Pollock Receives Scholarship

Weston Pollock, a student at Richland High School in Fort Worth, Texas, has been awarded the $3,000 Excellence and Versatility Scholarship for 1984-85. The scholarship is made possible by an anonymous individual and is presented annually to the outstanding senior. Among Weston's accomplishments: he maintained a 4.0 grade point average through high school, lettered in basketball for the Richland Rebels, was a member of the school choir, president of the local chapter of the National Honor Society and was president of the 550 member senior class. In addition he was elected Senior Class Favorite, Johnny Reb (the highest male award at Richland) and was named to "Who's Who at Richland" by the faculty. He also was awarded a $1,000 scholarship from the Eddleman-McFarland Scholarship Fund in Fort Worth. He plans to attend Baylor University in the Fall, majoring in business.

Weston is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Pollock of Hurst, formerly of Santa Anna. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Moore and the late Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Pollock.

Kindergarten Graduation Held

Twenty-nine students graduated from kindergarten Tuesday, May 29, 1985. Mrs. Gail Loyd played the processional and recessional.

Welcome was given by Kenton Brixey, with greetings given by Ryan Keeney. The class then sang "Eyes of Texas" and "Deep in the Heart of Texas". State seal by Cassie Diamond, A big state by Guadalupe Castillo and Valeria Rodriguez.

The Class sang "Texas". Scott Dowdy told about the Father of Texas. Dora Padillo told about Texas Independent Day. Maricala Siller gave the introduction of state song, then the class sang "Texas, Our Texas". Briana Horner, Darbi Neff, Brandi Bible, Devin Cook, Ami Beal and Rachael Guerrero told about the beauty of Texas. Tim Abernathy and Missy Marshall sang "Beautiful Texas". Anna Pearce, Patricia Diaz and Chris Cheaney told about Texas vacations. The class then sang "Texas is Your Land". Scott Watson told about Texas pride. Presentation of diplomas was by Principal R. C. Smith.

Coppic Receives Degree

BROWNWOOD--Lois A. Coppic, a 1966 graduate of Santa Anna High School, was one of 155 students to receive degrees from Howard Payne University during commencement exercises May 11.

Coppic received the Bachelor of Business Administration degree in accounting.

Speaker for the event was Dr. George H. Harris, pastor of Castle Hills First Baptist Church in San Antonio and past president of the Howard Payne Board of Trustees.

GED Test To Be Given

BROWNWOOD--The General Educational Development (GED) Test will be administered Saturday, June 1, at Howard Payne University, according to Marilyn Jacksno, HPU Testing Director.

The test will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the first floor conference room of the Packer Administration Building. The fee is $15.

Individuals to be tested must be at least 18 years of age and withdrawn from school. Seventeen-year-olds may be tested if parents provide written consent and if they bring proof of withdrawal from the last school attended.

Photographic identification, such as a driver's license, is required. No one will be admitted without such identification.

"Persons wishing to be retested should bring any correspondence from our Center pertaining to scores from any test administered before May 8," said Mrs. Jackson.

For more information, contact Mrs. Jackson at 646-2502, ext. 280.

Tom Sealy to Receive Humanitarian Award

MIDLAND--Midland lawyer and civic leader Tom Sealy, the oldest son of the late Dr. and Mrs. T. R. Sealy and who married Miss Mary Velma McCord of Coleman, will receive the 1985 Humanitarian Award Thursday from the National Jewish Hospital-National Asthma Center at its annual fundraising dinner gala to be held at Green Tree Country Club.

Sealy, a partner in the law firm of Stubbeman, McRae, Sealy, Laughlin and Browder visited the reknowned hospital in Denver recently.

"The NJH-NAC Humanitarian Award is presented annually in Midland and other cities to recognize people who demonstrate great humanitarian concern and outstanding community service," said a report from the foundation.

The hospital is used by many residents of Midland, where respiratory problems are particularly prevalent.

"NJH-NAC is the only facility of its kind in the nation," said Bill Reeder, a Midland businessman and chairman of the dinner event. "Over the years, many chronically ill Midland residents have received medical care at a level that is available only in Denver."

Since NJH-NAC was founded in 1899, more than 647,000 days of care have been provided to Texas residents, said the report. The hospital is internationally recognized for its research into lung-related diseases.

Research being conducted at National Jewish is directed toward clinical applications to benefit all victims of asthma, emphysema, chronic bronchitis, tuberculosis, occupational and environmental lung diseases and immune-system disorders, said the report.

"The goal of the research and patient care at NJH-NAC is to reduce the lifetime health care costs for its patients by returning those chronically-ill children and adults to more healthy and productive lives."

Sealy is involved in various community activities and organizations including Midland Memorial Foundation Hospital and the University of Texas Law School Foundation. He is past president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, served as a member of the Governor's Committee of 75 on Education Beyond the High School and has long been active in the governing policies of The University of Texas.

