The Santa Anna Mountaineers have placed eight on the district 15A football team. The honors were announced after a meeting of coaches from the participating schools Wednesday of last week. Santa Anna placed Sophomore run-

Library Board To Have Quilt On Display At The Bank

The Library Board has been donated a beautiful hand made quilt to be used to raise funds for the new library location renovation. The quilt is to be on display in the lobby of the Santa Anna National Bank until December 2.

There will also be an announcement there about how the quilt is to be used to raise the funds, so be sure to go by and see this beautiful work of art made by the Methodist quilting ladies and donated by a friend of the library.

Keeping You Informed About Our Schools

By Gerald Brister

Accreditation Team Affirms That We Should Be Proud Of Our School

The Santa Anna ISD was visited by Texas Education Agency staff on November 16, 17, & 18th. Two TEA staff persons and two area elementary visits are required every three to five years. The purpose of the visit was to help the district with curriculum, instruction, or any other area where problems may exist. The visits are also designed to see if the local district is in compliance with the state law, State Board of Education rules, and Texas Education Agency guidelines.

While on campus, the TEA staff interviewed most of the local teachers and support staff. They also looked at the local board policies, the district and campus plans. the discipline management plan, the at-risk plan, and inspected thefacilities. They also visited the Cooperative Alternative Program at Centennial.

The written report from TEA will not be available for six to eight weeks: however, an exit meeting was held with local administrators and board members last Friday. The accreditation team reported they found no violations or concerns. They did have several suggestions that they felt would enhance our existing programs. A list of these suggestions is as follows:

1) Language Arts teachers should work more closely together to coordinate instruction.

2) Staff development should include techniques in English as a Second Language.

Plans Made For Library Relocation Project

The Santa Anna Library Board library board will provide persons met last Wednesday with representatives of the Lions Club to discuss plans for the new location being prepared for the library. They will soon be getting estimates for the repair of the roof of the building just west of Phillips Drug which is to be the future home of the city

The Lions Club has designated the proceeds from their annual Pancake Fiesta to be held during the Christmas opening, Friday, December 2, toward the project. The

nated to be used to help raise funds

3) More flexibility in scheduling so that junior high students may take some high school subjects. 4) A demonstration table in the junior high science class room. 5) Tutorials be set up during the school day,

The TEA staff also reported to the board many positive things they found. Some of the positive comments were:

1) There is evidence that the district has and is using a planning process.

2) The Idea of short weekly faculty meetings is good.

3) The curriculum was developed by and is being used by the staff. 4) The computer lab in the high school is excellent. 5) Use of computers in elementary is good.

6) There is a great deal of creative teaching, especially in the elementary school. 7) Good coordination between special and regular education. 8) The at-risk program at Centennial was a great idea and should be adapted in other rural districts,

9) The counseling program is sound. 11) Facilities are in good repair and there is evidence of on-going

12) Libraries exceed requirements.

14) There is no evidence of cross-over in the responsibilities of

13) Evidence of good staff develfor the library. Watch for the quilt to be displayed at Santa Anna National Bank and see an announcement there about this fund raising project.

The library board would be happy to receive any donations toward the project. Keep them in mind during this Christmas season.

the administration and board. 15) The principals are the instructional leaders. 16) There is a good administrative team.

17) There is a positive climate. 18) Teachers use test data to improve their instruction.

20) The basic skills class in high school was excellent. 21) Good communication with the community.

A final remark from the leader of the TEA team was that learning was taking place in the Santa Anna Schools, and the community should be very proud of its school system.

