Michael DeLeon Coming Home

There is good news for Michael DeLeon, his family, his many friends and well-wishers. He is expected to come home to Santa Anna Friday. Readers will remember that Michael, teenage son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie DeLeon, was critically injured in a vehicle rollover southwest of Santa Anna the early part of November of 1992.

Also critically injured in the accident was Ruben Guerrero, teen son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Guerrero. Michael and Ruben have most recently been patients at a rehabilitation center in Dallas undergoing therapy treatment for their injuries after being hospitalized in Abilene for several weeks following the accident. Both young men sustained severe head injuries in the incident. Michael also sustained a severely fractured leg for which he had to undergo extensive surgery.

Since beginning therapy both young men have progressed much faster than early expectations.

Ruben is expected to be returning to Santa Anna in the next few

After his return home, Michael will be taken to Abilene for a regular schedule of therapy treatments. He will be tutored at home in his school work, through a cooperative program.

Michael, his parents, Eddie and Sylvia, and Ricky and Dustin, in expressing their appreciation for all the concern shown since his injury, have said, "Mere words can not express the gratitude felt by the family. Each prayer, card, letter, visit, poster, banner, picture, flower, balloon, and each inquiry has been a building block to recovery. One more step toward recovery will be realized Friday when at last Michael comes home. Our hearts search for the words to make each person realize how special each individual has been toward recovery."

Several students were present at parent was present to voice concerns in a couple of areas.

As required by state law, the board set May 1 as the date for school board election. Places to be contested are those currently held by Roddy Dean and Gary Absher.

Budget amendments were approved and an early release was approved for Monday, Feb. 15, so that teachers could attend a drug education seminar sponsored by Region XV Education Service Center.

The board addressed what they felt is disparity in state requirements for passing elementary and junior high students. According to state guidelines, elementary pupils must have an average of 70 or above in Science, Social Studies, English and Math in order to pass. Junior High pupils are required to pass three of the four subjects. The Santa Anna school board voted to stipulate in a local policy that two of the three subjects required for passing must be English (Language Arts) and Math. Since it is too late in the year to put this policy in effect now, it will be enforced in the next school year. It was also noted that the state allows three years for a pupil to be in the 7th and eighth grade. Pupils must be "placed' in high school after that entered this competition.

time regardless of grade scores. In its January meeting the board had approved a change in the procedure for naming honor graduates. They decided upon using the grade point system instead of the percentage system. The board went thru the first reading of Update 42, the TASB Policy Service manual. This item will receive more attention at the next meeting.

In the Superintendent's report, Mr. McPherson advised the board that enrollment had dropped to 306 from last month's total of 313. Other informational items in his report included:

1. Bank and appraisal district reports and monthly audit. 2. Election procedures for Region XV board members. 3. New TASB updates on school board training. 4. Lions Club Mexican Fiesta. 5.

Presented certificates of appreciation to board members in observance of Texas School Board Month. 6. Copies of essential elements for Health Education program. 7. A request from Becky Greaves concerning possible one-act play rehearsals to be held on one or two Sunday afternoons before contest time, March 20, if not enough time can be allotted between other school activities. Mr. McPherson noted that this is the only U.I.L. activity that has state approval for Sunday participation. After much discussion by the board, the request was granted with two members not in favor, Marty Donham and Sharon Guthrie.

School Board Members Saluted

February has been designated by Governor Ann Richards as School Board Recognition Month in Texas. The Santa Anna News invites you to join us in saluting those who serve on the board. As the members will tell you, most of that service is very pleasant and rewarding, but on occasion decisions must be made that will make some school patrons unhappy. It is then this group of public servants feel they have a thankless job. We are proud to give them a big "pat on the back" for a job well done. The board members were given a certificate of appreciation at last week's school board meeting and were recognized at the Lions Club Mexican Fiesta on Tuesday night. Santa Anna School Board members pictured here are standing: Gary Absher, Marty Donham (president), and Edwin Hipsher. Seated are Barbara Simmons, Roy Joe Harvey (secretary) and Sharon Guthrie. Roddy Dean was not present for the picture but is seen in the inset.

Ted Williams, another extraordinary hitter, had exceptional eyesight. During his time in naval aviation he broke many records in vision tests used to examine air cadets.

Rogers Hornsby considered vision so important to his batting that he never watched a movie for the twenty years he was in professional baseball. He avoided any use of his eyes that was not absolutely necessary.

