Heritage Foundation Seeks Dishes, Volunteer Workers

"The old Santa Fe Depot renovation is nearing completion and it's been a long year for a few hardworking volunteers," said a member of the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation. "Because of their dedication and commitment, the Senior Citizen Activity Center will become a reality this summer."

The dining room is completed, with the walls textured and painted, the carpet has been laid, ceiling fans installed, and folding tables have been donated and delivered.

Chairs have been ordered and will be arriving in July. Heritage Foundation officers said they would like to encourage individuals and clubs or organizations to buy a chair for the dining room. The cost is $21 each.

Making contributions to the new senior citizen activity center are AARP, with a table and five chairs; Muleshoe Study Club, a table and six chairs; The Jennyslippers donated a table in memory of Mrs. Cliff Griffiths and Bob Sanders; Kappa Kappa Iota, one eight foot table; SCAC, a table; KKI, a table; Jesse Osborn, one chair.

The Heritage Foundation said the kitchen is very modern, with new appliances donated by Paul Poyner. "The Muleshoe Heritage Board certainly wants to thank Mr. Poyner for this generous gift of two new stoves, with ovens, and a large refrigerator," said a member of the board.

The kitchen is designed with a convenient work area, with two double stainless sinks located in a center island, surrounded by oak cabinets and formica cabinet tops and work areas. Mrs. Wilma Clements donated one of the sinks.

As yet, there are no dishes.

no glasses, no flatware. The Foundation Board would like to encourage clubs or groups to take this need on as a worthwhile project. You may contact Jenne McVicker if you would be interested in doing this for the kitchen of the depot.

Several items were donated to the kitchen by Virginia Wver and R.A. and Marie Bradley. The Board said they are very useful items.

The deck and ramp, planned for the outside of the depot, will make entry much more accessible for everyone. Work will begin very soon on this ramp, and the board said help with

Juvenile Trio

Have Hearing;

Adult Is Held

On Wednesday morning, three juveniles who had been apprehended following an early Tuesday morning invasion of a private residence in Muleshoe, were brought back to Muleshoe for a hearing. The trio had been taken to the Youth Detention Center in Lubbock following their apprehension Tuesday.

Charged with "Burglary of a Habitation," the trio appeared before Bailey County Judge Gordon H. Green, and the juvenile probation officer.

At the hearing, it was determined to release the three juveniles to the custody of their parents.

One man, Andres Valdez, Jr. 39, was still in the Bailey County jail, being held on the same charge. His bond was set at $100,000.

Officers said a television and antique mantle clock taken in the burglary were recovered.

Final Plans Are Shaping Up For July 3rd 'Great Race'

Every mile an adventure! Every day an unforgettable experience! There is simply no other event like the INTER-STATE BATTERIES GREAT AMERICAN RACE!

Come along with us. Share the adventure of a lifetime! In eleven days, The GREAT RACE crosses ten of America's Sun-belt states in a flood tide of color--mostly red, white and blue--with a rainbow of lacquer accents reflecting sunshine from some of the world's most beautiful cars.

Presuming you are a 1987 GREAT RACE entrant, the odyssey starts as you star in your car at the lavish DISNEY-LAND Official Start at Anaheim, California, June 30th. You'll remember the thrill of Main Street, USA.

The first night is to be spent in air-conditioned San Diego, California, in marvelous Seaport Village near the ancient Spanish Mission of San Diego de Alcala. Next morning, the raw grandeur of The Great Sonoran Desert through Yuma will unfold, then it's past the Apache country of Gila Bend and into Phoenix, Arizona, for a night under a million stars.

BILLY THE KID AND MULESHOE, TX.

On July 2nd, you'll ascend the Southern Rockies to the Sangre di Cristo mountains, then cross the storied Rio Grande into Albuquerque, New Mexico. Tomorrow, you will pass near the grave site of Billy the Kid, who gunned down 21 men as a notorious outlaw before being killed by Sheriff Pat Garret in 1881. You are now enroute to Clovis, New Mexico and Muleshoe, Texas, both parts of the high grandeur that is the west Texas plains leading into Lubbock.

Leaving Lubbock you're bound for the rootin'-tootin' cowtowns of Sweetwater and Abilene, the latter tamed by Marshall Wyatt Earp, circa 1880.

"Big D" beckons next. You'll experience a 4th of July to be long remembered as guests of the Dallas-Ft. Worth metroplex at a Great American Fourth festival at Rangers Stadium, in Arlington. Then, it's south through rolling Texas plains to the indelible skyline of bustlin', hustlin' Houston. From there it's just a short jump to picturesque Galveston Island, said once upon a time to be the lair of irate Jean Lafitte in the days of the buccaneers.

