Homecoming activities on Ex-students agenda

Officers and directors of the Santa Anna Ex-student Association will be meeting within the next two weeks to make plans for the annual Ex-student Homecoming to be held here Friday and Saturday, October 19 and 20.

Terry McIver is president of the group that sponsors the annual event. Committee chairmen will be named and initial plans made for the two-day school and community activity.

Nominees for Ex-student of the Year are being taken, the honoree traditionally selected from the class of fifty years ago, but not confined to that year. William Brown, a Santa Anna stockfarmer and civic leader, was the 1983 recipient of the honor. Former students from classes ending in the numeral "4" will be given special recognition at the Homecoming this year.

The success of the annual event is measured by the number of former students and teachers who attend, McIver said, and participation is in proportion to the number of classes and groups scheduling reunions during the weekend. Groups planning reunions can be assisted in obtaining lists of names and addresses from the Ex-student Association, the file being compiled by Patrick Hosch, past president of the organization.

The weekend will include the traditional events, starting with a parade on Friday, October 19, preceding the Homecoming football game with Irion High School. A full day of events will be scheduled Saturday for former students and teachers and their families.

Officers and directors of the Ex-student Association will be notified of the time and place of the meeting of the executive board.

Off the cuff

by Jan Naron Henderson

About the upcoming elections: this issue of The News contains written answers given to questions asked by this editor of your candidates for City Council and School Board. The answers given are largely unedited, with exception of spelling errors I could not bring myself to knowingly print. (Emphasis on the word, "knowingly.")

Some of the candidates were very prompt and most submitted very neatly written answers to the questions, and for this I am grateful. As an old school teacher, I still believe neatness counts.

Some of the candidates expressed the opinion that the questions asked were so similar to those already answered in a previous news story, that they didn't see the point in answering them again. Most of them answered them again anyway, and that's good, I think, because it gives them another chance to express some opinions in which voters might be interested and it gives voters another chance to look at the candidates.

And, about small towns, which we all admit have their good and bad points: this one is no exception.

I remember in junior high and high school English classes almost every year, the teacher would tell us to write a composition extolling the pitfalls and virtues of a small town. I always liked that assignment, because, since I had written that composition every year, I had almost memorized the contents thereof.

Well, I have at last forgotten how it went, and hopefully gained more maturity and more writing skill since those days of headings on papers and no writing on the back.

Still, I like the topic, and here's why: it seems to me that where we live says a lot about us. We live in a particular place usually because we choose to do so, whether we plan to stay there forever, or whether we are just biding time until we can move on. Whatever our reasons, we definitely have them.

Now, the way I see it, Santa Anna is like other small towns in that, very obviously, everyone knows what everyone else is doing. And if they don't know, they try to find out. Admittedly, that sounds snide, but I believe that is not necessarily a bad quality. We know what's going on with each other, but, because we do know, we also try to watch out and take care of each other.

When someone is sick, everyone knows it, because we hear it at church or in the grocery store or at the Quilting Club. And, that's good, because we don't stop there. We go on and prepare chicken soup or send flowers or just visit, and that doesn't happen a lot in big cities.

Some say living in a small town is like living in a fish bowl, because everyone knows what you're doing all the time, and maybe this is true. My own idea on this matter is that I'd rather live in a fish bowl than a red ant bed, with a lot of running around and confusion all the time, and no united purpose, but everyone going his or her own way and going there in a hurry.

Further, we can enjoy comradeship in our common interest in the survival and development of our small town. Everyone cares what happens to our town, because we are all here by choice.

That's why when we have city council and school board elections, we should have a larger percentage of voter turn-out than is boasted by the larger cities.

In a small town, it takes everybody working together to pull anything off, and that's why it's even more important that we get along together in small towns. There just aren't enough of us to get anything done if we don't all work together.

