Find Time To Wind

Daylight Savings Time Begins At 2 A.M. Sunday

"I don't mind 'falling back", but I hate "springing forward'." That is what we have heard several say this week as we look to changing our clocks again at 2:00 a.m. Sunday morning when Daylight Savings Time begins.

Don't know about you, but this writer will run her clocks forward an hour before retiring for the night, rather than getting up at 2 a.m. to do it. We "lose" an hour no matter when you perform the task. Of course, we don't actually lose an hour, but for most of us, it does take away an hour of sleep that it seems to take forever to make up again, or at least it seems that way to mel

Oh well, just had to air that annual gripe one more time! (As you might expect, I don't complain when I gain that hour of sleep back in October when we 'fall back').

The Slates Are Full & The Races Are On

Since Wednesday of last week was the last day to file as a candidate for the upcoming May 6 local City and school board elections, the races have now taken shape and the candidates are "off and running". Mayor Thelma Brooker did decide to place her name in contention last Wednesday and will be opposed in the election by Gale Allen Brock. In the City Council race, incumbents Jim Spillman and Quinton Daniel are joined by Craig Terry and Joseph Baker.

It turns out that the school board election has brought quite a bit of interest with nine candidates now seeking four places on the board of trustees for the Santa Anna Independent School District.

Seats up for grabs are those now

BY combining the energies of Adopt-A-Highway groups, we are reminded that trash belongs in a trash cau....not among the bluebonnets. DON'T MESS WITH TEXAS and the Adopt-A-Highway programs are making Texas a state of which we can be proud. Almost a 6 percent reduction in roadside trash has been made in just the three year life of the programs. This year, another local group has entered the program and will be cleaning a two-mile stretch of U.S. Highway 283, 13 miles south of Santa Anna. The new group is from the El Rancho de los Tres Diablos and will include Paul Jenson, Mary Jenson, Bill Book, Andy Shepherd, Jack Tucker and Diane Tucker. Why not make this clean-up day a start for sprucing up and preparing to have our town looking spic and polished for Funtier Day coming up in May.

Rain fell in the Santa Anna area Monday night and again in the early morning hours of Wednesday. Al-

April Fools

In France the victim is an "April fish." In Scotland the fooled person is called "gowk," which means a cuckoo, the emblem of simpletons. For centuries, the custom of playing practical jokes on April 1 has been observed in countries around the world; yet its origins are unknown.

One theory relates the strange holiday, sometimes known as All Fools' Day, to the vernal equinox, which occurs on March 21. This is a time when nature "fools" mankind with sudden changes in the weather.

Santa Anna Elementary Will Offer Program For Gifted And Talented (K-6)

In order to serve the needs of all students at Santa Anna Elementary School grades kindergarten thru 6th, a Gifted/Talented Program will be operational beginning with the 1989-90 school year.

The rest of this year (1988-89) will be used for the purpose of identifying students and program development. Entrance into the Gifted and Talented Program is determined by a four phase process: nomination, screening, selection, and admittance.

Nominations are made by teachers, counselors, parents, and others using forms provided by the school. All nominations become a part of a nominating pool which is then screened.

A committee consisting of three teachers, the counselor, and an administrator will conduct the screening process. This committee will not know the names of the students. Students will be identified by a number only.

Students who have been selected to participate in the Gifted and Talented Program will receive a letter regarding their participation. The student's parents or legal guardian will need to sign the letter giving permission for their child to participate.

It is important to remember that not all children benefit from a gifted and talented placement. The decision about nomination and approving of admittance into the gifted and talented program should be very carefully considered.

The Santa Anna Elementary (K-6) Gifted and Talented Program is not being organized around the concept of pulling students out of class for separate instruction. The program will be based on extending classroom work into high levels of critical thinking. The program for 1989-1990 will involve "Language Arts". The program may be extended in the future. But, only after the "Language Arts" program is on a firm foundation.

Should you have a question regarding the program or placement of your child, please feel free to arrange a conference,

Thoughts From Our Pastors

Jasper McClellan Presbyterian Church

BLESSED TO BE A BLESSING ---A RESPONSE TO THE RESSURECTION OF JESUS CHRIST

The Bible makes it clear that Christians have been blessed in order that they might in turn be a blessing to others. "Freely you have received, therefore give freely." Just what is it that we have received so freely? Everything. Anything of any lasting value that we have received has been given to us by our Heavenly Father.

