Council Stays Active

The Santa Anna City Council met in a special called meeting on Tuesday, April 8, 1986 to canvass the votes from the recent election for three city council members. The canvassing of the votes was as follows: Stanley Hartman-156; Susie Voss-153; Joe Taylor-165; Carmen Donham-107; Gary Fleeman-88; Roy Buse-52; John Pearce-13; Rex Turney-6; Eugene Allen-4; Quinton Daniel-3; James Ford-1; Clint Day-1; Glenda Cook-1; and Bobbie Seals-1.

On Thursday, April 10, the City Council met in regular session with all members present.

A memorial tribute was made to Mr. Garland Morgan for the time and effort he put in while he was on the council by Mayor Joe Guerrero. Mayor Guerrero also thanked Carmen Donham and Gary Fleeman for their time and effort while they were on the council.

The minutes of last months meeting were read and approved.

Montie Guthrie III was next on the agenda but was not present. Mr. Guthrie was to discuss the Chamber of Commerce plans for Funtier Day. The Chamber would like permission to block off some streets. Councilman Carmen Donham moved that the City let the Chamber block off S. 2nd Street between Wallis and Ave. B and 1/2 block on Ave. B in front of the Fire Department for their Funtier Day. The move was seconded by Councilman J. T. Avants and unanimously carried.

Mr. David Huggins then asked for the purchase of a used air com-pressor to be used for refilling the firemen's breathing tanks. It has been purchased from the City of Coleman. The Fire Department would also like for the City to furnish fire protection coats to use in fighting house fires. The Council asked how many were needed and at what cost. It was stated that at least eight would be needed at the cost of either $156 per coat or $149 per coat. The Fire Department would also like for the City to consider a Grant for purchase of a new fire truck. Mr. Huggins stated if a new truck was purchased the fire insurance rate would be lower. Councilman Stanley Hartman moved we purchase the used air compressor and eight fire coats for the the Department with Councilman Carmen Donham seconded. The vote was unanimously carried.

Mr. Marty Donham, president of the Santa Anna Community Services (Summer youth activities program) then requested the council's influence for purchase of Santa Fe land. They would like for the City to petition Santa Fe in order to keep the existing Ball Park. The land is reported to be valued at $1500 an acre. Councilman Carmen Donham moved that the city petition Santa Fe about purchase of part or all land. Councilman Gary Fleeman seconded and the move was unanimously carried. Mayor Guerrero said he would ask for a county appraiser Monday and a letter to Santa Fe would be written by the City Secretary on this matter.

Mr. Rod Musick was next on the agenda and reports that it is time for the City's annual clean-up day. He asked the City for help with use of City Equipment and employees to operate the equipment. Councilman Stanley Hartman made a motion that the City assist the Chamber in their project for clean-up day and that the City crew be the only ones to operate the equipment. Councilman Gary Fleeman seconded and the motion unanimously carried.

Next Mayor Guerrero introduced Mr. Bob Neville with Brownwood TV Cable to discuss the second reading of the Franchise. Mr. Neville stated that ESPN (Channel 13) is now on the air. Councilman Gary Fleeman moved we accept the Franchise as written. Councilman J. T. Avants seconded and motion carried with 1 councilman abstaining. Mr. Neville thanked the council for their time and cooperation and complemented the citizens participation and interest in council meetings.

Next on the agenda was insurance, but at this time the city did not have the information needed to discuss it.

Mayor Guerrero stated that Dale Bradley wants the City to assist him in cleaning the old tile building. He would like for the City to furnish a dump truck to haul the trash to the landfill. Councilman Stanley Hartman suggested that the city table this until Mr. Bradley can be present to discuss this further. Councilman Gary Fleeman agreed, and the matter will be discussed at a later time.