Since I've been here, for instance, several people have expressed the desire for a city-wide clean-up in Santa Anna; and I think it's a good idea. I think city councilpersons should actively work for this cause, and I believe citizens should start by cleaning up their own yards and lots, and businesses should start by cleaning up store fronts and back lots, and maybe a fresh coat of paint here and there would help.

People pass through Santa Anna from almost everywhere, on their way to Dallas or Waco or Midland, and it surely wouldn't hurt our town's image to be thought of a "nice, clean little town," rather than something else.

THE MASTER'S HAND

"Who'll give me one now,
Who'll give me two,
Who'll make it three?"

The auctioneer shouted as the last object was being auctioned. The object was an old violin. He was asking for one, two or three dollars for the dusty, worthless violin — a piece of junk.

Then, an old man made his way to the auctioneer's stand. He picked up the violin and gently dusted it with care. He tightened the strings and began to play. Beautiful music was heard! The entire audience was spellbound.

Finally, the auctioneer shouted when the beautiful song ended, "Who'll give one thousand, who'll make it three?"

A voice was heard, "What's the difference? We don't understand." The auctioneer smiled and said: "It was the touch of the Master's Hand."

Most of us have heard that beautiful old poem. Some of you may have heard the song on the radio. I don't know the author of the poem, but I have been blessed by the poem.

We have heard people say, "I am of no worth. My life isn't worth living." Depression and desperation often follow failure.

All people fail in one venture or another. The only people who don't fail, are those who don't try.

When you feel the world has pulled the rug out from under you, remember you are a miracle. When you feel your failure is larger than your faith, remember you are God's miracle. When your self-confidence is a minus two on a scale of one to ten, remember you are the greatest miracle of all.

You are a living miracle. How much is a miracle worth? The human heart beats more than 36 million times a year.

It pumps blood through more than 60,000 miles of arteries and veins. 600,000 gallons are pumped in a year by your heart. Man has not created a machine equal to what each one of us have, our amazing bodies!

Our ears are miracles. There are 24,000 fibers in each ear. These fibers allow us to hear the wind in the trees, the ocean waves pounding the beach, your children playing, your loved ones saying those special words: I love you.

The mind is beyond imagination. Within its three pounds are 13 billion nerve cells. These cells allow the storing and recalling of our every sound, thought, smell, taste, and action from the day we were born. The mind has been compared to a computer the size of the Empire State Building.

But above all, you can be touched by the Master's hand. Broken dreams, shattered hopes, mistused lives can be healed by the Master's touch.

We have to take the first step, but the Master is there. He has always been there.

New Rules on Defective Products

If you buy a product which later turns out to be defective, you usually have the right to ask that it be repaired or replaced. Now, under a new ruling from the Texas Supreme Court, you also have a right to demand your money back if the defect is "substantial."

NEW RULES

This ruling may not sound revolutionary, but it is a big boost for consumers. To take advantage of it, you must be able to show that:

- 1) you accepted the product without knowledge of the defect or with the understanding that it would be fixed;
- 2) that you told the merchant you did not want the product within a reasonable time after accepting it, and before the item had deteriorated due to reasons other than the defect;
- 3) that the defect substantially impaired the value of the product; and
- 4) the warranty, if any, did not limit the buyer to choose between repair and replacement of the product.

ACCEPT OR REFUSE?

In cases where the buyer refuses to take the product when it is first delivered, the seller has the right to repair or replace the goods. However, if the buyer has accepted the product or goods and then later tells the seller he is revoking his acceptance, the seller has no right to insist on repair or replacement.

For example, a man in Dallas bought a large screen television from an area retailer. He paid cash and traded in his old set. The consumer experienced numerous problems with the set and the dealer attempted to repair it several times.

After only a few weeks, the set quit working altogether. The consumer then revoked his acceptance by telling the seller he did not wish to keep the set and wanted a refund plus his old TV returned to him. When the seller refused, the consumer sued.

Of course, consumers should remember that it is usually to their benefit to work out problems before going to court. The consumer in the case discussed above had to wait three and a half years before the Supreme Court ruled in his favor. Obviously, money was not the only thing at stake for that consumer.

