First Week Of Trial Ends; To Resume Mon.

Lindy Cross-Examined By Counsel For Hauptmann; Denies He Is Armed

FLEMINGTON (AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh from the witness stand Friday accused Bruno Richard Hauptmann of kidnaping his infant son.

FLEMINGTON (AP)—First week of the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann ends at 4 p. m. Friday. The trial will be resumed at 10 a. m. Monday.

FLEMINGTON, N. J. (AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh Friday identified Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the man whose voice he heard in a Bronx cemetery when he paid through Dr. John F. Condon, $50,000 ransom in a vain effort to get back his kidnaped baby.

Previously Lindbergh described his futile search for his son's flights over land and sea.

Reilly questioned Lindbergh about his servants, plainly pressing his announced intention of attempting to show the kidnaping was planned inside the Lindbergh home by others than the members of his family.

Urges Doles Be Eliminated, Work Provided

Says Budget Figures To Be Within Sound Credit Of Government

WASHINGTON (AP)—A "new and greatly enlarged plan" of work relief was proposed to congress Friday by President Roosevelt.

Without estimating the cost or going into great detail, he declared instead of continuing outright doles, the government should put 3,500,000 unemployed to work at slum clearance, elimination of grade crossings, and other permanent public works.

He assured that the figures to be proposed for this in his budget message Monday will be "within the sound credit of the government."

Addressing the joint session of the senate and house, he reaffirmed his belief in the "profit" motive, but warned against wealth "which, through excessive profits, creates undue private power over private affairs, and, to our misfortune, over public affairs as well."

No attempt was made to outline a general legislative program, but promise was given soon to propose definite legislation covering unemployment and old age insurance, as well as "benefits for our children and mothers," and other aspects of social security.

He said the nation has made headway toward the "new order," spoke of increased industrial activity and "profits" to merchants.

Legislators Slow To Comment On Speech

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Largely surprised by the scope of the undertaking proposed and because the cost was not estimated, legislators were slow to comment upon the message of President Roosevelt delivered Friday before the joint session of the Senate and House.

Chairman Jones, of the House Agriculture committee, characterized it as "sound and constructive."

The President was applauded when he said he looked forward to "genuine friendships" between himself and Congress.

Suit To Recover Land Filed By W. R. Settles

The largest damage suit ever filed in Howard county went on the 73rd district court docket Friday in the first step of an attempt by Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Settles and Lillie A. Settles to recover possession of approximately eight and a half sections of lands in the heart of the Howard-Glascocock county oil field.

In substance, the three counts of the plaintiffs' petition involves about $1,850,000, alleged actual damages amounting to $550,000.

Group No. 1 Oil corporation, chartered in Delaware and having principal offices in Fort Worth, is named defendant in the suit.

Hotel Loss Cited

Charging that loss of the land in turn forced the Settles Hotel corporation, in which they were owners of all capital stock, into bankruptcy and caused loss of the hotel and $500,000, the plaintiffs ask recovery of that amount in damages.

In addition to the lands, valued in 1930 at $1,000,000, they seek damages in the amount of $50,000 for rentals over two years time.

On June 10, 1930, the petition sets up, the plaintiffs executed a deed of trust to L. N. Nickey, as trustee, wherein they conveyed the lands and premises mentioned in a certain promissory note of even date with said deed.

Charge Insufficient Credit

The deed of trust, the plaintiff alleges, provided that all oil royalties and gas rentals or royalties note in amount sufficient to reduce the principal and interest to $118,847.22. Royalties and gas rentals on the lands, they charge, aggregated an amount sufficient to reduce the outstanding indebtedness by a much larger figure.

No Contest

The amount of $78,000 for land value, at $1,000,000, the petition sets up, is "grossly inadequate as in law to constitute a valid consideration."—And in this connection the

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Watchman, What of the Night?