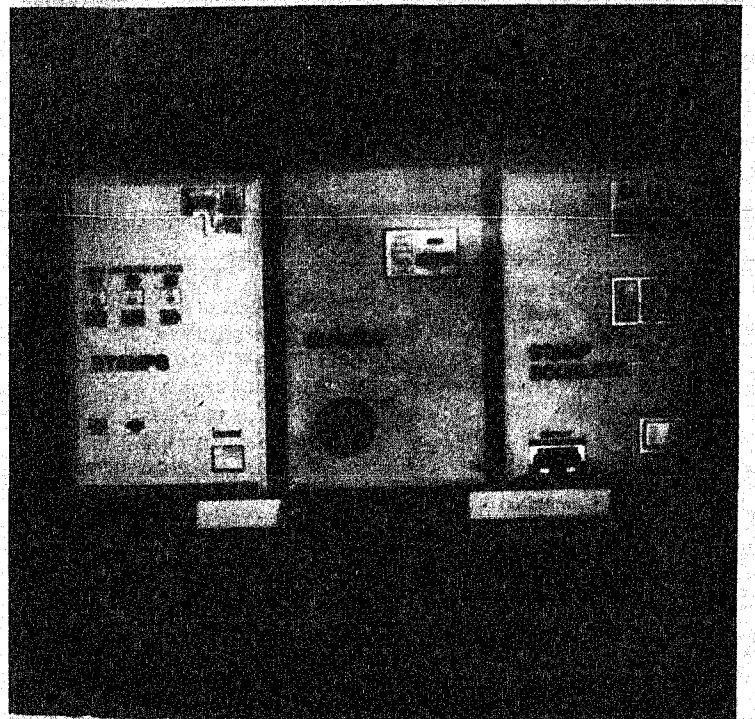

Mayor Guerrero next brought to the attention of the Council the leaking roof at the Armory. Mayor Guerrero brought two bids that had been received to repair the roof. One from Jesse Miles Roofing in Coleman for $9,000 for both top and single floor. Also a bid of $4,960 for the single floor. Another bid was from Lydick Roofing Co. of Brownwood for $6,318 for the single roof. Councilman Stanley Hartman moved we patch the roof the cheapest way possible. Councilman Gary Fleeman seconded, and was unanimously carried. Rusty Wells said he would contact several people and get the cheapest bid and have it patched.

Mayor Guerrero next discussed the old trash truck and maintainer, ect. equipment that needs to be disposed of. Councilman Gary Fleeman suggested that we wait and let the next council decide what they would like to do with it. Councilman Carmen Donham moved that the matter be tabled until the next council meeting. Councilman Fleeman seconded, unanimously carried.

The Peddler's Permit was then discussed. Mayor Guerrero requested that the City Secretary look up the old ordinance, and the matter will be discussed further at the next council meeting.

Accounts payable were then reviewed. Councilman Carmen Donham made a motion that the city pay the accounts in the normal manner. Councilman Stanley Hartman seconded, unanimously carried.

The meeting was then adjourned.

WTU To Reduce Fuel Rates

West Texas Utilities Co. has received permission from the Public Utility Commission of Texas to refund more than $9 million in over-collected fuel costs to its retail customers.

The PUC's action was in response to a request filed March 17 by WTU. The total amount to be refunded includes $9,146,092 in actual fuel costs savings which have accumulated since the current fuel rate for WTU was set by the PUC last August, plus $215,837 in interest.

The refunds will be made through one-time credits on bills customers will receive in May. The typical customer should receive about $22.

Also approved was WTU's proposal to reduce its fuel rates, technically known as the Interim Quarterly Fixed Fuel Factor, for the three-month period beginning in May. WTU officials estimate that fuel charges to customers will drop by 8.2 percent during that period. Base rates for kilowatt-hours used have not changed since 1984 and will remain the same.

WTU's fuel costs have declined for two years in a row, largely due to a softening natural gas market. Utility companies are allowed to pass the fuel costs to customers. Adjustments for over-collections or under-collections formerly were made automatically each month, but since 1983 utilities in Texas have collected fuel costs through fixed factors, which have necessitated refunds. This will be WTU's second refund within a year.

president; Donna Stark--Secretary-treasurer; and Carolyn Haynie--Parliamentarian. The third grade classes of Mrs. Greenlee and Mrs. Neff will present the program.

Clean-Up Day April 26

Folks, it's time to start gathering up that unsightly trash that you need to have hauled away, to help make our community a more attractive place to live.

It's also time to start putting on that volunteer cap and get in on the action of helping on clean-up day. Although the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the clean-up, many volunteers will be needed to make the project a success.

City workers are volunteering their time and the city trucks will be used, although there probably will be a need for others to volunteer use of their trucks and pick-ups.

The armory grounds will once again be the meeting place for all volunteer workers and equipment. More details will follow next week.

Anyone having large items such as appliances, furniture, etc. or anything too large for the regular garbage pick-up, may call either Gary Absher at 348-3781 or Rod Musick at 348-3148 to arrange for these items to be hauled away on clean-up day.

