Fond Memories Of Santa Anna Me, A Restaurant Chef?

by Verner Elair Hamon LaMadrid

I was actually in business in Santa Anna, Texas in the year 1933

Many people may not recall the economic situation of that era but there was a depression existing. Because there were so few opportunities for young people tp go to college after high school, a lot of my friends were getting married. Especially where I lived at Dexter, New Mexico.

Shortly after my marriage, my sister Blanch and her family came to visit from Santa Anna.

My brother-in-law, Clebert Willis spent much of his time in pondering "What to do?" He was very good at coming through with ideas on how to remedy an ailing situation.

He, himself, was a candy salesman at that time and had routes which led him to Whon, Trickham, DeLeon and other places besides Santa Anna.

When Clebert saw that my new husband had no job or any prospect for one he thought it would be a good idea for us to return to Santa Anna with the Willis family.

At that time there were such things as marble machines gracing some of the restaurants and cafes. Of course, Clebert was abreast of any new gadget considered to add some substance to the family coffers.

There was a small cafe for rent, having gone out of business. I. think it was called The Blue Bonnet Cafe. Clebert began thinking how he could help my husband and me on the road to financial security and enhance his bank account at the same time. He rented the cafe.

My husband and I were to operate the cafe and Clebert was to have control of the marble machine. Blanch bought some material and hurriedly stitched up some uniforms. I think she selected pink for the uniforms and made the aprons of white Indian Head. Considering the fact that she was about as good a seamstress as I was a cook, I must admit the sewing held out much longer than the cooking.

The day of the opening of the Blue Bonnet Cafe arrived. Clebert was ecstatic as he took my husband Pat, and me, to our new business. I was praying fervently that no one came to eat as I had never cooked a meal in my life! My older sister, Whittie, who was still at home, did the cooking, or at least helped my mother. I got in on the dishwashing end of the meal preparation. But here I was! The chef at the Blue Bonnet Cafe. Clebert was exceedingly proud of the steam table. To me it looked like a huge monster, ready to devour me at any moment! Clebert had planned the first day's menu. Fortunately it was made up of his favorite food because he had to eat most of it. My prayers were answered that first day in business. Not one customer came through the door! Clebert stopped in several times. As Pat had mixed up a huge bowl of

Coming from a farm family who had bacon and eggs, biscuits, and oatmeal for breakfast, I was overwhelmed at what this man ordered.

When I asked him what he wanted, he said, "Sliced tomatoes". I couldn't believe it. It seemed so outlandish to me that I figured there must be something unusual that I did not know about sliced tomatoes. I certainly meant to find out, so I said to the customer, "Well, how do you fix THAT?"

Since the Blue Bonnet Cafe had no customers there was plenty of free time for my husband and me to devote the afternoons to doing fun things. He joined a baseball team from Glen Cove ... and I took up bycycle riding.

Every afternoon, my nephew, Eugene Willis would come to the cafe on his bicycle. We would then take it up to the empty space above the cafe. It was a very large space, with beams supporting the roof at appropriate places. Gene and I would take turns riding around and around the beams in a circle eight. It was great fun, but hardly a sufficient reason for Clebert to continue to pay rent on the place.

The Blue Bonnet Cafe, with us a managers, only stayed in business for one month. It was then Clebert decided to close the cafe and at that time he found a grocery store in Whon. And whom did he elect to run the small grocery store? None other than the newlyweds from New Mexico. But that is another story.

Summer Lawn Watering Guide

Midland

1 - 1.5 ln/5 days

El Paso

Amarillo

San Angeloje

Abilene

San Antonio

Laredo

Watering Guide The type and slope of the soil, the fertilizer that is used, the amount of water needed by plants and grass, and the efficiency of the sprinklers affect when to water.

Soll Type

Lawns on sandy soil require more frequent watering than lawns on loam or clay soils. Water can be applied less often to clay and loam soils, but it should be applied more slowly to prevent runoff.

Slope

To avoid runoff on sloping areas, place sprinklers near the top of the slope. Apply water slowly for 5-15 minutes, off 15 minutes, on 5-15 minutes, etc., until the correct amount of water has been applied.

