2nd Annual SAHS Alumni Tennis Tournament On Tap This Weekend

Lori Smith and David Robinett were not ready for a tennis match when this picture was snapped but were making plans to be partners in the mixed doubles at the Second Annual SAHS Alumni Tennis Tournament on tap for this weekend. Lori and her SAHS partner Julie Jones (Clifton) were state entries in 1981 in the girls doubles. David and his SAHS partner, Jody Day, started a long line of state entries from Santa Anna when they were state qualifiers in 1975 and '76, second in the state in '76 in boys doubles. Tournament events will include women's and men's divisions in singles and doubles and mixed doubles events. A luncheon for participants and their families will be served Saturday at the Presbyterian Church Fellowship Hall. There will be a dance Saturday night at the armory, featuring volunteer local and out of town musicians. Tennis play begins Friday evening at 6 p.m. and Saturday morning at 8:00 a.m. at the local courts.

Cattlemen Decide Beef's Direction For The Future

"We can now plan for the future and establish long-range goals for a more profitable beef industry, Anne Anderson, executive director of the Texas Beef Industry Council, announced in Austin.

She made the remarks after the U.S. Department of Agriculture released the results of the producer vote on the beef checkoff program that was held in May around the nation.

The overwhelming passage of the checkoff referendum by the nation's cattlemen sent a strong message that they wanted to continue funding national and local projects of education, research and promotion of beef. Nationally, 78.9 percent of the voters said the $1 contribution each time a bovine is sold is important in securing a future for beef.

In Texas, 88 percent of the 36,561 cattlemen casting a ballot approved continuation of the checkoff.

"The industry has given us a challenge to live up to," Anderson said, "and I have nothing but admiration for an industry that says 'yes' to a program such as this. I sure am proud to be a part of it."

The structure of the permanent checkoff program in Texas will remain the same as before the referendum, Anderson said. Out of each dollar invested, 50 cents will be forwarded to the national beef board to fund national programs of advertising and promotion. Forty-two cents will go to the National Live Stock and Meat Board for additional state-national coordinated programs of research, promotion and education.

The remaining 8 cents help rovide in-state programs to meet the particular needs of Texas consumers. Administrative costs under law must stay below 5 percent. Currently, TBIC administrative expenses have averaged about 2 percent.

Investment of state funds is determined be a state beef board composed of representatives of the 13 agricultural organizations involved in beef production in Texas.

Anderson said the TBIC board will coordinate state programs with national efforts to ensure each dollar is used most effectively.

"The checkoff has provided the accountability needed so producers know that the funding decisions made have been made by producers like themselves."

"The strategies and tactics used to influence consumers will include reaching them through education of physicians, dietitians, nutritionists, and children—the consumers of the future," said Anderson.

"The Beef Industry Council will strive to reposition beef as a food that is fashionable, light, healthy, wholesome, versatile, and good tasting by working with food writers from magazines and newspapers as well as the broadcast media. Through promotion, we will be able to continue to stimulate demand.

Through research we can identify new uses for our product and keep a handle on what consumers want in relation to beef."

TBIC will collaborate with the American Heart Association, Texas Affiliate, once again on two upcoming projects. These include publication of shopping tips for consumers and a seminar for food editors in August.

Council To Meet Thursday

The Santa Anna City Council will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday, June 9, at the Mountain City Community Center.

The agenda includes regular business, an executive session and a discussion on disposing of an old maintainer. City Administrator Max Eubank will make reports and accounts payable will be taken care of.

The council meets each month on the first Thursday following the first Monday of the month. All citizens are welcome to attend.

Following the musical, children and their leaders and parents were entertained with a sandwich supper at the Christian Life Center.

Larry Wardlow Retiring From U. S. Air Force

Captain Larry Wardlow and his wife Shela were recently in Santa Anna visiting his mother, Gladys Wardlow.

The couple has just completed an enjoyable three year tour of duty in Ramstein, Germany. Larry is retiring from the Air Force after over 22 years and will be attending the Medical University in Oklahoma City. He will pursue a masters in Public Health and complete specialty work in Occupational and Environmental Medicine for physician assistants.

