HOME TOWN TALK

By BEDDY

Something to try and figure out is the attitude of more than fifty members of the lower house of the legislature with reference to submission to the people of a proposed amendment to the constitution that would empower the legislature to issue state bonds for retirement of county indebtedness incurred for construction of state roads, and for further construction of highways.

Many people are of the opinion, apparently, that the legislature's passage of the resolution submitting the amendment to the people would be the final step necessary to allow issuance of the bonds.

Of course, that idea is incorrect.

Why members of the legislature will vote against letting the people vote on a proposition that has been more widely discussed in Texas during the past three years than any other relating to legislation we cannot understand.

The people deserve to be allowed to pass on this question. As pointed out recently in a convention of West Texas county commissioners and judges, the question for the legislature is not: shall the bonds be issued? That question must rest with the people.

There is strong indication that a sort of sub-surface jealousy between the two houses of legislature that is always in existence whether the public notices it much or not has had a strong effect upon handling of the state bond resolution.

The lower house has a way of coming out of opposing a bill at least in part because the upper house favored it, or vice versa.

Another reason for the attitude of these legislators has its origin in the last race for governor. Some members are so narrow they cause them to rob the people of the right to pass on this widely discussed question.

Who you voted for in the race for governor should have nothing to do with your passage of judgment on the state bond proposal, even if the successful candidate was the exponent of the bond plan.

This ought to be the attitude of both legislators and voters.

The constitution provides that amendments to it must be approved by vote of the people. Of course it would not be wise to open the flood gates and without serious thought approve every resolution proposing to submit an amendment to the people.

This does not hold good in the case of the bond proposal because it has been so continuously before the people for so long.

Let the people decide this business once and for all.

The delay and apparent defeat in submitting this amendment only bears out the warning issued in this column some months ago that the county that waits to see what will happen to the bond plan before voting county bonds to pave its roads will perhaps go a long, long time without roads.

Which reminds us of the report of a motorist who drove from San Angelo to Big Spring the other day following a rain. He drove from San Angelo to Sterling City in one hour. It took him five and one-half hours to drive from Sterling City to Big Spring.

Beef Feeding Test Results Are Released

One Lot of Steers Gains Average 2.75 Pounds Each Daily

The feeders day field meet was concluded at the U. S. experiment station here Friday by announcement of the result of the cooperative beef cattle feeding test conducted jointly by the U. S. department of agriculture and Texas A. & M. college over a 140 day period ended Friday.

Thirty head of steer yearlings procured from a Borden county ranch for this purpose were fed in three lots. Rations were: lot 1—ground milo heads, cottonseed meal and cane fodder; lot 2—milo heads, cottonseed meal, cane fodder and alfalfa hay; lot 3—ground milo heads, cottonseed meal, cottonseed hulls and alfalfa hay.

Final recapitulation of the results of the test disclosed that the ten steers in lot three had made the largest average daily gain per head with 2.75 pounds. The average daily gain per head in lot 1 was 2.6 pounds and in lot 2, 2.47 pounds.

At the outset of the feeding period steers in lot 1 and 2, averaged 612.2 pounds and those in lot 3, 611.5 pounds. At the end of the period lot 1 steers averaged 975.23, lot 2 averaged 956.95 and lot 3, 955.97 pounds. The average gain per head was 364.03 for lot 1, 343.45 for lot 2, and 344.77 for lot 3.

Cost of feed for 100 pound gain was $8.57 for lot 1, $9.59 for lot 2, and $9.34 for lot 3.

Included in the program the 4-H club says of Howard county sold twenty calves at auction at an average of nine cents with an additional premium given by local business men. The feeding record for the boys showed exceptional gains ranging from two to three and four-tenths pounds per day covering a feeding period of more than 120 days. Packer buyers estimated the calves would bring from seven one-half to nine cents on primary market.

The prize winning calf of the Feeder Calf Club boys, which was owned by Buster Caudle, was purchased at auction by Jim Black of the Sweetwater Cotton Oil Co. and handled by J. S. Garlington and Son of Vincent, and sold to Shivers and Jenkins.

Senator Couzens Continues Wage Discussion in Open Letter Sent to U.S. Chamber of Commerce Leader

Senator James Couzens of Michigan is determined to compel the United States Chamber of Commerce to take a definite stand on wage cutting.

President William Butterworth, after announcing that the Chamber would be pleased to receive suggestions from Senator Couzens, changed his mind and declared it would be impossible for the organization to grant the Senator a hearing at its Atlantic City convention, because "the program was full."

Undimayed by this rebuff, Senator Couzens returned to the attack in a letter which he released to the press last Monday and this to say to President Butterworth:

Invitation Not Received

Dear Mr. Butterworth:

On April 16 there was published in the press a statement from you to the effect that I would be invited to the nineteenth annual meeting of the Chamber starting at Atlantic City on April 28, but I am sorry to say that no such invitation has been received. In fact, I am advised that your program committee considered sending me an invitation, but reached the conclusion not to do so.

I am therefore taking the liberty of addressing an open letter to you in the hope that you, as head of the National Chamber, will arrange for consideration of some of the subjects which I dealt with in my communication to the country on April 15.

Mr. Julius Barnes, in a recent statement stated that there were normally about 45 million persons employed receiving wages of approximately $30,000,000 daily; that there were five million out of work, with the 40 million still employed receiving about $24,000,000, and therefore suggests that this $49,000,000 be spread over the entire number of 45 million usually employed.

Puts Burden on Jobless

In other words there is to be taken from those employed approximately $5,000,000 daily to be distributed in wages for employment of those now unemployed.