FOR MORE HELP

If you believe you have properly revoked your acceptance of a defective item, but the seller refuses to refund your money, you may contact my Consumer Protection Division for help in mediating the dispute. The Attorney General's Office is the people's law firm. We are here to help you.

30 Years ago

The following excerpts were taken from the April 10, 1953 issue of The Santa Anna News:

Mr. and Mrs. John Clark of Sanford, Fla., are the parents of a son, Timothy Edward, born March 30. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Horner Burden of Santa Anna.

A very light vote was cast in the Saturday election of school trustees. Only 47 votes were cast, with the three men seeking reelection being re-elected. Those were Tom Stewardson, W. H. Pittard, and J. W. McClellan.

A complete change in the operation of the City of Santa Anna will result from the city election held here Tuesday. Dr. Charles W. Henner was elected without opposition as Mayor and Tom Hays, Robert Markland, Hardy Blue, Claude Hodges, and Preston Bailey were elected as Aldermen for the next two years. More votes were cast in the election than has been cast in any city election in recent years. It was estimated that every older citizen of the town voted during the day when 309 votes were cast. Very light voting was reported among the younger citizens.

Last week all the daily newspapers were full of articles about the Communist Party mailing pamphlets over the south. During the latter part of the week one was received by The News. We have not heard of anyone else here in town receiving one, but most likely several were received here. Best we could tell, the pamphlet was trying to stir up more trouble so far as racial problems are concerned.

Pecan cookoff set

Budding chefs, cooks and anyone interested in turning the humble pecan into a culinary star are encouraged to enter the Pecan Cook-off that will be held during the Brownwood Centennial on Saturday, April 14, along with the Country Fair at the Brown County Youth Fair Barns.

Contestants should preregister by contacting either Mrs. Dean Thompson at 646-7947 of Mrs. Jimmy Deen at 646-7323, or by mailing the registration form to Mrs. Thompson at 238 Crescent Drive in Early, or Mrs. Deen at Cherry Hills, also in Early. Copies of the registration form may be obtained from the News office in Santa Anna.

The recipe that is entered does not have to be original, but a list of the main ingredients does need to be submitted. Pecans do have to be the major ingredient and any kind of recipe will be accepted. Cooks are encouraged to cook their dish at the site but prepared foods will be accepted. Categories for the recipes will be announced later, and prizes will be awarded to the top three winners and to the first 30 participants as well. Both individual cooks and teams from businesses may enter. Judges include Mrs. Suzanne Doggett, dietician at the 4-H Center on Lake Brownwood and Leslie Fort, Miss Texas Pecan Queen.

Deadline for entering is Friday, April 13. Registration will begin at 2 p.m. on April 14, with on-site cooks to be in place earlier in the day, and other foods ready for judging by 2:30 p.m. Judging will begin at 3 p.m. The Pecan Cook-off is open to all area residents. ## Comptroller system announced

State Comptroller Bob Bullock and Treasurer Ann Richards have worked out a new and better system to safeguard state checks against payment errors and forgery.

A new automated system has been put in use to provide the treasury better verifications of checks written by the Comptroller. The old system will save the Treasury about $3,000 per month in staff and microfilm expense.

The new system will provide quicker verification to insure the amount on each state check is the same when the check is cashed as when it was written.

Plant Place

By Edith Martin

This question comes from a reader: What do I do with my Gardenia? I think the hard freeze last winter killed part of the bush.

Prune in early spring to remove any freeze damage. After the gardenia has bloomed, it can be pruned again to give it some shape.

The gardenia loves shade or part shade. They like an acid soil. Keep them well watered but where the soil will drain. When planting the gardenia, work the soil until it is very loose adding peat moss and finely shredded bark soil or compost.

After planting, mulch soil with coarse bark to help hold in moisture.

