Deputy State Fire Marshal And One Other Slightly Wounded

Well, we've been telling you John Garner was going to be in there pitching and that he would very likely be the Democratic presidential nominee. If he maintains his lead in California it will be hard to stop him.

A lot of folks are dead when it comes to taking any interest in a lot of civic tasks.

Too many have gotten into the attitude that makes them get no joy out of gripping than out of trying to accomplish something.

Most any of us will tell any body from any other town that this is the best town in West Texas—but soon as a suggestion is made that we try to sell our town to other folks we lose our entrails.

Leader Predicts Speaker Will Gain State's 44 Votes By Good Margin

SAN FRANCISCO—John N. Garner, of Uvalde Texas, speaker of the national house of representatives, took the lead in the Democratic presidential primary early Tuesday as returns from yesterday's voting poured in. He moved from third to first place.

Returns from 8,624 precincts of a total of 10,271 gave:

President Hoover, unopposed for the Republican vote of the state, got a slightly larger vote than all three Democrats.

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas officials, solidly for John Garner's nomination for president, were cheered by the California returns. They said that even if he lost in that state such a strong showing would make him a real contender for the nomination.

In days like these ideas lag behind events so that by the time the leaders of thought and the mass of public opinion have come around to a policy, it is often that the remedies have been evolved more slowly than the situation has developed.

The central question of the moment is whether the policy will succeed. We are in the midst of an effort to make good the great mass of all debts, public and private, by forcing an expansion of bank-money, a rise in prices and a reduction in the value of gold.

TEXT BOOKS
Students in this school are not to be commended upon their care of text books. They seem to have the conception that these books are their own personal property; they act too unconsciously about the ownership. Books, belonging to the state and given to the students free of charge, should be in almost every prominent place in school. In the halls, unclaimed lockers, rooms, and desks, books are the books mis-placed. Many of them have been mutilated beyond repair, and future service is out of the question. Some of these text books are very valuable, and their destruction costs the state money.

It will soon come to pass that many students will make desperate hunts for their manuals, once they have lost. Books will have new owners; they must be claimed by someone. Numbers will be changed—even some stolen from their rightful owner. All this happens near the close of school simply because students had previously neglected the safe keeping and care of the books. Some students get the idea that it costs the state, and not the school. But such a belief is preposterous—what the schools of Texas cost the state, it costs them. The schools pay indirectly and suffer one way or another. Students do not realize that they are destroying property belonging to their state and that it costs them money to have it repaired. All state do not care for text books; many schools have to buy their own books. But when this aid is given for the betterment of education, those who are issued books, should give great care to their protection. These books are so built that good wear should be given for several years, and with the way they are sometimes handled around this school, their service is cut down to one or two years.

GOING TO PASS?
The close of school draws near, each day brings you closer to or further from graduation. Will you be passed or be retained? If not, can sufficient credit be given for this retaining? Why are you held back when your friends surge ahead? Are they more intelligent than you? At least, that is their opinion of you.

There are yet three more weeks of hard work for the Seniors and four for the other classes in school. Many students are on the border line and little work either helps or hurts your chances. It's not too late now to begin; but maybe next week will be. Now is the time to start. We hardly think that anyone failed because they, the students, will not put out any effort to show that they really want to pass. Our advice is to study now like you never studied before this whole year. If you have good grades, finish up the year in a creditable manner, and if not, show that you have the material if you once get your head set to do it. Remember, any procrastination may decide your grade in an unsatisfactory way.

Historic Customs Of May Day Are Observed Here

The custom of observing May Day was first originated by the ancient Romans. Flora, the goddess of spring, and increase was the object of the Romans' adoration when spring came. After the Romans' conquest of Britain, British adopted the custom of observing May Day with a gay festival. On the first of May the may pole was placed in the center of the small English village and all the young ladies clad in their best frocks would dance around the pole, each hoping to be selected Queen of May on the morrow. On the eve of May it was the custom to place hand-woven baskets filled with beautiful flowers on the doorsteps of one's friend.

Former High School Principal, Now College Dean, Talks Before Students On Education Values

Dr. Norman Spencer, dean of Sul Ross Teachers College, and a former principal of Big Spring High School, was the speaker in an assembly program held last Tuesday. "The Economic Value of Education" was the subject on which Dr. Spencer spoke. According to Dr. Spencer, "Education in the one ruling force in the world today, for it is the guardian genius of democracy. However it may also be said to be a bad thing, for it makes one dissatisfied. The only security, the only diet, that free men desire is education and the joy they get from understanding. There is always the danger of pushing education so far that one may not get out of it what he puts in.