The other night in a theater I saw a newswear made up of exciting events in the year 1934. It showed Alexander murdered in the streets of Marseilles and the murdered Dollfus in his coffin, and a fearful earthquake in India, and the Morris Castle burning and the drought in the west and so on through a succession of calamities, the announcer called attention to each scene with that mixture of unaction and gusto and firesome emphasis which men affect when they are trying to drum up emotion. He got nowhere with the audience. They began by being impressed. But as the horrors succeeded one another they became routine. Then they groaned derisively. And, finally, when there was a break in the series the homely and comforting figure of Babe Ruth, batting his last ball, was shown, they cheered.

It reminded them, I think, that human life does not consist wholly of the monstrosities of history and of nature and that a picture of the world-composed chiefly of such things is an absurdity. This set me wondering what scenes ought to have been put in the newswear to give a true view of the year 1934. The more I thought the more sympathy I began to have for the editor. It was obviously very difficult. Not much of a picture could be made out of kings and prime ministers not being murdered, of towns not devastated by earthquakes, of ships coming safely into port, of men in mud not being paraded around behind tanks and machine guns, of governments standing solidly without the aid of tear gas and hand grenades and firing squads. And certainly, not much of a newswear was to be made out of the statistics and graphs which we ponder daily for evidences of a little improvement in our affairs. Yet I had the persistent feeling that something profoundly moving and deeply significant had happened in 1934 and that the editor of the newswear had missed it. And then it occurred to me that this thing which had happened was a thing that could not be photographed because it had happened in the spirit, and minds of men and would elude not only his camera but also the daily reports of current events.

are nothing but another manifestation of the ancient despotism of the east. All of the fundamental characteristics were to be seen once more: omnivorous governments claiming jurisdiction over every interest of man; rulers, like Hitler, raised above mortal criticism in their lifetime and deified, like Lenin, when they die; peoples, not daring to call their souls their own, half-persecuted by terror and the destruction of all independence of mind, that they are living for the greater glory that is coming. These ideas are alien to western civilization and have been rejected by the genius of all those from Socrates thru St. Thomas Aquinas to the English and French and American thinkers who have made articulate the western way of life.

At various moments, in troubled times, the struggle with these ideas has to be renewed and it is from another such struggle that western society is, I believe, now emerging. In ancient days the conflict was fought out on the field of battle, as at Marathon and at Tours and at the gates of Vienna. In our time it has been fought out principally by agitation and counter-agitation for the possession, not of territory, but of the wavering allegiance of masses of men. The issue has turned upon whether of the western democracies, adhering their way of life, could demonstrate that they were better able than the eastern despotism to restore security to the people. I believe that during this year a decision has been reached and that the tide of these alien ideas has begun to recede. The struggle is not over, and the issue may not be finally settled during our lives. But during this year there has been an unmistakable revival of confidence in what can be done by western methods and a growing revelation of the true character of the alien despotisms.

Only a short time ago the minds of men were dominated by the notion that their social order had collapsed and that in Russia or in the hordes of Central Europe they were witnessing the birth of the civilization of the future. That is still the fashionable belief among many educated persons. But it is a fading belief. It has not been able to withstand the established fact that in the region of the western liberal states there is a revival and that in the eastern despotisms there is a fierce struggle for existence, kept just under the surface by the censors, the propagandists and the terrorists. The purge of June 30 in Germany, the barbarous murder of Dollfus, the assassination of King Alexander, a realization of what happened in the Russian famine, and now the systematic butchery of "class enemies" in Russia have just about turned the stomachs of western men and opened their eyes to what these alien conceptions of government really mean.

As a result, the balance of power as between these two conceptions of life—the liberal and the despotic—has been shifted during the year. The liberal western powers are no longer on the defensive. It is not such a bad prospect for the future.

Did you ever notice .. in a roomful of people .. the difference between one cigarette and another .. and wonder why Chesterfields have such a pleasing aroma

Many things have to do with the aroma of a cigarette ... the kind of tobaccos they are made of ... the way the tobaccos are blended ... the quality of the cigarette paper.

IT takes good things to make good things. Someone said that to get the right aroma in a cigarette, you must have the right quantity of Turkish tobacco—and that's right. But it is also true that you get a pleasing aroma from the home-grown tobaccos ... tobaccos filled with Southern Sunshine, sweet and ripe. When these tobaccos are all blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way, balanced one against the other, you get a flavor and fragrance that's different from other cigarettes.

