Jimmie Hits the Trail

(The Rosebud News)

The withering blast of devasting truth has been turned on the Old Age Pension arguments. The story of two years of Texas progress has been partially expounded by Texas' youthful Governor in his opening address at Waxahachie.

Perhaps the ablest campaigner the State has produced in several decades, Jim Allred has lost nothing in two years in the Executive's chair. If anything, he is better than he was two years ago when he "poured it on" a rather distinguished field of opponents.

Distinctive opponents are lacking this year.

We rather imagine that Allred is at his best under fire of opposition. It brings out the best in him. As his friend, of course, we had hoped that he would have the customary second term without the necessity of a campaign. But it is a real treat for Texas to see this young Centennial Governor swing his scythe in a broad swath down the political grasses.

Texas loves Jim Allred and Jim Allred loves Texas. And every person who loves a fighter enjoys the manner in which he disposes of his opposition.

The gentlemen opposing him—save one—are going to learn something about how it feels to mix with Allred. The exception is beyond learning anything.

Some men are born great, some achieve greatness and others have it thrust upon them; but most of them just imagine they are great.

Home Owners

Austin Callan

It has long been conceded that the home owner is the best and happiest citizen.

The home is the Nation's citadel of strength.

Those who have made it easier to own a home and to keep a home, have rendered a distinct service to humanity. They have planted flowers along barren pathways.

The Nation's strength lies in the small homes because most homes are small. What affects modest domiciles affects millions. The Texas Legislature not only showed its interest in good citizenship but its consideration for the hard pressed when it adopted Senator Carl C. Hardin's home exemption measure relieving from state taxes all homes up to the assessed value of $3000.

If Carl Hardin had rendered no other service than that he would be entitled to the gratitude of thousands of Texans.

Whoever makes it easier to maintain a place of habitation for a family confers a blessing and adds a bloom and breath of fragrance to life. We want to see more home owners not only in the cities and villages of our state but out beyond the pavement in the rural communities. No home owner will become a communist. The blessings of a home will nurture in his heart love for his country and his country's flag. He will bring his children up to respect the worthy things of life; he will train them for good citizenship, and they will be an ornament to society.

Eradicate Rats To Curb Typhus

AUSTIN, July 6.—Typhus fever or "Fourteen Day Fever" continues to make its appearance in various counties in Texas. Like typhoid, most of the cases occur in the hot months of summer and early fall, according to records of the State Health Department.

"The symptoms of typhus fever are similar to those of typhoid fever, except the course of typhus is generally two weeks while typhoid fever may extend over many weeks," said Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer.

"Although there are two types of typhus fever, it is the endemic type, (known as Brill's Disease) which presents itself in Texas.

"The onset of typhus fever is usually sudden and accompanied by chills, fever, headache, and general body pains. Nausea and vomiting may be present. Headache is an outstanding symptom, and often persists to such a degree that it does not readily yield to drugs or local applications.

"The fever rises rapidly, often reaching a maximum of 105 degrees in the fifth to eighth day, and generally declining about the tenth to fourteenth day. A reddish mottling of the skin also appears, which may subside soon or continue through the crisis. A hacking cough is often present.

"The mode of transmission of typhus fever is known to be from the rat-flea, and the disease could be prevented by the eradication of rats and mice. A campaign to rid your community of rodents would also be of great economic value as rats and mice destroy millions of dollars worth of food every year."

Boy Thumbs Ride With Wrong Man

Elzie Capes, 20-year-old Brownwood man "thumbed" one ride too many Monday afternoon.

Sheriff Jack Hallmark and Deputy Chester Avinger were looking for Capes on a charge of theft over $50. They had been to San Angelo and Ballinger looking for him, but had failed to find him. As they were returning home, a man "thumbed" the officers for a ride a short distance east of Ballinger. They recognized the man as Capes and stopped and arrested him.

Capes is charged with theft of $52.15 from the cash register of the Texaco Service Station on Main avenue, operated by C. R. Ater. The robbery occurred Sunday afternoon while station attendants were busy waiting on customers. Examining trial probably will be held this afternoon (Tuesday). Capes is now under 5 years suspended sentence in Brown county for car theft.

Officers said Capes had 18 cubes of morphine on his person when they arrested him. He likely will be tried here on the theft charge instead of being released to federal officers on a narcotic charge, officials stated.

An Opportunity In The Making

Japan seems to be waiting for the slightest pretext of excuse for further invasion of China, possibly toward the end of subjugating the entire country. That excuse is being made to order in the internal trouble that is brewing in China.