Fertilizer

A slow release nitrogen fertilizer helps plants use less water, and a lawn fertilizer with a 3-1-2 ratio of nitrogen (N) -phosphorus (P) -potassium (K), such as 15-5-10, is recommended to help grass withstand stress. Remember, each 100 lbs. of 15-5-10 fertilizer contains 15 lbs. of N, 5 lbs of P, and 10 lbs. of K. Fertilize lightly in the spring and again in early fall.

Trees, Shrubs, Groundcover

Established plantings do well in the summer when watered about once a week, especially if mulch and soil are placed around plants. Apply enough water to wet the soil to a depth of at least 12 inches. Flooding diked areas and using low output sprinkler heads, bubblers, or drip irrigation systems help prevent runoff.

* 1-East Texas; 2-South Texas; 3-Wa	vary high	pood

New plantings require more frequent watering the first two years. Consider Texas-grown, drought-tolerant varieties, when purchasing new or replacement plants.

When to Water Grass

1.5 in/5 days

Most grasses take on a dull, dark appearance and leaves begin to roll when they need water. The best time to water is early morning.

How Much to Water

Apply enough to wet the soil to a depth of 4-6 inches. One to 1.5 inches of water is usually adequate. Use a soil probe or screwdriver to determine the depth the water actually reaches.

How to Water

1. Use a sprinkler that emits large drops of water that remain close to the ground, not one that sprays fine mist into the air.

2. Determine how much water your sprinkler applies:

Corpus Christi

Houston

.75 - 1 In/5 days

- A. Set 3 to 5 empty cans at different distances from the sprinkler with the last can near the edge of sprinkler coverage. B. Run the sprinkler for 30 minutes.
- C. Add the inches of water in all cans and divide the total inches by the number of cans to obtain an average.
- D. Multiply the average by 2 to determine how many inches of water are applied in 1 hour.

3. Locate your area on the map to find out how many inches of water to apply every fifth day to bermudagrass during June, July, and August. Buffalograss needs about 25% less water, and St. Augustine needs about 15% more. Subtract any rainfall from the amounts given on the map to determine how much water to apply.

Books Are Needed For Library Book Sale, Funtier Day

Books are coming in for the book sale on May 13, Funtier Day, to benefit the Library Building Fund.

A large number of paper back books have been donated but more are needed to provide a good selection. There are a large number of Readers Digest Condensed Books. There have been some westerns promised. There Stanislaw was surprised with the special program, with the gymnasium of the Christian Life Center decorated with a banner and a poster, and the front table decorated with a miniature mailbox that held cash and checks, gifts from church members and Sunday School classes.

Mike Coffee, Sunday School Director, was master of ceremonies. Ann Langford read an original poem to introduce the "roast".

Those entertaining the honorce and others were Donnie Neff, chairman of the pulpit committee that recommended "Brother John" ten years ago, and others of the committee, Elgean Harris, William Brown, Oma Dean Horner and Barbara Kingsbery. Suzanne Bass, the other committee member, was not present.

Others taking part in the program were Marty Donham, Deborah Long, Scott Patterson and Rose Bass, a former church secretary. Gail Horner, current secretary, presented Stanislaw with a plaque from the church.

Local Lady Honored Sunday With 95th Birthday Events

By Barbara Kingsbery

Few people reach the age of 95 years, and fewer still of that age can claim to be in good health and enjoy the activities they choose.

One such woman is Mrs. Hardy (Mac) Blue of Santa Anna. She observed her 95th birthday on Monday, May 1. following a busy weekend with family and friends for celebration of the event.

Mrs. Blue was honored at the Sunday morning services at the First United Methodist Church where she is a long-time member, Sunday School teacher and leader. Church members and family members paid tribute to her long and faithful service to the church and to the community, and a basket of flowers was presented to her in appreciation. In an earlier presentation, members of the Hays-Blue Sunday School Class gave her a gold engraved pendent. Mrs. Blue has been a teacher of the class for about 50 years, sharing teaching responsibilities with the late Annabelle Hays in earlier years and with Mrs. Gladys Hunter in later vears.

Mrs. Blue was not always a Methodist. She was one of eight children born of the late John A. and Lula (Richey) Allen in Goldthwaite, and was reared in the Baptist Church. It was many years later that she joined the Methodist Church where her husband was an active member.

served for two years as pastor. During his pastorate here the membership has grown and major projects have included construction of the Christian Life Center, construction of the parsonage and the sponsorship of the Cordero Mexican Mission.