Joe DiMaggio, hit .325 in eleven out of the thirteen seasons he played. One year he hits in fifty-six games straight, setting an all-time record. Three times he was named the American League's most valuable player.

'On my list, keen vision is the first requirement for good hitting," he said. "If you can't see it, you can't hit it!"

This kind of vision is more than just seeing the ball; it is a perception of depth and the ability to judge position in space. This is known as stereoscopic vision. A good hitter can sense where the ball will come and how long it will take it get there. Thus he is ready for it at the precise moment it passes over the plate.

The Self Culture Club of Santa Anna held its monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon, February 10, 1993, in the Presbyterian Church Fellowship Hall.

Gale Brock was hostess for the occasion, with Novelle Boylston and May Wallace as co-hostesses. Twelve club members attended the meeting and answered roll call by designating ways by which they receive news.

Mrs. Ruth Dodson (nee Lovelady), a well-known former resident of Santa Anna, presented a study of Yugoslavia. She told about the country's history, ethnic factions, and geography. Also, she showed a series of scenic slides which were made during her travels in Yugoslavia in 1990.

After conclusion of the study program, refreshments of cake, Valentine candies, candied necans cranberry punch, and coffee were served. Table decorations and refreshments depicted a Valentine motif of hearts and flowers in a color scheme of red and white.

After refreshments were served, Betty Key, president of the club, conducted a short business session and the meeting was adjourned.

Members attending the meeting were Mrs. Mae Blue, Gale Brock, Cathy Ellis, Betty Key, Eula McCary, LaRue Morgan, Earlene Scott, Grace Short, Cam Slagle, Alice Spillman, May Wallace and Ethel Williams.

Overshadow Senate Race?

As it is, this single amendment threatens to overshadow the original thrust of the May 1 election, to fill the U.S. Senate seat vacated by Lloyd Bentsen.

Last week, Dallas entrepreneur Richard Fisher, a Democrat, announced his candidacy, outlining a platform based on reform and deficit reduction. Fisher was an advisor on foreign affairs to Ross Perot's presidential bid.

Meanwhile, former Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox edged closer to formally entering the race, something top Democrats supporting party-designate Krueger had hoped to avoid.

Illegal Offer Considered?

The Texas congressional delegation is reportedly searching for a federal post, perhaps a judgeship, to offer Mattox to keep him from crowding the field and diluting the Democratic vote.

House Judiciary Committee chairman Jack Brooks, D-Beaumont, said: "I wouldn't put it that way. I would recommend him because he is a highly competent lawyer...and they might find a spot for him if they had a place for him."

However, federal law prohibits promising employment in return for political support.

Mattox said: "It's a pretty sad commentary when you have congressmen up there trying to get the strong candidate out for a weak candidate." Some polls show Mattox leading Krueger.

Monitoring Supplemental Feeding

By: Marty Gibbs, CEA-AG Many times we would like to have some sort of a gauge to tell us when, how much, and of what we should supplement beef cow herds. One method that is finding applicability is, in order to decide what to put in the front end of the cow just look at what is coming out the back end.

Manure characteristics can certainly tell us something about the nutritional status of a cow. This assumes, of course, that she is not wormy or otherwise unhealthy. It's all based on nutrient content, digestibility, and rate of passage of the diet. When everything is right, manure patties will be moist and relatively flat. When things deteriorate, manure starts becoming drier and stacks. Why?

Basically, as forage digestibility decreases, typically in late fall and winter but also often in late summer, the rate of passage through the moisture is absorbed and manure becomes drier, sometimes containing almost no moisture when digestibility drops belows 30 to 35 percent and crude protein fails below 4 to 5 percent. When this requirements. happens the cow is not getting much nutrition even if she has plenty of this low quality hay or standing grass available. She sim-

Under these conditions, supplemental protein can have a significant effect by allowing rumen bacteria to function effectively. When we first start seeing these manure effects, about a pound of 30% to 40% protein supplement a day will improve intake and digestibility. (This doesn't have to be fed every day. You could feed 2 to 2-1/2 lb. 3 times a week) As forage quality goes down, but is still present in adequate amounts, it will be necessary to increase the level of feeding.

Generally, about 23 lb. a day of high protein feed is about as high as we would ever go. If this amount doesn't do the job we'll have to go to even higher levels of combination protein-energy feed like 20% breeder cubes, whole cotgut slows dramatically. > While not completely scientific, manure monitoring can be a useful tool to gauge supplemental feeding

Grace Short was named the Valentine Sweetheart when the children's department of First Methodist Church honored ladies of the church with a Valentine Banquet last Sunday evening, February 14 at 5:30 p.m.