Does this not place the entire burden of unemployment on the wage earners and relieve capital of any expense in taking care of the five million unemployed?

Does the Chamber visualize that what is causing the failure of business to recover is the instability of the income of those already working?

Does the Chamber realize that this some forty million of workers in self-preservation must conserve every dollar possible in fear of having their incomes reduced or cut off entirely by further unemployment?

Does the Chamber realize that those employed only or part time cannot play any part in bringing about the recovery of business?

Will the Chamber at its convention please go on record whether or not they believe in a reduction in wages or a possible increase or at least a maintenance of existing wage scales?

Would the Chamber adjust?

Does the Chamber realize that to reduce wages would simply bring around a mal-adjustment of the distribution of the earnings of capital and labor that existed before

Judge Smith To Hear Criminal Cases This Week

Criminal week will open Monday morning in district court, with a comparatively light docket. No major cases, in all probability, will be tried. A number of pleas of guilty are expected to be entered, according to court officials. Although the grand jury for this term has returned eighteen indictments, a number of those indicted have not been arrested, and four of them have been transferred to county court.

Among the indictments returned Thursday by the body and transferred to county court, were those against Lorin McDowell, charging aggravated assault, and Frances Gray, charging the same offense.

The petit jury for the first week of court was dismissed Friday afternoon without hearing any cases. All of the civil cases called for trial during the first week were either continued, settled out of court, or heard by Judge Fritz H. Smith, by trial. ### Odessa Citizens Subscribe Stock To Re-Open Bank

On Drive Over The Top With Little Formality

ODESSA, May 9.—Upon a call of the stock sales committee, appointed two weeks ago to raise $100,000 in new operating capital for reorganizing and reopening of the Citizens National bank of Odessa, about 500 depositors in the closed institution met in the Lyric theater of Odessa Wednesday, in a final drive of the stock sales campaign.

The drive went over the top with little formality. Exact figures on the number of shares subscribed to date were not available, as the committee has not completed its check-up, but it is certain that more than enough shares have been subscribed.

A meeting of stockholders of the new organization is called for Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the bank room of the Citizens National, at which the board of directors will be elected and the business set-up of the new bank outlined.

Capitalization of the new institution will be on a basis of $50,000 capital stock and $50,000 surplus & profits. This gives Odessa one of the strongest banks in West Texas, according to individuals in touch with the banking situation of this section.

Final out of the wreck of the old and valued institution comes a new and greater organization, an organization made possible by the supreme confidence and indomitable courage of the citizenship of the section, and thus again is demonstrated the never-say-die spirit which has ever been the heritage of people of the west.

Twelve Panhandle Counties Have $8,500,000 Available in County Bonds for Highway Construction

AMARILLO, Texas, May 9 (AP)—Twelve counties in the North Panhandle have $8,500,000 available in county bonds for highway construction.

By the time this amount has been matched by the state for the improvement of state highways, and the federal government gives aid on national highways, the fund will reach $20,000,000. A great deal of it will be spent this year, contracts already totaling more than $600,000. Few paving contracts, which will represent the major part of the expenditure, have been let.

The counties lie in the northeast part of the Panhandle, in road division No. 4, and the completion of the program will form a connected network of highways from Randall and Potter counties north and east to the Oklahoma line. Completion of the work will give three paved routes between Amarillo and Oklahoma, ranging from 115 miles over state highway No. 79 to approximately 160 miles over the more northern route by way of Stinnett, Spearman and Perryton.

Between four and five million dollars already had been spent by half a dozen of these counties before the present program got under way.

Division No. 4 to the south of the 20 counties in the Amarillo division has more than half a dozen counties with similar construction programs under way, and the Panhandle and South Plains regions handle and South Plains regions promise to lead the state in highway construction during the next three or four years.

Gray county leads the group in the amount of money available, and contracts under construction and pending. The county recently voted $2,500,000 in bonds. More than $600,000 of that amount already had been spent, $167,794 is under contract, and more than 12 miles of paving will come up before the next session of the state highway commission.

Wheeler County, with a bond issue of $1,000,000, has four contracts under way that total $168,000. Hutchinson county's bond issue was $1,300,000 and much of it is still available, although the county has 15 miles of paving. A $13,127 project was recently completed.

Garson county, where bonds in the amount of $1,000,000 were voted several years ago, is nearing the completion of its roads with considerable money left over. A $17,000 contract is ready for state acceptance.

In Potter county, where the original bond issue was more than $1,000,000, about $3,000,000 is still available and a $22,000 contract is under way.

Bond issues and contracts in other counties include:

Hemphill, available $700,000; under contract $58,914; Ochiltree, $270,000, available $200,000, under contract $88,749; Randall, $93,000, available $93,000, under contract $30,793; Hansford, bonds $240,000, recently completed $26,453; Lipscomb, available $450,000, no contracts; Moore, $250,000 available; no contracts.

Carson has 5.7 miles paved, Potter 56.6 and Randall 14 miles.

Troop 4 Scouts Honor Mothers In Friday Banquet

Seventy-five attended a banquet Friday evening at the Fourth Street Baptist church, when members of Boy Scout troop 4, sponsored by the church, honored their mothers.

Mrs. V. Phillips, mother of one of the scouts, had charge of serving the banquet. She was assisted by several other women of the church. Misses Catherine Murphy, Francis Cotton, Willie Mae Heath and Eunice Berry served.

Some of the boys, whose mothers have died, adopted mothers for the evening. Mothers and fathers of the boys were invited to the banquet and most of them attended.