The ten years marks the longest single pastorate during the 109-year history of the local church.

Born in Goldthwaite in 1894. Mrs. Blue attended the Goldthwaite schools and graduated as salutatorian of her class in 1912. Upon graduation she and several of her friends took the teacher's exam and she was certified to teach school. Her first assignments were in rural Mills and Hamilton county schools, with the summers spent attending Howard Payne College. In 1916 she applied for a job in Santa Anna and was hired to teach sixth grade. She was familiar with this community, having visited here with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Robin, since a child.

"Miss Mae", as she was known to her students..and still is called today...married Hardy Blue, a young Santa Anna businessman, in 1921. Her teaching career was postponed fo a few years after the birth of the couple's first child in 1923. She later was a frequent substitute teacher in the local schools, and in 1925 taught high school math and English and was sponsor for the Class of 1926, which each year includes her at their annual class reunion.

From the late 1920's Mr. Blue worked with her husband at the family hardware store, with much time spent with church and school activities. She joined the Self Culture Club in 1922 and is still a member, having served in every office and twice as president. She was also a member of the Garden Club for several years. She is now a member of the Coleman DAR Chapter.

She was a teacher in the youth department of the Methodist Sunday School for many years until younger women of the church organized the Hays-Blue Class. Mrs. Blue has served on the administrative board and has been a member and leader in the Methodist Womens' organization.

After Mr. Blue's death in 1960, Mr. Blue continued to operate the hardware store until it was sold to the Galloway - Eubank families to become G & E Hardware Co about two years later.

Although Mrs. Blue has help with heavy housework, she lives alone and is in charge of her household. She frequently has lunch with other senior citizens at the Nutrition Center, enjoying the meal and visiting with friends. She also enjoys playing "Eighty-Four" with a group of triends at Trickham when transportation is available, and misses frequent games with Santa Anna friends in past years, most of whom are no longer alive or able to take part.

In reminiscing about earlier times, Mrs. Blue recalled seeing Halley's Comet in the early 1900's. She and her sisters were awakened during the night by their mother to see the historic event. She recalls vividly the bright light and sweeping "tail" with flying sparks.

As a child of a Santa Fe Railway employee, Mae often made trips by train, and it was at the railroad crossing in Cleburne that she first saw an automobile. She describes it as a buggy with a motor, waiting for the passenger train to go by.

While attending Howard Payne College in July 1918, she and some college friends ran outside at the sound of motors and saw two airplanes overhead...her first sight of the World War I flying machines.

Looking back is not the style of this young-at-heart lady. She is enjoying the opportunities and pleasures of each day with family and friends.

Joining Mrs. Blue for the birthday celebration were her children, Bettie Ruth Henderson of Santa Anna and John Hardy Blue, his wife Pat and son Michael, of Layfayette, Louisiana. On Sunday a number of nicces and nephews and their families joined the family for the church service and later were dinner guests at the home of a granddaughter, Orabeth (Henderson) McIver, south of Santa Anna, Included were Harold and Mary (Mills) White of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Spencer, Clay and Kyle of Fort Worth; Ellen Tischer of Goldthwaite; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kennedy of Wills Point; Diane Rains and family of Zephyr; JoAnn Newsom and Carla of Brownwood: Harriet Bailey and daughter of Houston; Susan Hallford of Irving; Mr. and Mrs. Elmon Kerby of Comanche and Sue Wilson of DeLeon.

Assisting with the family party were great-grandchildren, Reece, Grady Clay, Betsy and Sally McIver.

Tell someone about our library and what we are trying to do. Word gets around and the library benefits.

A Santa Anna lady told her sister about the library building project and about the upcoming book sale. The sister mentioned it to a friend in San Antonio. The friend said she had some books she needed to clear out of her home and that she would donate them to the Santa Anna Library.

It took the books several months to find their way to Santa Anna. First they were boxed and moved to the garage, then to another garage in San Antonio. They made the trip to Mason and from there to a ranch near Santa Anna. Finally the last of 9 boxes of books arrived in Santa Anna for sorting and storage.