We have just celebrated the resurrection of Jesus the Christ. Without this resurrection ALL of life would be futile. Every great and precious promise that Jesus made was validated when He rose from the grave. The meaning, the message and the motivation of the glorious resurrection have been given to us freely. We have been blessed indeed.

We have been blessed with physical life, spiritual life, (salvation), wealth, time, talents, strength, and wisdom. But have we used these to bless others? On that resurrection Sunday, the message was loud and clear, "HE HAS RISEN!" Alleluia! The subsequent messages seem to be largely ignored by many; the message to "go tell others" -- may have remained silent and not witnessed to others.

What have you done in the last three months with your life, wealth, talents, strength, and wisdom? How many remained indifferent or 'lukewarm' as the Bible identifies it, while a few seem to labor tirelessly.

Recently I realized there were scores of people in our community who are retired, financially independent, homes paid for, children grown and gone, or who have no children and have absolutely no responsibilities except self care. They seem to be completely self-sufficient and sense no need of others, no debt owed to society, no willingness to be involved in the church or community. Shame on these lukewarm indifferent people. Shame, shame on those who are so cold.

People who need people are not the luckiest people in the world, as the old song said. People need people because God designed people to need people. One of God's strongest warnings is for those who consider themselves self-sufficient; glorying in their own strength, riches, and wisdom. Perhaps equally as strong is the warning to the lazy person who CAN work, but refuses to do so. No where does the Bible command retirement. It does command, however, that we should labor six days a week, rest and worship on the remaining day, EVERY WEEK for a lifetime.

How different it would be in our churches, and yes, in our community if each and every person realized how richly and freely he had been blessed by God, and then was fully obedient (as far as able) to bless others by passing it on. The only way we can be good stewards of that which has been given us (everything) is by passing it on.

Has God given you life? Share it with others. Has He given you forgiveness of your sins and eternal life through Jesus Christ? Then, as Paul says, "Share this Good News with others, for some do not yet have the Knowledge of God, I speak this to your shame." Has He given you skill, strength, riches, wisdom, talents, time, or a telephone? Then use them for the good of many, for the glory of God.

I know a person who is homebound but uses her telephone daily to encourage others. She maintains a lengthy prayer list as she obediently intercedes for others. Many encouraging letters have her return address simply because she cares.

What are you doing with the blessings you have received from God, whatever they are? If you are not using them to bless others you are betraying the Master's trust in you as surely as did Judas. Christ is risen indeed!

by Alice Anna Spillman

It's nice to know people are reading our column. How do we know? Several caught the change in my name and mentioned it! Louise McCaughan's son-in-law, David Karthauser, caught me at the Easter sunrise service with the news. I'll always be a Guthrie and most people still think of me that way. No wonder those at the newspaper forget to add Spillman to the name. Even Jim and Monique accept this situation

Out of town visitors at the sunrise service were Mrs. Scott Wallace(Mary Hooper) of Waco, her two daughters and granddaughters. They heard some of us talking about the library and recalled Scott Wallace's sister, Cody Wallace Matthews, and her interest in education. Mrs. Wallace left a contribution for the library building fund. Each donation is another step toward renovating the building we plan to move the library into and we certainly appreciate the interest of these former Santa Anna folks.

Mrs. Charles Wetsel came by with a box and two sacks of books. We will use some in the library and others will be placed in the book sale we are planning. Keep the library in mind when you are doing your spring house cleaning. If you have books that no longer appeal to you, someone else may love them! Chanda Simmons received a book among her Easter gifts. We hope the Easter Bunny and parents left books for other boys and girls.

Coleman County Cancer Society Has Variety Of Services Available

Fund Drive Beginning Saturday

The Coleman County Unit of the American Cancer Society is beginning its annual fund drive Saturday and will continue thru April 15. Bettie Henderson and Laverne Evans are in charge of the drive for Santa Anna. Be ready to support this worthy organization when a volunteer comes calling on you.

The American Cancer Society in Coleman County announced that it has a variety of services available to cancer patients without charge.