Marco J. Williamson, area field executive, was toastmaster for the evening. A. S. Smith is scoutmaster and Robert Bassett is his assistant.

Singing of "America" and invocation by C. S. Holmes, area commissioner, opened the program. Following the meal a toast to Mother was given by Bruce Phillips. A talk to the boys by Mrs. S. E. Fletcher, a solo by Rev. S. H. Hughes and a reading by Elizabeth Terry added much to the program.

The scouts went through a flag drill, a fun period and a candle service. Following the flag drill Dorman Kinard, the Bugle Scout, came forward with the call and all stood at attention with a salute to the flag.

The room was decorated in national colors, with two large American flags forming the rostrum background.

Oscar Blagram is in Fort Worth undergoing treatment for an infected hand. It is reported some improvement is being shown.

Waners Again 'Poison' To Pittsburgh Foes

PITTSBURGH, May 9.—When the Pittsburgh Pirates won the National league flag in 1927, one of their chief driving forces, probably the most important, was the work of the Waner brothers, Paul and Lloyd, outfielders.

Their brilliant fielding and terrific hitting were the talk of the league and "poison" to rival clubs. All over the circuit they became known as "Big Poison" and "Little Poison." Last year Lloyd, "Little Poison," a trail looking little fellow, went to pieces.

He was lost to the club until a big part of the pennant race had been run. Pirates followers point out that the team, even in the face of numerous injuries, took on spirit and power after the youngsters returned to the line up.

This year, Lloyd apparently has recovered his health. He looks stronger than at any time since that afternoon several years ago, when he took the field at Paso Robles, "just to work out," and without a Pirate uniform won himself a job.

Paul, who suffered a leg infection just before the 1931 training season started, is recovering in looking better every day and Manager Jewell Ens feels sure that the famous "brother act" of 1927 will be put on, bigger and better, this summer.

Comorosky, who works with the Waners in the outfield and goes a long way in making it one of the best in the league, also looks good as ever this season.

Realizing he has a powerful group of fly-chasing, the loss of any member of which might spell disaster for the team, Ens has carefully selected understudies for his three stars. McClanahan, Jensen and Mosell form the trio. All are fast, field well and so far have been sure hitters.

Charles broke into the Texas league, Todd is just as hard a hitter, a better receiver and has as good a throwing arm as you will find in the league. He is young, pretty smart, club fails to sell him for thirty thousand dollars, I will be surprised.

However, with all these fine compliments from his own manager, Todd will not have the chance to star that Carey gets. The Dallas catcher will have to share catching assignments with Frank Tobin, first string catcher and owner of one of the greatest throwing arms in the Texas league. Of course, Carey and Todd must prove themselves in June, July and August when the blistering Texas sun takes a lot of hustle from players who can't stand torrid weather.

So far this season, the crop of recruits offer nothing sensational, but before long it may be Thomas Carey, Houston shortstop. Coming to the Texas league as a non-class player, unheralded and unsung, and with a tough task in front of him, Carey has made good in a big way. So far his fielding at shortstop has been splendid, and each day he receives a pat on his back from Manager Schultz for his timely hitting. Carey is the kind of a shortstop who goes after everything between third and second, which means he is the hustling type of player baseball needs. Carey hasn't been completely around the circuit yet—the opposition hasn't had time to study his weakness at the plate, but right now this Thomas Carey is quite a shortstop and hitter, and looks like a promise to step into Mallon's shoes as the prize rookie of the season.

Selecting Carey as the probable prize this year in the Texas league may bring a protest from Dallas fans who see in Al Todd a coming big league catcher. Dallas fans, who have been trailing the Steers for years, claim Todd is a new edition of Charles Berry, former Dallas maskman, now first string catcher for the Boston Americans. Todd weighs close to 190 pounds and is a six-one husky. But listen to Manager Morse tell about his recruit catcher:

"Todd is a better big league prospect than Charles Berry when last season and are back this year, admit several hurlers in the league can put McCabe in the shadow when it comes to putting craft on the ball, but few can equal his control. McCabe worked 243 innings last year, walked only 24 batters, never hit one and never made a wild pitch. He is proof that if a pitcher has control he does not need a wide assortment of curves and blinding speed to win.

McCabe has control BUT SO IS TODD

By BILL PARKER
DALLAS, May 12.—The Texas league last year offered Leslie Mallon, Fort Worth second baseman, as its outstanding rookie. Mallon had a superb season with the Cats, and was sold to the Phillies where he is now playing.

So far this season, the crop of recruits offer nothing sensational, but before long it may be Thomas Carey, Houston shortstop. Coming to the Texas league as a non-class player, unheralded and unsung, and with a tough task in front of him, Carey has made good in a big way. So far his fielding at shortstop has been splendid, and each day he receives a pat on his back from Manager Schultz for his timely hitting. Carey is the kind of a shortstop who goes after everything between third and second, which means he is the hustling type of player baseball needs. Carey hasn't been completely around the circuit yet—the opposition hasn't had time to study his weakness at the plate, but right now this Thomas Carey is quite a shortstop and hitter, and looks like a promise to step into Mallon's shoes as the prize rookie of the season.

OLD LYME, Conn., May 9. (INS)—A week-old lamb, presented to Harry B. Champion, 8 dodged out of its pen here the day after the boy received it, ran to the Lieutenant river, and plunged in. For twenty minutes the lamb swam while spectators were seeking a boat, and finally it clambered on the opposite shore, curled up in the sunshine, and went to sleep.