Mr. Tom Sealy is the nephew of Mrs. Ora Hunter, Mrs. Elsie Lee Harper and Mrs. Ruby Harper.

Cowboy Camp Meeting (June 21-30)

Written by George and Lucy Havens

At this time we begin to anticipate with great joy and a real sense of expectancy the blessings of the Lord during the approaching Cowboy Camp Meeting, which is to get under way June 21st and will run through the 30th, at the Flying H Acres on Highway 84, between Coleman and Santa Anna, Texas.

During the frontier days, no force matched the impact of the Camp Meeting, and, whenever new communities were opened to settlers, the Camp Meeting was introduced and the "Brush arbor" left its mark of Biblical truth, moral righteousness and free and full salvation on the lives of the people.

The Camp Meeting is not a relic of the past to be displayed in some museum and, even though space-age technology has altered our nation's life-style from the era of the "brush arbor" days, the age-old message is still valid and effective for today's living.

To the Cowboy Camp Meeting (June 21-30) friends and folks from all over are invited to come and get in on the blessings these ten great days where the songs of Zion will be sung, the biblical message of salvation proclaimed, the sweetest fellowship this side of Heaven will be experienced, where God's Throne will be bombarded by His saints, and where precious souls will receive a fresh touch of God upon their lives.

Come and bring your camping equipment and supplies: a tent, a camper, a travel trailer, or just in the open air. The Camp has some covered wagons, where the youngsters like to stay and learn first-hand about the pioneers of yesteryear. Too, there are nice Motels, reasonably priced, located nearby.

The massive, beautifully colored gospel tent is stretched, and under it twice daily preaching, characterized by a fervent declaration of Biblical truths, will be done by Rev. Buck Hatfield, Rev. Marvin Sheffield, Rev. Joe Price, and Evangelist George Havens. These men have been greatly used of God in evangelism across the country. Brother Joe, Preacher, singer, and writer of many gospel songs, will be leading the singing. The evening services are at 8 o'clock each evening, and many nights after the meeting, the campers and those who love singing gather around a bon fire to sing together the hymns, the cowboy ballads of the Old West, and of patriotism to our state and country. The morning services are at 10 o'clock from Monday-Friday.

Everyone likes the famous old chuck wagon, made by a Texas ranger and once used in films. The staples for the campers are there. Then there is the cook tent, under which are some old wood-burning cook stoves and tables. Here chuck wagon suppers are served, and the public is invited to come and eat with us at 6 o'clock on the two Saturdays, June 22nd and June 29th. The Camp provides the barbecue, the sour dough bread, the tea and the coffee. Perhaps you who come from the surrounding area can come with a salad, a vegetable or a dessert.

We plan on going out to the Camp site after the first week in May. Come by and visit with us any time. You will enjoy looking into the Pioneer Preachers' Museum and seeing the buggies, the wagons, the various relics used by our forefathers and that make us grateful for our Christian heritage.

Please pray for us. After supper each night there will be old-time prayer meetings and youth and children's classes. We will be looking for you.

With our love and prayers,
George and Lucy Havens

P.S. Please pray for us and the Cowboy Camp Meeting--85.

Texas Summer Events Calendar

AUSTIN--Sun time is fun time in Texas, and the variety of feasts, fairs, festivals, fetes and fiestas is as varied as are Texans themselves.

The Summer Calendar of Texas Events, just issued by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, lists more than 550 different events ranging from rodeos to rides on steam trains; from arts and crafts shows to aerobatics. And there'll be plenty of fireworks, too, since this calendar includes celebrations of the nation's Independence Day.

There's gospel singing and sand-castle building; tractor pulls and antique shows. There are roller-skating championships and the Miss Texas Pageant. In myriad ways, Texans love to celebrate everything from vegetables to vintage automobiles.

Free copies of the Calendar tell where and when it's all happening during the months of June, July and August. They are available at any Texas Highway Tourist Bureau, or by mail from Calendar of Texas Events, P.O. Box 5064, Austin, Texas 78763.

Missionary To Speak

Nancy Wingo, a Baptist missionary to Lebanon, will be guest speaker at Santa Anna First Baptist Church on Sunday, June 2, at the 6 p.m. evening service. She will tell of her work there as a teacher in the American High School.

A Santa Anna native, Miss Wingo was born here while her late father, Rev. Hal Wingo, was pastor of First Baptist Church. She has served over 20 years in the mission field in Lebanon and will be returning there soon after a several-month leave of absence.

People of all denominations are invited to attend and later greet Miss Wingo following the service at an informal reception to be hosted by the FBC Women's Missionary group.

While in Santa Anna Miss Wingo will be a guest in the home of a cousin, Mrs. Edith Hosch.

Turner Assumes Editorship

Danna Turner, who has been employed at the Santa Anna News as bookkeeper and circulation manager, has assumed the job of editor.

