Roland Driggers, Named Teacher Of The Month

Roland Driggers has been chosen by the Santa Anna Lions Club as Teacher of the Month for January.

Mr. Driggers teaches 7th and 8th grade math and in high school has a class in "Informal Geometry".

He started teaching in the Santa Anna school system three years ago, moving here from Odessa. Other than classroom duties, he is sponsor for 7th and 8th grade number sense entries in U.I.L. competition.

A native of Clyde, Roland received his degrees from University of Texas, El Paso and has been in the teaching profession for 25 years.

When asked what he found most rewarding in his work, Mr. Driggers replied, "Seeing the kids go on to become productive citizens." He also said it was quite gratifying when former students return for visits and tell him how he has influenced their lives.

Outside of teaching, his interest lies in his family and in his hobby of woodworking. He delves in that hobby at the rural residence near Valera where he and his wife make their home. Mrs. Driggers is employed at the Department Of Human Services office in Coleman. The couple have three grown children and four grandchildren.

Students Receive Reading Awards

Awards were given recently to Santa Anna students participating in the Bluebonnet Reading Program. The program was implemented in the state of Texas about 10 years ago as an incentive for youngsters grades three to six to get in the habit of reading.

In order to make the Bluebonnet list selections are recommended by teachers and librarians from across the state to a committee of their peers who diligently read the books before approving them for the program.

Students reading at least five of the 20 recommended books receive a certificate for their participation. Locally elementary school librarian, Kay Gray, has added a state of Texas pin featuring a bluebonnet presented to those students reading at least 10 books and gold seals on the pin for those reading all twenty.