"Education has an economic value not only to the nation as a whole, but also to each individual. The work of a nation can not be carried on by uneducated people. There is no mystery as to why the educated nations of the world are more progressive than the uneducated. Today Russia is trying to educate her people in husbandry and other industries, and already her nation is more progressive.

"Ignorance and poverty go hand in hand. Allow people to support themselves by educating them. The best educated people have been the most prosperous. The college graduate has two hundred and seventy-seven times as much chance to become prosperous as the non-college graduate.

"The money value of an education to an individual is evident. The unskilled laborer has very little to advance beyond his poor means of obtaining a livelihood. The semi-trained shop worker makes a stationary salary. The trade school graduate does a little better than the shop workers. The four extra years that college life offers means that a man's salary is double what it would be without that college education.

"Every day in school eventually pays a child $8. The average earning of the unskilled laborer is $20,000 for forty years. Twelve years in school would have added $12,000 to his earning capacity. The earnings of a 19th year student of Texas University would be to be $3,000 a year. On the basis of this figure we might assume that a high school graduate averages $40,000 in his lifetime and a college graduate $280,000.

"There is no danger of having too many college graduates, if we obtain a well-balanced system of education. However, education is not worth much unless it is used correctly. Whosoever one selects for his life's work, he should choose something that Society needs and that interests him."

Support Of Schools In Terms Of Welfare Of Child Essential Declares President Of Sul Ross

Dr. H. W. Morelock, president of Sul Ross State Teachers College at Alpine, spoke to the high school student body for a few minutes Tuesday afternoon in the auditorium before he delivered an address at a general faculty meeting of the teachers in the city system.

"Our job and the job of all people interested in the cause of education is to keep it from dropping to a lower level; to do this, we must ask for support in terms of the welfare of the child," Dr. Morelock told the teachers. "The legislature and the general public seem to look upon our educational program as something designed first for our benefit rather than to take care of the needs of those seeking an education in our state. For that reason, we must restate our objectives in such a way to eliminate any such misunderstanding.

"It is almost certain that the public schools will lose some of their sources of revenues when the next legislature convenes, and it is also

Speed To The Speedy

What an industrious group of students! Every home room period is filled with exchanging book reports, and then it is a mad rush to English class to give that report before they forget the hero's surname. Such is life in high school, and especially at the end of a semester.

We can't help wondering why some of our students get so religious all at once and rush madly to church some night, turning down all good chances for a date and all invitations to parties. Maybe there are good reasons, but we just wonder. It's so unusual!

Typists Leave For State Contests

Mrs. Flossie R. Lowe, Josephine Dabney, Grady Harland and Paul Warren left this morning to attend the State Typing Contest in Austin.

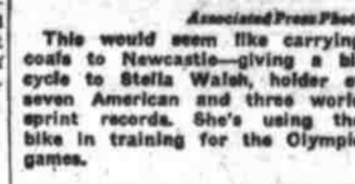

The students had the three highest averages of any of the other students who participated in the district contest held in Colorado in March. They were therefore entitled to go to the state contest. At Colorado they won a beautiful plaque for the school. And it is with good reason that Mrs. Lowe, typing instructor, and the entire school are proud of them. This is the first time the Big Spring has ever been represented at a State Typing contest.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

There is a possibility, just a vague possibility, that Mr. George Deiker of San Angelo, who has already been brought into the discussion of an all-state basketball next year, will be ineligible for competition in 1932. It seems Deiker so far forgot himself as to take part in some sort of an athletic contest back in 1927 or '28, which was very forgetful of him and which is very bad for San Angelo athletics in general and football in particular. The exact description of the evidence has not been furnished us, but so complete is it in its details that even Blonds Cross admits the probability of Deiker's ineligibility.

Three somewhat distinguished visitors toured the local eighteen yesterday afternoon. The tall, blonde Ed Hennig can be recognized at quite a distance, particularly when he is engaged in conversation with Ole Bristow, and the smiling Cherie Nix, who is going great guns this year on the Sweet-water golfing ladder, was as plain as the nose on her face. The party of the party was not known to us, but then he might amount to some-