Larry and Shela hope to see old friends at the 25th reunion of his Santa Anna High School graduating class, to be held in conjunction with Homecoming in October.

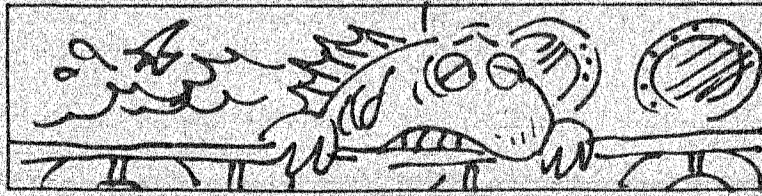

Thirty-one Attend Friendship Luncheon

Thirty-one were present for the friendship luncheon last week at the Mountain City Community Center.

Rev. Wright Price, a former pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Mrs. Price, were special guests. Rev. Price offered the table prayer.

This weeks luncheon will be potluck. Everyone come and enjoy the fellowship and good food.

Ray Owens also reports there were 24 present for "42" Tuesday evening. You are invited to join in the 42 playing each Tuesday evening at the Mountain City Community Center.

You know its going to be a bad year when:

The government notifies you that your Social Security Number has been revoked.

Your personal computer threatens to tell all.

As the moving van starts to unload next door, the first four items down the ramp are motorcycles.

Your 14-year old daughter insists Jesus never preached against pierced noses.

Your pacemaker is recalled by the manufacturer.

Your new boss asks if they have filled your old position yet.

Your ailing station wagon fails to qualify for the demolition derby.

Your church treasurer says the IRS called the other day about some of your donation totals.

Upon arriving home from the Bahamas, you can't find your Bible with 6 months of Sunday School plans tucked inside.

A 6-year old was taken to church for the first time. After she returned home, her uncle asked her how she liked the church. She answered that she liked the music fine but the commercial was too long.

Dorothy Harris Retires From Teaching

Santa Anna's longtime first grade teacher, Dorothy Harris (Mrs. Elgean Harris) has retired from the teaching profession after 30 years in the classroom.

Dorothy attended Hardin-Simmons University and graduated from Howard Payne University with a Bachelor of Science in elementary education. She taught school in Santa Anna in the 1947-48 school year before graduating from Howard Payne in 1949.

From 1960 to 1965 she taught 5th and 6th grade at Novice. She taught special education in Coleman 1965-66. After that school year she took ten years off from teaching to raise her children.

Dorothy started teaching at Santa Anna in the fall 1964 and remained here till her retirement at the end of the school year just completed. For all but one of those 24 years, she has taught the first grade.

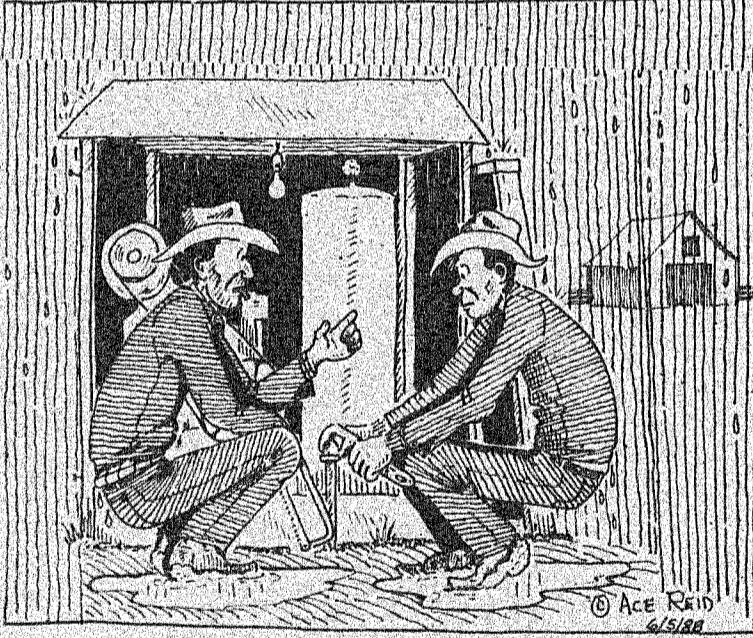

She was recently honored with a picnic social at the Charles Greenlee home near Rockwood by fellow members of the elementary faculty. She was presented with a retirement gift and many, many well wishes.