HERARD SWOPE, president of the General Electric Co. tells the International Chamber of Commerce and heads of industries that their prosperity depends absolutely on the prosperity of their own and other's employees.

Then according to Mr. Swope, every Big Spring citizen's hope for prosperity is dependent upon and limited only by the prosperity of the wage earners of our community, whose prosperity in turn is dependent upon the prosperity of the concerns they work for.

The Couden Refinery is responsible for thousands of brand new dollars being turned loose in Big Spring monthly. According to Col. Talbot, who advocates patronizing home industries first, each of these new dollars, properly conserved could be made to do the work of eight dollars spent unconsciously. Gov. Ross B. Sterling also subscribes to this common sense procedure.

Start now—use Couden Liquid Gas, that pure, peppy and powerful, excellent performance gasoline and everything else made in Big Spring, then watch prosperity grow in this territory.

Mexicans Win Third Game In Row

Defeat Coahoma As Yanes Twirls for Tiger Aggregation

The Mexican Tigers beat out Coahoma 5 to 3 Friday afternoon, to take their third straight game this week, and work up from the bottom of the City League ladder to well within striking distance of the Bankers.

Yanes, twirling for the Tigers, gave up ten hits during the contest, but divided them over the seven innings.

Hull started for the Coahoma aggregation, but was relieved by Cramer in the fifth. He gave up six hits, while Cramer offered a pair.

Yanes gave up four hits in four innings, and did not allow a tally until the fifth. In that frame a single by Neil, followed by L. Walker's double, drove across the first marker for the Coahoma nine.

Yanes pitched their other two in the sixth when Yanes gave up two hits, and Cruz allowed H. Reid, pinch hitting for Neil, to place on an error, tallying Bishop who had singled. Mahoney, who had walked, tallied in the same frame.

The Tigers scored in the second inning on a single by Kayo and a single by Aleman. They marked again in the fourth when A. Garcia tripled, and scored on Valdes' single. Valdes tallied after stealing second, on Aleman's triple.

They tallied two more in the fifth when Hernandez placed on L. Walker's error at third, and Fierro singled. Hernandez tallied on Cramer's wild pitch, and Fierro clattered across the plate on the ball.

Cramer struck out three men during the time he was on the mound.

THE WATER BUCKET
Destruction is just around the corner and the green signal light is twinkling. A baseball game between the Lions club and the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs is in the making. The Lions club, boasting of a number of great ball players in their team, including the pudgy Cecil C. Collins, the round H. S. Faw, the speedster Dr. Wofford H. Hardy, and the general all-around utility man, M. L. Tinsley, will hurl a challenge at the other two clubs for a diamond contest at Dusty Diamond.

The purpose of the games, as this department understands it, is to create a fund from which Boy Scouts may borrow money to attend the annual summer encampment. This department has been placed in charge of the game, but is not responsible in case of fire, theft, riots and cracked craniums. The little world's series will be staged within the next couple of weeks—that is, providing the Kiwanians and the Rotarians accept the ultimatum of the Lions.

It is with regret that we report V. H. Fiewellen, the power behind the throne of the Fiewellen's Service Station baseball club, is down with the mumps, his cheeks resembling, we understand, to kuttie an extent the latest in dirigibles.

"Dizzy" Dean, Houston Buffalo twirler, is coming in for his share of publicity. Some say he is another Whataman! Arthur Shires in the making. Other say it is not conceit, but something else again. Regardless, Lloyd Gregory, writing in the Houston Post Dispatch has the following to elucidate about Dean:

"Many fans, perhaps, have the idea 'Dizzy' Dean, young Houston, Buff pitcher is unbearably conceited. The answer is Dean is conceded only when he is on the ball field. Off the ball field, the big right hander is an affable, likeable young fellow.

"But when he is playing ball 'Dizzy' has a contempt for the opposing club, and is very confident he can shut out any team unfortunate enough to oppose him.

"Sarey Selph, Buff second sacker, put it this way: 'If Dean were on the opposing ball club, you'd hate him. But when he's on your own ball club, you are so grateful you don't have to bat against him that you just love him.'"

"It was interesting Sunday afternoon to note the repartee that passed in the Buff dugout between 'Dizzy' and his 17-year-old brother, Paul, who also is a member of the 'Buff' pitching staff.

"Dizzy just now says he is a better pitcher than I am; but I can still whip him in a rough and tumble fight," said Paul, who weighs about 50 pounds less than Dean.

"Oh, yeah! Well, you'd better lay off me, young feller," came back Dizzy.

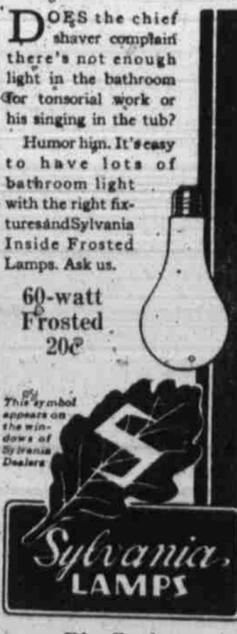

Let us hope that Dean's true character is not painted by his jargon in the use of the little "Oh, yeah" and "young feller."

In speaking of the best players the City League has to offer this year, it seems to be the consensus that A. Garcia is the best third baseman to be found in the circuit. He has held down his position much better than Billy Bass of the Bankers, Walker of Coahoma, or Baker of Fiewellen. The Mexican covers his territory nicely, and his child seems to be hot one that really should go for hits. There seems to be a scarcity of crack first-basemen. There isn't a Bill Hoehn in the league, at least.