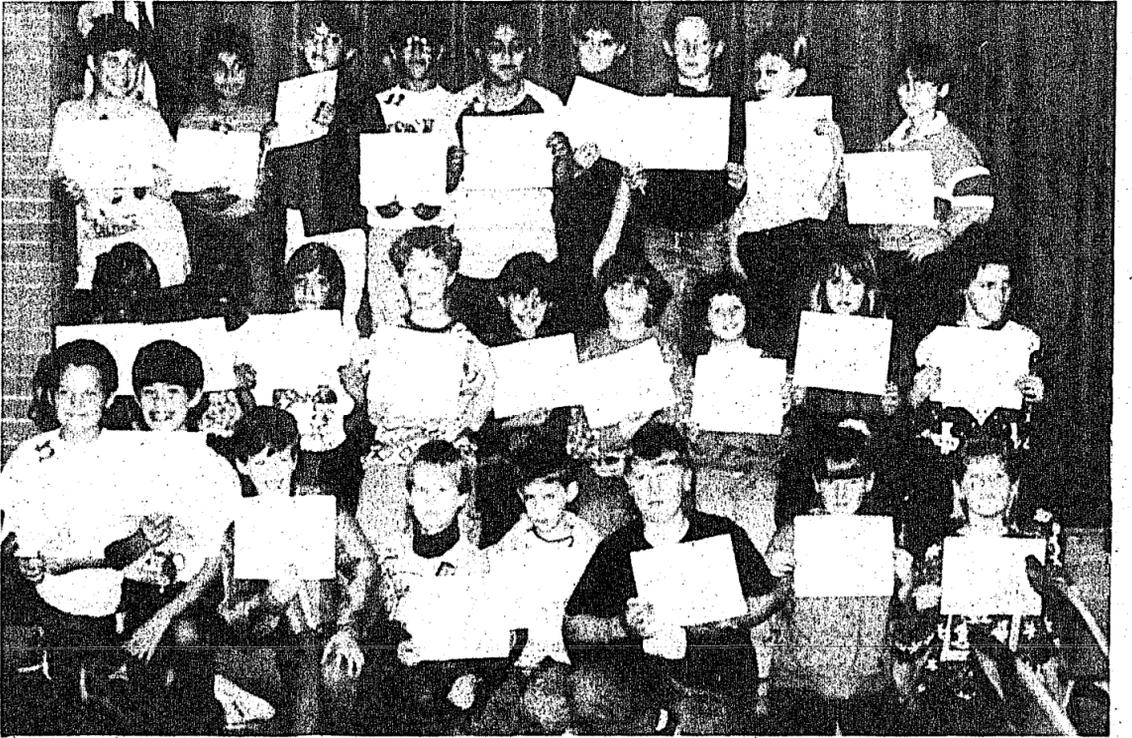

Any child reading at least five books in the program is eligible to cast a vote for "Bluebonnet Medal Book" Last year 290,000 votes were cast by school children around the state. The award is made to the book's author at a banquet with two selected students making the presentation.

Santa Anna Penatuhkah Comanche Chief

A series by Linda Pelon

The information presented regarding the Penatuhkah-German relationship clearly demonstrated that Santa Anna and his band were capable of relationships with settlers far different from those of the "raider/depredator" role typically associated with the Comanches. The Germans, under the leadership of Meusebach, reached out to the Penatuhkahs in true friendship and received it in return. The following account, taken from Pioneers in God's Hills is a touching example of this unique bond:

In the woeful time of cholera the Indians showed themselves as friends in need: They brought honey, meat, and bearfat to their white neighbors.

Santanna, a chief of the Comanches, was a good friend Meusebach and his colonists. Unfortunately, he, too succumbed to cholera.

The story of the Penatuhkah-German friendship is a unique and important part of both Native American and Frontier history. I hope the people of Santa Anna and Fredericksburg and the Comanche Nation will work together to reconstruct the history in greater detail and to protect the places of importance associated with it.

1992: A "Taxing" Year

1992 was a "taxing" year for the American family, with federal, state and local taxes combined representing the largest item in a family's annual budget, according to a recent report by the Tax Foundation. The report, "Value of Typical American Family's 1992 Income Eroded by Taxes and Inflation," was released in October by the Washington, D.C.-based research organization.

In 1992, the typical American family, defined by the report as a two-earner/two-dependent household, spent 39.7 percent of its budget on taxes — more than on food, clothing and housing combined. After paying taxes and purchasing these necessities, a family was left with only 29 cents on a dollar for items such as health care, transportation and insurance.

The Tax Foundation report also found that increases in other federal taxes, including excise taxes on gasoline, liquor, tobacco and telephone use, along with hikes in Social Security and state/local taxes, have had a significant impact on a family's income. Despite earning $1,405 more in 1992, the typical family took home $214 less than in 1991.

In conclusion, the report stated that persistent federal deficit spending will mean "more pressure to increase federal tax revenues." This factor, combined with the sharp tax increases recently enacted in numerous states, will "continue to tap the family's disposable income over the next several years." ■

Library Notes

Check It Out

Alice Anna Spillman

The weather didn't cooperate—it was too cold to give the library a second coat of paint. Betty, David, Jim and I went looking for bookshelves. These were to be bid upon. Now people with the knowledge must determine the cost of these and the present value.

Those of us who work at the library had a mystery last week. Who left the two rolling chairs? By asking each volunteer we found that Betty and David Key left the gift. Several people tried them out and found them good.

Mrs. Robert See left a couple of bundles of magazines including some Daughters of the American Revolution. If you need to look at these ask, but they will not be 'out' until the new library opens. Our plans include a genealogy corner for information like this. There were also some good health books in the box. These will be on the shelves soon.

Mr. James Ellerbe brought some paperbacks and an offer to help when needed.

Mr. Troy Roe brought new magazines. He reports that his sister is recovery from surgery. Did you know that a new technique can glue rather stitch a surgical opening?

Friends like all of these are the ones that keep our library going and growing. Thanks to all.

Some of you have been waiting for new books from the Interlibrary Loan System at Abilene. A box arrived last week. Maybe we are just anxious, but these seem a little late. Hope more will arrive quickly. There are many books you could read so come by and look a while.

Take one of our good magazines for those bad weather days still coming in February.

Buy a book for your valentine. She or he will have a reminder for years to come.