Correction

In the individual introductions of the graduating seniors that were in the special graduation issue of the News, Vernon Valdez should have been introduced as the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Green of Santa Anna and Steve Valdez of Brownwood.

He will be instructing a computer class at ASU during the summer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O.L. Pape of Seguin.

Don's Diary

By Don Rutherford

In Mark, chapter fourteen we read of a woman who gave unselfishly, all she had. Mary, of Bethany was the woman of whom Jesus said, "What she did today, will be remembered as long as the gospel is preached."

I want us to look at the guests, the giver, and the gift that night.

There was a party going on at Simon's house. There were some guests at the party that need to be looked at to envision why Jesus said what he did about Mary.

Simon the Leper was there in his home. This in itself is a miracle. For you see when a person was diagnosed as being a leper, he lost everything, even his home was declared unclean and taken from them. But a miracle had taken place. Simon had been healed by Jesus and now Simon was at home.

Lazarus was there! Just a few days before he was dead and buried, but Jesus had raised him from the dead.

Martha was there. Martha is a practical woman. She is in and out of the kitchen, doing her thing. Martha was the hostess for the party.

Judas and the other disciples were there. They were a little nervous, for Jesus had said he must go to Jerusalem to die. And now they were at Bethany, the backdoor of Jerusalem.

Jesus is there. He is enjoying His friends. He knows this is the last time he will be with them in this lifetime.

The lady of the hour is there, Mary of Bethany. She is the silent one. Only one conversation of hers is recorded in the New Testament. She is silent in words, but her acts do enough to make up for the few words she speaks.

Notice now the giver of this fabulous gift. Mary has been called a spiritual scholar. She sits at the feet of Jesus. She takes in every word He speaks. The Rabbits would sit on a tall stool or stand and the pupils would sit at their feet. Mary is seen as one of these scholars. She is a listener, not a talker.

She has been called a grateful giver. Lazarus was her brother. Now she wanted to give Jesus something that would try to repay what he had done for her.

Let your imagination go back to that night. The guests are all sitting around eating and talking. Mary is at the feet of Jesus. Then she gets up and leaves the room. When she comes back she has a small jar clutched close to herself. She kneels at the feet of Jesus for just a moment, then with a burst of energy she breaks the neck of the jar and pours out the perfume over the body of Jesus.

Now notice the gift. This perfume is "Nar" a very expensive perfume from faraway India. It costs 3:0 denari. A denari was a laborer's wages for one day. What she gave was about a year's salary.

Mary is about to find out some things about giving of one's self. She was saying "I love you." Sometimes while we say I love you, it becomes expensive.

She is also criticized. Sometime we are criticized for something we do. There is always a Judas lingering around to criticize a good deed or a devoted action. I heard the other day, there is a way not to be criticized. "Criticism can be avoided by saying nothing, doing nothing, and being nothing." So if you have been criticized lately, congratulations, you are being or doing something.

La of all what Mary did was commended by Jesus. He said "Leave her alone, she has done what she can."

Love is not easy, to love the unlovely is sometimes criticized because criticism comes easier than craftsmanship.

Love and let God take care of the other.

P.S. We like someone because. We love someone although.

Party Honors Graduates

Judy Hartman, Kay Gray and Geneva Garrett were hostesses for a recent party honoring the 1988 girl graduates of Santa Anna High School. Mothers and-or special friends were special guests.

The dinner party was held in the home of Judy Hartman and featured a meal of stuffed potatoes, fruit salad served from a watermelon boat and ice cream sundaes.

Decorations were in red and gray, the chosen colors of the graduating class. Antique metal candleholders tied with red bows and holding red candle marked each seating place along with a tiny basket for each, made by Stephanie Hartman. The decorations were given to the girls as party favors.