Is it time to put geraniums in the yard? If you put your geraniums away "dry" last fall, it will be alright to put them in the soil but if you have kept them in soil and they have tender leaves, I wouldn't put them in flower beds just yet. I would start setting them outside on pretty days so as to acquaint them with the outside world or toughen them up.

The geraniums are among the most widely grown flowering pot plant in the world. It is also one of the oldest. They will bloom through the winter months as pot plants with proper care and plenty of light, but also do great in flower beds in the yard all summer.

The "old-fashioned kind" do best in the yard, but must be taken up in the fall if you want them to live during the winter months. You can shake all the soil from the roots of the plants, place them in a storm cellar or any place they will be kept dry and above 40 degrees. When danger of frost has passed, they can be placed in the yard.

They will be dry and look as if they are dead. Place them soil, preferably with some sand and barn yard fertilizer worked well into the soil. Water well and in a few days they will begin to set green leaves and before long, buds will begin to appear.

You can propagate

geranium at any time by taking cuttings from older plants. For early spring blooming plants, they should be started during the last of August or the first of September in early spring for summer and fall blooming plants.

Husband, Derriel, self-employed in oil related activities. Children: Ron of Lake Jackson, Don of Houston, Marty, Mike, and Dwayne of Santa Anna area; and Doug, junior student at SAHS.
WHAT ARE YOUR QUALIFICATIONS FOR OFFICE?	First, I would have to say that being a parent, having a concern for my children in our school system is the most important qualification I have. Secondly, I serve as youth director in my church, making decisions for the well-being of our youth. Also, I serve on the Administrative Council and nominating committee, making decisions for the good of our church.	I've been self-employed for 20 years and have had as many as 150 employees under me.	Mainly, I care about our school system and the education that it provides. My occupational responsibilities enable me to have insight into the maintenance and upgrading of our school facility and bus system and I have no special interests to support and will be open minded and fair to all.	My formal education and background in teaching and administration would be an asset in making decisions relating to the school district. My particular experience in the fields of science and computers would be beneficial as educational trends advance rapidly in these directions.	Three years experience on the board, presently serving as vice-president of the board. I believe that I have rapport with the administration and faculty, as well as with the students and citizens of the community. Having been in business, I have experience in matters of finances and budgets and in dealing with matters of personnel.
FOR WHAT REASONS ARE YOU SEEKING A PLACE ON THE SCHOOL BOARD?	As a native of Santa Anna, I am concerned about the school I attended, and the school my children will attend. I also feel a need for the parents and community to be heard on issues that will affect their children in our schools. I cannot promise to always agree with your opinions, but I do promise to listen to all sides, and investigate the problem thoroughly before making a decision.	To try to improve the quality of education in the Santa Anna School system.	There should be only one reason for anyone to seek a place on the school board: "To provide the highest quality education possible for our children." Our future depends on attaining this. We have many fine young people in our schools and it is our obligation to provide them with the best education we can. I would like to help insure that the high academic and athletic education that have enjoyed in the past will continue to be provided in the future.	The quality of education in our entire community is of utmost importance. With four young children of my own, and 34 cumulative years of school years ahead of them, I will have a very personal interest for years to come. I would like to be a part of the direction of our system, representing both the business sector and those with agricultural interests.	I have a desire and willingness to serve, and feel that continuity is a definite plus factor. I am proud of our school system and will lend my efforts in helping to have a compatible working relationship within the board and with the administration, the faculty and the community. I am running FOR a place on the board and not against any individual or group.
WHAT WOULD YOU LIKE TO SEE ACCOMPLISHED IN THE SCHOOL DISTRICT?	I would like to see our parents more informed on what is happening in our schools. I feel that at times issues arise at school, that parents are not informed on, so they do not have the opportunity to call their school board members to express their opinion. When parents are not given the opportunity to state their opinions then the school board has only the opinion of the administration. I agree that the administration would be the first to see a problem and deal with it accordingly, but before the board meets to vote on any issue, they better understand how everyone involved, including parents, feel about the issue. I feel as a candidate for the school board, that I am representing you, the parent, and as a parent, I want my voice heard on the well being of my children.	I would like to see equal education in our schools. I would like to see improvements in our elementary school building.	I would like to see our school district pull together toward the education of our children, to support the many fine educators that we are fortunate to have in Santa Anna. Our educators are often overlooked for the great service they provide and the awesome responsibility they must carry. Many times our school district has been pulled apart in anger. Instead, let us all pull together for our children.	Consistency and quality education in all areas.	I would like to see an in-depth study of needed repairs or renovation of the elementary building, and then proceed with attending to those needs. I feel our academic program is on a level with any school our size, but as in any situation we can always find room for improvement, while keeping in mind that extra curricular activities help to make a well-rounded individual.
OTHER COMMENTS		I would like to see equal opportunity for all children that attend Santa Anna schools.			I would welcome the opportunity to answer questions about my candidacy. I also would encourage persons having concerns about the affairs of the school district to avail themselves of information that is theirs as a matter of public record and study the complete picture before drawing any conclusions.