"This Town Is Your Town, This Town Is Our Town", so let all "Pitch in" on Saturday, April 26.

Thoughts From Our Pastors

By Stephen Ramsdell

Pastor of First United Methodist Church

One of the greatest symbols of the Christian Faith is the Cross of Jesus Christ. We see the symbol of the power that can break the bonds of every captive. We see the symbol of a redeeming love that can heal any broken heart. We see the shame of the cross and we see joy unspeakable and full of glory.

When we look upon the cross all of our illusions about ourselves are shattered. As we experience a special awareness about the cross sin must stand revealed for what it is. Sin is revealed as a destroyer. For when I look at the cross I can hear God speaking. I hear Him saying, "This is What your sin means." There is not much in life as terrible as that awareness. And if we do not worry about sin it is because we have never looked upon the cross. I cannot stand at Cavalry and fool myself into thinking that sin does not matter. It must matter to me because it matters terribly to God.

It's no wonder that in the book of Revelation the souls of sinful men when faced with the Lamb and His scars, when confronted with the nail scarred hands of Jesus, when confronted with the price that was paid, are heard crying to the mountains, "Fall On Us" and to the rocks, "Hide us from His face." And I, when I look at what my sins have done to Jesus, I am ashamed and I wonder at the possibility of hope. So as I become aware of the shame of the cross I also become aware of the most glorious hope that ever broke across the earth. But how has a Cross that was made to kill become a symbol of a death defying hope? Why can a revival be started by the cross? Why do our hymns fill themselves with the wondrous light of the cross? How has that hill so far away become the center of the universe? Couldn't it be because of the inexpressible gift of the grace of God in Jesus Christ? For Calvary was not just Pilates deed, of Judas, of the Romans, or the Pharisees, or the crowd, nor was it only my deed, or the deed of any of the Adam's and Eve's in our world. I believe the Cross was God's deed. It was God's action. It was God himself taking the sins of a tragic, wrong, warring world upon Himself and upon his heart. It was God defeating the principalities and the powers of darkness at the point of their seeming victory. It was the story of the prisoners being set free. So a great light shines from the cross. It is a light that examines our hearts and shatters my illusions about myself. It is a light that blesses and gives life, and shame gives way to a brand new life in Jesus Christ. So in Christ our chains fall off and our hearts are made free. Jesus has risen as the Son of Righteousness with healing in His wings.

Youth Tour Winners

Majetta Rutherford, Rhonda Brown

Majetta Rutherford, Santa Anna High School Student, and Rhonda Brown, Coleman High School Student, are the winners in the Coleman County Electric Cooperative's Government-In-Action Youth Tour Contest held recently at the Co-op's office in Coleman. The contest, now in its 21st year was coordinated by Jerry Hubbard, Administrative Assistant for the Cooperative.

This trip, besides being fun, will be educational for the 67 youths from all over the State of Texas. It will give the kids a chance to see our government in action, a lot of the younger kids today don't know how it was without electricity; says Hubbard.

Although the concept stays the same for the contest year after year, the annual topic changes. This year's topic was "Electric Cooperatives, 50 Years of Progress."

Each of the Contestants were required to research, prepare and present a five to seven minute speech. Contestants are judged on the knowledge of the subject, speaking ability, poise, personality and appearance. The speech is presented before a panel of three judges from other electric cooperatives. After the speech each judge will ask one question to each contestant on the local Cooperative or rural electrification in general.

Folks, just thought I would write a short note about how things have gone her at the News office recently. Just this past week, Polly and I took several pictures. Well, when I went over to Bangs Monday morning to develop the film and print the prints, the film was totally blank. (Frustrating!!!) The film had not advanced on the roll as it should have and as would naturally happen, not one picture took. So Monday, after I returned from Bangs, I called around town, and set up times to retake some of the pictures (but of course, some just could not be taken over) and take others for the paper. Well, then Monday night I returned to Bangs to try once again and develop yet another roll of film. Thank The Lord! This time all pictures turned out real good. (just hope they turn out as well in the paper!!!)

The past several weeks have been real hectic around here, especially on Tuesday mornings. Polly and I both worked hard all week long and them, BAM!, Tuesday mornings everything goes wrong. News items would pile up and we would type till our fingers and arms felt as though they would just flat fall off. We would finally finish typing and then on Tuesday afternoon I would have to go to Brownwood and it seemed everything went wrong there as well. First the printer would run out of paper and need to be reloaded, then the printer would be torn apart to be worked on, and other things, etc., etc., etc.

