"WHEN DRY COARSE SURFACE CELLS ARE MELTED, NEW SMOOTH SKIN APPEARS"

It is a scientific fact that harshness in dead skin, clinging to your surface skin, making it rough. Dermatologist tells how to melt it: "When a keratolytic or vanishing cream comes in contact with dry, horny surface cells, they melt. Then the smooth, finer textured skin appears." Melt away the dead, harsh cells on your skin with Pond's Vanishing Cream. Smooth it on after your nightly cleansing. Let it remain overnight. In the morning, see fresh, translucent skin. In the daytime, use Pond's Vanishing Cream as a powder base. Make-up goes on smoothly, stays fresh for hours.

Answer to this fill in jiggle puzzle will appear on this page in June issue of the Magazine Section.

Above is the Answer to Last Month's Jiggle.

"I BOUGHT IT JUST FOR YOU DEAR"

DEAR FRIENDS: Springtime this year has brought many things to discourage us, yet as we look around there is still much for which to be thankful. If we have good health we should be most thankful and guard it daily, for health is the greatest treasure anyone can have. Guard it with all your strength. How many of my readers sleep eight hours every night? How many take regular and healthful exercise? You know it is necessary for us to enjoy good health if we are to be happy and successful men and women. Study the rules for athletics and follow them carefully if you want to grow strong and be healthful. Remember, good health is good fortune; protect it as you would a highly-prized gem.

For those deprived of good health there is one great Comforter—God—the friend of all. He loves us and when we are faced with difficult problems that physical strength cannot combat we can have "faith" in Him. We must continue from day to day doing the things that we feel are truly right, and then we will KNOW that back of the clouds the sun is still shining. You may say that "sounds nice"—but will it work? Yes, I know it will work—because I have tried it every day of my life. This is a wonderful life! Do right and have "faith" if you wish to live an abundant and happy life.

Please don't forget the "Prayer Corner." Be with us each Thursday evening at 7:30 in a fifteen-minute prayer for the leaders of our nation and the Shut-Ins of our club. We need the help of every member in the club. Do you like the prayer idea?

I would like an expression from the boys and girls, as well as the parents, on what they think of the Book Review Department on the Boys' and Girls' Page. We are trying to give you the most interesting material we can find each month. Write and tell us what you enjoy reading most. It will help us in our search for good things to read.

The mail bag is slim this month. Hope it will increase for June.

I am sure that the hundreds of friends of Aunt Susan Hughes, 1804 25th St., Galveston, Texas, will regret to learn that she is ill and confined to the hospital. Write her at the above address and tell her of your love and the good work she is doing for the club. It will cheer her long hours.

Wishing the best life has to offer to all the readers and our many friends, we close with love,

SUNSHINE CLUB NEWS

First in the news of this month is an invitation for all readers who are not a member of this club to join with us in this fine work. Membership in the Sunshine for Shut-Ins Club is free to all readers of the Boys' and Girls' Page. There are no dues, assessments or charges of any kind at anytime. The requirements of the club is to be a reader of this page each month, and then to send sunshine to at least one Shut-In each month. Fill in the membership coupon on this page and mail to Aunt Mary, Route 5, Box 179-B, Fort Worth, Texas.

You will receive a membership card on which will be your number. Then each month the names and addresses of the Shut-Ins members of the club will be printed here on this page. Before each name is the number of the members supposed to send sunshine that month to that Shut-In. Find your number each month and send sunshine right away. Sunshine can be in the form of a letter, magazine, newspaper clipping, poem, paper dolls, a few quilt scraps, etc. Send your sunshine according to age of Shut-In. Where possible and answer is desired, send stamp for reply. This is asked because so many of our Shut-Ins are poor people who have been bedfast for many, many years and are dependent on others for everything in life, even a 3-cent stamp. We are trying to make their lives a bit happier. There are a few cases where it is impossible for the Shut-In to acknowledge sunshine on this page. Most Shut-Ins, however, welcome the opportunity for new friendships; many beautiful and lasting friendships have resulted from this sunshine work. We need every reader of this page as a member—if he or she is not now a member. Why not join us in this useful work? Fill in the coupon and mail to me TODAY.

Mrs. M. S. Duncan, Fairy, Texas, writes that she received some mighty fine letters and she thinks them wonderful. Wants to thank everyone who has been so kind to her.

Anna Mae Colon, Agra, Okla., writes to thank us for her membership. "I am happy with my club work and will be happy to help others so that they might be happy. Wish all the members would sing that good hymn.

AUNT MARY
Yes, at last, here is the much-promised picture of Aunt Mary, editor of our Boys' and Girls' Page. So many have written and asked for her picture that we thought it best to print it here on this page.

BOOK REVIEW

To the Readers of this Page:
This department is being conducted to acquaint you with the newest and best books now on the market. While our Book Review department is new, you all know how often I have recommended good books for you to read. It is the opinion of leading educators, and all persons who have any direct contact with children, that books are a major influence in the formation of character. Therefore, it is most important that we provide our children with books that will develop the distinctive characteristic we most desire.
We will endeavor to give you information about books of all classification. There are books for amusement, books for reference, books on specific information and those on general information.
We shall try to review only the very best (Continued top next column) of each class. The books listed here may be purchased at your local book store, or, if he does not have the book or books he will be glad to order them for you. Should you be so situated that a dealer is not in your locality, write the book publisher direct.

"Thorndike Century Junior Dictionary," by E. L. Thorndike. Published by D. Appleton-Century Co., Brooklyn, N. Y. (Price, $2.00).