ON TO NEW ORLEANS

A ferry boat ride across Bolivar Crossroads, where Houston's port empties into the Gulf of Mexico, is next. This is the beginning of a sojourn through the beautiful, mysterious bayou country of western Louisiana. From Lake St. Charles onward, only raised highways prevent the necessity of traveling in pirogues.

Worldly-wise New Orleans, the Crescent City, the Damsel of the Mississippi River Delta, subject of a myriad of legends, history and humbug, looms next on the horizon. New Orleans, America's answer to such earthy Mediterranean ports-of-call as Marseilles, Venice, Alexandria and Algiers, rolls out its red carpet July 6th for yet another GREAT RACE overnight respite.

It's now July 7th, and today's first targets are the piney woods, pecan trees and cotton fields leading to Meridian, Mississippi, then further along, the beautiful Tombigbee River

Fred Returns Home After Disappearing

Fred came home Thursday!! Yes, Fred, who had been missing for six months, was returned to his home Thursday afternoon by his grateful owner.

Fred is a seven-year old Irish Setter, who had been missing since the first day of pheasant season last December. He was at home, the Curby Brantley Jr., home west of Muleshoe, just off FM1760, and just disappeared.

Curby looked for the dog - and looked for the dog - with no success.

He was distraught, because for the past seven years, Fred had gone literally 'everywhere' with the young farmer, and was a familiar sight riding in the back of his pickup as he traveled from one Brantley farm to the other.

The two share the same birthday, December 11, and young Brantley had finally given up on ever finding him.

Actually, he was found by Gerry Pierce of Combination Motors, who recognized him and took him to Wiedebush & Co, where Brantley stops by frequently. Later the young farmer did go into Wiedebush. As he was talking on the phone, a happy and jubilant Fred went up to him and jumped on him.

Brantley immediately recognized his missing dog, and welcomed him back.

Fred appeared to be tired, but also looked like he had been well fed and cared for in the six months he had been gone.

"The Lord only, knows where he's been," said Brantley, as he petted his dog who had been missing. "Fred is gentle, friendly and likes people, especially little kids. And wherever he's been, he was well taken care of."

Late Thursday afternoon, Fred happily jumped into the back of Brantley's pickup waiting for his next ride -- to wherever.

A VERY HAPPY 'FRED' IS HOME AGAIN--Fred, in the back of the pickup, returned home Thursday after being missing for the past six months. He showed up near Muleshoe, and returned to Curby Brantley, Jr., his owner. Wagging his tail and happily greeting Brantley when he saw him. Brantley has owned Fred for the past seven years.

VSS Elliott Off To Siam, Thailand

(Note: Joe Dan Briscoe, son of Kenneth and Ruth Briscoe, of Muleshoe, is serving aboard the USS Elliott. He is a shipmate of Will Anderson, who penned the following story.)

(Editor's note: Awhile back, the Tribune asked Navy Lt. Commander Will Anderson, son of Bob and Carrie Anderson of Farwell, to periodically write about his experiences aboard ship.

Currently, he is assigned as a staff materiel officer for Destroyer Squadron 25, homeported in Hawaii. Seven ships normally are assigned to it -- a destroyer, two guided missile destroyers and four frigates.)

BY WILL ANDERSON
After leaving the Philippines on Friday the 13th, (defying a curse, sailors tend to be a superstitious lot too!), our Task Group proceeded to the Gulf of Siam and Thailand.

The seas were flat and hot, for a change, and USS Ramsey and USS Elliott made good time. On Feb. 18, we anchored in a small city named Pattaya, south of Bangkok. Also anchoring there were USS Barbel (a diesel powered attack submarine), USNS Catawba (a fleet tug), and USNS Ponchatoula (our fuel and replenishment ship).

"USS" means a ship is crewed by a full complement of U.S. Navy sailors. "USNS" means that the ship's master and most of the crew are civilian mariners under contract, working with a small complement of naval personnel on-board.

We went to Thailand to participate in a joint exercise with the Royal Thai Navy called Sea-Siam 87-1. The amphibious battle group, the five ships of Task Group 76.3 who participated in the operations in the Bering Sea, arrived later and ran a large amphibious operation named Valiant Usher north of us.