A video tape of the festivities was made with the announcement that it would be shown when the young ladies meet for their tenth year reunion.

Honories and their guests present for the party were Diana Castillo and Mrs. Castillo; Cynthia and Geneva Garrett; Kallie and Kay Gray; Stephanie and Judy Hartman; Stacie and Tresia Gunter; Shelly Smith and her Mother Janice Hipsher; Barbara and Sandy Williams; Laura Oakes and friend Lee Ann Musick; Becky and Betty Moore.

Robin Guerrero assisted with preparations and was a guest for the party.

Noah Project Classes Form

Volunteer training classes will be forming soon in Brownwood for the Noah Project of Central Texas.

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer may contact volunteer coordinator Jan Daniel in Brownwood by calling the hotline number of (915) 646-9574 or writing to NOAH, P.O. Box 250, Brownwood, TX 76804. Information on the Noah Project will be sent along with an application for volunteer trainees.

The Noah Project is a non-profit organization which covers 18 counties in Texas, and there is a 24-hour hotline for every county covered. Noah is available to any and everyone needing service or information in regards to family violence, whether it be emotional stress, physical, sexual or verbal abuse.

The Family Violence Trauma Shelter in Brownwood serves Brown, Comanche, Coleman, Eastland and Stephens counties.

The 800 "Ready Line" number, which went into operation on April 1 of this year, is 1-800-284-9406. This number will give callers immediate access to the Noah Ready Line and an over-the-phone assessment and immediate needs of the caller will be determined.

The Ready Line will then forward the call to the Noah Hotline in the county from where the call is being made. The hotline in that county will take immediate action for the calling person, where further services and information will be provided.

The Noah Project became a reality in September 1984 in Brownwood and is an outreach program of the center in Abilene.

Teenagers tend to skip meals, snack, eat out and consume fast foods and unconventional diets more often than any other age group, reports a recent issue of "Dairy Council Digest" published by the National Dairy Council. Although they may be well informed about good nutrition, teens may not adhere to healthy behaviors because they lack self-discipline or time.

According to the American Academy of Pediatrics, adolescents should consume a diet composed of 30 to 40 percent fat to satisfy their caloric needs. The group said no direct evidence exists to support that dietary recommendations of PRIDE IN SANTA ANNA Neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Cannon have commended them for the pride they have shown since becoming owners of this now neat home on Ave. B. In keeping with the spirit of community pride, the young couple have made a tremendous improvement in the neatness of the property and a contribution to the neighborhood to which they now belong.

Pride In Santa Anna

A revival of community pride in Santa Anna is something city officials, civic organization, and concerned citizens are working toward. In an effort to help instill that spirit, the Santa Anna News will publish a picture of property, projects or activities that demonstrate an effort to work toward that community pride. We will need the cooperation of our readers in informing us of neighbors who make an outstanding contribution to community pride and letting us know about activities that relate to the subject.

Santa Anna already has a lot to be proud of but there are areas in which we need to improve. With the citizens working together in pride and community spirit, we can accomplish these goals.

PRIDE IN SANTA ANNA The home of Mr. and Mrs. A.L. McGahey, Jr. on Wills Ave. has been brought to our attention by neighbors and friends. The neat, well kept property shows a pride in ownership and in community spirit and they are appreciated by neighbors for their caring about the neighborhood.

Lowfat Diets Not Best For Teens

Should teenagers follow lowfat diets? The experts have not reached agreement on whether lowfat and low cholesterol diets - similar to those recommended for adults - are best for growing adolescents.

Lowfat diets for teens have been recommended by some well-known health organizations to lower adolescents' future risk of heart disease. Among them are the American Heart Association and a recent National Institutes of Health consensus conference which have both recommended a similar dietary intake of fat for adolescents and adults - around 30 percent of daily calories.

But in a 1986 issue of "Pediatrics," the American Academy of Pediatrics questioned whether this diet adequately supports the energy needs of children during the adolescent growth spurt. Dr. Lewis Barnes, a well-known pediatrician and professor at the University of South Florida, agrees.