Polly Warnock, who had held the position of editor recently has taken the duties of bookkeeper and circulation manager. The change has come about due to health problems that have arisen and Mrs. Warnock feels she should work fewer hours than are required of the editor.

Putting out the paper is a cooperative effort of the two ladies, and Mrs. Turner has been very much involved with the process and is certainly familiar with the duties she has undertaken.

Both ladies appreciate the support and confidence shown them, and look forward to continue serving the community in their respective position.

Summer Recreation Sponsored by Chamber of Commerce

Red Cross Swimming lessons will begin June 3, 1985 at 9:00 a.m. with the Water Safety Aide Course. June 10 through 21 at 9:00 to 10:00 a.m. will be Advanced Swimmer, Swimmer and Intermediate courses. From 10:00 to 11:00 a.m. will be courses for the Advanced Beginner, and from 11:00 to 11:45 a.m. courses for the Beginner (must have completed 1st grade). From 12:00 to 12:45 p.m. will be another class for the beginner (Must have completed the 1st grade).

Starting June 24 through 28 from 11:00 to 11:45 a.m. will be classes for children who have completed kindergarten, and from 12:00 to 12:45 p.m. will classes for preschoolers (Children out-of-diapers, accompanied in water by an adult.)

Fee for admission to the pool will be 50 cents.

Plans for Basic Rescue and Water Safety and Advanced Lifesaving will be announced later if there is enough for classes. Plans for Adult Swimming will be announced later. Plans for tennis will be announced later as well.

At this point there is not any local transportation for our Santa Anna children. If any changes develop about a bus being furnished, this will be in the paper. If you have any questions, call Debbie Dean at 348-3362 and she will try to find an answer for you.

Don's Diary

By Don Rutherford

Gloria had her day last week as she walked across the stage to receive her Master's Degree.

I am having my day today as I walk across the "Over the Hill" stage of forty-one!!!

But you know, I don't mind getting older in years for you see when we stop having birthdays then we are no longer of this world.

Have you ever thought of what you would do if you could erase some years and start at a certain age again.

I did some thinking on the subject this week and although it is impossible to do so, I thought of taking ten years off my age and beginning again at thirty-one.

There would be some definite changes that I would make. There would be some decisions remade and some steps retaken.

One thing I would change is my idea of time. For when I was thirty I had all the time in the world. A wasted day or even a wasted week was no big deal. There was in the back of my mind, "Well there is always tomorrow." I know that is not true. Tomorrow is not promised to any one no matter what the age.

There is a story told of how the devil was to destroy the world. It seems there was this man who dreamed one night that he was carried to a conference of evil spirits. They were discussing the best way of destroying men. One rose and said "I will go to earth and tell them that the Bible is a fable and not God's word." Said another "Persuade them that Christ was only a man." Still another said "Let me go; I will tell them there is no God, no Saviour, no heaven, no hell."

That will never do they all shouted, "We could never make men believe that."

Finally, one old devil, wise as a serpent but harmless as a dove rose and said: "Let me go; I will tell them that there is a God, there is a Saviour, there is a heaven and there is a hell, too. But I will tell them there is no hurry; tomorrow will do tomorrow will be as even as today!" And he was the one they sent.

If I had the chance to cut off ten years of my life I would change my concept of tomorrow.

Another thing I would change would be my concept of yesterday. For you see about ten years ago I made a big mistake. And this one mistake has taken ten years of my life and has made them wasted years to a large degree. Ten years ago I left the ministry. I was hurt, frustrated and stressed out, and I quit.

I have lived in the shadow of yesterday instead of the sunshine of today. For years I had preached the forgiveness of God in a persons life. But I would not and could not forgive myself for a mistake.

Oh, for those wasted years to be tacked on now to my life.

God has given me a new direction and a new purpose in my life. I am no longer in the shadow of yesterday but in His love living in the Sunshine from now on.

We have been given the opportunity of ministry in Pittsburg for the summer. At the end of the summer they have asked me to be the Associational Education Director for the Greater Pittsburg Association. Please pray for us as we decide on this direction.

One other thing I would change if I had had chance. I would live for today!!! A Chinese Proverb says "All the flowers of all the tomorrows are in the seeds of today."

For all of us who have had birthdays recently and are feeling a little "Older"

Age is a quality of mind; If you have left your dreams behind; If hope is cold If you no longer look ahead, If your ambition's fires are dead, Then you are old.

But if from life you take the best And if in life you keep the zest If love you hold, No matter how the years go by No matter how the birthdays fly You are not old.

Author unknown
Think about it: To be seventy years young is sometimes far more cheerful and hopeful than to be forty years old.

Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Stacy Dam

written by Mrs. Leona Bruce

A great dam is to be built on a great river, and it will be called the Stacy Dam. Flowing through hundreds of miles of inadequately watered land, the climate and terrain give this river a future lake rivaling in importance and benefits those anywhere in the United States. Other dams provide irrigation, electric power and recreation. The Stacy will give sustenance to many thousands of square miles of thirsty land and people, water for towns big and small, and recreation spots and facilities providing a whole new industry for Central West Texas.