We are very excited when we begin opening boxes. It was a wonderful selection of books. Most of them are like new, hardback books. There are a number of art books with large pictures of paintings. There is a book about wildflowers. I contains 400 9X12 color pictures. There are several nature study books put out by National Geographic. There are best selling novels and many other wonderful books.

Most of these books will become part of the Santa Anna Library when we have room for them in our new location. When we move to the new location, there will be new books in the art, history, natural history, biography, fiction, nonfiction and poetry sections.

There will also be some new paperback books placed in the library. Some of the books will be sold at the book sale.

Getting In Touch Without A Toll

American consumers could save a substantial amount on their monthly telephone bills by using toll-free 800 numbers more often, according to information compiled by AT&T. Of the more than 23 billion long distance phone calls logged in the U.S. last year, less than one third went to toll-free 800 lines.

Dialing a toll-free number means you can let your fingers do the walking from coast to coast at no charge. The huge variety of 800 number services means consumers can phone for free for many different things, rather than paying for the call themselves.

For example, there are hundreds of consumer hotlines, government information centers and other organizations that can answer your questions or give free advice. Local tourist bureaus can send free literature about vacation spots. There are literally tens of thousands of useful 800 numbers available, but only a small fraction of them are widely advertised.

The key to making the most of toll-free numbers is knowing where to find them. Perhaps the best resource for 800 numbers is the AT&T Toll-Free 800 Directory. The consumer edition lists over 60,000 organizations in 512 different yellow page categories, literally putting the nation at your fingertips.

Individual copies can be ordered by calling AT&T at 1-800-426-8686. Each consumer edition costs $9.95. There is also a business edition for $14.95. Postage and applicable sales tax are added to each other.

The next time you pick up the phone to make a long distance call, be a savvy consumer. Check to see if the organization you are calling has a toll-free number, and 800 your way across the U.S.A.!

FOR GENERATIONS CANCER PLAGUED THIS FAMILY. THEN WE CAME INTO THE PICTURE.

It's a tragic coincidence that cancer has taken so many members of this family over the years.

It took Frank Domato in 1961. Patricia O'Hara Brown in 1974. And Serafino Gentile in 1982

But the fact that the chain of tragedies has now been broken is no coincidence at all.

Over the last 40 years, research programs supported by the American Cancer Society have made increasing progress in the treatment, detection and prevention of cancer.

In 1985 alone, the Society funded over 700 projects conducted by the most distinguished scientists and research institutions in the country.

So it's no coincidence that in 1986. cancer did not take Debra Gentile-Frank Domato's great-granddaughter. Just as it didn't take hundreds of thousands of others who have been successfully treated for the disease.

You see, we are winning. But we need you to help keep it that way.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY Help us keep winning.

Marketers In Our Mailbox: How They Find Us

If you're like me, your mailbox is filled with a growing number of catalogs and sales fliers. Maybe you bought a T- shirt by mail a while ago, and now you get a whole collection of clothing catalogs every week. It just goes to show you that sellers are getting better at finding likely buyers.

When I ask around, it's not hard to find friends who like to shop from home. But it's just as easy to find the ones who think "direct marketing" (as it's called) is nothing more than junk mail. Some think their privacy is being invaded. Others just want to have a say in the kind of sales offers they -- or their children -- see. Either way, good direct marketers are wise to do everything they can to pinpoint people who would be interested in their products, and to avoid bothering those who aren't. I found myself wondering where direct marketers get lists of names to help them target mailings. How do they find us? Well, I did some checking and here's what I found. Direct marketers get lists from a variety of places -- logs of licensed drivers and records of birth and marriage certificates, for example. (It's public information in most states -- you or I can look it up if we want.) Also. sellers of similar products often make extra money by renting lists of their own customers to each other. In addition, credit bureaus and other firms have huge, computerized files of data collected from assorted forms we've filled out (loan applications, etc.) or information about us that our creditors gave them. I found out these companies can't sell or even give away credit information about us to just anyone who asks. It's against the law. It must be someone like a bank or employer, and even then only when we're applying for a loan or job.

But these companies can tell their computers to pick out people with similar credit habits or histories and to put them on a list. Then they rent the lists to firms that sell things by mail.

