

Straight Talk

by Tam Anderson

What is "The Farm Problem?" Mainly, it's government. The Farm Problem should bear the slogan "Made in Washington."

In Congress the "I'm-for-the-farmer" demagogues have muddled and messed up the farm program until it now constitutes a program of planned poverty and socialistic stupidity endangering the American way of life. There are also some I'm-for-the-farmer demagogues heading farm publications and farm organizations. One exception, however, is the American Farm Bureau Federation, one of the most patriotic, sound, farseeing organizations in the nation. It puts the good of the nation ahead of short-term selfish advantages for farmers. Charles Shuman, its president, sounds this warning: "It is natural for many politicians to favor programs which put them in the position of dispensing favors to farmers. Years ago it was free garden seeds; today it is ACP payments; tomorrow it may be monthly checks to the U. S. Treasury. "Production or income payment schemes similar to the old Brannan plan are being revived by Congress who finally recognize the failure of the price fixing and control programs of the past. However, these congressmen refuse to face the fact that there is no way to keep farmers dependent on political action for a large portion of their income. Get Right, or Get Reveng. Left-winger Hubert Humphrey and right-winger Herman Talmadge are reportedly brewing a new Brannan plan for the next Congress. Their plan, like the Brannan plan, will guarantee high prices to farmers, low prices to consumers, and won't cost anybody anything. Perhaps the best explanation of it is the old story about the horse trader who had a cow for sale. "This here's the milkinest cow ever been in these parts," he told his farmer prospect. "My wife and five children get all the milk and butter we can possibly use," he said. "No sign of interest by the farmer. "And my brother and his wife, mother and six children down the road—we give them all the milk and butter they need." "Still no sign of interest. "See them shoats over there? All raised on milk slop!" "Gee, that cow must eat an awful lot of feed!" replied the farmer. "Naw, that's the best part of all. Don't eat no feed a 'fall. She just sucks herself!" The Brannan-type scheme, like its less idiotic predecessors, is not a farm program. They're all revenge against the other subsidized segments of our economy. The whitewashing, two wrongs-make-a-right, sweep-the-dirt-under-the-rug approach cannot possibly solve the farm problem. The present farm program is indefensible. Defenders of the farm program try to justify farm subsidies by listing subsidies other groups get; airlines, steamships, postal subsidies, rivers and harbors, minimum wage, unemployment compensation, veterans benefits, foreign aid, etc. I'm for ending most of those subsidies. Subsidies should be given temporarily and only to those who need and deserve them. I think the post office should pay its own way and that FARM AND RANCH should pay its share. If we can't pay our own way we neither want nor deserve to be in business. In his new book, The Great Farm Problem, William H. Peterson comes up with these recommendations: "1. Discontinue all price supports and guarantees, as well as all acreage and marketing controls, at the expiration of current contracts. 2. Sell all government inventories and contingent liabilities back to farmers and farmer groups, no matter how low the price or how great the loss. 3. Dissolve the Commodity Credit Corporation. 4. Drop all government lending activities to farmers, from the Farmers Home Administration to the Rural Electrification Administration. 5. Stop all overseas surplus farm disposal activities. 6. Dismantle all government farm-storage, reclamation, irrigation, and distribution programs, which includes everything from the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation to the School Lunch Program. 7. Withdraw from all international commodity agreements, including the International Wheat Agreement and the International Sugar Agreement. 8. Eliminate tax favoritism of cooperatives, putting them on a co-equal tax status with corporations. 9. Make American capitalism as free and thereby as strong as possible. This involves the progressive abandonment of statism, not only in agriculture, but in every phase of American industry. It means a drastic cut-back in federal spending and a lifting of the tax burden from American taxpayers, both individuals and corporations. It means the creation of a better business climate. It means the recognition of the American farmer as a businessman capable of taking care of himself. It means the unimpeded evolution of mass production, low cost, possible corporate farming to restore agriculture's competitive position vis-a-vis foreign and synthetic markets, and, by reducing food and fiber costs, it means raising American living Standards to a level never before reached. Dangerous Servant, Fearful Master I agree with Mr. Peterson's goal: get the government out. However, I think his proposals might be too drastic in that they don't allow any period for readjustment. Maybe gradual disposal of the surplus here and abroad would be better. But I would go even further than he does in getting the Federal Government out. Return to state and local governments the responsibility to furnish their own educational services—Extension and Vocational Agriculture programs. Maintain only a skeleton USDA to concentrate mainly on research and marketing and as a standby for real national emergencies. We can't have government control and freedom. The Supreme Court has stated that what the government subsidizes it must control. Government intervention in farming is but a phase of general intervention or statism. Intervention breeds intervention. As Washington warned: Government is "like fire, a dangerous servant and a fearful master." Reprinted from November 1959 issue of Farm and Ranch Magazine, Nashville, Tennessee. TAX-MAN SAM SEZ: Well, the tax people have a new income tax form out this year. They call this new form the 1040-W. It doesn't replace the old Form 1040 or the 1040-A card form. It has a single sheet, buff colored form printed on both sides. The title of the form tells what it is for — "Optional Form for Wages and Salary Income and Not More than $200 of Interest and Dividends." You can itemize your deductions on this form as well as the 1040. You can't itemize deductions if you use the 1040-A card. You can take the standard deduction on any of the three forms. All of the forms will be available at the Post Offices and the Internal Revenue Service in January. Attend church regularly.