Self Culture Club to meet

Private Property Week told

Governor Mark White has proclaimed April 8-14 Private Property Week to remind Texans of their right to own, protect, and revitalize property. The week is sponsored by the Texas Association of Realtors as part of the annual nationwide observance.

"We want everyone to be aware of the significance of private ownership rights in their lives. Home ownership brings out the best in people because it allows them to assume a responsibility, put down roots and make a commitment to the community," said William C. Jennings, president of the Texas Association of Realtors.

Pecan station sets tour

There will be a tour and field day conducted at the W. R. Poage USDA Pecan Field Station in Brownwood beginning at 8 a.m. on April 19.

Everyone interested in pecan production is invited to come and spend the day. A barbecue meal will be served at the Station at noon and tickets can be purchased when you register for the field day. Registration begins at 8 a.m.

Only the amount Medicare can pay is limited; the amount a doctor or other supplier charges is not limited.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: This week we are happy to present to Santa Anna News readers a new column entitled "The Rural Route 5". This is a heartwarming, funny series about a "hick" family who lives in the country in central Texas. The stories are told by a teenage boy named Clinton Roth who lives with his Grandma and Grandpa and little brother, Jesse, about their lives and situations they find themselves getting into.

By TRAVIS PRIDDY

Copyright 1982 Rural Route 5

Boy, I didn't have a good week at all last week. Everytime something happened, I got blamed for it or got in trouble because of it.

For instance, they were having a dance at Mary Taylor's house the other night and I wanted to go since everyone else was going to be there. But Grandma is one of those stiff shirts from the old school that believes that anything that has to do with dancing and parties is pure sin and wouldn't let me go.

But, I went anyway. I snuck out through my bedroom window and swore to my kid brother, Jesse, that I would strangle him if he uttered a word.

Well, as it turned out, Grandma had to visit the outdoor facilities that night and once inside, she came to the realization that she was keeping company with a possum. Grandpa said that she let out a wail like a banshee and actually tore the door off the hinges getting out. Now anyone that knows Grandma knows that she hobbles around on a walking stick, but Grandpa said that she chunked that sucker to the wind and high-tailed it to the house like any young deer.

Anyway, she swore that I had put that possum in the outhouse and came storming into my bedroom to give me the thrashing of my life, but, I was gone.

When I did come home, she almost scared the daylight out of me. I crawled back through the window and came face to face with her as she sat on my bed in the dark. Lord, she was mad! She pulled me into the kitchen by my ear to where Grandpa was seated at the table. She thought there was no other way to handle it but for him to take me out behind the barn right then and there and take a leather strap to my backside.

Little did she know that when we went outside, out of hearing distance, he told me what had happened and we laughed until our sides ached.

Now that ordeal wasn't as bad as what happened the next day when Grandpa found out I had been racing cars out on the road with his horse. He owns a car, but he still likes to go horseback riding everyday "to keep in touch with the good old days" as he puts it. I would think that an outdoor toilet would be sufficient for that.