In the school requirements of every child is the need of a good dictionary. The largest per cent of such books are primarily published for adults. The best word picture I can give you of the Thorndike Junior Dictionary is to quote Howard Vincent O'Brien, one of the best known book reviewers. He says: "Something of tremendous importance happened the other day, but there were no headlines about it. The black letters were used for such passing and essentially inconsequential news as murder, politics and a flight over an ocean. The really big happening was that a new and different dictionary has been published. It is a dictionary for children. It contains some 25,000 words selected after many years of study, from those most commonly used. The type is big, the paper good, and there are simple pictures to explain what words cannot explain."
The right kind of dictionary is one of the most useful books in any library or household.
"In the saddle with Uncle Bill," by Will James. Published by Charles Scribner's Sons, New York City. (Price, $2.00).

No doubt many of my readers have read stories by Will James. His latest book is about Kip and Scootie who spend the summer on a ranch under the guidance of Uncle Bill. During one of the first rides they become lost. Their horses escape during the night and the two following days find them very anxious and excited. However, they prove themselves heroes and quite capable of coming up to any situation.
The advice and example of Uncle Bill will teach anyone reading the book a great deal about horses. Most of the material is authentic as well as interesting. Boys will especially like this book and "tomboy girls" will also like it.
(Watch for this department—bigger and better each month.)

Mass Meeting For Farmers Centennial Bill Passed Last Week Volunteer Firemen Hold Celebration Visits Austin Methodists Attend District Conference Announcements for Commencement Rev. A. Ben Oliver to Receive Ph. D. Degree

Mass Meeting For Farmers

A call to farmers from over Coleman County to meet in the Court House in Coleman Saturday, May 4th, at 2:30 p. m. is made by C. V. Robinson, County Agent, who wishes to urge the importance of the meeting.

The AAA program will be the main subject for discussion, and the proposition of sending one or two delegates to Washington, D. C. to attend a special meeting in the interest of the farm program is the main object of the meeting.

Centennial Bill Passed Last Week

The House and Senate both passed the Centennial bill late last Thursday, and the Centennial celebration next year is now assured.

The largest appropriation goes to Dallas, the Central Exposition City. The Alamo in San Antonio and Houston were both recognized in the bill, and almost One Million was left without earmarks to be distributed among other interesting points of historical nature.

Volunteer Firemen Hold Celebration

The Santa Anna Volunteer Fire Company held their annual spring party and celebration in the Henderson pasture, near Camp Sunset, Monday night. Barbecue, bread, pickles, cheese, potato chips, onions and other trimmings were furnished in plentiful supply.

The jolly, good natured firemen, ex-firemen, the Mayor and a number of invited guests assembled, and spent an evening of fun and merrymaking. Thanks to those who thought of the editor and extended us the invitation.

Visits Austin

The editor spent several days in Austin last week, mingling with members of the Legislature, in the interest of pending bills worthwhile to Coleman county. Four days in the state capitol gives one some insight as to what members of our Legislature have to do and contend with.

This writer has appeared before members of the Legislature several times during the past twenty years, and in our judgment the present body, at least a majority of them, are fine citizens and have the good of this state at heart. However, it is also our opinion that the most high-powered set of lobbyists, lobbying before the members of the house in the special interest of legislation not favorable to the people as a whole, are there in great numbers. Lobbying for good legislation is commendable, but lobbying for corrupt legislation is an act to prevent the progress and welfare of the state. This, in some measure, accounts for the slow work of our representatives in Austin this term.

Methodists Attend District Conference

The Annual Conference of the Brownwood District met at the First Methodist Church in Brownwood Wednesday and Thursday of last week. Speakers for the most included the local pastor, Rev. Homer Vanderpool, and M. A. Edwards of Santa Anna. Mr. Edwards was also elected the delegate to the Annual General Conference.

At the invitation of the local delegation, the next District Conference will be with the local church. The local church will also be host to the Brownwood District Rally of Young People here Friday evening, May 10th.

Announcements for Commencement

Only three weeks more of active classroom work remain in which public school students may round out their year's scholastic courses according to announcements released by Supt. Scarborough.

Commencement Week will be initiated with the annual baccalaureate service held in high school auditorium Sunday, May 19, 8 p. m. with all churches of the town co-operating. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Homer Vanderpool of the local Methodist church.

Rev. A. Ben Oliver to Receive Ph. D. Degree

The Annual Commencement program of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., carries, among others, the name of Albert Benjamin Oliver, of Texas, who is to be awarded his Ph. D. "Doctors in Philosophy" Degree at the Commencement exercises next Tuesday night.

Rev. A. Ben Oliver taught English, and foreign language in the Santa Anna High School for four years prior to leaving for Louisville to seek higher training. During his services here as a teacher, he also served several churches as pastor, among them being Sheld, Gouldsbush, and probably others.

FARMERS MEETING HERE MONDAY NIGHT

A meeting of all farmers living in this district who have signed contracts for the ensuing year is called for Monday night, May 6 at 7:30 in the City Hall.

Mr. Robinson will attend this meeting and outline the importance of sending delegates to the Washington meeting.

Please take note and try to attend these meetings.

Former Santa Anna Woman Dies in San Angelo Home

Mrs. Josie Hewitt, wife of Bob Hewitt, ex-sheriff of Tom Green County, passed away at their home in San Angelo Thursday, April 25th.

Mrs. Hewitt was born in Lavaca County August 14th, 1870. She was the oldest daughter of the late Henry and Frances Volintine, pioneer citizens of Santa Anna, and spent the early years of her life in Coleman County.

It is a real treat to see a bunch of firemen out on some occasion other than fighting a fire. No speech making, just a jollification party, everybody in a good mood, plenty to eat, outdoor music furnished by the blending of male voices resounding in the open air of the evening breezes. Such parties cause one to want to live on, regardless of who is who.

We consider our Fire Company among the most treasured local organizations we have, and their services have much greater value than the firemen get credit for in many instances. Fire insurance would be almost prohibitive in Santa Anna if it were not for an organized company of fire fighters, equipped with a splendid equipment to fight the fire hazards.