City League managers and officials will gather Monday night in a belated meeting. The session will be held in the office of Dr. Wofford B. Hardy, the League Proxy. All chairs will be upholstered, and there will be a plunk rug—maybe it isn't plunk—to toss the apple on.

It might also be added that the Tigers seem to be the most dangerous club in the league right at the present moment. Yanes cohorts

HOW'S YOUR HEALTH

ATHLETE'S FOOT
The fungal are a class of pig-like parasites affecting man and animals, which while seldom, if ever, endangering life, nearly always produce annoying conditions and are responsible for a number of skin diseases.

"Athlete's foot" has become the common name for a group of diseases affecting the hands and feet, not because athletic activities have any direct bearing upon the condition, but because it is common among athletes.

The explanation for this is that fungi thrive under moist and warm conditions. Swimming pools and gymnasiums are therefore ideal places
for the development of fungi.
Furthermore, those using either swimming pools or gymnasiums usually walk about barefoot and thus become infected.

In an examination of the feet of 100 college students in California, made by Drs. Hulsey and Jordan, it was found that 47 per cent had fungus infections of the toes. This percentage is somewhat higher than that found by other investigators but demonstrates this condition to be generally widespread.

Contrary to what might be expected, frequent washing of the feet does not have an adverse effect on the prevalence of this disease.

In the study of the feet of 520 boys attending a trade school in New York City, it was reported that fungus disease of the feet
was found mostly among the cleanest, whereas other feet, "covered,"
as the author said, "with almost enough black dirt to grow vegetables," showed no effects of the presence of fungi.

Dirt, however, is no preventive for fungus disease of the feet. On the contrary, frequent washing of the feet is recommended.

However, those frequenting
swimming pools or gymnasiums
should avoid going about barefoot.
Particular care should be taken to wipe dry the webs and spaces between the toes.

The use of talcum powder is highly recommended, but when the fungus infection has appeared, it is wise to secure medical help.

Hollywood Sights
By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Hollywood is itself again. It has seen another De-Mille orgy, although Cecil B. wasn't responsible for it.

Extras rejoiced and Hollywood
was more like Hollywood than it has been in a long time for the talkies cut down the average employment of extras, and the big ball-room scene with its mad crowds and milling throngs is now a scarce commodity.

But while DeMille's mastery of figure-origies, was sailing to Europe for a rest, his future plans uncertain, several hundred extras under the direction of Paul Stein were carrying on the DeMille tradition on a set representing the Beauvau Atis hall in Paris.

It is in this scene that Constance Bennett and Joel McCrea, "The Criminals," were supposed to meet.
Bennett's opportunity to the back of them, made the scene typically DeMille in character.

DeMille's latest contribution to the archives of camera revelry was in "Madam Satan." His last picture for M-G-M, "The Squaw Man," did not afford any opportunity in that direction, not that C. B. was ever stumped by lack of opportunities.

"BEANO"
Ruth Elizabeth Davis when a tot
in kindergarten disliked the way
her teachers delighted in her fall name.

It was "Ruth Elizabeth, this" and
"Ruth Elizabeth, that." When she was needed to grade school she desired to be plain Betty Davis.
But she thought Betty was spelled "Betty," and that's how she became the Betty Davis ("Bad Sister" and "Seed") of the screen. It pronounced Betty and not Bett.

But the prop and camera men already have settled the question of pronunciation. They've dubbed her
"Beano"—she's from Boston.

CUTS
The possible tax-office value of a play successful on Broadway is seldom sacrificed to the movie mania for changing titles, but what is going to happen in "The Greeks
Had a Word for It" in its screen transformation?

MYSTERIOUS WAYS BEAU GESTE BEAU IDEAL

SYNOPSIS: When Chink Dor-son kills "Snider" Schlitz, John Waye, who has pledged the death of both, alone, except for the killer, knows the secret. Gloating at his revenge, he places beside the body of Schlitz a confession bearing Dorson's name. This is begun the execution of a vengeance born when "Lamey Doc"
Simon, alias Charters, Gunman
Gryde, Schlitz and Dorson kidnaped his daughter and gave her up, dying, after he had paid as ransom his family diamond and other gems. Mr. and Mrs. William Waye's detectives are pretended patients in Simon's sur-ring home, where Waye hides and conceals Simon plotting with a woman to kill a patient, Marjorie,
who resembles Waye's daughter.
Recovering a message which the woman has handed the doctor, Waye reads thereon "the figure 10,000—price of the girl's life."

Chapter 21
LOVE'S ALCHEMY
OF my sojourn in that excellent and extremely well-run Nursing Home, The Monastery, I have not space, time nor desire to tell you I wish to write not of myself, but of Marjorie—of Marjorie who now came into my life and altered
it and me.

Not intentionally, not by anything she did, but by being Marjorie.

I saved her life, but she saved
my soul. My real self, my true self, the child within me, for 20 years of silver—10,000 pieces of gold—this day would have been travelling to a cruel death.

Marjorie, in complete ignorance,
and so without a word of remonstrance, protest or admonition, and merely by being Marjorie, worked this miracle. This alchemical alchemy, and now changed a bitter, cruel, murderous and vengeful savage back into a decent human being.

She changed a seared and branded convict—a man who was less a man than a vengeful savage—back into, at least, the semblance of what he once had been before the blows of fate had plunged him to his knees, and stricken him down into the mire.

It is, I understand, a law of physical Nature, that two things cannot occupy the same space at the same time.

It was soon, slowly but surely borne in upon my consciousness that this law applies equally to things of the spirit.

