Police Chief injuries treated

A disturbance at a family reunion early Saturday morning ended with one man being jailed and Chief of Police Russell Ellis being treated for minor injuries.

Mr. Ellis said he responded to the location on Cedar St. after receiving a call of a fight brewing between two men at about 3:30 a.m.

While attempting to talk to one of the two men involved, Ellis said the man suddenly attacked him. After several minutes, Ellis said he was able to break away, get to his patrol car and call for assistance. Officers from Coleman Police Department responded and the man was apprehended after a brief search and foot chase.

Chief Ellis said the 36 year old man from Pampa, Texas was charged with assault on a peace officer, a felony, and is being held in the Coleman County jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Mr. Ellis said he greatly appreciated the quick response and able assistance of officers Wayne Knowles and Sam Bell of the Coleman PD in the subduing and apprehension of the suspect.

Off the cuff

by Jan Naron Henderson

A visitor last Friday morning in the News office brought some good, old stories about some people and times he remembered.

I enjoyed a visit with Joe Haynes, born 1897 at Trickham and reared locally, who told me some stories on my own kinfolks.

Mr. Haynes said he remembered walking to parties and singings with my grandmother, Dixie Baugh Cupps, when they were youngsters. He said they were "friends, not sweethearts," but they ended up walking together a lot since he used to "hang out" at the Baugh place.

He said he also remembered Bill,

John and Reed Cupps, and he thought Bill, my grandfather, was "a wild little fellow," and Elmer Cupps was one of the best friends Haynes ever had.

I enjoy hearing about my grandparents, especially. Mr. Haynes' stories, like those of many who come into the office to share with me, made me think about my grandparents again.

I thought, in my youth, that they were wonderful, and I miss them now, in my young adulthood. I've wished for them many times, that I could enjoy them now that I am old enough to appreciate those who have behind them the wisdom of years.

That's another reason I enjoyed the visit with Mr. Haynes. He kept saying he would finish this one more story and then "get out of here." But I was wishing I could listen to his stories all day.

Mr. Haynes said he remembered in 1907 or 1908, when they were building the first Santa Anna lake. He and his father, Charlie Haynes, came to town from Trickham, looking to visit with L. L. Shields, who was a livery stable owner and ran cattle on the free range, and who employed Charlie.

The father and son went out to where the lake was being dug to find Shields, and Joe, who was a very young boy, remembered being impressed with the size of Shields. He was a big man, Joe Haynes said, and he remembered that Mr. Shields manually freed a team of oxen and a plow from a large rock where they were stuck. Mr. Haynes said Mr. Shields dropped a "big six-shooter" out of his coat, which impressed Haynes as a boy.

Haynes also told of my grandfather, William H. (Bill) Cupps, who had dropped out of school but became interested in school at the Bugtussle School House where Haynes was a student. He said

Cupps would come to school and have to obey the same rules as the students, which Haynes and the other boys found very amusing. Haynes said the teacher, Blanche Boyd, would write the rules on the blackboard and make everyone obey them. He said he remembered Cupps having to "walk the campus several times."

Mr. Haynes also said he remembered an occasion when John and Reed Cupps instructed Tommy Harrison to make some sweeps, made of iron, a little harder than usual. He said Reed Cupps forgot how hard they were and threw them out of his truck, and the things "just broke all over the place."

Haynes said he also remembered Markum Henderson, who would have been my daughter's great-grandfather, and he spoke very fondly of the Henderson family from the days when Ray and Clay and Roy and "all that bunch" were boys.

He seemed to have a wealth of memories to share, and I found it interesting to hear some old stories on people I now know and some I do not know. The history of a town is only as interesting as the stories about its people, and Joe Haynes apparently could write several chapters of Santa Anna's memoirs.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor;

I just want to commend you for the feature story on fathers in last week's edition of The Santa Anna News. I hope it can be a yearly feature.

Also, I want to commend those fathers who recognize the importance of Christianity and the principles taught in the Bible about the family. Ephesians 6:4 is a good example for fathers.

CREDIT CARD GUIDELINES

For many Texans credit cards are an every day convenience. But credit cards can be a major headache when they are used improperly or when the card company's computer makes an error in your bill.

