stacy of Brownwood visited Sunday and Lou Vaughn visited them Saturday.

Darla and Ricky Beal and family came over the weekend from California. They are moving back to Texas, and are not at Rankin and Natalie McIvers. He plans to work in Brownwood. Also Grady and Genia McIver visited Sunday evening.

FBC Young Adults

Planning Social

The Adult I Sunday School Department of First Baptist Church will have a social Saturday night, February 6, at the church annex. Members of the group and their families will meet at 7 p.m. for a Chinese supper, to be followed by games and visiting.

All members of the department are urged to attend the social, and the nursery will be provided for young children.

A bright new note for parties is to present a hot dip, set in a chafing dish or on a hot-tray.

Enrollment Set For Medicare

From now through the end of March is the general enrollment period for the medical insurance part of Medicare, Priscilla Tercero, Social Security branch manager in Brownwood, said recently.

Protection for people who sign up during this period will start next July 1.

Medical insurance is a bargain because the Federal Government pays more than two-thirds of the premium cost from Federal general revenues.

Medical insurance complements the hospital insurance part of Medicare. Hospital insurance helps pay for medically necessary inpatient hospital care and certain follow-up care in a skilled nursing facility or at home.

Medical insurance helps pay for doctor's services no matter where they are received in the U.S., including surgical services, diagnostic tests and X-rays that are part of the treatment, medical supplies furnished in the doctor's office, services of the office nurse, and drugs that are given as part of the treatment and which cannot be self-administered.

Medical insurance also covers outpatient hospital services received for diagnosis and treatment and other services and supplies not covered by hospital insurance.

Medical insurance pays for 80 percent of the approved costs or charges for covered services and supplies after the patient has met the $75 annual deductible.

Almost all social security matters can be handled by phone, or a representative of the Brownwood office visits Santa Anna once a month on the second Thursday from 1 - 2 p.m. at Mountain City Center.

Great-grandchild For Mr. Lovelady

Jolianne Winstead was born January 9 in Brownwood Regional Hospital, the daughter of Jody and James Winstead of Coleman. The little girl weighed seven pounds, 12 ounces at birth.

Mrs. Jeanette Turner of Santa Anna and the late Roy Winstead of Coleman are paternal grandparents of the new baby, and Fay Graham and the late Arnold Graham of Coleman are maternal grandparents.

Jim Lovelady of Santa Anna is the great-grandfather of the new arrival.

How to spend without worry.

Buying the things you want makes you feel good. But spending that "little extra" you should be saving makes you feel guilty. And you worry.

One answer is to buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. They'll take out that "little extra" from each paycheck for Bonds.

You're automatically saving the amount you want to save, without ever seeing it. So you can't spend it. You won't even miss it. But you can spend what's left of your pay (after bills) without feeling guilty.

Without worry.

When you put part of your savings into U.S. Savings Bonds you're helping to build a brighter future for your country and for yourself.

Nutrena CLS Controlled Release

MAKES UREA ACT MORE LIKE NATURAL PROTEIN

Conventional urea-based liquid supplement releases ammonia rapidly in the rumen - which can result in waste or toxicity.

Nutrena CLS Controlled Release releases its ammonia over a longer period of time, for improved usability and safety.

The patented liquid supplement - Nutrena CLS Controlled Release - does two important things for beef and dairy producers. By controlling the release of protein-building ammonia, it improves utilization of urea. Second, it provides safety from urea toxicity - feed it in lickwheel feeders according to simple feeding directions and save work and money.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN—The purchase of a home or sale of real estate is usually handled through the use of a real estate agent or broker. Many times more than one broker is involved in the transaction and frequently the agent or broker may not explain the duties and obligations the agent or broker has to the person they are representing in the sale.

A broker's duties are governed not only by contract but also by principles of agencies which impose certain good faith obligations on the broker. Not fulfilling these obligations can leave the broker open to charges of fraud. These duties include loyalty and good faith, integrity of the strictest kind, fair and honest dealing, unbiased judgment to the principal, no antagonistic relationships and his best efforts to represent his client.