That particular day, he decided to ride down the road to old man Martin's house and was going at a casual trot when the Reverend drove by in his new Pontiac. As he sped by, Ol' Maggie broke out in a full gallop just as fast as she could go.

Grandpa nearly fell out of the saddle a couple of times and finally had to wrap his arms around her neck to hold on, cussing like a sailor. They were just about to pass the Reverend's car when Maggie went under a low tree branch and knocked Grandpa off flat of his back on the ground.

He wasn't hurt too badly. It knocked the wind out of him and put a knot on his forehead along with a few bruises, but we finally made it out behind the barn, leather strap and all.

It's kind of odd to me, he didn't find that near as funny as what had happened to Grandma!

Approved Medicare charges discussed

Many people in the Brownwood area who have Medicare medical insurance protection are not sure just what is meant by "approved charges," Priscilla Ely, Social Security branch manager in Brownwood, said recently.

Under the law, payment of benefits under medical insurance is based on approved charges for covered services or supplies.

The approved charge for a medical service is decided by the Medicare carrier for each year. First, the carrier figures the customary charge by each doctor and supplier for each separate service or supply. This is usually the charge most often made.

Then, the carrier figures the prevailing charge for each covered service or supply. This charge is a figure high enough to cover the customary charge of three-fourths of the bills submitted the previous year for each service or supply. Increases in the prevailing charge from year to year are limited by an index formula based on the cost of doing business and raises in general earnings level.

3rd graders help restore Statue

Members of the two local third grade classes of the Santa Anna Elementary School are working on a nationwide project to restore the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor.

The statue, sometimes called Miss Liberty, was a gift to the people of the United States from the people of France some 200 years ago, and is now in a badly deteriorated state. Mrs. Roark and Mrs.

Greenlee, teachers of the two classes, are leading their students in bumper sticker sales and other fund-raising activities, proceeds from which will be donated to the restoration project.

Bumper stickers which read, "I donated to help Miss Liberty look like new," are on sale for $1 each, and aluminum cans are being collected by the students to be sold for cash for the project.

Brandi Horner and her grandfather will collect cans from local citizens who wish to donate to the project, and students Adel DeLeon, Cheree Halman, Marixa Longoria and Jeanie Patterson will be placing jars in businesses in order that donations can be made.

President Ronald Reagan has asked that the American people undertake this restoration rather than seek appropriations from Congress.

Locally, Mrs. C. D. Bruce is spear-heading the restoration project.

Textile timing schedule regulates clothing selection

COLLEGE STATION--If you've ever wondered why the stores are filled with bathing suits in February and winter coats in July, it's because of the textile manufacturing chain.

"The textile timing schedule which puts spring and summer clothes on the market in January, or fall and winter clothes on the market in July, leaves some consumers satisfied and others exasperated," says Dr. Ann Vanderpoorten, a clothing specialist with the Texas A & M University Agricultural Extension Service.

According to a fiber industry study, the cycle from fiber producer to consumer takes about a year and half, she says.

For example, fiber producers and mills begin in March of 1984 to project color and fabric trends for the fall and winter of 1985.

The fabrics they produce will be shown and delivered to the various cutting trades from August of 1984 through February of 1985.

Garments will then be manufactured for delivery to the stores in May and June for display in July and August of 1985. In the meantime, a similar cycle will begin for spring and summer clothes, she explains.

Timing in textile production evolved mostly as a function of the cotton crop and wool shearing season as well as the weather in the northeastern United States, which has been the traditional center of the garment trade, notes Vanderpoorten.

While September is considered cool in the northeastern states, however, it's still in the 80s and 90s in the sunbelt states and many consumers are not psychologically ready to buy warm clothing. Consumers who live in warmer climates, are also leaning toward somewhat more seasonless clothes, says the specialist.