Motorists Would Do Well To Get Auto Ready For Winter

Austin — Motorists of Texas will do well to gird themselves now for another "cold war" in the months ahead, J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, declared today.

"The annual battle of drivers against the elements will soon be under way," Musick warned. "And the victors will be those car owners who are smart enough to be prepared and skillful enough in their driving to outwit Old Man Winter."

The safety expert urged motorists to "make sure now — before the frantic rush — that your vehicle is prepared for the severe tests which cold weather, snow and ice can create overnight. Have your car serviced by a reliable expert, so you can really depend on it when the going gets tough."

He emphasized that "preventive maintenance pays off handsomely in any season, but particularly during the winter months."

Musick added, "You'll need anti-freeze eventually; why not install it now? Your battery will receive additional strain because of heater, defroster, wipers and increased use of lights; check now to make certain your battery has the power you'll need.

"You'll want to be warm, make sure your heater will perform. You'll want to see clearly in rain, sleet and snow. Therefore check windshield wiper arms for adequate pressure to remove these dangerous obscurements. You'll want to stop safely. Therefore adjust brakes and make sure tires have good treads. Always carry a set of reinforced tire chains in the trunk, ready for use when needed, for the most reliable stop-and-go traction during severe snow or ice conditions."

"An engine tune-up to prevent stalling in traffic; neglect of any of the foregoing items will lead to regret," Musick cautioned.

"With your car in shape and properly equipped, the battle of winter is half won," he concluded. "The rest of the battle will depend largely on careful attitudes and skill in driving under the variety of weather and road conditions which will prevail during the coming cold season."

About Your HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health. HENRY A. HOLLO, D. D., Commissioner of Health

There's a big three-dimensional outline map of Texas hanging prominently in an office at the State Department of Health in Austin. Bright orange blotches, neatly conforming to county lines, pock the face of the map from Texarkana to El Paso.

The legend underneath reads: "Rabies cases by counties, 1959." The map is the Division of Veterinary Public Health's way of visualizing the extent of the State's rabies problem, both in wild and domestic animals. It is consistently one of the most accurate in the nation, the record shows.

Says Dr. A. B. Rich, the department's veterinary specialist: "It indicates a dangerous undercurrent of rabies exists throughout the whole range of Texas wildlife. In an unguarded moment it could erupt into a full-blown epidemic."

Preventing that grim eventuality falls to Dr. Rich and his staff of two other veterinarians. Working on a case the size of Texas, advising and advising on health, depends on the cooperation of officials in rabies control, spreading the message to the public.

County judges play a vital role in combating the present rabies. State law gives them authority to declare rabies emergencies and impose compulsory dog vaccination and stray dog control whenever circumstances warrant.

A major part of the veterinarian's task is convincing pet owners they are literally betting their lives when they forget or refuse to have the animals vaccinated.

The rabies for 1959 shows a high incidence of rabies. It is the wide diversity of Texas wildlife that makes the great difficulty of a rabies control program.

Wildlife, such as foxes and skunks, presents the disease to dogs. Dogs then present the most important source of human exposure to rabies.

Most recent rabies in the state — against rabies struggle came last week in Leon County in East Texas when 14 dogs were attacked and bitten by an animal known to be rabid. Dr. Rich went immediately to the scene to help local officials contain the outbreak through vaccination, stray dog impoundment and wildlife reduction.

Earlier in the week, increases in skunk and fox rabies in Howard County worried local authorities to the point of calling for State Health Department help in invoking emergency control measures.

Ironically, the know-how is at hand to erase rabies as a health threat — but it requires 100 percent cooperation from the public.