But who was Stacy, the pioneer whose name will be on maps, in pages of state laws, in newspapers and magazines, and will ring in halls of justice and of legislature? He was Morgan Stacy, born in Tennessee, son of Jess Braswell and Caroline Stacy, who left for Texas on August 20, 1852. In the train of wagons were several families of relatives; besides Morgan the Jess Stacys had three pretty daughters, Clemmie, Mollie and Lula. One source says there was another daughter, but no mention of her can be found. Also in the train were Davises, Browns, Murphys, Bells and a widowed sister-in-law and her seventeen-year-old son, James Madison Stacy. They arrived at old Warrenton, Fayette County, on October 12. After the Civil War and several moves the first Stacy arrived at Trickham on the Mukewater Creek, Jess and Caroline being believed to be the first, and joined later by James Madison and his young family.

Trickham was already a thriving town, largest in Coleman County. It had been started when the vast herds of John Chisum were grazed east of the Mukewater, and passing explorers, Rangers and cowmen needed supplies from the Chisum storage cabin. On moving his cattle to New Mexico, Chisum sold the little cabin to a young man from Alabama, Lee Shield.

Three wagon roads crossed at a shallow place on the Mukewater; one led southwest from Brownwood, one northwest from Round Rock, and the Military Road from Fort Mason went northeast toward Fort Belknap. Shield moved his little cabin to the crossing, and prospered from the first. The community was already known as Trickham, the reason open to several stories, and within a few years a postoffice was opened there with that name.

Arriving in 1879, Stacy found a blacksmith shop, a good school, doctors and a community church and log cabins or small houses of East Texas lumber up and down the creeks. The land was fertile, the climate benign, the people friendly. Stacy began acquiring land, a gin was built on the creek bank, the cotton and wheat and the vegetable gardens made a profitable place to live. M. R. Cheatham put up a mill to grind the wheat and corn for bread, and other businesses were begun. The Indian raids had ended by 1876, though to this day there are in the Trickham street five graves of pioneers killed in the raids, a young boy and four men.

Reaching his twenties, Morgan Stacy was intrigued by the profits and the excitement of the little village. Teamsters' wagons came almost every day, bringing the plows and wire fencing, the shoes and clothes, the white sugar and calico and coal oil, all necessities in the area. It was probably his own idea to go southwest, where the great herds of southern cattle were being driven to the railhead at Brownwood to be shipped to northern markets. One source says that Morgan Stacy built first either in the Lohn Valley or on a creek north of the Colorado. At any rate he was soon where the cattle trail up from Salt Cap crossed the river. The larger part of this land was in the unfenced pasture of the O. H. and D. Company, says an article written in 1976 by the careful historian, Mrs. John C. Hunter. As this ranch was divided and sold, incoming farmers settled all along the creeks and the sinuous bends of the Colorado.

Morgan had gone back to a former home, perhaps DeWitt County, and married a childhood sweetheart.

Young women of that time expected to live as pioneers, taking the chances of the frontier, bringing with them learning and morals and ambition. Lula Stacy was one of these, unafraid and facing the years with courage and joy. Their children were Talmadge and Jess, named for his father, and Una (Dosse) and Agnes, who didn't like her name and became known as Wanda.

The neighborhood was called Brown or Browntown. B. K. Brown was a cowman, later opening a drugstore; John T. and Bertha Brown had children who were Edna (Coker), Irene (Cannon), Bertie, Myra, Marion, Clarence, Harold, and Elmer (Bo). Then there was Henry Brown, a full-blood Indian from Oklahoma, who is remembered as loving the outdoors so well that he would sit for hours on a rise in his pasture, watching sky and earth. No wonder the community was called Browntown!

The crossing on the river there was not too difficult for the teams and wagons; at a shallow place there was a smooth rock bottom, and workmen made dugways on either bank, making the approach less steep. A bridge was, of course, unthought of, though many miles and bends to the east, an iron bridge was built on the Coleman-Brady road in 1894. But Stacy town, as the place became known, did without; a flood on the river usually prevented crossing only a few days, and there were always daring young fellows with boats for an emergency.

More and more people came; there were Hammonds and Spillers, Kirks and Fergusons, Trotts and Snodgrasses. Across the river was the Gouldbusk ranch, owned by an Englishman but operated by his Texas cowmen, the Hardins and Hawkins and others. By 1908 there was a two-teacher school. There was a doctor; a drugstore, owned by Brown; there was a blacksmith shop and a tin shop; a large open tabernacle for summer gatherings; and Robert Sloan owned the cotton gin. The telephone exchange was a small desk in a farmhouse, and the barber shop had a bathtub where for 25 cents, any custy cowboy could scrub himself on Saturday night. With the coming of the Model T. Ford, there were two filling stations selling gasoline and oil and providing free air for the tires.