Under The Dome

At Austin

By GORDON E. SHEAKER
AUSTIN, (UP)—Two well-beaten paths are followed by most visitors to the Texas state capitol these days. One path turns sharply to the right after entering the capitol. Its followers go to the governor's business office to beseech pardons for relatives, friends or clients.

Unusual Christmas presents were received by two well-known Texans from Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson. Ed Hession of Houston and W. E. Leonard of San Antonio were presented commissions as Colonels. Both are members of the Governor's staff. Leonard is state service officer, looking after the interest of Texas World war veterans.

Another unusual gift came to Pat Moreland who will be secretary to Governor Alford. Moreland was given a copy of his own published book of verses. The gift was not a blunder, but planned. The ordinary binding of Moreland's published book had been replaced by a duplicate of the binding of President Roosevelt's book "On Our Way" which the President had made for Christmas distribution.

The Status of Liberty must have trembled at the latest proposed Texas law. The senate's anti-crime committee wants compulsory fingerprinting of new born babies. These will provide for future identification and also help check up on school census rolls, advocates say.

Legislation for re-election as chief clerk of the Texas House of Representatives, has issued a legislative manual with a directory of members of the legislature and a brief digest of legislative procedure. It shows that there will be 67 new members of the house when the session convenes, Jan. 8.

20,000 RABBITS SLAIN IN KANSAS DRIVES

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP)—American hotel men are being forced to go back to first principles and learn their business all over again. And they are enjoying the experience.

Hotels Altered Since Repeal
The first lesson we are re-learning," M. Malamut confesses, "is how to operate well-patronized dining rooms. During Prohibition the hotel waiter was the forgotten man. He stood like a specter in a vast echoing emptiness, an anachronism, a has-been.

Hotel men are wary of saying that times are better. M. Malamut, however, does go so far as to say that reunions of former guests who have not seen each other in thirteen or fourteen years are not uncommon.

Writing rooms and lounges are inhabited today by a much larger proportion of paying guests than formerly. The hotel is becoming again an entity rather than merely a stopping-off place.

About the only figure that remains constant in the hotel trade over the years is the loss of hotel property traceable to the activities of the bootlegger.

Analogy Between Fires And Disease Is Close

AUSTIN—The analogy between fires and communicable diseases is a very close one, observes the Texas State Department of Health. Every fire has a definite cause and usually a small beginning, just as every epidemic disease has its origin in a single case.

The practice of disease prevention is beginning to effect public opinion. Certain well known diseases like diphtheria and smallpox are absolutely preventable. Other will come under the same category.

Personality Speaking

Seating Of Congress
In both senate and house the democratic members sit on the right of the presiding officer and the republicans on the left.

Choice seats in the senate go by seniority of service. In the house members sit wherever they can, the only exception being two big red tables in the center of the chamber on each side where sit the majority and minority leaders.

In the house, 323 seats (there are 360 in the house) on the right are for democrats. The remaining 37 are for republicans.

Popovers
 1 cup flour, 1 cup milk, 1-4 tsp.
 salt, 2 eggs.
 Beat eggs well, add rest of ingredients and beat 3 minutes, using rotary egg beater and beating quickly. This is the secret of making good popovers, much beating and a hot oven. Half fill muffin pans and bake 25 minutes in a hot oven. Lower fire and bake 10 minutes.

Corn Soup
 1 1-2 cups corn, 2 tbsps. chopped onions, 1 tsp. chopped pimiento, 1 tsp. chopped celery, 1 tsp. chopped parsley, 1 cup water, 1-2 tsp.
 salt, 1-4 tsp. paprika, 3 tbsps. butter, 3 tbsps. flour, 3 cups milk.
 Mix corn, seasonings and water.
 Cover and simmer 15 minutes. Melt butter, add flour and when blended add milk and cook until sauce thickens a little. Stir frequently.
 Add corn mixture and cook 3 minutes. If desired the corn mixture can be strained before added to sauce.