Children of the church took part in a program presentation including song selections before participating in the selection of the 1993 Sweetheart.

The children made decorations and decorated the fellowship hall of the church annex in preparation for the banquet. They also served the meal of baked ham and an assortment of salads.

Youth department helpers registering guests and assisting in other areas were Jamie Ellis and Chanda Simmons. Mothers of the children involved furnished the food for the party.

Stenholm Plans To Re-Introduce Balanced Budget Amendment

WASHINGTON, D. C .--Congressman Charles Stenholm (D-TX) and Senator Paul Simon. (D-IL) announced recently that they are re-introducing a Balanced Budget Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

"A Balanced Budget Amendment will provide a Constitutional guarantee that we will adhere to a tough deficit reduction plan," said Stenholm. "While this amendment will not solve the deficit problem by itself, it will give us a necessary tool to balance the budget."

The amendment represents the consensus language agreed to last summer by several House and Senate Members prior to the House's consideration of a balanced budget amendment. This amendment will require the president to Kae Dyer. Linda and Rodney submit a balanced budget for each upcoming fiscal year, and mandates that an increase in the national debt would require a three-fifths vote of the total membership in both Houses on a rollcall vote. The amendment could be waived during a war or a military conflict declared by Congress. With the words, 'Don't stop thinking about tomorrow, President Clinton challenged us to plan for our future and that of generations to come," said Stenholm. "I sincerely believe that enactment of this amendment will go a long way toward protecting future generations from the tyranny of our toward improving the long-term strength of our economy. The election last year made it clear that the public is frustrated with a budget process that is unable to control record deficits and is demanding fundamental changes in our handling of the budget."

According to recent estimates by the Congressional Budget Office, gross interest payments will exceed $407 billion by 1998 without a change in current policies.

Rep. Stenholm was joined by the other principal House sponsors of the amendment, Bob Smith (R-OR), L. F. Payne (D-VA), Olympia Snowe (R-ME), Joe Kennedy (D-MA) and Jim Inhofe (R-OK). In addition to Senator Simon, the other senators present were Orrin Hatch (R-UT), Dennis DeConcini (D-AZ), Strom Thurmond (R-SC), Larry Craig (R-ID) and Howell Heflin (D-AL).

Texas Woman's University Tells Single Moms: Come to College and Bring the Children, page

Kid's, even if they are still in diapers, are welcome ato: Texas Woman's University if they're accompanied by a mother who is a single parent. Not only does TWU urge students who are single mothers to bring their children with them to the campus, but the school also houses them in a special dormitory. At last count, the red brick, two story Mary Hufford Hall had 43 adults (mostly single moms) and 54 children in residence.

The program at the Denton school is believed to be the only one of its kind on any U.S. cam-

Credit President Shirley Carter with the idea. The former vice chancellor of the University of California-San Francisco came to TWU more than six years ago. One of her first acts was to visit a dorm that had been converted into 'family" housing.

Primarily a university for women, TWU's "family" housing to pay it back if and when they can, translates into a residence for single mothers with children. While most don't. of the mothers were grateful to be housed with their tots in an aging dormitory that had been converted into tiny two-bedroom apartments, Dr. Chater wasn't satisfied.

Providing housing for married students is common practice at most large colleges and universities. However, the idea of offering separate special living quarters for single mothers is an innovation. converted for the same purpose. Not many years ago, a single mom with even one child likely would have been counseled to "Go home like hers are an investment that will and raise your family!" At best, return dividends to the state in hard she would have been advised to leave the child with a grandparent or four households in Texas is headed in a day care facility.

Dr. Chater, who is both a mother of two and a visionary, wanted to change this, She recalls that when she was an undergraduate at the University of California at Berkeley, she startled professors and classmates by bringing her daughter to class. The baby slept in a basket at the back of the room during the lecture! This experience convinced her that every woman, including single mothers, should have a chance to earn a college degree without giving up the pleasures of motherhood.

Providing a homey atmosphere on a campus with more than 7,000 students hasn't been easy. Texas law requires that campus housing and food services much charge enough to pay all costs. This often poses a problem for single mothers on a tight budget.

Dr. Chater scrounged funds to convert some of the tiny two-bedroom apartments into one-room family units. With a $40,000 grant Mrs. Annie Lou Vaughn visited