I came to The Monastery with my soul, mean and small as it was,
filled, with thoughts of vengeance
and murder.

Even in my better moments,
when I remembered that "Vengeance is Mine," said the Lord, I again argued that, for His vengeance, the Lord must need a human instrument, and that I would be that instrument.

My mind was diseased, decadent, unsocial, and destructive.

And, how, gradually, almost from that hour, the subtle change began,
and in dual way.

Not only had Rosemary come again into my life in the form of Marjorie Lauderdale, reawakening
the noblest of all human emotions, but, for the first time in many years, I was at last thinking of some one other than myself.

Gradually I, though, less of vengeance, murder and destruction, and more of help and salvation; less and less of the affairs of the wretched John Darce Waye, utter bewilderment of the secular in whose power she was, I promptly revealed the incredible

facts that I knew all about the plot, even to the exact figures of the sum that was to be the price and reward of their villainy.

I made it very clear to Charters that any injury to Marjorie would precede his arrest by the briefest space, and showed him that I knew enough of the past of himself and his accomplices to bring his present edifice of respectability crashing to the ground, and himself and

them to the gallows.

Naturally I was under no illusion that anything but my life
stood between Marjorie and death, but, thank God, I had already, for my own personal ends, so arranged matters that about the most dangerous thing for themselves that Charters and his gang could do was to put me out of the way.

Should I disappear, there was as they knew only too well, at least three people whose immediate business in life would be to find out what had become of me.
(Copyright, 1930, by Frederick A.
Stokes Co.)

Out the window! So tomorrow
do the mysterious night prowlers
go—but not so Waye's hopes.

I can express myself no better than that, and can make myself no clearer.

Women and men of understanding will understand, and, to others,
no words of mine could explain the change that gradually came about.

We had a meeting-place, a secluded spot of our own among the ancient ruins that gave the Nursing-Home its name; and there we would meet to compare notes and make plans.

It was this that first brought realization—in a flood of golden light filling my soul with joy in-effable—for, I soon found that, instead of approaching our trying-place in the spirit of a father about to meet an adored daughter, I was doing so in the true spirit of a lover.

Before long, I was like any boyish lover who, after counting the minutes since the last meeting, goes with trembling joy to see the face, to hear the voice, to touch the hand, of her without whom the world is naught.

Yes, I loved Marjorie when I saw her, and I fell in love with her when I knew her—desperately hopelessly.

Oh, Marjorie, Marjorie! . . . And
never did you dream of it.

Who can love—and hate? What mind can be filled at the same moment with purest, most unselfish love—and, with deepest,
blackest most hideous hate?

I, although my own affairs
now seemed but petty, the more I loved Marjorie the more I hated
those who would injure her.

That Charters and his foul son had done me the deadliest wrong was not now the reason for my wrath against them. It was because of their intent to injure Marjorie that I hated them. Had I never seen Marjorie I would have killed them both in my own way and at my own time. Having fallen in love with Marjorie, I would have abandoned my vengeance (for all desire for it had died in me) but for their foul plot against her.

But no! In the very act of softening to forgiveness of them for what they had done to Rosemary,
for filthy gold—what did I find?
That they were again about to destroy her.

For this plot was again an attack upon my Rosemary—Rosemary-Marjorie . . . my child, my heart's desire.

If, for her preservation, these dogs must die, I would be their slayer. But in no spirit of vengeance for wrong done to me,
And so, ere long, my role completely changed, and I who had come to kill, remained to save,
though killing might well play a necessary part in saving.

And these were anxious days indeed, for there is no anxiety to equal that which a lover feels on behalf of his beloved.

It may be imagined that I lost
no time in taking all possible steps to secure Marjorie's safety. To the

He behaves himself very well in the Herald office but well wagger he is a cut-up at church, whenever he can get by with it.

By ONA REAGAN PARSONS "MURDER AT BRIDGE" By Anne Austin (The Macmillan Co.)

Here's our old friend, Anne, back with us.

Contrary to all expectations, she did not get her inspiration from Kansas City for the book; where she got it, all I don't know; someone who keeps up with ALL the bridge murders will have to enlighten us.

At any rate, it's not so bad... she has succeeded in concealing the murderer until the very last. She not only gives you no clue, but she makes you know you have none; you can't even pretend to have a satisfactory clue.

At the very start the person who was the dummy was killed; the thing happened twice in the plot. It might make some people a little dubious about playing bridge; but hardly Big Spring people; nothing could make them dubious about bridge—now if it were some other game.

Another safe reason for reading the book and not worrying about its results on your nerves is the clever device of the murderer; he could kill without being on the scene. That, as we all know, is not the way of many murderers; most of them have to be at least in their victims' immediate neighborhood.

The book has some points, too, on contract bridge. There is a good argument over the play in the beginning, over the conventions, etc. State of fifteen thousand seats and represents the strongest theatre circuit in the territory. The acquisition further strengthens Hughes Franklin's position as the fifth largest circuit in America.

Harold H. Franklin, president of Hughes Franklin announces that a divisional office in charge of the Redwood circuit will be established in San Francisco in the Warfield Theatre Building, with Charles Koerner, formerly associated with Mr. Mann, as division manager.

Mr. Franklin further announces that the acquisition of George H. Mann's theatres is but one of many contemplated steps to extend Hughes Franklin's activities in the State of California. These theatres have been acquired because they have been for years considered best in their communities and known throughout the motion picture trade for their up-to-date management. ACCEPT NO LESS IN THE CAR YOU BUY

The marvel of Dodge Brakes is that they are always equalized. Every time you press the brake pedal you get the same result—sure, even, easy, positive.