"A lot of people don't know about what we can do for cancer patients right here in Coleman, Santa Anna and other County communities", said Terrell Graves, service and rehabilitation chairman for the Coleman County ACS unit. "All we need in most cases is permission from the patient's doctor." Loan equipment such as hospital beds, wheel chairs, walkers, and commode chairs are available as well as gift items including eggcrate mattresses, sheepskins, bed items. "We also try to help patients and their families with literature and information on other agencies," said Graves. Sometimes patients want to know more about cancer or they need to know what assistance might be available here.

When most people think of the American Cancer Society, they think of cancer research. It is true that the American Cancer Society puts millions of dollars into cancer research, but they also feel it is important to work with local people and help cancer patients.

Anyone needing more information on the services available for cancer patients can call Terrell Graves at 625-2377, of during weekday hours contact Mrs Georgia Hughes, R.N., at Overall-Morris Memorial Hospital, 625-2135. County residents needing these services may call Victor Cardinas, 636-4318 for toll-tree service and he can relay the message to service chairman Graves.

Watts from waste: The same high-temperature technology that enables cities to burn garbage for energy is helping rid Pennsylvania of millions of tons of mine waste. Today several Keystone state power plants are being fueled by culm. Once considered a bothersome byproduct, culm is the impure bits of coal that are left over after mining. And there's plenty of it. National Wildlife magazine reports there may be 3 billion tons of culm in Pennsylvania alone. Besides being plentiful, culm has another plus. After burning at high temperatures, the ash residue can be used to restore mined lands.

Reader Shares Poem By Jennie Boyd Oakes

The following poem is shared with us by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Pearce. The poem, written by the late Jennie Boyd Oakes, was found among treasured articles owned by Mr. Pearce's mother, the late Mrs. John Pearce. There was no title for the poem.

"I do not think that age will ever harm you

I do not think that youth will pass you by

So long as age-old scenes can charm you,

Frail flowers, music, a dawnswept sky.

I do not think that age will ever break you,

I d do not think that you will ever tire.

So long as beauty's call can stir you,

So long as you are warmed by faith's fire.

I do not think life's magic can be broken

So long as you may dare to live.

Fear, Caution, Dread; Whoever said they mattered?

This world still holds more, richer gifts to give."

Price Reunion Honors Thelma Price On Birthday

Patsy Price England of Dallas writes that she is much embarrassed by the fact she believed the Santa Anna News no longer existed and sent the article concerning her mother's birthday celebration to another county paper first. She goes on to say, if she had realized we were still around, the article would most certainly have arrived here first as this is where the family truly had its real roots.

Yes, Patsy, we are still going strong, as your brother reminded you! However, the editorship changed a number of years ago. We are happy to publish your account of your mother's birthday celcbration as it originally appeared recently in the Coleman Chronicle.

by Patsy England

A family with roots deeply, steeped in Coleman County will gather in Kingsland, Texas on Easter week- end for a reunion and to honor Thelma Boyd Price on her 80th birthday.

An Open House Party on Saturday, March 25, will be hosted by her children and grandchildren at the Kingsland Community Center from 5 to 10 p.m. Approximately 200 friends and family are expected to attend, from Texas and six other states.

Special Honor Guests at the reception will be her "siblings" on both sides of her family. They are her brother, Whit and Alva Boyd of Ft. Worth (A Tarrant County justice of peace and judge for many years, Mr. Boyd will be 94 in November); her sister, Veo Waldrop Pirtle, a well-known lifetime resident of Coleman (retired secretary of the School Board). From the Price side of the family, honorees will be her sisters- in-law, Adrian Griffith Price(the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Griffith, longtime Santa Anna residents), longtime Santa Anna ranchers-farmers, now residing in Coleman; Bobbie Price Sykes Burbank of San Mateo, CA., Velma Price Woodard of Bakersfield, CA. and brother-in-law Jack L. Price of Versalias, CA. Due to health, Max Price of Bakersfield. CA. is unable to attend. Jack and

Max are remembered by old- time Coleman Countyians as widely known football stars, leading Santa inna to state-wide acclaim many

THELMA BOYD PRICE

Thelma Price is the daughter of lifetime Coleman County pioneer farmers, Vade Boyd Waldrop and Henry F. Waldrop. A 19Z7 graduate of Coleman High School, she was a member of the graduation class donating the recent "piano in the news", now being restored for use again in Coleman. She was married to Joe Collin (J.C.) Price and lived many years in Coleman County, rearing four children. The two boys played football and the two girls were cheerleaders at Santa Anna High School. They are: Patsy and Alford England of Dallas, Joe S. and Elizabeth of Crosby, Annabelle and Elvis Selman of The Woodlands, Maxie Lee and Fran Price of Houston. (Max is the combined namesake of Jack and Max Price.) All the children except Patsy graduated Santa Anna High School.