But first, we were given five days to see Thailand and to meet the people. I have not dropped the anchor in Thailand in almost 10 years and it was great to be back. We were hosted by the Royal Thai Navy Commander in Chief, Admiral Thep, and the crew was eager to take the opportunity to get ashore again. Pattaya is a very popular resort and we met people from throughout Asia, Australia, and Europe. I also met a couple of Americans who came to Southeast Asia during the Vietnam War who got out of the service after it ended and stayed here.

We got underway for Sea Siam and joined up the His Majesty's Thai Ships (HTMS) who would participate with us. They were HTMS Rattanakosin, HTMS Chronburi, HTMS Tapi, and HTMS Prabaparapak. I thought they were difficult to pronounce, but with Ponchatoula and Catawba with us, we were in no position to throw stones. The operation, from Feb. 23-28, involved the "Blue Forces" (the good guys) trying to defend Ponchatoula from attack by the "Orange Forces" (the bad guys).

Commodore McKenna, my boss, was Commander of Orange Forces, and we, the 15 members of his staff, were his faithful assistants. Our assets consisted of Catawba, Prabaparapak, and Chonburi, simulating missile launching patrol boats. We also had Barbel, for the submarine threat, and jet attack fighters flying out of an air base in Thailand for the air threat.

The air threat consisted of Thai F-5 fighter and USN A-4 Skyhawk attack jets. The officer in charge of the American air detachment was Lt. Maggie Yarlott of Fleet Composite Squadron 5. She brought 8 other pilots to Thailand from the Philippines (including one other female pilot) to simulate enemy tactics and missile profiles.

VC-5, her squadron, is used to train the men in the cockpits of U.S. jets and in the Combat Information Centers of U.S. ships what to expect from enemy action. Current regulations prevent her from being assigned to a combat squadron, which seems ironic, since she is training the men who fly in those squadrons. Lt. Yarlott and her companion pilots did an outstanding job of not only providing a realistic training opportunity for us in simulated strikes and air combats, but they also worked closely with the Royal Thai fighters. And interoperability was of the primary goals of the whole operation.

Back on the ships, a number of personnel had been "cross-decked" -- swapping Thai officers and enlisted for Americans. Naval operations of any size are difficult and working with a foreign navy makes it even more so, especially if you do not share a common language. The Thai ships ability to operate and coordinate with us in a language foreign to them was impressive. It was particularly so when we had simultaneous attacks being simulated from the surface, air, and sub-surface.

In the midst of all the "War at sea," USS Elliott came across a real world tragedy. With the expansion of Vietnam since 1975, the flow of refugees from beneath Communist rule (the "boat people") has continued to be a flood.

The officer of the Deck onboard Elliott saw a small fishing vessel in the distance signalling distress. Elliott closed them and found 17 people (5 men, 5 women and 7 children less than 6-years-old) in a tiny wooden fishing boat. The were out of fuel, low on food and water, and had to bail the boat constantly due to leaks, it was determined that if not assisted, they would probably, all die. They were taken onboard, examined, bathed, and given clean clothes. Meanwhile, their boat had to be sunk because an abandoned vessel is a hazard to navigation to other ships.

Elliott sailors donated clothes and gave up free time taking turns watching after our new guests. A sleeping area was prepared for them below, but during the day they were happiest under a tent that was designed for them by draping a tarp over the after 5-inch cannon.

They were safe and they were well fed and the children all had new dolls and teddy-bears (donated by sailors who had bought them for their own children back home). Ramsey had a Vietnamese petty officer named Nguyen who had escaped from Vietnam the same way with his family in 1978, and he came over to Elliott to help the doctor with the daily examinations. He also translated for them during the church services (they were Catholic).

Our guests rode with us all the way to our next port-of-call, Subic Bay, Philippines, where they were taken by a refugee organization. But while they were onboard, Elliott felt like she had done something good and worthwhile.

Many of the boat people are not found by friendly ships, though -- they are victimized by pirates. With five decades of warfare in the area, there is no shortage of weapons, ammunition, and even smaller calibre cannon. The pirates tend to attack only smaller craft, unlikely to be armed, and their heavily armed speed boats cannot be outrun by most.

They have even boarded a couple of super tankers coming through the Malacca Straits with grappling hooks and swarmed aboard with machine guns to rob the ship's safe and crew. When they catch a smaller boat with women and children onboard they do much worse than steal. The prospect of finding a boat with corpses in it is always a black possibility.