Up to Easter only 71 house bills and 59 senate measures had passed finally, and many of them were local bills of little importance.

May 7th has been set by resolution of the house for adjournment, and many of the important measures cannot be acted upon during that short period. Unless the regular session extends its time for adjournment, it will be next to impossible for the important measures now pending before the two bodies to have consideration.

Local Methodists who attended the Conference were Rev. and Mrs. Vanderpool, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. G. A. Morgan, Miss Ruby Harper, Mrs. Sherman Gehret, Mrs. T. R. Sealy, Frank Turner, A. W. Crye, Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Blue, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Verner.

Monday and Tuesday of the week of May 19th will be given over to final examinations. Senior Class Night will be observed on Wednesday night, at which time all awards will be made. This night is looked forward to by all classes of the high school with happy contemplations, for it is at this time that the accomplishments of students in both curricular and extra-curricular activities are recounted, and letters and awards are made.

Funeral services were held in the Methodist Church here Thursday at 2 p. m. for J. P. (Uncle John) Richardson, who passed away at his home here shortly after noon Wednesday. Mr. Richardson, according to information at hand, was born February 13, 1849 in the state of Kentucky. He came to Texas and settled in Caldwell County in 1877. He was married to Miss Jennie Hamlin of Wichita, Kansas in 1881, and moved to Coleman County in 1883, settling in the Rockwood community. To Mr. and Mrs. Richardson were born six children, four of whom preceded him in death. One boy died in infancy, two daughters, Miss Edith, died in 1907 and Miss Effie died in 1910. Luther died in 1930. The two remaining are Marvin Richardson and Mrs. Fox Johnson, both living in the Rockwood community.

Let's all renew our enthusiasm, talk, write and read of the Centennial, and when the celebrations open next spring, as many as can tour this great state and view the progress that has been made since her Independence.

Texas is the largest state in the union, and we believe she has made the greatest progress during the past few decades of any state in the union.

Surprise Birthday Celebration

Miss Lillie Hesch and Mrs. J. L. Boggus were hostesses Friday afternoon to the members of their mother's Sunday School Class on the occasion of her 68th birthday anniversary. Another sister, Mrs. Ed Price of Fort Worth, assisted them. Little Miss Joyce Lock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lock, entertained her little friends at the same time on her third anniversary.

Cake and ice cream were served to both groups of guests. About forty were present for the delightful afternoon.

San Antonio Has Many Places Of Interest to Visitors

Leaving Austin about the middle of the week, after doing all we thought we might well accomplish, we drove over to San Antonio to attend the annual convention of the South Texas Press Association, and see the sights of the famous Alamo City during the Fiesta Week and battle of flowers.

Great preparations were made on the part of the Press, the Chamber of Commerce, the Fiesta association, the wholesale paper houses and others to show the visiting newspaper men and their families a good time.

Low-Price Nuptials

Miss Thelma Lowe and Mr. W. B. Lowrey were united in marriage at the home of Rev. M. L. Womack Monday evening at eight o'clock. Rev. Womack read the beautiful ring ceremony. The couple was unattended.

Miss Lowrey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lowe and a graduate of the Santa Anna High School with the Class of 1934. For the ceremony she wore a frock of shell pink metalise with accessories of white. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lowrey of the Cleveland Community, and has lived in Coleman County all his life.

BIRTHDAYS CELEBRATED

Mrs. Bryan Hale and little daughter Marie Celeste, and son Billie Bryan of Stephenville spent last Friday in the home of Mrs. Hale's aunt, Mrs. A. Hefner, and her grandmother, Mrs. D. H. Meares.

Mrs. Meares was celebrating her 86th birthday anniversary, and little Billie Bryan his second anniversary. Mrs. Hale prepared the huge birthday cake, and surprised Mrs. Meares and the Hefners.

Friday night will spell finally to this successful year's school when the largest senior high school class in its history will receive diplomas from the hand of J. Frank Turner, president of the Board of Education.

The class will present a pageant "Texas Under Six Flags," Helen Oakes, having made the highest average, will deliver the valedictory address for the class. Dorothy Sumner, having made the second highest average, will speak words of salutation. Diplomats will be presented by J. Frank Turner, president of the Board of Education.

Methodist Pastor Suspends Wednesday Prayer Service

Members of the Methodist Church, under the leadership of their new pastor, Rev. Homer Vanderpool, have suspended the Wednesday evening prayer service, and the pastor plans to preach at the various Community School houses each week.

Services were held this week at the Milligan School house, and he plans to speak next Wednesday evening at the Plainview School house. Rev. Vanderpool plans to speak in other outlying communities also.

Trickham H. D. Club

Seven members of the Trickham Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Harry Wilson last week. The program on the study of Texas, which had been postponed because of the rain and measles, was presented by Mrs. B. W. Mciver, Mrs. Harry Wilson, and Mrs. Oscar Boencke.

Mrs. Carl Sheffield was appointed Bedroom Demonstrator. The Club made plans to present a Mother's Day program for the entire community on Saturday night before Mother's Day.

SANTA ANNA ECONOMY CLUB

There was a very good attendance at the Santa Anna Economy Club last Friday afternoon when the group met in the Community Center. Ten new members were enrolled.

Miss Blanche Boyd read a very interesting paper on grape culture. Then there was a general round table discussion of small fruits.

The entire group enjoyed a very exciting potato race.

Clifford Lowe of Winters, Raymond Balke, A. D. Donham, John Guthrie and W. B. Wilson are spending this week fishing on the Rio Grande River.

appeared in the interest of the oil industry in Texas.

Saturday morning the day was started off with a breakfast luncheon, the compliments of the Union Steakyards Company, San Antonio. The remainder of the morning program was used in a business session of the Press Association, which meets annually in the Alamo City, during Fiesta week of each year.