Bridal Shower To Fete Shannon Abernathy Feb. 13

Thoughts From Our Pastors

Waide Messer
First Baptist Church

"Ignorance"

Josh Billings, a 19th century humorist, said, "It is better not to know so much than to know so many things that just ain't so." Jaime O'Neil, a college professor in the state of Washington, became concerned that too many students knew too many things that "just ain't so." Professor O'Neil developed an eight-six question quiz to test the general knowledge of college students. Some of the answers in response to the quiz are: "Charles Darwin invented gravity", "Ralph Nader is a baseball player", "Christ lived in the 16th century", "Sid Caesar was an early Roman emperor", "Mark Twain invented the cotton gin", Dwight Eisenhower served as president in the 17th century", "Socrates was an Indian chief", and "Camp David is in Israel". More alarming than this knowledge of "things that just ain't so," is the "famine for hearing the words of the Lord" (Amos 8:11). May your hearts desire be to hear and know the word of God. The word of God is food for your hungering spirit and guidance for your daily life. Read the Bible daily and God will change your life.

Recognizing Those Who Have Helped Shape Local History

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crews

Harry and Margaret Crews have been residents of Santa Anna and an integral part of community life here since 1945. Before retiring he was in the lumber business for many years and she taught third grade at Santa Anna Elementary School.

Harry was born and raised in Coleman County, the youngest child of J.H. and Tulia Pitts Crews who came to Coleman County in 1905 from Ellis County. At the age of five years he started school at Success, later attended Bowen School. He attended Coleman schools during his junior and senior years, graduating in 1927.

In 1928 he went to work for South Texas Lumber Company in Coleman, working with them until 1957 when the company went out of business. In 1959 he arranged to buy and stock the old Leeper-Curd Lumber Company in Santa Anna.

In 1971 he retired from the lumber business to spend time in his carpenter shop. He still enjoys woodworking and has even taken his turn at painting pictures. Many of his paintings adorn the walls of the Crews home and homes of relatives and friends.

Margaret is quite an artist in her own right, except her interest lies in quilting. She is one of the several Methodist ladies who work together to create their own special kind of artwork in the form of beautiful quilts to be auctioned off during the Methodist Church Lord's Acre each fall.

Margaret Roberts was born in Lampasas. When a very young child she moved to Coleman County with her mother to be near family after the death of her father. She attended school at Gouldbusk and Coleman. After her mother remarried Margaret attended and graduated school in Brownwood. She received her B.A. and M.A. Degrees from Howard Payne College after she and Harry married in 1934.

Margaret taught two years in the primary grades at Leaday. Before Ivie Reservoir filled to cover what was left of that community a couple of years ago, she managed to retrieve a shingle from the old school building there as a memento.

After the family moved to Santa Anna she taught here until retiring in 1972. The couple have two children, a daughter, Dixie Aylor, a retired beautician who with her husband Bill makes her home in San Angelo; and son Jimmie who resides in the Bronx, New York City and commutes to teach history and social studies at Mount Vernon.

Harry and Margaret are members of the Santa Anna Methodist Church and have, over the years, held many places of responsibility in the church. He also volunteered for several years as scout master in Talpa and later Santa Anna and when in business was a member of the Santa Anna Lions Club. Margaret is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, Coleman County Chapter.

Commissioners Grant Request To Valera VFD Look To Money Saving Ideas

Following a call to order by Pete Skelton, County Judge, the Coleman County Commissioners met Jan. 29, 1993 at 10 a.m. in the commissioners' courtroom of the county courthouse. All commissioners were present, as were Shirley Sansing, County Auditor; Joe Dan LeMay, County Attorney; and Glenn Thomas, County Clerk.

Following the presenting of bills due by Mrs. Sansing, approval to pay same was made. Billy Don McCrary stated one of his workers was treated at the Doctor's Clinic by Dr. Biddix recently and he gave Sansing a copy of that statement.