When the operation ended, we anchored in Sattahip for the final briefs and the exchange of handshakes. One of the Thai officers who rode Elliott with us, LCDR Charnarong, told me he was from the capitol of Thailand, Krung Thep. I asked him why the call it Krung Thep if we call it Bangkok and he said he didn't know-it had always been Krung Thep and he never heard of Bangkok until he met Americans.

I asked him what the Thai people call Farwell, and he said he had never heard of it! I was shocked, of course, but I can only assume that he was not attentive in his geography classes when they discussed important places.

We then set our courses for Subic Bay, and arrived March 6. We have been here for a week now and go next to a big operation with the South Koreans. I will write more about than when it's completed.

BEGINNING...

- ★ A new life together
- ★ A new feeling of sharing
- ★ A new sense of responsibility

NEW there's magic in the word.
What thrill and excitement lies ahead. With the beginning of so many new things, start a new life, together, with the Lord.
Attend Church

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church's witness to the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Ag Workers Law Unacceptable

The interim final regulations for the H-2A temporary agricultural workers program released today by the Department of Labor and the Department of Agriculture's unworkable and a severe threat for farmers and ranchers," said Congressman Larry Combest (R-Texas).
The interim final regulations for the H-2A program still preclude the livestock, poultry and dairy industries from participating in the program. "If the Labor Department refuses to revise these rules, farmers and ranchers will not have a sufficient workforce," said Combest.
Combest also reaffirmed his objections to the Department of Labor's definition of "temporary or seasonal" workers, the adverse effect wage rate, fee schedules, and continued lack of clarity and simplification under the proposed rules. "It is obvious that the Labor Department does not fully understand the potential impact of these regulations. If the Department fails to rework the proposals, I see no other alternative but to introduce corrective legislation," said the Lubbock Congressman.

Last month Combest met with Labor officials and presented Labor Secretary William Brock with a letter signed by 38 members of Congress opposing the proposed H-2A program regulations. The objections to the proposed rules.
Combest also blasted the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) for its failure to include cotton as a "perishable commodity." Due to USDA's perishable definition, agricultural employers in the cotton industry cannot legalize seasonal workers and are forced to rely on domestic laborers or H-2A workers.
"Why USDA determined that a Christmas tree is more perishable than a cotton crop remains an absolute mystery to me and much of the agriculture industry. The industry may be in for some rough times due to USDA's decision," said Combest.

TEC To Certify Employment Eligibilities

Effective June 15, 1987, local Texas Employment Commission offices will begin certifying the employment eligibility of job applicants for employers under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 (IRCA).

According to new TEC procedures, employers who hire job applicants through TEC for jobs lasting longer than three days will receive employment verifications as soon as the employer notifies the TEC office that an applicant has been hired. This will insure that employers are in full compliance with the provisions of the IRCA.

For jobs lasting three days or less, employers will be responsible for their own verification of the employment eligibility of job applicants.

All individuals registering for work with TEC after June 1, 1987, will need to provide evidence of identity and employment eligibility. Documents used to establish identity must contain a picture of the applicant. A Texas driver's license will satisfy this requirement. To establish employment eligibility, applicants may use an original Social Security card, unless it states that employment in the United States is not authorized.

Anyone interested in more information in these new TEC procedures should contact their local Texas Employment Commission office.

Family Council Improves Communication, Respect

Listening, empathizing, and self expression are some basic communication skills. They also can be giant steps on the road to improving family communication.

According to Diane Welch, family life specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, "Improving family communication rests on improving the communication skills of the individual family members. Without some basic skills, meaningful communication is almost impossible.

"There also must be a willingness to communicate. Forced or hostile communication will not help the situation," the specialist says. "The family needs to get aside time to spend together, and work at developing mutual respect which will facilitate communication."

Welch recommends setting up a family council to improve family communication and respect. Family councils are informal family meetings which give each family member a chance to express his or her feelings, and most importantly, to be listened to.

Family council meetings are a good time to involve everyone in family decisions, rule making, plans, airing disagreements, and sharing information. Councils should meet at a special time that everyone knows is set aside for this purpose, and sessions should be taken seriously to be effective.

"Family councils are not difficult to set up. They only require time and a commitment to want to improve communication. The idea may not catch on at first, but the time invested will be worth it," says Welch.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has put together three leaflets containing information about improving family communication. Ask for L-1728-1729-1730, which are available from county Extension offices. Extension agents also are trained to help in this area.

According to Welch, "Family councils are a worthwhile means of organization, but the bottom line in family communication is the individuals' communication skills."

In Fashion

Costume jewelry is bolder and more colorful this season. Gold and silver necklaces are much larger and fit closer to the neckline.