HOUSE vs HOME "Unless the Lord builds the house, they labor in vain that build it." This morning during my "quite time" I read this verse from Psalm 127 and immediately the question came to mind, "What if the house is already built?" As most readers of this column know, we recently purchased a house in Santa Anna that was already built. Many who read this column also know that as best we can, we seek to let the Lord have his way in our lives. This includes letting Him be Lord of our home. Home? Yes, home! Therein lies the answer to my question. The house is already built, to be sure, but the home is never completely built. That is, it is not a Unless the Lord build the HOME, they labor in vain that build it. Unless the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh, but in vain. Whatever

After declaring that the rightful place for the Lord is the first place, the Psalm goes on to show that children are an heritage from the Lord. O, yes, He rightly deserves first place in the family as well. Our belief is that this is not only for the nuclear family, but also for the extended family,

WTU Puts Lower Winter Rates Into Effect

Customers of West Texas Utilities Co. will see approximately a 12.5 percent drop in their rates beginning this month. The reduction is the result of using the lower winter rates, which will be in effect six months. Using higher summer and lower winter rates is part of the States' plan to encourage energy conservation during the summer when air conditioning creates the peak demand on electricity use....

According to WTU local manager, Charles Wetsel, " a residential customer using 476 kilowatt hours; of electricity a month, the average for November 1987, will see his bell go from $43.53 to $38.02." Other customer groups will see similar reductions Wetsel said. Since mid Fall weather has reduced many customers' cooling and heating use, the actual decrease in the electric bill from September when average use was 906 KWH to November will probably be around

A DAY ON THE FARM By Amy McGough

I had gone to spend a relaxing day at the farm with my elderly grandparents. I had decided to stroll down to the trickling creek, hoping to glimpse Nikamy, a young white faced calf named for my sister and Setting off at a leisurely pace and enjoying the new spring growth, I maneuvered the old rutted dirt road filled with many rocks.

Pecan trees lined the road, casting a pleasant shade from the sun. Squirrels scampered from branch to branch, chasing each other across the road before me. Birds chirped. and scolded from the higher branches, sometimes swooping down to join in the chase.

Nearing a bend in the road, I heard soft gurgling and gentle swishing. Rounding the bend, I noticed the sparkling rays reflecting on the slowly rolling water, presenting a scene of pure enchantment.

I walked across the swaying emerald grass toward the creek bank. Sitting down, I removed my shoes and dangled my feet in the clear, cool water. Refreshed, I stretched out, enjoying the cooling of my feet with the warm sun's rays on my face.

A sudden S-N-A-P sounded in the clearing. As I jumped up into a

Delta Omicron Plans Christmas Activities

Delta Omicron held their regular meeting on November 14, at 6:30 p.m. in the Methodist Church Annex. Kathy Pearce was hostess.

President Gail Loyd presided over the business meeting. Plans for Christmas activities were discussed. On Nov. 26 a float will be entered in the Coleman Christmas Parade. On Dec. 2 the float will be in the Santa Anna Christmas parade. The Christmas Pageant was set for Dec. 4 and committees were set up. Prizes are going to be given to Christmas Pageant contestants who decorate cars and enter the Christmas Parade on Friday, December 2.

A señior citizen party will be held December 23 from 2 to 3 p.m. for all senior citizens in the com-

Members discussed names to be submitted for district offices.

The ladies then went to the home of Niki Roberts for a program on Eighteen members, one pledge and one transfer were present for the sitting position, I realized I had fallen asleep. Darkness had fallen, Lightening flashed across the sky, allowing me to see the shoes I had earlier tossed aside. I quickly tied them and hurriedly. I took off in the direction I had earlier come that day.

Rain began coming down in torrents, causing what little vision I had to blur. Thunder drummed the sky. In the distance, lightening shot down to earth. The trees now cast ceric shadows and blocked the view of my grandparent's home and the safety I knew would be there.

Racing forward blindly, unheeding the uneven ground beneath me, I tried to block out the lightening streaking across the sky. My foot struck something hard and unmoving, sending me sprawling soundly upon the rocky road.