Other out-of-town relatives there for the day were Mrs. Mattie Tittle and Mrs. Gerald Tittle of Brownwood and Mrs. Bernice Culp of Kerrville.

The Mrs. accompanied us on the trip, and saw many sights she had never witnessed before, some of them so new to her it will take several days for her to relax and tell whether she had a good time or not.

Returning Saturday evening we found all the children at home, only one had been to the hospital, young Burt suffered an accident at school Friday afternoon, resulting in a very badly broken arm, but we were so glad it was not his neck we could not let a little thing like that mar all the pleasures of such a fine trip. However, the Mrs. implies she will never again leave her flock at home and stay away so long. That may spell, in the future, the editor will have to either go alone or persuade some other party to escort us on trips.

Guests in the Governor Daniels home Sunday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Amos Taylor and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. Doc Mordock and children.

Miss Mildred Gifford of Brady spent last weekend with Miss Geneva Karr.

A Dutch Golden Wedding Celebration

At the request of friends of Mrs. Henry Jongema for "more" of her diary, she gives the following account of the celebration of a Golden Wedding in Holland.

May 17.

We were awakened early in the morning by the strutters feeding their young under the tiles of the roof.

We lay there, taking in our surroundings a bit before stepping out on the cold floor to put on all the clothes we possessed. In May, and so cold we almost froze. There is a certain date to take down stoves and when that date arrives even if the thermometer registers zero, out go the stoves, and they are not set up again until a set date in the autumn.

We hoped the weather would warm up but it never did.

When we went down the steps we found that the furniture in the elderly Jongema's bedroom had been removed and the room converted into a small dining room for the children for the day. They were expected to sit quietly all day, but the elders learned that American children are not dead until they die, and are quite different to Hollanders. On the previous evening we met relatives and friends of the family, and the next morning when we came into the living room there stood two large, handsome young men over six feet tall. One was a beautiful blonde with curly hair; upon inquiry we were informed that they were Mr. Jongema's nephews; I said "Oh, aren't they beautiful." At this remark, one asked "Is this Aunt Ruth?" He was the first one I had met who spoke English, and you may imagine my surprise and chagrin at his question.

At 8 A. M. cards, cakes, and gifts began to arrive, followed by guests. They came in a continual stream until night and remained until 12 p. m.

One daughter and her husband prepared the dinner on oil burners on Grandpa's work bench.

As the day wore on, time came to feast. Friends were dropping in all the time, coming and going. There was a continual serving of tea and cake. Thirty cakes were brought in, and twenty were eaten that day.

We were led to the workshop for dinner. Tables were built the entire length of the shed. The family and close friends were seated at one table and the children at another. Grandpa offered a prayer and, tho' I couldn't understand a word he said, he seemed to go up to a throne of grace and chat with God.

They read the Bible and pray at each meal, and we felt that the day's work would never get done, but it did, and they seemed to get along as well as we do, tho' they do spend so much time at worship. Grandpa has not forgotten to be thankful, and his companion has remembered to show kindness to the way-faring man; they have been greatly blessed with health, long life, and money.

The special meal consisted of a soup made of spaghetti, water, and grease. Then followed potatoes, cauliflower, and meat balls with grease gravy. The dessert was a pudding similar to our corn pudding but not so good.

When evening came they sang songs; we ate more, drank more tea until 12 o'clock when all guests departed.

Holland is almost dry at the present. We saw no drinking there. It was once a drinking nation and there is a Government prison where the convicts are mostly those born of drinking parents. Around this prison are canals ten foot deep, cut straight down while guards are placed at each outlet of the roads. Very few attempt to escape.

We visited a Catholic Church that was being remodeled. When the Protestants came into power long years ago, the walls of this building were painted, covering up all the wonderful paintings thereon. Now, after several hundred years, the paint is being removed at a cost of one million dollars. The paintings of many masters are being uncovered.

The Dutch houses have wonderful big windows; some of them open while others are stationary with a transom.

Most houses never get sun and fresh air. People seem to think sun and air are their worst enemies. I put blankets out to sun one day; Father Jongema feared they would be ruined, but his son, Henry, assured him they would not so later I saw Mother Jongema do the same thing!

The whole nation wears five layers of woolen clothes; the material is like our blankets. We never saw so much dry goods to the human as was seen there. They knit all these garments by hand or crochet, and they are very thick.

Almost everyone wears wooden shoes every day. All boys wear knee trousers until sixteen years of age.

Another peculiar feature of the Dutch homes is the board over the chimney. The most outstanding feature of the farm house is that both the house and barn are built under one roof.

Duck nests are made like a scissor-tail's nest placed upon forked sticks several feet from the ground.

RESIDENT OF ONE TOWN FOR NINETY YEARS

(From the Texas Centennial Commission, Dallas, Texas) GREENVILLE, Texas, April 8. (Sp.)—Of the many towns and counties in the State now making preparations for participation in the Texas Centennial celebrations of 1936 few can boast among their present citizenry a "charter member." Certainly such a distinction is rare indeed for a county created as early as 1846, the year that Hunt County was founded.

Greenville and Hunt County both are proud to count among their people an "Original Citizen." Mrs. Catherine Oldham Arnold, who has maintained continuous residence here since the days of the Republic. Each year a local celebration does honor to this first lady of the town and county.

Mrs. Arnold was born near Mount Sterling, Kentucky, on Nov. 2, 1843, and came to Texas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Oldham, in 1845, arriving in what was to become Hunt County, the day before Texas became a State. Later Mr. Oldham built one of the first stores in the town, the family occupying the rear part as a home for a time. This store was located on the present site of the seven-story Greenville National Exchange Bank Building.

During all of the 90 years that have elapsed since the family settled here, Mrs. Arnold has maintained continuous residence in this town and this county.