Morgan Stacy had the largest business, the general store selling everything the growing prosperity of the valley might name. For a time, the postoffice, which was named Stacy, was in a corner of this store, though later it was in a small house to the north. When Mrs. Alice Garrett was appointed postmaster she put up a stucco eight by twelve with no front door, sixteen lock boxes, of which fifteen were rented, and wasted space. Her home was nearby.

As the people became prosperous their homesteads were larger and neater, with flower gardens, trees and graveled driveways. Morgan Stacy's home was one of the finest, with gables, a porch rail and touches of wooden lace. For almost a generation, Morgan Stacy and his town saw rising prosperity, but as most of the people had some debt, hard times came. It may have been drouths, a financial depression, health, or advancing age which caused him to sell his big store to Jim Garner. Stacy's moves at this time are hard to trace. Did he go to Fort Worth, or was it Fort Stockton? Or Ballinger or New Mexico? None of the Stacy children lived permanently at the town where they had grown up, and they, too were lost trace of.

With the coming of years with little rainfall and small profit in farming, stockfarming or ranching became more common. The town has dwindled away, the school consolidated with Mozelle, most young people have gone where the jobs are. Little remains but the name.

But the question of water for the west half of Texas remained. More people, more industry, more irrigation, more certainty that water would flow when needed most, this question remained. We in the Colorado watershed have known that a dam would alleviate the problem, that the six hundred miles of meandering stream between the dams at Robert Lee and Buchanan could well support a reservoir without the immediate shortage below the lower one. Here politics reared its head, and elections were won and lost in the melee; political trading at last cleared the last hurdle, and the Stacy dam seemed assured.

But wait! On May 20, 1985, up comes a new obstacle. It is Harter's Water Snake, a small creature living along the Colorado, not now listed as a federally protected animal, but it gives Environmentalists a grand chance to be seen and heard. To one who has lived along the bends of the Colorado, it seems preposterous that only south of Voss would the snake exist; the conditions of soil and water from Ballinger to the mouth of the Llano differ little, and if the snake hasn't writhed or wiggled out of the Brady bend near Stacy, it easily could have done so. And then, it might like living in the lake! It could proliferate just as successfully farther up or downstream.

However, Steve Halfert of the Army Corps of Engineers at Fort Worth, has given notice that "the status of the snake is being reviewed under the Endangered Species Act." This may delay the dam until West Texas blisters under several more years of drouth, while PHD's from great universities spend months trying to learn what the little snake eats and what eats the little snake. At any rate we will wait while the Harter's is "reviewed."

The site of Stacy, Texas, is today a vista of fine highway and pastures and now and then a field. There is one occupied house where three Garrett sisters live, a nice vacant house recently moved to his land by Waymond Moore, a collapsed tabernacle used in former years for summer gatherings. Then there are the roofless shells of the tiny stucco structure with U. S. Postoffice still legible on the south wall, and the larger shell of the two-teacher school, also roofless and with huge mesquite trees inside.

The well-kept Stacy cemetery is around a curve. Not a Stacy gravestone is to be found, regardless of the neat name on the arched entranceway. The date of the earliest burial is 1896, though there are probably earlier ones with no markers. John B. Trott, born in 1814, died Nov. 18, 1896, and his wife, Julia born in 1927, died Nov. 22, 1901. This death, of the widow, Julia, has a sad connotation. On the same lot are the graves of two four-year-old girls with tall matching monuments, who died on the same day. Katie Agnes Trott was four years and ten months old, May Sloan was four years and eight months old; the two families were related by marriage, and half of a poem is on one monument, the other half on the other. On Katie's are the words, "The sweetest flowers alas how soon are gone from earth away," and on May's the verse is completed by "Yet our darlings will in heaven bloom, where flowers do not decay." One can imagine the distraught grandmother who was laid to rest there five weeks later, after the deaths of the little girls on November 14. Parents of the little girls were also interred there, Robert C. and Jessie M. Sloan and Walter D. and Jessie A. Trott.

One of the most prominent markers says "Chief Henry Brown, Oklahoma Indian Territory 1873-1948." He was the Indian we spoke of who loved the outdoors so well that he spent hours every day watching earth and sky. A. L. Wilson, 1839-1915 had a hand-made stone, and there is another, probably much older, which is indecipherable except for the first name, Josiah.

Memories are dim now, family records incomplete, stories uncertain and impossible to corroborate. Men may come and men may go, but the Colorado goes on forever.