In addition, the economic climate means they may not be willing to part with their dollars two to three months before they need the apparel.

In spite of this, fashion merchandisers are often anxious to give their customers something new before their competitors do. So consumers who are not satisfied with the timing of clothing seasons in the stores need to let their feelings be known to retailers, suggests Vanderpoorten.

Knowing something about the textile industry timing can help you get more for your clothing dollar, says the specialist.

Over a six month fashion season, consumers seem to fall into four different categories.

--The "innovators or pioneers" want to be first and don't worry about price. They usually buy during the first five weeks of the season.

--The "early majority" buy trend merchandise when they need it, in proper season and at the regular price. They usually buy during the second and third months.

--The "late majority" wait to buy until they see others with the merchandise. They are price-conscious and like to keep their dollar for as long as possible. They will typically buy during the fourth and fifth months.

--The "laggards" are discount-oriented and do not buy unless there is a break in price. They tend to purchase during the last month of the season.

Probably all of us fit in several of these categories, depending upon the type of clothing we're buying, says Vanderpoorten. One consumer, for example, might be in the early majority when buying clothes for work, yet purchase casual clothes only at the end of the season.

Sales are often used at the end of the early majority buying period to draw the majority into the market, notes the specialist. Retailers will also drop prices substantially during the last weeks of the season to attract discount-oriented buyers and clean out their inventories.

By following textile timing and clothing sales, consumers can save significantly on their clothing costs, says Vanderpoorten.

FOR WHAT REASONS ARE YOU SEEKING A PLACE ON THE CITY COUNCIL?	I believe giving persons that have never been on the council a chance to see what they can do. I, Dorothy Alsobrook, can and will try to help people and the city as much as they will let me. I have no other job so I can put full time in.	I am interested in the city work and enjoy working with them. I have worked with them through the city park. I grew up in this town and I want my kids to do the same. We have a good town and if we will all work together we can keep it that way.	To be of service to my many friends in the management of our city's business.	I feel that I can contribute to solving the needs and problems of the city, now and in the future. I have a desire to see Santa Anna prosper and be a better place in which to live.	Concern for the betterment of city, to help the city progress	We are facing difficult times as a city and I think I can best serve the community as a council member at this time.	A clean town restored to unity, upkeep homes and surroundings, in fact better environment for all people. A place where everyone works together.
WHAT DO YOU FEEL ARE THE GREATEST NEEDS OF THE CITY?	To fix holes in streets, the city is looking much better. The city lots are getting a new look. If I'm elected I will do my best for the town and the people.	water, streets, sewer	Cash flow of enough money to be able to pay the ongoing expenses of our city, and to look forward to improvements that will make our town a safer and more attractive place to live	1. I feel the city needs to become financially solvent, without continued expenses to the citizens. 2. water and sewer 3. Street repairs 4. Maintenance program for equipment	The city to be able to operate in the black on a month to month basis; city clean-up; road repair; revenue (lack of)	1. Water - We need a new source of water. 2. Streets - most all need repair or replacement. 3. Sanitation - We must have a new land fill. 4. Clean up - Business and residential sections need a lot of changes to make our town clean and desirable. 5. Jobs - We need to attract new industry to create more job opportunities.	Streets and water lines repaired, a clean campaign and all present rules and guidelines enforced, and other restrictions added. I would like to see our town where people are attracted to come and live and raise their families.
OTHER COMMENTS	Most of the people in this town are on fixed income, the city council should consider their feelings on how much of their income they can pay for taxes and increases for the city.		I firmly believe in the Fatherhood of God, the saving power of Jesus Christ and the brotherhood of man. When the wagon breaks down or is in disrepair get out and push it you are able, but, at least, don't drag your feet.		I would appreciate everyone's support, but most of all the citizens - qualified voters - to go to the polls on election day and vote, support the candidate of your choice, take an interest in our city and community.		Enforce sanitation laws. After living here or close by all my life, I can see a number of needs. I feel that I could render some service if I am elected.