Regaining my footing as quickly as possible, I dashed onward, I suddenly noticed a pale glow and realized I would soon be home. The light grow brighter and brighter until I could clearly see the house. Throwing myself at the door, I fell into the arms of my grandmother, sobbing uncontrollably. She knew my intense fear of lightening storms and was waiting to comfort

Scout Collection Nets Over 500 Cans Of Food

Boy Scout Troop 230 and Cub Scout Pack 230 of Santa Anna and members of the Chisolm Trail Council joined Scouts nationwide on Saturday, November 17, in collecting canned goods and non-perishable food.

The local Scouts collected over 500 cans of food from the citizens of Santa Anna, which made the food drive a big success.

This food will be used locally and distributed by the ESA in there holiday baskets. Boy Scouts who participated were delivered to consumers is used in the industrial sector-providing energy for everything from mining minerals to processing food, according to the American Gas Association.

Generating electricity accounts for about 18 percent of gas consumption and is a growing market for natural gas be cause of new high-efficiency generating equipment. Another 16 percent is used in the commercial market-heating and cooling buildings, hospitals and schools; and cooking in restaurants. The remaining amount-about 30 percent-is used in the residential market, providing energy for heating, cooling, hot water, cooking and clothes drying.

Venison An 'Exotic' Holiday Meal

(AUSTIN) Lamilies who want to break tradition during the most traditional time of year should consider serving venison over the holidays. A succident venison roast can make as memorable a meal as the linest bird.

Wild vem on is no stranger to the tables of Texas hunters who have been bagging dect since the first settlers arrived. Now commercial harvests of exone deer and antelope are making vemsor available to many people who mny never have tasted game. The meat from these ranch raised exotics is served in restaurants from Buston to Los Angeles, including such wellknown Leads of oblishments as Cafe Annie in Hauston and Routh Street Cute in Dailas. And it is starting to appear in Texas supermarkets.

Runchers introduced exotic game unto Texas for hunting during the 1930s. The animals adapted so readily to their Hill Country environment that surpluses eventually developed. Today, as demand for venison grows, exotics are creating a small but growing ranching industry.

In 1983, prompted by the development of a new American cuisine and a trend toward eating lean meat, Mike Hughes began harvesting exotic gaine. Nearly six years later the Texas Wild Game Cooperative, his Ingram-based company, hums axis, sika and fallow deer and black buck antelope that roam freely on 150 Hill Country and South Texas ranches. About 120 miles away in Burnet, the 30 member Hill Country Wild Game Cooperative field hervests the same species on members' land. Both organizations dress the animals in state-approved mobile slaughterhouses equipped with walk-in coolers. Hughes designed the system with the help of state health officials. A government meat inspector oversees each hunt.

Commercial venison tastes milder and more tender than its wild relatives, which often have a gamey flavor, "The diet of these animals is entirely different from a wild white tail deer's," said Hughes. "The game we sell is almost exclusively grass-fed. The blade of grass is what gives beef its mild flavor. It's the same with venison.

"Flavor is also affected by how the meat is harvested," he continued. Some of the worst meat comes from big bucks shot in the wild during bunting season. We harvest a lot of young males and a lot of females, and we do it in a way that ensures no stresson the animal.

Commercial game has another thing going for it-food safety. Texas exotics subsist on a natural diet free of pesticides and other chemicals. Neither are they injected or fed antibiotics, hormones or steroids.

Approaching a cut of venison with confidence is the first step in cooking it. As lean as a skinless chicken breast, venison contains less than two percent fat. This makes it ideal for anyone who wants to reduce fat consumption and continue to eat red meat. Its leanness, however, makes venison different than a pork roast or a leg of lamb. It can't be seasoned, put in the oven with a meat thermometer and left to cook on its

To compensate for its lack of fat, venison meat must be cooked with added fat, moist heat or a combination of both. Moist heat is suggested for most cuts, whether domesticated or wild, to ensure a tender, juicy dish. Marinating may enhance flavor and tenderness, Carol Guthrie, Texas Department of Agriculture home economist, suggests using a mild marinade with a light wine or fruit juice base. "Venison's mild flavor shouldn't be overwhelmed," she said.