Well this week, things are going better, (except for the film being blank). So please, once again, I would like to remind everyone to bring their News items and articles in as soon as possible, and don't wait until the last minute.

As the members arrived they were served Texas Specialty foods from a table laid with a beige cutwork cloth. Nuts, candies and fruits were in crystal dishes, and coffee and fruit punch were offered with the Texas Lemon pies. The blue napkins had Texas emblems and packages of Texas bluebonnet seed in a fold.

The program was on Texas industries Earlene Scott spoke on Texas agriculture, telling some of its problems at present. The cattle business seemed to be stronger than most phases, with dairy, wheat, cotton and vegetables growing now having competition from several countries of the world.

Carmen Donham had made much interesting and amusing research. Levis are made in El Paso, boot at Nocona, San Angelo, Coleman and other places, lingerie at Denison and McLean, caskets at Abilene and also at Abilene candies, Fritos, and potato chips.

Custom-made rugs are made at Paint Rock, microwave chips and components at Amarillo, air cooler pads in Santa Anna, all kinds of cable and wire in Brownwood. Also auto and truck tires and Mary Kay cosmetics in Dallas. Beers and wines are now being made at several Texas towns, plywood at three east Texas cities and brick and tile at Coleman and Brownwood.

The country's leading maker of windshield wipers is moving from Buffalo, New York to Brownsville, and the state is seeing a steady stream of factories coming from the North to our better climate and labor situation.

Mrs. C. D. Bruce spoke on the activity and importance of the military in Texas, with its many airfields, training camps and its growth in ROTC classes in the colleges and universities of Texas. During World War II more commissioned officers came from Texas A&M than from West Point, Annapolis and Colorado Springs combined, and one of the largest military forts in the United States is at Fort Hood, Texas.

Mrs. Jim Spillman and Mrs. Bill Gustavus spoke of the need for a summer reading program for students in connection with the City Library.

Besides the members present, guests were Mrs. Xuma Jones and Annette Shiled Clark.

CONGRATULATION BOYS ON YOUR WIN!!!

Shadow Over Texas Part II

By Leona Bruce

In April 1836, it was time for the Texan settlers to look about them, to face with courage their situation.

They had been promised fine land almost free, if they would swear allegiance to Mexico, accept the Catholic faith, and improve their new holdings as the Mexican government required. Some of these Texans had come ten years or more ago, and by the shipload more were arriving. The laws of Mexico they found capricious and more unacceptable than they had been told. But they had plowed their fields, planted orchards, built sturdy log houses and corn-bins, fenced their fields, and obeyed the laws. Joined with Coahuila, the capital of the state was many days travel away. They had tried to establish mail routes and to organize defense against the raiding Indian tribes, to set up courts of law, and to build ferries, roads and bridges.

But never had they sought independence from Mexico; they had asked for separation from Coahuila, and the founding of a state capital in Texas. There had been disturbances. As we have told in Part I, the ayuntamientos appointed by the government at Mexico City could and did change the laws verbally, as they might wish to do, and even the Empresarios were more than once ordered to leave Texas,—this including the noted Austin. Earlier in February was the four-day battle of San Antonio, when the Texans had taken the city by force, and the Mexican commander, Cos, had signed an agreement that he and his army would leave Texas and never fight again the Texan army; then they were sent back to Mexico without punishment, given their arms and supplies, and munitions to protect them from the Indians as they traveled south to the Rio Grande.

But that same month, General Urrea captured 41 Texas soldiers and all were shot to death. On March 1, the Texas delegation met at Washington on the Brazos; they were told of the desperate future facing the colonists, and that Santa Anna, who had seized the capitol and named himself Dictator, was on his way to conquer Texas, obliterate the Texas army and drive every settler across the Sabine. On February 28, Texan forces under Col. Grant and Major Morris at San Patricio were captured by Urrea, and all 41 of them were shot. Santa Anna was already at San Antonio, with 6000 trained and equipped troops, ready to begin the siege there. On March 14, a Texan force of nearly fifty were commanded by Capt. King, but were taken by a much larger force, and all were shot to death. On March 16, Fannin received orders to retreat to Victoria, but two days later his little army of 330 was captured and after some nine days, all were shot except a few who escaped to a grove of trees.