Thelma and Collin Price celebrated their 50th anniversary prior to his death in March, 1981, in Kingsland, I where they moved 17 years ago. They lived for many years in Santa Anna where theyb operated the Panhandle Wholesale Gas Co. Preceeding him in death were two Santa Anna siblings; Bill Price (Shields area) and Allie (Mrs. Buster) Woodard, farming for many years in the same area that the Price family originally settled.

Grandchildren attending will be Roy and Bebe La Buff, San Antonio; Al'An (England) and Michael Kesler and Kyla of Ft. Lauderdale, FL.; Joey and Toni Price, Collin and Jonathan of McAllen; Michael and Nancy Price, Mike and Bethany of Huffman; Traci Kai England of

of The Woodlands and Denton; Jarrett and Jennifer Price of Houston. (This includes the eight greatgrandchildren).

Easter mouts will be carried out at the Community Center, complete with banners and balloons in pastel colors and Easter Bunnies. An easel holding a confetti-strewn signboard proclaims the event and the honor guests. Pastel cloths will cover the serving tables, laid with goldware and crystal; guests tables following the same decor.

A special area will be set up for both family photographs and those of guests as they arrive or depart to create a complete "Memory Book" for Mrs. Price. Another area will designate board games, encouraging guests to linger.

During the calling hours, various members of this talented family will entertain guests with music, songs and variety acts. This will include two nephews, both of professional rank. James C. Price (son of Adrian and Bill), San Angelo rancher, will reminisce with hoedown and country western "fiddling". Dr. Rodney Pirtle (Veo's son), a Highland Park ISD administrator of Dallas, remembered as one of Coleman's outstanding athletes, will share avocation talents he has recently used to carve out a new career as a successful recording artist.

Granddaughter Al'An and Mike Kesler and Kyla will introduce a Sing-Along session with an original song written by them for the occasion. Accompanists will be longtime Kingsland neighbor, Billie McNeely, well-known Hill Country pianist and organist and Pansy Burdette on the xylophone. "Three's Company", a Senior Citizen combo will play 50's and 60's music in the evening hours.

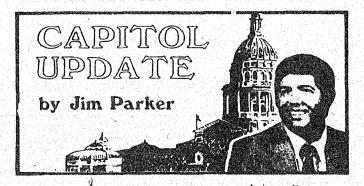

The entire family will attend Community Church on Easter Sunday as a group. This was the only requested birthday "gift" made by Mrs. Price. A special vocal presentation will be rendered by Rodney Pirtle and his uke with wife, Beth, accompanying with an artistic manual interpretation. Church will be followed by a group luncheon.

Although this celebration was arranged over Mrs. Price's objections "that 80 is nothing down here", a great time is anticipated by all.

You need to make it be good or, at the very least, better.

So many of you have asked me to support workers' compensation reform and I am waiting with bated breath to do that. Let us just all demand true reform and not a brand of reform as may be palatable to a few powerful special interests.

Angioplasty:

Rapidly Growing Alternative And Complement to Bypass Surgery

On September 16, 1977, in Switzerland, Dr. Andreas Gruenztig successfully used a balloon catheter to open a clogged heart artery of a 37-year old insurance salesman who had suffered from severe, exerciseinduced angina pectoris or chest pain. Thus was born coronary 'angioplasty.'

In the past ten years angioplasty has become the fastest growing segment of cardiovascular medicine. It's now growing at an annual rate of 40 percent.

The American Hospital Association estimates that 30 percent of all heart bypass surgery patients are candidates for coronary angioplasty. And other patients who might not be able to tolerate bypass surgery have a viable alternative.

By 1990, medical sources predict from 350,000 to half a million patients each year may undergo angioplasty worldwide.

In 1985, Medtronic, Inc., in Minneapolis, one of the world's leading medical research and manufacturing companies, began developing angioplasty catheters.