As the great dam rises from hill to hill, the floods will come, the water will move upward, filling the river bed bank, over the tree-tops, over the low pastures, over the houses and the cowpens where little boys learned to ride the calves, over the fences and crossroads. It will reach back into the creeks and the hollows, it will cover the tops of the chimneys and the hallowed ground where the graves of pioneers have been removed, the school grounds where the teacher's handbell called the barefoot children to "Books." The deer and the blue-headed turkeys will retreat from the rising brown water, the wild winds cause waves to lap where hawks used to soar two hundred feet in the air. The man in the helicopter will point out the approximate spot where the drowned town of Leaday grew and died and was buried.

The man in the helicopter will point out the approximate spot where the drowned town of Leaday grew and died and was buried in water. There will be heartache, yes, and sadness will color the memories of other days and other years. But in fifty towns clear water will gush from faucets, clean people will sleep in clean beds, and a whole recreation industry will proliferate on the hundred miles of the lake front. There will be bait shops and marinas, motels and campfires and beautiful water-side homes, bright lights and music. And water.

And the name will be Stacy. Who could have thought that among the hundreds who came to Coleman county in 1879, that a hundred and ten years later the name of one of them would be chosen, that the just-grown boy would be the one to go west, to found the little town and community nearest the place where the unimagined dam would be? We do not know where Morgan and Lula Stacy went after leaving his town, since, as we have said, no certain trace can be found. Even the place of their burials is unknown. A careful check of the Stacy graves at Trickham does not provide the dates or initials which would give proof. A grandson says they are buried at Santa Anna, but the records there say there is no Stacy grave.

Perhaps this mystery will be solved with the publication of this article, someone may come forward with place and names. In the meantime, the finger of fate may point to his monument. Morgan Stacy, it is you! And you have a fabulous memorial, hundreds of yards long and three hundred feet high, made of rock and concrete and steel. Who was Ray Hubbard, who was Buchanan? You now take your place with them, on the maps, in the press, in the books of law and the halls of justice. And in our hearts.

Mrs. Lewis Guthrie To Have Piano Recital

Mrs. Lewis Guthrie will hold a piano recital for her students, on Thursday, May 30 at 7:30 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church.

Students playing are Eric Gooch, Mitchell Guthrie, Candy Daniell, Lana Harvey, Julie Dean, Erica Pearce, Tammy Starr and Stephanie Starr.

Spillman Honored

Wednesday night, May 15th, the Presbyterian Church honored Monique Spillman with a graduation party at the regular Family Night Supper. The tables were decorated with a variety of small ceramic unicorns. The head table for the graduate and her parents featured a bouquet of silk spring flowers and a large unicorn. Monique was presented with a gift of crystal candleholders from the Church, as well as gifts from church members.

by Mary Ann Hartman

The Santa Anna Orioles Senior League Team chalked up their second win of the season last week by downing the Bangs Braves 6-2. James Hartman went the distance on the mound, striking out 11 Braves batters. Bobby Prithcard had the lone hit for the Orioles. The Orioles defense eliminated many of the errors it had made in the past. Baker was the losing pitcher for the Braves. He also had all three of Bangs hits.

The Orioles will play tonight in Santa Anna beginning at 7:00 p.m. against the Coleman Astros.

Delta Omicron News

Special ceremonies for Delta Omicron members were held April 27, 1985 in the home of Ken and Coyita Bowker. Special guests conducting the ceremonies were District VII President Ann Barsch, Corrdinator Tennie Campbell, and Donna Thomason, all members of Beta Lambda of San Angelo.

Receiving corsages with their Jewel Pin attached were Gail Loyd and Jan Brixey. Gay Martin was awarded her First Pearl Certificate and charm for 1st Year Outstanding Member. Debbie Dean received a charm for Outstanding E.S.A'er.

Ann Barsch lead the Installation of the 1985-86 officers. Each officer lighted a candle as she accepted her new position. At the conclusion of the installation, all members lighted candles from those of their new officers, accepting their responsibilities as members of Delta Omicron. Becky Martin is the new president and Gay Martin is Vice-President. Other officers include: Recording Secretary-Sharon Greenlee, Treasurer-Cindy Tuttle, Assistant Treasurer-Betty Lewis, Education Director-Jan Brixey, Historian-Gail Loyd, Reporter-Gail Horner, and Jr. Past President-Debbie Dean.

Debbie Dean announced that Delta Omicron has been recognized as being in the top 20 chapters in the state.

A Goolash supper was served after the special events by hostesses Coyita Bowker, Kathy Pearce, Debbie Dean and Pam Morgan. Those attending were: Ken and Coyita Bowker, Bill and Becky Martin, Felton and Betty Martin, John and Kathy Pearce, Gail and Dickie Horner, Charles and Sharon Greenlee, Rod and Patti Musick, Gayle Stewardson, Gail Loyd, Bernidine Watson, Pam Morgan, Debbie Dean, Lois Harper, Jan Brixey and our special guests from San Angelo.

On May 1, 1985, a Founders Day Coke Party was held in the home of Coyita Bowker. Celebrating the 56th year of Epsilon Sigma Alpha were members Coyita Bowker, Gay Martin, Bernidine Watson, Kathy Pearce, Jan Brixey, Gail Loyd, Pam Morgan and Susie Voss.