"Lowfat diets may not fulfill the caloric needs of adolescents," Barnes said. "An adolescent on a lowfat diet may need to consume much more food to meet his or her caloric needs than adolescents on higher fat diets. This increased intake is hard for adolescents to attain on a daily basis."

You Won't Notice Any Difference, But Your Country Will.

Some young men are confused about Selective Service registration. They sometimes confuse registration with the draft or with enlisting for military service. The fact is, registration is not the same as either of those.

Registration is simply a way of maintaining a list of names which could save our country six vital weeks in responding to a national emergency. And registration is a requirement for federal student loans, job training benefits and most federal employment.

The five minutes you spend filling out a simple form at the post office won't change you. In fact, registration won't make you any different. But it will make a difference to your country.

When you turn 18, register with Selective Service. It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

A public service message of this publication and Selective Service System.

30-35 percent fat for genetically normal adolescents will adequately fulfill their nutritional needs.

"To achieve these decreased levels (of fat) would also mean decreasing intake of protein, in such foods as eggs, dairy products and red meat," said Alvin M. Mauer, M.D., University of Tennessee, at the recent American Dietetic Association annual meeting in Atlanta. "The problem is that normal growth necessitates consumption of these very foods."

Another nutrient that decreases when some of these foods are avoided is calcium, a substance that teens are not consuming in the amounts recommended by the Food and Nutrition Board. Low calcium intake by teens is caused in part by their heavy usage of soft drinks as a substitute for milk.

Rockwood Extension Homemakers Club

The Rockwood Extension Homemakers Club met Tuesday, May 24, 1988, at the community center. President Minnie Bray presided over the business meeting.

It was announced that May 24 was the 99th birthday of the Rockwood (Discord) Post Office. Suggestions were made for a 100th birthday celebration in 1989.

The date for the June Family Night was changed to the second Tuesday (June 14th). Each family is to bring a freezer of ice cream or a cake.

The program and discussion on estate planning was titled "You Can't take it with You." Games of "Wheel of Fortune" were enjoyed by everyone.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Bettie Duns, to Minnie Bray, Sadie Bryan, Rose Cooper, Skeeta Cooper, Bebbie Ellis, Isabella McCutcheon, and Wilma Williams.

Historic artifacts relating to the growth of the cattle industry from the 1800s to the present can be found in the Museum of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Foundation in Fort Worth. Tools of the cowboy's trade such as spurs, barbed wire, branding irons and revolvers are on display, as well as exhibits showing women's role in the beef industry, battles with natural disasters and rustlers, and the origin of the brand inspector. The museum is located at 1301 W. 7th in Fort Worth, and is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tourism Division, Texas Department of Commerce photo.

Options for Health

by Dr. Scott White

DR. SCOTT WHITE is offered as a public service by Scott and White Memorial Hospital and Clinic in Temple. If you have a question please write to DR. SCOTT WHITE in care of your local newspaper.

Q. I have fair skin that burns and freckles easily as well as blond hair. A friend of mine said I'm susceptible to "melanoma." Can you explain what melanoma is and what are its warning signs?

A. With your skin type and hair color, you are susceptible to melanoma as are people with red hair or people with relatives who've had melanoma. Melanoma is a type of skin cancer that may begin in or near a mole or dark spot on your skin. Although it's less common than other forms of skin cancer, it is currently the second fastest growing form of cancer in America. Because melanoma can spread to other parts of the body, it's also considered one of the most dangerous forms of cancer. However, when caught in time, it is easily cured.

Warning Signs
Moles that may be potentially dangerous can usually be identified by:

- They look different than other moles. A normal mole is an evenly colored brown, tan or black spot on the skin. It can be round or oval, and is usually about the size of a pencil eraser. High-risk moles are often larger and may have a rough surface, appear to be inflamed or scaly, and may bleed easily.
- They are often multicolored. Shades of tan, brown and black are present. Red, white, blue and even pink or lavender may give these moles a multicolored appearance.
- They have irregular borders. The edges are ragged, notched or blurred.