The following year, design of the Prime catheter was begun. This catheter combines the best features of conventional balloon catheters. The Thruflex catheter, approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration in mid-1988, provides features that enable the physician to reach and cross more artery-blocking lesions.

The most advanced Medtronic catheter, the Buchbinder Omniflex, has taken catheter technology a giant step further.

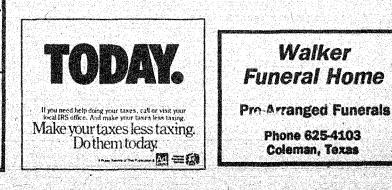

The Omniflex catheter has a tip that can be flexed in a blood vessel to improve its "steerability." By rotating, deflecting, and turning the catheter tip using a special handle, the physician can maneuver the Omniflex through twisted vessels to the site of the arterial blockage with relative ease and speed.

Here is how the Omniflex catheter is used in angioplasty:

The catheter with its tiny balloon is inserted into the arterial system. The tip of the catheter is maneuvered and advanced until the balloon reaches the clogged artery. The balloon is then inflated and existing plaque is compressed. This allows blood to flow more freely through the artery.

EXENCIONES DE RESIDENCIA PUEDEN REDUCIR LOS IMPUESTOS QUE PAGA POR SU CASA

Una exención de residencia le ayuda a reducir los impuestos sobre la propiedad que tiene que pagar por su residencia reduciendo el valor que se utiliza como base para calcular sus impuestos. Por ejemplo, si su casa está valorada en $50,000 y usted recibe una exención de residencia de $5,000, usted va a pagar impuestos de residencia como si su valor fuese de $45.000.

Usted puede recibir una exención de residencia si usted era el dueño de su casa el primero de enero y la usaba como su residencia principal en la misma fecha. No importa si su residencia es una casa, un condominio o una casa remolque.

Hay exenciones que cualquier persona que es dueño(a) de su residencia puede usar para rebajar sus impuestos escolares. Exenciones adicionales se ofrecen a dueños de residencia que están incapacitados o tienen 65 años o más. Otras exenciones pueden ofrecerse a propietarios por distritos escolares, condados, ciudades y distritos escolares.

Si usted recibió una exención para su residencia actual en 1988, usted no necesita solicitarla para 1989 a menos que el jefe de valoración pida que haga una nueva solicitud.

Sin embargo, si usted cumplió 65 años o quedó incapacitado antes del primero de enero haga una nueva solicitud para recibir exenciones adicionales.

Si usted no ha recibido una exención para su residencia actual o si se cambió de casa haga una nueva solicitud para 1988

Usted tiene que hacer su solicitud antes del 1 de mayo de 1989. Comuniquese con su distrito de valoración antes de esa fecha si necesita más tiempo para hacerla. Stowing Your Winter Gear

It may yet be a trifle early to crow about spring being in the air, but relief from winter is now at least a foreseeable certainty. It also is a certainty that outdoor scribes are pounding away at typewriters, exhorting their readers to get ready for spring fishing.

Spool fresh line . . . patch leaky waders . . . grease those gears . . . hone them hooks!

But wait. Before we lunge full tilt into angling, what about your hunting gear? It is time to stow it away properly. Doing so now will save you work, money and some really nasty surprises next fall.

Good wool clothing has been the hunter's mainstay for years. Despite modern advances and some really worthwhile synthetic products on the market, it is hard to beat wool in the winter woods. You know that wool garments are not cheap—socks at six bucks a pair and wool pants and shirts costing about what I paid for my first shotgun. Quality wool garments are an investment, and with good care, they will last for many seasons.

Right now, take your autumn-soiled wool duds in for a good cleaning and mothproofing. When you get them back, hang them in a sealed bag containing mothballs. This way, your cherished wool hunting shirt won't look like a shotgun patterning target next November.

Likewise, give some thought to your leather boots—again, not cheap items these days. They really need a thorough cleaning and dressing to keep them from drying and cracking over the summer.

Start with saddle soap, a stiff brush and some warm (not hot) water. Really work them over to get out the accumulated crud and excess grease buildup: This is not a near job. Get out of the house (before you are thrown out), and wear old clothes. Let the boots air dry in a shady place —never in direct sunlight and never next to a heater.