The annual Traffic Jam for St. Jude's Children Research Hospital was held May 4, with $1,045.10 being raised in the effort. Gay Martin was chairman of the event and termed it the best ever.

Also during the Funtier Day Celebration on May 4, Delta Omicron sold Snow Cones and gave away E.S.A. balloons with each purchase. Bernidine Watson was chairman of this project.

The regular monthly meeting of Delta Omicron was held on May 13, in the Christian Life Center of the First Baptist Church. Becky Martin was in charge of the meeting with 18 of 22 members present.

Various projects were discussed including Community Calenders and the Back to School Carnival. The 1985 Scholarship recipient was chosen and Fall rushes were voted on by chapter member.

Jan Brixey, Educational Director, introduced guest speaker Charley Jordon, Meteorologist for K-TAB T.V. in Abilene, who presented a program on tornadoes. Approximately 35 members of the community attended the program which was open to the public.

TABS Tests Results Listed for Local School

In February of this year, the Santa Anna school administered the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills (TABS) to students in the ninth, fifth and third grades as a part of a state-wide program of student evaluation. The tests measure basic skills in math, reading and writing.

The ninth grade math test measures eleven different objectives as well as giving a total test mastery. Eighty-six percent of the students mastered the math test as a whole. The mastery of the individual objectives were 96 percent mastery in add-subtract and multiply-divide; 93 percent mastery in distance-location on maps and interpret charts-graphs; 86 percent mastery on use of decimals; and 68 percent on fractions-mixed numbers and measurement units. There was 71 percent mastery of solving problems; 57 percent mastery of ratio-proportion-percent; and 68 percent mastery of personal finance problems.

The ninth grade reading tests measures eleven objectives and shows 82 percent mastery of the total test. Areas of strong mastery are 82 percent mastery in use of reference skills; 86 percent in perceive cause-effect; and 93 percent in follow written directions. There was a 54 percent mastery in sequence events; 79 evaluate information; 79 distinguish fact, non-fact; 57 draw conclusions; and 86 use maps and charts. Seventy-one percent of the students mastered generalizations; 75 percent mastered main idea; and 68 percent mastered parts of a book.

The ninth grade writing tests consists of one part of six objectives and one part in which the student writes a composition. The composition is scored from 0 to 4 with 4 being the best score. Handwriting was also evaluated from the writing sample. Ninety percent of the students mastered both spelling and commonly used forms; 96 percent mastered capitalization and sentence structure; 79 percent mastered punctuation and 50 percent mastered English usage. On the writing sample, 36 percent scored a 1 and 64 percent scored a 2. All the students showed acceptable handwriting.

On the fifth grade math test, addition showed 97 percent mastery; graphs and division, 97 percent mastery; equivalent fractions, 83 percent; units of measure and order whole numbers, 93,97 percent. Subtraction, division and written problems, were mastered by 97 percent; geometric terms, figures and place value, 83 percent; and written problems, multiply and divide, 67 percent.

On the fifth grade reading test, 100 percent of the students mastered use context clues; 93 percent mastered use index; 96 percent on following written directions; and 75 percent on recall facts. Also 93 percent mastered use maps and charts; 75 percent ofn sequence events, distinguish fact, non-fact, and draw conclusions; 71 percent on predict outcomes; and 68 percent on main idea.

On fifth grade writing test, 93 percent of the students mastered both capitalizatin and commonly used forms; 100 percent mastered spelling; 90 percent sentence structure; and 83 percent correct English usage. Eighty-six percent mastered punctuation. On the writing sample, 24 percent received a 1; 28 percent a 3; and 48 percent a 2. Ninety-seven percent of the students showed acceptable handwriting.

On the third grade math test, 100 percent of the students mastered fractional parts; 89 percent mastered written problems and values of money; 97 percent mastered addition, complete number patterns and multiplication; and 95 percent mastered subtraction. Units of measure were mastered by 68 percent; and 70 percent mastered order whole numbers.

On the third grade reading, 97 percent of the students mastered follow written directions and phonic analysis; 94 percent mastered context clues and recognize words by sight; 92 percent word structures; 95 percent recall facts and details; 81 percent sequence events; and 65 percent mastered main idea.

Also on the writing test, 96 percent of the students mastered spelling and capitalization; 95 percent mastered correct English usage; 92 percent sentence structure; and 86 percent punctuation.

On the writing sample, 19 percent of the students scored a 4; 62 percent a 3; and 16 percent a 2. Acceptable handwriting was achieved by 97 percent of the students, while 3 percent received a not ratifiable.

Bible Study

THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1985
Read Romans 8:26-39

"The Spirit helps us in our weakness." (Romans 8:26)

Years ago while a young student pastor was serving in our church, Gregorio and his family joined the church on profession of faith. They were new Christians, and everybody in our church was happy to have them as new members.