Hunt County, a former component of old Fannin County, was created by an Act of the Legislature, which was approved April 11, 1846. When the surveying crew set out a month later to establish the limits of the County Seat, which was to be named Greenville, Mrs. Arnold's mother cooked dinner for the crew and her family has at all times played a prominent part in the growth, development and affairs of the town.

This distinguished citizen of Greenville is quite active and attends church regularly. She is the wife of Capt. William Arnold, who also is one of Greenville's pioneers. Captain Arnold will be 98 years old on August 18 next, and while he has lived in Hunt County since 1857, coming here as a youth of 20, his continuous residence is surpassed by that of his wife by some twelve years.

Mrs. Arnold each year takes part in the celebrations commemorating the founding of Greenville and Hunt County, while Captain Arnold, considering his age, is a physical marvel. He goes to town each day, leads parades mounted and is active in every way as would be a man 20 or 30 years his junior. On the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee, held March 22, 1925 to commemorate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the donation of a 100 acre tract for the foundation of Greenville, Mrs. Arnold and another "Original Citizen," then alive, were the honorees, while Captain Arnold led the big procession, mounted on a white stallion.

Mrs. Arnold today is the only person living here who has resided on the site of Greenville since before the town was born.

We heard a fellow criticizing the government the other day. He poured it on in great style. He knew just what should be done about it. He knew just what was wrong with the New Deal, the foreign affairs and the tariff. The thing that took most of the force out of his argument as far as we were concerned was the fact that we happen to know he had a good job at splendid wages for many years before the depression and six weeks after he lost his job he was on the verge of applying for relief.

Capital punishment has been restored in Kansas as the result of a law passed at the last session of the state legislature. Kansas will find out as eventually every state will find out that it is not the severity of the punishment so much as the surety of punishment that is the most potent force with which to combat the activities of the criminal element. What most of the states need to do rather than look about for means of increasing the severity of punishment is to institute reforms in criminal procedure in keeping with the times. The present criminal code which was handed down from an old archaic English system very distinctly favors the criminal element in this country. The many loopholes, delays and cumbersome and antiquated rules of procedure make the average criminal case a contest of lawyers rather than an earnest effort to arrive at the facts and administer justice. This is obviously then the point at which reforms should begin.

FIRST AID FOR SNAKE BITES

Austin, Texas, April 25.—A warning about the dangers of snake bite has just been issued by Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. A number of cases of snake bite are reported each year in Texas during the summer and early fall; however, few of these result fatally.

Most of the bites occur on the hands or feet, which indicates that stepping or falling in the immediate vicinity of an unseen snake or picking up objects under similar conditions are the hazards of contracting snake bite. The pain following the injection of the poison is most intense. Other symptoms are swelling, giddiness, difficult breathing, hemorrhage, weak pulse, and vomiting.

If one is unfortunate enough to be bitten by a poisonous snake, such as the rattlesnake, the following first aid measures should be carried out.

After making proper incisions at the site of the wound, apply suction and continue for at least half an hour.

Apply a tourniquet above the site of the wound, releasing same every ten or fifteen minutes for about a minute at a time.

If the proper antivenom serum is available, apply it according to directions, but most important of all is to remove as much of the poison as is possible so as to prevent its absorption.

Secure the services of a physician at the earliest possible moment.

If one is bitten by a poisonous snake DO NOT run or get overheated and DO NOT take any alcoholic stimulants because circulation increased by alcohol or exercise serves to distribute the poison much more rapidly through the body.

DON'T injure the tissues by injecting permanganate of potash, which is known to be of no value as an antidote. DON'T depend upon home remedies or so-called snake bite cures, for they are of no value.

Eminent Historian Refers To Early History Here

COLEMAN, Texas, May 1. (SPL).—West Texas counties with the recalling of early day incidents and the interest developed in pioneer history in connection with planning for fitting celebrations of the Texas Centennial in 1936, are being made aware that although the more notable events relating to the achievement of independence occurred in East Texas, this section of the State possesses a Spanish-American history extending back as far as that of any of the Texas counties.

Coleman, Runnels, Concho, Tom Green and parts of Brown and other counties, it is recalled by Dr. Robert T. Hill, eminent historian and geologist, writing in the Dallas News, formed a part of the Spanish Province of New Mexico long before they became part of the Texas of today and he is confident that he is in possession of evidence that would indicate that Coronado was in Coleman County as early as 1541.

One of the earliest presidios and missions established in Texas as was constructed, it is known, in what is now Coleman County and was erected, it is supposed, near where Rockwood stands today. This was built by the expedition of Juan Dominguez Mendoza, who in 1684, left El Paso to proceed via Presidio, the Davis Mountains, the Pecos Valley and Southern High Plains to the eastern Jumano villages on the Concho River. This San Clemente Mission, which was soon abandoned, ante-dated the first mission in East Texas by five years, and was constructed two years after the first mission was built at Ysleta, Texas' oldest town.

There were only 53 bank failures reported in 1934, the lowest number since 1920, and of these nine were covered by Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

OF PLANNING
The late Oliver Wendell Holmes' last will and testament was filed in Washington yesterday. He left an estate valued at $600,000 and after making bequests to relatives and servants, made this unusual and striking provision:

"All of the rest, residue and remainder of my property of whatsoever nature, wheresoever situated, of which I may be seized and possessed, or in which I may have any interest at the time of my death, I give and bequeath to the United States of America."

He must have been a grand old person. Wounded three times in the war between the states, serving long years in the ticklish spot of the United States supreme court bench; associate and chief justice; he comes down to die at over 93 years—and still in death continued to serve the country he loved and respected.

If the government does in reality exist for the people, it is because men of the Holmes type have been obsessed with the currently unfashionable belief that government exists of and by the people, too. —Ablene Reporter.