Oil-tanned boots need to be warm, opening the leather's pores, before you re-grease them. I accomplish this in a sun-warmed car, checking frequently to keep them out of the sun. They only need to be warm, not hot! Next, lay into them with dressing, rubbing vigorously to build up friction heat, which helps the leather absorb the dressing. Pay particular attention to seams and the welt.

For years I have used both Sno-Scal (Atsko, Orangeburg, S.C.) and Pecard Leather Dressing (Pecard Chemical, Green Bay, Wis.) with good results.

After a thorough application, leaving a light film of dressing on the surface, put the boots back into a warm place to continue to absorb the dressing. After several hours, wipe away any excess.

Chrome-tanned and other boots with certain special leathers should be washed as above, but do not use dressing. Traditional boot dressing can damage or discolor them. Use silicone in liquid or spray form, or whatever the manufacturer recommends.

By taking these pains now, you will protect your hunting gear over the summer, and it (and you) will be ready to go next season. Now, go fishing with a clear conscience. In

ABOUT 5 BILLION pounds of sausage-type (franks and bologna) products, with a 30 percent average fat content, are produced annually in the U.S.

Such fat contributes greatly to the total caloric intake, which can lead to obesity, now called the most common form of malnutrition in the Western nations of the world.

Evidence shows that individuals who are 20 percent to 30 percent overweight are three times as likely to die from diabetes as a person of normal weight, while those 40 percent overweight are twice as likely to die from coronary artery disease, as are those of normal weight.

Meat scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station have succeeded in substituting vegetable protein for nearly 60 percent of the animal fat in quite palatable franks, for example. If adopted widely by the meat industry, this technology has the potential of removing nearly 150 million pounds of fat from the American diet each year.

George F. Sheldon, MD, FACS, Professor and Chairman of the Department of Surgery at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and a member of the Board of Regents of the American College of Surgeons, discusses this country's need for blood donors-which has increased in recent years-due, in part, to the misplaced fears that many people have about the safety of donating blood.

It has often been said that when you donate blood, you give someone else the precious gift of life. This statement has never

is today. In recent years, our nation's blood supply periodically has dipped to alarmingly low levels because not

Dr. Sheldon enough people have volunteered their services as blood donors. In fact, it has been estimated that of all the people who are eligible to donate blood, only five percent actually do so

Some experts believe that one reason for this decline may be the unfounded fear that many potential donors have about contracting AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) by giving blood. In fact, a national survey conducted by the American Association of Blood Banks revealed that 34 percent of the respondents believed that it is possible to get AIDS by donating blood. Yetthe Association reveals-in reality, not one single person has contracted the AIDS virus through the process people who already know that they cannot contract the AIDS virus by donating blood, yet they refrain from donating because of the possibility that someday they may need their own blood for themselves. In all likelihood, however, these people are waiting for an event that may never happen. It is possible to make a blood donation to yourself-a practice that is known as an autologous blood donation. This procedure, however, is generally followed by a person prior to having elective surgery in the improbable event that a transfusion will be required during the operation or afterward.

If you are a healthy person who is not anticipating undergoing surgery in the near future, the chances are good that you won't need an autologous donation. And because your body replaces the blood that you donate in a matter of eight weeks, your blood supply will be fully replenished should you find it necessary to make an autologous donation at some point in the future.

The important point is that your local blood center does need your donation. One of the reasons that our system has always worked so well is that it has been based upon the practice of giving everyone access to the resources that are available through our blood banks. And, these resources are now freer from contamination than ever before because of the screening tests that have been carefully developed and are now utilized to keep our blood supply safe.

Today, then, the biggest threat to the survival of our blood banking system is not AIDS or other diseases but the failure of people to donate. Our blood banks cannot remain intact unless healthy blood donors make a conscious effort to contribute on a regular basis. That way, we can be sure that there will always be enough blood for everyone who needs this precious gift of life.

For direction on where to go to make a blood donation in your area, contact your local hospital or local blood center. For answers to questions about surgical care, write to the American College of Surgeons, Office of Public Information, Department 387, 55 E. Erie St., Chicago, IL 60611.

Avoiding Excess Cholesterol Read Your Labels

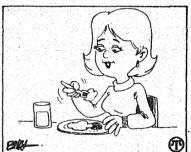

You can reduce your intake of cholesterol, many diet and health experts report, if you take the time to read product labels. Here are some helpful suggestions on how to avoid both saturated fat and cholesterol in your