There are specific State statutory prohibitions which may lead to a broker's suspension or legal liability. Some examples of this are:

- Failing to make clear the party for which the broker is acting;
- Receiving compensation from more than one party without full disclosure and consent;
- Acting in a dual capacity as a broker and an undisclosed

- principal;
- Accepting or charging an undisclosed commission or profit on expenditures made on behalf of a principal;
- Commingle funds or failing to properly account for or remit monies held for others;
- Splitting commissions with anyone not licensed as a real estate broker or sales person;
- Failing to properly deposit escrow funds and dispersing such funds before the termination of the transaction;
- Failing to specify a definite termination date in a listing contract;
- Offering real property for sale or lease without the knowledge or consent of the owner or on unauthorized terms.

In the event of problems with a broker or sales agent, contact your local real estate board and the Texas Real Estate Commission in Austin.

New Interest Rates, Penalties For Taxpayers

Agricultural producers and others who handle their own tax and Social Security reports face higher interest rates on delinquent taxes and penalties for failing to file certain information forms.

Beginning February 1, the Internal Revenue Service has started charging a 20 percent annual interest rate (up from 12 percent) on delinquent tax accounts as a result of the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981. At the same time, the IRS will also pay the same 20 percent interest on overpayments.

"The new, higher rates will apply to the underpayment of individual and corporate estimated taxes and most other tax law provisions imposing interest," points out Dr. Ashley C. Lovell of Stephenville, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

The new interest rate will be determined each October 15 and will go into effect the following January 1. It will be based on 100 percent of the average prime interest rate for the preceding month-September.

"The new 20 percent rate means that many taxpayers who previously borrowed from the U.S. Treasury through underpayments or by delinquent taxes will be reluctant to continue these practices," notes Lovell.

The new tax law also provides for a $10 penalty per statement for taxpayers who fail to file information returns (Form 1099) with the IRS, adds the economist. The previous penalty was $1 per statement.

Furthermore, the IRS may dock each taxpayer or income recipient $5 if he does not use an identifying number (in many cases the Social Security number) on the various tax forms and returns.

Regarding the Form 1099s, these along with Form 1096 (summary and transmittal form) must be submitted to the IRS by March 1. Information on the Form 1099s should be provided to income recipients by February 1.

Form 1099s are information returns that are used to report total payments of $600 or more during the tax year to another person in the course of trade or business. Several variations of Form 1099 relate to payments of interest, rents, royalties, fees, commissions and other compensations for services to persons other than employees.

"Many agricultural producers make payments to others in their normal course of business, and these should be reported on a Form 1099," says Lovell. "An exception is if the recipient of a payment is a corporation."

Agricultural producers also have until January 31 to file Form 943 (Employer's Annual Tax Return for Agricultural Employees). This is required if an employer withholds and pays Social Security taxes or if he withholds income taxes under voluntary withholding agreements on farm labor wages paid during the tax year. If timely tax deposits were made, an employer has until February 10 to file Form 943.

Lovell suggests that farmers and ranchers consult their tax advisors and review the "Farmer's Tax Guide" and the "1981 Package X" available from the IRS to learn more about recent changes in tax laws and the various tax forms and deadlines for filing.

GUM DISEASES ARE A GREAT PROBLEM.
Nearly half of our population, between the ages of 18 and 79, suffer from inflammation of the gums or destructive gum disease. Bleeding, often a prominent sign of periodontal or gum disease, tends to diminish as the disease becomes more chronic. This is often mistaken for a sign of improvement, giving the patient a false sense of security.

DO NOT NEGLECT PERIODONTAL DISEASE.
Before 35, the majority of teeth lost are due to cavities. After that period periodontal disease is the majority cause.

REGULAR TOOTH BRUSHING IMPORTANT.
This helps prevent the formation of dental calculus and plaque, a hard material which collects at the base and backsides of the teeth, and is known to be a causative factor of gum diseases.

DENTISTS EASILY DETECT GUM DISEASE.
Some of its symptoms are a pain in the gums, swelling, inflammation, foul breath and bleeding. Pyorrhea, trench mouth, gingivitis and Vincent's disease are all periodontal terms. If you have the least sign of gum disease you should immediately visit your dentist.

WE FEATURE ORAL HYGIENE AIDS.
We will be glad to explain the electric tooth brushes and new water jet devices. We carry your favorite dental aids, and fill dental prescriptions.

Former Resident Rites Are Held For In Gustine

Mrs. J. D. Center, a former resident of Santa Anna and Coleman County, died January 19 in Ballinger Hospital following a year's illness. She had lived the past three years in a Ballinger nursing home.