Venison loin, the tenderest cut, can be roasted, but not without adding fat and basting continually with fat or marinade to keep it moist. Loin medallions and the best leg pieces are delicious sautéed. The rule to remember with dry-heat cooking is do it quickly and serve the meat rare to medium-rare. Overcooking will toughen and dry the venison. A four-pound loin roasted in a 400-degree oven will be ready in 25 to 30 minutes. After removal, wrap the roast in foil and let it stand 10 to 15 minutes before carving. If you don't wrap it, it will dry out almost immediately.

Moist heat is always preferable for venison shot in the wild, which should never be served pink.

Exotic venison is being market tested in more than 20 retail stores in Austin, Houston and Dallas. It can also be ordered through the mail. For more information call Texas Wild Game Cooperative, (512) 367-5875 or the Hill Country Wild Game Cooperative, (512) 833-5828, Allow 10 to 12 days when ordering through the former, a week through the latter.

During the holidays serve venison cooked in apple cider and white wine. At any other time of year, venison pot roast is sure to please the family.

Be Careful About Using Pay Cuts As Disciplinary Measure

Dear Commissioner Nabers: I have an employee who is not doing a very good job and I want to cut his pay. This employee has been with me for a few years and was pretty productive when he started. But lately I have found that some new hires that I pay considerably less are working circles around this guy. It does not seem fair for me to pay him more for doing less. Where do I stand if he quits and files for unemployment? G.S.

Tyler, Texas

Dear G.S.: As a general rule I do not recommend pay reductions as a disciplinary measure for poor performance. If the employee is capable of doing the job as evidenced by past satisfactory performance, it is better to document instances of negligence, carelessness, inattentiveness, failure to do assignments, failure to follow instructions, etc., and confront the employee with these problems in writing. These written warnings should specifically put the employee on notice that failure to improve in designated areas could result in termination.

There are times when a full demotion with simultaneous reduction in pay and job responsibilities can be well justified and may not give an employee good cause to quit. A simple pay reduction, however, with no change in job duties is often more problematic than an outright termination for welldocumented cause. (Keep in mind that I am speaking strictly from the perspective of unemployment insurance liability.)

Dear Commissioner Nabers: Our company recently won a case before the Texas Employment Commission and today we received notice that the ex-employee is taking the matter to court. She is suing both the TEC and our company. Do we need to be represented legally in this matter or does the TEC represent us?

Waxahachie, Texas

Dear F.S.: The TEC does not represent your company in an individual capacity. The agency itself is represented by the Attorney General of Texas. The Attorney General will be defending the agency's decision in the case and because that decision was favorable to your company, a win for us is a win for you. However, if you choose to forego individual legal representation and the TEC loses, you will have no right to pursue the matter further on appeal. The Attorney General will be happy to give you further information, so feel free to contact them in Austin.

Ms. Nabers represents 336,000 employers throughout Texas. If you have any questions you want answere please write Commissioner Nabers at: TEXAS BUSINESS TODAY, 614 Texas Employment Commission Building, 15th and Congress, Austin, Texas 78778.

You wouldn't make fun of cancer, would you?

Or heart disease. Or diabetes. Or cerebral palsy. But every day we unknowingly make fun of the single, most prevalent disease in America. A disease more prevalent than cancer, heart and lung disease combined. That disease is mental illness, a distressing medical disease that afflicts over 35 million Americans.

But the stigma of mental illness keeps most of those afflicted from seeking help. Which is tragic. Because today, there's more hope than ever before. In the past few years, medical science has unraveled many of the intricacies of mental illness and discovered new drugs and better therapies to treat it.

In fact, today, 2 out of 3 people who get help go on to resume productive lives. For an informative booklet about mental illness. contact the American Mental Health Fund.