Desert-inspired tones are quite popular in earrings, necklaces and bangles. Big and bold is the trend in these styles.

Many of the handbags are in earthtones with Indian motifs. Some of these canvas-type bags are finished with leather trim.

BIBLE VERSE

"Cleanse your hands, ye sinners, and purify your hearts, ye double-minded."

1. Who was the author of the above admonition?
2. What position did he hold in the early church?
3. To whom was he writing?
4. Where may this verse be found?

Answers to Bible Verse

1. James—probably the half brother of Jesus.
2. If this James was Jesus' half-brother, he was head of the early church in Jerusalem.
3. To "the twelve tribes scattered abroad."
4. The last part of James 4:8.

Creative Living

by Sheryl Borden

Three interesting topics will be featured on "Creative Living" on Tuesday, June 9 at 12 noon. (The show will not be repeated on Saturday, June 13 due to the KENW-TV Tele-Auction. The Saturday repeat show will resume on June 20.)

Gifts you make yourself are usually the ones that are most appreciated by the receiver. Lana Schulte, Extension Home Economist in Socorro, NM will share some interesting "no cook (and almost no cook) food gifts" that are sure to be big hits. Food gifts are especially good choices for that person who seems to have everything or for someone who is especially hard to select gifts for. All of the ideas Lana will show are special; they're fast to put together, inexpensive and ones everyone can use.

If you haven't seen some of the new items that can be made using liquid embroidery, you'll be surprised at what's now available. Lucille Romanello is the Director of Sales and Training with Tri-Chem, Inc. in Harrison, NJ. She will show what equipment is needed, discuss special painting techniques and show a variety of items that have been prepared using liquid embroidery. The show will begin with an interview with Antoinette Matlins, and she will discuss what to look for in choosing quality cultured pearls.

Due to the Auction, the Tuesday evening 9:30 pm "Creative Living" show will not be aired, but will return at the regularly scheduled time on June 16.

On Thursday, June 11 at 12 noon, "Creative Living" will feature information on entertaining on the lighter side, a discussion of America's "zest" for clean, and provide news concerning high fiber diets.

California pistachios add an elegant flair and a touch of sophistication to foods. Even when the calories are on the lighter side, the rich, robust flavor of pistachios can be enjoyed. Karen Dahlinger, spokesperson for the California Pistachio Commission in Fresno, CA will tell some interesting facts about pistachios and demonstrate several recipes that are fairly low in calories.

Americans are called the "cleanest people in the world". Catherine Kanner, spokesperson for Zest and author of The Book of The Bath, will be a guest and will talk about new styles in bath designs. Catherine lives in Santa Monica, CA.

One of the hottest news stories in food today is fiber. A high-fiber diet has been linked to such virtues as maintaining body energy, lowering cholesterol and delaying feeling hungry. We'll explore the importance of a fiber diet while discovering a variety of good-tasting foods that contain fiber.

"Creative Living" is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show airs on more than 95 PBS stations in the United States, Canada, Guam and Puerto Rico and is distributed by Pacific Mountain Network, Denver, CO. Viewers can request copies of printed materials offered on the show by calling on KENW-TV's toll-free telephone lines. In New Mexico, the number is 1-800-432-2361, out-of-state: 1-800-545-2359 and Portales and Roosevelt County: 562-2112. Requests can be made between 8 am and 5 pm, Monday through Friday.

NO COOK (And Almost) delightful homemade gifts from your kitchen. You'll be sure your gift will be warmly received and appreciated. No other present would be quite as unique, personal and delicious.

Use your imagination for packing your gifts. Look around --what do you have on hand? Boxes can be covered, cans can be decorated and even paper bags and berry boxes make excellent containers for food gifts. Also consider the person's hobbies or interests. An indoor gardener would appreciate a flower pot filled with goodies. A shoebag filled with cookies would delight a traveler.

If you don't have time to cook or bake a gift, just give measured ingredients along with a recipe in a basket, baking pan or mixing bowl, and be sure to include the recipe. A "budding" cook would appreciate the equipment as well as the experience of making it.

Watch for sales on such things as baskets, trays, bread boards, and cake plates. If you have things on hand, you can whip up a recipe, wrap it in plastic and add a bow or decoration to have a gift in a short time.

C of C Members Make Essay Contest Success

Members of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture awarded $800 in scholarships; $400 in savings bonds, and approximately $315 in gift certificates to students during the various awards assemblies at the end of the school year.

Students in each grade level from Early Childhood to the graduating senior entered essays and posters on the theme of "What's Right With Muleshoe?"