I was concerned that if my name was on one of these lists, my buying habits and how often I use a credit card would be there, too. Not so. It's names and addresses, and everyone on the list has something in common with me. It could be that we all have a certain credit card or earn a certain amount of money. In any case, it's some- thing the list renter thinks makes us more likely to buy the product or service being offered.

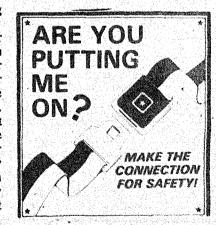

But maybe you don't want your name on these lists. What can you do? First, you can write your electric company, lenders and other companies and ask them not to give your name to direct marketers. Also, if you write the Direct Marketing Association, they'll have their members take you off their mailing lists. After all, nobody wants to spend money to tell you about an item that you simply won't buy. But maybe you want more direct mail. Well, they can take care of that, too. You can write the DMA Mail Order Preference Service at 6 East 43rd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Euble Smart was created in 1983 to help the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs promote consumer awareness.

In 1895, an austere sect known as the Israelites founded the town of Israel in East Texas. Make no mistake about their priorities: the deed to their church, the New House of Israel, is recorded in the Polk County courthouse to "Lord God of Israel, Creator of Heaven and Earth.'

first and foremost reason is I am a parent who is concerned about the education of our children. As an educator, I have had the opportunity of working in numerous school systems and can draw from these experiences."

She sees the greatest need of the school district at this time is to survive and remain an institution of primary and secondary education for our community. She adds that due to a decrease in our tax base, a very conservative approach is necessary to insure that the school will be here for future generations. She states that the school is the hub of our community. "Therefore we must be very much aware of our spending not just for today but also for the future."

The one particular thing she would like to see accomplished is for all students to develop to their fullest potential, not only academically, but also develop character traits that will enable them to meet the challenges of the future.

Roddy Dean

Incumbent board member Roddy Dean is engaged in sales and farming. He and his wife, Debbie, both graduates of Santa Anna schools, are the parents of Jason, age 15, and Julie, age 14, both students in the Santa Anna ISD.

Roddy feels his past six years of service on the school board qualifies him to once again be a candidate. He adds that he has lived here all his life and plans to remain here in the SAISD. "I have been, and will continue to be concerned about the quality of education our youth receive here in the local school district".

When asked about what he feels is the greatest need of the school district at this time, Dean had this to say, " I feel we have made very positive steps in the field of better education for the youth of the SAISD and we need to see these steps are maintained and upgraded. I also feel that we need to upgrade some of our school facilities and better maintain those we have. In the matter of education and school' property, we need to see that the tax payer's dollar goes as far as possible.

On the matter of what particular thing he would like to see accomplished, he commented, "Although our tests scores are high and very acceptable, I feel that we could improve them even more. Also, I feel that the sports and music programs we have in our schools are a great

Dickie Horner

Incumbent school board member Dickie Homer is a real estate broker. He and his wife, Gail are the parents of two daughters, Brandi age 13, and Briana age 9. Both are students in the Santa Anna schools.

He feels that the fact he is a parent of two Santa Anna ISD students and the fact that he has served the past three years on the school board and is aware of the problems and needs of the school district, qualifies him to serve. He feels this experience will allow him to take a more objective stand on issues facing the school tr 'ay.

Horner sees as .c greatest need of the school district today is the continued upgrading of all academic subjects to help students who plan to attend universities and trade schools.

The particular thing he would like to see accomplished is that of "Achieving better communication between parents, faculty, administration and board members".

Bill David Martin

Bill Martin is seeking to retain the place on the school board to which he was appointed when another member moved from the school district. One year remains on the unexpired term. He is a truck driver for Mid-Texas Grain. Bill and his wife, Becky, have two daughters, Buffy, 6, and Brandi, 10, both of whom are students in SAISD.

Martin feels he is qualified to be elected to the position since he had previously served for a number of years before his appointment to his current position, and is well acquainted with the need of the school, educationally as well as financially.

Martin says the greatest need of the school district at this time is school finance. He adds, "The trend to place more and more financial responsibility on local districts and more state mandated programs without funding to pay for them will make it more difficult for the small school districts to survive.

When asked what particular thing he would like to see accomplished. is elected, he answer, "I would like to see SAISD maintain and improve the quality of education while keeping the district in a sound financial condition.