Giblets and Mushrooms
 4 tbsps. butter, 4 tbsps. flour, chopped cooked giblets, 2-3 cup cooked mushrooms, 1-4 tsp. salt,
 1-4 tsp. paprika, 1-4 tsp. celery salt,
 1 1/2 cups milk.
 Melt butter in frying pan, add and brown flour, giblets and mushrooms. Stir constantly. Add rest of ingredients and cook 2 minutes.
 Stir constantly.

HOUSE OF DAVID CAGERS SCHEDULED HERE SATURDAY

Bring Colorful, Fast Court Crew

America's most popular basketball team, the bewhiskered House of David cagers, will inaugurate the '35 season for Coach George Brown's Steers here Saturday night in the high school gymnasium at 7:45.

It is with the imposing record of 24 victories and two defeats this season, or since the House of David cagers started their current barnstorming tour early in December, that the long-haired youths come onto the local hardwood tomorrow evening.

Coach Brown, of course, holds no hope of his team being able to defeat the crack visiting contingent, but nevertheless they are preparing to give the bearded boys a battle.

Steers Scrimmage
The Steers spent Thursday afternoon in scrimmage work and a little polishing on passing. Elmo Phillips, a stocky guard from Ben Daniels' Devil team, has reported for practice with the Steers. Manager Johnson, who for 21 years, during the season, has umpired baseball in the American Association, carries a squad of only six men. At present one of unit, and each man always knows where the other is located. Their tricky and fancy passing attack brings cheers from fans who see them.

One of the House of David boys, Dean Curtis, center, who stands 6 feet 5 inches tall, is a native Texan. His home is at Texico. Once he was a member of the Simmons University quintet, and later played at New Mexico Normal at Las Vegas.

Over Six Feet
All of the regular House of David players are 6 feet or more tall, and all have played college basketball. Capt. Charles Finley was captain of the Maryville (Missouri) State Teachers college team when it finished second in the national A. A. U. tournament in 1932. Clarence Iba was also a member of that team.

Howard Hickman, forward, played at Colorado State University, where Gene Deaton, guard, was a star. Fays Ferguson, the other guard, played at Oklahoma City university.

Admission will be 25c for students and 35c for adults.

'STRONG MAN' OF MANCHOUKUO

General Kira Minami, new Japanese ambassador to Manchoukuo and commander-in-chief of Japanese forces in that country, a position that makes him almost the ruler there, is shown as he was driven away from the imperial palace in Tokyo where he received his commission at the hands of Emperor Hirohito himself. Six Teams In Cage League

Diltz and Radford To Play First Game Monday

Six teams, White's, Elliott Drug, Radford, Diltz, O.C.C., and Fiewellen entered the City basketball league at a meeting Thursday night. The Coeden Oilers and a Forsan team decided not to enter.

League play will be started Monday night with a double-header. Diltz and Radford will play the first game.

It was voted to play on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, and to continue for two months, when the two top teams on the percentage column will engage in a play-off series for the championship. A trophy will be presented the winning team.

No officers were elected. However, Jack Smith was named official referee.

Christoval To Play Cosden

Fast Amateur Teams To Clash Here Saturday Night

Cosden Oilers will be out for revenge Saturday night when they engage the powerful Christoval Bats here in the high school gymnasium following the Steer-House of David game.

The Oilers have lost only one out of seven games this season, and that was a 40 to 28 defeat at the hands of the Bats in Christoval early in the season.

Henninger's probable starting line-up will be Morgan and J. Smith at forwards, Skeet West at center, and Phil Smith at the guard posts. The Cosden second team will be: forwards, Houser and Townsend; guards, Baker and Bruce; center, Hopper.

The Bats have lost two out of eight games. They dropped a close decision to the army boys at Coleman and lost to A. C. C.

AMPS, Ia. GP—Charges of professionalism annually hurled against college football by critics get little response from George Veenker, athletic director and head coach at Iowa State college.

He says charges of professionalism against college athletics are, in general, unjustified, and that the situation is better than in the past and is improving.

"You can't play real football," he says, "if your right halfback is wondering whether the left half is getting a bigger pay check than he is. On amateur teams all the boys will fight to the last inch because they know there isn't a highly paid star who may knock off on a run after he has delivered his yardage according to the pay scale."