When the contest began on May 1, entries started coming in until the May 11 deadline, with some 500 entries received.

Tony and Mary Palma designated $100 to the scholarship fund and Laura Leal designated $30 to that fund. The Muleshoe State Bank, First Bank, and James Crane Tire Co. donated $50 savings bonds.

CofC members who contributed to the awards were:

CHATTANOOGA CHUG-CHUG
Nestled among the veiled peaks of The Great Smoky Mountains, Chattanooga, Tennessee on July 8th, represents the northernmost thrust of the 1987 INTERSTATE BATTERIES GREAT AMERICAN RACE.

From there, it is an uphill climb to the cosmopolitan city of Atlanta, Georgia, storehouse for so much of the Old South's lore.

Leaving Atlanta you will be witness to a 250 mile long tableaux of the red clay fields and ante bellum plantations down through Georgia to Albany. The words Joel Chandler Harris spoke for Uncle Remus and his critters come alive in the mind's eye as fields become low sand hills in the Chattahoochee River territory gateway to Florida.

Florida's state capital of Tallahassee may have changed dramatically in the past 50 years, but the aura of Dixie replete with Spanish moss, magnolias, wisteria, bougainvilleau, crinoline petticoats, pantaloons and hoop skirts clings to this euphoniously-named city unique in the Florida pantheon.

PIRATE'S LAIR

Now pointing south along Florida's Suncoast, the GREAT RACE aims at Great Tampa Bay and the contrasting cities of Tampa and St. Petersburg, southernmost point of the '87 classic.

The Andalusian architecture and atmosphere of Tampa's Ybor City and the legend of Caribbean pirates Jose Gaspar co-exist comfortably alongside Tampa's pre-eminent position as a bustling seaport. Somehow, the juxtaposition of Central American bananas and Gulf shrimp with historical wealth seems to work and work well.

Cutting across Florida through hills piled up by greedy potash miners, the INTERSTATE BATTERIES GREAT AMERICAN RACE next rumbles across what seems to be a massive swamp, but is known by natives as Lake Withlacoochee.

Finally, it presses on the WALT DISNEY WORLD, in Orlando, in the late afternoon of Friday, July 10, for a gala finish at the fabulous World Showcase at Epcot Center and a resplendent Victory Banquet hosted by the Walt Disney Co.

California will seem so long ago and far away.

On behalf of the Muleshoe Police Department, Wayne Holmes donated 26 tickets for Putt Putt Golf.

"Members of the Chamber of Commerce are to be congratulated for making this worthwhile project possible," said one of the local citizens. "By doing so, they have re-emphasized that our youth are 'What's Right With Muleshoe!' and once again have shown their support and pride in their achievements."

Billie Downing, chairman of the essay contest said she wished to thank the following individuals who spent many hours to make the contest a great success: Mary Palma, Norma Bruce, JoDean Neel, Gary Watkins, Laura Leal, Donna Kirk, Myra Waide, JimElla Clemmons, Evelyn Peat, Nelda Hunt, James Lee, and Toni Eagle, manager, and Sharon Langford, of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Downing said she also wished to thank the news media for publicizing each stage of the contest and recognizing the winners.

Muleshoe has nice pools. The schools are kept nice looking by our city. We have a large public library with many extremely good books.

Our school system works well in teaching and taking us home. We participate in many sports. There are many actively involved great teachers. Our schools also have many special activities like plays. Most of our schools have open camps at noon.

We have special activities that no other city has. Muleshoe has a Mule Day and read-a-thons. We even have our own radio station that gives away Radio Bucks.

Muleshoe is out of this world, but only eighteen miles from Earth.

What's Right With Muleshoe
This is a question many people ask themselves each day as they break their alarm clock trying to get a few minutes of extra sleep before they have to go to work or school. There are many things right with Muleshoe. For one we have a good school system with many able teachers to teach the students. For students who like sports the Athletic department has everything you need to get you started off right. If you are a track or football star, there is, now, a new track and football field to use. So if you are a student or you have a student in school in Muleshoe, you can see it is a good school to be raised up in.

In Muleshoe there is a good mayor who is trying to keep Muleshoe clean and beautiful, making it a town you would not mind growing up in. Muleshoe is a small town with very few illegal drugs and not very little pollution. There are friendly, caring people to help you out along the way whether you are young or old. There are good doctors and a good nursing home to help you if something suddenly happens. If ever you're in trouble, the police force will be there on the double! As you can see, there is no need to ask yourself the silly question, "What's Right with Muleshoe as you break your alarm clock for extra sleep?"