STATE ADVISORY COTTON COMMITTEE ELECTED BY COTTON PRODUCERS

COLLEGE STATION, April 13.—Culmination of a south-wide movement of cotton growers to participate more directly in the administration and formulation of cotton adjustment programs is seen in the election by cotton producers of a State Cotton Advisory Committee announced here by O. B. Martin, Extension Director.

Conferring with similar elected committees representing other cotton growing states and advising with the AAA on the present and future cotton adjustment programs are among the activities announced for the committee, according to Director Martin who stated that a meeting of the whole committee to formulate specific plans would be held soon.

Membership on the committee is by districts and the following men have been elected to represent their sections of the State: district 1, M. A. Pillars, Wheeler County; district 2, C. H. Day, Plainview, Hale County; district 3, J. Walter Hammond, Tye, Taylor county; district 4, V. C. Marshall, Heidenheimer, Bell county; district 5, final returns from this district are not yet in; district 6, C. H. Matthews, Columbus, Colorado county; district 7, J. O. Cooper, Center, Shelby county; district 8, Donald Cothran, Caviness, Lamar county; district 9, W. A. Satterwhite, Fort Worth, Tarrant county.

Two members at large are H. G. Lucas, Brownwood, Brown county, and J. R. McCrary, Calvert, Robertson county, both cotton producers.

C. A. Cobb, director of the Cotton Division of the AAA, has been invited to come to Texas and meet with this group at an early date, Director Martin said.

COURTESIES AND PROPRIETIES

DEAR Mrs. Post: I am a business woman and live alone. Naturally there are many things that I must do for myself (cleaning, sewing, laundering, etc.) in the evening. There is a neighbor in the apartment house who keeps coming to all the time and stays and stays.

Answer: In your place, I am afraid I should be tempted to move! But as this is probably not practical, the only thing I know of to suggest, is to explain to her politely, but quite frankly, that you are sorry you can't sit down with her and talk because you must do your washing or sweeping or sewing on the machine or whatever it may be.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is all white mourning in summer for a young wife to wear to her husband's funeral? Should it be worn with or without a veil?

Answer: It is true that all white is deep mourning in the house or in the country. But at the funeral she should certainly wear all black.

PROPRIETIES

DEAR Mrs. Post: The other day at the tennis club a boy who had been playing in the next court asked me very eagerly if I would play with him some day soon.

Answer: I certainly would not telephone him, not because of any especial impropriety but because you would seem overzealous to see him again.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it essential (in this day of unsettled living) to have an address on a man's visiting card? If there is no address on the card, should one be written on it in pencil when necessary?

Answer: The address on a card is so convenient that it is best to have it put on, especially as several successive addresses can be cut on the same plate.

My Dear Mrs. Post: I am planning to be married this month and must have a very simple and small wedding. Several weeks ago a friend of mine had a shower party and invited almost every one of my friends.

LOSING GROUND

The bureau of agriculture economics issued a statement Saturday that was highly significant. It was concerned with Japanese consumption of cotton, and in showing that the American variety is losing ground steadily, the bureau attributed the decline "to price factors."

First half of 1934 the Japanese members of the spinners' association took 1,532,900 bales of cotton, of which 899,600 were American and 495,200 Indian.

The price of American cotton certainly is not too high, as Secretary Wallace insists; and we can pass laws artificially raising it, forbid planting and regulate its production and sale to our heart's content.

President Roosevelt Outlines His Jobless Fund Plans in Radio Talk

$4,000,000,000 Work Relief Drive Is Definitely Linked With Social Security Program; Legislative Proposals Also Are Announced.

Text of Fireside Talk.
The text of the President's speech follows:
"Since my annual message to the Congress on Jan. 4, I have not addressed the general public over the air. In the many weeks since that time the Congress has devoted itself to the arduous task of formulating legislation necessary to the country's welfare. It has made and is making distinct progress.
"Before I come to any of the specific measures, however, I want to leave in your minds one clear fact. The administration and the Congress are not proceeding in any haphazard fashion in this task of Government. Each of our steps has a definite relationship to every other step.
"The job of creating a program for the Nation's welfare is, in some respects, like the building of a ship. At different points on the coast where I often visit they build great seagoing ships. When one of these ships is under construction and the steel frames have been set in the keel, it is difficult for a person who does not know ships to tell how it will finally look when it is sailing the high seas.
"Many Changes in Three Years.
"It may seem confused to some, but not out of the multitude of detailed parts that go into the making of the structure the creation of a useful instrument for man ultimately comes. It is that way with the making of a national policy. The objective of the Nation has greatly changed in three years. Before that time individual self-interest and group selfishness were paramount in public thinking. The general good was at a discount.

"Three years of hard thinking have changed the picture. More and more people, because of clearer thinking and a better understanding, are considering the whole rather than a mere part relating to one section or one crop, or one industry, or an individual private occupation. That is a tremendous gain for principles of Democracy.
"The overwhelming majority of people in this country know how to sift the wheat from the chaff in what they hear and what they read. They know that the process of the constructive rebuilding of America can not be done in a day or a year, but that it is being done in spite of the few who seek to confuse them and to profit by their confusion. Americans as a whole are feeling a lot better—a lot more cheerful than for many, many years.
"Why He Leaves Capitol.
"The most difficult place in the world to get a clear and open perspective of the country as a whole is Washington. I am reminded sometimes of what President Wilson once said 'So many people come to Washington who know things that are not so and so few people who know anything about what the people of the United States are thinking about.'