The best way to protect yourself is to keep your exposure to the sun at a minimum. If you must be in the sun, use a 15 SPF-rated sunscreen. Examine yourself monthly. See your doctor as soon as possible if you have a suspicious looking mole or notice a sudden or continuous change in a mole's appearance.

Read Labels On Veg Oils

If you think you're avoiding saturated fat by buying food products that are advertised as "made with 100 Percent vegetable shortening," think again. The term

"vegetable shortening" on food labels also includes the highly saturated tropical oils, such as palm oil, palm kernel oil and coconut oil, according to Marilyn Haggard, a nutritionist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service. "Of the fatty acids in coconut oil, 92 percent are saturated, 88 percent of those in palm kernel oil are saturated, and 51 percent of those in palm oil," Haggard remarks. "By contrast, 41 percent of the fatty acids in lard are saturated, and only 9 percent of those in safflower oil."

DID YOU KNOW?

Few people have any idea of the role associations play in their lives each day. Here are just five of the ways these watchdogs of quality help make our lives more comfortable, safe and convenient.

- Chances are, before you even set foot out of bed you look at a clock that was probably produced by a member of the American Watchmakers Association.

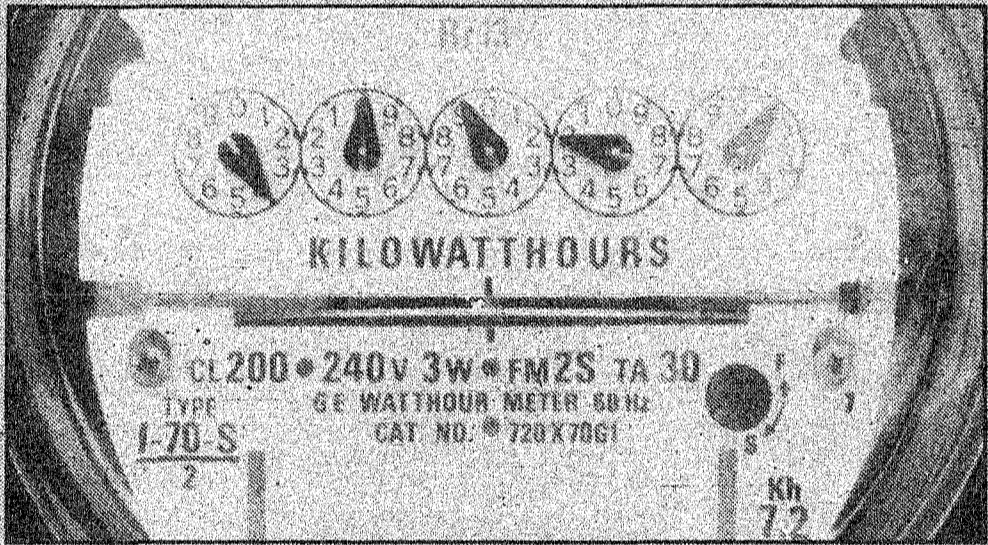

- Much of the food we eat comes directly from an association member. We enjoy fine products from local markets, most of which are members of the National Grocers Association.

- If you have a car, it's very likely it was purchased from a member of the National Automobile Dealers Association. Those who travel by bus, subway or train benefit from the expertise of American Public Transit Association members.

- Members of the American Bankers Association take care of your daily banking needs.

- At the end of the day, you may count your blessings for the American Furniture Manufacturers Association members who made your bed and the other associations that provide the essential products and services that make life so enjoyable.

GIVE YOUR ELECTRIC METER A TURN FOR THE BETTER.

You can slow down the wheels on your Electric Meter and lower Summer Cooling Bills when you follow these helpful tips:

- Set your thermostat on 78° or higher and use ceiling or portable fans to help circulate the air.
- Have your air conditioner serviced annually and once a month, check the filter. A dirty filter can keep your air conditioner from working efficiently.
- Keep doors, windows, and drapes firmly closed to keep cool air in and heat out.
- Protect ceiling and walls with adequate insulation. Make sure cracks around windows, doors, pipes and wiring are tightly sealed with caulking and weatherstripping.
- Use heat producing appliances, like ranges, dishwashers, and dryers during the cooler part of the day.