Muleshoe State Robbed; Gunmen Never Captured

As the Journal goes to press this week no definite clue has yet been obtained as to the whereabouts of the two masked gunmen who robbed the Muleshoe State Bank here Thursday afternoon, April 13, 1933, taking with them $1,642 in money.

It was approximately 3:00 p.m. Thursday, the wind was blowing a terrific gale, the atmosphere full of sand and dirt, nearly everyone off the streets inside to get away from the storm, and the doors of all business houses closed, when two masked bandits, one described as being fully six feet tall and the other one of short stature entered the First State Bank here. Cashier Jesse Osborn was in his private office and did not notice their entry at that time. Miss Opal Morris, standing at the teller's window promptly discovered their masked condition and started out through the rear, when one of them called to her to halt or they would shoot, the other robber stepping around the private office covered the cashier, Mrs. Osborn, Miss Morris, and Mrs. Pat Bobo were all herded into the front private office and forced to lie flat on the floor, one bandit stood guard at the front door while the other made a complete search of the bank for money. Miss Morris was forced to go to the vault to locate hidden money, but succeeded in not "finding" all of it. Mrs. Bobo was forced to work the combination on the vault door which that morning had been turned on the locking studs thrown out, as a precaution, she having to release the studs after which all three were put into the vault and the door locked from the outside. As soon as they were put into the vault Mr. Osborn reached up and touched off a switch on the burglar alarm which set the gong to going on the outside, and with a screw driver quickly opened the door from the inside, they not being held in the vault more than two or three minutes.

It is stated the robbers took plenty of time for the job. The small fellow on guard acted like an old hand at the business, being very calm and deliberate, the tall man was quite nervous, causing some solicitation on the part of Osborn and Miss Morris, both of whom had a .45 punched into their ribs, the hammer being drawn back and only the nervous twitch of the forefinger being required to end their earthly careers. Both robbers debated for some time after completing the robbery whether they should take the bank force with them or lock them in the vault; but the way being apparently clear, they decided to leave them behind.

AS soon as the alarm was sounded by those inside the vault, Gilbert Wollard, mail carrier; Curtis Taylor, farmer living north of town; and Cecil McLaury, local restaurant man, who at that time were in the post office across the street from the bank, jumped into Wollard's automobile and gave chase of the robbers. Having no guns with them they dared not come in intimate contact with them. They later secured a rifle loaded with only two shells and started after them the second time, keeping well behind them until they were south of Plainview when, in the gathering sand storm, they lost them.

The bandits are said to have been driving a 1930 Chevrolet and that the license numbers on the car had been turned backwards. O.K. Angeley, former Muleshoe citizen, now proprietor of a filling station at Plainview, was here Sunday and stated that late in the evening of the robbery, a car containing two men drove up to his station for oil and gas. They looked and acted so suspicious that one of the men at the station took down the license number of the car, which license was issued in Wichita county, this state. At that time they did not know of the robbery, but the next morning learned of it, and reading descriptions, Mr. Angeley declared they checked exactly with the car and people they served. He said the car was driven on east out of Plainview toward Floydada.

Since the robbery both Texas and New Mexico officers have been scouring the eastern territory of New Mexico in search of the bandits, it being their suspicion they may have doubled back late in the evening of the robbery and are in hiding somewhere in the broken country across the western line of Texas in Roosevelt county, N.M.

Who robbed the Muleshoe State Bank April 13 is still unknown, at least so far as the general public is concerned. Several long and short men, more or less fitting descriptions of the two who pulled off the illicit financial deal with the local institution have been made by bank employees have been some partial recognition of submitted photographs, yet no positive identification has yet been made by bank employees and no definite arrests made of the alleged perpetrators of the crime.

Sheriff Jim Cook has not wasted a minute on the job of trying to apprehend the robbers, according to report; but if he is any nearer a solution of the crime and to identification of the participants the public is not aware of the fact. It is known that he has made various trips to other surrounding towns, into New Mexico and as far east as Dallas running down more or less mysterious characters, but yet no definite proof has been obtained. At Littlefield and Sudan several suspicious characters have been rounded up by officers, but to no avail. Numerous other officers in both Texas and New Mexico are also aiding in the search, but to date no reports have been made public of any definite arrests.

Sheriff Cook when interviewed by a Journal representative just before this newspaper went to press, stated definitely there was no positive information yet to be given out. He intimated he had been running down several clues, and was hopeful of favorable results, but just at this time there was nothing positive to be reported.