If proselyting of athletes does increase—and Veenker does not believe it will—he says the future will see three types of teams, the bona fide student-athletic teams, semi-pro teams, representing colleges which permit proselyting, and real professional teams.

"The student-athletic teams will play each other," he says, "The professionals will play each other, and the semi-pros will be out in the cold because there will not be enough of them to provide schedules."

"And anyway, the public will not pay for semi-pro football. It wants either straight amateur or real professional contests."

"Do I believe in helping athletes?" he asks, "Sure—in just the same way as he help any of our students. When they arrive at Ames they find that faculty, townspeople and students are all ready to help—whether or not they are eligible for athletics."

Forsan Team Cards Game

Bill Tate's Independents To Clash With Steers Tuesday

FORSAN, (SP)—Bill Tate's Forsan Independents will play the Big Spring Steer basketball team next Tuesday.

Wednesday night the Independents play the Diltz Bakers, and Jan. 15, the O.C.C. team will journey here for a game.

Tate is trying to secure a game with a Sweetwater team.

the six, Clarence Iba, is ill and may not be able to play, leaving Johnson with barely a starting crew.

"That that's all we need," the affable Johnson said, "We have no individual scoring star; we all shoot at the basket. By playing the same team together all the time, the boys have come to depend upon the one line-up, and they cooperate and coordinate to an astonishing degree."

"They're a colorful bunch of boys, all of them from colleges or universities, and they have brought their college spirit into this game. They have worked together for so long that they are a machine, a team."

The association has been opposed to the eight-semester rule so long now that it makes no difference to the league mogul.

It is noted that Harry Taylor of San Antonio, Bobbat football mentor, failed in his efforts to book Masonic Home of Fort Worth for a game next fall, but succeeded in getting Poly of Fort Worth, also a strong team. Taylor is making a good start toward the big-time goal.

Eighty-nine class A teams competed in the 1934 Interscholastic League schoolboy football race, and Al Parker of the Wichita Falls Times says the Associated Press did a pretty good job in trying to pick the best eleven from the thousand or so regular players. The AP selection for '34 was a great improvement over the all-star team picked the year before despite the fact that there were more outstanding players in 1934.

Sweetwater To Play Colorado Quintet will tangle with the Colorado team at the Junior High School gym Saturday night, it was announced Thursday by Coach L. J. Aycock.

This is the first of a series of inter High School basketball quintet games which will include another match with Colorado, two games with the Abilene team, and play in the Colorado tournament on Jan. 11 and 12.

The locals will return Colorado's visit on Jan. 15, go to Abilene on Jan. 22, and on Feb. 1 be host to the Abilene club here. About 45 teams will play in the Colorado tourney.

A REVOLUTIONARY NEW HIGH-SPEED SAFETY CAR

New 1935 Plymouth on Display Tomorrow

This New Car Offers You:

- New high-efficiency Engine... more power on 12% to 20% less gas and oil.
- Highest Compression Ratio of any car... without penalty of premium gas.
- New Torpedo-type Safety-Steel Body. Seats 3" wider, floors 3" lower.
- Improved Hydraulic Brakes stop quicker... Centrifuge Drums on all models.
- New Syncro-Silent Transmission. New Clutch. 30% less Pedal Pressure.
- Mola Steel Springs and New Weight Distribution give "Floating Ride."
- New-type Sidesway Eliminator... assures you of new safety on curves.

Here is Walter P. Chrysler's Answer to America's Traffic Problem... See it Tomorrow

And they solved it by building this new high-speed safety car.

You've never before... in all your life... driven a car like this. It "glides" over the bumps and ruts in the road.

This new "Floating Ride" is made possible by new weight distribution... the development of a sway eliminator... and the use of new Mola Steel front springs.

Technically, you ride at a lower "vibration rate." Actually, that means you don't bounce around the way you used to.

A New Motoring Experience

We can't describe it... you've got to experience it... the thrill you get when you step on the accelerator of this wonderful new Plymouth.