The leaders of the southern provinces have openly spoken their opposition to further aggression of Japan and avow their intention of overthrowing the central government of China if it will not take a like stand against Japan.

The war lords of Japan have intimated that it may be necessary for that country to send more troops to China to end disorders if the internal disturbances do not end. Such a situation is not favorable to the well being of China. It means that Japan may start further aggression at any time and the results may not be as easily smoothed over as was the conquest of Manchuria.

The military strength of China is no match for the well trained, well equipped machine that Japan can put into the field at any minute the word is given. But, however easy the going might be off hand, Japan will find that it has a bigger job on its hands than it expects if any sort of Chinese resistance can be mustered. There are millions of Chinamen over a vastly scattered area.

The real threat that such a move would have is the entanglements that might develop. Other nations might easily be involved and certainly there would be repercussions that would be felt in the far corners of the earth.

A Question Of Safety

Is your child quick — or dead?

This rather pertinent inquiry or warning has been issued in connection with safety campaigns that have been waged to reduce traffic accidents.

The reason for it is that about one third of all humans who are killed in traffic accidents are children.

The assumption then is that the child that is not quick and on the alert every moment of the time spent on the streets, is of few years on earth.

Reckless autoists take this terrible toll of child life, and since they are not being curbed very rapidly, it behooves parents to use the greatest precautions in guarding their children against such an untimely death.

A study of statistics regarding this phase of automobile fatalities shows that the overwhelming majority of youngsters are killed while running errands or going to and from school. The loss of life among children playing in the streets is comparatively small.

No community escapes the blight of this ever present menace. Though accidents are less numerous in small towns, they are no less in proportion to population than in the large cities.

Though speeding, reckless automobile drivers may be punished, the vengeance of the law will not bring back the little life that might have been spared. Had more care been exercised.

Origin of Cards

It is unlikely that the average person who indulges in bridge, euchre, seven-up, poker, solitaire or any of the innumerable other games played with cards knows anything about their origin, how long they have been in use or how extensive an item of commerce they constitute.

The federal government is authority for the statement that the manufacture, sale and consumption of playing cards have increased in the United States until at present the revenue derived from them is in excess of $5,000,000 per annum.

Card playing is a relic of antiquity. For hundreds of years cards have been used as a medium of amusement and chance. The origin is not definitely known. The first mention of their origin, according to one authority, is in "Des Gulden Spil," of Ingold, printed in 1472, by G. Zanier. There are three chief opinions regarding their source: First, that they are a product of the East—the Arabs, the Saracens or the Moors introducing them into Europe by way of Spain in 1379; second, that they came from India and China, or Egypt and were introduced into Europe by the gypsies—it being claimed that they were in China in 1120, having been brought from Hindustan, where they were used as a game at a much earlier period; and third, that they originated in Germany or Italy.

Uncle Sam has been collecting revenue on playing cards ever since Civil War days, when he imposed his first tax on them. A tax has been imposed continuously since that time. The rate was two cents for and upon every pack containing not more than 54 cards, until 1924 when the rate was increased to 10 cents a pack. Indirect taxes now make the levy even greater. This accounts for the fact that Uncle Sam is able to fatten his bank roll to the extent of over $5,000,000 a year out of the tax he imposes on the pasteboards. He has never urged, however, that citizens of America play cards as a patriotic duty—to increase his treasury's receipts.

S. S. CLASS ENJOYS PARTY

The twelve year old girls Baptist Sunday School class enjoyed an ice cream supper and slumber party Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Merle Ferguson. Watermelons, games, etc., were enjoyed throughout the night. Although reported to be a slumber party rather than slumber party, the girls came home the next morning to sleep and dream about the good time they had. Misses Lily Pearl Niell, Mary Jo Gregg, DeVera Ann Garrett and the hostess enjoyed the slumber party but others did not stay through the night. Mrs. Carl Ashmore is teacher of the class.

DO THE BOOKS BALANCE?

This is Independence Week. One hundred and sixty years since our forefathers dared to sign the Declaration of Independence and set the world off on a new era called democracy. It is well during this period that we pause to take stock, to determine whether we were justified last Saturday in setting off fireworks, eating barbecue, making speeches and otherwise raising hob.

NOT TRUE TODAY

P. T. Barnum said there was one born every minute. But that was in the day before modern advertising methods were devised.