Farmers View North Plains Research Effort

Potential crops, insects and cattle grazing techniques were the focal points for a field day at the Texas Agricultural research field. Some 85 farmers, ranchers and extension agents toured the test plots here.

The North Plains Research Field will close after 24 years of research on 245 acres east of Etter. The center has received eviction notices from Phillips Petroleum and will move by the end of the year. The center is searching for possible areas to relocate, said Gaston Wells, president of the North Plains Underground Water District, which leases the site for research. "We've been looking at several sites to relocate, we're dedicated to research in this area," he said.

The potential for barley as a major crop for farmers on the High Plains is increasing, said Dr. Wyatt L. Harman, agricultural economist for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Amarillo. He said farmers should consider rust resistance, grazing potential and water use before deciding to use barley as a major crop. Harman noted economic factors which could prove to be profitable from the farming standpoint.

By omitting one irrigation cycle when market prices are low, the farmer could benefit from more profits then if he added the last water and increased yields. The Russian Wheat Aphid (Diuraphis noxia) which poses a major problem to farmers on the High Plains, is not as evident this year as when it made its first U.S. appearance last spring, said Dr. Jerry Michaels, research entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Amarillo. Studies indicate that several treatments are very effective on a 14 day preliminary basis. However, the economic evaluations of the treatments will not be available until the wheat is harvested, said Dr. Pat Morrison, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Lubbock.

Cattle grazing is another important consideration for farmers. Harman said grazing barley has had favorable results. When making decisions on various varieties, the farmer should note that some cattle prefer certain varieties, Harman advised.

Studies are also being done on cattle in which a slow release device is implanted in the stomach of the cattle, said Dr. David P. Hutcheson, animal nutritionist for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Amarillo. He said, the device releases small amounts of Rumensin and can increase cattle gains as much as two pounds per day.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Taxpayers in the Bailey County Appraisal District will have an opportunity later this month to protest values proposed for their property for local taxes. The district's appraisal review board (ARB) will begin hearing taxpayer protests on June 22, 1987. The property owner must file a written "notice of protest" with the ARB before June 22, 1987.

Official forms for a notice of protest are available at the Bailey County Appraisal District office, 104 E Ave C. A letter from the taxpayer is also acceptable as long as it identifies the property owner, the property which is the subject of the protest, and indicates dissatisfaction with some decision or action of the appraisal office.

Each protesting taxpayer may offer evidence or argument either in person or by filing an affidavit with the ARB. Taxpayers should be aware that the ARB has no authority over tax rates or taxing unit spending and will not hear protests of those matters.

The ARB will schedule hearing as property owners file protests and will inform them of the time, date and place of their individual hearings.

The State Property Tax Board has issued a pamphlet called "Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities" available at the Bailey County Appraisal District office, 104 E Ave C, which explains how to prepare and present an appeal to the ARB.

Radio Note

One of the puzzles about radio stations today is why so few identify the city or community from which they broadcast. An even worse custom which has developed is that of not identifying music by titles. A generation ago most announcers, when giving the news, or just identifying the station, gave the city of origin. Today not one in ten tells the listener where the broadcast is coming from. This is surprising because so many radio listeners today are in cars or trucks. Driving along the highway the motorist has no way of knowing where station W so-and-so is. He or she has no way of knowing what town or city advertisers are located in. This consideration alone should make clear the need for identification. As for music, most listeners like to know the titles of songs they hear. Good disc jockeys of a few years back did their homework and announced tunes by titles, either singly or perhaps four at a time. Today it's done the lazy way by nine out of ten jockeys. They simply play music and no one knows what music it is, by whom it's played, etc. Like so much else in U.S. society today, this is the easy, sloppy, lazy way.

KNOW THE WEATHER

Is it true that the darker the cloud the more dangerous the storm? Does the color of a cloud really mean anything or is it just the condition or reflection of light in the sky at the time? Since water particles that make up clouds really have no color, the darkness often exhibited by a rain or storm cloud actually results if there is a lack of light reflection inside the cloud—and not any color of the cloud particles themselves. A dark cloud is likely to have greater moisture content and, therefore, greater potential for rain, wind and electricity (lightning). In the summer, dark clouds which reach down almost to the earth are often the squall line front of a thunderstorm and highly dangerous for aircraft and all those they pass above. These clouds usually feature a downdraft, and contain lightning—though the greatest lightning danger from a thunderhead comes during the second half of the storm, not the first.