The best advice for credit card users is to keep a copy of each receipt and compare receipts with charges when you receive your bill. If you find an error, you should attempt to settle the dispute as soon as possible.

WHAT THE LAW SAYS

Under the federal Fair Credit Billing Act, the consumer has 60 days to send a written notice to the credit card company of any errors in his bill. Be sure to include your account number and an explanation of why you think the bill is incorrect. The company must acknowledge your complaint within 30 days of receiving it and must take appropriate action within 90 days. The company is required by law either to make corrections in the bill or to investigate the complaint and explain why the consumer owes the amount billed.

In cases where the consumer says he or she was billed for an item never received, it is the credit card company's duty to verify that the item was actually delivered or mailed.

Kingsbery promoted in San Antonio

Kingsbery was general manager of the Texas

COMPLAINTS

If you have a complaint about your bill, the company may not close your account prior to doing the above and sending you a written explanation of your account. You will have at least 10 days from the time you receive the explanation to pay the disputed amount. After that time, the company can declare your account delinquent and report that information to third parties. However, the law says the company must also report that the bill is in dispute, and must give the consumer written notice if the delinquency is reported to third parties.

If the dispute is later resolved, the creditor must notify the same parties of the resolution.

If your credit card company allows you to pay the full balance without payment of a finance charge, the company must give you at least 14 days from the date the bill is mailed to pay that bill.

FOR MORE HELP

If you feel that you have been treated unfairly by a credit card company after following the procedures outlined above, you may contact my Consumer Protection Division for assistance. There are Consumer Protection offices in Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Lubbock, McAllen, and San Antonio. The Attorney General's office is the people's law firm. We're here to help you.

Hunters Directory before joining the Outfit.

His new responsibilities will include the overall daily operations of the company, overseeing the nationwide sales force, marketing and advertising, training management seminars and trade show activities.

A graduate of Texas A & M University, Kingsbery has a bachelor's degree in agricultural journalism.

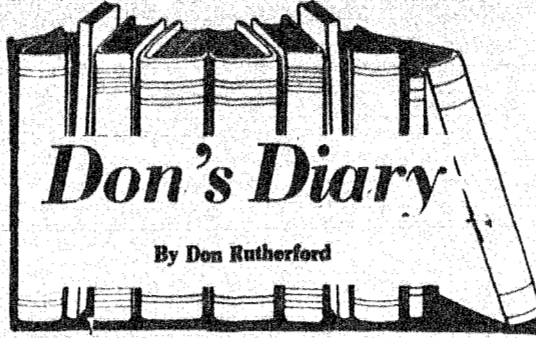

He is also currently serving as a director and chairman of the agricultural committee of the Texas South Australia Sesquicentennial Foundation.

WEDDINGS

June is the month of weddings. It seems there are more weddings in June than any other month.

Have you ever thought of what a wedding means? Three words came to me: anticipation, preparation and celebration.

A wedding is anticipation. It is a time of drawing to reality, dreams of a home, hopes of a couple and wonderment of love fulfilled.

A wedding is preparation. We are expecting some old friends from Mississippi this week. We have spent a lot of time in making preparations for their four day visit. We are looking forward to laughing over old times and fond memories.

A wedding is a lot of work, but it is rewarding when the bride and groom share their special time with their friends and loved ones.

A wedding does not eliminate the hurts and anguish often felt. But this can be blended into a loving relationship. Life has a way of weaving the good and bad together to develop character and compassion.

A wedding is a celebration. It's a time of joy and laughter and tears. A wedding is a formal time of taking vows, but a marriage is a celebration of living those vows. A wedding ceremony takes only twenty minutes or so, but a marriage is a celebration lasting (hopefully and prayerfully) many years.

Rings are usually given as symbols of never-ending love. They are circles of love and concern.

A wedding is a lot of work, especially for the bride's family. But a marriage is even more work. It has been said that all weddings are happy. It's the living together afterwards that's tough.

People often say "The honeymoon's over." People stop showing their love and concern, stop saying "I love you," and forget their loved ones in the push for success in business. How sad that this happens so frequently in today's world!

If you are planning a wedding this summer, make plans not only for your wedding, but for your life and your marriage. Don't go into marriage with the idea that if it doesn't work out, I'll just walk out.