There is no occasion for being fooled when it comes to spending your money in this day and age. Patronize the merchants who have a reputation for fair dealing and honesty. Such motives must actuate the consistent advertiser. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise can not afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his patrons.

The consistent advertiser pays money to tell you about his goods. He knows they are good — he backs them up because he believes they will satisfy. Only merchandise which is consistently good can be consistently advertised. So advertising protects you against fraud and inferiority. It tells you what is new and good, making you a wise buyer. It saves you money by pointing out for your consideration only the best products and the best places to buy them.

Thrifty men and women read the advertisements in this paper regularly and profit by the advice they give. To them it is a plain, everyday business proposition — a duty they owe to themselves and to their pocketbooks.

Coleman Gas & Oil Company

An announcement several weeks ago, informed our domestic and industrial consumers that the franchise granting the Coleman Gas & Oil Company the right to distribute gas in the City of Santa Anna will be in force until 1950.

Recent test of our wells by the Railroad Commission of Texas indicate that we have gas in sufficient amounts to supply all the fuel needs — both industrial and domestic — for Santa Anna and Coleman during the coldest weather of the coming winter months with a reserve of five times the amount of gas necessary.

During the fall months of this year we plan to make a number of additions and improvements to our main line gas system — to further increase the reliability of our system — drill additional wells — all of which will give employment to labor and give to our consumers the reliability of gas service to which they are entitled.

COMMODITIES PURCHASE SECTION BUYS ONIONS FROM TEXAS PRODUCERS

College Station, July 4.—The Commodities Purchase Section of the United States Department of Agriculture recently completed a purchase program of about 700 cars of onions bought from Texas producers for approximately $250,000, according to J. F. Rosborough, Extension horticulturist.

Rosborough stated that the price paid was on a basis of U. S. number one onions ranging 45 to 55 cents per bushel. The onions will be distributed to relief agencies throughout the Nation.

He went on to say, "there has been more onion planting this year than in previous time of onion production in the State."

In mentioning some of the history of the onion crop, Rosborough said, "The growing of Bermuda onions in Texas started over 25 years ago in the southwestern part of the State near Laredo. Since that time, the growing of this crop has spread out until it involves about 33 Texas counties, usually shipping from six to eight million cars a year to eastern markets."

"Today the bulk of Bermuda onions used in the entire United States comes from Texas. With a normal crop, onions should bring about $2,500,000 a year into the hands of Texas growers."

"This year, because of increased acreage, prices dropped to as low as 30 cents per bushel. This price is below the cost of production," he concluded.

Keeping shrubs healthy and vigorous thru the hot summer months is the problem that faces every person interested in yards. However, Mrs. Vernon Spruill, yard demonstrator of the Gouldbusk H. D. Club, has found a way to keep her shrubs looking nice on very little water.

She mulched all of her shrub beds and rose gardens with a four inch layer of cotton gin waste. This spongy-like material helps to take up and hold all the available moisture which is most essential as Mrs. Spruill has only her waste water to use for shrubs and roses. By watering a few shrubs each day she gets around the entire yard in about ten days, and each shrub is thoroughly soaked and the roots are encouraged to go deep in the ground for a drink. The mulch keeps the soil moist and loose, thus keeping the shrubs looking their best during the hot months.

SANE AND QUIET INDEPENDENCE DAY SPENT HERE

July the 4th was sanely and quietly spent by many observers over the week-end. Some of the business people observed the day Saturday, others for the sake of providing supplies to customers who do most of their shopping on Saturday, remained open Saturday and closed Monday. There was nothing wrong in that, however, it occurs to us that satisfactory arrangements could have been made and all observed the day on the 4th.

The editor and family enjoyed having our son Jim Bob and a girl friend, Miss Elizabeth Sloop of Bryan, with us for the 4th, and over the week-end. Several other young people were here to spend the holiday with parents and friends, and will likely be mentioned in our personal column.

Most of the family spent the day in Brady, attending the annual picnic celebration and races. From all reports, there must have been a record crowd in Brady during the three days jubilee and celebration this year.

The crowd was apparently linnued with the holiday spirit, except being a bit tired and dusty, all seemed to be having a good time, and insofar as we saw, the crowd was orderly and no casualties were reported. Brady took time by the forelock and policed the grounds well, and those amateur police did not hesitate to tell the visitors where to head-in. No doubt the way the crowd was directed by the police prevented many accidents and probably saved some lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bell left Tuesday morning for Dripping Springs where they will visit Mr. Bell's mother for several days.