The FM 503 project received some discussion. An oil tank battery is to be moved as part of clearing the road right-of-way and the decision was reached to have a firm price stated by the company intending to move the storage units, as the cost of moving will fall on the shoulders of the county. Advertisements for bids are to be placed for new fencing and one for new gates. The State of Texas will reimburse the county for costs of fencing up to a stated maximum amount for the road relocation project. Costs of utility relocations will be borne by the county. It is hoped that property owners will negotiate with county personnel and exchange their land for the new fencing which will increase the value of the property. Reminder was made that the water district had agreed to provide a grader to clear the road right-of-way.

A general discussion was held on equipment and junk iron in all precincts that need to be done away with and monies received from sales be put to better use. All commissioners are to make a list of such equipment and iron and bring it to the next meeting at the end of February. Bids will be requested. However, if no bids are received for any item, the county can dispose of items as it sees fit.

The problem of accumulated used oil was expressed and a company will be contacted to pick it up.

In an effort to save county funds, the special election on May 1st to fill a space in the Senate will use only five voting sites, four in Coleman and one in Santa Anna. A tight turnout is expected for the election and it is believed the smaller number of voting boxes will not cause undue problems for those wishing to mark a ballot. The motion was made, seconded and passed unanimously.

A request had been received from the Valera Volunteer Fire Department to place a truck shed on the old Valera school property which is owned by the county. The commissioners approved the request with the understanding that the Valera Volunteer Fire Dept. will provide liability insurance at their own expense and that the property will only be used by the department for the public service they provide.

A DISPATCH FROM THE UNIVERSITY WORLD

The University Of Texas System

Texas: Home of the Greatest Bang for the Buck In Business Education

Where can a student seeking a master's degree in business administration find the best bargain? In Texas, of course.

Surveys by two national magazines, Business Week and U. S. News and World Report, concluded that four Texas universities are among U. S. schools that offer students seeking the MBA degree "the best bang for their buck" today.

Two are public institutions--The University of Texas at Austin and Texas A&M University at College Station. Two are private schools--Rice University at Houston and Southern Methodist University at Dallas.

The fact that an MBA degree from a Texas university can cost thousands of dollars less than on from what some regards as a "name brand" school doesn't mean that the quality of the education is any less.

In the U. S. News and World Report survey, UT Austin, long recognized for the excellence of its business graduates, was rated among the top 25 such schools in the quality of its education while charging the least. It was ranked near the top in its offerings in Accounting and Business Law.

Although not in the top 25, SMU and Texas A&M were also given high marks for excellence.

A third survey, this one by Forbes Magazine, ranked the master's degree from UT Austin third among the 10 best in the nation. It also rated UT's tuition ($780 for residents and $6,640 for out-of-state students) the nation's best bargain.

Business Week's survey singled out Rice, UT Austin and A&M as among the top 20 schools in the U.S. offering the lowest priced master's degree.

"Plenty of B-Schools outside the top 20 deliver the goods," the magazine said. "Many of these B-schools provide solid foundations in business basics, and some are even on the leading edge of management education."

Does a degree from some of the better known, more expensive schools mean a higher starting salary for graduates when they start in the business world? Not necessarily.

The Forbes article says that while this may be true in some cases, "(the student) should consider whether the (higher) investment is worthwhile."

Dan Short, associate dean of the UT Austin Graduate School of Business, agrees.

"I'm not convinced that the value added by the degree itself--what you learn is substantially different from an institution that charges $20,000 a year compared with a state institution that charges $4,000 to $5,000," he says. "You're certainly not getting four times as much knowledge."

With some Eastern schools charging up to $35,000 a year for tuition and room and board, the goal of Texas institutions, both public and private, is to keep education "affordable." This is receiving special emphasis as the state tries to increase enrollments by Hispanics, Texas' largest and fastest-growing ethnic group.

A new eight-year program aimed at doing just that has been launched at UT San Antonio, which numbers more than 5,000 Hispanics in its 16,000-plus student body.