"That is why I occasionally leave this scene of action for a few days to go fishing or back home to Hyde Park so that I can have a chance to think quietly about the country as a whole. To get away from the trees, as they say, and to look at the whole woods. This duty of seeing the country in a long range perspective is one which, in a very special manner, attaches to this office to which you have chosen me.
"Did you ever stop to think that there are, after all, only two positions in the Nation that are filled by the vote of all the voters—the President and the Vice President? That makes it particularly necessary for the Vice President and for me to conceive of our duties toward the entire country. I speak, therefore, to and of the American people as a whole.
"My most immediate concern is in carrying out the purposes of the great work program just erected by the Congress. Its first objective is to put men and women now on the relief rolls to work and, incidentally, to assist materially in our already unmistakable march toward recovery. I shall not confuse my discussion by a multitude of figures. So many figures are quoted to prove so many things, sometimes it depends on what paper you read and what broadcast you hear. Therefore, let us keep our minds on two or three simple essential facts in connection with this problem of unemployment.
"More Have Jobs.
"It is true that while business and industry are definitely better our relief rolls are still too large. However, for the first time in five years the relief rolls have declined instead of increased during the winter months. They are still declining. The simple fact is that many million more people have private work than two years ago or one year ago and every day that passes offers more chances to work for those who want to work.
"In spite of the fact that unemployment remains a serious problem here as in every other nation, we have come to recognize the possibility and the necessity of certain helpful remedial measures. These measures are of two kinds. The first is to make provisions intended to relieve, to minimize and to prevent future unemployment; the second is to establish the practical means to help those who are unemployed in this present emergency. Our social security legislation is an attempt to answer the first of these questions, our work relief program second.
"The program for social security pending before the Congress is a necessary part of the future unemployment policy of the Government. While our present and projected expenditures for work relief are wholly within the reasonable limits of our national credit resources, it is obvious that we can not continue to create governmental deficits for that purpose year after year. We must begin now to make provisions for the future. That is why our social security program is an important part of the complete picture.

It proposes, by means of old-age pensions, to help those who have reached the age of retirement to give up their jobs and thus give the younger generation greater opportunities for work and to give to all a feeling of security as they look toward old age.
"The unemployment insurance part of the legislation not only will help to guard the individual in future periods of layoff against dependence on relief, but it will, by sustaining purchasing power cushion the shock of economic distress. Another helpful feature of unemployment insurance is the incentive it will give to employees to plan more carefully in order that unemployment may be prevented by the stabilizing of employment itself.
"Private Industry's Problem.
"Provisions for social security, however, are protections for the future. Our responsibility for the immediate necessities of the unemployed has been met by the Congress through the most comprehensive work plan in the history of the Nation. Our problem is to put to work 3,500,000 employable persons now on the relief rolls. It is a problem quite as much for private industry as for the Government.
"We are losing no time getting the Government's vast work relief program under way and we have every reason to believe that it should be in full swing by autumn. In directing it, I shall recognize these fundamental principles:
"The projects should be useful.
"Projects shall be of a nature that a considerable proportion of the money spent will go into wages for labor.
"Projects which promise ultimate return to the Federal Treasury of a considerable proportion of the costs, will be sought.
"Funds allotted for each project should be actually and quickly spent and not held over until later years.
"In all cases projects must be of a character to give employment to those on the relief rolls.
"Projects will be allocated to localities or relief areas in relation to the number of workers on relief rolls in those areas.
"How Work to be Directed.
"I next want to make it clear exactly how we shall direct the work.
"I have set up a division of application and information to which all proposals for the expenditure of money must go for preliminary study and construction.
"After the division of application and information has sifted these projects, they will be sent to an allotment division composed of Representatives of the more important governmental agencies charged with carrying on work relief projects. The group also will include representatives of cities and of labor, farming, banking and industry. This allotment division will consider all of the recommendations submitted to it and such projects as they approve will be next submitted to the President who under the act is required to make final allocations.
"The next step will be to notify the proper Government agency in whose field the project falls, and also another agency which I am creating—a progress division. This division will have the duty of co-ordinating the purchase of materials and supplies and of making certain that people who are employed will be taken from the relief rolls. It will also have the responsibility of determining work payments in various localities, of making full use of existing employment services and to assist people engaged in work relief to move as rapidly as possible back into private employment when such employment is available. Moreover, this division will be charged with keeping projects moving on schedule.

"To Spare No Energy.
"I have felt it to be essentially wise and prudent to avoid, so far as possible, the creation of new governmental machinery for supervising this work. The National Government now has at least sixty different agencies with the staff and the experience and the competence necessary to carry on the 250 or 300 kinds of work that will be undertaken. These agencies, therefore, will simply be on a somewhat enlarged scale, the same sort of thing that they have been doing. This will make certain that the largest possible portion of the funds allotted will be spent for actually creating new work and not for building up expensive overhead organizations here in Washington.
"For many months preparations have been under way for undertaking this work. The allotment of funds for desirable projects has already begun. The key men for the major responsibility of this great task already have been selected. I well realize that the country expects before this year is out to see the dirt fly, as they say, in carrying on this work and I assure my fellow citizens that no energy will be spared in using these funds effectively to make a major attack on the problem of unemployment.
"No Discrimination.
"Our responsibility is to all of the people in this country. This is a great national effort to destroy enforced idleness which is an enemy of the human spirit generated by this depression. Our attack on these enemies must be without stint and without discrimination. No section, no political distinctions can be permitted.
"It must, however, be recognized that when an enterprise of this character is extended over more than 3,000 counties throughout the Nation, there may be occasional instances of inefficiency, bad management, or misuse of funds. When cases of this kind occur, there will be those, of course, who will try to tell you that the exceptional failure is characteristic of the entire endeavor.
"It should be remembered that in every big job there are some imperfections. There are chiselers in every walk of life, there are those in every industry who are guilty of unfair practices, every profession has its black sheep, but long experience in government has taught me that the exceptional instances of wrongdoing in government are probably less numerous than in almost every other line of endeavor.
"Work Before Congress.
"The most effective means of preventing such evils in this work-relief program will be the eternal vigilance of the American people themselves. I call on my fellow citizens everywhere to co-operate with me in making this the most efficient and the cleanest example of public enterprise the world has ever seen. It is time to provide a smashing answer for those cynical men who say that a Democracy can not be honest and efficient. If you will help, this can be done. I therefore, hope you will watch the work in every corner of this Nation.
"Feel free to criticize. Tell me of instances where work can be done better, or where improper practices prevail. Neither you nor I want criticism conceived in a purely fault-finding or partisan spirit, but I am jealous of the right of every citizen to call to the attention of his Government examples of how the public money can be more effectively spent for the benefit of the American people.
"I now come, my friends, to the remaining business before the Congress. It has under consideration many measures which provide for the rounding out of the program of economic and social reconstruction with which we have been concerned for two years. I can mention only a few of them, but I do not want my mention of specific measures to be interpreted as lack of interest or in disapproval of many other important proposals that are pending.
"Wants NIRA Extended.
"The national industrial recovery act expires June 16. After careful consideration, I have asked the Congress to extend the life of this useful agency of Government. As we have proceeded with the administration of this act, we have found from time to time more and more useful ways of promoting its purposes. No reasonable person wants to abandon our present gains—we must continue to protect children, to enforce minimum wages, to prevent excessive hours, to safeguard, define and enforce collective bargaining, and, while retaining fair competition, to eliminate so far as humanly possible, the kinds of unfair practices by selfish minorities which unfortunately did more than anything else to bring about the recent collapse of industries.