Christmas Seals On Sale

A BOY AND A GOVERNOR

Governor Price Daniel proclaimed Christmas Seal Days in Texas as he visited with a small recovered tuberculosis patient, Leonard Alcala of Austin. Said Governor Daniel in his proclamation, "For hundreds of years man has battled against disease. For more than fifty years, his battle against tuberculosis has been hard and rewarding. Today, tuberculosis as a killer is being curtailed in this country by modern drugs and improved patient care and rehabilitation facilities. But tuberculosis as a communicable, widely prevalent, expensive and long-lasting illness is still to be reckoned with. New cases reported in Texas this year were 3,375, and health authorities estimate there are more cases not reported than reported. The Christmas Seal Sale is the one annual appeal of the Texas Tuberculosis Association and affiliated local associations for funds to make possible year-round efforts to curb this needless waste of human life and resources. Therefore, I do hereby designate the period from November 16 to December 24, 1959, as Christmas Seal Days in Texas, and urge all citizens to make a sound investment in their own and their fellow citizen's health by buying and using Christmas Seals during the holiday seasons." Leonard Alcala, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Alcala, spent part of his boyhood in a tuberculosis hospital, in company with his parents. All are now recovered.

mental hospitals and special schools. Wherever possible the hides should be sent to L. M. Rathbone, Austin taxidermist, who will handle them out to the tanneries. Hunters should rub salt on the green hides before sending them in. If the hides cannot be delivered direct to the taxidermist they should be left with the nearest frozen food locker plant. These locker plants then will route them to Austin over motor freight lines which have agreed to handle them when they are marked "charity". On hides west of the Pecos they should be routed to the Russell Williams Frozen Food Locker on N. Grand Street, Odessa. From there they will be picked up by Omar Dressing of San Angelo and routed into Austin. From Austin they will go to tanneries, and then be sent to the hospitals for use of patients in handcraft.

The entire operation is on a cost-free basis, under the direction of the Board of Hospitals and Special Schools.

YOUR EYES and VISION
By A. L. SPERRY, O.D.
Director Public Education
Texas Optometric Association

What Causes Cataract

DID YOU KNOW: That primitive people, far from "civilization," sometimes have amazing visual powers? Upper Congo natives, when tested, were found to have a visual acuity four times better than our accepted standard of 20/20.

Last week we differentiated between what a cataract is and what it is not. We explained how and where it is formed.

A cataract can form at any age. We have had tots less than 5 years old brought to our office with cataracts. This type is a congenital cataract—a result of hereditary, nutritional, or inflammatory changes, or of unknown causes which affect the normal development of the child. It is rather uncommon. The causes listed are those which have been previously observed to be associated with cataracts. The body chemistry of the change is largely unknown. Once it is found just what brings on this change it may be possible to offset it by restoring proper chemical balance in the body.

The most common type of cataract and one which optometrists see daily is the Senile Cataract. It is quite common after age 50, occasionally found as early as 40. Almost always the senile cataract is found in both eyes although one eye is usually more advanced than the other.

When the vision of the better eye has become so poor as to interfere with normal activities then the worse eye is about "ripe" and should have surgery to remove the cloudy lens (cataract). Surgical removal is the only "cure" for blindness caused by cataract.

About a month after surgery it is possible to fit glasses which will give good vision if the operation was successful and the eye grows stronger, the glasses will have to be changed, and soon, if expertly fitted, they may bring vision up to 20/20.

Of course, bifocals or separate reading glasses will be required for near-seeing. There is even a trifocal lens for cataract cases. This lens gives the patient continuous clear vision from reading distance to arms length to distant seeing. Cataract lenses are rather thick since they must do the work which had been done by the lens of the eye which was removed. New types of cataract lenses have been developed, however, which are much lighter and nicer looking.

Many times a patient will say to me, "But I'm too old for a cataract operation." No not necessarily. I've known patients past 90 who enjoyed good vision the rest of their days after removal of cataracts. There is nothing to lose and possibly a world of good vision to gain by cataract removal.

Band To Leave For Sweetwater Saturday Morning

The Mountaineer Band will journey to Sweetwater Saturday to participate in the Interscholastic League Marching Contest, and they have high hopes of earning a First Division rating this year.

During the past two weeks bad weather has been a big hindrance to the band, as they have not had an opportunity to get in much practice on their marching. However, James Malow, band director, said he felt the students knew their routine fairly well.

The band members will leave from the Band Hall at 10:00 a. m. They are scheduled to march about 4:00 p. m. It is hoped a good group of local fans will follow the band to Sweetwater.

The next activities for the band include the Santa Anna Christmas Opening Parade on Friday, December 4, and a concert on the Brownwood Christmas Mall on Saturday, December 5th.

However, he plans to return to Santa Anna Saturday morning around 10:00 a. m. He said he would be here about an hour, and would be glad to see anyone desiring to see him during that time.