One of the plan's top priorities is the development of a master's degree in management technology--a growing need in a changing business environment. Another is to offer an undergraduate degree in tourism management--an innovation in business education designed to provide a natural bridge to the booming tourist trade in both San Antonio and the state.

"We need graduate programs to meet the needs of Hispanics," says Dr. Samuel Kirkpatrick, president of UT San Antonio. One of his hopes is to offer a Ph.D degree designed especially for this segment of Texas' population.

If Kirkpatrick's plans succeed, these new innovative courses in business education--like those being offered at other Texas universities--will be "affordable."

SEQUEL RIGHTS--Texas soon will be the only state in the Union where students can study at two presidential libraries.

The Lyndon Baines Johnson Library at UT Austin already attracts scholars from throughout the world.

Now Texas A&M has reserved a 90-acre complex for the George Bush Presidential Library Center. It will include a library, a museum and a school of government and public service, plus a center for public leadership studies.

The $42 million project, to be built with private, university and government funds, is scheduled to open in 1997 or before.

Denison-born Dwight D. Eisenhower, first of the three U. S. presidents from Texas, grew up in Abilene, Kansas, and his library is located there.

AUTO GRAPHICS--Individuals who have been tattooed and now have second thoughts have a way out.

A new devise called Q-switch ruby laser removes unwanted tattoos without scarring, says Dr. Lynne Roberts, associate professor of dermatology at the UT Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas. The ruby laser also removes liver spots and other brown pigment patches.

FRINGE BENEFITS--Mesquite and prickly pear cactus, long the scourge of South Texas farms and ranches, may turn out to be an unexpected economic benefit.

Congressman Kika de la Garza of Mission has introduced a bill to provide a $140,000 grant to Texas A&I University at Kingsville to research ways these two natural growths could be turned to cash.

JUMPING TO CONFUSIONS?--Thanks to a University of North Texas professor, determining who is sane or insane may not be a problem for the legal system.

Dr. Richard Rogers of the Denton school's psychology department has devised a psychological test that is a kind of written lie detector. It can be used in court to determine whether a defendant who is pleading insanity really is.

Rogers says his 180-question test, dubbed a Structured Interview of Reported Symptoms, is the first standardized way to determine the accuracy of mental illness claims. He has worked on the idea since 1989.

REVISED VERSION--UT Austin scientists have discovered a way of testing pharmaceutical drugs without using laboratory animals.

Instead of using mammals like rats and guinea pigs to test drugs, they will use fungi. The fungus will enable them to study the metabolism of drugs in an easily handled, very predictable procedure that doesn't require animals.

The new system will reduce, but won't eliminate entirely, the demand for animal testing. Eventually the metabolism of each new drug will be tested on animals just as it is on humans before drugs are administered routinely.

Youngster Known Here Wins Big In Ft. Worth Calf Scramble

FORT WORTH—Payton Mayes was among eight winners at the Fort Worth Calf Scramble during the 10:00 a.m. performance of the Southwestern Exposition and Livestock show Rodeo, Saturday, January 30 in Will Rogers Coliseum.

Featured during each of the 28 performances of the Stock Show Rodeo, the scramble includes participants from 4-H Clubs and FFA Chapters from across the state.

Mayes, the 15-year-old son of Rex and Nancy (Perkins) Mayes of Talpa is a Coleman FFA'er. He is presented with a certificate valued at $500 for successfully catching, halting and leading the calf to the scramble judges. The sponsor for his effort is Bob Wright of Fort Worth.

After purchasing heifers of their choosing, winners follow a set of Calf Scramble guidelines and return to show their heifers in the Junior Division of the 1994 Exposition and Livestock Show.

In addition, participants will be given the opportunity to share in a $20,500 scholarship fund for use in their freshman year of college.

Payton also plans to enter the calf scramble event at the upcoming Houston Stockshow and Rodeo.

The list shows upright and canister type vacuums ranked according to estimated performance and quality. The ranking of the cleaners, according to the article, included price, type, weight, deep cleaning, suction, filtering, noise, dirt disposal, pushing ease, dirt capacity, etc.