Official Yo-Yo Day Proclaimed Friday

By School Official

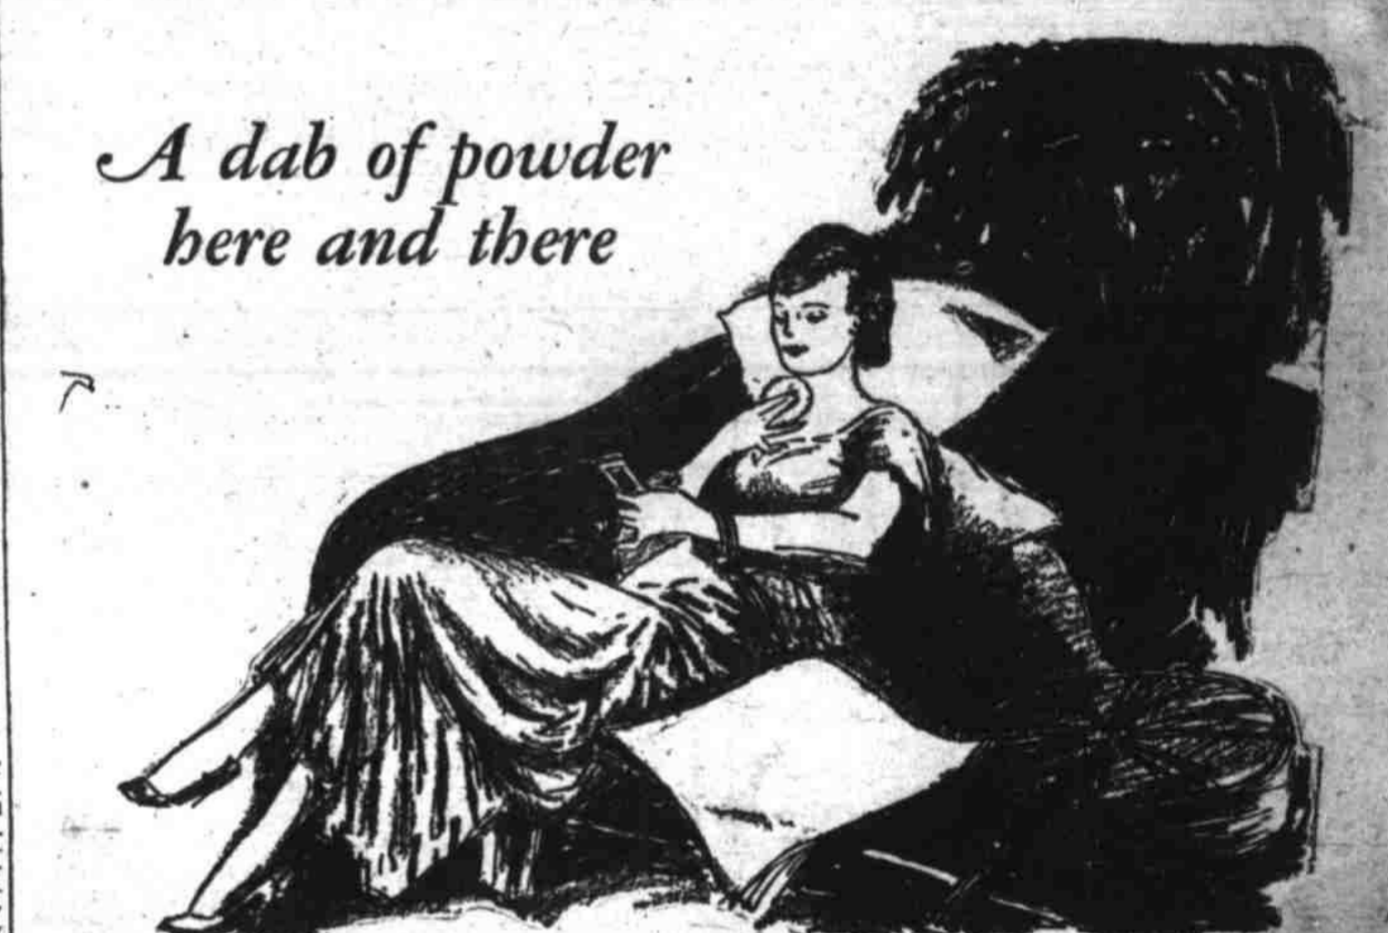

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
Whereas, yo-yos have once more become popular in our fair city and whereas, all of the students have become addicted to the habit of continuous yo-yoing, and whereas yo-yoing has officially supplanted education in every manner of means, and whereas, Walter Bunker Christina Zarafonitis enthusiastically endorses the plan, I, George Gentry, hereby do officially, in my right mind, proclaim Friday, May 6, as Yo-Yo Day in this school.

Way back ten years ago, or maybe it was year before last, the reports were pouring in thick and fast that in Dallas and Ft. Worth and points east a new rage was taking the day. Vague rumors waited to our anxious, flopping ears by traveling salesmen and other transients had it that little round pieces of wood would actually perform antics very similar to those of a rubber ball. Everyone and his crippled grandfather was addicted to the, ancient Chinese custom.