Born in Kosciusko, Miss. October 11, 1886, she was the daughter of James T. and Abigail (Guess) Smith, moving with her parents to Rogers, Bell County, Texas in 1891.

She married John Daniel Center in Bell County on February 4, 1903. Her late husband was a rural mail carrier out of Coleman for many years and once helped the Sheriff capture a wanted criminal whom he spotted while on his route. The couple's first child, James Loyd, died in Coleman in 1906.

Funeral services were held in the Gustine Baptist Church, with interment in the Gustine Cemetery. Her husband, who died in 1942, is also buried there.

The Centers were well-known in Coleman County, having lived in the Live Oak Community, at Whon and in Santa Anna where for many years he operated a produce business. They were active in "singings" in the community.

Survivors are two daughters, Mrs. E. D. Lovelady of Ballinger and Mrs. Doris Bass of Lufkin; 11 grandchildren; 19 great-grandchildren; and five great-great-grandchildren. A son, J. D. Center Jr., died in Pecos March 10, 1974.

Columnist Recalls Visit to S-Anna

The following article is from a recent issue of The Fort Worth Star Telegram, for which Jon McConal is a regular columnist. He visited our town recently, reminiscing of other visits here as a child.

SANTA ANNA—The cars come from the east, past Bangs and Mukewater Cemetery, and then like a short-fused firecracker they explode into the quiet of this century-plus-old city.

History and better times hang heavily in the atmosphere, creating feelings much like those that club the minds of people who have just smelled the closets of a house with lightning rods skating out of its roof. But the city of some 1,500 persons does bring a nice respite from U.S. 67 that splits the middle of town.

Images of nickel soft drinks with Spanish peanuts from round boxes quickly gather from yesterday's regions of a person's mind as he drives around the streets. At one place there is a canal-looking thing, made of native stone with healthy rolls of concrete curling out from the puzzle-like pattern. It was made by WPA, a sign says. It is still in good condition.

Down one of the main streets is the adobe-like structure, which once housed Sealy Hospital. It closed years ago, but at one time, the hospital was said to be the only one between Temple and San Angelo.

It was built by the late Dr. T. Richard Sealy in 1917 after he returned from service in World War I. His son, Dr. Burgess Sealy of Fort Worth, once told about the surgical suite at the top of the building. It was filled with skylights in order to provide as much light as possible for operations.

Time has hammered the old building hard. Doors open on rusting hinges, and shadows move down long hallways in suspenseful dance steps. Paint and plaster hang loosely from walls like skin from a leper.

"It once had as many as 40 beds in it," said Mrs. Barbara Kingsbery, editor of the local newspaper. "Dr. Sealy also had an accredited nursing college, where registered nurses were trained."

She was asked about the front lawn where a visitor had once played while his parents visited a relative. She laughed.

"Do you remember all of the grass burrs out there? That is the thing I remember about that yard. You couldn't run barefoot through it," said Mrs. Kingsbery.

Down a street by the hospital are several old but lovely houses, the kinds with large windows and high ceilings and lots of lawn space.

At one is an antique shop that Grady Steen is minding this day. He's a friendly person, dressed in khakis and wearing a baseball cap. His voice is strong and carries well and is the kind that if a person says "huh" after a statement, then you know the person has a nervous habit of saying "huh."

Yeah, this used to be quite a town," said Steen. "But it's been hurt some by the way things have gone. But I'll tell you something.... it still has the best people in the world. That's why I'm here, as a matter of fact."

Steen said he was reared in East Texas and owned the newspaper at Mason for a long time. He finally sold out and came here to visit one time, and the then-newspaper owner asked him if he would run the Linotype machine.

"I always liked working on them things, and I said I would just do it for a little while, and by golly it was several years later before I finally got around to quitting," said Steen. "I loved the work. But really, it was the people I liked so much here."

He shows the antiques, which range from furniture to glassware. Prices are not cheap. But, then, they are not outlandish. A visitor eyes one of the old bottles.

"Did you know they used to have a glass factory out in the hills, where they made bottles and shipped them everywhere?" asked Steen.

It was located on what is called the West Mountain, a rather large hill that is rough-looking like the beard of a mountain man that has been trimmed with a butcher knife. Old pieces of buildings and trenches that stick up like scars on a burned person's arms are abundant in the area.

"Silica sand that was as white as the finest white powder was mined out there," said Mrs. Kingsbery. "They made glass and milk bottles and a few decorative items. And there was a time they shipped the sand down to Mexico. But the strata kept getting deeper and deeper, and transportation costs were rising, so they closed it down."