Be prepared for the happy times in your marriage. Love and cherish them as a special gift of God's love for people. But, there are some rough and tough times as well. Be prepared for them and work through them together. That's the key to a lasting, happy marriage.

Remember, no one is perfect and life is not always fair. Work at your marriage and make it what God intended it to be.

For those of you planning summer weddings, God bless you. For those of you already married, spend some time with your loved son and remember the joy, laughter, and tears of your wedding and marriage. Plan to be more loving and concerned for your life partner, just as you were when you first said, "I do."

The State Department of Health's X-ray machine will be in Santa Anna Monday and Tuesday for the purpose of taking pictures of all persons' chests to determine whether or not they have any signs of tuberculosis. The exact location of where the machine will be has not been determined, but will be announced in next week's paper. This same operation was carried out in Santa Anna on June 7 and 8 in 1949 and 1,117 persons were X-rayed.

Hot weather has lots of different kinds of effects on different things and Sunday afternoon the heat was the cause of the local water supply having to be cut off for several hours. It seems that the concrete at the corner of Wallis Avenue and North Lee Street got so hot it began expanding and during the course of the expansion it caused a water valve to break loose and water went almost everywhere. The city crew went to work immediately to replace the valve and the water was off for about 2 1/2 to 3 hours.

A group of military personnel from Goodfellow Air Force Base, San Angelo, will pay a friendly call to Santa Anna on Tuesday, to advertise a gala three day carnival to be held at the Base July 3-5.

Winter can take its toll on the complexion. Toni Christensen, fitness and nutrition consultant to the Home Spa program, offers this three-point schedule for an inexpensive, useful summer skin spruce up.

Cleanse. Choose a mild beauty bar like DOVE, in lieu of soap that can be skin drying. Work the lather in a circular upward motion. Rinse well with tepid water.

Exfoliate. Rid your complexion of dead facial cells that can make skin look dull and lifeless. Whip up an exfoliating mask by combining 1/4 cup of oatmeal, juice from 1/2 lemon and a single tablespoon of honey. Mix together to form a moistened paste. Pat on and leave for twenty minutes. Remove with a warm wash cloth and circular motions.

Moisturize. To complete your treatment, give dry skin a boost with this moisturizing mask. Combine an egg yolk with one tablespoon of yogurt and one tablespoon of honey. The fat in the egg yolk helps seal in the skin's moisture. Pat on and relax for twenty minutes. Rinse thoroughly.

If your skin is oily, substitute the egg white for egg yolk and follow the same directions.

Plant Place

by Edith Martin

One of the most fascinating of plants is the night blooming cereus, Hylocereus Undatus (pronounced hy-lo-ser-ee-us un-day-tus). It is a form of spineless cactus requiring very little care. When you first look at it you may think it needs a lot of care but the opposite case is true.

It has sprawling, thin, flat stems and from that stem forms many more stems. The more you look, the more fascinating it becomes.

The night blooming cactus makes a nice plant for the porch or patio but if your porch is small like mine, it will thrive under a tree in the yard.

They don't seem to mind the heat at all, but when temperatures are at 100 degrees or above, be sure the cereus is in the shade.

They like a well-drained soil similar to the cactus. Use equal parts potting soil peat moss and sharp sand or perlite or both. The cereus should be brought indoors before the first frost.

They do like a sunny window. I am told they can be kept indoor the year around. However, they require a dark room from sunset to sunrise throughout the blooming season, which is from July to October.

A night blooming cereus must be about four years old before blooming. They may have only one blossom the first year they bloom but the number of blossoms increase each year. I had

The eighth annual McClintock Reunion was held at Brady Lake May 24 through May 28. A luncheon was served on Saturday, May 26 to forty friends and relatives. During the weekend, a total of 43 attended, enjoying fishing, boating, and visiting. Plans are being made to have the reunion at Lake Brownwood State Park in 1985.