60-70-80 and it seems like 50. The smoothness of Syncro-Silent Transmission. Step on the brakes and "feel" the instant, ever, Hydraulic action.

No wonder this sensational new 1935 Plymouth is already being called "The World's Safest Low-Priced Car."

Never before has a low-priced car been so beautiful. It has long, graceful, flowing lines... and Airplane-type Fenders.

Improved Hydraulic Brakes... instant, even action.

improved engine has the highest compression ratio of any car ever built. Yet due to directional water circulation, calibrated ignition and full-length water jackets, gas and oil consumption is cut 12% to 20%.

Shift the gears and notice the starting enough. You need a car that is quick moving and fast stopping. You need much easier control and quicker response.

Conventional car (a) sways on curves. New Plymouth (b) takes same curves without swaying.

And to guard against the other fellow's carelessness, you need greater protection than ever... for you and your passengers.

That's the problem Plymouth engineers set out to meet... many months ago.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

CHAPTER 23 BATTLE FOR MOLLY

Believed by the knowledge that we had at least secured our retreat, I set off with Jimmy along the empty terrace.

It was a depressing thoroughfare consisting of shabby-looking three-story houses, most of which were doubtless let out in lodgings. None of them had apparently been painted or done up for years and in many cases the stucco was peeling off their fronts.

A thin driving rain added to the general air of sordid discomfort. We trudged on in silence until a little way ahead of us, the roadway began to slope upwards. At the top of the rise it narrowed into what was evidently a bridge—a short stretch of about twenty yards with high iron railings on either side of it.

"Is this the canal?" I inquired. Jimmy nodded. "That's right, sir. Runs along at the back of the house."

He volunteered no further information until we had reached the opposite end, when he pulled up abruptly under the light of a street lamp.

"You can see for yourself now, sir. That's the place we want—the second one past the yard."

I stared down into an untidy litter of lumber and old barrels. Beyond this I could make out the black shape of two buildings, each of which seemed to possess a narrow strip of ground running down to the canal bank. Both of them were in complete darkness.

"Better have a look at the front first," I observed. "If there's nothing doing there we can come back and try this side."

We continued our way down the farther slope, and in a few steps arrived at the entrance to Wharf Lane. It was a gloomy cul-de-sac with a blank wall on the left, terminating, as Jimmy had said, in a rough piece of waste ground, railed in from the road. Facing this was a couple of gaunt houses, with high steps leading up to their front doors.

Treading as softly as we could we moved on past the gate in the yard and pulled up outside our destination. Like its next door neighbor the place looked as though it were deserted. Not a ray of light appeared anywhere, and the only sound that broke the stillness was the faint pattering of the rain amongst the bushes opposite.

I peered through the half-open gate which led down into the area. Dark as it was I could see that the kitchen windows were heavily barred, the stout iron stanchions reaching up to within a few inches of the top arch.

On the left, however, just above the dim outline of the dustbin, there was something else. It was a small pane of partly broken glass about two feet square and at the sight of it a sudden inspiration flashed across my mind.

"Come on, Jimmy," I whispered, "let's go down and do a bit of scouting."

Silently as cats we descended the steps, and creeping forward to the side of the dustbin, I pulled out a pocket electric torch which I had brought with me from the flat. The broken pane was about six feet from the ground, and at the sight of it a sudden inspiration flashed across my mind.

Cain, A Bad Boy, And Zehar, A Flapper, In "The Green Pastures" Here Jan. 7th

CORNELIUS C. SAMPSON. An artist's conception of Cain the Sixth, a bad boy, and Zehar, a flapper in the famous Pulitzer prize play "The Green Pastures," coming to the Municipal Auditorium Monday evening, January 7th.

For several seconds I stood still listening. There was not a sound to be heard, and taking hold of the rickety banisters I mounted up a step at a time until my fingers closed silently on the door handle. It turned with a faint click. I dropped back the torch into my pocket, and giving a gentle push, stepped out softly into an empty and dimly lit hall.

The light, such as it was, came from an old-fashioned gas jet, which had been turned down almost to its lowest point. It gave just sufficient illumination to reveal the fact that there were four rooms—two on either side of me, and that in the centre another staircase led up to the first landing.