Houston, at the convention at Washington, did not know of the massacre at the Alamo until March 11th, and news of the other defeats kept coming to him. But by that time, the result of the convention had been widely made known. On March 2, the assembly declared Texas a free and independent nation, that all connection with Mexico had become intolerable, and though of war, and poor fighting equipment, they were determined to be free.

The plight of the Texas settlers was desperate. With most of the capable men somewhere in the armies, the women and children had no defense against the murdering Mexican armies, which Santa Anna had divided to overcome the small Texas increments wherever they could be found. Now they must leave the log houses and barns and fences they had built with so much effort, the fields of tender young crops, the gentle chickens and fat hogs and cattle. The treasured hand-made quilts, the tints of loved ones, the good mattresses filled with hay or corn-shucks, family heirlooms brought from the States, all these they must leave. And they must hurry! Big children must carry the iron skillet and a bag of corn to roast for food. Babies must be carried, but any child who could walk must be dragged through the wet grass. The fortunate ones with a wagon or cart helped to carry all they could. No matter how tired, there could be no rest, no rest in the wild rush to the east, toward the Sabine.

Santa Anna had divided his forces, also. He ordered General Urrea along the east coast with 1700 men, to Brazoria and Galveston; Gaona with 750 went to Bastrop and Nacogdoches, while the central column of about 4000 was to go to San Felipe, Gonzalez and Harrisburg. After the Alamo was taken, Santa Anna himself wished to return to Mexico City, but his generals, wiser than he, reminded him that he had defeated only the recruits, not the Texas men of steel.

Texan scouts kept General Houston fairly well aware of all this. He knew that to win the war, he had to defeat Santa Anna, and to do this, he had only one choice—to play for time. As he crossed the Nueces and the Colorado, recruits joined him; many left, however, to learn of the safety of their families. Burnet, Provisional President, left the headquarters at San Felipe and arrived at his own plantation when an advancing Mexican force was already in sight! The family snatched what they could carry and fled to their sailboat on the river. A fortunate breeze sprang up, and Burnet stood in the stern of the boat, his musket with its one load pointed at the foremost of the Mexican rider as the wind took them out of range, safe for the moment.

Houston camped in the Brazos bottom, opposite Groce's from March 29 to April 12, receiving recruits and supplies. His men were lucky in cap-

P.E. Classes To

Jump Rope For Heart

The American Heart Association in Texas is again promoting physical fitness through the Jump Rope For Heart program, which has been endorsed by the Texas Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance.

The money raised by the Jump Rope for Heart event will allow the American Heart Association to continue to provide educational programs and materials at no cost to your child's school; and even more important, it will ensure the continuation of the research efforts to combat cardiovascular disease and stroke.

The P.E. Classes for Kindergarten through 6th grade will be participating in the Jump Rope For Heart program during the week of April 14-18. Children involved will be taking pledges from friends, neighbors and relatives to go toward the research efforts.

Under its terms, all Mexicans not loyal to the Texas government were to leave Texas; all prisoners were to be released without punishment, and Santa Anna was to be sent to Vera Cruz and he pledged his most earnest efforts to induce Mexico to accept the conditions, including the acknowledgement that Texas was now a free and independent nation.

But the bitter resentment and hatred for Santa Anna on the part of many of the Texans remained. They had given themselves, their properties, and the lives of their people to accomplish the capture of this barbarous usurper, and to see him allowed to return to his grandeur and high office was more than they could or would endure. Many believed that he should be shot; some wished to keep him as a hostage. President Burnet maintained that he should be sent to Vera Cruz, according to the treaty, and he was placed on the Invincible on June 1, ready to sail. But a large and angry number of volunteers demanded that he be should be tried and punished in Texas for his crimes, and he was brought back to shore and put back into prison under continual guard.

An election was called for September, and Santa Anna was moved from place to place, from adobe jail to jail. Houston was elected President of Texas, but the future of the Mexican president was still in doubt. Marched walking from town to town, he wore manacles and shackles, slept on the ground, and shared scanty fare. Besides having to face an uncertain verdict of some legal trial, he realized that most of his guards would gladly put a musket bullet through him at any moment.

In the meantime, the little ships of the Texans and the larger ones of Mexico had constant encounters, and Indian raids pillaged the settlers on moonlight nights. The Texas Congress settled itself into the problems of elections, schools, county governments, taxes, protection and finance.