Those in attendance were Mrs. E. E. McClintock, Earlene Scott, and J. R. and Helen Haynes; all of Santa Anna, as well as Pat, Preston, and Jennifer Little of Vernon; Tom, Leanne, and Deanna Scott and Billy Scott and Martha Knox of Wichita Falls; Susie Scott of Liberty Hill; Charles, Sandra and Brant Wallace, Jason Edwards, and Jesse and Yvonne Walls of Levelland; Gary, Arlena, Skyla, Brian and Katie Nelson of Litton Springs; Jodie, Mary, and Jodi Kay Wallace of Austin; Sheila and Faron Wallace of Coleman; Joyce Leffingwell, Mike, Debbie, and Crystal Jordan, Lendall, Becky and Shelby Widner, and Lafaunda, Robin and Lance Buford, all of Odessa; Lyndon and Lavelle Haynes of Jal, N.M.; and G. The reunion is held each year in memory of Earl McClintock, who died July 22, 1977.

Cutting calories is weight key

Despite all the gimmicks for "quick" and "easy" weight loss, the only safe and effective way to lose pounds is to cut back on high-calorie foods and exercises regularly, says the Texas Medical Association.

The revolutionary diets are promoted more and more every year. And every year thousands of people begin these diets and are disappointed when they fail to lose weight permanently.

Advocates of quick and easy reduction programs may suggest practices ranging from sweating off weight to starving it away. They may recommend pills, hormonal therapy, or diets emphasizing a single food such as grapefruit, bananas, or rice.

The real problem with many of these methods is that they are seriously lacking in essential nutrients. Not only will people on these diets be malnourished, but they often become bored with a diet's monotony and give it up. The pounds they managed to shed will come back as they revert to overeating high-calorie foods.

Fasting and very low-calorie diets like liquid protein ones can be dangerous. Most people ultimately find fasting disappointing because weight regained after a fast is put on first as fat. Since fat tissue requires fewer calories to sustain itself than muscle tissue, it is harder for an individual to lose weight the next time.

In addition, the body responds to a drastic cut-back in calories by lowering the rate at which it burns them. For many dieters, this means that even if they do not cheat on their diet, weight loss may halt.

Exercise, however, can change all this. It conditions the muscles, helps to burn calories, lowers blood pressure, and allows a person to eat enough food to obtain required nutrients without gaining weight.

Recent research also suggests that exercise significantly increases the body's metabolism. Some studies suggest that after vigorous exercise the body continues to burn calories at a higher rate than it would have without exercise.

These benefits can best be achieved through a half-hour of vigorous activity like fast walking, jogging, fast bicycling, swimming, rollerskating, jumping rope, or aerobic dancing three times a week.

Coded food dating easy

Coded dating on packaged foods is a mystery that most consumers can solve with a little information, says a Texas Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

Perishable foods with less than 30 days of shelf life, such as milk or baked goods, frequently carry a "sell-by" date, says Bonnie L. Piernot, an Extension specialist with Texas A & M University.

"Some consumers believe the food is no good if it's still in the store on the sell-by date," she says. "Actually, the food will be wholesome if used right away, but consumers should buy before the package date if they want to allow for home storage, even in the refrigerator."

The open sell-by dates on perishable foods are easy for consumers to understand, but are not required on all foods, she notes.

Semi-perishable food with a shelf life of 30 days to 6 months, such as cereals and crackers, and foods with a shelf life of over six months, such as canned and frozen goods, also have sell-by dates. But these present a challenge to consumers, says Piernot, since they have usually expressed in a code.

The codes can be figured if you know something of how the system works, says the home economist. Sometimes letters are used to represent the month, or in baked goods, the day of the week, she explains. So

"A" in a code may mean either January or Monday.

Numbers represent the day of the month and year. For example, "B24" could stand for February 2, 1984. In other cases numbers can represent the day and year. So 2804 can mean the 280th day of this year, October 6, 1984.

Checking dates on packaged food can help consumers get the most nutrition for their food dollar. According to Piernot, the fastest loss in food value occurs during and immediately after the processing for packaging. But the loss of nutrient quality continues at a slower pace all during the life of canned and frozen foods.

Dating codes can also remind consumers to rotate food stocks at home, and to use foods roughly in the order in which they were purchased. Storing foods for too long, even canned goods, can mean a loss of nutrients and wasted dollars, cautions the home economist.

Drought planning ideas

Drought planning principles for wildlife actually boil down to range management principles.

Ecologically, there are a given number of plants to support a given number of animals, livestock and wildlife. Since plant populations are down during dry periods, it follows that livestock and wildlife numbers also need to be adjusted in dry periods.