"There is likewise pending before the Congress legislation to provide for the elimination of unnecessary holding companies in the public utility field.
"I consider this legislation a positive recovery measure. Power production in this country is virtually back to the 1929 peak. The operating companies in the gas and electric utility field are by and large in good condition. But under holding company domination the utility industry has long been hopelessly at war with itself and with public sentiment.
"Utility Legislation.
"By far the greater part of the general decline in utility securities had occurred before I was inaugurated. The absentee management of unnecessary holding company control has lost touch with and has lost the sympathy of the communities it pretends to serve. Even more significantly it has given the country as a whole an uneasy apprehension of over-concentrated economic power.
"A business that loses the confidence of its customers and the good will of the public can not long continue to be a good risk for the investor. This legislation will serve the investor by ending the conditions which have caused that lack of confidence and good will. It will put the public utility operating industry on a sound basis for the future, both in its public relations and in its internal relations.
"This legislation will not only in the long run result in providing lower electric and gas rates to the consumer but it will protect the actual value and earning power of properties now owned by thousands of investors who have little protection under the old laws against what used to be called frenzied finance. It will not destroy values.
"Transportation Legislation.
"Not only business recovery, but the general economic recovery of the Nation will be greatly stimulated by the enactment of legislation designed to improve the status of our transportation agencies. There is need for legislation providing for the regulation of interstate transportation by buses and trucks, to regulate transportation by water, new provisions for strengthening our merchant marine and air transport measures for the strengthening of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enable it to carry out a rounded conception of the national transportation system in which the benefits of private ownership are retained, while the public stake in these important services is protected by the public's government.
"The re-establishment of public confidence in the banks of the Nation is one of the most hopeful results of our efforts as a Nation to re-establish public confidence in private banking. We all know that private banking actually exists by virtue of the permission of our regulation by the people as a whole, speaking through their government. Wise public policy, however, requires not only that banking be safe but that its resources be most fully utilized in the economic life of the country.

"To this end it was decided more than twenty years ago that the Government should assume the responsibility of providing a means by which the credit of the Nation might be controlled, not by a few private banking institutions, but by a body with prestige and authority. The answer to this demand was the Federal Reserve System. Twenty years of experience with this system have justified the efforts made to create it, but these twenty years have shown by experience definite possibilities for improvement. Certain proposals made to amend the Federal Reserve act, deserve prompt and favorable action by the Congress. They are a minimum of wise readjustment of our Federal Reserve System in the light of past experience and present needs.
"Thinks Recovery Here.
"These measures are, in large part, the program which under my constitutional duty I have recommended to Congress. They are essential factors in a rounded program for national recovery. They contemplate the enrichment of our national life by a sound and rational ordering of its various elements and wise provisions for the protection of the weak against the strong.
"Never since my inauguration in March, 1933, have I felt so unmistakably the atmosphere of recovery. But it is more than the recovery of the material basis of our individual lives. It is the recovery of confidence in our Democratic processes and institutions. We have survived all of the arduous battles and the threatening dangers of a great economic calamity. We have in the darkest moments of our national trials retained our faith in our own ability to master our destiny. Fear is vanishing and confidence is growing on every side, renewed faith in the vast possibilities of human beings to improve their material and spiritual status through the instrumentality of Democratic Government. That faith is receiving its just reward."
"And may the God that guides the destinies of America continue to direct us in our great undertakings."

BONHAM: At a cost of $2 for paint and labor, Mrs. A. E. Campbell of Fannin county has provided storage space for the 88 varieties of canned food in her pantry by repairing an old handmade walnut cupboard belonging to her grandmother, according to Miss Minnie Eldridge, home demonstration agent. Mrs. Campbell re-arranged the shelves added new doors, and painted the cupboard apple green. As it was not large enough, she built other shelves on top of it. Each section is stocked with required products according to her food budget plan and saves her many trips to the smoke-house where her food was formerly stored.

BELTON, Texas, April 31 (Spl) —Special recognition to the forthcoming observance of Texas' Centennial in 1936 is given in the announcement here by Mrs. Ell Moore Townsend of one of two essay writing contests, the winners of each to receive a $100 scholarship to Mary Hardin-Baylor. While the subject for one essay must be based on the first half of the old Testament of the Bible, for the other any subject may be selected from Texas history, just so special emphasis be laid in it on the idea of the Texas Centennial.
 The essays must be written under the supervision of a teacher, pastor, or officer of the W. M. U. on or before April 21. Anyone who would be in position to utilize the award of scholarships is eligible to compete.