At last, upon one fateful day in smiling summer, the rumors upon a changed Big Spring. All along the main drag the loafers, the newbies, the school kids, and even the tired business men, were endeavoring to coax a pair of closed set discs of small diameter up a three foot string. Great difficulty was experienced by most of the beginners but a day of constant practice rendered even the most clumsy yo-yoer an experienced adept at the art. Bank presidents and stable help became interested in yo-yoing, as they had never been interested in just one thing before. At length, it might be stated that the crazy lasted well over two months.

About two or three weeks ago, a milder dose of the yo-yo enthusiasm hit our fair town. This time the craze has taken a different form. Instead of duration-records, the fanaticism this time calls for longer and more out-handish strings. A few queer models appear beside the long-stringed types. One lad took a pair of pie pans for his model. Another introduced the tin-key-loy model; and yet another brought out the wood-square model. It is all together common to see a thoughtless "nerd" casting his yo-yo ten or more feet and pulling it home with perfect ease.

And now the principal of our high school has announced that Friday will be Yo-Yo Day. He requests you to bring all types of yo-yos to school and help make it a success.

A dab of powder here and there is certainly worth the price

You know that a little powder now and then is well worth the money it costs. In fact, compared with the effect, the price is so trifling you hardly consider it at all. Yet the cost of electricity is just as moderate. Consider the examples below. They are typical. Where else does a penny buy more than in electric service? Electricity is cheap—use more of it.

from the starting point than when they first began. Oh well! We will give them credit for trying and doing more than some others do.

Feature Mr. Gentry teaching shorthand! That's more like a fairy tale than anything else, but he tells it that he's taking Mrs. Lowe's classes while she is gone to Austin. We just wonder if Mrs. Lowe will be taught anything when she returns by her bright students that they have learned from their new teacher.

Everybody seems to be interested now in the Senior play, especially the Seniors. They are already out trying to sell tickets. They know that their diploma are depending on that profit and they think they simply must have diplomas, therefore, they are inspired to work at least once during the year. At least, people can buy their tickets and attend the play and get their money's worth. That's what Howard Schwarzenbach says. Maybe just because he is in it.

DR. DUNNO'S ANSWERS

Why is Willard so crazy about Billie Frances? L. E.
They're both darn good kids, and have a lot in common.

Why does Erin seem so interested in the Courtesy Filling Station at night especially? F. L.
She doesn't "seem" interested; she is interested.

Why do the Barber brothers and Doc Carter always go down to the church and not go in? Dot and Joe.
Willard did go in last Sunday night. If he and the other two hadn't before, it might have been because some certain persons did not give them a cordial invitation to come in.

Who swiped something very necessary from my house at my last party? D. P. P. S.—and why? D. P.
If you'll put the "bee" on Pep Driver you can find out where they are. The thief got them so that you could advertise thru Doctor Dunno that you really did have something, once.

Higgins on "State Schools," in which church and state schools were summarized; especially interesting information was contained in this about the reform schools of the state for boys and girls.

The meeting closed with a reading of three original poems by Mrs. E. R. Watts, which were greatly enjoyed. During the business session the Federation voted to pay one dollar to place Miss Carrie Reeves' name on the roster at Austin, among the district presidents of the state.

The ABC of Vitamins And Where to Find Them

By EDWINA NOLAN Children—and adults, for that matter—need food containing the various vitamins. If they are to enjoy health and vigor and even dispositions. Take vitamin A away from a child and he is underfed. Lacking vitamin B, growth is stunted. Without vitamin C, scurvy may develop. And vitamin D is essential to assimilation of food.

Texas Topics

AUSTIN—With all the creaking of a cumbersome governmental bureau, the U. S. department of labor has begun the self-appointed job of mailing out at government expense tons of mimeographed reports in the American Legion's praiseworthy job-finding campaign, undertaken made necessary by the failure of the U. S. employment service to perform the task adequately.

No, the Garner leaders who met with Gov. Sterling didn't talk about Gov. Sterling's re-election race, nor about—as hinted in view of Sen. Walter C. Woodwards' presence—who would be the candidate if Mr. Sterling should decide to stay out of the race.

Rep. G. Y. Lee at Edens is making the best of the depression, what with a hilarious pen and ink sketch on his re-election campaign cards sketching a victim of the depression at his worst.

The most serious blow of the entire period struck near Austin when the $4,000,000 construction of Hamilton Dam power project was interrupted, momentarily on account of the Middle West Utilities receivership. Four hundred workmen were thrown out of jobs. The shutdown is indefinite.

Taxpayers have found out they can get action and relief by organizing. They are talking about cutting down the number of people on public payrolls and in ornamental, useless and political government jobs; talking of trimming public salaries into line with private incomes; talking about tossing overboard the unjust share of taxes that have been piled on home and land owners just because they have been organized.