This is the philosophy of Dr. Dwight Guynn, wildlife specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, headquartered at Uvalde.

He emphasizes that it is much easier to quickly adjust the stocking rates of livestock than those of wildlife.

"With wildlife, landowners or ranch managers can only reduce wildlife numbers legally during the fall hunting season by allowing hunting. As the hunting season approaches, the owners and managers need to conduct wildlife censuses to be able to predict what the wildlife numbers will be in the next year. The fall harvest is planned around those numbers to keep the wildlife population in balance with the food supply," Guynn explains.

During drought, ranchers many also reduce some of the numbers of livestock which compete with wildlife for forage and browse. For example, cattle are not as competitive as sheep or goats; and sheep are not as competitive for the same food supply as goats, he adds. This information may provide some guidance in times of drought

Educate teens on smoking

With an estimated 300,000 deaths per year linked to cigarette smoking in the United States, this habit continues to be a major public health problem.

The Texas Medical Association says one of the best ways to battle the problem is to educate teenagers on the harmful effects of smoking. Scientific studies have tied smoking to deaths from lung cancer, emphysema, chronic bronchitis, and heart disease.

Smoking among teenagers is of particular concern because the earlier one starts to smoke, the more difficult it is to quit. And those who begin at a young age have a longer total smoking time, so they face a higher risk or disease.

Unfortunately, teenagers may not consider the health consequences of their habit. The possibility of developing cancer or any other fatal health problem may seem remote and less important than trying to impress peers.

Many people believe that smoking just a few cigarettes will not hurt because they can stop whenever they want. Few people starting to smoke realize just how addictive the nicotine in cigarettes is. The habit is also expensive.

Parents and teachers can play an influential part in encouraging teens not to smoke by setting an example or not smoking and by:

Helping teens recognize how easy it is to get hooked on cigarettes.

Teaching teenagers how cigarette advertising uses misleading images to manipulate them into making decisions dangerous to their health. An ad may imply that the attractive, slender woman shown is happy and successful because she smokes, but there is, of course, no relationship.

Making sure teens understand how cigarette smoking damages health. In addition to the long-term risks of death, immediate effects include reduced physical endurance and poor athletic performance.

Helping teens resist pressure from peers who smoke by providing them with information needed to defend their decision not to smoke. Encourage them to educate others about the serious health risks and expense of smoking. Point out that a 1982 nationwide study of high school seniors revealed that only 6 to 7 percent felt that smoking a cigarette makes someone look "cool."

Whon News

By Mrs. Tom Rutherford

Last week when mentioning the callers in our home Sunday I failed to mention the nice visit from Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Bible of Santa Anna and possibly there are others. We are so grateful for every visitor, cards, telephone calls and in anyway your thoughts of us.

Our son Thomas Ray arrived safely home on Tuesday of last week. In a call today he greeted me with "How are you this beautiful rainy day?" He was so in hopes it was raining here since it was raining there today. We are certainly still in need of rain.

Mrs. Bob Smith and daughter Deborah of Abilene, Loyd Rutherford and Todd were Sunday dinner guests with me. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cooper of Rockwood Mr. and Mrs. Hilary Rutherford of Coleman. Rev. and Mrs. James Ford of Santa Anna, and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Deal of Rockwood were afternoon callers. Thanks so very much for the thoughtfulness for us.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham Fitzpatrick visited Sunday with their son Mr. and Mrs. Don Fitzpatrick and children in Santa Anna.

Mrs. Bob (Patsy) Smith of Abilene and Loyd Rutherford from Whon attended the Cooper reunion in the Dunn Community Center between Colorado City and Snyder. They reported a very nice day. All of the children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Tom and Effie Cooper were present. But not very many grandchildren attended. But my children reported a very enjoyable day and really I don't feel that anyone could be around the jolly group and say they did not enjoy the day. The crowd was not so large but what they enjoyed sitting and visiting together and enjoyed the day eating with abundance of food. They all made their departure around 5 p.m. and felt the day was well spent. They plan to meet again on Saturday before Father's Day in 1985.

NOTICE - Only one notice will be sent for subscription renewals. Please renew upon receipt of notice so that you won't miss an issue.