A fortunate event arose for the Texans. Another revolution occurred in Mexico, and the new president repudiated the treaty which Santa

Anna had made with the Texans. After Houston returned to Texas, his ankle healed. He sent Santa Anna back to his country, in 1837; but he found that he was in disgrace and an object of humiliation. Filisola and Bustamante gathered an army to retake Texas, but battles and skirmishes under Montezuma were too frequent and they could not leave for the north.

On Jan. 14, 1839, a commission located the capital of Texas at a place near Brushy Creek on the Colorado, and the name chosen was Austin; Santa Anna again rose to power in Mexico, and it seemed only a matter of time until the war would have to be fought again.

Who and what was this Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna? Here we leave the chapters of Thrall and review a life of the Mexican dictator as told in Frontier Times.

Seldom in history is a more varied career told than that of this man. He had been born in Eastern Mexico June 13, 1792, to an unimportant family of pure Spanish blood. Entering the Spanish army as a youth, he soon became a Subaltern. With not a drop of Mexican blood in his veins, he fought against the Mexican tribes which were trying to get their freedom; but realizing that Spain would lose, Santa Anna defected to the Mexican cause, helping Iturbide gain release from the Spanish rule.

Iturbide soon seized the presidency, and Santa Anna made careful plans to depose him. This was soon done, Santa Anna was named president and he then took the title and duties of Dictator. After his defeat at San Jacinto and a terrifying year as a prisoner, he was taken to Washington and then returned to Mexico. He joined the Mexican army, defeated the French at Vera Cruz, where he lost a leg, and in a coup took the presidency and dictatorship again. Ousted by a rebellion, he was found hiding in a forest, and was placed in the hated Perote prison.

When the war with the United States began in 1846, he offered to lead the Mexican army and got back into power. With the victory by the American army, and Santa Anna was allowed to go to Spain in exile; the American army protected him from angry Mexicans while he, his wife and daughter, with sixteen trunks of gold-trimmed uniforms and fabulous dresses were taken aboard ship.

When the next revolution came in Mexico, Santa Anna took ship for Vera Cruz and was hailed as a hero by the faction, and again became president! Five times this fated man was at the zenith and the nadir of power.

As an old man, living on his estate in Eastern Mexico, Santa Anna wrote his version of his life story. (Source, Life of Santa Anna, Texas Magazine, May 1896, Page 1f.) This document is now in the Texas University Archives, purchased in 1921.

In his view, his life was a series of successes, of grandeur and greatness. He himself was invincible, he never made a mistake; his misfortunes had occurred because this or that general forgot or disobeyed orders or was late. He had achieved greatness for Mexico and the people had almost worshipped him, except when they were influenced by his enemies, who wanted him disposed for their own advancement. This memoirs he wrote "with my own hand."

The treaty of Guadalupe-Hidalgo, ending the war of 1845, was soon followed by the sale of New Mexico, California, and Arizona and parts of other states to the United States, at an agreed price. And an irony is that twice after that, Santa Anna was hailed by the Mexican people as president; ignored by them was the fact that it was he who had dismembered their country.

But history is full of ironies, and it now seems that by 2050 Mexico will have regained Texas by infiltration. The much greater birth rate of the Latin peoples than the Anglo, and the multitudes who come into Texas illegally, are combining to change the ethnicity of this state. One gleam of hope may be seen in that the immigrants are ambitious, hard-working and intelligent; we are getting the cream, the most desirable, and when racism is a thing of the past, we will be a state of amigos, of Hermanos and Hermanas.

ROTTEN DAY FOR MEN AND WOMEN

Now folks, I'm gonna tell you how you can tell when its gonna be a rotten day. First you wake up face down in a mud puddle. You put your brad on backwards and it fits better. You grab the spray can and spray you hair and find that it is insect spray. Your birthday cake collapses from the weight of the candles. You want to put on the clothes you wore home from the party but there aren't any. Your twin sister forgets your birthday. You call your answering service and they tell you its none of your business. You walk to work and find that the bottom of your dress is stuck in the back of your panty hose. You wake up and your false teeth are turned backwards. The bird singing outside your window is a buzzard. Your blind date turns out to be your ex-wife. You put both contact lenses in the same eye. Your pet rock snaps at you. Your wife says, "Good morning Bill!" and your name is George. Yes a rotten day!