"You filthy swine!" I said. "Where's Miss O'Brien?" I took a step towards him, and at the same moment he sprang at me like a wild beast. One clawing hand gripped me by the shoulder, and I felt the blood spurt beneath my knuckles as my left first crush of home full in his face.

Back went his head and up came his chin. Swift as a flash, and with the full weight of my body behind it, I slung in my right. It landed square on the point of his jaw, and jurching back against the wall, he toppled to the floor with a thud that shook the house.

A trifle dazed by the suddenness of it all, I stood staring stupidly at the sprawling bulk in front of me. He lay flat on his back—one arm flung out at full length, and the other doubled under him.

His mouth and chin were covered with blood and I noticed for the first time that he had silver rings in both ears.

There was a shuffle of footsteps in the passage below. In another moment Jimmy came scrambling up the stairs.

"Grakey!" he ejaculated. "That was some punch, that was!" He inspected my handiwork with a kind of awed interest. "I wish I'd seen it," he added regretfully.

"I want you to keep an eye on this chap," I said, "while I go and find Miss O'Brien. You're not afraid, are you?"

"Not me," was the cheerful response. "If 'e moves I'll kick him on the 'ead."

Less than one month after I started on Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, I was all right. I could sleep and eat and I was a new woman. I had a bottle of it as a gift and I had to get as much as I could. I had a bottle of it as a gift and I had to get as much as I could. New Deal Rules In New Senate; G. O. P. Impotent

By H. O. THOMPSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, UP—A Senate of preponderant New Deal strength but with undertones of insurgency was called together for the opening of the 74th Congress at noon Thursday.

Democrats, with 69 Senators, enjoyed the greatest majority of their history. This overwhelming force was expected to prevent any measures not satisfactory to the Roosevelt administration from being enacted into law.

The 27 seats on the other side of the chamber, a mere handful when compared to the mass of desks assembled for Democrats, illustrated forcefully the little part that the Republican minority can play in this Senate session.

Two of the 27 seats will be occupied by Senator Robert M. La Follette, Progressive of Wisconsin, and Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite of Minnesota. That leaves only 25 Republicans among the 96 Senators.

Back New Deal
While not all the Democrats are sympathetic with the aims of the New Deal, all of them have had such recent contact with voters' sentiment that they will not consider it politically expedient to oppose the administration except on isolated issues.

There are trouble-makers among them, notably Senator Huey P. Long, Democrat, Louisiana, who before the Congress ends will be in the center of fights against the President's policies. But even a coalition of the solid Republican bloc—and there will be nothing at this session on which all Republicans will vote as a unit—with insurgent Democrats could not provide an effective barrier to the Democratic steamroller.

The big test in the Senate is expected to come on bonus legislation. This will be decided not so much as a matter of legislation as a political contest. Some Republicans who privately are flatly opposed to inflation of any kind are expected to support the bonus as a means of embarrassing the administration.

Bonus Issue Laid
As Congress opened its session it appeared unlikely that advocates of cash payment of the soldiers' bonus would be able to pass it in the Senate over the President's veto.

The Senate, being the treaty-making body, will be called upon to act upon the St. Lawrence waterway pact with Canada. This was defeated at the last session but was expected to be approved when next presented.

After the first four or six weeks, various blocs are expected to form among the Democratic majority. Some will be in favor of further silver legislation, others will be concerned with monetary ventures or projects not included in the Roosevelt list of essential bills.

While those blocs may cause delays and perhaps new items affecting temporary sessions, it was believed the Roosevelt forces would be able to cope successfully with them.

Labor Contest Certain
One important contest of this kind may develop around labor legislation, since American Federation of Labor officials have shown a determination to wage a determined lobbying campaign this year. Many of these matters will be worked out in compromise.

Minority Leader Charles L. McNary, favoring a non-resistant attitude toward administration measures, counts upon time to strengthen Republican ranks. He realizes that fights all along the line will be of little value but he may be expected to inspire ingenious counter attacks at strategic times.

The conservative or old-guard Republicans will have only a weak