Tuesday night of last week, myself, Mrs. Bob Smith, Loyd Rutherford and son Todd attended a hamburger cookout in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hilary Rutherford at Coleman celebrating the birthday of the Hilary Rutherford's son in law, Bobby Boatright. Two of Bobby's sisters of Las Vegas were present. Also several friends were there.

The hamburgers were prepared by Rocky Rutherford and Loy Guthrie and they were very good. And Bobby had a nice birthday.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Riley McFarlin during the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith and their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Don Mitchell of Cayuga. Mr. Roy Creek of Bangs. Mr. Allen Wells and Mr. Rolan Deal of Santa Anna, also Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith and son Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Smith and son Delbert of Dalhart on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Smith and Danny Wheatley were shopping in Brownwood on Sunday. Those mentioned attended the Wells reunion at the Coleman Park. Charley Wells of Coleman also visited the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rutherford of Lewisville visited in our home Saturday afternoon. Was so good seeing them one more time. Jack is the son of the late Jack Rutherford and Mrs. May rutherford of Lewisville. We remember him as Pete Wendell. He gave us the subscription to the Santa Anna News. Thanks and come again. He reported he had been possibly over 30 years since he was at Whon.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham Fitzpatrick attended the wedding of the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bowker of Santa Anna in Abilene Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Graham Fitzpatrick visited with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bowker in Santa Anna Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Morris attended the Morris reunion at Richards Park in Brady Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. Morris only attended on Sunday but Mr. Morris attended both days. They reported a nice reunion and relatives were there from several different places, including California, Utah, Illinois, Brownwood, Waco, Whon and locally around Brady.

Loyd Rutherford visited with Jerry Johnson of near Abilene a while Saturday night. Todd Rutherford spent Saturday and Saturday night with me.

Hilary Rutherford of Coleman visited with Todd and myself Saturday afternoon following attending the anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bryan at Rockwood. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Grote and daughters visited with Todd and myself Saturday night. The Grotes were shopping in Brownwood Saturday. Orval Bible of Houston visited with us awhile Saturday afternoon.

A Quiet Celebration
More and more communities situated near airports are quietly celebrating something quite unusual... quiet. That's right. Thanks to a combination of factors... including concerned aircraft manufacturers building planes that are quieter... the noise level in airport communities is being lowered. Some jets are being reengineered with newly developed super-quiet engines.

Trees planted around airports act as acoustical barriers to absorb noise. Also contributing to the quiet, report experts at the National Business Aircraft Association, are pilots who avoid low flying and populated areas wherever possible. Airports are helping reduce noise, too. One of the things they do is to assure that noise abatement procedures and techniques are posted where they will be noticeable to all pilots. Communities know the benefits and values of air transportation to their towns. Now they also know how general aviation is helping to make aircraft quieter.

This book is refreshing in its simplicity. It contains the truths which Dr. Johnson said we knew as children, but must relearn as adults. "We all knew how to be happy when we were children," he said, "I've learned in my own life that while the problems

Gift promises lasting joy

The secret to personal happiness, elusive for so many people, may be found in a clear gift box wrapped with a gold ribbon.

Inside the box is THE PRECIOUS PRESENT, the new book by bestselling author Spencer Johnson, M.D., with its simple, yet profound message: happiness comes from living in the present, not in the past or future.

"It is the one gift that makes you happy forever," explains Johnson, co-author of THE ONE MINUTE MANAGER which sold two million copies and continues to dominate bestseller lists.

THE PRECIOUS PRESENT, is an allegorical parable of a young person's journey through life. The character faces the concerns of aging, choosing goals, relationships, health, money and success. "THE PRECIOUS PRESENT is a view of the world gleaned from my own experience as opposed to my academic training," said the physician-turned-writer.

A physician, educated at Royal College of Surgeons, Harvard Medical School and the Mayo Clinic, Dr. Johnson discovered that many people's problems are caused when they fail to live in the present and spend their time concerned about the future or brooding about the past. As he says in the book, "When I feel guilty over my imperfect past, or I am anxious about my unknown future, I do not live in the present... The present moment is the only reality I ever experience."

When malted milk was first invented, it was known as Diastoid. The year was 1882.