He sees the greatest need of the school district at this time is that of providing an equal educational opportunity for all students. He says, "Some student's individual needs are not being met, they are falling through the cracks in our educational system and consequently are not receiving the education needed to become a contributing part of society.'

The particular thing he would like to see accomplished is that of making school an enjoyable environment for students and teachers, without sacrificing the quality of education.

R.E. (Eddie) Jones

Raymond Edward (Eddie) Jones, a candidate for the Santa Anna ISD board of trustees, is engaged in sales. He and his wife, Jo, a Coleman County Deputy Sheriff, are the parents of three children who are students in the Santa Anna schools. Son Ray is a freshman student, and daughters Darla and Danna are 7th and 6th grade students. Jones feels he is qualified to serve as a member of the board since he has held managerial positions and has been in public relations for a number of years. He says, "I am honest, and will make a stand for what I believe is right".

When asked what he thinks is the greatest need of the school district at this time, he said, "I believe the school board needs to take a more active part in the administration of school policies and positions." That is also the particular thing he would like to see accomplished during his tenure on the board, if elected.

ence, and his association with the taxpayers of the school district qualify him as a candidate for the board of trustees. He feels the greatest need of the school district is to assure each individual student the highest quality education possible. "I feel a good basic education is essential to the future of this community, this state, and this nation. If elected to the board of trustees, I would nake every effort to work toward this goal."

In Particular, he would like to see Santa Anna schools excell in all areas of academics, athletics, band, and U.I.L. competition. "I would like to see this accomplished with the prudent use of the taxpayer's money.'

Gary Absher

Incumbent school board member Gary Absher is Postmaster of the local post office. He and his wife Teresa are parents of two sons, Toby and Dennis, ages 16 and 18. Both are students at Santa Anna High School.

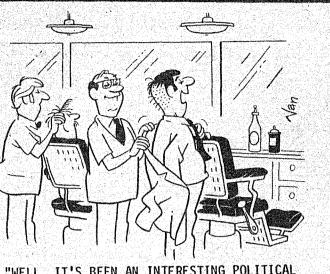

He feels he is qualified to be a school board member as he has completed one 3-year term as a Santa Anna ISD trustee. He explains that he meets the public daily and has good insight into the problems and needs of the parents and students.

When addressing the matter of the greatest need of the school district at this time, Absher states that both the legislature and the annual auditors have challenged every classroom in Texas to make improvements in three areas -(1) To put more effort into learning to read in the first years of education, (2) To improve instructions to minority students, and (3) To establish honor classes for excelling students.

His answer to the question of what he would like to see accomplished is as follows: " Our education programs and C.A.P. school is our greatest contribution toward eliminating drop-outs. I would like to see us "press toward the mark" with our tax dollars now for these programs rather than pay the high cost of drop-outs later. Each dropout is a failure of our educational system in meeting the needs of the student."

Use Your Sun Sense

You may be looking forward to a "fun in the sun" getaway during the cold weather months, but don't let your skin pay the price. It's important, say dermatologists, to protect your skin with a good sunblock while you're relaxing on your tropical isle. It's also important to keep your skin smooth and supple once you're back home.

will be officially recognized in May by the State of Texas.

Separate proclamations signed this month by Gov. Bill Clements have declared May as Older Texans Month and the week of May 14-20 as Texas Senior Centers Week.

May has also been designated as Older Americans Month by President George Bush.

Clements lauded senior centers for offering "an open door" to all seniors who need services such as meals, transportation, physical fitness programs, volunteer opportunities and creative activities.

The governor also urged all older Texans to visit senior centers in their communities and take part in their activities there.

The Texas Department on Aging maintains a network of more than 500 senior centers in all areas of the state. Seniors or others who want to find out more about these senior centers may call the Department of Here's a surprising fact about darts: a bull's-eye isn't always the best score you can get. While playing the most common darts game, "501," darters with a keen eye and a steady hand begin with 501 points and attempt to reduce their score to zero before their opponent. The key is the player must hit the double score ring that reduces your score to exactly zero in order to win.

According to the American Darts Organization, over a million Americans play darts regularly and opportunities to compete are increasing. For instance, the Lucky Lights Dart Series is a 26-market US tournament with a total of $500,000 in prize money