For Dodge brakes operate according to a scientific truth—the unchangeable law of hydraulics that pressure applied to a liquid is transmitted equally in all directions. Pressure at every brake drum is always the same.

Action is easy because the hydraulic method is the most efficient known way to apply great force.

Dodge hydraulic brakes are fully enclosed—completely weather-proof. They require no oiling, have no rods, joints nor pins to rattle or squeak.

With Dodge Brakes, Dodge Mono-Piece Steel Bodies and Dodge low center of gravity, you get in Dodge cars the three greatest safety factors.

Mark Twain's Great Story Forms Perfect Vehicle For Will

Will Rogers makes a determined bid for the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences award for the best performance of the year in Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee."

Will Rogers makes a determined bid for the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences award for the best performance of the year in Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee."

Rogers, of course, dominates the production. His subsidiary roles also are excellently handled. Maureen O'Sullivan never has been sweeter or lovelier than in her role of "Allmande."

Brandon Hurst is excellent as "Merlin," while Mitchell Harris is satisfactorily villainous in the role of "Sagamor."

David Butler, well remembered for his "Sunny Side Up," "High Society Blues" and "Just Waxing," has contributed his best directorial effort in "A Connecticut Yankee."

"A Connecticut Yankee" is more than a hit. It is a riot, the biggest laugh of the year.

Midnight Matinee. Lloyd Hughes and June Collyer will appear in the leading roles of "Extravagance" at next Saturday evening's midnight matinee performance at the R & Ritz theatre.

WILL ROGERS, ter-d the most popular American, has done the best work of his film career in "A Connecticut Yankee," at the Ritz today, Monday and Tuesday.

Special Service Offered On Films For the Children

Pictures especially educational and suitable for children shown at the Ritz and Queen theatres here in the future will be especially designated in the newspaper advertising and passed upon by the Child Study Club of the city.

In connection with announcement of this cooperation for benefit of children it was pointed out that "A Connecticut Yankee," starring Will Rogers at the Ritz today, Monday and Tuesday, met requirements of the Estimate Service.

"Our aim at all times is to give the people of Big Spring the best and latest films," declared Fred Polack, of the Ritz-Queen executive staff. "We strive also, to provide pictures of direct interest to patrons of all ages. From time to time we will have pictures especially suitable for children and youths, which, of course, will be entertaining to adults as well."

Walter Huston Returns To Ritz

No better example of versatility could be drawn than through comparison of the work of WALTER HUSTON, who recently appeared at the Ritz in the role of "Abraham Lincoln" and this week, Wednesday and Thursday, will appear as leading player in "The Criminal Code."

"The Criminal Code" Great Drama: At Ritz This Week

The Ritz Theatre will show for two days beginning Friday an all-talking Columbia picture, which is regarded as the prize screen venture of the season.

Audiences at all preview showings have been unanimous in declaring that the screen version more than takes advantage of the dramatic possibilities of the sensational play.

Every day newspaper headlines announce that the crime situation is becoming more and more alarming, that in certain large cities it is actually beginning to destroy the fabric of organized society.

Walter Huston, the star of such well-known motion picture successes as "The Virginian" and "Abraham Lincoln," plays the leading role in "The Criminal Code."

'Behind Office Doors' To Open At Queen Monday

By what right does a wife step into a man's office and discharge his secretary?

Does the fact that the girl is sympathetic and pretty constitute a menace to the wife's domestic happiness?

This is the subject that has bothered married women for years and has made her increasingly jealous of the hours her husband must necessarily spend with his private secretary.

The screen has at last solved this hitherto unsolvable "peril to the home" in an entertaining drama to be shown Monday and Tuesday at the Queen theater—Radio Pictures' "Behind Office Doors," which co-features Mary Astor and Robert Ames.

In this unusual film of office romance, a private secretary is dis-

Wouldn't Be Any Radio Without Peanut Vender Song, Says Will; Reports On Publishers' Session

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the Papers or what I see as I stroll about the city. Was in Washington about ten days ago, and saw quite a few of the Boys that were still staying there that went up for re-election this year. You can tell the ones that are going to run. They have to "rush home and start fixing things up." But the ones that are set for a year or so more, they can kinder lay around and sorter mix with the Lobbyists, and have a good time without getting blamed for it.

Was up to New York and spoke for the Newspaper Publishers' Association, that's a Gang that gathers in from all over the Country once a year, and belong in an Association to help better each other's conditions, then go home and write Editorials against Unionsism. Not all of em, but some do. But we did have a fine dinner.

You know even the food at Dinners are getting better, they don't eat the Chicken at these banquets in the afternoon like they used to. We had tender Squab. It's mighty tender for a banquet to get tender Squab. This was at the Pennaflex Hotel. It's the dining house for that line. I want to tell you that Mr. Attebury has done a mighty good job with his Hotel.

Amon G. Carter from Ft. Worth

owner of the Star Telegram, was the Toast Master and he made a mighty good one too. He always was a good talker. But this was the first time they had ever had to ask him to talk, and they content have picked a better one. He knew the Newspapers and he knew the shape they were in, and he knew the shape the Guests were in, and he just shaped his remarks accordingly.

Pretty near every big Publisher in America was there, they had just had a Convention, but like most conventions they had done nothing but "Tessolve." If you take "Resolve" out of Conventions you are just about naked.