Shortly after they came to our congregation, Gregorio lost his job. Then his wife became ill with tuberculosis. There was a flu epidemic in the city, and all their children lay sick in their one-room home in a basement. These events all happened at about the same time.

The young pastor did not know what to say to the family to comfort them, but he went to visit them just the same, albeit hesitatingly. He was surprised when he was met at the door by a bright-faced Gregorio.

"Pastor," he said, "I'm so glad I came to know Christ. If I did not know him, I would have been devastated by all of these unfortunate happenings. But now in spite of poverty and sickness I feel God's love for us!"

That pastor felt God's spirit strengthening not only that family but him as well, by Gregorio's witness.

PRAYER: Thank You, Lord Jesus, for helping us in times of need. Thank You that trials and sufferings cannot take away Your love from us. Amen.

The Thought for the Day: Nothing can separate us from the Love of God.

NURSING HOME

The Melody Makers did a beautiful song service Tuesday afternoon for a large number of residents. Thanks to Jim Boyles, Doris Aderholt, Wanda Wallace, Allene Needham, Lorene Winn and Virgie Woods for singing for us.

Bro. and Mrs. P. A. Lindley, Mrs. Nolen, Mrs. Keeney, Neal and Viola Smith sang for thirty minutes Tuesday evening to a large number of residents. We are so happy to have them visit the nursing home each week.

The residents enjoyed the movie "The Cop and the Anthem" Friday afternoon. It is wonderful the service the library extends, and makes it possible to see a movie each week.

The Ladies of the Presbyterian Church did the mending Thursday afternoon and sewed on some lap robes. We express our thanks and appreciation to Era Walters, VeVa McClellan, Nell Myers, Mary Lela Clifford and Louise McCaughan for sharing their time in such a beautiful way.

The residents were delighted to have Fannie Gilbert and Bessie G. Spann of Eden visit Wednesday.

The Sunday afternoon service was conducted by the Full Gospel Church. The residents enjoyed Bro. Loyd Taylor preaching and Bro. Frank and Maymie Taylor, Lola Taylor, Oscar and Connie Taylor, Florence Snodgrass, Dora B. Snodgrass, Glenda and Shirley Taylor singing. We appreciate them visiting us each fourth Sunday afternoon. Thank you.

The plants are beautiful Stena Mitchell, Beulah Helm, and Cleo Canady brought to the nursing home. We sure appreciate this kindness. Thank you so much for sharing with us.

We are so sorry Mabel Burrage, Lucas Whitehead, Nora Jones, Susie Richy and Zula Burton are in the hospital. We miss them and hope they are back home real soon.

The 42 party time is getting to be quite exciting. The residents seem to have a lot of fun each Monday afternoon.

Our sincere sympathy is extended to the family of Mr. Vergle Cowin. His services were held at Davis-Morris Funeral Home in Brownwood Sunday afternoon at 2:00 p.m.

We appreciate Bro. Dan Moffett and wife, Peggy, visiting the nursing home and conducting the devotion Wednesday.

Benton Feted

Mrs. Jessie Benton was given a wonderful surprise dinner for her 93rd birthday anniversary Sunday, May 19, 1985. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benton took her out to dinner at Underwood's in Brownwood, and all of the family were there waiting to greet her. Members were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Benton, Bobby, Bob and LaWanda Greer, and Carl and Bobby.

After dinner the group drove to the Gerald Benton home, and were joined by Mrs. Doyal Spurlock, Mr. and Mrs. Clint Tongate. The home was decorated with birthday decorations, and birthday cake and coffee were enjoyed with visiting.

Mrs. Benton was born May 20,

1892, in Coleman County, near Atoka, the seventh of eight children, born to Mr. and Mrs. Felix and Amanda Jane Mitchell. They had seven girls and one boy.

Mrs. Benton is active and very alert for her age; some eye problems, but works with her flowers and in the yard and attends the First Baptist Church. She has three children, four grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren; has an apartment at 711 Avenue B, lives alone and does her own work.

How could one not be happy on your 93rd birthday anniversary with the children of five generations as pictured.

Blooming Top Classes

Learn the quick and easy machine-quilting technique to create Blooming Tops, Vests, Pillows or anything you want to add this quilting feature to for decorative treatment. Blooming Tops were introduced last year at the Buffalo Gap Arts Festival and have been gaining in popularity since then. Articles made with this technique get prettier, fluffier and actually "Bloom" with each wash-dry cycle. An example of the Blooming Top may be seen at Phillips Drug.

Classes will be held June 3-7, 10-14, and 17-21 from 1-3:30 p.m. It will take about one week to complete a blooming top or vest. No charge for the classes other than materials needed to complete your project.

For more information and enrollment contact Sharyl Fuller at 348-3136 from 9-4.
