"A'reading-aloud-together' ritual is the hardest thing for a family to set in motion', says Paul Copperman, author of TAKING BOOKS TO HEART."But we know the consequences: Children of all ages read better when they are read to. And the holiday season is a great time to begin. Kids are excited about Christmas, and the rich choice of holiday stories to read together with parents could help everyone make that critical emotional connection to reading as well as the educational commitment to keep going in the new year."

Where to start? Along with old favorities such as Clement Clark Moore's THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS, Copperman suggest: THE BEST CHRISTMAS PAGEANT EVER, FIRST SNOW. and from poet Jack Prelutsky, IT'S CHRISTMAS. Copperman thinks Prelutsky is wonderful, and I ;agree. Listen to his words.

challenge.

Some things do not change. God hasn't changed. Some tried to kill God in the "God is Dead" movement. Some ignore Him or don't have time for Him but God hasn't changed.

Nor has His love and forgiveness changed. He loves us just where we are right now. It doesn't make any difference where we find our lives God loves us. We can never earn the right for God to love us. He just does.

Sin hasn't changed. It may take on a new mask but it still destroys homes, lives and jobs. We can't ignore the power of evil we must do something about it. For if we don't decide we decide to let sin rule in our lives.

Life hasn't changed. We still have twenty-four hours per day given to us. We decide what we do with those precious hours. We can kill them or we can fill them, it is up to us.

Death hasn't changed. We all must face it. For some it will come quickly for others it will come slowly but it will come.

The best way we can face death is to face life day by day. Fill the hours with love, laughter and song. Fill the cup of life to its fullest. Live above mediocricy. Soar like an eagle.

Be the best you can be. And most of all let Jesus Christ fill your cup with His love, peace and forgiveness.

Sometimes we need to change. There is a saying that goes "Lord grant me the courage to change the things I can change, the serenity to accept the things I cannot change and the wisdom to know the difference." To change or not to change is not the question but it might just be the answer.

REMEMBER: The past cannot be altered; the future can. Your friend.

Blake Crowell read the scripture from Ruth 1:16-17 and a poem contributed by Charlotte Carey, and the singers followed with "Whither Thou Goest" and "Father, Hear the Prayer We Offer". Stephanie selected "Endless Love" to sing to her new husband. The recessional selection was "The Lord Bless You and Keep You." Leesa Monroe of San Angelo, Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall. An ecru crocheted table cloth dressed the bride's table. The bride's cake was a three-tiered white cake decorated with confectionery apricot roses and green leaves. The top tier held a Precious Moments Figurine of a bride and broom. Banana fruit slush was served from crystal service. Apricot rose mints were served from a crystal piece. A beautiful centerpiece of apricot roses graced her table.

The groom's table was embellished with a kmatching tablecloth and a silver candlelabra with jade candles and bows. Coffee was served from a silver coffee service. The groom's cake was a German chocolate with chocolate icing and decorated with a hunter saying, "This is better than hunting". Other silver pieces held spiced pecans, green leaf mints, and a pineapple-nut cheeseball with crackers.

A round registration table was adorned by yet another matching table cloth, but with a green underlay. In addition to the bride's book, the table held an ecru feather pen and brass candleholder with a iade candle and baby's breath. Tonya Nelson of San Marcos graced this table. Others serving in the houseparty were Natalie Allen of San Angelo, sister of the groom, Mrs. E.R. Commissioners Wrestle With Repairs And Taxes

The Coleman County Commissioners had a room full of visitors for the meeting last week when they had to wrestle with the issue of repairing the Old Burkett Bridge and with the personal property tax that has been levied on RV's in the past until the recent election allowed for their removal from the tax rolls.

Yuna V. Burkett presented a petition containing 98 signatures which asked for the repair of the Old Burket Bridge, and the placing of no parking and no loitering signs on it. In her talk to the commissioners, she stated that passage across the bridge is often blocked by cyclists or motorists. An accident on the bridge a week earlier did no additional damage to it, according to Precinct 1 Commissioner, Jack Strickland, but he advised the court that new guard rails were needed. The first question to arise was whose bridge is it, the county's or the state's. County Judge Joe Dan Lemay advised the group that the bridge belonged to the county.

In other action taken the court renewed liability insurance for the Sheriff's Department.

Listened to County Clerk Glenn Thomas explained that indications are that rates for health and accident insurance and workman's compensation insurance are probably all going up. The courthouse elevator construction has begun. The outer concrete block wall is up and entrances into the building have been knocked Reaffirmed approval of open. advertising for bids to repaint the entire courthouse interior. Judge Skelton will get the bid request ready for publishing as soon as the elevator construction is complete. Bank halances on Nov 30 total $1,014,530.93. Strickland agreed to obtain estimates for the repair costs and will see that signs prohibiting parking or loitering are posted. Burket residents were urged to take down license numbrs of any violators and give them to the Sheriffs Department for citation.

Concerning the personal property tax on RV's, the commissioners noted that among the proposals approved in the recent statewide elections was Proposition 10 which allows for removal from county tax rolls, motor home-recreational vehicles ad airplanes used for pleasure. Judge Skelton read a letter from the Association of Texas Counties to consider passing and order, which is allowed in Proposition 10, to keep such vehicles on the tax rolls. There was some confusion about what kind of RV's were included or excluded in the provisions of Proposition 10. There seemed to be no clear understanding. Commissioner Jake McCreary was heard to say he had not even figured out the difference between a Democrat and a Republican!

Coleman County currently taxes RV's but not automobiles. Counties must act to keep the listed pleasure vehicles subject to tax or lose the right to tax them in the future if they wish to do so. The Commissioners chose to keep them subject to tax.

We can put it all together for you and your business!

Some businesses don't advertise because they are puzzled. They don't know where to begin. Do they need an artist? Should they hire an ad agency? What's co-op about? Who sets the type?

If you are not now advertising but know that you really should be, then give us a call. Our ad department can do the complete job for you. We'll help you set a budget, decide what items will do best in an ad, help you locate and collect important co-op dollars, write hard-hitting copy, even supply you with art at no extra cost, and place your message before the people who really count the thousands of readers who can be persuaded to become your customers!

Newspaper advertising is powerful. It really works and the cost is well within the budgets of most small businesses. Just give us a call. We'll show you how effective newspaper advertising can ring your cash register. We'll get vou results!
