Delinquent Tax Expensive

Coleman County tax officials say forgetting to pay property taxes could be quite expensive this year.

Taxes are due by the end of the week, January 31 and any payment made during February will incur a seven percent penalty. Each month through June, the penalty increases two percent each month and in July an added delinquent collection fee makes the total penalty and fee a whopping 34 percent.

"It is cheaper to borrow money from a financial institution than to let taxes become delinquent," says

John Skelton, Chief Appraiser-Collector for the Coleman County Tax Appraisal District.

Appraisal District Selects Assistant Appraiser

Bill W. Jones of Ballinger has been hired as Assistant Appraiser for the Coleman County Tax Appraisal District, effective February 1, 1986. He was selected for the position at a called meeting of the Appraisal District Board on Monday, January 20.

A lifetime resident of Runnels County, Mr. Jones is currently serving as Assistant Appraiser of the Runnels County District and will have his certification in all levels of Tax Appraisal in 1987. He has been an employee of the Runnels County Appraisal District since early 1983.

Prior to entering the tax appraisal field, Jones was employed with a Ballinger furniture store as a manager for nine years.

A graduate of Ballinger High School, Jones has attended North Texas State University, Abilene Christian University and Angelo State University. During the three years with the Runnels County Tax Appraisal office, he has completed six courses toward his certification.

Mr. Jones will be moving to Coleman before February 1 and is looking forward to becoming a part of the community. He will be working with John Skelton, Chief Appraiser, working primarily with re-appraisals during the first few months. He is also familiar with the office procedures of appraisals and tax district operation.

Mr. Jones has two daughters, who will continue to reside in Ballinger, one a high school student and the other a sophomore student at Angelo State University.

Thoughts From Our Pastors

By John Stanislaw
Pastor of First Baptist Church

EDITOR'S NOTE: Local Pastors have been contacted to take turns writing a weekly devotion for the News and our readers. Rev. John Stanislaw, pastor of First Baptist Church has agreed to do the first week's devotion. We can all look forward to hearing from other pastors of the community in future weeks.

Matthew 19:26...But Jesus beheld the, and said unto them, With men this is impossible; but with God all things are possible.

We live in a world that is basically negative. Most folks always major on the bad things about people, places, government, the country, organizations, and many other things. We are facing hard times because of economical unrest, war threats, unemployment, and the list goes on. It seems everyone majors on the negative side of these things.

We have more positive things to be thankful for than negative things to complain about. Such things as health, freedom, peace, food, and the list goes on. We who are born-again Christians should be the example of thankfulness to God for what we have as compared to others around the world.

There is always someone else worse off than we are when we look around. There is a proverbial saying, "I complained about not having any shoes until I met a man without feet."

As we face the times we live in it seems that it is impossible to survive. Humanly speaking it is. But as Jesus said, "With God all things are possible." With Him in our lives we can make it through the hard times. The harder the times get, the bigger He gets and the more our faith grows. The impossible becomes possible. Our salvation was impossible with our own doings but with God through Jesus Christ, it is possible.

Valentine Banquet Planned

The Recreation and Youth Committee of First Baptist Church are making plans for their annual Valentine Banquet to be held on Wednesday, February 12 at 7:00 p.m. in the Christian Life Center gymnasium.

This year the committee made a few changes for the banquet. Instead of being just for junior high and high school students, the banquet will be for junior high students through adults, including married couples, widows and singles (this includes any age adult, young or young at heart).

Reservations need to be in by February 2 so the committee will know how much food to prepare for.

The cost will be $2.00 for students and adults are asked to donate a $2.00 minimum.

The theme for the banquet is "Love Is". Speaker for the banquet will be Scooter McCurdy, pastor of New Hope Baptist Church in Cedar Park, Texas. Special Music will be provided by different groups of the church, including a duet by Bradley Wardlow and Jackie Weathers, solos by Eddie Jones and Leanna Hartman, and by the Master's Men, a quartet made up of Donnie Neff, Dickie Horner, Patrick Hosch and Marty Donham. Master of Ceremonies will be Russell Mcgough.

Cantata Rehearsals

The Santa Anna Community Choir has begun rehearsals for their Easter cantata entitled "It Took A Miracle" by John Peterson to be presented in late March. Patrick Hosch, music director at First Baptist Church, is directing the presentation. Lera Guthrie is organist and Sandra Guthrie is pianist for the cantata. The two are accompanists at First Presbyterian Church.

Hosting the cantata this year will be the Seventh-Day Adventist Church. Singers are from several churches in the community including First Baptist, First United Methodist, First Presbyterian and Seventh-day Adventist.

The Nitia Daniell Circle of the First United Methodist Church met in the church parlor on Monday at 6 p.m. with Margaret Crews presiding.

In the business session, Carmilla Baugh read the minutes of the previous meeting. Dorothy Watson gave the treasurer's report. Committee reports were heard. Lucille Dean and Dorothy Watson brought the program on Week of Prayer and Self Denial.

Mrs. Crews served a refreshment plate to: Martha Thompson, Annelle Clark, Hettie Scarborough, Modora Gilmore, Carmilla Baugh, Lucille Dean, Pat DeWitt, Thelma Upchurch, Laura Carpenter, Lucille Wylie, Gladys Hunter, Dorothy Watson, Coyita Bowker, Mildred Galloway and Pauline Eubank.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a five-part weekly series by Dr. Gary S. Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, designed to help parents teach their children and themselves how to survive a house fire.)

A home burns every 45 seconds and up to 2,000 children burn to death annually. Following are two more drills offered in this series designed to teach children how to survive a fire.

In the fifth part of this series, a final "rookie" examination will be offered to determine whether your children qualify as "firemen."

A drill called "Get Out Fast" trains youngsters in the importance of a quick escape. A child's first impulse in fires should always be to "get out," even though the blaze may be small, for it can become an inferno in minutes. Fire most often strikes at night while children are asleep, so the most important drill you can give them is this: Have them lie on their beds and then sound the alarm. Time them to see how long it takes to reach the meeting place outside the house. At first, let them escape the simplest way. Then make them go through obstacles, such as "smoke" and the "hot" door. Block off stairways with a string so they know to use an alternate route. Be sure they practice going out a window. If they use a rope ladder, have them throw it out the window and actually climb down. If they are to wait on a roof until someone comes with a ladder, make them wait while you get the ladder. They must behave exactly as they would in a real fire.

The next drill is called "Call the Fire Engines." Teach your child exactly how to call the fire department; his quick action could save his life or your house. However, impress on him that if he discovers fire, he should act in this order: First, alert everyone so they can begin their escape. Then call the fire department if he can still do so safely. Lives have been lost because someone paused to call the firemen when he should have fled.

Have the children memorize the number of the fire department. Also, write out the number and place it permanently near the phone. Very small youngsters who can't dial long numbers at least can learn to dial "0" for the operator in an emergency.

When practicing, place a strip of tape over the receiver buttons so you can dial without letting the call go through. Have youngsters go to the phone, dial and give this information: "Our house is on fire at (address). The name is (Head of household)." Then don't let them hang up immediately, but wait to be sure they were understood.

Part 4 of this series provides a final drill in teaching children how to survive a fire.