Mrs. Kingsbery, who was reared on a ranch near here, said she can remember when Saturdays were days when the city's streets bulged with people. The city had a whole main street of stores.

"It was the trade center for a large area," she said.

Today, there's still two grocery stores, a bank that is one of the last in the country that still hand posts its receipts and does not use a computer, a hardware store, a drugstore and, of course, The Santa Anna News.

We are starting our 96th year," said Mrs. Kingsbery. "Our newspaper was started by a man .. let's see, his name was Con Rowland ... who came here for his health. He lived in a cave in the mountain, and that is where the newspaper began."

There's still a gin in the town, and pieces of cotton from last fall's crop are clinging to bare weed stems sticking up in the parking lot like chicken legs. A youngster is there picking at the cotton and putting it into a paper sack.

Then a freight train comes through, its arrival punctuated by its whistle that bounds strongly down the city's streets. Two dogs near the tracks suddenly crouch on their hind legs and begin barking.

The train is gone. But the dogs are still talking. Such is the noontime chapter here.

The Mail Box

Dear Barbara,
I am sending an obituary for my aunt, Lula Center, who was so well known there in other years, and I'm persuaded is still remembered warmly by many people in Coleman County. She was 95 years old last October, and always knew me when I stopped by to visit with her, as late as last September. She was the last member of the original Smith family of ten children, and she was the seventh child. My father, Henry M. Smith, was the oldest child, born June 9, 1874, and from the date of his birth until Aunt Lula died, there was a Smith "child" living for 107 years! The family set a good record in that they lost no babies. All of the ten children lived to be grown and married -- parents of at least two children. Youngest to die was Aunt Mary, Mrs. John Moore, whose death in 1918 occurred when her clothing caught fire from a fireplace.

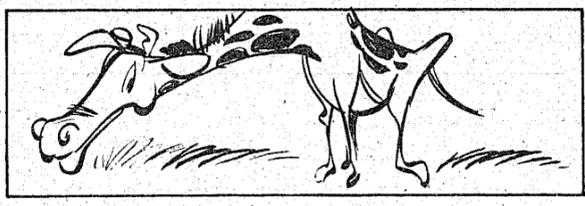

of Lufkin. Incidentally, besides myself and my husband, Bob, my sisters, Alice and Bob White of Fort Worth, Beulah and D. L. Thigpen of Graham and a cousin, Carl Alexander of Abilene were also at the service.
Thank you!

Dear Editor:
Your poem was unique and to the point. Enjoyed it. I have quite a collection of poetry and wish you would consider asking your readers to submit all old poems written in the 18th Century or around the turn of the century, fold songs, etc. Perhaps have a column of such nature.

Just a suggestion, since I know nothing about being an editor or publishing a paper. It's only proper you can get a laugh on me, I will not feel offended.

I enjoy your paper. I was once a student in Cleveland, taught by a beloved person, Mrs. Sparkman. Regards,

Mrs. Frank Leady Buried Friday In Coleman

Mrs. Frank (Ethel) Leady, 87, of Coleman died Thursday, January 28, in Overall-Morris Memorial Hospital in Coleman after a brief illness. Funeral services were held Friday, January 29, in Stevens Funeral Chapel in Coleman with Dr. Charles Sheffield, pastor of Concho Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in the Coleman Cemetery.

Mrs. Leady was born April 27, 1894 in Mississippi and moved to Coleman County as a child. She married Frank Leady in 1915. She was a housewife and a member of the Novice Baptist Church. Her husband died March 13, 1981.

Survivors are a son, James Frank Leady of Winters; seven daughters, Mrs. W. O. (Ruth) Akins of Melvin, Mrs. H. G. (Allene) Palmer of Coleman, Mrs. Lucille Blakeney, Mrs. Ouida Brown and Mrs. J. K. (Billie) McClain, all of San Angelo, Mrs. Charles (Christine) Scott of

Have you been seeing and hearing all this racket that's going on about women's lib? Well, I don't blame these girls a bit. I didn't know there were places where the women were not treated equal to the men.

I should have suspected something when we took a trip to East Texas. Would you believe a mesquite tree a hundred miles into Post Oak country? It was no puny thing either and it was growing right in some man's fence row. Now, if those women were being treated equal like us, that man would have had his wife pour some kerosene on that mesquite.