At this Convention there was some little animosity against the advertising on the radio, that is, it had been a direct confliction with Newspaper advertising, and didn't have the investment and pay the taxes that the papers are compelled to. So they naturally took that chase up, and come right down to it there is no reason why they should give the radio programmer all the free advertising. It should be paid for the same as a Theatre does. But some of them spoke of the investment they had, and what right did some other things have to come in and destroy the wealth of their investments. Well they was kinder forgetting when the Prohibition amendment comes in and put all the Breweries and Distilleries out of business with no recourse to the courts for any claim. Even if you are in favor of the Amendment, it was legitimate up to them, and if it was voted out they should have had some claim. So some of these yells kinder made you think what those fellows had to stand for.

But its all a lot of "Hoey." The radio went out the Papers out of Business. We got to have something besides toothpaste, so we will always read the papers, besides if it wasent for the Peanut Vender Song there wouldn't be any radio.

Good papers will always last, and Tabloids will continue to do a big business for those that cant read. But have learned to know every Character in America by their Picture alone. They have to read little papers in New York and big Cities, they cant unfold a big paper, they havent got room. They like pictures of their favorite murderers, just like some others like their Movie Stars. It's getting so there must be a good looking. Its getting so there is no use of an ugly man committing a crime; no one will look at him. He just cant get in the papers.

Charles Schwab was the principal speaker at the dinner. He had prepared a speech to deliver on "Business Management," but after he saw the shape the crowd was in he switched and told jokes instead, and he told good jokes too. He said some of them were old, but they were sure new to me, and the way he tells em, they sound new anyhow.

Did you ever hear the one he told about the Cow? Well he owns a fine farm up near Bethlehem, Pa., a little city in Judea, and he raises fine stock. Every rich man has some kind of farm, and he has a Farmer in Christy's. He has his own fair up there so he takes all the prizes. Somebody give him a sow, and he asked if it was a fine Cow? They said no just a cow. "It a milk Cow?" The old farmer that was giving her to him said "I don't know if she's got any milk or not, but she is a good old soul, and if she got any she certainly will give it to you."

Then he went on to tell that he each was a good old soul, and if he had had anything they wanted he would give it to em. He sure did clean up with the Gang. You can easily see how he gets work out of his men, he has a great personality, and is terribly likable.

Carnegie gave some of his old time Steel mill friends some fine Knas presents one time, most of them works of art. One old fellow that has risen from foreman and retired, he gave a large statue. The old fellow called Schwab up, "Charley, the old man, (Meaning Carnegie) sent me a rock Woman, what will I do with her?"

He says he is an Optimist even now, and that we are not so bad off. Well many we aint. This hunger may only be an illusion. Met at the Dinner this fellow Roy Howard, of Scripps Howard, that buys all the Newspapers. They bought the New York World, and combined it with the Evening Telegram. Well he and Scripps are mighty keen Birds. I also met Scripps. He has wrinkles, and that with Roy's full dress evening caps, makes a mighty hard combination to beat. They are yours, full of progress, and good credit, and it looks like the only ways to keep from getting your newspaper in to the slush is to have a name with two pens at ones like Chop sticks.

The Boys were really mighty sober at the dinner, another mighty good indication of hard times. Some of em had to get out little things from the other's breath. Some small town Editors had to just get sonned in order to impress. But it was a fine affair, one of the best I ever attended, made so by Schwab and Carter and a good audience.

ular return, the new ones being all talking, singing productions.

While other picture companies lost sight of this fact, Syndicate Pictures have always been on the job, never for a moment letting down on the production of this type of picture, which is the most American idea on the screen.

Several months ago an editorial appeared in the Exhibitor's Daily Review, which is reprinted here:

"If the exhibitors face a shortage of Western pictures next year, there will be none to blame but themselves. They have done everything possible to discourage the production of these thrillers of the screen.

"Westerns are possibly the most American idea on the screen, and any exhibitor would have a hard job to prove to us that his public didn't care to see them."

The manager of the Queen theatre in heading the advice of this editor is presenting to the fans of Big Spring on Friday and Saturday an all talking picture "Beyond the Law" featuring Robert Frazer.

This picturization of George A. Durian's thrilling story was filmed in the cattle country of central California and in the mountain ranges of the Sierra. The featured cast includes Robert Frazer, Louise Lorraine, Eano Chandler, Franklin Farnum, and George Hackathorne. Be sure and see it.

A Tribute to Mother

May we respect her and her memory through all the centuries to come.

What mere man can ever fully understand the real meaning of that one word "Mother"? Who can really ever appreciate the trials, tribulations, heart-breaks, the joys and sorrows that a mother undergoes?

Let us strive to henceforth be more kind and considerate of our mothers, so that her remaining years may know more joy and happiness and in a small way make a payment on that unpayable indebtedness that we all owe to our Mother.

The medal conferred on Houston Harbo, a graduate of the Missouri Journalism School, was for "his spirit of pioneering; for his ceaseless success through undaunted, untiring efforts toward the goal of high service in journalism, and the wide influence as a leader for betterment gained individually and as a leader in a brief span of years."

Because it's still the rage—that little hat that crumples into nothing in the hand, but looks so devastating when filled. There are all sorts of crocheted versions, smarter than ever to wear with Cottons and Bouclé Suits. And they are flattering to nearly all types.

These baby beef cattle have been slaughtered and placed in cold storage furnished without charge by the Southern Ice & Utilities Co. You should have Howard County baby beef on your table this week. The following firms purchased the cattle and will offer the meat for sale at the times indicated and until meat is sold. Place your order for some of this meat at one of these stores.