Talk about counting your blessings, we West Texas farm wives have been blessed all this time and didn't know it. I've jotted down a couple of ways these women might improve their lot in life.

Ladies, run, don't walk, to the nearest farm supply store and buy your man a fence charger and a battery. Better pick up a big roll of wire, some insulators, and a bundle of steel fence posts, too. It wouldn't be a bad idea to buy yourself a good hoe while you're there. You can hide it in the hen house, and when the time comes for the equal rights you'll be ready and won't have to waste time going to town for one. The reason this trick works so well is because there's not a man alive who can resist a gadget. If if has knobs and makes a racket, he's going to keep it running. These things things won't work if weeds grow up and touch the wire, so when the calves begin to get in the grain field you have to clean out under it.

It won't be long now until you will get all the equal rights you can handle. Just be sure your hoe is sharp, and better wear gloves too. One man I know made about a quarter-mile of fence out of his, and the first time his wife got to help, the Johnson grass was waist high and it was 104 degrees in the shade. She's leaning on her hoe with her tongue hanging down to her belt buckle when he hollers "this is some of that equal rights you've been hearing about." Real cute!

Another "must" is a tiller for his tractor. These things plow deep and tear up the soil. They're also a sure-fire way to bring rocks to the top of the ground, and that's where you will get some equal rights you've never seen the likes of.

If you wore your gloves out on the hoe, better get some more. He will probably hook a trailer behind the tractor for this job, so be sure you put in the sledge hammer in because some of the rocks will have to be broken up before they can be loaded.

Also, he may try to get you to drive the tractor, but if you do this you won't get as much equality as he does, so just ask him real sweet, how fast you should be going when you shift into second gear. This is guaranteed to keep you off the tractor.

I know where there's a good tiller, but if you call and a man answers, just hang up. These two suggestions should keep you happy the year round, but in case you still feel put-down, come on over to my house. My husband doesn't care who hauls his rocks.

Coleman County People Take Part in TFB Event

Several Coleman County people were among the some 300 county leaders who were in Fort Worth January 24 - 26 for the Texas Farm Bureau Leadership Conference at the Hilton Hotel.

Programs of special interest to county presidents, commodity, state affairs and young farmers and ranchers committee chairmen were presented at the conference, which is the kick-off for the new year's goals.

Speakers for the event were Warrne Newberry, Executive Director; Carrol Chaloupka, the state president; Bob Walsh, vice president and trust officer with First National Bank of Fort Worth; Jack Jackson of American Airlines in Fort Worth; and Cecil Miller Jr., president of the Arizona Farm Bureau.

Felton Martin of Trickham took part in the Dairy Commodity Division of the meeting, representing the county committee of which he is chairman.

John Vance, chairman of the county FB Feed Grains Commodity Division, attended the meeting of that group; and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tabor attended the Young Farmer and Rancher meeting. Mr. Tabor serves as chairman of the county committee.

Cliff Horn, chairman of the county committee on State Affairs, attended the legislative meetings, and Vic Cardinas, president of the Coleman County group, attended the Sheep and Goat meeting as well as the presidents meeting. Mrs. Cardinas also attended the sheep and goat division meeting.

One of the outstanding meetings was on Animal Welfare, with Hollie Hatfield, director of the Dairy Department of American Farm Bureau, as speaker. More on animal welfare will be heard in the months to come.

Much information was gathered to bring back to the county organization. It was encouraging to see the great number of young people in attendance.

Nabers Seeking Re-election

State Representative Lynn Nabers of Brownwood announced last week that he would be a candidate for re-election.

Nabers, Chairman of the Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, stated, "I would like to thank the people of the 55th Legislative District for the opportunity I have had to serve this area. I would like to continue to represent this part of the state in our new legislative district which is now composed of Brown, Coleman, Comanche, Eastland, McCulloch and Runnels counties.

Nabers is currently serving as chairman of the Criminal Jurisprudence Committee and also is serving on the Financial Institutions Committee and the Calendars Committee.

Nabers said he believes that the decade of the eighties will be a trying time for state government. "I feel," he said, "that I have enough experience and seniority to be able to help with the solutions. I ask for the continued support of the people in Central Texas."

Representative Nabers is married to the former Mary Scott of Cross Plains and they have two sons, Scott and Tim. He is a partner in the law firm of Day, Nabers and Smith in Brownwood.
